If the loss reduces foreign source income, you must recharacterize the income you receive in the loss category in later years. See Recharacterization of income beginning on this page. In situations where the loss to be allocated exceeds foreign income in other categories, the excess reduces U.S. source income and for later years you must follow the rules described under Recapture of prior year overall foreign loss on this page.

Note. In determining your U.S. source income, disregard the amount of any capital losses from U.S. sources that you included on line 3 of Worksheet A or line 4 of the Line 2 Worksheet for Worksheet B. If you have capital losses from U.S. Sources and you did not use either Worksheet A or Worksheet B, see Publication 514 to determine your U.S. source income.

Example. For 2004, you completed three Forms 1116. The first had a loss from general limitation income of $2,000 on line 14, the second had income of $4,000 from passive sources on line 14, and the third had income of $1,000 from high withholding tax interest on line 14. You must allocate the $2,000 loss between the passive income and the high withholding tax interest in the same proportion as each category's income bears to the total foreign income.

The amount of the loss that would reduce passive income would be 80% ($4,000/$5,000) of the $2,000 loss or $1,600. Include the $1,600 (in parentheses) on line 15 of the passive income Form 1116. Assuming you have no other line 15 adjustments, enter $2,400 ($4,000 – $1,600) on line 16 of that form.

The amount of the loss that would reduce high withholding tax interest would be 20% ($1,000/$5,000) of the $2,000 loss or $400. Include the $400 (in parentheses) on line 15 of the high withholding tax interest Form 1116. Assuming you have no other line 15 adjustments, enter $600 ($1,000 – $400) on line 16 of that form.

In this case, all of the $2,000 loss was allocated between the foreign source passive income and the high withholding tax interest categories, and no reduction was made to U.S. source income.

If you receive general limitation income in a later year, you must recharacterize all or part of that income as passive income and high withholding tax interest in that later year. See the example under Recharacterization of income on this page.

2. Recapture of prior year overall foreign loss. If you had an overall foreign loss in a prior year that offset U.S. source income, a part of your foreign income (in the same category as the loss) is treated as U.S. source income in each following tax year. The part that is treated as U.S. source income is the smallest of:

- The amount of overall foreign loss not recaptured in earlier years,
- 50% (or more, if you choose) of your taxable income from foreign sources, or
- The amount from line 14, less any adjustment for allocation of losses from other categories, as described under Allocation of losses from other categories on this page.

Reduce the income on line 14 by including (in parentheses) on line 15 the smallest of a, b, or c above. This is the amount of the recapture. Be sure to attach your computation. If you elect to recapture more of an overall foreign loss than is required (b above), show in your computation the percentage of taxable income recaptured and the dollar amount of the recapture.

Dispositions of certain property. If you recognized foreign source gain in the same category as the overall foreign loss on a disposition of property that was used predominantly in a foreign trade or business and that generated foreign source income in the same category as the overall foreign loss, then the gain on the disposition may be subject to recapture as U.S. source income to the extent of 100% of your foreign source taxable income. See section 904(f)(3).

The above rule also generally applies to a gain on the disposition of stock in a controlled foreign corporation (CFC) after October 22, 2004, if you owned more than 50 percent (by vote or value) of the stock right before you disposed of it. See section 904(f)(3)(D) for more information and exceptions.

Reduce line 14 by including (in parentheses) on line 15 the smallest of (a) the amount of the gain not recaptured under the two preceding paragraphs, (b) the remaining amount of the overall foreign loss not recaptured in earlier years or in the current year under the two preceding paragraphs, or (c) the amount from line 14, less any adjustment for allocation of losses from other categories and any adjustment under the two preceding paragraphs. See Pub. 514 if you disposed of property described above and you recognized foreign source gain in a different category than the overall foreign loss, you recognized U.S. source gain, or you did not recognize gain.

Attach a statement to Form 1116 showing the balance in each separate limitation overall foreign loss account. See Regulations section 1.904(f)-1(b) for more information.

3. Recharacterization of income.

If, in a prior tax year, you reduced your foreign taxable income in the category checked above Part I by a pro rata share of a loss from another category, you must recharacterize in 2004 all or part of any income you receive in 2004 in that loss category. You recharacterize the income by:

- Increasing the amount on line 14 (adjusted by any of the other adjustments previously mentioned in these line 15 instructions) of the Form 1116 for each of the other categories previously reduced by including on line 15 any recharacterized income and
- Decreasing the amount on line 14 (adjusted by any of the other adjustments previously mentioned in these line 15 instructions) of the Form 1116 for the loss category by including on line 15 the amount of recharacterized income as a negative number (in parentheses).

Also include on line 15 income that must be recharacterized in 2004 as income in the category checked above Part I because of a foreign loss allocation that reduced U.S. source income in prior tax years.

Example. Using the facts in the example under Allocation of losses from other categories above, in the next year (2005), you have $5,000 of general limitation income, $3,000 of passive income, and $500 of high withholding tax interest. Because $1,600 of the general limitation loss was used to reduce your passive income in 2004, $1,600 of your 2005 general limitation income must be recharacterized as passive income. Similarly, $400 of the general limitation income must be recharacterized as high withholding tax interest. On your 2005 Form 1116 for passive income, you would include $1,600 on line 15. On your 2005 Form 1116 for high withholding tax interest, you would include $400 on line 15. On your 2005 Form 1116 for general limitation income, you would include ($2,000) on line 15.

Note. Recharacterizing income from a separate category does not result in recharacterizing any tax.

4. Allocation of U.S. losses. If you have a net loss from U.S. sources in

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

2004, proportionately allocate that loss among the separate categories of your foreign income. Reduce the income on line 14 (adjusted by any of the other adjustments previously mentioned in these line 15 instructions) by including (in parentheses) on line 15 the allocable portion of any U.S. loss. A U.S. loss includes a rental loss on property located in the United States. If you have any qualified dividends or capital gains (including capital gain distributions) or losses for the taxable year and you are required to make any adjustments to those amounts, as explained earlier under Foreign Qualified Dividends and Capital Gains (Losses) on page 6 or the instructions for line 17, the amount of your U.S. loss is the excess of:

1. The total of the amounts entered on line 14 for each Form 1116 you are filing, over
2. The amount entered on line 17 of the Form 1116.

Line 17

If you have qualified dividends or capital gains, you may be required to make adjustments to those qualified dividends and gains before you take those amounts into account on line 17. You may use the instructions in this section to determine those adjustments. If you choose not to use the rules outlined in this section, see sections 1(h)(11)(C)(iv) and 904(b)(2) to determine the adjustments you must make.

Individuals Who Completed a Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet

If you completed the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet in the instructions for your tax return, you must use the Worksheet for Line 17 on this page to figure the amount to enter on line 17 if:

- Line 7 of your Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet is greater than zero and
- Line 17 of your Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet is less than line 18 of that worksheet.

Adjustment exception. If you qualify for the adjustment exception, you do not need to make any adjustment to your capital gains or qualified dividends. You qualify for the adjustment exception if you meet both of the following requirements:

1. Line 7 of the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet does not exceed:
  - $178,650 if married and filing jointly or qualifying widow(er);
  - $89,325 if married filing separately;
  - $146,750 if single; or
  - $162,700 if head of household.
2. The amount of your foreign source capital gain distributions, plus the amount of your foreign source qualified dividends is less than $20,000. For this purpose, ignore any capital gain distributions or qualified dividends you elected to include on line 4g of Form 4952.

If you do not need to complete the Worksheet for Line 17, enter on line 17 of Form 1116 your taxable income without the deduction for your exemption (for example, the amount from Form 1040, line 40).

Completing the Worksheet for Line 17. If you do need to complete the Worksheet for Line 17, do the following.

Lines 2 through 5. Skip these lines.

Line 6. Enter the amount from line 14 of the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet.

Complete all other lines as instructed on the worksheet.

Estates and Trusts That Completed a Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet or Schedule D

If you completed the Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet in the instructions for Form 1041 or you completed Part V of Schedule D (Form 1041), you must use the Worksheet for Line 17 on this page to figure the amount to enter on line 17 if:

1. You figured your tax using the Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet, line 5 of that worksheet is greater than zero, and Line 15 of your Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet is less than line 16 of that worksheet or
2. You figured your tax using the Part V of Schedule D (Form 1041), line 23 of the Schedule D is greater than zero, and line 33 of the Schedule D is less than line 34.

Adjustment exception: If you qualify for the adjustment exception, you do not need to use the Worksheet for Line 17 to figure the amount to enter on line 17. You qualify for the adjustment exception if:

1. Line 5 of the Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet or line 23 of Schedule D (Form 1041) does not exceed $7,000 and
2. The amount of your foreign source net capital gain, plus the amount of your foreign source qualified dividends, is less than $20,000. For this purpose, ignore any foreign source qualified dividends or capital gains that you elected to include on line 4g of Form 4952.

Note. Your foreign source net capital gain is the excess of your foreign source net long term capital gain over

The maximum foreign tax credit you may claim in the current year is generally limited to the allocated amount of U.S. tax imposed on the foreign income, or the actual amount of foreign tax paid or accrued on the foreign income (after reductions required on line 12), whichever is less. However, see Foreign Taxes Eligible for a Credit on page 2 for additional information.

If the amount on line 20 is smaller than the amount on line 13, see Pub. 514 for more information on carryback and carryforward provisions, including examples.

Part IV—Summary of Credits From Separate Parts III

Complete lines 22 through 29 in Part IV only if you must complete more than one Form 1116 because you have more than one of the categories of income listed above Part I.

Complete Part IV on only one Form 1116 to summarize the credits you figured on all of your Forms 1116. However, if you completed a Form 1116 for category g (lump-sum distributions) or h (section 901(j) income), do not use Part IV of that Form 1116 as your summary. Enter the credits from line 21 of all of your Forms 1116 on lines 22 through 29 of the Form 1116 you are using to summarize your credits. File the other Forms 1116 as attachments.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 1310 to claim a refund on behalf of a deceased taxpayer.

Who Must File

If you are claiming a refund on behalf of a deceased taxpayer, you must file Form 1310 unless either of the following applies:

- You are a surviving spouse filing an original or amended joint return with the decedent, or
- You are a personal representative (defined on this page) filing an original Form 1040, Form 1040A, Form 1040EZ, or Form 1040NR for the decedent and a court certificate showing your appointment is attached to the return.

Example. Assume Mr. Green died on January 4 before filing his tax return. On April 3 of the same year, you were appointed by the court as the personal representative for Mr. Green's estate and you file Form 1040 for Mr. Green. You do not need to file Form 1310 to claim the refund on Mr. Green's tax return. However, you must attach to his return a copy of the court certificate showing your appointment.

Where To File

If you checked the box on line A, you can return the joint-name check with Form 1310 to your local IRS office or the Internal Revenue Service Center where you filed your return. If you checked the box on line B or line C then:

- Follow the instructions for the form to which you are attaching Form 1310 or
- Send it to the same Internal Revenue Service Center where the original return was filed if you are filing Form 1310 separately. If the original return was filed electronically, mail Form 1310 to the Internal Revenue Service Center designated for the address shown on Form 1310 above. See the instructions for the original return for the address.

Personal Representative

For purposes of this form, a personal representative is the executor or administrator of the decedent's estate, as appointed or certified by the court. A copy of the decedent's will cannot be accepted as evidence that you are the personal representative.

Additional Information

For more details, see Death of a Taxpayer in the index to the Form 1040, Form 1040A, or Form 1040EZ instructions, or get Pub. 559, Survivors, Executors, and Administrators. If the taxpayer died as a result of a terrorist act, see Pub. 3920, Tax Relief for Victims of Terrorist Attacks.

Specific Instructions

P.O. Box

Enter your box number only if your post office does not deliver mail to your home.

Foreign Address

If your address is outside the United States or its possessions or territories, enter the information in the following order: City, province or state, and country. Follow the country's practice for entering the postal code. Do not abbreviate the country name.

Line A

Check the box on line A if you received a refund check in your name and your deceased spouse's name. You can return the joint-name check with Form 1310 to your local IRS office or the Internal Revenue Service Center where you filed your return. A new check will be issued in your name and mailed to you.

Line B

Check the box on line B only if you are the decedent's court-appointed personal representative claiming a refund for the decedent on Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, or Form 843, Claim for Refund and Request for Abatement. You must attach a copy of the court certificate showing your appointment. But if you have already sent the court certificate to the IRS, complete Form 1310 and write "Certificate Previously Filed" at the bottom of the form.

Line C

Check the box on line C if you are not a surviving spouse claiming a refund based on a joint return and there is no court-appointed personal representative. You must also complete Part II. If you check the box on line C, you must have proof of death.

The proof of death is a copy of either of the following:

- The death certificate, or
- The formal notification from the appropriate government office (such as, Department of Defense) informing the next of kin of the decedent's death.

Do not attach the death certificate or other proof of death to Form 1310. Instead, keep it for your records and provide it if requested.

Example. Your father died on August 25. You are his sole survivor. Your father did not have a will and the court did not appoint a personal representative for his estate. Your father is entitled to a $300 refund. To get the refund, you must complete and attach Form 1310 to your father's final return. You should check the box on line C of Form 1310, answer all the questions in Part II, and sign your name in Part III. - In the 2004 instructions for Form 2106 on page 5, the paragraph with the heading “Vehicle traded in before February 28, 2004” located just prior to the line 30 instruction, was deleted because it refers to 2004 information not relevant to the 2005 instructions.

- In the line 30 instruction on page 5 taxpayers are instructed to include sales tax in the basis of the vehicle. It is now relevant to instruct taxpayers that sales taxes deducted are not included in the basis calculation. The words “unless deducted” are added.
- The example on page 6 is updated for 2005. The “cost including taxes” amount was increased to $25,000 (from $15,000) to reflect a more realistic figure and the 2005 depreciation limit ($2,960) was inserted per RP 2005-13.
- The Depreciation Method and Percentage Chart-Line 33 table has been updated for 2005
- The depreciation limit tables for passenger automobiles, trucks and vans, and electric automobiles have been updated for 2005 per RP 2005-13.

Instructions for Form 2106

Employee Business Expenses

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

General Instructions

What's New

Standard mileage rate. The standard mileage rate is 40.5 cents for each mile of business use in 2005.

Limit on depreciation and the section 179 deduction. The first-year limit on depreciation and the section 179 deduction for most vehicles has decreased to $2,960. For trucks and vans, the first-year limit has decreased to $3,260. For more details, see page 7.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 2106 if you are an employee deducting ordinary and necessary expenses for your job. See the flowchart below to find out if you must file this form.

An ordinary expense is one that is common and accepted in your field of trade, business, or profession. A necessary expense is one that is helpful and appropriate for your business. An expense does not have to be required to be considered necessary.

You may be able to file Form 2106-EZ, Unreimbursed Employee Business Expenses, provided you:

- Use the standard mileage rate (if claiming vehicle expense), and
- Were not reimbursed by your employer for any expense (amounts your employer included in box 1 of your Form W-2 are not considered reimbursements for this purpose).

See Form 2106-EZ to find out if you qualify to file it.

Recordkeeping

You cannot deduct expenses for travel (including meals unless you used the standard meal allowance), entertainment, gifts, or use of a car or other listed property, unless you keep records to prove the time, place, business purpose, business relationship (for entertainment and gifts), and amounts of these expenses. Generally, you must also have receipts for all lodging expenses (regardless of the amount) and any other expense of $75 or more.

Specific Instructions

Part I—Employee Business Expenses and Reimbursements

Fill in all of Part I if you were reimbursed for employee business expenses. If you were not reimbursed for your expenses, skip line 7 and complete the rest of Part I.

Step 1—Enter Your Expenses

Line 1. If you were a rural mail carrier, you can deduct the larger of your vehicle expenses or your qualified reimbursements. You were a rural mail carrier if you were an employee of the United States Postal Service (USPS) who performed services involving the collection and delivery of mail on a rural route. Qualified reimbursements are the amounts paid by the USPS as an equipment maintenance allowance under a collective bargaining agreement between the USPS and the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association, but only if such amounts do not exceed the amount that would have been paid under the 1991 collective bargaining agreement (adjusted for changes in the Consumer Price Index since 1991).

If your vehicle expenses are:

- Less than or equal to your qualified reimbursements, you do not have to file Form 2106 unless you have deductible expenses other than vehicle expenses. If you have deductible expenses other than vehicle expenses, skip line 1 and do not include any qualified reimbursements in column A on line 7.

- More than your qualified reimbursements, complete Part II of Form 2106. Enter your total vehicle expenses from line 22 or line 29 on line 1 and the amount of your qualified reimbursements in column A on line 7.

If you are a rural mail carrier and received a qualified reimbursement, you cannot use the standard mileage rate.

Line 2. See the line 15 instructions for the definition of commuting.

Line 3. Enter lodging and transportation expenses connected with overnight travel away from your tax home (defined below). Do not include expenses for meals and entertainment. For more details, including limits, see Pub. 463.

Incidental expenses. Instead of keeping records of your actual incidental expenses, you can use an optional method for deducting incidental expenses only if you did not pay or incur meal expenses on a day you were traveling away from your tax home. The amount of the deduction is $3 a day.

Incidental expenses include fees and tips given to porters, baggage carriers, bellhops, hotel maids, stewards or stewardesses and others on ships, and hotel servants in foreign countries; transportation between places of lodging or business and places where meals cannot be obtained at the temporary duty site; and mailing cost associated with filing travel vouchers and payment of employer-sponsored charge card billings.

Incidental expenses do not include expenses for laundry, cleaning and pressing of clothing, lodging taxes, or the costs of telegrams or telephone calls. You cannot use this method on any day that you use the standard meal allowance (defined in the instructions for line 5).

Tax home. Generally, your tax home is your main place of business or post of duty regardless of where you maintain your family home. If you do not have a regular or main place of business because of the nature of your work, then your tax home is the place where you regularly live. If you do not fit in either of these categories, you are considered an itinerant and your tax home is wherever you work. As an itinerant, you are never away from home and cannot claim a travel expense deduction. For more details on your tax home, see Pub. 463.

Generally, you cannot deduct any expenses for travel away from your tax home for any period of temporary employment of more than 1 year. However, this rule does not apply for any period in which you were a federal employee certified by the Attorney General as traveling in temporary duty status for the U.S. government to investigate or prosecute a federal crime (or to provide support services for the investigation or prosecution of that crime).

Line 4. Enter other job-related expenses not listed on any other line of this form. Include expenses for business gifts, education (tuition, fees and books), home office, trade publications, etc. For details, including limits, see Pub. 463 and Pub. 529. Do not include on line 4 any educator expenses you deducted on Form 1040, line 23, or any tuition and fees you deducted on Form 1040, line 34.

If you are deducting home office expenses, see Pub. 587 for special instructions on how to report these expenses.

If you are deducting depreciation or claiming a section 179 deduction for a cellular telephone or other similar telecommunications equipment, a home computer, etc., see Form 4562, Depreciation and Amortization, to figure the depreciation and section 179 deduction to enter on line 4.

You may be able to take a credit for your educational expenses instead of a deduction. See Form 8863, Education Credits, for details.

Do not include expenses for meals and entertainment, taxes, or interest on line 4. Deductible taxes are entered on Schedule A (Form 1040), lines 5 through 9. Employees cannot deduct car loan interest.

Note. If line 4 is your only entry, do not complete Form 2106 unless you are claiming:

- Performing-arts-related business expenses as a qualified performing artist,
- Expenses for performing your job as a fee-basis state or local government official, or
- Impairment-related work expenses as an individual with a disability.

Reimbursement Allocation
Worksheet
(keep for your records)

See the line 10 instructions for definitions. If you are not required to file Form 2106, enter your expenses directly on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 20.

Line 5. Enter your allowable meals and entertainment expense. Include meals while away from your tax home overnight and other business meals and entertainment.

Standard meal allowance.

Instead of actual cost, you may be able to claim the standard meal allowance for your daily meals and incidental expenses while away from your tax home overnight. Under this method, you deduct a specified amount, depending on where you travel, instead of keeping records of your actual meal expenses. However, you must still keep records to prove the time, place, and business purpose of your travel.

The standard meal allowance is the federal M&IE rate. For most small localities in the United States, this rate is $3X a day. Most major cities and many other localities in the United States qualify for higher rates. You can find these rates on the Internet at www.gsa.gov. At the GSA home page click on "Per Diem Rates." At the Domestic Per diem Rates page select "2005" for the rates in effect for the period January 1, 2005–September 30, 2005. Select "2006" for the period October 1, 2005–December 31, 2005. However, you can apply the rates in effect before October 1, 2005, for expenses of all travel within the United States for 2005 instead of the updated rates. You must consistently use either the rates for the first 9 months of 2005 or the updated rates for the period of October 1, 2005, through December 31, 2005.

For locations outside the continental United States, the applicable rates are published each month. You can find these rates on the Internet at www.state.gov.

See Pub. 463 for details on how to figure your deduction using the standard meal allowance, including special rules for partial days of travel and transportation workers.

Step 2—Enter Reimbursements Received From Your Employer for Expenses Listed in Step 1

Line 7. Enter reimbursements received from your employer (or third party) for expenses shown in Step 1 that were not reported to you in box 1 of your Form W-2. This includes reimbursements reported under code "L" in box 12 of Form W-2. Amounts reported under code "L" are certain reimbursements you received for business expenses that were not included as wages on Form W-2 because the expenses were treated as meeting specific IRS substantiation requirements.

Generally, when your employer pays for your expenses, the payments should not be included in box 1 of your Form W-2 if, within a reasonable period of time, you:

- Accounted to your employer for the expenses and
- Were required to return, and did return, any payment not spent (or considered not spent) for business expenses.

If these payments were included in box 1, ask your employer for a corrected Form W-2.

Accounting to your employer means that you gave your employer documentary evidence and an account book, diary, or similar statement to verify the amount, time, place, and business purpose of each expense. You are also treated as having accounted for your expenses if either of the following applies.

- Your employer gave you a fixed travel allowance that is similar in form to the per diem allowance specified by the Federal Government and you verified the time, place, and business purpose of the travel for that day.
- Your employer reimbursed you for vehicle expenses at the standard mileage rate or according to a flat rate or stated schedule, and you verified the date of each trip, mileage, and business purpose of the vehicle use.

See Pub. 463 for more details.

Allocating your reimbursement.

If your employer paid you a single amount that covers meals and entertainment as well as other business expenses, you must allocate the reimbursement so that you know how much to enter in Column A and Column B of line 7. Use the following worksheet to figure this allocation.

1. Enter the total amount of reimbursements your employer gave you that were not reported to you in box 1 of Form W-2 . . . . .
2. Enter the total amount of your expenses for the periods covered by this reimbursement . . . . .
3. Of the amount on line 2, enter your total expense for meals and entertainment . . . . .
4. Divide line 3 by line 2. Enter the result as a decimal (rounded to at least three places) . . . . .
5. Multiply line 1 by line 4. Enter the result here and in Column B, line 7 . . . . .
6. Subtract line 5 from line 1. Enter the result here and in Column A, line 7 . . . . .

Step 3—Figure Expenses To Deduct on Schedule A (Form 1040)

Line 9. Generally, you can deduct only 50% of your business meal and entertainment expenses, including meals incurred while away from home on business. If you were an employee subject to the Department of Transportation (DOT) hours of service limits, that percentage is 70% for business meals consumed during, or incident to, any period of duty for which those limits are in effect.

Employees subject to the DOT hours of service limits include certain air transportation employees, such as pilots, crew, dispatchers, mechanics, and control tower operators; interstate truck operators and interstate bus drivers; certain railroad employees, such as engineers, conductors, train crews, dispatchers, and control operations personnel; and certain merchant mariners.

Line 10. If you are one of the individuals discussed below, special rules apply to deducting your employee business expenses. Any part of the line 10 total that is not deducted according to the special rules should be entered on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 20.

Armed Forces reservist (member of a reserve component). You are a member of a reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States if you are in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force, or Coast Guard Reserve, the Army National Guard of the United States, the Air National Guard of the United States, or the Reserve Corps of the Public Health Service.

If you qualify, include the part of the line 10 amount attributable to the expenses for travel more than 100 miles away from home in connection with your performance of services as a member of the reserves on Form 1040, line 24, and attach Form 2106 to your return. These reserve-related travel expenses are deductible whether or not you itemize deductions. See Pub. 463 for additional details on how to report these expenses.

Fee-basis state or local government official. You are a qualifying fee-basis official if you are employed by a state or political subdivision of a state and are compensated, in whole or in part, on a fee basis.

If you qualify, include the part of the line 10 amount attributable to the expenses you incurred for services performed in that job in the total on Form 1040, line 24, and attach Form 2106 to your return. These employee business expenses are deductible whether or not you itemize deductions.

Qualified performing artist. You are a qualified performing artist if you:

1. Performed services in the performing arts as an employee for at least two employers during the tax year,
2. Received from at least two of those employers wages of $200 or more per employer,
3. Had allowable business expenses attributable to the performing arts of more than 10% of gross income from the performing arts, and
4. Had adjusted gross income of $16,000 or less before deducting expenses as a performing artist.

In addition, if you are married, you must file a joint return, unless you lived apart from your spouse for all of 2005. If you file a joint return, you must figure requirements (1), (2), and (3) separately for both you and your spouse. However, requirement (4) applies to the combined adjusted gross income of both you and your spouse.

If you meet all the requirements, include the part of the line 10 amount attributable to performing-arts-related expenses in the total on Form 1040, line 24, and attach Form 2106 to your return. Your performing-arts-related business expenses are deductible whether or not you itemize deductions.

Disabled employee with impairment-related work expenses.

Impairment-related work expenses are the allowable expenses of an individual with physical or mental disabilities for attendant care at his or her place of employment. They also include other expenses in connection with the place of employment that enable the employee to work. See Pub. 463 for more details.

If you qualify, enter the part of the line 10 amount attributable to impairment-related work expenses on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 27. These expenses are not subject to the 2% limit that applies to most other employee business expenses.

Part II—Vehicle Expenses

There are two methods for computing vehicle expenses—the standard mileage rate and the actual expense method. You can use the standard mileage rate for 2005 only if:

- You owned the vehicle and used the standard mileage rate for the first year you placed the vehicle in service, or
- You leased the vehicle and are using the standard mileage rate for the entire lease period (except the period, if any, before 1998).

You cannot use actual expenses for a leased vehicle if you previously used the standard mileage rate for that vehicle.

If you have the option of using either the standard mileage rate or actual expense method, you should figure your expenses both ways to find the method most beneficial to you. But when completing Form 2106, fill in only the sections that apply to the method you choose.

If you were a rural mail carrier and received an equipment maintenance allowance, see the line 1 instructions.

For more information on the standard mileage rate and actual expenses, see Pub. 463.

Section A—General Information

If you used two vehicles for business during the year, use a separate column in Sections A, C, and D for each vehicle. If you used more than two vehicles, complete and attach a second Form 2106, page 2.

Line 11. Date placed in service is generally the date you first start using your vehicle. However, if you first start using your vehicle for personal use and later convert it to business use, the vehicle is treated as placed in service on the date you started using it for business.

Line 12. Enter the total number of miles you drove each vehicle during 2005. But if you converted your vehicle during the year from personal to business use (or vice versa), enter the total miles for only the months you drove the vehicle for business.

Line 13. Do not include commuting miles on this line; commuting miles are not considered business miles. See the line 15 instructions for the definition of commuting.

Line 14. Divide line 13 by line 12 to figure your business use percentage. However, if you converted your vehicle during the year from personal to business use (or vice versa), multiply this percentage by the number of months you drove the vehicle for business and divide the result by 12.

Line 15. Enter your average daily round trip commuting distance. If you went to more than one work location, figure the average.

Commuting. Generally, commuting is travel between your home and a work location. However, travel that meets any of the following conditions is not commuting.

- You have at least one regular work location away from your home and the travel is to a temporary work location in the same trade or business, regardless of the distance. Generally, a temporary work location is one where your employment is expected to last 1 year or less. See Pub. 463 for more details.
- The travel is to a temporary work location outside the metropolitan area where you live and normally work.
- Your home is your principal place of business under section 280A(c)(1)(A) (for purposes of deducting expenses for business use of your home) and the travel is to another work location in the same trade or business, regardless of whether that location is regular or temporary and regardless of distance.

Line 16. If you do not know the total actual miles you used your vehicle for commuting during the year, figure the amount to enter on line 16 by multiplying the number of days during the year that you used each vehicle for commuting by the average daily round trip commuting distance in miles. However, if you converted your vehicle during the year from personal to business use (or vice versa), enter your commuting miles only for the period you drove your vehicle for business.

Section B—Standard Mileage Rate

You may be able to use the standard mileage rate instead of actual expenses to figure the deductible costs of operating a passenger automobile, including a van, sport utility vehicle (SUV), pickup, or panel truck.

If you want to use the standard mileage rate for a vehicle you own, you must do so in the first year you place your vehicle in service. In later years, you can deduct actual expenses instead, but you cannot use a depreciation method other than straight line.

If you lease your vehicle, you can use the standard mileage rate, but only if you use the rate for the entire lease period (except for the period, if any, before January 1, 1998).

If you use more than two vehicles, complete and attach a second Form 2106, page 2, providing the information requested in lines 11 through 22. Be sure to include the amount from line 22 of both pages in the total on Form 2106, line 1.

You can also deduct state and local personal property taxes. Enter these taxes on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 7.

If you are claiming the standard mileage rate for mileage driven in more than one business activity, you must figure the deduction for each business on a separate form or schedule (for example, Form 2106 or Schedule C, C-EZ, E, or F).

Section C—Actual Expenses

Line 23. Enter your total annual expenses for gasoline, oil, repairs, insurance, tires, license plates, or similar items. Do not include state and local personal property taxes or interest expense you paid. Deduct state and local personal property taxes on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 7. Employees cannot deduct car loan interest.

Line 24a. If during 2005 you rented or leased instead of using your own vehicle, enter the cost of renting.

Also, include on this line any temporary rentals, such as when your car was being repaired, except for amounts included on line 3.

