

To The Editor:

On behalf of the Port Summer Show we would like to thank all those who made our first production, "Barnum," such a wonderful success. We especially want to thank our teenage cast and crew and their parents for giving their hearts as well as their talents to the show. We want to thank our staff, Kendall Walsh, Amy Hecht and Sandy Vigliotti, for all their hours of work and especially all those young adults who volunteered. Whether it was in organizing the production, designing and constructing the set or the lights, or playing in the orchestra; it was a job well done!

We want to thank all the organizations and local business people, especially Bob Harding, who supported us in this effort; the Port Washington School Board, Superintendent William Heebink, and all the custodians; the Port Youth Council; the Community Chest; the Port Singers; the Schreiber Student Government; the PTA's and Parent Council. We especially want to thank Ron and Pam Meadows who encouraged us to carry on what has become an important tradition for the youth of Port Washington.

Anyone interested in assisting us in Summer Show '88, please call 767-1180 or 944-9690.

To the Editor:

I attended the Port Summer Theater's production of "Barnum" at Schreiber High School and enjoyed it thoroughly. The 40 or so members of the company put on a commendable performance supported by an enthusiastic orchestra.

What impressed me even more was that these young people were solid evidence that not all teenagers are tied in with anti-social behavior and drugs, etc. I believe that they spend a good part of their summer vacation rehearsing for the show instead of "hanging out."

That observation gives me hope for the younger generation and gratitude to the sponsors of their Port Summer Program.