Line 24b. If you leased a vehicle for a term of 30 days or more after June 18, 1984, you may have to reduce your deduction for vehicle lease payments by an amount called the inclusion amount. You may have an inclusion amount if:

The lease term began in:	And the vehicle's fair market value on the first day of the lease exceeded:
2005 . . . . .	$15,200
2004 . . . . .	17,500
2003 . . . . .	18,000
1999 through 2002 . . . . .	15,500
1997 or 1998 . . . . .	15,800
1995 or 1996 . . . . .	15,500
If the lease term began before 1995, see Pub. 463 to find out if you have an inclusion amount.

See Pub. 463 to figure the inclusion amount.

Line 25. If during 2005 your employer provided a vehicle for your business use and included 100% of its annual lease value in box 1 of your Form W-2, enter this amount on line 25. If less than 100% of the annual lease value was included in box 1 of your Form W-2, skip line 25.

Line 28. If you completed Section D, enter the amount from line 38. If you used Form 4562 to figure your depreciation deduction, enter the total of the following amounts.

- Depreciation allocable to your vehicle(s) (from Form 4562, line 28).
- Any section 179 deduction allocable to your vehicle(s) (from Form 4562, line 29).

Section D—Depreciation of Vehicles

Depreciation is an amount you can deduct to recover the cost or other basis of your vehicle over a certain number of years. In some cases, you can elect to expense, under section 179, part of the cost of your vehicle in the year of purchase. For details, see Pub. 463.

Vehicle trade-in. If you traded one vehicle (the "old vehicle") in on another vehicle (the "new vehicle") in 2005, there are two ways you can treat the transaction.

1. You can elect to treat the transaction as a tax-free disposition of the old vehicle and the purchase of the new vehicle. If you make this election, you treat the old vehicle as disposed of at the time of the trade-in. The depreciable basis of the new vehicle is the adjusted basis of the old vehicle (figured as if 100% of the vehicle's use had been for business purposes) plus any additional amount you paid for the new vehicle. You then figure your depreciation deduction for the new vehicle beginning with the date you placed it in service. You make this election by completing Form 2106, Part II, Section D.

2. If you do not make the election described in (1), you must figure depreciation separately for the remaining basis of the old vehicle and for any additional amount you paid for the new vehicle. You must apply two depreciation limits (see pages 7 and 8). The limit that applies to the remaining basis of the old vehicle generally is the amount that would have been allowed had you not traded in the old vehicle. The limit that applies to the additional amount you paid for the new vehicle generally is the limit that applies for the tax year it was placed in service, reduced by the depreciation allowance for the remaining basis of the old vehicle. You must use Form 4562 to compute your depreciation deduction. You cannot use Form 2106, Part II, Section D.

If you elect to use the method described in (1), you must do so on a timely filed tax return (including extensions). Otherwise, you must use the method described in (2).

Line 30. Enter the vehicle's actual cost (including sales tax, unless deducted) or other basis (unadjusted for prior years' depreciation). If you traded in your vehicle, your basis is the adjusted basis of the old vehicle (figured as if 100% of the vehicle's use had been for business purposes) plus any additional amount you pay for your new vehicle. Reduce your basis by any diesel fuel or qualified electric vehicle credit or deduction for clean-fuel vehicles you claimed.

If you converted the vehicle from personal use to business use, your basis for depreciation is the smaller of the vehicle's adjusted basis or its fair market value on the date of conversion.

Line 31. If 2005 is the first year your vehicle was placed in service and the percentage on line 14 is more than 50%, you can elect to deduct as an expense a portion of the cost (subject to a yearly limit). To calculate this section 179 deduction, multiply the part of the cost of the vehicle that you choose to expense by the percentage on line 14. The total of your depreciation and section 179 deduction generally cannot be more than the percentage on line 14 multiplied by the applicable limit explained in the line 36 instructions (see pages 7 and 8). Your section 179 deduction for the year cannot be more than the income from your job and any other active trade or business on your Form 1040.

CAUTION If you are claiming a section 179 deduction on other property, or you placed more than $420,000 of section 179 property in service during the year, use Form 4562 to figure your section 179 deduction. Enter the amount of the section 179 deduction allocable to your vehicle (from Form 4562, line 12) on Form 2106, line 31.

Note. For section 179 purposes, the cost of the new vehicle does not include the adjusted basis of the vehicle you traded in.

Example:

Cost including taxes . . . . .	$25,000
Adjusted basis of trade-in . . . .	– 3,000
Section 179 basis . . . . .	$22,000
Limit on depreciation and section 179 deduction . . . . .	$ 2,960

Smaller of:

Section 179 basis, or limit on depreciation and section 179 deduction . . . . .	$ 2,960
Percentage on line 14 . . . . .	× .75
Section 179 deduction . . . . .	$ 2,220

Limit for sport utility and certain other vehicles.

For sport utility and certain other vehicles placed in service in 2005, the portion of vehicle's cost taken into account in figuring your section 179 deduction is limited to $25,000. This rule applies to any 4-wheeled vehicle primarily designed or used to carry passengers over public streets, roads, or highways, that is not subject to any of the passenger automobile limits explained in the line 36 instructions, and is rated at no more than 14,000 pounds gross vehicle weight. However, the $25,000 limit does not apply to any vehicle:

- Designed to have a seating capacity of more than nine persons behind the driver's seat, or
- Equipped with a cargo area of at least 6 feet in interior length that is an open area or is designed for use as an open area but is enclosed by a cap and is not readily accessible directly from the passenger compartment, or

- That has an integral enclosure, fully enclosing the driver compartment and load carrying device, does not have seating rearward of the driver's seat, and has no body section protruding more than 30 inches ahead of the leading edge of the windshield.

Line 32. To figure the basis for depreciation, multiply line 30 by the percentage on line 14. From that result, subtract the full amount of any section 179 deduction and special depreciation allowance (and any investment credit taken before 1986 unless you took the reduced credit).

Line 33. If you used the standard mileage rate in the first year the vehicle was placed in service and now elect to use the actual expense method, you must use the straight line method of depreciation for the vehicle's estimated useful life. Otherwise, use the Depreciation Method and Percentage Chart on page 7 to find the depreciation method and percentage to enter on line 33. (For example, if you placed a car in service on July 1, 2005, and you use the method in column (a), enter "200 DB 20%" on line 33.) To use the chart, first find the date you placed the vehicle in service (line 11).

*If you made the election under Notice 2001-70 to use the half-year convention for vehicles placed in service October 1 through December 31, 2001, use the percentage rate shown for vehicles placed in service January 1 through September 30, 2001.

**Enter your unrecovered basis, if any, on line 34. See Pub. 463 for more information.

Then, select the depreciation method and percentage from column (a), (b), or (c). For vehicles placed in service before 2005, use the same method you used on last year's return unless a decline in your business use requires a change to the straight line method. For vehicles placed in service during 2005, select the depreciation method and percentage after reading the explanation for each column.

Column (a). You can use column (a) only if the business use percentage on line 14 is more than 50%. Of the three depreciation methods, the method in this column, the 200% declining balance method, will give you the largest deduction in the year your vehicle is placed in service. This column is also used for vehicles placed in service before 1987 and depreciated under the accelerated cost recovery system (ACRS).

Column (b). You can use column (b) only if the business use percentage on line 14 is more than 50%. The method in this column, the 150% declining balance method, will give you a smaller depreciation deduction than in column (a) for the first 3 years. However, you will not have a "depreciation adjustment" on this vehicle for the alternative minimum tax. This may result in a smaller tax liability if you must file Form 6251, Alternative Minimum Tax—Individuals.

Column (c). You must use column (c) for vehicles placed in service after 1986 if the business use percentage on line 14 is 50% or less. The method for these vehicles is the straight line method over 5 years. The use of this column is optional for these vehicles if the business use percentage on line 14 is more than 50%. This column is also used for vehicles placed in service after June 18, 1984, and before 1987 if you elected the straight line method over a recovery period of 12 years.

Note. If your vehicle was used more than 50% for business in the year it was placed in service and used 50% or less in a later year, part of the depreciation and section 179 deduction previously claimed may have to be added back to your income in the later year. Figure the amount to be included in income on Form 4797, Sales of Business Property.

If you placed other business property in service during the year you placed your vehicle in service (for any year after 1986), or you used your vehicle mainly within an Indian reservation, you may not be able to use the chart. See Pub. 946 to figure your depreciation.

Line 34. If during the year you did not sell or exchange your vehicle (or you sold or exchanged your vehicle that was placed in service after 1986 and before 2000), multiply line 32 by the percentage on line 33.

If during the year you sold or exchanged your vehicle that was placed in service:

- Before 1987, enter -0- on line 34 for that vehicle.
- After 1999, multiply the result for line 34 by 50%, and enter on line 34. However, if you originally placed the vehicle in service during the last 3 months of a year after 1999 (and, if your vehicle was placed in service in 2001, you did not make the election under Notice 2001-70), multiply the result for line 34 by the percentage shown below for the month you disposed of the vehicle. Enter the reduced amount on line 34.

Month	Percentage
Jan., Feb., March . . . . .	12.5%
April, May, June . . . . .	37.5%
July, Aug., Sept. . . . .	62.5%
Oct., Nov., Dec. . . . .	87.5%

Line 36. Using the applicable chart for your type of vehicle, find the date you placed your vehicle in service. Then, enter on line 36 the corresponding amount from the Limit column. Before using the charts on pages 7 and 8, please read the following definitions.

- A passenger automobile is a 4-wheeled vehicle manufactured primarily for use on public roads that is rated at 6,000 pounds unloaded gross vehicle weight or less (for a truck or van, gross vehicle weight is substituted for unloaded gross vehicle weight). Certain vehicles, such as ambulances, hearses, and taxicabs, are not considered passenger automobiles and are not subject to the line 36 limits. See Pub. 463 for more details.

- A truck or van is a passenger automobile built on a truck chassis, including a minivan or a sport utility vehicle built on a truck chassis.
- An electric passenger vehicle is a vehicle produced by an original equipment manufacturer and designed to run primarily on electricity. Gasoline-electric hybrid vehicles that are not designed to run primarily on electricity (such as the Honda Civic Hybrid, Honda Insight, and Toyota Prius) are not electric passenger vehicles.

If your vehicle is not subject to any of the line 36 limits, skip lines 36 and 37, and enter the amount from line 35 on line 38.

Exception for clean-fuel modifications. For vehicles placed in service after August 5, 1997, the passenger automobile limits (including those for trucks and vans) do not apply to the cost of any qualified clean-fuel vehicle property (such as retrofit parts and components) installed on a vehicle for the purpose of permitting that vehicle to run on a clean-burning fuel. See section 179A for definitions.

- Purpose: This is the first circulated draft of the 2005 Form 2106-EZ for your review and comments.
- TPCC Meeting: None, but may be arranged if requested.
- Prior Revisions: The 2004 Form 2106-EZ can be viewed by clicking on the following link:

- Comments: Please email, fax, call, or mail any comments by May 20, 2005.

Major Changes to Form 2106-EZ

Form 2106-EZ:

- Above Part I, in the 2nd bullet, the phrase “for this purpose” was added to the end of the parenthetical statement to clarify the terminology.
- The standard mileage rate in Part I, line 1, has been changed to 40.5 cents per mile (from 37.5) for 2005 per RP 2004-64.

Instructions:

- The standard mileage rate under What’s New has been changed to 40.5 cents per mile (from 37.5) for 2005 per RP 2004-64.
- Under the Specific Instructions, Line 4, additional language was inserted in the 4th sentence. The sentence now reads as follows: “Do not include on line 4 any educator expenses you deducted on Form 1040, line 23, or any tuition and fees you deducted on Form 1040, Line 34.”

This new language is the same as what appears in the Form 2106 Instructions and should not have been omitted.

- In the TIP, the subtitle was removed from Form 8863, Education Credits, because it is unnecessary and to conform with the 2106 instructions.
- Under the Specific Instructions, Line 4, Note, the first bulleted item (about reservists) was deleted to conform to the 2106 instructions and because it was inappropriate.
- Under the Specific Instructions, Line 5, in the last paragraph the following words were removed: “, and taxpayers related to their employer.”

In the 2004 Publication 463, language was removed from chapter 1 under Who can use the standard meal allowance, that disallowed the use of the standard meal allowance if the taxpayer was related to his or her employer. However, this restriction remains applicable to per diem (lodging plus meals and incidentals) and car allowances. See Pub 463, chapter 6, under Per Diem and Car Allowances. Also see RP 2004-60 sec. 6.07, Reg. §1.274-5A(e)(5) and Reg. §1.274-5A(h).

- Line 6 instructions were changed to conform to the style guide, Pub. 463, and changes to the Form 2106 Instructions.
- Under Part II-Information on Your Vehicle, Line 8b, the number list was changed to a bulleted list per the Style Guide.

Clarifying language was added to the first paragraph to address commuting mileage when a vehicle changed between personal and business use during the year. This conforms to Form 2106 Instructions.

Instructions for Form 2106-EZ

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

What's New

Standard mileage rate. The standard mileage rate is 40.5 cents for each mile of business use in 2005.

Purpose of Form

You may use Form 2106-EZ instead of Form 2106 to claim your unreimbursed employee business expenses if you meet all the requirements listed above Part I.

Recordkeeping

You cannot deduct expenses for travel (including meals, unless you used the standard meal allowance), entertainment, gifts, or use of a car or other listed property, unless you keep records to prove the time, place, business purpose, business relationship (for entertainment and gifts), and amounts of these expenses. Generally, you must also have receipts for all lodging expenses (regardless of the amount) and any other expense of $75 or more.

Additional Information

For more details about employee business expenses, see:

Pub. 463, Travel, Entertainment, Gift, and Car Expenses

Pub. 529, Miscellaneous Deductions

Pub. 587, Business Use of Your Home (Including Use by Daycare Providers)

Pub. 946, How To Depreciate Property

Specific Instructions

Part I—Figure Your Expenses

Line 2. See the line 8b instructions for the definition of commuting.

Line 3. Enter lodging and transportation expenses connected with overnight travel away from your tax home (defined on this page). You cannot deduct expenses for travel away from your tax home for any period of temporary employment of more than 1 year. Do not include expenses for meals and entertainment. For more details, including limits, see Pub. 463.

Instead of keeping records of your actual incidental expenses, you can use an optional method for deducting incidental expenses only if you did not pay or incur meal expenses on a day you were traveling away from your tax home. The amount of the deduction is $3 a day. Incidental expenses include fees and tips given to porters, baggage carriers, bellhops, hotel maids, stewards or stewardesses and others on ships, and hotel servants in foreign countries. They do not include expenses for laundry, cleaning and pressing of clothing, lodging taxes, or the costs of telegrams or telephone calls. You cannot use this method on any day that you use the standard meal allowance (as explained in the instructions for line 5).

Tax home. Generally, your tax home is your main place of business or post of duty regardless of where you maintain your family home. If you do not have a regular or main place of business because of the nature of your work, then your tax home is the place where you regularly live. If you do not fit in either of these categories, you are considered an itinerant and your tax home is wherever you work. As an itinerant, you are never away from home and cannot claim a travel expense deduction. For more details on your tax home, see Pub. 463.

Line 4. Enter other job-related expenses not listed on any other line of this form. Include expenses for business gifts, education (tuition and books), home office, trade publications, etc. For details, including limits, see Pub. 463 and Pub. 529. Do not include on line 4 any educator expenses you deducted on Form 1040, line 23, or any tuition and fees you deducted on Form 1040, line 34.

If you are deducting home office expenses, see Pub. 587 for special instructions on how to report these expenses.

If you are deducting depreciation or claiming a section 179 deduction on a cellular telephone or other similar telecommunications equipment, a home computer, etc., see Form 4562, Depreciation and Amortization, to figure the depreciation and section 179 deduction to enter on line 4.

TIP You may be able to take a credit for your educational expenses instead of a deduction. See Form 8863, Education Credits, for details.

Do not include expenses for meals and entertainment, taxes, or interest on line 4. Deductible taxes are entered on Schedule A (Form 1040), lines 5 through 9. Employees cannot deduct car loan interest.

Note. If line 4 is your only entry, do not complete Form 2106-EZ unless you are claiming:

- Expenses for performing your job as a fee-basis state or local government official,
- Performing-arts-related business expenses as a qualified performing artist, or
- Impairment-related work expenses as an individual with a disability.

See the line 6 instructions for definitions. If you are not required to file Form 2106-EZ, enter your expenses directly on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 20.

Line 5. Generally, you can deduct only 50% of your business meal and entertainment expenses, including meals incurred while away from home on business. If you were an employee subject to the Department of Transportation (DOT) hours of service limits, that percentage is 70% for business meals consumed during, or incident to, any period of duty for which those limits are in effect.

Employees subject to the DOT hours of service limits include certain air transportation employees, such as pilots, crew, dispatchers, mechanics, and control tower operators; interstate truck operators and interstate bus drivers; certain railroad employees, such as engineers, conductors, train crews, dispatchers, and control operations personnel; and certain merchant mariners.

Instead of actual cost, you may be able to claim the standard meal allowance for your daily meals and incidental expenses (M&IE) while away from your tax home overnight. Under this method, you deduct a specified amount, depending on where you travel, instead of keeping records of your actual meal expenses. However, you must still keep records to prove the time, place, and business purpose of your travel.

The standard meal allowance is the federal M&IE rate. For most small localities in the United States, this rate is $31 a day. Most major cities and many other localities in the United States qualify for higher rates. You can find these rates on the Internet at www.gsa.gov.

For locations outside the continental United States, the applicable rates are published each month. You can find these rates on the Internet at www.state.gov.

See Pub. 463 for details on how to figure your deduction using the standard meal allowance, including special rules for partial days of travel and for transportation workers.

Line 6. If you are one of the individuals discussed below, special rules apply to deducting your employee business expenses. Any part of the line 6 total that is not deducted according to the special rules should be entered on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 20.

Armed Forces reservist (member of a reserve component). You are a member of a reserve component of the Armed Forces of the United States if you are in the Army, Naval, Marine Corps, Air Force, or Coast Guard Reserve, the Army National Guard of the United States, the Air National Guard of the United States, or the Reserve Corps of the Public Health Service.

If you qualify, include the part of the line 6 amount attributable to the expenses for travel more than 100 miles away from home in connection with your performance of services as a member of the reserves on Form 1040, line 24, and attach Form 2106-EZ to your return. These reservist-related travel expenses are deductible whether or not you itemize deductions. See Pub. 463 for more information.

Fee-basis state or local government official. You are a qualifying fee-basis official if you are employed by a state or political subdivision of a state and are compensated, in whole or part, on a fee basis.

If you qualify, include the part of the line 6 amount attributable to expenses you incurred for services performed in that job in the total on Form 1040, line 24, and attach Form 2106-EZ to your return. These employee business expenses are deductible whether or not you itemize deductions.

Qualified performing artist. You are a qualified performing artist if you:

1. Performed services in the performing arts as an employee for at least two employers during the tax year,
2. Received at least $200 each from any two of these employers,
3. Had allowable business expenses attributable to the performing arts of more than 10% of gross income from the performing arts, and
4. Had adjusted gross income of $16,000 or less before deducting expenses as a performing artist.

In addition, if you are married, you must file a joint return unless you lived apart from your spouse for all of 2005. If you file a joint return, you must figure requirements (1), (2), and (3) separately for both you and your spouse. However, requirement (4) applies to the combined adjusted gross income of both you and your spouse.

If you meet all of the above requirements, include the part of the line 6 amount attributable to performing-arts-related expenses in the total on Form 1040, line 24, and attach Form 2106-EZ to your return. These performing-arts-related business expenses are deductible whether or not you itemize deductions.

Disabled employee with impairment-related work expenses. Impairment-related work expenses are the allowable expenses of an individual with physical or mental disabilities for attendant care at his or her place of employment. They also include other expenses in connection with the place of employment that enable the employee to work. See Pub. 463 for details.

If you qualify, enter the part of the line 6 amount attributable to impairment-related work expenses on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 27. These expenses are not subject to the 2% limit that applies to most other employee business expenses.

Part II—Information on Your Vehicle

If you claim vehicle expense, you must provide certain information on the use of your vehicle by completing Part II. Include an attachment listing the information requested in Part II for any additional vehicles you used for business during the year.

Line 7. Date placed in service is generally the date you first start using your vehicle. However, if you first start using your vehicle for personal use and later convert it to business use, the vehicle is treated as placed in service on the date you started using it for business.

Line 8a. Do not include commuting miles on this line; commuting miles are not considered business miles. See below for the definition of commuting.

Line 8b. If you do not know the total actual miles you used your vehicle for commuting during the year, figure the amount to enter on line 8b by multiplying the number of days during the year that you used your vehicle for commuting by the average daily roundtrip commuting distance in miles. However, if you converted your vehicle during the year from personal to business use (or vice versa), enter your commuting miles only for the period you drove your vehicle for business.

Generally, commuting is travel between your home and a work location. However, travel that meets any of the following conditions is not commuting.

- You have at least one regular work location away from your home and the travel is to a temporary work location in the same trade or business, regardless of the distance. Generally, a temporary work location is one where your employment is expected to last 1 year or less. See Pub. 463 for details.
- The travel is to a temporary work location outside the metropolitan area where you live and normally work.
- Your home is your principal place of business under section 280A(c)(1)(A) (for purposes of deducting expenses for business use of your home) and the travel is to another work location in the same trade or business, regardless of whether that location is regular or temporary and regardless of distance.

Instructions*What's New

The rules for multiple support agreements still apply to claiming an exemption for a qualifying relative, but they no longer apply to claiming an exemption for a qualifying child. For the definitions of "qualifying relative" and "qualifying child," see Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information.

Use Form 2120 to:

- Identify each other eligible person (see below) who paid over 10% of the support of a qualifying relative whom you are claiming as a dependent, and
- Indicate that you have a signed statement from each other eligible person waiving his or her right to claim that qualifying relative as a dependent.

An eligible person is someone who could have claimed a qualifying relative as a dependent except that he or she did not pay over half of that person's support.

If there are more than four other eligible persons, attach a statement to your return with the required information.

Who Can Claim the Qualifying Relative

Generally, to claim a qualifying relative as a dependent, you must pay over half of that person's support. However, even if you did not meet this support test, you may be able to claim him or her as a dependent if all five of the following apply.

1. You and one or more other eligible person(s) (see above) together paid over half of that person's support.
2. You paid over 10% of the support.
3. No one alone paid over half of that person's support.
4. The other dependency tests are met. See Step 4, Qualifying Relative Dependent in the Form 1040 or Form 1040A instructions.
5. Each other eligible person who paid over 10% of the support agrees not to claim that person as a dependent by giving you a signed statement. See Signed Statement on this page.

Note. To find out what is included in support, see Pub. 501.

Signed Statement

You must have received, from each other eligible person listed above, a signed statement waiving his or her right to claim the qualifying relative as a dependent for the calendar year indicated on this form. The statement must include:

- The calendar year the waiver applies to,
- The name of the qualifying relative the eligible person helped to support, and
- The eligible person's name, address, and social security number.

Do not file the signed statement with your return. But you must keep it for your records and be prepared to furnish it and any other information necessary to show that you qualify to claim the qualifying relative as your dependent.

See Pub. 501 for details.

No ↓

You are not required to figure your penalty because the IRS will figure it and send you a bill for any unpaid amount. If you want to figure it, you may use Part III or Part IV as a worksheet and enter your penalty amount on your tax return (see page 2 of the instructions), but file only page 1 of Form 2210.

2	Other taxes, including self-employment tax (see page 2 of the instructions)	2
3	Refundable credits. Enter the total of your earned income credit, additional child tax credit, credit for federal tax paid on fuels, and health coverage tax credit for eligible individuals	3	(	)

8	Maximum required annual payment based on prior year's tax (see page 2 of the instructions)	8
9	Required annual payment. Enter the smaller of line 5 or line 8	9

Next: Is line 9 more than line 6?

- ☐ No. You do not owe a penalty. Do not file Form 2210 unless box E below applies.
- ☐ Yes. You may owe a penalty, but do not file Form 2210 unless one or more boxes in Part II below applies.
- If box B, C, or D applies, you must figure your penalty and file Form 2210.
  - If only box A or E (or both) applies, file only page 1 of Form 2210. You are not required to figure your penalty; the IRS will figure it and send you a bill for any unpaid amount. If you want to figure your penalty, you may use Part III or IV as a worksheet and enter your penalty on your tax return (see page 2 of the instructions), but file only page 1 of Form 2210.

Part II Reasons for Filing. Check applicable boxes. If none apply, do not file Form 2210.

- A ☐ You request a waiver (see page 1 of the instructions) of your entire penalty. You must check this box and file page 1 of Form 2210, but you are not required to figure your penalty.
- B ☐ You request a waiver (see page 1 of the instructions) of part of your penalty. You must figure your penalty and waiver amount and file Form 2210.
- C ☐ Your income varied during the year and your penalty is reduced or eliminated when figured using the annualized income installment method. You must figure the penalty using Schedule AI and file Form 2210.
- D ☐ Your penalty is lower when figured by treating the federal income tax withheld from your wages as paid on the dates it was actually withheld, instead of in equal amounts on the payment due dates. You must figure your penalty and file Form 2210.
- E ☐ You filed or are filing a joint return for either 2004 or 2005, but not for both years, and line 8 above is smaller than line 5 above. You must file page 1 of Form 2210, but you are not required to figure your penalty (unless box B, C, or D applies).

Part III Short Method

You may use the short method if:

- You made no estimated tax payments (or your only payments were withheld federal income tax), or
- You paid estimated tax in equal amounts on your due dates.

You must use the regular method (Part IV) instead of the short method if:

- You made any estimated tax payments late,
- You checked box C or D in Part II, or
- You are filing Form 1040NR or 1040NR-EZ and you did not receive wages as an employee subject to U.S. income tax withholding.

Note: If any payment was made earlier than the due date, you may use the short method, but using it may cause you to pay a larger penalty than the regular method. If the payment was only a few days early, the difference is likely to be small.

In most cases, you do not need to file Form 2210-F. The IRS will figure any penalty you owe and send you a bill. File Form 2210-F only if one or both of the boxes in Part I apply to you. If you do not need to file Form 2210-F, you still can use it to figure your penalty. Enter the amount from line 20 on the penalty line of your return but do not attach Form 2210-F.

Part I Reasons for Filing—If box 1a below applies to you, you may be able to lower or eliminate your penalty. But you must check that box and file Form 2210-F with your tax return. If box 1b below applies to you, check that box and file Form 2210-F with your tax return.

- 1 Check whichever boxes apply (if neither applies, see the text above Part I and do not file Form 2210-F):
- a ☐ You request a waiver. In certain circumstances, the IRS will waive all or part of the penalty. See the instructions for Waiver of Penalty.
- b ☐ Your required annual payment (line 15 below) is based on your 2004 tax and you filed, or are filing, a joint return for either 2004 or 2005 but not for both years.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

If you are an individual or a fiduciary for an estate or trust and at least two-thirds of your 2004 or 2005 gross income is from farming or fishing, use Form 2210-F to see if you owe a penalty for underpaying your estimated tax.

For a definition of gross income from farming and fishing and more details, see Pub. 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax.

The IRS Will Figure the Penalty for You

In most cases, the IRS will figure the penalty for you. Complete your return as usual, leave the penalty line on your return blank, and do not attach Form 2210-F. If you owe the penalty, we will send you a bill. And as long as you file your return by April 17, 2006, we will not charge you interest on the penalty if you pay by the date specified on the bill.

If you checked either of the boxes in Part I of the form, you must figure the penalty yourself and attach the completed form to your return.

Who Must Pay the Underpayment Penalty

You may owe the penalty for 2005 if you did not pay at least the smaller of (a) two-thirds of the tax shown on your 2005 return or (b) the tax shown on your 2004 return.

Return. In these instructions, "return" refers to your original income tax return. However, an amended return is considered the original return if it is filed by the due date (including extensions) of the original return. Also, a joint return that replaces previously filed separate returns is considered the original return.

Exceptions to the Penalty

You will not have to pay the penalty or file this form if any of the following applies.

- You file your return and pay the tax due by March 1, 2006.
- You had no tax liability for 2004, you were a U.S. citizen or resident for all of 2004, and your 2004 return was, or would have been had you been required to file, for a full 12 months.
- The total tax shown on your 2005 return minus the amount of tax you paid through withholding is less than $1,000. To determine whether the total tax is less than $1,000, complete lines 2 through 13.

Waiver of Penalty

If you have an underpayment on line 17, all or part of the penalty for that underpayment will be waived if the IRS determines that:

- The underpayment was due to a casualty, disaster, or other unusual circumstance, and it would be inequitable to impose the penalty, or
- In 2004 or 2005, you retired after age 62 or became disabled, and your underpayment was due to reasonable cause.

To request either of the above waivers, do the following:

- Check the box on line 1a.

- Complete Form 2210-F up to line 20 without regard to the waiver. Enter the amount you want waived in parentheses on the dotted line to the left of line 20. Subtract this amount from the total penalty you figured without regard to the waiver and enter the result on line 20.

- Attach Form 2210-F and a statement to your return explaining the reasons you were unable to meet the estimated tax requirements.

- If you are requesting a penalty waiver due to a casualty, disaster, or other unusual circumstance, attach documentation such as police and insurance company reports.

- If you are requesting a penalty waiver due to retirement or disability, attach documentation that shows your retirement date (and your age on that date) or the date you became disabled.

The IRS will review the information you provide and will decide whether to grant your request for a waiver.

Specific Instructions

If you file an amended return by the due date of your original return, use the amounts shown on your amended return to figure your underpayment. If you file an amended return after the due date of your original return, use the amounts shown on the original return.

Exception. If you and your spouse file a joint return after the due date to replace previously filed separate returns, use the amounts shown on the joint return to figure your underpayment.

Line 3

Enter the total of the following amounts on line 3.

- Self-employment tax.
- Tax from recapture of investment, low-income housing, qualified electric vehicle, Indian employment, new markets, or employer-provided childcare facilities credits.
- Tax on early distributions from (a) an IRA or other qualified retirement plan, (b) an annuity, or (c) a modified endowment contract entered into after June 20, 1988.
- Tax on distributions from a Coverdell education savings account or a qualified tuition plan that are not used for qualified education expenses.
- Tax on Archer MSA or health savings account distributions not used for qualified medical expenses.
- Section 72(m)(5) penalty tax.
- Advance EIC payments.
- Interest due under sections 453(l)(3) and 453A(c) on certain installment sales of property.
- Tax on income not effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business from Form 1040NR, lines 53 and 56.
- An increase or decrease in tax as a shareholder in a qualified electing fund.
- Tax on accumulation distribution of trusts.
- Tax on electing small business trusts included on Form 1041, Schedule G, line 7.

- Household employment taxes, including any advance EIC payments. Do not include this amount if you entered -0- on Form 2210-F, line 12, and the amount on line 10 (excluding household employment taxes), is less than $1,000.

Line 4

If Form 2210-F, line 4 is less than $1,000, you do not owe the estimated tax penalty. Do not file Form 2210-F.

Line 10

If Form 2210-F, line 10 is less than $1,000, you do not owe the estimated tax penalty. Do not file Form 2210-F.

Line 12

Enter the taxes withheld shown on Form 1040, lines 64 and 67; Form 1040NR, lines 59, 61, 66, 67, and 68; or Form 1041, line 24e.

Line 14

Figure your 2004 tax by using the taxes and credits shown on your 2004 tax return. Use the same taxes and credits shown on lines 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, and 8 of this form.

If you are filing a joint return for 2005 but you did not file a joint return for 2004, add the tax shown on your 2004 return to the tax shown on your spouse's 2004 return and enter the total on line 14 (figured as explained above). If you filed a joint return for 2004 but you are not filing a joint return for 2005, see Pub. 505 to figure your share of the 2004 tax to enter on line 14.

If you did not file a return for 2004 or if your 2004 tax year was less than 12 months, do not complete line 14. Instead, enter the amount from line 11 on line 15. However, see Exceptions to the Penalty on this page.

Line 16

If you are a household employer and made advance EIC payments, include those payments as of the date you paid the wages to your employee(s).

It's Convenient, Safe, and Secure

IRS e-file is the IRS's electronic filing program. You can get an extension of time to file your tax return by filing Form 2350 electronically. You will receive an electronic acknowledgment once you complete the transaction. Keep it with your records. Do not send in Form 2350 if you file electronically.

If you think you may owe tax and wish to make a payment, you may pay by electronic funds withdrawal. For details, see Paying by Electronic Funds Withdrawal on page 4.

E-file Using Your Personal Computer or Through a Tax Professional

Refer to your tax software package or tax preparer for ways to file electronically. Be sure to have a copy of last year's tax return — you will be asked to provide information from the return for taxpayer verification. If you wish to make a payment, you can pay by electronic funds withdrawal (see page 4) or send your check or money order to the address shown under Where To File below.

File a Paper Form 2350

If you wish to file on paper instead of electronically, fill in the Form 2350 and mail it to the address shown under Where To File below.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 2350 to ask for an extension of time to file your tax return if you need the time to meet either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test to qualify for the foreign earned income exclusion and/or the foreign housing exclusion or deduction.

Form 2350 does not extend the time to pay taxes. If you do not pay the amount due by the regular due date (April 17, 2006, for a calendar year return) you will owe interest and may be charged penalties. For details, see Filing Your Tax Return that begins on this page.

Note. If you file your return after the regular due date, you cannot have the IRS figure your tax.

If you need more time to file but do not expect to meet the bona fide residence or the physical presence test, file Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time To File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return.

If we give you more time to file and later find that the statements on this form are false or misleading, the extension is null and void. You will owe the late filing penalty explained on page 4.

Who Should File

You should file Form 2350 if all three of the following apply:

1. You are a U.S. citizen or resident alien.
2. You expect to qualify for the foreign earned income exclusion and/or the foreign housing exclusion or deduction by meeting either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test but not until after your tax return is due.
3. Your tax home is in a foreign country (or countries) throughout your period of bona fide residence or physical presence, whichever applies.

Additional Information

Pub. 54, Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad, has a detailed discussion of the foreign earned income exclusion, the foreign housing exclusion and deduction, the bona fide residence test, and the physical presence test. You can get Pub. 54 from most U.S. embassies and consulates or by writing to: National Distribution Center, P.O. Box 8903, Bloomington, IL 61702-8903. You can also download Pub. 54 (and other forms and publications) from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

When To File

File Form 2350 on or before the due date of your Form 1040. For a 2005 calendar year return, this is April 17, 2006. However, if you have 2 extra months to file your return because you were "out of the country" (defined below), file Form 2350 on or before June 15, 2006. You should file Form 2350 early enough so that if it is not approved, you can still file your return on time.

Out of the country means that on the regular due date of your return, either (a) you live outside the United States and Puerto Rico and your main place of work is outside the United States and Puerto Rico, or (b) you are in military or naval service outside the United States and Puerto Rico. If you qualify as being "out of the country," you will still be eligible for the extension, even if you are physically present in the United States or Puerto Rico on the regular due date of the return. You do not have to file a form to get the 2-month extension because you were out of the country. But you will have to attach a statement to your tax return explaining how you qualified.

Where To File

File Form 2350 with either the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255-0002, or a local IRS representative or other IRS employee.

Period of Extension

If you are given an extension, it will generally be to a date 30 days after the date on which you expect to meet either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test. But if you must allocate moving expenses (see Pub. 54), you may be given an extension to 90 days after the end of the year following the year you moved to the foreign country.

Gift or generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax return (Form 709).

An extension of time to file your 2005 calendar year income tax return also extends the time to file Form 709 for 2005. However, it does not extend the time to pay any gift or GST tax you may owe for 2005. To make a payment of gift or GST tax, see Form 8892. If you do not pay the amount due by the regular due date for Form 709, you will owe interest and may also be charged penalties. If the donor died during 2005, see the instructions for Forms 709 and 8892.

Filing Your Tax Return

You may file Form 1040 any time before the extension expires. But remember, Form 2350 does not extend the time to pay taxes. If you do not pay the amount due by the regular due date, you will owe interest. You may also be charged penalties.

Interest. You will owe interest on any tax not paid by the regular due date of your return. This is April 17, 2006, for a 2005 calendar year return even if you qualify for the 2-month extension because you were out of the country. The interest runs until you pay the tax. Even if you had a good reason for not paying on time, you will still owe interest.

Late payment penalty. The penalty is usually  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1% of any tax (other than estimated tax) not paid by the due date (including the 2-month extension for taxpayers who are out of the country). It is charged for each month or part of a month the tax is unpaid. The maximum penalty is 25%. You might not owe this penalty if you have a good reason for not paying on time. Attach a statement to your return, not Form 2350, explaining the reason.

Late filing penalty. A penalty is usually charged if your return is filed after the due date (including extensions). It is usually 5% of the tax not paid by the regular due date for each month or part of a month your return is late. Generally, the maximum penalty is 25%. If your return is more than 60 days late, the minimum penalty is $100 or the balance of tax due on your return, whichever is smaller. You might not owe the penalty if you have a good reason for filing late. Attach a statement to your return, not Form 2350, explaining the reason.

How to claim credit for payment made with this form. When you file Form 1040, enter any income tax payment (line 5) sent with Form 2350 on Form 1040, line 69.

Specific Instructions

Name, Address, and Social Security Number (SSN)

Enter your name, address, and SSN. If you plan to file a joint return, include your spouse's name and SSN in the same order they will appear on your return. Do not abbreviate the country name.

Line 1. If you plan to qualify for the bona fide residence test, enter the date that is one year and 30 days (90 days if allocating moving expenses) from the 1st day of your next full tax year (from January 1, 2006, for a calendar year return). If you plan to qualify under the physical presence test, enter the date that is twelve months and 30 days (90 days if allocating moving expenses) from your first full (24 hour) day in the foreign country.

Line 4a. Enter the day, month, and year of your arrival in the foreign country.

Line 4b. The beginning date of the qualifying period is the first full (24 hour) day in the foreign country, usually the day after arrival. The ending date usually corresponds with the entry on line 1.

Note. The ending date is the date you will qualify for special tax treatment by meeting the physical presence or bona fide residence test.

Line 4c. Enter the physical address where you are currently living in the foreign country.

Line 4d. Date you expect to return to the United States. If you have no planned date, leave this line blank.

Bona fide residence test. To meet this test, you must be a U.S. citizen who is a bona fide resident of a foreign country (or countries) for an uninterrupted period that includes an entire tax year. A U.S. resident alien who is a citizen or national of a country with which the United States has an income tax treaty in effect also may meet this test.

Physical presence test. To meet this test, you must be a U.S. citizen or resident alien who is physically present in a foreign country (or countries) for at least 330 full days during any 12-month period.

Tax home. Generally, your tax home is your regular or main place of business or post of duty regardless of where you maintain your family home. If you do not have a regular or main place of business because of the nature of your work, then your tax home is the place where you regularly live.

Foreign country. A foreign country is a country other than the United States or any of its possessions or territories.

Signature and Verification

This form must be signed. If you plan to file a joint return, both of you should sign. If there is a good reason why one of you cannot, the other spouse may sign for both. Attach a statement explaining why the other spouse cannot sign.

Others who can sign for you. Anyone with a power of attorney can sign. But the following can sign for you without a power of attorney.

- Attorneys, CPAs, and enrolled agents.
- A person in a close personal or business relationship to you who is signing because you cannot. There must be a good reason why you cannot sign, such as illness or absence. Attach an explanation.

Notice to Applicant and Return Label

You must complete the Return Label to receive the Notice to Applicant. We will use it to tell you if your application is approved. Do not attach the notice to your return—keep it for your records.

If the post office does not deliver mail to your street address, enter your P.O. box number instead.

How To Make a Payment With Your Extension

Paying by Electronic Funds Withdrawal

You can e-file Form 2350 and make a payment by authorizing an electronic funds withdrawal from your checking or savings account. Check with your financial institution to make sure that an electronic funds withdrawal is allowed and to get the correct routing and account numbers.

If you owe tax and wish to have the money electronically withdrawn from your account, you will be asked to make the following declaration:

I authorize the U.S. Treasury and its designated Financial Agent to initiate an ACH electronic funds withdrawal entry to the financial institution account indicated for payment of my federal taxes owed, and the financial institution to debit the entry to this account. This authorization is to remain in full force and effect until I notify the U.S. Treasury Financial Agent to terminate the authorization. To revoke a payment, I must contact the U.S. Treasury Financial Agent at 1-888-353-4537 no later than 2 business days prior to the payment (settlement) date. I also authorize the financial institutions involved in the processing of the electronic payment of taxes to receive confidential information necessary to answer inquiries and resolve issues related to the payment.

Note. This is your written copy of the electronic funds withdrawal authorization you made to have the amount you owe withdrawn. Keep it for your records.

Instructions for Form 2441

Child and Dependent Care Expenses

What's New

Generally, you no longer need to pay over half the cost of keeping up a home for a qualifying person. However, the qualifying person must live with you for more than half of 2005. See Definitions below and Who Can Take the Credit or Exclude Dependent Care Benefits? on page 2 for more information.

Purpose of Form

If you paid someone to care for your child or other qualifying person so you (and your spouse if filing a joint return) could work or look for work in 2005, you may be able to take the credit for child and dependent care expenses. But you must have had earned income to do so. If you can take the credit, use Form 2441 to figure the amount of your credit.

If you (or your spouse if filing a joint return) received any dependent care benefits for 2005, you must use Form 2441 to figure the amount, if any, of the benefits you may exclude from your income on Form 1040, line 7. You must complete Part III of Form 2441 before you can figure the credit, if any, in Part II.

Definitions

Dependent Care Benefits

These include amounts your employer paid directly to either you or your care provider for the care of your qualifying person(s) while you worked. These benefits also include the fair market value of care in a daycare facility provided or sponsored by your employer. Your salary may have been reduced to pay for these benefits. If you received dependent care benefits as an employee, they should be shown in box 10 of your 2005 Form(s) W-2. Benefits you received as a partner should be shown in box 13 of your Schedule K-1 (Form 1065) with code N.

Qualifying Person(s)

A qualifying person is:

- A qualifying child under age 13 whom you can claim as a dependent (but see Exception for children of divorced or separated parents below). If the child turned 13 during the year, the child is a qualifying person for the part of the year he or she was under age 13.
- Your disabled spouse who is not able to care for himself or herself.
- Any disabled person not able to care for himself or herself whom you can claim as a dependent (or could claim as a dependent except that the person had gross income of $3,200 or more or filed a joint return). But if this person is your child, see Exception for children of divorced or separated parents below.

To find out who is a qualifying child and who is a dependent, see Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information.

To be a qualifying person, the person must have lived with you in the same home for more than half of 2005.

Exception for children of divorced or separated parents. If your child was under age 13, or was disabled and could not care for himself or herself, and you lived in the same home with the child for more than half of 2005 (except for temporary absences, such as school), the child is treated as your qualifying person. The child is not treated as the qualifying person of the other parent, even if the other parent is entitled to the dependency exemption for the child under the special rules for a child of divorced or separated parents.

To find out when a noncustodial parent is entitled to claim the dependency exemption for a child, see Pub. 501.

Qualified Expenses

These include amounts paid for household services and care of the qualifying person while you worked or looked for work. Child support payments are not qualified expenses. Also, expenses reimbursed by a state social service agency are not qualified expenses unless you included the reimbursement in your income.

Household Services

These are services needed to care for the qualifying person as well as to run the home. They include, for example, the services of a cook, maid, babysitter, housekeeper, or cleaning person if the services were partly for the care of the qualifying person. Do not include services of a chauffeur or gardener.

You can also include your share of the employment taxes paid on wages for qualifying child and dependent care services.

Care of the Qualifying Person

Care includes the cost of services for the qualifying person's well-being and protection. It does not include the cost of clothing or entertainment.

You can include the cost of care provided outside your home for your dependent under age 13 or any other qualifying person who regularly spends at least 8 hours a day in your home. If the care was provided by a dependent care center, the center must meet all applicable state and local regulations. A dependent care center is a place that provides care for more than six persons (other than persons who live there) and receives a fee, payment, or grant for providing services for any of those persons, even if the center is not run for profit.

You can include amounts paid for items other than the care of your child (such as food and schooling) only if the items are incidental to the care of the child and cannot be separated from the total cost. But do not include the cost of schooling for a child in the first grade or above. Also, do not include any expenses for sending your child to an overnight camp.

Medical Expenses

Some disabled spouse and dependent care expenses may qualify as medical expenses if you itemize deductions on Schedule A (Form 1040). See Pub. 503, Child and Dependent Care Expenses, and Pub. 502, Medical and Dental Expenses, for details.

Who Can Take the Credit or Exclude Dependent Care Benefits?

You can take the credit or the exclusion if all five of the following apply.

1. Your filing status is single, head of household, qualifying widow(er), or married filing jointly. But see Married Persons Filing Separate Returns below.

2. The care was provided so you (and your spouse if you were married) could work or look for work. However, if you did not find a job and have no earned income for the year, you cannot take the credit or the exclusion. But if your spouse was a student or disabled, see the instructions for line 5.

3. You and the qualifying person(s) lived in the same home for more than half of 2005.

4. The person who provided the care was not your spouse or a person whom you can claim as a dependent. If your child provided the care, he or she must have been age 19 or older by the end of 2005.

5. You report the required information about the care provider on line 1 and, if taking the credit, the information about the qualifying person on line 2.

Married Persons Filing Separate Returns

If your filing status is married filing separately and all of the following apply, you are considered unmarried for purposes of figuring the credit and the exclusion on Form 2441.

- You lived apart from your spouse during the last 6 months of 2005,
- The qualifying person lived in your home more than half of 2005, and
- You provided over half the cost of keeping up your home.

If you meet all the requirements to be treated as unmarried and meet items 2 through 5 listed earlier, you can take the credit or the exclusion. If you do not meet all the requirements to be treated as unmarried, you cannot take the credit. However, you can take the exclusion if you meet items 2 through 5.

Line Instructions

Line 1

Complete columns (a) through (d) for each person or organization that provided the care. You can use Form W-10, Dependent Care Provider's Identification and Certification, or any other source listed in its instructions to get the information from the care provider. If you do not give correct or complete information, your credit (and exclusion, if applicable) may be disallowed unless you can show you used due diligence in trying to get the required information.

Due Diligence

You can show a serious and earnest effort (due diligence) to get the information by keeping in your records a Form W-10 completed by the care provider. Or you may keep one of the other sources of information listed in the instructions for Form W-10. If the provider does not give you the information, complete the entries you can on line 1. For example, enter the provider's name and address. Enter "See Page 2" in the columns for which you do not have the information. Then, on the bottom of page 2, explain that the provider did not give you the information you requested.

Columns (a) and (b)

Enter the care provider's name and address. If you were covered by your employer's dependent care plan and your employer furnished the care (either at your workplace or by hiring a care provider), enter your employer's name in column (a). Next, enter "See W-2" in column (b). Then, leave columns (c) and (d) blank. But if your employer paid a third party (not hired by your employer) on your behalf to provide the care, you must give information on the third party in columns (a) through (d).

Column (c)

If the care provider is an individual, enter his or her social security number (SSN). Otherwise, enter the provider's employer identification number (EIN). If the provider is a tax-exempt organization, enter "Tax-Exempt" in column (c).

Column (d)

Enter the total amount you actually paid in 2005 to the care provider. Also, include amounts your employer paid to a third party on your behalf. It does not matter when the expenses were incurred. Do not reduce this amount by any reimbursement you received.

Line 2

Complete columns (a) through (c) for each qualifying person. If you have more than two qualifying persons, attach a statement to your return with the required information. Be sure to put your name and social security number (SSN) on the statement. Also, enter "See Attached" on the dotted line next to line 3.

Column (a)

Enter each qualifying person's name.

Column (b)

You must enter the qualifying person's SSN. Be sure the name and SSN entered agree with the person's social security card. Otherwise, at the time we process your return, we may reduce or disallow your credit. If the person was born and died in 2005 and did not have an SSN, enter "Died" in column (b) and attach a copy of the person's birth certificate.

To find out how to get an SSN, see Social Security Number (SSN) on page 16 of the Form 1040 instructions. If the name or SSN on the person's social security card is not correct, call the Social Security Administration at 1-800-772-1213.

Column (c)

Enter the qualified expenses you incurred and paid in 2005 for the person listed in column (a). Prepaid expenses are treated as paid in the year the care is provided. Do not include in column (c) qualified expenses:

- You incurred in 2005 but did not pay until 2006. You may be able to use these expenses to increase your 2006 credit.
- You incurred in 2004 but did not pay until 2005. Instead, see the instructions for line 9 on page 3.
- You prepaid in 2005 for care to be provided in 2006. These expenses can only be used to figure your 2006 credit.

If you paid qualified expenses for the care of two or more qualifying persons, the $6,000 limit does not need to be divided equally. For example, if you paid and incurred $2,500 of qualified expenses for the care of one qualifying person and $3,500 for the care of another qualifying person, you can use the total, $6,000, to figure the credit.

Line 4

Earned income for figuring the credit includes the following amounts. If filing a joint return, figure your and your spouse's earned income separately.

1. The amount shown on Form 1040, line 7, minus (a) any amount included for a scholarship or fellowship grant that was not reported to you on a Form W-2, (b) any amount also reported on Schedule SE (Form 1040) because you were a member of the clergy or you received $108.28 or more of church employee income, and (c) any amount received as a pension or annuity from a nonqualified deferred compensation plan or a nongovernmental section 457(b) plan. This amount may be shown in Form W-2, box 11, or in Form W-2, box 12, with code Z. If you received such an amount but it is not reported on Form W-2, contact your employer for the amount received as a pension or annuity.

2. The amount shown on Schedule SE, line 3, minus any deduction you claim on Form 1040, line 27. If you use either optional method to figure self-employment tax, subtract any deduction you claim on Form 1040, line 27, from the total of the amounts shown on Schedule SE, Section B, lines 3 and 4b. If you received church employee income of $108.28 or more, subtract any deduction you claim on Form 1040, line 27, from the total of the amounts shown on Schedule SE, Section B, lines 3, 4b, and 5a.

3. If you are filing Schedule C or C-EZ (Form 1040) as a statutory employee, the amount shown on line 1 of the schedule.

4. Certain nontaxable earned income such as meals and lodging provided for the convenience of your employer and nontaxable combat pay. See Pub. 503 for details.

You must reduce your earned income by any loss from self-employment.

Special Situations

If you are filing a joint return, disregard community property laws. If your spouse died in 2005, see Pub.

503. If your spouse was a student or disabled in 2005, see the instructions for line 5.

Line 5

Spouse Who Was a Student or Disabled

Your spouse was a student if he or she was enrolled as a full-time student at a school during any 5 months of 2005. A school does not include a night school or correspondence school. Your spouse was disabled if he or she was not capable of self-care. Figure your spouse's earned income on a monthly basis.

For each month or part of a month your spouse was a student or was disabled, he or she is considered to have worked and earned income. His or her earned income for each month is considered to be at least $250 ($500 if more than one qualifying person was cared for in 2005). If your spouse also worked during that month, use the higher of $250 (or $500) or his or her actual earned income for that month. If, in the same month, both you and your spouse were either students or disabled, only one of you can be treated as having earned income in that month.

For any month that your spouse was not a student or disabled, use your spouse's actual earned income if he or she worked during the month.

Line 9

Credit for Prior Year's Expenses

If you had qualified expenses for 2004 that you did not pay until 2005, you may be able to increase the amount of credit you can take in 2005. To figure the credit, see the worksheet under Amount of Credit in Pub. 503. If you can take a credit for your 2004 expenses, enter the amount of the credit and "CPYE" on the dotted line next to line 9. Also, enter the name and social security number of the person for whom you paid the prior year's expenses to the right of this amount. Then, add the credit to the amount on line 9 and replace the amount on line 9 with that total. Also, attach a statement showing how you figured the credit.

Line 13

If you had a flexible spending account, any amount included on line 12 that you did not receive because you did not incur the expense is considered forfeited. Enter the forfeited amount on line 13. Do not include amounts you expect to receive at a future date.

Example. Under your employer's dependent care plan, you chose to have your employer set aside $5,000 to cover your 2005 dependent care expenses. The $5,000 is shown in box 10 of your Form W-2. In 2005, you incurred and were reimbursed for $4,950 of qualified expenses. You would enter $5,000 on line 12 and $50, the amount forfeited, on line 13.

Line 15

Enter the total of all qualified expenses incurred in 2005 for the care of your qualifying person(s). It does not matter when the expenses were paid.

Example. You received $2,000 in cash under your employer's dependent care plan for 2005. The $2,000 is shown in box 10 of your Form W-2. Only $900 of qualified expenses were incurred in 2005 for the care of your 5-year-old dependent child. You would enter $2,000 on line 12 and $900 on line 15.

Line 17

Earned income for figuring the amount of dependent care benefits you are able to exclude or deduct from your income includes the following amounts. If filing a joint return, figure your and your spouse's earned income separately.

1. The amount shown on Form 1040, line 7, minus (a) any amount included for a scholarship or fellowship grant that was not reported to you on a Form W-2, (b) any amount also reported on Schedule SE (Form 1040) because you were a member of the clergy or you received $108.28 or more of church employee income, and (c) any amount received as a pension or annuity from a nonqualified deferred compensation plan or a nongovernmental section 457(b) plan. This amount may be shown in Form W-2, box 11, or in Form W-2, box 12, with code Z. If you received such an amount but it is not reported on Form W-2, contact your employer for the amount received as a pension or annuity.

2. The amount shown on Schedule SE, line 3, minus any deduction you claim on Form 1040, line 27. If you use either optional method to figure self-employment tax, subtract any deduction you claim on Form 1040, line 27, from the total of the amounts shown on Schedule SE, Section B, lines 3 and 4b. If you received church employee income of $108.28 or more, subtract any deduction you claim on Form 1040, line 27, from the total of the amounts shown on Schedule SE, Section B, lines 3, 4b, and 5a.

3. If you are filing Schedule C or C-EZ (Form 1040) as a statutory employee, the amount shown on line 1 of the schedule.

4. Nontaxable combat pay, if you elect to include it in earned income. However, including this income will only give you a larger exclusion or deduction if your (or your spouse's) other earned income is less than the amount entered on line 16. To make the election, include all of your nontaxable combat pay in the amount you enter on line 17 (line 18 for your spouse if filing jointly). If you are filing a joint return and both you and your spouse received nontaxable combat pay, you can each make your own election. The amount of your nontaxable combat pay should be shown in box 12 of Form(s) W-2 with code Q.

For purposes of line 17, earned income does not include any dependent care benefits shown on line 12.

You must reduce your earned income by any loss from self-employment.

Special Situations

If you are filing a joint return, disregard community property laws. If your spouse died in 2005, see Pub. 503. If your spouse was a student or disabled in 2005, see the instructions for line 5.

Line 18

If your filing status is married filing separately, see Married Persons Filing Separate Returns on page 2. Are you considered unmarried under that rule?

- ☐ Yes. Enter your earned income (from line 17) on line 18. On line 22, enter $5,000.
- ☐ No. Enter your spouse's earned income on line 18. If your spouse was a student or disabled in 2005, see the instructions for line 5. On line 22, enter $2,500.

Line 23

Include your deductible benefits in the total entered on Schedule C, line 14; Schedule E, line 18 or line 28; or Schedule F, line 17; whichever applies.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

What's New

The reforestation credit was repealed by the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 with respect to expenditures paid or incurred after October 22, 2004.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 3468 to claim the investment credit. The investment credit consists of the rehabilitation and energy credits. Also, use Form 3468 to claim a regular investment credit for transition property.

Investment Credit Property

Investment credit property is any depreciable or amortizable property that qualifies for the rehabilitation or energy credit. For details on the rehabilitation credit, see the instructions for lines 1a through 1e. For details on the energy credit, see the instructions for line 2.

You cannot claim a credit for property that is:

- Used mainly outside the United States (except for property described in section 168(g)(4));
- Used by a governmental unit or foreign person or entity (except for a qualified rehabilitated building leased to that unit, person, or entity; and property used under a lease with a term of less than 6 months);
- Used by a tax-exempt organization (other than a section 521 farmers' cooperative) unless the property is used mainly in an unrelated trade or business or is a qualified rehabilitated building leased by the organization;
- Used for lodging or in the furnishing of lodging (see section 50(b)(2) for exceptions); or
- That is energy property used in a facility that qualifies for a credit under section 45.

Election for Certain Leased Property

If you lease property to someone else, you may elect to treat all or part of your investment in new property as if it were made by the person who is leasing it from you. Lessors and lessees should see section 48(d) (as in effect on November 4, 1990) and related regulations for rules on making this election. For limitations, see sections 46(e)(3) and 48(d) (as in effect on November 4, 1990).

At-Risk Limit for Individuals and Closely Held Corporations

The cost or basis of property for investment credit purposes may be limited if you borrowed against the property and are protected against loss, or if you borrowed money from a person who is related or who has other than a creditor interest in the business activity. The cost or basis must be reduced by the amount of this "nonqualified nonrecourse" financing related to the property as of the close of the tax year in which the property is placed in service. If, at the close of a tax year following the year property was placed in service, the nonqualified nonrecourse financing for any property has increased or decreased, then the credit base for the property changes accordingly. The changes may result in an increased credit or a recapture of the credit in the year of the change. See sections 49 and 465 for details.

Recapture of Credit

You may have to refigure the investment credit and recapture all or a portion of it if:

- You dispose of investment credit property before the end of 5 full years after the property was placed in service (recapture period);
- You change the use of the property before the end of the recapture period so that it no longer qualifies as investment credit property;
- The business use of the property decreases before the end of the recapture period so that it no longer qualifies (in whole or in part) as investment credit property;
- Any building to which section 47(d) applies will no longer be a qualified rehabilitated building when placed in service;
- Any property to which section 48(a)(5) applies will no longer qualify as investment credit property when placed in service;
- Before the end of the recapture period, your proportionate interest is reduced by more than one-third in an S corporation, partnership (other than an electing large partnership), estate, or trust that allocated the cost or basis of property to you for which you claimed a credit;
- You return leased property (on which you claimed a credit) to the lessor before the end of the recapture period; or
- A net increase in the amount of nonqualified nonrecourse financing occurs for any property to which section 49(a)(1) applied.

Exceptions to recapture. Recapture of the investment credit does not apply to any of the following.

- A transfer due to the death of the taxpayer.
- A transfer between spouses or incident to divorce under section 1041. However, a later disposition by the transferee is subject to recapture to the same extent as if the transferor had disposed of the property at the later date.
- A transaction to which section 381(a) applies (relating to certain acquisitions of the assets of one corporation by another corporation).
- A mere change in the form of conducting a trade or business if:

1. The property is retained as investment credit property in that trade or business and

2. The taxpayer retains a substantial interest in that trade or business.

A mere change in the form of conducting a trade or business includes a corporation that elects to be an S corporation and a corporation whose S election is revoked or terminated.

See section 46(g)(4) (as in effect on November 4, 1990) if you made a withdrawal from a capital construction fund set up under the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 to pay the principal of any debt incurred in connection with a vessel on which you claimed investment credit.

For details, see Form 4255, Recapture of Investment Credit.

Specific Instructions

S Corporations, Partnerships (Other Than Electing Large Partnerships), Estates, and Trusts

To figure the cost or basis of property to pass through to the individual shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries, complete only the following.

- The information requested on lines 1b, 1c, and 1d (or the attached statement for line 4).
- The basis of energy property on line 2.
- The qualified investment for transitional regular investment credit property on the attached statement for line 4.

Attach the form (with applicable lines of Part I completed) to the S corporation, partnership, estate, or trust income tax return to show the total cost or basis (or unused credit from a cooperative) that is passed through.

Regulated Investment Companies and Real Estate Investment Trusts

For regulated investment companies and real estate investment trusts, the following amounts are limited to a percentage of the amounts otherwise determined.

- The qualified rehabilitation expenditures on lines 1b and 1c (or the attached statement for line 4).
- The basis of energy property on line 2.
- The qualified investment for transitional regular investment credit property on the attached statement for line 4.
- The $25,000 amount used to figure the tax limitation on line 11.

Part I—Current Year Credit

Lines 1a through 1e—Rehabilitation Credit

You are allowed a credit for qualified rehabilitation expenditures made for any qualified rehabilitated building. The credit is 10% of the expenditures for any qualified rehabilitated building other than a certified historic structure and 20% of the expenditures for a certified historic structure. You must reduce your depreciable basis by the amount of the credit.

If the adjusted basis of the building is determined in whole or in part by reference to the adjusted basis of a person other than the taxpayer, see Regulations section 1.48-12(b)(2)(viii) for additional information that must be attached.

To be a qualified rehabilitated building, your building must meet all four of the following requirements.

1. The building was originally placed in service before 1936 or it is a certified historic structure. A certified historic structure is any building (a) listed in the National Register of Historic Places or (b) located in a registered historic district (as defined in section 47(c)(3)(B)) and certified by the Secretary of the Interior as being of historic significance to the district. Certification requests are made through your State Historic Preservation Officer on National Park Service (NPS) Form 10-168a, Historic Preservation Certification Application.

2. The building must be substantially rehabilitated. A building is considered substantially rehabilitated if your qualified rehabilitation expenditures during a self-selected 24-month period that ends with or within your tax year are more than the greater of $5,000 or your adjusted basis in the building and its structural components. Figure adjusted basis on the first day of the 24-month period or the first day of your holding period, whichever is later. If you are rehabilitating the building in phases under a written architectural plan and specifications that were completed before the rehabilitation began, substitute "60-month period" for "24-month period."

3. The building must have been placed in service before the beginning of rehabilitation. This requirement is met if the building was placed in service by any person at any time before the rehabilitation began.

4. For a building other than a certified historic structure (a) at least 75% of the external walls must be retained with 50% or more kept in place as external walls and (b) at least 75% of the existing internal structural framework of the building must be retained in place.

To be qualified rehabilitation expenditures, your expenditures must meet all six of the following requirements.

1. The expenditures must be for (a) nonresidential rental property, (b) residential rental property (but only if a certified historic structure—see Regulations section 1.48-1(h)), or (c) real property that has a class life of more than 12 years.

2. The expenditures must be incurred in connection with the rehabilitation of a qualified rehabilitated building.

3. The expenditures must be capitalized and depreciated using the straight line method.

4. The expenditures cannot include the costs of acquiring or enlarging any building.

5. If the expenditures are in connection with the rehabilitation of a certified historic structure or a building in a registered historic district, the rehabilitation must be certified by the Secretary of the Interior as being consistent with the historic character of the property or district in which the property is located. This requirement does not apply to a building in a registered historic district if (a) the building is not a certified historic structure, (b) the Secretary of the Interior certifies that the building is not of historic significance to the district, and (c) if the certification in (b) occurs after the rehabilitation began, the taxpayer certifies in good faith that he or she was not aware of that certification requirement at the time the rehabilitation began.

6. The expenditures cannot include any costs allocable to the part of the property that is (or may reasonably expect to be) tax-exempt use property (as defined in section 168(h)).

For credit purposes, the expenditures are generally taken into account for the tax year in which the qualified rehabilitated building is placed in service. However, with certain exceptions, you may elect to take the expenditures into account for the tax year in which they were paid (or, for a self-rehabilitated building, when capitalized) if (a) the normal rehabilitation period for the building is at least 2 years and (b) it is reasonable to expect that the building will be a qualified rehabilitated building when placed in service. For details, see section 47(d). To make this election, check the box on line 1a.

If you are claiming a credit for a certified historic structure on line 1c, enter the assigned NPS project number on line 1c(1). If the qualified rehabilitation expenditures are from an S corporation, partnership, estate, or trust, enter on line 1c(1) the employer identification number of the pass-through entity instead of the assigned NPS project number, and skip lines 1c(2) and 1d and the instructions below.

Enter the date of the final certification of completed work received from the Secretary of the Interior on line 1c(2). If the final certification has not been received by the time the tax return is filed for a year in which the credit is claimed, attach a copy of the first page of NPS Form 10-168a, Historic Preservation Certification Application (Part 2—Description of Rehabilitation), with an indication that it was received by the Department of the Interior or the State Historic Preservation Officer, together with proof that the building is a certified historic structure (or that such status has been requested). After the final certification of completed work has been received, file Form 3468 with the first income tax return filed after receipt of the certification and enter the assigned NPS project number and the date of the final certification of completed work on the appropriate lines on the form. Also attach an explanation, and indicate the amount of credit claimed in prior years.

You must retain a copy of the final certification of completed work as long as its contents may be needed for the administration of any provision of the Internal Revenue Code.

If the final certification is denied by the Department of Interior, the credit is disallowed for any tax year in which it was claimed, and you must file an amended return if necessary. See Regulations section 1.48-12(d)(7)(ii) for details.

Line 2—Energy Credit

Enter the basis of energy property placed in service during the tax year. Energy property is:

1. Equipment that uses solar energy to generate electricity, to heat or cool (or provide hot water for use in) a structure, or to provide solar process heat or

2. Equipment used to produce, distribute, or use energy derived from a geothermal deposit (within the meaning of section 613(e)(2)). For electricity produced by geothermal power, equipment qualifies only up to, but not including, the electrical transmission stage.

To qualify, the property must be constructed, reconstructed, or erected by the taxpayer. If acquired by the taxpayer, the original use of such property must begin with the taxpayer. The property must meet the performance and quality standards, if any, that have been prescribed by regulations and are in effect at the time the property is acquired. Energy property does not include any property that is public utility property as defined by section 46(f)(5) (as in effect on November 4, 1990).

If energy property is financed in whole or in part by subsidized energy financing or by tax-exempt private activity bonds, the amount that you can claim as basis is the basis that would otherwise be allowed multiplied by a fraction that is 1 reduced by a second fraction, the numerator of which is that portion of the basis allocable to such financing or proceeds, and the denominator of which is the basis of the property. For example, if the basis of the property is \$100,000 and the portion allocable to such financing or proceeds is \$20,000, the fraction of the basis that you may claim the credit on is  $\frac{1}{5}$  (that is, 1 minus  $\frac{20,000}{100,000}$ ). Subsidized energy financing means financing provided under a federal, state, or local program, a principal purpose of which is to provide subsidized financing for projects designed to conserve or produce energy.

You must reduce the depreciable basis by 50% of the energy credit determined.

Line 3—Credit From Cooperatives

Section 1381(a) cooperative organizations may claim the investment credit. If the cooperative cannot use any of the credit because of the tax liability limit, the unused credit must be allocated to the patrons of the cooperative. The recapture provisions of section 50 apply as if the cooperative had kept the credit and not allocated it. Patrons should enter their unused investment credit from cooperatives.

Part II—Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- An investment credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

C corporations that are required to file Form 4626, Alternative Minimum Tax—Corporations, may also use Schedule A of Form 3800 to determine if they are entitled to an additional general business credit for any regular investment credit carryforward to 2005 for property placed in service before January 1, 1991, under section 38(c)(2) (as in effect on November 4, 1990).

Line 11

If a husband and wife file separate returns, each must use $12,500 instead of $25,000. But if one of them has no general business credits (and no carryforwards or carrybacks to the current year), then the other may use the entire $25,000.

A member of a controlled group must use only its apportioned share of the $25,000.

A regulated investment company or a real estate investment trust should see Regulated Investment Companies and Real Estate Investment Trusts on page 3.

For estates and trusts, the $25,000 amount is reduced by the same proportionate share of income that was allocated to the beneficiaries.

Line 12—Tentative Minimum Tax

Although you may not owe AMT, you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit.

For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule. Enter on line 12 the TMT from the line shown below.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 33.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 12.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 54.

Line 15—Current Year Credit

Instructions for Form 2555

Foreign Earned Income

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

General Instructions

Do not include on Form 1040, line 64 (federal income tax withheld), any taxes a foreign employer withheld from your pay and paid to the foreign country's tax authority instead of to the U.S. Treasury.

Purpose of Form

If you are a U.S. citizen or a U.S. resident alien living in a foreign country, you are subject to the same U.S. income tax laws that apply to citizens and resident aliens living in the United States. But if you qualify, use Form 2555 to exclude a limited amount of your foreign earned income. Also, use it to claim the housing exclusion or deduction. You cannot exclude or deduct more than your foreign earned income for the tax year.

You may be able to use Form 2555-EZ, Foreign Earned Income Exclusion, if none of your foreign earned income was from self-employment, your total foreign earned income did not exceed $80,000, you do not have any business or moving expenses, and you do not claim the housing exclusion or deduction. For more details, see Form 2555-EZ and its separate instructions.

Foreign country. A foreign country is any territory (including the air space, territorial waters, seabed, and subsoil) under the sovereignty of a government other than the United States. It does not include U.S. possessions or territories.

Note. Specific rules apply to determine if you are a resident or nonresident alien of the United States. See Pub. 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens, for details.

Who Qualifies

You qualify for the tax benefits available to taxpayers who have foreign earned income if both 1 and 2 apply.

1. You meet the tax home test (see below).

2. You meet either the bona fide residence test (see page 2) or the physical presence test (see page 2).

Note. If your only earned income from work abroad is pay you received from the U.S. Government as its employee, you do not qualify for either of the exclusions or the housing deduction. Do not file Form 2555.

Tax home test. To meet this test, your tax home must be in a foreign country, or countries, throughout your period of bona fide residence or physical presence, whichever applies. For this purpose, your period of physical presence is the 330 full days during which you were present in a foreign country, not the 12 consecutive months during which those days occurred.

Your tax home is your regular or principal place of business, employment, or post of duty, regardless of where you maintain your family residence. If you do not have a regular or principal place of business because of the nature of your trade or business, your tax home is your regular place of abode (the place where you regularly live).

You are not considered to have a tax home in a foreign country for any period during which your abode is in the United States. However, if you are temporarily present in the United States, or you maintain a dwelling in the United States (whether or not that dwelling is used by your spouse and dependents), it does not necessarily mean that your abode is in the United States during that time.

Example. You are employed on an offshore oil rig in the territorial waters of a foreign country and work a 28-day on/28-day off schedule. You return to your family residence in the United States during your off periods. You are considered to have an abode in the United States and do not meet the tax home test. You cannot claim either of the exclusions or the housing deduction.

Violation of Travel Restrictions

Generally, if you were in a foreign country in violation of U.S. travel restrictions, the following rules applied:

1. Any time spent in that country cannot be counted in determining if you qualify under the bona fide residence or physical presence test,

2. Any income earned in that country is not considered foreign earned income, and

3. Any housing expenses in that country (or housing expenses for your spouse or dependents in another country while you were in that country) are not considered qualified housing expenses.

See the list on this page for countries to which U.S. travel restrictions applied.

Additional Information

Pub. 54, Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad, has more information about the bona fide residence test, the physical presence test, the foreign earned income exclusion, and the housing exclusion and deduction. You can get this publication from most U.S. embassies and consulates or by writing to: National Distribution Center, P.O. Box 8903, Bloomington, IL 61702-8903. You can also download this publication (as well as other forms and publications) from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Waiver of Time Requirements

If your tax home was in a foreign country and you were a bona fide resident of, or physically present in, a foreign country and had to leave because of war, civil unrest, or similar adverse conditions, the minimum time requirements specified under the bona fide residence and physical presence tests may be waived. You must be able to show that you reasonably could have expected to meet the minimum time requirements if you had not been required to leave. Each year the IRS will publish in the Internal Revenue Bulletin a list of countries and the dates they qualify for the waiver. If you left one of the countries during the period indicated, you can claim the tax benefits on Form 2555, but only for the number of days you were a bona fide resident of, or physically present in, the foreign country.

If you can claim either of the exclusions or the housing deduction

List of Countries To Which Travel Restrictions Applied in 2004 and 2005

Country	Starting Date	Ending Date
Cuba	January 1, 1987	Still in effect
Iraq*	January 1, 1987	July 29, 2004
Libya*	August 2, 1990	September 20, 2004

*Individuals whose activities in Iraq and Libya are or were permitted by a specific or general license issued by the Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) were not in violation of U.S. law. Accordingly, the restrictions did not apply to such individuals with respect to the activities permitted by the license.

because of the waiver of time requirements, attach a statement to your return explaining that you expected to meet the applicable time requirement, but the conditions in the foreign country prevented you from the normal conduct of business. Also, enter "Claiming Waiver" in the top margin on page 1 of your 2005 Form 2555.

When To File

A 2005 calendar year Form 1040 is generally due April 17, 2006.

However, you are automatically granted a 2-month extension of time to file (to June 15, 2006, for a 2005 calendar year return) if, on the due date of your return, you live outside the United States and Puerto Rico and your tax home (defined on page 1) is outside the United States and Puerto Rico. If you take this extension, you must attach a statement to your return explaining that you meet these two conditions.

The automatic 2-month extension also applies to paying the tax. However, interest is charged on the unpaid tax from the regular due date (April 15, 2006, for a 2005 calendar year return) until it is paid.

Special extension of time. The first year you plan to take the foreign earned income exclusion and/or the housing exclusion or deduction, you may not expect to qualify until after the automatic 2-month extension period described earlier. If this occurs, you can apply for an extension to a date after you expect to qualify.

To apply for this extension, complete and file Form 2350, Application for Extension of Time To File U.S. Income Tax Return, with the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255, before the due date of your return. Interest is charged on the tax not paid by the regular due date as explained earlier.

Choosing the Exclusion(s)

To choose either of the exclusions, complete the appropriate parts of Form 2555 and file it with your Form 1040 or Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. Your initial choice to claim the exclusion must usually be made on a timely filed return (including extensions) or on a return amending a timely filed return. However, there are exceptions. See Pub. 54 for details.

Once you choose to claim an exclusion, that choice remains in effect for that year and all future years unless it is revoked. To revoke your choice, you must attach a statement to your return for the first year you do not wish to claim the exclusion(s). If you revoke your choice, you cannot claim the exclusion(s) for your next 5 tax years without the approval of the Internal Revenue Service. See Pub. 54 for more information.

Earned income credit. You cannot take the earned income credit if you claim either of the exclusions or the housing deduction.

Specific Instructions

Part II

Bona Fide Residence Test

To meet this test, you must be one of the following:

- A U.S. citizen who is a bona fide resident of a foreign country, or countries, for an uninterrupted period that includes an entire tax year (January 1–December 31, if you file a calendar year return), or
- A U.S. resident alien who is a citizen or national of a country with which the United States has an income tax treaty in effect and who is a bona fide resident of a foreign country, or countries, for an uninterrupted period that includes an entire tax year (January 1–December 31, if you file a calendar year return). See Pub. 901, U.S. Tax Treaties, for a list of countries with which the United States has an income tax treaty in effect.

No specific rule determines if you are a bona fide resident of a foreign country because the determination involves your intention about the length and nature of your stay. Evidence of your intention may be your words and acts. If these conflict, your acts carry more weight than your words. Generally, if you go to a foreign country for a definite, temporary purpose and return to the United States after you accomplish it, you are not a bona fide resident of the foreign country. If accomplishing the purpose requires an extended, indefinite stay, and you make your home in the foreign country, you may be a bona fide resident. See Pub. 54 for more information and examples.

Lines 13a and 13b. If you submitted a statement of nonresidence to the authorities of a foreign country in which you earned income and the authorities hold that you are not subject to their income tax laws by reason of nonresidency in the foreign country, you are not considered a bona fide resident of that country.

If you submitted such a statement and the authorities have not made an adverse determination of your nonresident status, you are not considered a bona fide resident of that country.

Part III

Physical Presence Test

To meet this test, you must be a U.S. citizen or resident alien who is physically present in a foreign country, or countries, for at least 330 full days during any period of 12 months in a row. A full day means the 24-hour period that starts at midnight.

To figure the minimum of 330 full days' presence, add all separate periods you were present in a foreign country during the 12-month period shown on line 16. The 330 full days can be interrupted by periods when you are traveling over international waters or are otherwise not in a foreign country. See Pub. 54 for more information and examples.

Note. A nonresident alien who, with a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien spouse, chooses to be taxed as a resident of the United States can qualify under this test if the time requirements are met. See Pub. 54 for details on how to make this choice.

Part IV

Enter in this part the total foreign earned income you earned and received (including income constructively received) during the tax year. If you are a cash basis taxpayer and, because of your employer's payroll periods, you received your last salary payment for 2004 in 2005, that income may be treated as earned in 2005. If you cannot treat that salary payment as income earned in 2005, the rules explained under Income earned in prior year on page 3 apply. See Pub. 54 for more details.

Income is earned in the tax year you perform the services for which you receive the pay. But if you are a cash basis taxpayer and, because of your employer's payroll periods, you received your last salary payment for 2004 in 2005, that income may be treated as earned in 2005. If you cannot treat that salary payment as income earned in 2005, the rules explained under Income earned in prior year on page 3 apply. See Pub. 54 for more details.

Foreign earned income for this purpose means wages, salaries, professional fees, and other compensation received for personal services you performed in a foreign country during the period for which you meet the tax home test and either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test. It also includes noncash income (such as a home or car) and allowances or reimbursements.

Foreign earned income does not include amounts that are actually a distribution of corporate earnings or profits rather than a reasonable allowance as compensation for your personal services. It also does not include the following types of income.

- Pension and annuity income (including social security and railroad retirement benefits treated as social security).
- Interest, ordinary dividends, capital gains, alimony, etc.
- Portion of 2004 moving expense deduction allocable to 2005 that is included in your 2005 gross income. For details, see Moving Expense Attributable to Foreign Earnings in 2 Years under Moving Expenses in Pub. 54.
- Amounts paid to you by the U.S. Government or any of its agencies if you were an employee of the U.S. Government or any of its agencies.
- Amounts received after the end of the tax year following the tax year in which you performed the services.
- Amounts you must include in gross income because of your employer's contributions to a nonexempt employees' trust or to a nonqualified annuity contract.

Income received in prior year. Foreign earned income received in 2004 for services you performed in 2005 can be excluded from your 2004 gross income if, and to the extent, the income would have been excludable if you had received it in 2005. To claim the additional exclusion, you must amend your 2004 tax return. To do this, file Form 1040X.

Income earned in prior year. Foreign earned income received in 2005 for services you performed in 2004 can be excluded from your 2005 gross income if, and to the extent, the income would have been excludable if you had received it in 2004.

If you are excluding income under this rule, do not include this income in Part IV. Instead, attach a statement to Form 2555 showing how you figured the exclusion. Enter the amount that would have been excludable in 2004 on Form 2555 to the left of line 43. Next to the amount enter "Exclusion of Income Earned in 2004." Include it in the total reported on line 43.

Note. If you claimed any deduction, credit, or exclusion on your 2004 return that is definitely related to the 2004 foreign earned income you are excluding under this rule, you may have to amend your 2004 income tax return to adjust the amount you claimed. To do this, file Form 1040X.

Line 20. If you engaged in an unincorporated trade or business in which both personal services and capital were material income-producing factors, a reasonable amount of compensation for your personal services will be considered earned income. The amount treated as earned income, however, cannot be more than 30% of your share of the net profits from the trade or business after subtracting the deduction for one-half of self-employment tax.

If capital is not an income-producing factor and personal services produced the business income, the 30% rule does not apply. Your entire gross income is earned income.

Line 25. Enter the value of meals and/or lodging provided by, or on behalf of, your employer that is excludable from your income under section 119. To be excludable, the meals and lodging must have been provided for your employer's convenience and on your employer's business premises. In addition, you must have been required to accept the lodging as a condition of your employment. If you lived in a camp provided by, or on behalf of, your employer, the camp may be considered part of your employer's business premises. See Exclusion of Meals and Lodging in Pub. 54 for details.

Part VI

Line 28. Enter the total reasonable expenses paid or incurred during the tax year by you, or on your behalf, for your foreign housing and the housing of your spouse and dependents if they lived with you. You can also include the reasonable expenses of a second foreign household (defined below). Housing expenses are considered reasonable to the extent they are not lavish or extravagant under the circumstances.

Housing expenses include rent, utilities (other than telephone charges), real and personal property insurance, nonrefundable fees paid to obtain a lease, rental of furniture and accessories, residential parking, and household repairs. You can also include the fair rental value of housing provided by, or on behalf of, your employer if you have not excluded it on line 25.

Do not include deductible interest and taxes, any amount deductible by a tenant-stockholder in connection with cooperative housing, the cost of buying or improving a house, principal payments on a mortgage, or depreciation on the house. Also, do not include the cost of domestic labor, pay television, or the cost of buying furniture or accessories.

Include expenses for housing only during periods for which:

- The value of your housing is not excluded from gross income under section 119 (unless you maintained a second foreign household as defined below), and
- You meet the tax home test and either the bona fide residence or physical presence test.

Second foreign household. If you maintained a separate foreign household for your spouse and dependents at a place other than your tax home because the living conditions at your tax home were dangerous, unhealthful, or otherwise adverse, you can include the expenses of the second household on line 28.

Married couples. The following rules apply if both you and your spouse qualify for the tax benefits of Form 2555:

If you and your spouse lived in the same foreign household and file a joint return, you can figure your housing amounts (line 31) either separately or jointly. If you file separate returns, you must figure your housing amounts separately. In figuring your housing amounts separately, you can allocate your qualified housing expenses (line 28) between yourselves in any proportion you wish, but each spouse claiming a housing amount must use his or her full base amount housing amount (line 30). In figuring your housing amount jointly, either spouse (but not both) can claim the housing exclusion or housing deduction. However, if you and your spouse have different periods of residence or presence and the one with the shorter period of residence or presence claims the exclusion or deduction, you can claim as housing expenses only the expenses for that shorter period. The spouse claiming the exclusion or deduction can aggregate the housing expenses of both spouses and subtract his or her base housing amount.

If you and your spouse lived in separate foreign households, you each can claim qualified expenses for your own household only if:

1. Your tax homes were not within a reasonable commuting distance of each other, and

2. Each spouse's household was not within a reasonable commuting distance of the other spouse's tax home.

Otherwise, only one spouse can claim his or her housing exclusion or deduction. This is true even if you and your spouse file separate returns.

See Pub. 54 for additional information.

Line 29. Enter the number of days in your qualifying period that fall within your 2005 tax year. Your qualifying period is the period during which you meet the tax home test and either the bona fide residence or the physical presence test.

Example. You establish a tax home and bona fide residence in a foreign country on August 14, 2005. You maintain the tax home and residence until January 31, 2007. You are a calendar year taxpayer. The number of days in your qualifying period that fall within your 2005 tax year is 140 (August 14 through December 31, 2005).

Nontaxable U.S. Government

allowances. If you or your spouse received a nontaxable housing allowance as a military or civilian employee of the U.S. Government, see Pub. 54 for information on how that allowance may affect your housing exclusion or deduction.

Line 32. Enter any amount your employer paid or incurred on your behalf that is foreign earned income included in your gross income for the tax year (without regard to section 911).

Examples of employer-provided amounts are:

- Wages and salaries received from your employer.
- The fair market value of compensation provided in kind (such as the fair rental value of lodging provided by your employer as long as it is not excluded on line 25).
- Rent paid by your employer directly to your landlord.
- Amounts paid by your employer to reimburse you for housing expenses, educational expenses of your dependents, or as part of a tax equalization plan.

Self-employed individuals. If all of your foreign earned income (Part IV) is self-employment income, skip lines 32 and 33 and enter -0- on line 34. If you qualify, be sure to complete Part IX.

Part VII

Married couples. If both you and your spouse qualify for, and choose to claim, the foreign earned income exclusion, the amount of the exclusion is figured separately for each of you. You each must complete Part VII of your separate Forms 2555.

Community income. The amount of the exclusion is not affected by the income-splitting provisions of community property laws. The sum of the amounts figured separately for each of you is the total amount excluded on a joint return.

Part VIII

If you claim either of the exclusions, you cannot claim any deduction (including moving expenses), credit, or exclusion that is definitely related to the excluded income. If only part of your foreign earned income is excluded, you must prorate such items based on the ratio that your excludable earned income bears to your total foreign earned income. See Pub. 54 for details on how to figure the amount allocable to the excluded income.

The exclusion under section 119 and the housing deduction are not considered definitely related to the excluded income.

Line 42. Report in full on Form 1040 and related forms and schedules all deductions allowed in figuring your adjusted gross income (Form 1040, line 37). Enter on line 42 the total amount of those deductions (such as the deduction for moving expenses, the deduction for one-half of self-employment tax, and the expenses claimed on Schedule C or C-EZ (Form 1040)) that are not allowed because they are allocable to the excluded income. This applies only to deductions definitely related to the excluded earned income. See Pub. 54 for details on how to report your itemized deductions (such as unreimbursed employee business expenses) that are allocable to the excluded income.

IRA deduction. The IRA deduction is not definitely related to the excluded income. However, special rules apply in figuring the amount of your IRA deduction. For details, see Pub. 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Foreign taxes. You cannot take a credit or deduction for foreign income taxes paid or accrued on income that is excluded under either of the exclusions.

If all of your foreign earned income is excluded, you cannot claim a credit or deduction for the foreign taxes paid or accrued on that income.

If only part of your income is excluded, you cannot claim a credit or deduction for the foreign taxes allocable to the excluded income. See Pub. 514, Foreign Tax Credit for Individuals, for details on how to figure the amount allocable to the excluded income.

Part IX

If line 31 is more than line 34 and line 27 is more than line 41, complete this part to figure your housing deduction. Also, complete this part to figure your housing deduction carryover from 2004.

One-year carryover. If the amount on line 44 is more than the amount on line 45, you may carry the difference over to your 2006 tax year. If you cannot deduct the excess in 2006 because of the 2006 limit, you may not carry it over to any future tax year.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

The average time and expenses required to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. For the estimated averages, see the instructions for your income tax return.

If you have suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. See the instructions for your income tax return.

Instructions for Form 2555-EZ

Foreign Earned Income Exclusion

General Instructions

Do not include on Form 1040, line 64 (federal income tax withheld), any taxes a foreign employer withheld from your pay and paid to the foreign country's tax authority instead of to the U.S. Treasury.

Purpose of Form

If you qualify, you can use Form 2555-EZ instead of Form 2555, Foreign Earned Income, to exclude a limited amount of your foreign earned income. You cannot exclude more than your foreign earned income for the year.

Remember, U.S. citizens and U.S. resident aliens living in a foreign country are subject to the same U.S. income tax laws that apply to citizens and resident aliens living in the United States.

Foreign country. A foreign country is any territory (including the air space, territorial waters, seabed, and subsoil) under the sovereignty of a government other than the United States. It does not include U.S. possessions or territories.

Note. Specific rules apply to determine if you are a resident or nonresident alien of the United States. See Pub. 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens, for details.

Who Qualifies

You can use Form 2555-EZ to claim the foreign earned income exclusion if all five of the following apply.

1. You meet the seven conditions listed at the top of Form 2555-EZ.
2. Your total foreign earned income received in 2005 is reported on Form 1040, line 7.
3. You do not have a housing deduction carryover from 2004.
4. You meet either the bona fide residence test (see the instructions for lines 1a and 1b on page 2) or the physical presence test (see the instructions for lines 2a and 2b on page 2).

5. You meet the tax home test (see the instructions for line 3 on page 2).

Note. If your only earned income from work abroad is pay you received from the U.S. Government as its employee, you do not qualify for the foreign earned income exclusion. Do not file Form 2555-EZ.

Married Couples

If both you and your spouse qualify for, and choose to claim, the foreign earned income exclusion, figure the amount of the exclusion separately for each of you. You must each complete separate Forms 2555-EZ.

Community income. The amount of the exclusion is not affected by the income-splitting provisions of community property laws. The sum of the amounts figured separately for each of you is the total amount excluded on a joint return.

Violation of Travel Restrictions

Generally, if you were in a foreign country in violation of U.S. travel restrictions, the following rules applied.

1. Any time spent in that country cannot be counted in determining if you qualify under the bona fide residence or physical presence test, and
2. Any income earned in that country is not considered foreign earned income. See the list below for countries to which U.S. travel restrictions applied.

Additional Information

Pub. 54, Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad, has more information about the bona fide residence test, the physical presence test, and the foreign earned income exclusion. You can get this publication from most U.S. embassies and consulates or by writing to: National Distribution Center, P.O. Box 8903, Bloomington, IL, 61702-8903. You can also download this publication (as well as other forms and publications) from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Waiver of Time Requirements

If your tax home was in a foreign country and you were a bona fide resident of, or physically present in, a foreign country and had to leave because of war, civil unrest, or similar adverse conditions, the minimum time requirements specified under the bona fide residence and physical presence tests may be waived. You must be able to show that you reasonably could have expected to meet the minimum time requirements if you had not been required to leave. Each year the IRS will publish in the Internal Revenue Bulletin a list of countries and the dates they qualify for the waiver. If you left one of the countries during the period indicated, you can claim the foreign earned income exclusion on Form 2555-EZ, but only for the number of days you were a bona fide resident of, or physically present in, the foreign country.

If you can claim the foreign earned income exclusion because of the waiver of time requirements, attach a statement to your return explaining that you expected to meet the applicable time requirement, but the conditions in the foreign country prevented you from the normal conduct of business. Also, enter "Claiming Waiver" in the top margin on page 1 of your 2005 Form 2555-EZ.

When To File

Form 1040 is generally due April 17, 2006.

However, you are automatically granted a 2-month extension of time to file (to June 15, 2006) if, on the due date of your return, you live outside the United States and Puerto Rico and your tax home (defined later) is outside the United States and Puerto Rico. If you take this extension, you must attach a statement to your return explaining that you meet these two conditions.

The automatic 2-month extension also applies to paying the tax. However,

List of Countries To Which Travel Restrictions Applied in 2004 and 2005

Country	Starting Date	Ending Date
Cuba	January 1, 1987	Still in effect
Iraq*	January 1, 1987	July 29, 2004
Libya*	August 2, 1990	September 20, 2004

*Individuals whose activities in Iraq and Libya are or were permitted by a specific or general license issued by the Department of the Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) were not in violation of U.S. law. Accordingly, the restrictions did not apply to such individuals with respect to the activities permitted by the license.

interest is charged on the unpaid tax from the regular due date until it is paid.

Special extension of time. The first year you plan to take the foreign earned income exclusion, you may not expect to qualify until after the automatic 2-month extension period described above. If this occurs, you can apply for an extension to a date after you expect to qualify.

To apply for this extension, complete and file Form 2350, Application for Extension of Time To File U.S. Income Tax Return, with the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255, before the due date of your return. Interest is charged on the tax not paid by the regular due date as explained earlier.

Choosing the Exclusion

To choose the foreign earned income exclusion, complete the appropriate parts of Form 2555-EZ and file it with your Form 1040 or Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return. Your initial choice to claim the exclusion must usually be made on a timely filed return (including extensions) or on a return amending a timely filed return. However, there are exceptions. See Pub. 54 for more information.

Once you choose to claim the exclusion, that choice remains in effect for that year and all future years unless it is revoked. To revoke your choice, you must attach a statement to your return for the first year you do not wish to claim the exclusion. If you revoke your choice, you cannot claim the exclusion for your next 5 tax years without the approval of the Internal Revenue Service. See Pub. 54 for details.

Earned income credit. You cannot take the earned income credit if you claim the exclusion.

Foreign tax credit or deduction. You cannot claim a credit or deduction for foreign income taxes paid on income you exclude. If all of your foreign earned income is excluded, you cannot claim a credit or deduction for the foreign taxes paid on that income. If only part of your income is excluded, you cannot claim a credit or deduction for the foreign taxes allocable to the excluded income. For details on how to figure the amount allocable to the excluded income, see Pub. 514, Foreign Tax Credit for Individuals.

IRA deduction. If you claim the exclusion, special rules apply in figuring the amount of your IRA deduction. For details, see Pub. 590, Individual Retirement Arrangements (IRAs).

Specific Instructions

Lines 1a and 1b

Bona Fide Residence Test

To meet this test, you must be one of the following:

- A U.S. citizen who is a bona fide resident of a foreign country, or countries, for an uninterrupted period that includes an entire tax year (January 1–December 31), or
- A U.S. resident alien who is a citizen or national of a country with which the United States has an income tax treaty in effect and who is a bona fide resident of a foreign country, or countries, for an uninterrupted period that includes an entire tax year (January 1–December 31). See Pub. 901, U.S. Tax Treaties, for a list of countries with which the United States has an income tax treaty in effect.

No specific rule determines if you are a bona fide resident of a foreign country because the determination involves your intention about the length and nature of your stay. Evidence of your intention may be your words and acts. If these conflict, your acts carry more weight than your words. Generally, if you go to a foreign country for a definite, temporary purpose and return to the United States after you accomplish it, you are not a bona fide resident of the foreign country. If accomplishing the purpose requires an extended, indefinite stay, and you make your home in the foreign country, you may be a bona fide resident. See Pub. 54 for more information and examples.

If you submitted a statement of nonresidence to the authorities of a foreign country in which you earned income and the authorities hold that you are not subject to their income tax laws by reason of nonresidency in the foreign country, you are not considered a bona fide resident of that country.

If you submitted such a statement and the authorities have not made an adverse determination of your nonresident status, you are not considered a bona fide resident of that country.

Line 1b. If you answered “Yes” on line 1a, enter the dates your bona fide residence began and ended. If you are still a bona fide resident, enter “Continues” in the space for the date your bona fide residence ended.

Lines 2a and 2b

Physical Presence Test

To meet this test, you must be a U.S. citizen or resident alien who is physically present in a foreign country, or countries, for at least 330 full days during any period of 12 months in a row. A full day means the 24-hour period that starts at midnight.

To figure the minimum of 330 full days’ presence, add all separate periods you were present in a foreign country during the 12-month period in which those days occurred. The 330 full days can be interrupted by periods when you are traveling over international waters or are otherwise not in a foreign country. See Pub. 54 for more information and examples.

Note. A nonresident alien who, with a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien spouse, chooses to be taxed as a resident of the United States can qualify under this test if the time requirements are met. See Pub. 54 for details on how to make this choice.

Tax Home Test

To meet this test, your tax home must be in a foreign country, or countries, throughout your period of bona fide residence or physical presence, whichever applies. For this purpose, your period of physical presence is the 330 full days during which you were present in a foreign country, not the 12 consecutive months during which those days occurred.

Your tax home is your regular or principal place of business, employment, or post of duty, regardless of where you maintain your family residence. If you do not have a regular or principal place of business because of the nature of your trade or business, your tax home is your regular place of abode (the place where you regularly live).

You are not considered to have a tax home in a foreign country for any period during which your abode is in the United States. However, if you are temporarily present in the United States, or you maintain a dwelling in the United States (whether or not that dwelling is used by your spouse and dependents), it does not necessarily mean that your abode is in the United States during that time.

Example. You are employed on an offshore oil rig in the territorial waters of a foreign country and work a 28-day on/28-day off schedule. You return to your family residence in the United States during your off periods. You are considered to have an abode in the United States and do not meet the tax home test. You cannot claim the foreign earned income exclusion.

Line 12

Complete columns (a) through (d) if you were present in the United States or any of its possessions in 2005. Do not include time spent in the United States or its possessions before your period of bona fide residence or physical presence, whichever applies, began or after it ended.

Column (d). Enter, in U.S. dollars, the amount of income earned in the United States on business (such as meetings or conventions). Attach a statement showing how you determined the amount. Do not include this income on line 17. Even if you live and work in a foreign country, any income earned during the time spent in the United States on business is considered U.S. source income and cannot be excluded.

Line 14

Enter the number of days in your qualifying period that fall within 2005. Your qualifying period is the period during which you meet the tax home test and either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test.

Example. You establish a tax home and bona fide residence in a foreign country on August 14, 2005. You maintain the tax home and residence until January 31, 2007. The number of days in your qualifying period that fall within 2005 is 140 (August 14 through December 31, 2005).

Line 17

Enter the total foreign earned income you earned and received in 2005. Report the amount in U.S. dollars using the exchange rates in effect when you actually received the income. Be sure to report on Form 1040 all income you received in 2005 regardless of when you earned it.

Income is earned in the year you performed the services for which you received the pay. But if you received your last wage or salary payment for 2004 in 2005 because of your employer's payroll period, that income may be treated as earned in 2005. If you cannot treat that wage or salary payment as earned in 2005, the rules explained on this page under Income earned in prior year apply. See Pub. 54 for more details.

Foreign earned income. For purposes of this form, foreign earned income means only the following types of income received for personal services you performed in a foreign country during the period for which you meet the tax home test and either the bona fide residence test or the physical presence test.

- Wages, salaries, tips, and bonuses.
- Noncash income (such as a home or car) if reported as income on Form 1040, line 7.
- Allowances or reimbursements if reported as income on Form 1040, line 7.

Foreign earned income does not include—

- Amounts from line 12, column (d),
- Amounts paid to you by the U.S. Government or any of its agencies if you were an employee of the U.S. Government or any of its agencies,
- Amounts that are actually a distribution of corporate earnings or profits rather than a reasonable allowance as compensation for your personal services, or
- Amounts received after the end of the tax year following the tax year in which you performed the services.

Income earned in prior year. Foreign earned income received in 2005 for services you performed in 2004 can be excluded from your 2005 gross income if, and to the extent, the income would have been excludable if you had received it in 2004.

If you are excluding income under this rule, do not include this income on line 17. Instead, attach a statement to Form 2555-EZ showing how you figured the exclusion. Enter the amount that would have been excludable in 2004 on Form 2555-EZ to the left of line 18. Next to the amount enter "Exclusion of Income Earned in 2004." Include it in the total reported on line 18.

Note. If you claimed any deduction, credit, or exclusion on your 2004 return that is definitely related to the 2004 foreign earned income you are excluding under this rule, you may have to amend your 2004 income tax return to adjust the amount claimed. To do this, file Form 1040X.

General Instructions

What's New

The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 (AJCA) created the following general business credits that are effective for tax years beginning after December 31, 2004.

1. The qualified railroad track maintenance credit (section 45G). See new Form 8900 for information on how to claim the credit.

2. The qualified marginal well oil and gas production credit (section 45I).

Note. This credit is not available for tax years beginning in 2005.

Who Must File

You must file Form 3800 if any of the following apply.

1. You have more than one of the credits listed on lines 1a through 1u.

2. Any of those credits (other than the low-income housing credit) is from a passive activity, or you have a carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

3. You are claiming the trans-Alaska pipeline liability fund credit or general credits from an electing large partnership.

If you are not required to file Form 3800, file only the applicable credit form listed on lines 1a through 1u.

The general business credit includes the following:

1. The credits listed on lines 1a through 1u,
2. The empowerment zone and renewal community employment credit (Form 8844),
3. The alcohol fuel credit (Form 6478), and
4. The portion of the renewable electricity and refined coal production credit figured in Section B of Form 8835.

The credits associated with items 2-4 have special tax liability limits and are not reported on Form 3800. Any carryback, carryforward, and passive activity limitation of these credits is computed separately on the forms on which they are claimed, and not on Form 3800.

Carryback and Carryforward of Unused Credit

If you cannot use part or all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 19 is less than line 8), carry the unused credit back one tax year. To carry back an unused credit, file an amended return (Form 1040X, 1120X, or other amended return) for the prior tax year or an application for tentative refund (Form 1045, Application for Tentative Refund, or Form 1139, Corporation Application for Tentative Refund). Generally, if you file an application for a tentative refund, it must be filed by the end of the tax year following the tax year in which the credit arose.

If you have an unused credit after carrying it back, carry it forward to each of the 20 tax years after the year of the credit. Any qualified business credits (as defined in section 196(c)) that are unused after the last tax year of the 20-year carryforward period (or at the time an individual taxpayer dies or other taxpayer, such as a corporation or partnership, ceases to exist) may be taken as a deduction in the earlier of:

- The tax year following the last tax year of the 20-year carryforward period or
- The tax year in which the individual taxpayer dies or other taxpayer ceases to exist.

For purposes of this special deduction, only half of the following credits may be taken into account: (a) unused investment credit (other than a credit to which section 48(q)(3) applies as in effect prior to repeal by the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1990) and (b) unused credit for increasing research activities.

Change in Filing or Marital Status

Your general business credit is limited to your tax liability. Therefore, if you filed a joint return in a carryback or carryforward year and your marital status or filing status has changed, you may need to figure your separate tax liability in that carryback or carryforward year. This would apply if:

- You filed as single in the credit year, but filed a joint return in the carryback or carryforward year;
- You filed a joint return in the credit year, but filed a joint return with a different spouse in the carryback or carryforward year; or
- You were married and filed a separate return in the credit year, but filed a joint return with the same or a different spouse in the carryback or carryforward year.

Determine your separate tax liability in the carryback or carryforward year as follows.

1. Figure your tax for the carryback or carryforward year as though you were married filing a separate return.
2. Figure your spouse's tax in that year as though he or she was married filing a separate return.
3. Add the amounts in steps 1 and 2.
4. Divide the amount in step 1 by the amount in step 3. The result should be rounded to at least three decimal places.
5. Multiply the decimal in step 4 by the total tax shown on your joint return for the carryback or carryforward year. The result is your separate tax liability and a carryback or carryforward credit is applied against this amount only.

Although your carryback or carryforward of the credit is limited to your separate tax liability, the amount of your refund resulting from the carryback or carryforward is further limited to your share of the joint overpayment. This is found by subtracting your separate tax liability (as determined above) from your contribution toward the payment.

Unless you have an agreement or clear evidence of each spouse's contribution toward the payment of the joint liability, your contribution includes the tax withheld on your wages and your share of the joint estimated tax or tax paid with the return. Your share of these payments is found by using the same formula used in determining your separate tax liability. Substitute the joint estimated tax, or tax paid with the return, for the tax in step 5. If the original return for the carryback year resulted in an overpayment, reduce your contribution by your share of the refund.

Attach a copy of the computation to your amended return or application for tentative refund.

Credit Ordering Rule

General business credits reported on Form 3800 are treated as used on a first-in, first-out basis by offsetting the earliest-earned credits first. Therefore, the order in which the credits are used in any tax year is:

- Carryforwards to that year, the earliest ones first,
- The general business credit earned in that year, and
- The carryback to that year.

When relevant, the components of the general business credit reported on Form 3800 arising in a single tax year are used in the following order.

- Regular investment credit.
- Rehabilitation investment credit.
- Energy investment credit.
- Work opportunity credit (including any jobs credit carryforward).
- Welfare-to-work credit.
- Credit for increasing research activities.
- Low-income housing credit.
- Enhanced oil recovery credit.
- Disabled access credit.
- Renewable electricity production credit.
- Indian employment credit.

Specific Instructions

Part I—Current Year Credit

Lines 1a–1s

Complete only Part I of the appropriate credit forms to figure your current year credits. Enter the current year credit on the applicable entry spaces and attach the credit forms to your return.

Line 1t

Attach a statement showing how you figured the section 4612(e) credit.

Line 1u

Enter the total of the amounts shown in box 7 of the Schedules K-1 (Form 1065-B) you received from electing large partnerships.

Line 3

Enter the credits included on line 2 that are from passive activities. Generally, a passive activity is a trade or business in which you did not materially participate. Generally, rental activities are passive activities, whether or not you materially participate. See Form 8582-CR, Passive Activity Credit Limitations, or Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations, for details.

Line 5

Enter the passive activity credit allowed from Form 8582-CR or Form 8810. See the instructions for the applicable form for details.

Line 6

Add all carryforwards to 2005 of unused credits that are reported on Form 3800.

For each credit, attach a detailed computation showing (a) the tax year the credit originated, the amount of the credit, and the amount allowed for that year; (b) for each carryback year, the year and the amount of the credit allowed after you applied the carryback; and (c) for each carryforward year, the year and the amount of the credit allowed after you applied the carryforward.

You must reduce by 35% the portion of the business credit carryforward attributable to sections 46(a)(1) regular investment credit and 46(b)(2)(C) and (D) business energy investment credit (as in effect prior to the repeal of these three sections by the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1990). Include the reduced credit on line 6. Do not reduce any portion of the credit attributable to qualified timber property. If you cannot use all of the reduced credit because line 18 is less than line 8, carry forward to your next tax year in the carryforward period the unused portion of the credit and a corresponding portion of the 35% reduction. For example, if you are able to use only half of the credit in 2005, carry forward the other half of the credit and half of the 35% reduction.

Line 7

Use line 7 only when you amend your 2005 return to carry back unused credits from 2006.

Line 8

If this line is zero, skip Part II.

Part II—Allowable Credit

Line 9

Enter the regular tax before credits from the appropriate form or schedule.

- Individuals: Form 1040, line 44.
- Corporations: Form 1120, Schedule J, line 3; Form 1120-A, Part I, line 1; or the applicable line of your tax return.
- Estates and trusts: The sum of the amounts from Form 1041, Schedule G, lines 1a and 1b, or the amount from the applicable line of your tax return.

Corporations filing Form 8895, Section 965(f) Election for Corporations That Are U.S. Shareholders of a Controlled Foreign Corporation, must reduce the amount otherwise reported as regular tax before credits on line 9 (or on the comparable line of any other general business credit form) by the tax attributable to nondeductible controlled foreign corporation (CFC) dividends.

Line 10

Enter the alternative minimum tax (AMT) from the following line of the appropriate form or schedule.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 35.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 14.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 56.

Line 15

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 16

Although you may not owe AMT, you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the appropriate AMT form or schedule and enter on line 16 the TMT from the following line of that form or schedule.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 33.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 12.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 54.

Line 19

If line 19 is smaller than line 8, see Carryback and Carryforward of Unused Credit.

Individuals, estates, and trusts. The amount of the research credit that may be included on line 19 is limited to the amount of tax attributable to your taxable income from the sole proprietorship or your interest in the partnership, S corporation, estate, or trust (pass-through entity) generating the credit. Figure the research credit limitation separately for each business enterprise by using the following formula:

$$(\text{Line 13} - \text{line 15}) \times \frac{\text{Taxable income attributable to the sole proprietorship or your interest in the pass-through entity}}{\text{Your taxable income for the year}}$$

The result figured above is limited to the excess of line 13 over line 15. If in the current tax year you had no taxable income attributable to a particular business interest, you cannot claim any research credit this year related to that business.

If your research credit is limited by the above formula, refigure the amount to enter on line 19 using only the total of the amount calculated above for the research credit plus the general business credit from other sources. If necessary, follow the Credit Ordering Rule on page 3, and take into account any passive activity credit limitations. Write "Sec. 41(g)" on the dotted line next to your entry on line 19.

Corporations. If the corporation has undergone a post-1986 "ownership change" (as defined in section 382(g)), section 383 may limit the amount of tax that may be offset by pre-change general business credits. Also, if a corporation acquires control of another corporation (or acquires its assets in a reorganization), section 384 may limit the amount of tax attributable to recognized built-in gains that may be offset by pre-acquisition general business credits. If either of these limitations apply, attach a computation of the allowable general business credit, enter the amount on line 19, and write "Sec. 383" or "Sec. 384" in the margin next to your entry on line 19.

Major Changes, 2005 Form 4136, 2nd RIS memo

Changes are based on the Safe, Accountable, Flexible, & Efficient Transportation Equity Act of 2005, unless otherwise noted.

1. Line 3. Nontaxable Use of Undyed Diesel Fuel. New line 3e has been added for taxpayers to make claims for diesel fuel used on a farm for farming purposes; effective for claims after September 30, 2005. The caution above line 3a has been revised to reflect this.

2. Line 4. Nontaxable Use of Undyed Kerosene (Other Than Aviation-Grade Kerosene). New line 4c has been added for taxpayers to make claims for kerosene used on the farm for farming purposes; effective for claims after September 30, 2005. The caution above line 4a has been revised to reflect this.

3. Line 5. Nontaxable Use of Aviation-Grade Kerosene. The checkbox for the dyed kerosene exception has been added. The dual rates on lines 4b and 4c have been deleted. All claims for kerosene for use in aviation after September 30, 2005, will be made on new line 14.

4. Line 6. Sales by Registered Ultimate Vendors of Undyed Diesel Fuel. A caution has been added above line 6a on the elimination of ultimate vendor claims for diesel fuel used on a farm for farming purposes, effective after Sept. 30, 2005.

5. Line 7. Sales by Registered Ultimate Vendors of Undyed Kerosene. A caution has been added above line 7a on the elimination of ultimate vendor claims for kerosene used on a farm for farming purposes, effective after Sept. 30, 2005.

6. Lines 8. Sales by Registered Ultimate Vendors of Aviation-Grade Kerosene. The dual rates on lines 8b, 8c, and 8d have been deleted. All ultimate vendor claims for kerosene for use in aviation after Sept. 30, 2005, will be made on new line 14.

7. Line 13. Biodiesel Mixture Credit. The certificate from the producer of the biodiesel must be attached to Form 4136 in certain situations. The instructions will explain this.

8. New Line 14. Kerosene For Use in Aviation, After Sept. 30, 2005.

The taxation of kerosene for use in aviation is completely revised, effective after September 30, 2005. Lines 5 and 8 are not applicable after this date. There is not enough space to properly include the lines required for claiming the credit for kerosene for use in aviation from Oct. 1 – Dec. 31. Lines 14a and 14b will be used to report the totals from worksheets in the instructions.

9. The Total line is now 15. The Form 1120 and 1120A references have changed.

10. Cautions. The first and second cautions have been completely revised. The third caution has been updated to rate change date after September 30, 2005.

11. LUST tax. The Leaking Underground Storage Tax (LUST) has been extended through Sept. 30, 2011. However, the Energy Policy Act of 2005 changed how the credits and refunds of the LUST tax are made. Generally, we will no longer refund the LUST tax, unless the fuel is exported. This change is effective after September 30, 2005. The two rates that were shown on the previous Form 4136 will apply, the lower rate effective after September 30, 2005. Taxpayers who want to claim the higher rate for exported fuel after 9/30/05 will have to provide an explanation and attach it to Form 4136.

General Instructions

What's New. For 2005, the maximum amount of wages and tips subject to social security tax is $90,000.

Purpose of form. Use Form 4137 to figure the social security and Medicare tax owed on tips you did not report to your employer, including any allocated tips shown on your Form(s) W-2 that you must report as income. Also, use Form 4137 to figure the social security and Medicare tips to be credited to your social security record.

Who must file. You must file Form 4137 if you received cash and charge tips of $20 or more in a calendar month and did not report all of those tips to your employer. You must also file Form 4137 if box 8 of your Form(s) W-2 shows allocated tips that you must report as income.

Allocated tips you must report as income. You must report as income on Form 1040, line 7, at least the amount of allocated tips shown in box 8 of your Form(s) W-2 unless you can prove a smaller amount with adequate records. If you have records that show the actual amount of tips you received, report that amount even if it is more or less than the allocated tips. Although allocated tips are shown on your Form W-2, they are not included in the wages, tips, and other compensation box (box 1) on that form and no income tax, social security tax, or Medicare tax has been withheld from these tips.

Tips you must report to your employer. You must give your employer a written report of cash and charge tips if you received $20 or more in tips during a month. If, in any month, you worked for two or more employers and received tips while working for each, the $20 rule applies separately to the tips you received while working for each employer and not to the total you received. You must report your tips to your employers by the 10th day of the month following the month you received them. If the 10th day of the month falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, give your employer the report by the next business day.

Employees subject to the Railroad Retirement Tax Act. Do not use Form 4137 to report tips received for work covered by the Railroad Retirement Tax Act. In order to get railroad retirement credit, you must report these tips to your employer.

Payment of tax. Tips you reported to your employer are subject to social security and Medicare tax (or railroad retirement tax) and income tax withholding. Your employer collects these taxes from wages (excluding tips) or other funds of yours available to cover them. If your wages were not enough to cover these taxes, you may have given your employer the additional amounts needed. Your Form W-2 will include the tips you reported to your employer and the taxes withheld. If there was not enough money to cover the social security and Medicare tax (or railroad retirement tax), your Form W-2 will also show the tax due in box 12 under codes A and B. See the instructions for line 63 of Form 1040 to find out how to report the tax due.

Penalty for not reporting tips. If you did not report tips to your employer as required, you may be charged a penalty equal to 50% of the social security and Medicare tax due on those tips. You can avoid this penalty if you can show reasonable cause for not reporting these tips to your employer. To do so, attach a statement to your return explaining why you did not report them.

Additional information. See Pub. 531, Reporting Tip Income.

Specific Instructions

Line 1. Include all cash and charge tips received. This includes the following:

- Total tips that you reported to your employer. Tips you reported, as required, by the 10th day of the month following the month you received them are considered income in the month you reported them. For example, tips you received in December 2004 that you reported to your employer after December 31, 2004, and before January 11, 2005, are considered income in 2005 and should be included on your 2005 Form W-2 and reported on line 1 of Form 4137. However, tips you received in December 2005 that you reported to your employer after December 31, 2005, and before January 11, 2006, are considered income in 2006. Do not include these tips on line 1.
- Tips you did not report to your employer on time or did not report at all. These tips are considered income to you in the month you actually received them. For example, tips you received in December 2005 that you reported to your employer after January 10, 2006, are considered income in 2005 because you did not report them to your employer on time.
- Tips you received that you were not required to report to your employer because they totaled less than $20 during the month.
- Allocated tips that you must report as income.

Line 4. Enter only the tips you were not required to report to your employer because the total received was less than $20 in a calendar month. These tips are not subject to social security and Medicare tax.

Line 9. If line 5 includes tips you received for work you did as a federal, state, or local government employee and your pay was subject only to the 1.45% Medicare tax, subtract the amount of those tips from the line 5 amount only for the purpose of comparing lines 5 and 8. Do not reduce the actual entry on line 5. Enter "1.45% tips" and the amount you subtracted on the dotted line next to line 9.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 4255 to figure the increase in tax for the recapture of investment credit claimed.

Who Must Refigure the Investment Credit

Generally, you must refigure the investment credit and may have to recapture all or part of it if any of the following apply.

- You disposed of investment credit property before the end of 5 full years after the property was placed in service (recapture period).

- You changed the use of the property before the end of the recapture period so that it no longer qualifies as investment credit property.
- The business use of the property decreased before the end of the recapture period so that it no longer qualifies (in whole or in part) as investment credit property.
- Any building to which section 47(d) applies will no longer be a qualified rehabilitated building when placed in service.
- Any property to which section 48(a)(5) applies will no longer qualify as investment credit property when placed in service.
- Before the end of the recapture period, your proportionate interest was reduced by more than one-third in a partnership, S corporation, estate, or trust that allocated the cost or other basis of property to you for which you claimed a credit.

- You returned leased property (on which you claimed a credit) to the lessor before the end of the recapture period.
- A net increase in the amount of nonqualified nonrecourse financing occurred for any property to which section 49(a)(1) applied. For more details, see the instructions for line 10.

Exceptions to recapture. Recapture of the investment credit does not apply to the following.

- A transfer because of the death of the taxpayer.
- A transfer between spouses or incident to divorce under section 1041. However, a later disposition by the transferee is subject to recapture to the same extent as if the transferor had disposed of the property at the later date.

- A transfer of an interest in an electing large partnership.
- A transaction to which section 381(a) applies (relating to certain acquisitions of the assets of one corporation by another corporation).
- A mere change in the form of conducting a trade or business if:

1. The property is retained as investment credit property in that trade or business and

2. The taxpayer retains a substantial interest in that trade or business.

A mere change in the form of conducting a trade or business includes a corporation that elects to be an S corporation and a corporation whose S election is revoked or terminated.

For more details on the recapture rules, see section 50(a).

Caution: See section 46(g)(4) (as in effect on November 4, 1990) to figure the recapture tax if you made a withdrawal from a capital construction fund set up under the Merchant Marine Act of 1936 to pay the principal of any debt incurred in connection with a vessel on which you claimed investment credit.

Basis Adjustment on Recapture

For property subject to investment credit recapture, increase the property's basis as follows.

- For qualified rehabilitation expenditures, increase the basis by 100% of the recapture tax (or adjustment to carrybacks and carryovers).
- For energy property or qualified timber property, increase the basis by 50% of the recapture tax (or adjustment to carrybacks and carryovers).

If you are a partner or S corporation shareholder, the adjusted basis of your interest in the partnership or stock in the S corporation is adjusted to take into account the adjustment made to the basis of property held by the partnership or S corporation.

Specific Instructions

Note: Do not figure the recapture tax on lines 1 through 9 if there is an increase in nonqualified nonrecourse financing related to certain at-risk property. Figure the recapture tax for these properties on separate schedules and enter the recapture tax on line 10. Include any unused credit for these properties on line 12.

Partnerships, S corporations, estates, and trusts. For a partnership (other than an electing large partnership), S corporation, estate, or trust that allocated any or all of the investment credit to its partners, shareholders, or beneficiaries, provide the information they need to refigure the credit. See Regulations sections 1.47-4, 1.47-5, and 1.47-6. For an electing large partnership, the recapture tax is paid by the partnership.

Partners, shareholders, and beneficiaries. If your Schedule K-1 shows recapture of investment credit claimed in an earlier year, you will need your copy of the original Form 3468 to complete lines 1 through 6 of this Form 4255.

Lines A through D. Describe the property for which you must refigure the credit.

Complete lines 1 through 8 for each property on which you are refiguring the credit. Use a separate column for each item. If you need more columns, use additional Forms 4255 or other schedules that include all the information shown on Form 4255. Enter the total from all the separate sheets on line 9.

Line 1. Enter the rate you used to figure the original credit from the Form 3468 that you filed.

Line 2. Enter the cost or other basis that you used to figure the original credit.

Line 4. Enter the month, day, and year that the property was available for service.

Line 5. Generally, this will be the date you disposed of the property. For more details, see Regulations section 1.47-1(c).

Line 6. Do not enter partial years. If the property was held less than 12 months, enter zero.

Line 7. Enter the recapture percentage from the following table.

IF the number of full years on line 6 of Form 4255 is . . .	THEN the recapture percentage is . . .
0	100
2	60
3	40

Line 9. If you have used more than one Form 4255, or separate sheets to list additional items on which you figured an increase in tax, write to the left of the entry space "Tax from attached" and the total tax from the separate sheets. Include the amount in the total for line 9.

Line 10. For certain taxpayers, the basis or cost of property is limited to the amount the taxpayer is at risk for the property at year end. The basis or cost must be reduced by the amount of any "nonqualified nonrecourse financing" related to the property at year end. If there is an increase in nonqualified nonrecourse financing, recapture may be required. See section 49(b) for details. Attach a separate schedule to figure the recapture tax and enter the total tax on line 10.

Line 12. If you did not use all the credit you originally figured, either in the year you figured it or in a carryback or carryforward year, you do not have to recapture the amount of the credit you did not use. In refiguring the credit for the original credit year, be sure to include any carryforwards from previous years, plus any carrybacks arising within the 3 (or 1) tax years after the original credit year that are now allowed because the recapture and recomputation of the original credit made available some additional tax liability in that year. See Regulations section 1.47-1(d) and Rev. Rul. 72-221, 1972-1 C.B. 15, for details.

Special rule for electing large partnerships. Enter zero on line 12. An electing large partnership is treated as having used all prior year credits.

Figure the unused portion on a separate sheet and enter it on this line. Do not enter more than the recapture tax on line 11.

Note: Be sure to adjust your current unused credit to reflect any unused portion of the original credit that was entered on line 12 of this form.

Line 13. Special rule for electing large partnerships. Subtract the current year credit, if any, shown on Form 3468, line 4, from the amount on line 11. Enter the result (but not less than zero) on line 13 and on the tax line of Form 1065-B.

For Internal Revenue Service Use

- ☐ Approved for exemption from self-employment tax on ministerial earnings ☐ Disapproved for exemption from self-employment tax on ministerial earnings

By ..... (Director's signature) ..... (Date)

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of form. File Form 4361 to apply for an exemption from self-employment tax if you are:

- An ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church;
- A member of a religious order who has not taken a vow of poverty;
- A Christian Science practitioner; or

• A commissioned or licensed minister of a church or church denomination that ordains ministers, if you have authority to perform substantially all religious duties of your church or denomination.

This application must be based on your religious or conscientious opposition to the acceptance (for services performed as a minister, member of a religious order not under a vow of poverty, or Christian Science practitioner) of any public insurance that makes payments for death, disability, old age, or retirement; or that makes payments for the cost of, or provides services for, medical care, including any insurance benefits established by the Social Security Act.

If you are a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church or a member of a religious order not under a vow of poverty, prior to filing this form you must inform the ordaining, commissioning, or licensing body of your church or order that you are opposed to the acceptance of public insurance benefits based on ministerial service on religious or conscientious grounds.

Do not file Form 4361 if:

- You ever filed Form 2031, Revocation of Exemption From Self-Employment Tax for Use by Ministers, Members of Religious Orders, and Christian Science Practitioners; or
- You belong to a religious order and took a vow of poverty. You are automatically exempt from self-employment tax on earnings for services you perform for your church or its agencies. No tax exemption applies to earnings for services you perform for any other organization.

Additional information. See Pub. 517, Social Security and Other Information for Members of the Clergy and Religious Workers.

When to file. File Form 4361 by the due date, including extensions, of your tax return for the 2nd tax year in which you had at least $400 of net earnings from self-employment, any of which came from services performed as a minister, member of a religious order, or Christian Science practitioner.

Effective date of exemption. An exemption from self-employment tax is effective for all tax years ending after 1967 in which you have net self-employment earnings of $400 or more, if you receive any of it from ministerial services. For example, if you had qualified net earnings of $400 or more in 2003 and not again until 2005, a valid Form 4361 filed by April 15, 2006, would apply to 2003 and all later years. See Pub. 517 to find out if you are entitled to a refund of self-employment tax paid in earlier years.

Where to file. Mail the original and two copies of this form to: Internal Revenue Service, Drop Point S-849, Philadelphia, PA 19255.

Approval of application. Before your application can be approved, the IRS must verify that you are aware of the grounds for exemption and that you want the exemption on that basis. When your completed Form 4361 is received, the IRS will mail you a statement that describes the grounds for receiving an exemption under section 1402(e). You must certify that you have read the statement and seek exemption on the grounds listed on the statement. The certification must be made by signing a copy of the statement under penalties of perjury and mailing it to the IRS not later than 90 days after the date the statement was mailed to you. If it is not mailed by that time, your exemption will not be effective until the date the signed copy is received by the IRS.

If your application is approved, a copy of Form 4361 will be returned to you marked "approved." Keep this copy of Form 4361 for your permanent records. Once the exemption is approved, you cannot revoke it.

Exempt earnings. Only earnings from ministerial services are exempt from self-employment tax.

Conducting religious worship services or ministering sacerdotal functions are ministerial services whether or not performed for a religious organization.

Ministerial services also include those performed under the authority of a church or church denomination. Examples are controlling, conducting, and maintaining religious organizations, including religious boards, societies, and other agencies integral to these organizations.

If your church assigns or designates you to perform services for an organization that is neither a religious organization nor an integral agency of a religious organization, you are performing ministerial services even though they may not involve conducting religious worship or ministering sacerdotal functions. Your services are ordinarily not considered assigned or designated by your church if any of the following is true.

- The organization for which you perform the services did not arrange with your church for your services.
- You perform the same services for the organization as other employees not designated as you were.
- You perform the same services before and after the designation.

Nonexempt earnings. Exemption from self-employment tax does not apply to earnings from services that are not ministerial.

Earnings from the following entities are not exempt even if religious services are conducted or sacerdotal functions are ministered: the United States; a state, territory, or possession of the United States; the District of Columbia; a foreign government; or a subdivision of any of these bodies. For example, chaplains in the U.S. Armed Forces are considered commissioned officers, not ministers. Similarly, chaplains in state prisons or universities are considered civil servants.

Indicating exemption on Form 1040. If the IRS returns your application marked "approved" and your only self-employment income was from ministerial services, write "Exempt—Form 4361" on the self-employment tax line in the Other Taxes section of Form 1040. If you had other self-employment income, see Schedule SE (Form 1040).

Specific Instructions

Line 3. Enter the date you were ordained, commissioned, or licensed as a minister of a church; became a member of a religious order; or began practice as a Christian Science practitioner. Do not file Form 4361 before this date. Attach a copy of the certificate (or, if you did not receive one, a letter from the governing body of your church) that establishes your status as an ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister; a member of a religious order; or a Christian Science practitioner.

Line 4. If you are a minister or belong to a religious order, enter the legal name, address, and employer identification number of the denomination that ordained, commissioned, or licensed you, or the order to which you belong. Get the employer identification number from your church or order.

You must be able to show that the body that ordained, commissioned, or licensed you, or your religious order, is exempt from Federal income tax under section 501(a) as a religious organization described in section 501(c)(3). You must also be able to show that the body is a church (or convention or association of churches) described in section 170(b)(1)(A)(i). To assist the IRS in processing your application, you can attach a copy of the exemption letter issued to the organization by the IRS. If that is not available, you can attach a letter signed by an individual authorized to act for the organization stating that the organization meets both of the above requirements.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act

Notice. The Privacy Act of 1974 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 require that when we ask you for information we must first tell you our legal right to ask for the information, why we are asking for it, and how it will be used. We must also tell you what could happen if we do not receive it and whether your response is voluntary, required to obtain a benefit, or mandatory under the law.

Our authority to ask for information is Internal Revenue Code sections 6001, 6011, and 6012(a), which require you to file a return or statement with us for any tax for which you are liable. Your response is mandatory under these sections. Section 6109 requires that you provide your social security number on what you file. This is so we know who you are, and can process your return and other papers. You must fill in all parts of the tax form that apply to you. If you fail to provide all or part of the information requested on Form 4361, your application may be denied.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law.

Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as stated in section 6103. However, section 6103 allows or requires the Internal Revenue Service to disclose or give the information shown on your tax return to others as described in the Code. For example, we may disclose your tax information to the Department of Justice to enforce the tax laws, both civil and criminal, to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. commonwealths or possessions. We may also disclose this information to other countries under a tax treaty, or to Federal and state agencies to enforce Federal nontax criminal laws and to combat terrorism.

Please keep this notice with your records. It may help you if we ask you for other information. If you have any questions about the rules for filing and giving information, please call or visit any Internal Revenue Service office.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, 6 min.; Learning about the law or the form, 19 min.; Preparing the form, 16 min.; Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the IRS, 16 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. ### What's New

- For tax years beginning in 2005, the maximum section 179 expense deduction is $105,000 ($140,000 for qualified enterprise zone, renewal community, and New York Liberty Zone (Liberty Zone) property). This limit is reduced by the amount by which the cost of section 179 property placed in service during the tax year exceeds $420,000. See page 3 of the instructions.
- The special depreciation allowance and the increased limits on depreciation for passenger automobiles do not apply to most property placed in service in 2005. You can only claim the special allowance for certain aircraft, certain property with a long production period, and qualified Liberty Zone property placed in service during 2005. See the instructions for line 14 on page 4 (for

- Certain natural gas gathering lines placed in service after April 11, 2005, are treated as 7-year property under the Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System (MACRS). See the instructions for line 19, column (a).
- Certain electric transmission property and natural gas distribution lines placed in service after April 11, 2005, are treated as 15-year property under MACRS. See the instructions for line 19, column (a).
- Qualified leasehold improvement property and qualified restaurant property placed in service after December 31, 2005, will not be treated as 15-year property under MACRS. See the instructions for line 19, column (a).
- The accelerated depreciation of property on an Indian Reservation will not apply to property placed in service after December 31, 2005. See the instructions for line 19, column (d).
- You can elect to amortize certain atmospheric pollution control facilities placed in service after April 11, 2005, over an 84-month period. See the instructions for line 42 on page 12.
- For tax years beginning after August 8, 2005, you can elect to amortize certain geological and geophysical expenses over a 24-month period. See page 13 of the instructions.

- A section 179 expense deduction (which may include a carryover from a previous year).
- Depreciation on any vehicle or other listed property (regardless of when it was placed in service).
- A deduction for any vehicle reported on a form other than Schedule C (Form 1040), Profit or Loss From Business, or Schedule C-EZ (Form 1040), Net Profit From Business.
- Any depreciation on a corporate income tax return (other than Form 1120S).
- Amortization of costs that begins during the 2005 tax year.

If you are an employee deducting job-related vehicle expenses using either the standard mileage rate or actual expenses, use Form 2106, Employee Business Expenses, or Form 2106-EZ, Unreimbursed Employee Business Expenses, for this purpose.

File a separate Form 4562 for each business or activity on your return for which Form 4562 is required. If you need more space, attach additional sheets. However, complete only one Part I in its entirety when computing your section 179 expense deduction. See the instructions for line 12.

Definitions

Depreciation

Depreciation is the annual deduction that allows you to recover the cost or other basis of your business or investment property over a certain number of years. Depreciation starts when you first use the property in your business or for the production of income. It ends when you either take

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 4562 to:

- Claim your deduction for depreciation and amortization,
- Make the election under section 179 to expense certain property, and
- Provide information on the business/investment use of automobiles and other listed property.

Who Must File

Except as otherwise noted, complete and file Form 4562 if you are claiming any of the following.

- Depreciation for property placed in service during the 2005 tax year.

the property out of service, deduct all your depreciable cost or basis, or no longer use the property in your business or for the production of income.

Generally, you can depreciate:

- Tangible property such as buildings, machinery, vehicles, furniture, and equipment; and
- Intangible property such as patents, copyrights, and computer software.

Exception. You cannot depreciate land.

Section 179 Property

Section 179 property is property that you acquire by purchase for use in the active conduct of your trade or business, and is one of the following.

- Tangible personal property.
- Other tangible property (except buildings and their structural components) used as:
  1. An integral part of manufacturing, production, or extraction or of furnishing transportation, communications, electricity, gas, water, or sewage disposal services;
  2. A research facility used in connection with any of the activities in (1) above; or
  3. A facility used in connection with any of the activities in (1) above for the bulk storage of fungible commodities.
- Single purpose agricultural (livestock) or horticultural structures.
- Storage facilities (except buildings and their structural components) used in connection with distributing petroleum or any primary product of petroleum.
- Off-the-shelf computer software.

Section 179 property does not include the following.

- Property held for investment (section 212 property).
- Property used mainly outside the United States (except for property described in section 168(g)(4)).
- Property used mainly to furnish lodging or in connection with the furnishing of lodging (except as provided in section 50(b)(2)).
- Property used by a tax-exempt organization (other than a section 521 farmers' cooperative) unless the property is used mainly in a taxable unrelated trade or business.
- Property used by a governmental unit or foreign person or entity (except for property used under a lease with a term of less than 6 months).
- Air conditioning or heating units.

See the instructions for Part I and Pub. 946.

Amortization

Amortization is similar to the straight line method of depreciation in that an annual deduction is allowed to recover certain costs over a fixed time period. You can elect to amortize such items as the costs of starting a business, goodwill, and certain other intangibles. See the instructions for Part VI beginning on page 12.

Listed Property

Listed property generally includes the following.

- Passenger automobiles weighing 6,000 pounds or less. See Limits for passenger automobiles on page 10.
- Any other property used for transportation if the nature of the property lends itself to personal use, such as motorcycles, pick-up trucks, sport utility vehicles, etc.
- Any property used for entertainment or recreational purposes (such as photographic, phonographic, communication, and video recording equipment).
- Cellular telephones (or other similar telecommunications equipment).
- Computers or peripheral equipment.

Exception. Listed property does not include:

1. Photographic, phonographic, communication, or video equipment used exclusively in a taxpayer's trade or business or at the taxpayer's regular business establishment;
2. Any computer or peripheral equipment used exclusively at a regular business establishment and owned or leased by the person operating the establishment; or
3. An ambulance, hearse, or vehicle used for transporting persons or property for hire.

For purposes of the exceptions above, a portion of the taxpayer's home is treated as a regular business establishment only if that portion meets the requirements for deducting expenses attributable to the business use of a home. However, for any property listed in (1) above, the regular business establishment of an employee is his or her employer's regular business establishment.

Commuting

Generally, commuting is travel between your home and a work location.

However, travel that meets any of the following conditions is not commuting.

- You have at least one regular work location away from your home and the travel is to a temporary work location in the same trade or business, regardless of the distance. Generally, a temporary work location is one where your employment is expected to last 1 year or less. See Pub. 463 for details.
- The travel is to a temporary work location outside the metropolitan area where you live and normally work.

- Your home is your principal place of business for purposes of deducting expenses for business use of your home and the travel is to another work location in the same trade or business, regardless of whether that location is regular or temporary and regardless of distance.

Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT)

Depreciation may be an adjustment for the AMT. However, no adjustment applies for qualified property for which you claim a special depreciation allowance (if the depreciable basis of the qualified property for the AMT is the same as for the regular tax). See Form 4626, Alternative Minimum Tax—Corporations; Form 6251, Alternative Minimum Tax—Individuals; or Schedule I of Form 1041, U.S. Income Tax Return for Estates and Trusts.

Recordkeeping

Except for Part V (relating to listed property), the IRS does not require you to submit detailed information with your return on the depreciation of assets placed in service in previous tax years. However, the information needed to compute your depreciation deduction (basis, method, etc.) must be part of your permanent records.

You may use the depreciation worksheet on page 16 to assist you in maintaining depreciation records. However, the worksheet is designed only for federal income tax purposes. You may need to keep additional records for accounting and state income tax purposes.

Specific Instructions

Part I. Election To Expense Certain Property Under Section 179

Note. An estate or trust cannot make this election.

You can elect to expense part or all of the cost of section 179 property that you placed in service during the tax year and used predominantly (more than 50%) in your trade or business.

However, for taxpayers other than a corporation, this election does not apply to any section 179 property you purchased and leased to others unless:

- You manufactured or produced the property or
- The term of the lease is less than 50% of the property's class life and, for the first 12 months after the property is transferred to the lessee, the deductions related to the property allowed to you as trade or business expenses (except rents and reimbursed amounts) are more than 15% of the rental income from the property.

Election. You must make the election on Form 4562 filed with either:

- The original return you file for the tax year the property was placed in service (whether or not you file your return on time) or
- An amended return filed within the time prescribed by law for the applicable tax year. The election made on an amended return must specify the item of section 179 property to which the election applies and the part of the cost of each such item to be taken into account. The amended return must also include any resulting adjustments to taxable income.

Revocation. The election (and the selection of the property you elected to expense) can be revoked without IRS approval by filing an amended return. The amended return must be filed within the time prescribed by law for the applicable tax year. The amended return must include any resulting adjustments to taxable income or to the tax liability (for example, allowable depreciation in that tax year for the item of section 179 property which the revocation pertains). For more information and examples, see Regulations section 1.179-5.

Once made, the revocation is irrevocable.

Limitations. The amount of section 179 property for which you can make the election is limited to the maximum dollar amount on line 1. In most cases, this amount is reduced if the cost of all section 179 property placed in service during the year is more than $420,000. Your total section 179 expense deduction cannot exceed your business income (line 11).

For a partnership (other than an electing large partnership) these limitations apply to the partnership and each partner. For an electing large partnership, the limitations apply only to the partnership. For an S corporation, these limitations apply to the S corporation and each shareholder. For a controlled group, all component members are treated as one taxpayer.

If you elect to expense section 179 property, you must reduce the amount on which you figure your depreciation or amortization deduction (including any special depreciation allowance) by the section 179 expense deduction.

Line 1

For an enterprise zone business or a renewal community business, the maximum section 179 expense deduction of $105,000 is increased by the smaller of:

- $35,000 or
- The cost of section 179 property that is also qualified zone property or qualified renewal property (including such property placed in service by your spouse, even if you are filing a separate return).

For qualified Liberty Zone property, the maximum section 179 expense deduction is increased by the smaller of:

- $35,000 or
- The cost of section 179 property that is also qualified Liberty Zone property (including such property placed in service by your spouse, even if you are filing a separate return).

If applicable, cross out the preprinted entry on line 1 and enter in the right margin the larger amount. For more information, including definitions of qualified zone property, qualified renewal property, and qualified Liberty Zone property, see Pub. 954, Tax Incentives for Distressed Communities.

Recapture rule. If any qualified zone property (or qualified renewal property) placed in service during the current year ceases to be used in an empowerment zone (or a renewal community) by an enterprise zone business (or a renewal community business) in a later year, the benefit of the increased section 179 expense deduction must be reported as "other income" on your return. Similar rules apply to qualified Liberty Zone property that ceases to be used in the Liberty Zone.

Line 2

Enter the cost of all section 179 property placed in service during the tax year. Also include the cost of the following.

- Any listed property from Part V.
- Any property placed in service by your spouse, even if you are filing a separate return.
- 50% of the cost of section 179 property that is also qualified zone property, qualified renewal property, or qualified Liberty Zone property.

Line 5

If line 5 is zero, you cannot elect to expense any section 179 property. In this case, skip lines 6 through 11, enter zero on line 12, and enter the carryover of any disallowed deduction from 2004 on line 13.

If you are married filing separately, you and your spouse must allocate the dollar limitation for the tax year. To do so, multiply the total limitation that you would otherwise enter on line 5 by 50%, unless you both elect a different allocation. If you both elect a different allocation, multiply the total limitation by the percentage elected. The sum of the percentages you and your spouse elect must equal 100%.

Do not enter on line 5 more than your share of the total dollar limitation.

Line 6

Do not include any listed property on line 6. Enter the elected section 179 cost of listed property in column (i) of line 26.

Column (a) — Description of property. Enter a brief description of the property you elect to expense (e.g., truck, office furniture, etc.).

Column (b) — Cost (business use only). Enter the cost of the property. If you acquired the property through a trade-in, do not include any carryover basis of the property traded in. Include only the excess of the cost of the property over the value of the property traded in.

Column (c) — Elected cost. Enter the amount you elect to expense. You do not have to expense the entire cost of the property. You can depreciate the amount you do not expense. See the line 19 and line 20 instructions.

To report your share of a section 179 expense deduction from a partnership or an S corporation, write "from Schedule K-1 (Form 1065)" or "from Schedule K-1 (Form 1120S)" across columns (a) and (b).

Line 10

The carryover of disallowed deduction from 2004 is the amount of section 179 property, if any, you elected to expense in previous years that was not allowed as a deduction because of the business income limitation. If you filed Form 4562 for 2004, enter the amount from line 13 of your 2004 Form 4562.

Line 11

The total cost you can deduct is limited to your taxable income from the active conduct of a trade or business during the year. You are considered to actively conduct a trade or business only if you meaningfully participate in its management or operations. A mere passive investor is not considered to actively conduct a trade or business.

Note. If you have to apply another Code section that has a limitation based on taxable income, see Pub. 946 for rules on how to apply the business income limitation for the section 179 expense deduction.

Individuals. Enter the smaller of line 5 or the total taxable income from any trade or business you actively conducted, computed without regard to any section 179 expense deduction, the deduction for one-half of self-employment taxes under section 164(f), or any net operating loss deduction. Also include all wages, salaries, tips, and other compensation you earned as an employee (from Form 1040, line 7). Do not reduce this amount by unreimbursed employee business expenses. If you are married filing a joint return, combine the total taxable incomes for you and your spouse.

Partnerships. Enter the smaller of line 5 or the partnership's total items of income and expense described in section 702(a) from any trade or business the partnership actively conducted (other than credits, tax-exempt income, the section 179 expense deduction, and guaranteed payments under section 707(c)).

S corporations. Enter the smaller of line 5 or the corporation's total items of income and expense described in section 1366(a) from any trade or business the corporation actively conducted (other than credits, tax-exempt income, the section 179 expense deduction, and the deduction for compensation paid to the corporation's shareholder-employees).

Corporations other than S corporations. Enter the smaller of line 5 or the corporation's taxable income before the section 179 expense deduction, net operating loss deduction, and special deductions (excluding items not derived from a trade or business actively conducted by the corporation).

Line 12

The limitations on lines 5 and 11 apply to the taxpayer, and not to each separate business or activity. Therefore, if you have more than one business or activity, you may allocate your allowable section 179 expense deduction among them.

To do so, write "Summary" at the top of Part I of the separate Form 4562 you are completing for the total amounts from all businesses or activities. Do not complete the rest of that form. On line 12 of the Form 4562 you prepare for each separate business or activity, enter the amount allocated to the business or activity from the "Summary." No other entry is required in Part I of the separate Form 4562 prepared for each business or activity.

Part II. Special Depreciation Allowance and Other Depreciation

Line 14

For qualified property (defined below) placed in service during the tax year, you may be able to take an additional 50% (or 30%, if applicable) special depreciation allowance. The special allowance applies only to the first year the property is placed in service. The allowance is an additional deduction you can take after any section 179 expense deduction and before you figure regular depreciation under MACRS.

To qualify for the 50% special allowance, you must have acquired the property after May 5, 2003, and before January 1, 2005. If a binding contract to acquire the property existed before May 6, 2003, the property does not qualify.

The 30% special allowance applies to qualified property for which the 50% allowance does not apply (or for property for which you have elected to claim the 30% allowance for property that would otherwise qualify for the 50% allowance). You must have acquired the property after September 10, 2001, and before January 1, 2005. If a binding contract to acquire the property existed before September 11, 2001, the property does not qualify.

Qualified property. Qualified property is:

- Property with a long production period that meets the requirements of section 168(k)(2)(B) (but only to the extent of the property's pre-January 1, 2005 basis),
- Noncommercial aircraft that meets the requirements of section 168(k)(2)(C), or
- Qualified Liberty Zone property that meets the requirements of section 1400L(b)(2) (other than qualified Liberty Zone leasehold improvement property), not otherwise treated as qualified property under section 168(k).

Qualified property also must meet the following rules.

- The property must be placed in service before January 1, 2006, unless it is qualified Liberty Zone property.
- The original use of the property (except for qualified Liberty Zone property) must begin with you. For qualified Liberty Zone property, only the original use of the property within the Liberty Zone must begin with you.
- For property you sold and leased back or for self-constructed property, special rules apply. See Temporary Regulations section 1.168(k)-1T(b).

Qualified property does not include:

- Listed property used 50% or less in a qualified business use (as defined in the instructions for lines 26 and 27).
- Any property required to be depreciated under the alternative depreciation system (ADS) (that is, not property for which you elected to use ADS).
- Qualified Liberty Zone leasehold improvement property.
- Property placed in service and disposed of in the same year.
- Property converted from business or income-producing use to personal use in the same year it is acquired.
- Property for which you elected not to claim any special allowance.

How to figure the allowance. Figure the special allowance by multiplying the depreciable basis of the property by 50% (or 30%, if applicable). To figure the depreciable basis, subtract from the business/investment portion of the cost or other basis of the property the total of the following amounts allocable to the property.

- Section 179 expense deduction.
- Deduction for removal of barriers to the disabled and the elderly.
- Disabled access credit.
- Enhanced oil recovery credit.
- Credit for employer-provided childcare facilities and services.
- Basis adjustment to investment credit property under section 50(c).

Note. If you acquired qualified property through a trade-in, the carryover basis and any excess basis of the acquired property is eligible for the special allowance. See Temporary Regulations section 1.168(k)-1T(f)(5).

If you take the 30% or 50% special allowance, you must reduce the amount on which you figure your regular depreciation or amortization deduction by the amount deducted. Also, you will not have any AMT adjustment for the property if the depreciable basis of the property for the AMT is the same as for the regular tax.

Election out. You can elect, for any class of property, to either deduct the 30% special allowance, instead of the 50% special allowance, for all such property in such class placed in service during the tax year or not to claim any special allowance for all such property in such class placed in service during the tax year. If you elect not to have any special allowance apply, the property may be subject to an AMT adjustment for depreciation.

To make an election, attach a statement to your timely filed return (including extensions) indicating the class of property for which you are making the election and that, for such class you are either electing to claim the 30% special allowance instead of the 50% special allowance or you are electing not to claim any special allowance.

The election must be made separately by each person owning qualified property (for example, by the partnership, by the S corporation, or by the common parent of a consolidated group).

If you timely filed your return without making an election, you can still make the election by filing an amended return within 6 months of the due date of the return (excluding extensions). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2 on the amended return."

Once made, the election cannot be revoked without IRS consent.

Line 15

Report on this line depreciation for property that you elect to depreciate under the unit-of-production method or any other method not based on a term of years (other than the retirement-replacement-betterment method).

Attach a separate sheet showing:

- A description of the property and the depreciation method you elect that excludes the property from MACRS or the Accelerated Cost Recovery System (ACRS) and
- The depreciable basis (cost or other basis reduced, if applicable, by salvage value, any section 179 expense deduction, deduction for removal of barriers to the disabled and the elderly, disabled access credit, enhanced oil recovery credit, credit for employer-provided childcare facilities and services, and any special depreciation allowance).

See section 50(c) to determine the basis adjustment for investment credit property.

Line 16

Enter the total depreciation you are claiming for the following types of property (except listed property and property subject to a section 168(f)(1) election).

- ACRS property (pre-1987 rules). See Pub. 534.
- Property placed in service before 1981.
- Certain public utility property which does not meet certain normalization requirements.
- Certain property acquired from related persons.
- Property acquired in certain nonrecognition transactions.
- Certain sound recordings, movies, and videotapes.
- Property depreciated under the income forecast method. The use of the income forecast method is limited to motion picture films, videotapes, sound recordings, copyrights, books, and patents. You can either include certain participations and residuals in the adjusted basis of the property in the year the property is placed in service or deduct these amounts when paid. See section 167(g)(7). You cannot use this method to depreciate any amortizable section 197 intangible. See the instructions beginning on page 12 for more details on section 197 intangibles.

If you use the income forecast method for any property placed in service after September 13, 1995, you may owe interest or be entitled to a refund for the 3rd and 10th tax years beginning after the tax year the property was placed in service. For details, see Form 8866, Interest Computation Under the Look-Back Method for Property Depreciated Under the Income Forecast Method.

- Intangible property, other than section 197 intangibles, including:

1. Computer software. Use the straight line method over 36 months. A longer period may apply to software leased under a lease agreement entered into after March 12, 2004, to a tax-exempt organization, governmental unit, or foreign person or entity (other than a partnership). See section 167(f)(1)(C).

If you elect the section 179 expense deduction or take the special depreciation allowance for computer software, you must reduce the amount on which you figure your regular depreciation deduction by the amount deducted.

2. Any right to receive tangible property or services under a contract or granted by a governmental unit (not acquired as part of a business).
3. Any interest in a patent or copyright not acquired as part of a business.
4. Residential mortgage servicing rights. Use the straight line method over 108 months.
5. Other intangible assets with a limited useful life that cannot be estimated with reasonable accuracy. Generally, use the straight line method over 15 years. See Regulations section 1.167(a)-3(b) for details and exceptions.

See section 167(f) for more details.

Prior years' depreciation, plus current year's depreciation, can never exceed the depreciable basis of the property.

Part III. MACRS Depreciation

The term "Modified Accelerated Cost Recovery System" (MACRS) includes the General Depreciation System and the Alternative Depreciation System.

Generally, MACRS is used to depreciate any tangible property placed in service after 1986. However, MACRS does not apply to films, videotapes, and sound recordings. For more details and exceptions, see Pub. 946.

Section A

Line 17

For tangible property placed in service in tax years beginning before 2005 and depreciated under MACRS, enter the deductions for the current year. To figure the deductions, see the instructions for line 19, column (g).

Line 18

To simplify the computation of MACRS depreciation, you can elect to group assets into one or more general asset accounts. The assets in each general asset account are depreciated as a single asset.

Each general asset account must include only assets that were placed in service during the same tax year with the same asset class (if any), depreciation method, recovery period, and convention. However, an asset cannot be included in a general asset account if the asset is used both for personal purposes and business/investment purposes.

When an asset in an account is disposed of, the amount realized generally must be recognized as ordinary income. The unadjusted depreciable basis and depreciation reserve of the general asset account are not affected as a result of a disposition.

Special rules apply to passenger automobiles, assets generating foreign source income, assets converted to personal use, certain asset dispositions, and like-kind exchanges or involuntary conversions of property in a general asset account. For more details, see Regulations section 1.168(i)-1 and Temporary Regulations section 1.168(i)-1T. For more information on depreciating property in a general asset account, see Pub. 946.

To make the election, check the box on line 18. You must make the election on your return filed no later than the due date (including extensions) for the tax year in which the assets included in the general asset account were placed in service. Once made, the election is irrevocable and applies to the tax year for which the election is made and all later tax years.

Section B

Property acquired in a like-kind exchange or involuntary conversion. You generally must depreciate the carryover basis of property you acquire in a like-kind exchange or involuntary conversion during the current year over the remaining recovery period of the property exchanged or involuntarily converted. Use the same depreciation method and convention that was used for the exchanged or involuntarily converted property. Treat any excess basis as newly placed in service property. Figure depreciation separately for the carryover basis and the excess basis, if any.

These rules apply only to acquired property with the same or a shorter recovery period or the same or a more accelerated depreciation method than the property exchanged or involuntarily converted. See Temporary Regulations section 1.168(i)-6T(c) and Pub. 946.

Election out. Instead of using the above rules, you can elect, for depreciation purposes, to treat the adjusted basis of the exchanged property as if it was disposed of at the time of the exchange or involuntary conversion. Treat the carryover basis and excess basis, if any, for the acquired property as if placed in service on the date you acquired it. The depreciable basis of the new property is the adjusted basis of the exchanged or involuntarily converted property plus any additional amount paid for it.

To make the election, figure the depreciation deduction for the new property in Part III. For listed property, use Part V. Attach a statement indicating "Election made under section 1.168(i)-6T(i)" for each property involved in the exchange or involuntary conversion. The election must be made separately by each person acquiring replacement property (for example, by the partnership, by the S corporation, or by the common parent of a consolidated group). The election must be made on your timely filed return (including extensions). Once made, the election cannot be revoked without IRS consent.

If you trade in a vehicle used for employee business use, complete Form 2106, Part II, Section D, instead of Form 4562, to "elect out" of Temporary Regulations section 1.168(i)-6T. If you do not "elect out," you must use Form 4562 instead of Form 2106. See the Instructions for Form 2106.

Lines 19a Through 19i

Use lines 19a through 19i only for assets placed in service during the tax year beginning in 2005 and depreciated under the General Depreciation System (GDS), except for automobiles and other listed property (which are reported in Part V).

Column (a) — Classification of property. Determine which property you acquired and placed in service during the tax year beginning in 2005. Then, sort that property according to its classification (3-year property, 5-year property, etc.) as shown in column (a) of lines 19a through 19i. The classifications for some property are shown below. For property not shown, see Determining the classification below.

3-year property includes:

- A race horse that is more than 2 years old at the time it is placed in service.
- Any horse (other than a race horse) that is more than 12 years old at the time it is placed in service.
- Any qualified rent-to-own property (as defined in section 168(i)(14)).

5-year property includes:

- Automobiles.
- Light general purpose trucks.
- Typewriters, calculators, copiers, and duplicating equipment.
- Any semi-conductor manufacturing equipment.
- Any computer or peripheral equipment.
- Any section 1245 property used in connection with research and experimentation.
- Certain energy property specified in section 168(e)(3)(B)(vi).
- Appliances, carpets, furniture, etc., used in a rental real estate activity.
- Any qualified Liberty Zone leasehold improvement property. However, you can elect not to treat the property as 5-year property. If you make this election, depreciate the property under the rules of qualified leasehold improvement property.

To make this election, attach a statement to your return indicating that you are making an election under section 1400L(c)(5). This election applies to all qualified Liberty Zone leasehold improvement property placed in service during the same year.

The election must be made separately by each person owning qualified property (for example, by the partnership, by the S corporation, or by the common parent of a consolidated group).

If you timely filed your return without making an election, you can still make the election by filing an amended return within 6 months of the due date of the return (excluding extensions). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2 on the amended return."

Once made, the election cannot be revoked without IRS consent.

7-year property includes:

- Any motorsports entertainment complex (as defined in section 168(i)(15)) placed in service after October 22, 2004.
- Any natural gas gathering line (as defined in section 168(i)(17)) placed in service after April 11, 2005, the original use of which begins with you after April 11, 2005, and is not subject to a binding contract in existence before April 12, 2005. Also, no AMT adjustment is required.

10-year property includes:

- Vessels, barges, tugs, and similar water transportation equipment.

- Any natural gas distribution line placed in service after April 11, 2005, the original use of which begins with you after April 11, 2005, and is not subject to a binding contract in existence before April 12, 2005.

20-year property includes:

- Farm buildings (other than single purpose agricultural or horticultural structures).
- Municipal sewers not classified as 25-year property.
- Initial clearing and grading land improvements for electric utility transmission and distribution plants.

25-year property is water utility property, which is:

- Property that is an integral part of the gathering, treatment, or commercial distribution of water that, without regard to this classification, would be 20-year property.

- Municipal sewers. This classification does not apply to property placed in service under a binding contract in effect at all times since June 9, 1996.

Residential rental property is a building in which 80% or more of the total rent is from dwelling units.

Nonresidential real property is any real property that is neither residential rental property nor property with a class life of less than 27.5 years.

50-year property includes any improvements necessary to construct or improve a roadbed or right-of-way for railroad track that qualifies as a railroad grading or tunnel bore under section 168(e)(4).

There is no separate line to report 50-year property. Therefore, attach a statement showing the same information as required in columns (a) through (g). Include the deduction in the line 22 "Total" and write "See attachment" in the bottom margin of the form.

Determining the classification. If your depreciable property is not listed above, determine the classification as follows.

1. Find the property's class life. See the Table of Class Lives and Recovery Periods in Pub. 946.

2. Use the following table to find the classification in column (b) that corresponds to the class life of the property in column (a).

(a) Class life (in years) (See Pub. 946)	(b) Classification
4 or less . . . . .	3-year property
More than 4 but less than 10 . . . . .	5-year property
10 or more but less than 16 . . . . .	7-year property
16 or more but less than 20 . . . . .	10-year property
20 or more but less than 25 . . . . .	15-year property
25 or more . . . . .	20-year property

Column (b) — Month and year placed in service. For lines 19h and 19i, enter the month and year you placed the property in service. If you converted property held for personal use to use in a trade or business or for the production of income, treat the property as being placed in service on the conversion date.

Column (c) — Basis for depreciation (business/investment use only). To find the basis for depreciation, multiply the cost or other basis of the property by the percentage of business/investment use. From that result, subtract any section 179 expense deduction, deduction for removal of barriers to the disabled and the elderly, disabled access credit, enhanced oil recovery credit, credit for employer-provided childcare facilities and services, and any special depreciation allowance included on line 14. See section 50(c) to determine the basis adjustment for investment credit property.

Column (d) — Recovery period. Determine the recovery period from the table below, unless you acquired qualified Indian reservation property placed in service before January 1, 2006. Qualified Indian reservation property does not include property placed in service to conduct class I, II, or III gaming activities. See Pub. 946 for more information, including the table for qualified Indian reservation property.

Recovery Period for Most Property

Classification	Recovery period
3-year property . . . . .	3 yrs.
5-year property . . . . .	5 yrs.
7-year property . . . . .	7 yrs.
10-year property . . . . .	10 yrs.
15-year property . . . . .	15 yrs.
20-year property . . . . .	20 yrs.
25-year property . . . . .	25 yrs.
Residential rental property . . . . .	27.5 yrs.
Nonresidential real property . . . . .	39 yrs.
Railroad gradings and tunnel bores . . . . .	50 yrs.

Column (e) — Convention. The applicable convention determines the portion of the tax year for which depreciation is allowable during a year property is either placed in service or disposed of. There are three types of conventions. To select the correct convention, you must know the type of property and when you placed the property in service.

Half-year convention. This convention applies to all property reported on lines 19a through 19g, unless the mid-quarter convention applies. It does not apply to residential rental property, nonresidential real property, and railroad gradings and tunnel bores. It treats all property placed in service (or disposed of) during any tax year as placed in service (or disposed of) on the midpoint of that tax year. Enter "HY" in column (e).

Mid-quarter convention. If the total depreciable bases (before any special depreciation allowance) of MACRS property placed in service during the last 3 months of your tax year exceed 40% of the total depreciable bases of MACRS property placed in service during the entire tax year, the mid-quarter, instead of the half-year, convention generally applies.

In determining whether the mid-quarter convention applies, do not take into account the following.

- Property that is being depreciated under a method other than MACRS.

- Any residential rental property, nonresidential real property, or railroad gradings and tunnel bores.
- Property that is placed in service and disposed of within the same tax year.

The mid-quarter convention treats all property placed in service (or disposed of) during any quarter as placed in service (or disposed of) on the midpoint of that quarter. However, no depreciation is allowed under this convention for property that is placed in service and disposed of within the same tax year. Enter "MQ" in column (e).

Mid-month convention. This convention applies only to residential rental property (line 19h), nonresidential real property (line 19i), and railroad gradings and tunnel bores. It treats all property placed in service (or disposed of) during any month as placed in service (or disposed of) on the midpoint of that month. Enter "MM" in column (e).

Column (f) — Method. Applicable depreciation methods are prescribed for each classification of property as follows. However, you can make an irrevocable election to use the straight line method for all property within a classification that is placed in service during the tax year. Enter "200 DB" for 200% declining balance, "150 DB" for 150% declining balance, or "S/L" for straight line.

• 3-, 5-, 7-, and 10-year property. Generally, the applicable method is the 200% declining balance method, switching to the straight line method in the first tax year that the straight line rate exceeds the declining balance rate.

Note. The straight line method is the only applicable method for trees and vines bearing fruit or nuts and qualified Liberty Zone leasehold improvement property.

For 3-, 5-, 7-, or 10-year property eligible for the 200% declining balance method, you can make an irrevocable election to use the 150% declining balance method, switching to the straight line method in the first tax year that the straight line rate exceeds the declining balance rate. The election applies to all property within the classification for which it is made and that was placed in service during the tax year. You will not have an AMT adjustment for any property included under this election.

• 15- and 20-year property and property used in a farming business. The applicable method is the 150% declining balance method, switching to the straight line method in the first tax year that the straight line rate exceeds the declining balance rate.

• Water utility property, residential rental property, nonresidential real property, any railroad grading or tunnel bore, or any qualified leasehold improvement or qualified restaurant property. The only applicable method is the straight line method.

Column (g) — Depreciation deduction. To figure the depreciation deduction you may use optional Tables A through E, which begin on page 14. Multiply column (c) by the applicable rate from the appropriate table. See Pub. 946 for complete tables. If you disposed of the property during the current tax year, multiply the result by the applicable decimal amount from the tables in Step 3 below. Or, you may compute the deduction yourself by completing the following steps.

Step 1. Determine the depreciation rate as follows.

- If you are using the 200% or 150% declining balance method in column (f), divide the declining balance rate (use 2.00 for 200 DB or 1.50 for 150 DB) by the number of years in the recovery period in column (d). For example, for property depreciated using the 200 DB method over a recovery period of 5 years, divide 2.00 by 5 for a rate of 40%. You must switch to the straight line rate in the first year that the straight line rate exceeds the declining balance rate.
- If you are using the straight line method, divide 1.00 by the remaining number of years in the recovery period as of the beginning of the tax year (but not less than one). For example, if there are 6½ years remaining in the recovery period as of the beginning of the year, divide 1.00 by 6.5 for a rate of 15.38%.

Step 2. Multiply the percentage rate determined in Step 1 by the property's unrecovered basis (basis for depreciation (as defined in column (c)) reduced by all prior years' depreciation).

Step 3. For property placed in service or disposed of during the current tax year, multiply the result from Step 2 by the applicable decimal amount from the tables below (based on the convention shown in column (e)).

Half-year (HY) convention . . . . . 0.5

Mid-quarter (MQ) convention

Placed in service (or disposed of) during the:	Placed in service	Disposed of
1st quarter . . . . .	0.875	0.125
2nd quarter . . . . .	0.625	0.375
3rd quarter . . . . .	0.375	0.625
4th quarter . . . . .	0.125	0.875

Mid-month (MM) convention

11th month . . . . .	0.1250	0.8750
12th month . . . . .	0.0417	0.9583

Short tax years. See Pub. 946 for rules on how to compute the depreciation deduction for property placed in service in a short tax year.

Section C

Lines 20a Through 20c

Complete lines 20a through 20c for assets, other than automobiles and other listed property, placed in service only during the tax year beginning in 2005 and depreciated under the Alternative Depreciation System (ADS). Report on line 17 MACRS depreciation on assets placed in service in prior years.

Under ADS, use the applicable depreciation method, the applicable recovery period, and the applicable convention to compute depreciation.

The following types of property must be depreciated under ADS.

- Tangible property used predominantly outside the United States.
- Tax-exempt use property.
- Tax-exempt bond financed property.
- Imported property covered by an executive order of the President of the United States.
- Property used predominantly in a farming business and placed in service during any tax year in which you made an election under section 263A(d)(3) not to have the uniform capitalization rules of section 263A apply.

Instead of depreciating property under GDS (line 19), you can make an irrevocable election with respect to any classification of property for any tax year to use ADS. For residential rental and nonresidential real property, you can make this election separately for each property.

Column (a) — Classification of property. Use the following rules to determine the classification of the property under ADS.

Under ADS, the depreciation deduction for most property is based on the property's class life. See section 168(g)(3) for special rules for determining the class life for certain property. See Pub. 946 for information on recovery periods for ADS and the Table of Class Lives and Recovery Periods.

Use line 20a for all property depreciated under ADS, except property that does not have a class life, residential rental and nonresidential real property, water utility property, and railroad gradings and tunnel bores. Use line 20b for property that does not have a class life. Use line 20c for residential rental and nonresidential real property.

Water utility property and railroad gradings and tunnel bores. These assets are 50-year property under ADS. There is no separate line to report 50-year property. Therefore, attach a statement showing the same information required in columns (a) through (g). Include the deduction in the line 22 "Total" and write "See attachment" in the bottom margin of the form.

Column (b) — Month and year placed in service. For 40-year property, enter the month and year placed in service or converted to use in a trade or business or for the production of income.

Column (c) — Basis for depreciation (business/investment use only). See the instructions for line 19, column (c).

Column (d) — Recovery period. On line 20a, enter the property's class life.

Column (e) — Convention. Under ADS, the applicable conventions are the same as those used under GDS. See the instructions for line 19, column (e).

Column (g) — Depreciation deduction. Figure the depreciation deduction in the same manner as under GDS, except use the straight line method over the ADS recovery period and use the applicable convention.

Recapture. When you dispose of property you depreciated using MACRS, any gain on the disposition is generally recaptured (included in income) as ordinary income up to the amount of the depreciation previously allowed or allowable for the property. Depreciation, for this purpose, includes any section 179 expense deduction claimed on the property, any special depreciation allowance available for the property (unless you elected not to claim it), and any deduction claimed for clean-fuel vehicles and clean-fuel vehicle refueling property placed in service before January 1, 2006. There is no recapture for residential rental and nonresidential real property, unless that property is qualified property for which you claimed a special depreciation allowance (discussed earlier). For more information on depreciation recapture, see Pub. 946.

Part IV. Summary

Line 22

A partnership (other than an electing large partnership) or S corporation does not include any section 179 expense deduction (line 12) on this line. Instead, any section 179 expense deduction is passed through separately to the partners and shareholders on the appropriate line of their Schedules K-1.

Line 23

If you are subject to the uniform capitalization rules of section 263A, enter the increase in basis from costs you must capitalize. For a detailed discussion of who is subject to these rules, which costs must be capitalized, and allocation of costs among activities, see Regulations section 1.263A-1.

Part V. Listed Property

If you claim the standard mileage rate, actual vehicle expenses (including depreciation), or depreciation on other listed property, you must provide the information requested in Part V, regardless of the tax year the property was placed in service. However, if you file Form 2106, 2106-EZ, or Schedule C-EZ (Form 1040), report this information on that form and not in Part V. Also, if you file Schedule C (Form 1040) and are claiming the standard mileage rate or actual vehicle expenses (except depreciation), and you are not required to file Form 4562 for any other reason, report vehicle information in Part IV of Schedule C and not on Form 4562.

Section A

The section 179 expense deduction should be computed before calculating any special depreciation allowance and/or regular depreciation deduction. See the instructions for line 26, column (i) on page 11.

Listed property used 50% or less in a qualified business use (as defined in the instructions for lines 26 and 27) does not qualify for the section 179 expense deduction or special depreciation allowance.

Line 25

If you acquired and placed qualified Liberty Zone listed property in service during the tax year, you may be able to deduct an additional 30% special depreciation allowance. See the instructions for line 14 to figure the deduction. This special depreciation allowance is included in the overall limit on depreciation and section 179 expense deduction for passenger automobiles. Enter on line 25 your total special depreciation allowance for all listed property.

Lines 26 and 27

Use line 26 to figure depreciation for property used more than 50% in a qualified business use. Use line 27 to figure the depreciation for property used 50% or less in a qualified business use. Also see Limits for passenger automobiles on page 10.

If you acquired the property through a trade-in, special rules apply for determining the basis, recovery period, depreciation method, and convention. For more details, see Property acquired in a like-kind exchange or involuntary conversion, beginning on page 5. Also, see Temporary Regulations section 1.168(i)-6T(d)(3).

Qualified business use. To determine whether to use line 26 or line 27 to report your listed property, you must first determine the percentage of qualified business use for each property. Generally, a qualified business use is any use in your trade or business. However, it does not include any of the following.

- Investment use.
- Leasing the property to a 5% owner or related person.
- The use of the property as compensation for services performed by a 5% owner or related person.
- The use of the property as compensation for services performed by any person (who is not a 5% owner or related person), unless an amount is included in that person's income for the use of the property and, if required, income tax was withheld on that amount.

Determine your percentage of qualified business use similar to the method used to figure the business/investment use percentage in column (c). Your percentage of qualified business use may be smaller than the business/investment use percentage.

For more information, including the definition of 5% owner and related person and exceptions, see Pub. 946.

Recapture. If you used listed property more than 50% in a qualified business use in the year you placed the property in service, and used it 50% or less in a later year, you may have to include part of the depreciation deducted as income. Use Form 4797, Sales of Business Property, to figure the recapture amount.

Column (a) — Type of property. List on a property-by-property basis all your listed property in the following order.

1. Automobiles and other vehicles.
2. Other listed property (computers and peripheral equipment, etc.).

In column (a), list the make and model of automobiles, and give a general description of other listed property.

If you have more than five vehicles used 100% for business/investment purposes, you may group them by tax year. Otherwise, list each vehicle separately.

Column (b) — Date placed in service. Enter the date the property was placed in service. If property held for personal use is converted to business/investment use, treat the property as placed in service on the date of conversion.

Column (c) — Business/investment use percentage. Enter the percentage of business/investment use. For automobiles and other vehicles, determine this percentage by dividing the number of miles the vehicle is driven for trade or business purposes or for the production of income during the year (not to include any commuting mileage) by the total number of miles the vehicle is driven for all purposes. Treat vehicles used by employees as being used 100% for business/investment purposes if the value of personal use is included in the employees' gross income, or the employees reimburse the employer for the personal use.

Employers who report the amount of personal use of the vehicle in the employee's gross income, and withhold the appropriate taxes, should enter "100%" for the percentage of business/investment use. For more information, see Pub. 463.

For other listed property (such as computers or video equipment), allocate the use based on the most appropriate unit of time the property is actually used (rather than merely being available for use).

If during the tax year you convert property used solely for personal purposes to business/investment use (or vice versa), figure the percentage of business/investment use only for the number of months you use the property in your business or for the production of income. Multiply that percentage by the number of months you use the property in your business or for the production of income, and divide the result by 12.

Column (d) — Cost or other basis. Enter the property's actual cost (including sales tax) or other basis (unadjusted for prior years' depreciation). If you traded in old property, see Property acquired in a like-kind exchange or involuntary conversion beginning on page 5.

For a vehicle, reduce your basis by any qualified electric vehicle credit you claimed. Also, reduce your basis by the amount of any deduction for clean-fuel vehicles placed in service before January 1, 2006, or for vehicles placed in service after December 31, 2005, by any alternative motor vehicle credit or alternative fuel vehicle refueling property credit you claimed.

If you converted the property from personal use to business/investment use, your basis for depreciation is the smaller of the property's adjusted basis or its fair market value on the date of conversion.

Column (e) — Basis for depreciation (business/investment use only).

Multiply column (d) by the percentage in column (c). From that result, subtract any section 179 expense deduction, any special depreciation allowance, any credit for employer-provided childcare facilities and services, and half of any investment credit taken before 1986 (unless you took the reduced credit). For automobiles and other listed property placed in service after 1985 (i.e., transition property), reduce the depreciable basis by the entire investment credit.

Column (f) — Recovery period.

Enter the recovery period. For property placed in service after 1986 and used more than 50% in a qualified business use, use the table in the instructions for line 19, column (d). For property placed in service after 1986 and used 50% or less in a qualified business use, depreciate the property using the straight line method over its ADS recovery period. The ADS recovery period is 5 years for automobiles and computers.

Column (g) — Method/convention.

Enter the method and convention used to figure your depreciation deduction. See the instructions for line 19, columns (e) and (f). Write "200 DB," "150 DB," or "S/L," for the depreciation method, and "HY," "MM," or "MQ," for half-year, mid-month, or mid-quarter conventions, respectively. For property placed in service before 1987, write "PRE" if you used the prescribed percentages under ACRS. If you elected an alternate percentage, enter "S/L."

Column (h) — Depreciation

deduction. See Limits for passenger automobiles, below, before entering an amount in column (h).

For property used more than 50% in a qualified business use (line 26) and placed in service after 1986, figure column (h) by following the instructions for line 19, column (g). If placed in service before 1987, multiply column

(e) by the applicable percentage given in Pub. 534 for ACRS property. If the recovery period for an automobile ended before your tax year beginning in 2005, enter your unrecovered basis, if any, in column (h).

For property used 50% or less in a qualified business use (line 27) and placed in service after 1986, figure column (h) by dividing the amount in column (e) by the amount in column (f). Use the same conventions as discussed in the instructions for line 19, column (e). The amount in column (h) cannot exceed the property's unrecovered basis. If the recovery period for an automobile ended before your tax year beginning in 2005, enter your unrecovered basis, if any, in column (h).

For property placed in service before 1987 that was disposed of during the year, enter zero.

Limits for passenger automobiles.

The depreciation deduction, including section 179 expense deduction, for passenger automobiles is limited for any tax year.

For any passenger automobile (including an electric passenger automobile) you list on line 26 or line 27, the total of columns (h) and (i) on line 26 or 27 and column (h) on line 25 for that automobile cannot exceed the applicable limit shown in Table 1, 2, 3, or 4. If the business/investment use percentage in column (c) for the automobile is less than 100%, you must reduce the applicable limit to an amount equal to the limit multiplied by that percentage. For example, for an automobile (other than a truck or van or an electric automobile) placed in service in 2005 that is used 60% for business/investment, the limit is $1,776 ($2,960 x 60%).

Definitions. For purposes of the limits for passenger automobiles, the following apply.

- Passenger automobiles are 4-wheeled vehicles manufactured primarily for use on public roads that are rated at 6,000 pounds unloaded gross vehicle weight or less (for a truck or van, gross vehicle weight is substituted for unloaded gross vehicle weight).
- Trucks and vans placed in service after 2002 that are not qualified nonpersonal use vehicles (see Exception below) are passenger automobiles built on a truck chassis, including minivans and sport utility vehicles built on a truck chassis.
- Electric passenger automobiles are vehicles produced by an original equipment manufacturer and designed to run primarily on electricity.

Exception. The following vehicles are not considered passenger automobiles.

- An ambulance, hearse, or combination ambulance-hearse used in your trade or business.
- A vehicle used in your trade or business of transporting persons or property for compensation or hire.
- Any truck or van placed in service after July 6, 2003, that is a qualified nonpersonal use vehicle. A truck or van is a qualified nonpersonal use vehicle only if it has been specially modified with the result that it is not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purposes. For example, a van that has only a front bench for seating, in which permanent shelving has been installed, that constantly carries merchandise or equipment, and that has been specially painted with advertising or the company's name, is a vehicle not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purposes.

Exception for clean-fuel

modifications. The limits for passenger automobiles placed in service after August 5, 1997 and before January 1, 2006, do not apply to the cost of any qualified clean fuel property (such as retrofit parts and components) installed on a vehicle to permit that vehicle to run on a clean-burning fuel.

Exception for leasehold property.

The business use requirement and the limits for passenger automobiles generally do not apply to passenger automobiles leased or held by anyone regularly engaged in the business of leasing passenger automobiles.

For a detailed discussion on passenger automobiles, including leased automobiles, see Pub. 463.

Table 4—Limits for Electric Passenger Automobiles Placed in Service After August 5, 1997

IF you placed your electric automobile in service:	AND the number of tax years in which this automobile has been in service is:	THEN the limit on your depreciation and section 179 expense deduction is:
Aug. 6, 1997 — Dec. 31, 1998	4 or more	$5,425
Jan. 1, 1999 — Dec. 31, 2002	4 or more	$5,325
Jan. 1 — Dec. 31, 2003	3	$8,750
	4	$5,225
Jan. 1 — Dec. 31, 2004	2	$14,300
	3	$8,550
Jan. 1 — Dec. 31, 2005	1	$8,880
	2	$14,200

Note. The limit for automobiles (including trucks and vans and electric passenger automobiles) placed in service after December 31, 2005, will be published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin. These amounts were not available at the time these instructions were printed.

Column (i) — Elected section 179 cost. Enter the amount you elect to expense for section 179 property used more than 50% in a qualified business use (subject to the limits for passenger automobiles). Refer to the Part I instructions to determine if the property qualifies under section 179.

You cannot elect to expense more than $25,000 of the cost of any sport utility vehicle (SUV) and certain other vehicles placed in service during the tax year. This rule applies to any 4-wheeled vehicle primarily designed or used to carry passengers over public streets, roads, or highways, that is not subject to the passenger automobile limits, and is rated at more than 6,000 pounds gross vehicle weight and 14,000 pounds gross vehicle weight. However, the $25,000 limit does not apply to any vehicle:

- Designed to seat more than nine persons behind the driver's seat, or
- Equipped with an open cargo area of at least six feet in interior length or a covered box not readily accessible directly from the passenger compartment, or
- That has a fully enclosed driver compartment and load carrying device, does not have seating rearward of the driver's seat, and has no body section protruding more than 30 inches ahead of the leading edge of the windshield.

Recapture of section 179 expense deduction. If you used listed property more than 50% in a qualified business use in the year you placed the property in service and used it 50% or less in a later year, you may have to recapture in the later year part of the section 179 expense deduction. Use Form 4797, Sales of Business Property, to figure the recapture amount.

Section B

Except as noted below, you must complete lines 30 through 36 for each vehicle identified in Section A. Employees must provide their employers with the information requested on lines 30 through 36 for each automobile or vehicle provided for their use.

Exception. Employers are not required to complete lines 30 through 36 for vehicles used by employees who are not more than 5% owners or related persons and for which the question on line 37, 38, 39, 40, or 41 is answered "Yes."

Section C

Employers providing vehicles to their employees satisfy the employer's substantiation requirements under section 274(d) by maintaining a written policy statement that:

- Prohibits personal use including commuting or
- Prohibits personal use except for commuting.

An employee does not need to keep a separate set of records for any vehicle that satisfies these written policy statement rules.

For both written policy statements, there must be evidence that would enable the IRS to determine whether use of the vehicle meets the conditions stated below.

Line 37

A policy statement that prohibits personal use (including commuting) must meet all of the following conditions.

- The employer owns or leases the vehicle and provides it to one or more employees for use in the employer's trade or business.
- When the vehicle is not used in the employer's trade or business, it is kept on the employer's business premises, unless it is temporarily located elsewhere (e.g., for maintenance or because of a mechanical failure).
- No employee using the vehicle lives at the employer's business premises.
- No employee may use the vehicle for personal purposes, other than de minimis personal use (e.g., a stop for lunch between two business deliveries).
- Except for de minimis use, the employer reasonably believes that no employee uses the vehicle for any personal purpose.

Line 38

A policy statement that prohibits personal use (except for commuting) is not available if the commuting employee is an officer, director, or 1% or more owner. This policy must meet all of the following conditions.

- The employer owns or leases the vehicle and provides it to one or more employees for use in the employer's trade or business, and it is used in the employer's trade or business.
- For bona fide noncompensatory business reasons, the employer requires the employee to commute to and/or from work in the vehicle.
- The employer establishes a written policy under which the employee may not use the vehicle for personal purposes, other than commuting or de minimis personal use (e.g., a stop for a personal errand between a business delivery and the employee's home).
- Except for de minimis use, the employer reasonably believes that the employee does not use the vehicle for any personal purpose other than commuting.

- The employer accounts for the commuting use by including an appropriate amount in the employee's gross income.

Line 40

An employer that provides more than five vehicles to its employees who are not 5% owners or related persons need not complete Section B for such vehicles. Instead, the employer must obtain the information from its employees and retain the information received.

Line 41

An automobile meets the requirements for qualified demonstration use if the employer maintains a written policy statement that:

- Prohibits its use by individuals other than full-time automobile salespersons,
- Prohibits its use for personal vacation trips,
- Prohibits storage of personal possessions in the automobile, and
- Limits the total mileage outside the salesperson's normal working hours.

Part VI. Amortization

Each year you can elect to deduct part of certain capital costs over a fixed period.

If you amortize property, the part you amortize does not qualify for the section 179 expense deduction or for depreciation.

Attach any information the Code and regulations may require to make a valid election. See the applicable Code section, regulations, and Pub. 535 for more information.

Line 42

Complete line 42 only for those costs you elect to amortize for which the amortization period begins during your tax year beginning in 2005.

Column (a) — Description of costs. Describe the costs you are amortizing. You can elect to amortize the following.

Pollution control facilities (section 169). You can elect to amortize the cost of a certified pollution control facility over a 60-month period (84 months for certain atmospheric pollution control facilities placed in service after April 11, 2005). See section 169 and the related regulations for details and information required in making the election. Also see Pub. 535.

You can deduct a special depreciation allowance on a certified pollution control facility that is qualified property. However, you must reduce the amount on which you figure your amortization deduction by any special allowance that you claim.

Also, a corporation must reduce its amortizable basis of a pollution control facility by 20% before figuring the amortization deduction.

Certain bond premiums (section 171). For individuals reporting amortization of bond premium for bonds acquired before October 23, 1986, do not report the deduction here. See the instructions for Schedule A (Form 1040), line 27.

For taxpayers (other than corporations) claiming a deduction for amortization of bond premium for bonds acquired after October 22, 1986, but before January 1, 1988, the deduction is treated as interest expense and is subject to the investment interest limitations. Use Form 4952, Investment Interest Expense Deduction, to compute the allowable deduction.

For taxable bonds acquired after 1987, you can elect to amortize the bond premium over the life of the bond by reporting the amortization deduction on line 42 each year the election applies. The amortization deduction offsets the interest income from the bond. See Pub. 550, Investment Income and Expenses.

Research and experimental expenditures (section 174). You can elect to either amortize your research and experimental costs, deduct them as current business expenses, or write them off over a 10-year period. If you elect to amortize these costs, deduct them in equal amounts over 60 months or more. For more information, see Pub. 535.

The cost of acquiring a lease (section 178). Amortize these costs over the term of the lease. For more information, see Pub. 535.

Qualified forestation and reforestation costs (section 194). You can elect to deduct a limited amount of reforestation costs paid or incurred in your tax year beginning in 2005. You can elect to amortize the qualifying costs that are not deducted currently over an 84-month period. There is no limit on the amount of your amortization deduction for reforestation costs paid or incurred in 2005.

See Pub. 535 for more information on amortizing reforestation costs. Partnerships and S corporations, see the instructions for line 44.

Qualified revitalization expenditures (section 1400I). These amounts are certain capital expenditures that relate to a qualified revitalization building located in an area designated as a renewal community. The amount of qualified revitalization expenditures cannot exceed the commercial revitalization expenditure amount allocated to the qualified revitalization building by the commercial revitalization agency for the state in which the building is located.

You can elect to either (a) deduct one-half of the expenditures for the year the building is placed in service or (b) amortize all such expenditures ratably over the 120-month period beginning with the month the building is placed in service. Report any amortization on line 42. Report any deductions on the applicable "Other Deductions" or "Other Expenses" line of your return. This deduction is treated as depreciation for purposes of basis adjustments and ordinary income recapture upon disposition.

Optional write-off of certain tax preferences over the period specified in section 59(e). You can elect to amortize certain tax preference items over an optional period. If you make this election, there is no AMT adjustment. The applicable expenditures and the optional recovery periods are as follows:

- Circulation expenditures (section 173) — 3 years,
- Intangible drilling and development costs (section 263(c)) — 60 months, and
- Research and experimental expenditures (section 174(a)), mining exploration and development costs (section 616(a) and 617(a)) — 10 years.

Certain section 197 intangibles.

The following costs must be amortized over 15 years (180 months) starting with the later of (a) the month the intangibles were acquired or (b) the month the trade or business or activity engaged in for the production of income begins:

- Goodwill;
- Going concern value;
- Workforce in place;
- Business books and records, operating systems, or any other information base;
- A patent, copyright, formula, process, design, pattern, know-how, format, or similar item;
- A customer-based intangible (e.g., composition of market or market share);
- A supplier-based intangible;
- A license, permit, or other right granted by a governmental unit;
- A covenant not to compete entered into in connection with the acquisition of a business; and
- A franchise, trademark, or trade name (including renewals).

A longer period may apply to section 197 intangibles leased under a lease agreement entered into after March 12, 2004, to a tax-exempt organization, governmental unit, or foreign person or entity (other than a partnership). See section 197(f)(10).

A section 197 intangible is treated as depreciable property used in your trade or business. When you dispose of a section 197 intangible any gain on the disposition, up to the amount of allowable amortization, is recaptured as ordinary income. If multiple section 197 intangibles are disposed of in a single transaction or a series of related transactions, you must calculate the recapture as if all of the section 197 intangibles were a single asset.

For more details on section 197 intangibles, see Pub. 535.

Start-up and organizational costs.

You can elect to amortize the following costs for setting up your business.

- Business start-up costs (section 195).
- Organizational costs for a corporation (section 248).
- Organizational costs for a partnership (section 709).

For costs paid or incurred before October 23, 2004, you can elect an amortization period of 60 months or more. For costs paid or incurred after October 22, 2004, you can elect to deduct a limited amount of start-up or organizational costs. The costs that are not deducted currently can be amortized ratably over a 180-month period. The amortization period starts with the month you begin business operations.

Attach the statement required by the appropriate Code section and related regulations. If you have both start-up and organizational costs, attach a separate statement for each type of cost. See Pub. 535 for more details.

The statements required to make the elections must be attached to Form 4562 and filed by the due date, including extensions, of your return for the year in which the active trade or business begins. If you timely filed that return without making the election, you can still make the election on an amended return filed within 6 months of the due date, excluding extensions, of that return. Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" on the amended return.

Creative property costs. These are costs paid or incurred to acquire and develop screenplays, scripts, story outlines, motion picture production rights to books and plays, and other similar properties for purposes of potential future film development, production, and exploitation. You may be able to amortize creative property costs for properties not set for production within 3 years of the first capitalized transaction. These costs are amortized ratably over a 15-year period under the rules of Rev. Proc. 2004-36, 2004-24 I.R.B. 1063.

Geological and geophysical expenditures. For tax years beginning after August 8, 2005, any geological and geophysical expenses paid or incurred in connection with the exploration or development of oil and gas within the U.S. can be amortized ratably over a 24-month period beginning on the date the expenses were paid or incurred. See section 167(h).

Column (b) — Date amortization begins. Enter the date the amortization period begins under the applicable Code section.

Column (c) — Amortizable amount. Enter the total amount you are amortizing. See the applicable Code section for limits on the amortizable amount.

Column (d) — Code section. Enter the Code section under which you amortize the costs. For examples, see the Code sections referenced in the instructions for line 42, column (a), above.

Column (f) — Amortization for this year. Compute the amortization deduction by:

1. Dividing the amount in column (c) by the number of months over which the costs are to be amortized and multiplying the result by the number of months in the amortization period included in your tax year beginning in 2005 or
2. Multiplying the amount in column (c) by the percentage in column (e).

Line 43

If you are reporting the amortization of costs that began before your 2005 tax year and you are not required to file Form 4562 for any other reason, do not file Form 4562. Report the amortization directly on the "Other Deductions" or "Other Expenses" line of your return.

Line 44

Report the total amortization, including the allowable portion of forestation or reforestation amortization, on the applicable "Other Deductions" or "Other Expenses" line of your return. For more details, including limitations that apply, see Pub. 535. Partnerships (other than electing large partnerships) and S corporations, report the amortizable basis of any forestation or reforestation expenses for which amortization is elected and the year in which the amortization begins as a separately stated item on Schedules K and K-1 (Form 1065 or 1120S). See the instructions for Schedule K (Form 1065 or 1120S) for more details on how to report.

Instructions for Form 4797

Sales of Business Property (Also Involuntary Conversions and Recapture Amounts Under Sections 179 and 280F(b)(2))

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

DRAFT

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 4797 to report:

- The sale or exchange of:
  1. Property used in your trade or business;
  2. Depreciable and amortizable property;
  3. Oil, gas, geothermal, or other mineral properties; and
  4. Section 126 property.
- The involuntary conversion (from other than casualty or theft) of property used in your trade or business and capital assets held in connection with a trade or business or a transaction entered into for profit.
- The disposition of noncapital assets (other than inventory or property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of your trade or business).
- The disposition of capital assets not reported on Schedule D.
- The gain or loss (including any related recapture) for partners and S corporation shareholders from certain section 179 property dispositions by partnerships (other than electing large partnerships) and S corporations.
- The computation of recapture amounts under sections 179 and 280F(b)(2) when the business use of section 179 or listed property decreases to 50% or less.

Other Forms To Use

- Use Form 4684, Casualties and Thefts, to report involuntary conversions from casualties and thefts.
- Use Form 6252, Installment Sale Income, to report the sale of property under the installment method.
- Use Form 8824, Like-Kind Exchanges, to report exchanges of qualifying business or investment property for property of a like kind. For exchanges of property used in a trade or business (and other noncapital assets), enter the gain or (loss) from Form 8824, if any, on line 5 or 16.

- If you sold property on which you claimed investment credit, see Form 4255, Recapture of Investment Credit, to find out if you must recapture some or all of the credit.

Special Rules

At-Risk Rules

If you report a loss on an asset used in an activity for which you are not at risk, in whole or in part, see the instructions for Form 6198, At-Risk Limitations. Also, see Pub. 925, Passive Activity and At-Risk Rules.

Losses from passive activities are subject first to the at-risk rules and then to the passive activity rules.

Depreciable Property and Other Property Disposed of in the Same Transaction

If you disposed of both depreciable property and other property (for example, a building and land) in the same transaction and realized a gain, you must allocate the amount realized between the two types of property based on their respective fair market values (FMVs) to figure the part of the gain to be recaptured as ordinary income because of depreciation. The disposition of each type of property is reported

Disposition of Assets That Constitute a Trade or Business

If you sell a group of assets that makes up a trade or business, both you and the buyer generally must allocate the total sales price to the assets transferred and file Form 8594, Asset Acquisition Statement. Pub. 544, Sales and Other Dispositions of Assets, discusses the sale of business assets in chapter 2 under Other Dispositions.

Installment Sales

If you sold property at a gain and you will receive a payment in a tax year after the year of sale, you generally must report the sale on the installment method unless you elect not to do so.

Use Form 6252 to report the sale on the installment method. Also use Form 6252 to report any payment received during your 2005 tax year from a sale made in an earlier year that you reported on the installment method.

To elect out of the installment method, report the full amount of the gain on a timely filed return (including extensions). If you timely filed your tax return without making the election, you can still make the election by filing an amended return within 6 months of the due date of your return (excluding extensions). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" at the top of the amended return.

See Pub. 537, Installment Sales, for more details.

Traders Who Made a Mark-To-Market Election

A trader in securities or commodities may elect under section 475(f) to use the mark-to-market method to account for securities or commodities held in connection with a trading business. Under this method of accounting, any security or commodity held at the end of the tax year is treated as sold (and reacquired) at its FMV on the last business day of that year.

Unless you are a new taxpayer, the election must be made by the due date (not including extensions) of the tax return for the year prior to the year for which the election becomes effective.

If you are a trader in securities or commodities with a mark-to-market election under section 475(f) in effect for the tax year, the following special rules apply.

- Gains and losses from all securities or commodities held in connection with your trading business (including those marked to market) are treated as ordinary income and losses, instead of capital gains and losses. As a result, the lower capital gain tax rates and the limitation on capital losses do not apply.
- The gain or loss from each security or commodity held in connection with your trading business (including those marked to market) is reported on Form 4797, line 10 (see the instructions for line 10 on page 6).
- The wash sale rule does not apply to securities or commodities held in connection with your trading business.

For details on the mark-to-market election and how to make it, see Pub. 550, Investment Income and Expenses; sections 475(e) and 475(f); and Rev. Proc. 99-17, 1999-1 C.B. 503. You can find Rev. Proc. 99-17 on page 52 of Internal Revenue Bulletin 1999-7 at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb99-07.pdf

Involuntary Conversion of Property

You may not have to pay tax on a gain from an involuntary or compulsory conversion of property. See Pub. 544 for details.

Exclusion of Gain on Sale of a Home Used for Business

If the property sold was used for business or to produce rental income and was also owned and used as your home during the 5-year period ending on the date of the sale, you may be able to exclude part or all of the gain figured on Form 4797. For details on the exclusion (including how to figure the amount of the exclusion), see Pub. 523, Selling Your Home.

If the property was held more than 1 year, complete Part III to figure the amount of the gain. Do not take the exclusion into account when figuring the gain on line 24. If line 22 includes depreciation for periods after May 6, 1997, you cannot exclude gain to the extent of that depreciation. On line 2 of Form 4797, write "Section 121 exclusion," and enter the amount of the exclusion as a (loss) in column (g).

If the property was held for 1 year or less, report the sale and the amount of the exclusion, if any, in a similar manner on line 10 of Form 4797.

Passive Loss Limitations

If you have an overall loss from passive activities and you report a loss on an asset used in a passive activity, use Form 8582, Passive Activity Loss Limitations, or Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations, to see how much loss is allowed before entering it on Form 4797.

You cannot claim unused passive activity credits when you dispose of your interest in an activity. However, if you dispose of your entire interest in an activity, you may elect to increase the basis of the credit property by the original basis reduction of the property to the extent that the credit has not been allowed because of the passive activity rules. Make the election on Form 8582-CR, Passive Activity Credit Limitations, or Form 8810. No basis adjustment may be elected on a partial disposition of your interest in an activity.

Recapture of Preproductive Expenses

If you elected out of the uniform capitalization rules of section 263A, any plant that you produce is treated as section 1245 property. For dispositions of plants reportable on Form 4797, enter the recapture amount taxed as ordinary income on line 22 of Form 4797. See Pub. 225, Farmer's Tax Guide, for details.

Section 197(f)(9)(B)(ii) Election

If you elected under section 197(f)(9)(B)(ii) to recognize gain on the disposition of a section 197 intangible and to pay a tax on that gain at the highest tax rate, include the additional tax on Form 1040, line 44 (or the appropriate line of other income tax returns). On the dotted line next to that line, enter "197" and the amount. The additional tax is the amount that, when added to any other income tax on the gain, equals the gain multiplied by the highest tax rate.

Rollover of Gain From Sale of Empowerment Zone Assets

If you sold a qualified empowerment zone asset that you held for more than 1 year, you may be able to elect to postpone part or all of the gain that you would otherwise include on Form 4797, Part I. If you make the election, the gain on the sale generally is recognized only to the extent, if any, that the amount realized on the sale exceeds the cost of qualified empowerment zone assets (replacement property) you purchased during the 60-day period beginning on the date of the sale. The following rules apply.

- No portion of the cost of the replacement property may be taken into account to the extent the cost is taken into account to exclude gain on a different empowerment zone asset.
- The replacement property must qualify as an empowerment zone asset with respect to the same empowerment zone as the asset sold.
- You must reduce the basis of the replacement property by the amount of postponed gain.
- This election does not apply to any gain (a) treated as ordinary income or (b) attributable to real property, or an intangible asset, which is not an integral part of an enterprise zone business.
- The District of Columbia enterprise zone is not treated as an empowerment zone for this purpose.
- The election is irrevocable without IRS consent.

See Pub. 954, Tax Incentives for Distressed Communities, for the definition of empowerment zone and enterprise zone business. You can find out if your business is located within an empowerment zone by using the RC/EZ/EC Address Locator at www.hud.gov/crlocator.

Qualified empowerment zone assets are:

- Tangible property, if:
  1. You acquired the property after December 21, 2000,
  2. The original use of the property in the empowerment zone began with you, and
  3. Substantially all of the use of the property, during substantially all of the time that you held it, was in your enterprise zone business; and
- Stock in a domestic corporation or a capital or profits interest in a domestic partnership, if:

1. You acquired the stock or partnership interest after December 21, 2000, solely in exchange for cash, from the corporation at its original issue (directly or through an underwriter) or from the partnership;

2. The business was an enterprise zone business (or a new business being organized as an enterprise zone business) as of the time you acquired the stock or partnership interest; and

3. The business qualified as an enterprise zone business during substantially all of the time during which you held the stock or partnership interest.

How to report. Report the entire gain realized from the sale as you otherwise would without regard to the election. On Form 4797, line 2, enter "Section 1397B Rollover" in column (a) and enter as a (loss) in column (g) the amount of gain included on Form 4797 that you are electing to postpone. If you are reporting the sale directly on Form 4797, line 2, use the line directly below the line on which you reported the sale.

See section 1397B for more details.

Exclusion of Gain From Sale of DC Zone Assets

If you sold or exchanged a District of Columbia Enterprise Zone (DC Zone) asset that you held for more than 5 years, you may be able to exclude the "qualified capital gain." The qualified gain is, generally, any gain recognized in a trade or business that you would otherwise include on Form 4797, Part I. This exclusion also applies to an interest in, or property of, certain businesses operating in the District of Columbia.

DC Zone asset. A DC Zone asset is any of the following:

- DC Zone business stock.
- DC Zone partnership interest.
- DC Zone business property.

Qualified capital gain. The qualified capital gain is any gain recognized on the sale or exchange of a DC Zone asset that is a capital asset or property used in a trade or business. It does not include any of the following gains.

- Gain treated as ordinary income under section 1245;
- Gain treated as unrecaptured section 1250 gain. The section 1250 gain must be figured as if it applied to all depreciation rather than the additional depreciation;
- Gain attributable to real property, or an intangible asset, which is not an integral part of a DC Zone business; and

- Gain from a related-party transaction. See Sales and Exchanges Between Related Persons in chapter 2 of Pub. 544.

See Pub. 954, Tax Incentives for Distressed Communities, and section 1400B for more details on DC Zone assets and special rules.

How to report. Report the entire gain realized from the sale or exchange as you otherwise would without regard to the exclusion. To report the exclusion, enter "DC Zone Asset Exclusion" on Form 4797, line 2, column (a) and enter as a (loss) in column (g) the amount of the exclusion that offsets the gain reported in Part I, line 6.

Any unrecaptured section 1250 gain is not qualified capital gain. Identify the amount of gain that is unrecaptured section 1250 gain and report it on the Schedule D for the form you are filing.

Election To Defer Gain From Qualifying Electric Transmission Transactions

If you sold or exchanged qualifying electric transmission property in 2005, you may elect to defer part of the realized gain. The sale or disposition must be made to an independent transmission company. If you make the election, part or all of the realized gain is recognized ratably over the 8-year period that begins with the tax year that includes the date of the disposition. The amount of gain that is not eligible to be recognized over the 8-year period is the excess, if any, of the amount realized from the disposition over the cost of the exempt utility property purchased during the 4-year period beginning on the date of the disposition.

To make the election, you must attach a statement to your timely filed return (including extensions) for the tax year in which the qualifying electric transmission transaction occurred (members of an affiliated group of corporations filing a consolidated return, attach the election to the consolidated tax return). The statement must provide all of the following details regarding the qualifying electric transmission transaction, including:

1. A description of the items of property sold;
2. The date of the qualifying electric transmission transaction;

3. The amount of proceeds realized and the amount of gain realized;

4. A description of any exempt utility property purchased, its cost, the date of purchase, and the identity of the purchaser (taxpayer or other member of the taxpayer's affiliated group); and

5. A representation indicating the total cost of exempt utility property the taxpayer intends to purchase.

Once made, the election is irrevocable.

How to report. Report the sale or disposition of the qualifying electric transmission property in Part III of the Form 4797 without regard to any deferred gain. Enter the amounts from lines 31 and 32 on lines 13 and 6, respectively, of Form 4797.

Figure the gain eligible for deferral and enter it as a loss in column (g) of line 2, but only to the extent of the gain from the transaction included on line 6. Enter "Deferred gain under section 451(i)" in column (a) of line 2. Enter any remaining gain eligible for deferral as a loss in column (g) of line 10. Enter "Deferred gain under section 451(i)" in column (a) of line 10. The recognized gain for the tax year of the disposition must equal the gain, if any, not eligible for deferral plus  $\frac{1}{8}$  of the deferred gain.

Specific Instructions

To show losses, enclose figures in parentheses).

If you disposed of property you acquired by inheritance, enter "INHERITED" in column (b) instead of the date you acquired the property.

Disposition by a Partnership or S Corporation of Section 179 Property

Partnerships (other than electing large partnerships) and S corporations that sell or otherwise dispose of property for which the section 179 expense deduction was previously claimed and passed through to the partners or shareholders must follow these instructions to report the transaction. Partners and shareholders who receive a Schedule K-1 showing such a disposition must also follow these instructions to report the transaction.

Partnerships and S corporations. Partnerships and S corporations do not report these transactions on Form 4797, 4684, 6252, or 8824. Instead, all details of the sale or other disposition must be separately reported on Schedule K-1, including:

- Description of the property.
  - Date the property was acquired and placed in service.
  - Date of the sale or other disposition of the property.
  - The partner's or shareholder's share of the gross sales price or amount realized.
  - The partner's or shareholder's share of the cost or other basis plus the expense of sale (reduced as explained in the instructions for Form 4797, line 21).
  - The partner's or shareholder's share of the depreciation allowed or allowable, determined as described in the instructions for Form 4797, line 22, but excluding the section 179 expense deduction.
  - The partner's or shareholder's share of the section 179 expense deduction (if any) passed through for the property and the partnership's tax year(s) in which the amount was passed through.
  - If the disposition is due to a casualty or theft, a statement indicating so, and any additional information needed by the partner or shareholder to complete Form 4684.
  - If the disposition was an installment sale made during the partnership's or S corporation's tax year reported using the installment method, any information needed by the partner or shareholder to complete Form 6252.
- The partnership or S corporation also must separately report the partner's or shareholder's share of all payments received for the property in the following tax years. (Installment payments received for sales made in prior tax years should be reported in the same manner used in the prior tax years.) See the instructions for Form 6252 for details.
- If the disposition was a disposition of property given up in an exchange involving like-kind property made during the partnership's or S corporation's tax year, any information needed by the partner or shareholder to complete Form 8824.

See the instructions for Schedule K (Form 1065 or 1120S) for more details.

Partners and S corporation shareholders.

If you receive a Schedule K-1 reporting such a transaction, you must report your share of the transaction on Form 4797, 4684, 6252, or 8824 (whether or not you were a partner or shareholder at the time the section 179 expense deduction was claimed). If you have a carryforward of unused section 179 expense deduction that includes section 179 expense deduction previously passed through to you for the disposed asset, you must reduce your carryforward by your share of the section 179 expense deduction shown on Schedule K-1 (or the amount attributable to that property included in your carryforward amount). See the worksheet on the next page to figure the amounts to report on Form 4797, 4684, 6252, or 8824, and to figure any reduction in your carryforward of unused section 179 expense deduction.

Line 1

Enter on line 1 the total gross proceeds from:

- Sales or exchanges of real estate reported to you for 2005 on Form(s) 1099-S (or substitute statement) that you are including on line 2, 10, or 20 and
- Sales of securities or commodities reported to you for 2005 on Forms 1099-B (or substitute statements) that you are including on line 10 because you are a trader with a mark-to-market election under section 475(f) in effect for the tax year. See Traders Who Made a Mark-To-Market Election on page 2 and the instructions for line 10 on page 6.

Part I

Use Part I to report section 1231 transactions that are not required to be reported in Part III.

Section 1231 transactions. The following are section 1231 transactions.

- Sales or exchanges of real or depreciable property used in a trade or business and held for more than 1 year. To figure the holding period, begin counting on the day after you received the property and include the day you disposed of it.
- Cutting of timber that the taxpayer elects to treat as a sale or exchange under section 631(a).
- Disposal of timber with a retained economic interest that is treated as a sale, or an outright sale of timber, under section 631(b).
- Disposal of coal (including lignite) or domestic iron ore with a retained economic interest that is treated as a sale under section 631(c).

- Sales or exchanges of unharvested crops. See section 1231(b)(4).
- Involuntary conversions of trade or business property or capital assets held more than 1 year in connection with a trade or business or a transaction entered into for profit. These conversions may result from (a) part or total destruction, (b) theft or seizure, or (c) requisition or condemnation (whether threatened or carried out). If any recognized losses were from involuntary conversions from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty or from theft and the losses exceed the recognized gains from the conversions, do not include any gains or losses from such conversions when figuring your net section 1231 losses.

Transactions to which section 1231 does not apply. Section 1231 transactions do not include sales or exchanges of:

- Inventory or property held primarily for sale to customers;
- Copyrights, literary, musical, or artistic compositions, letters or memoranda, or similar property (a) created by your personal efforts, (b) prepared or produced for you (in the case of letters, memoranda, or similar property), or (c) received from someone who created them or for whom they were created, as mentioned in (a) or (b), in a way that entitled you to the basis of the previous owner (such as by gift); or
- U.S. Government publications, including the Congressional Record, that you received from the Government other than by purchase at the normal sales price or that you got from someone who had received it in a similar way, if your basis is determined by reference to the previous owner's basis.

Line 7

Partners and S corporation shareholders receive a Schedule K-1 (Form 1065 or 1120S), which includes amounts that must be reported on the Form 4797. Following the instructions for Schedule K-1, enter any amounts from your Schedule K-1 (Schedule K-1 (Form 1120S), box 9, or Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), box 10) in Part I of the Form 4797.

If the amount from line 7 is a gain and you do not have unrecaptured section 1231 losses from prior years (see instructions for line 8), enter the gain from line 7 as a long-term capital gain on the Schedule D for the return you are filing.

Line 8

Your net section 1231 gain on line 7 is treated as ordinary income to the extent of your "nonrecaptured section 1231 losses." Your nonrecaptured section 1231 losses are your net section 1231 losses deducted during the 5 preceding tax years that have not yet been applied against any net section 1231 gain to determine how much net section 1231 gain is treated as ordinary income under this rule.

Example. You had net section 1231 losses of $4,000 and $6,000 in 2000 and 2001, respectively, and net section 1231 gains of $3,000 and $2,000 in 2004 and 2005, respectively. The 2005 net section 1231 gain of $2,000 is entered on line 7 and the nonrecaptured net section 1231 losses of $7,000 ($10,000 net section 1231 losses minus the $3,000 that was applied against the 2004 net section 1231 gain) are entered on line 8. The entire $2,000 net section 1231 gain on line 7 is treated as ordinary income and is entered on line 12 of Form 4797. For recordkeeping purposes, the $4,000 loss from 2000 is all recaptured ($3,000 in 2004 and $1,000 in 2005), and you have $5,000 of section 1231 losses from 2001 left to recapture ($6,000 minus the $1,000 recaptured this year).

Figuring the Prior Year Losses

You had a net section 1231 loss if section 1231 losses exceeded section 1231 gains. Gains are included only to the extent taken into account in figuring gross income. Losses are included only to the extent taken into account in figuring taxable income except that the limitation on capital losses does not apply.

Line 9

For recordkeeping purposes, if line 9 is zero, the amount on line 7 is the amount of net section 1231 loss recaptured in 2005. If line 9 is more than zero, you have recaptured all of your net section 1231 losses from prior years.

Enter the gain from line 9 as a long-term capital gain on the Schedule D for the return you are filing.

Part II

If a transaction is not reportable in Part I or Part III and the property is not a capital asset reportable on Schedule D, report the transaction in Part II.

If you received ordinary income from a sale or other disposition of your interest in a partnership, see Pub. 541, Partnerships.

Line 10

Report other ordinary gains and losses, including gains and losses from property held 1 year or less, on this line.

Deduct the loss from a qualifying abandonment of business or investment property on line 10. See Abandonments in Pub. 544 for more information.

Securities or Commodities Held by a Trader Who Made a Mark-To-Market Election

Report on line 10 all gains and losses from sales and dispositions of securities or commodities held in connection with your trading business, including gains and losses from marking to market securities and commodities held at the end of the tax year (see Traders Who Made a Mark-To-Market Election on page 2). Attach to your tax return a statement, using the same format as line 10, showing the details of each transaction. Separately show and identify securities or commodities held and marked to market at the end of the year. On line 10, enter "Trader—see attached" in column (a) and the totals from the statement in columns (d), (f), and (g). Also, see the instructions for line 1 on page 4.

Small Business Investment Company Stock

Report on line 10 ordinary losses from the sale or exchange (including worthlessness) of stock in a small business investment company operating under the Small Business Investment Act of 1958. See section 1242.

Also attach a statement that includes the name and address of the small business investment company and, if applicable, the reason the stock is worthless and the approximate date it became worthless.

Section 1244 (Small Business) Stock

Individuals report ordinary losses from the sale or exchange (including worthlessness) of section 1244 (small business) stock on line 10.

To qualify as section 1244 stock, all six of the following requirements must be met.

1. You acquired the stock after June 30, 1958, upon original issuance of the shares from a domestic corporation (or the stock was acquired by a partnership in which you were a partner continuously from the date the stock was issued until the time of the loss).

2. If the stock was issued before November 7, 1978, it was issued under a written plan that met the requirements of Regulations section 1.1244(c)-1(f), and when that plan was adopted, the corporation was treated as a small business corporation under Regulations section 1.1244(c)-2(c).

3. If the stock was issued after November 6, 1978, the corporation was treated as a small business corporation at the time the stock was issued under Regulations section 1.1244(c)-2(b). To be treated as a small business corporation, the total amount of money and other property received by the corporation for its stock as a contribution to capital and paid-in surplus generally may not exceed $1 million.

4. The stock was issued for money or other property (excluding stock or securities).

5. The corporation, for its 5 most recent tax years ending before the date of the loss, derived more than 50% of its gross receipts from sources other than royalties, rents, dividends, interest, annuities, and gains from sales and exchanges of stocks or securities. (If the corporation was in existence for at least 1 tax year but fewer than 5 tax years ending before the date of the loss, the 50% test applies for the tax years ending before that date. If the corporation was not in existence for at least 1 tax year ending before the date of the loss, the 50% test applies for the entire period ending before that date.) The 50% test does not apply if the corporation's deductions (other than the net operating loss and dividends-received deductions) exceeded its gross income during the applicable period. But this exception to the 50% test applies only if the corporation was largely an operating company within the 5 most recent tax years ending before the date of the loss (or, if less, the entire period the corporation was in existence).

6. If the stock was issued before July 19, 1984, it must have been common stock.

The maximum amount that may be treated as an ordinary loss is $50,000 ($100,000 if married filing jointly). Special rules may limit the amount of your ordinary loss if (a) you received section 1244 stock in exchange for property with a basis in excess of its FMV or (b) your stock basis increased because of contributions to capital or otherwise. See Pub. 550 for more details. Report on Schedule D losses in excess of the maximum amount that may be treated as an ordinary loss (and all gains) from the sale or exchange of section 1244 stock.

Keep adequate records to distinguish section 1244 stock from any other stock owned in the same corporation.

Line 18a

You must complete this line if there is a gain on Form 4797, line 3; a loss on Form 4797, line 11; and a loss on Form 4684, line 35, column (b)(ii). Enter on this line the smaller of the loss on Form 4797, line 11, or the loss on Form 4684, line 35, column (b)(ii). To figure which loss is smaller, treat both losses as positive numbers. Enter the part of the loss from income-producing property on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 27, and the part of the loss from property used as an employee on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 22.

Part III

Partnerships and S corporations, see Partnerships and S corporations at the beginning of the Specific Instructions. Partners and shareholders reporting a disposition of section 179 property which was separately reported to you on Schedule K-1 (Form 1065 or 1120S), see Partners and S corporation shareholders at the beginning of the Specific Instructions.

Generally, for property held 1 year or less, do not complete Part III; instead use Part II. For exceptions, see the chart on page 1.

Use Part III to figure recapture of depreciation and certain other items that must be reported as ordinary income on the disposition of property. Fill out lines 19 through 24 to determine the gain on the disposition of the property. If you have more than four properties to report, use additional forms. For more details on depreciation recapture, see Pub. 544.

Note. If the property was sold on the installment sale basis, see the Instructions for Form 6252 before completing Part III. Also, if you have both installment sales and noninstallment sales, you may want to use separate Forms 4797, Part III, for the installment sales and the noninstallment sales.

Line 20

The gross sales price includes money, the FMV of other property received, and any existing mortgage or other debt the buyer assumes or takes the property subject to. For casualty or theft gains, include insurance or other reimbursement you received or expect to receive for each item. Include on this line your insurance coverage, whether or not you are submitting a claim for reimbursement.

For section 1255 property disposed of in a sale, exchange, or involuntary conversion, enter the amount realized. For section 1255 property disposed of in any other way, enter the FMV.

Line 21

Reduce the cost or other basis of the property by the amount of any diesel-powered highway vehicle credit, enhanced oil recovery credit, or disabled access credit. However, do not adjust the cost or other basis for any of the items taken into account on line 22.

Line 22

Complete the following steps to figure the amount to enter on line 22.

Step 1. Add the following amounts.

- Deductions allowed or allowable for depreciation (including any special depreciation allowance (see the Form 4562 Instructions)), amortization, depletion, or preproductive expenses.
- The section 179 expense deduction.
- The commercial revitalization deduction.
- The downward basis adjustment under section 50(c) (or the corresponding provision of prior law).
- The deduction for qualified clean-fuel vehicle property or refueling property.
- Deductions claimed under section 190, 193, or 1253(d)(2) or (3) (as in effect before the enactment of P.L. 103-66).
- The basis reduction for the qualified electric vehicle credit.
- The basis reduction for the employer-provided childcare facility credit.

Step 2. From the Step 1 total, subtract the following amounts.

- Any investment credit recapture amount if the basis of the property was reduced in the tax year the property was placed in service under section 50(c)(1) (or the corresponding provision of prior law). See section 50(c)(2) (or the corresponding provision of prior law).

- Any section 179 or 280F(b)(2) recapture amount included in gross income in a prior tax year because the business use of the property decreased to 50% or less.
- Any qualified clean-fuel vehicle property or refueling property deduction you were required to recapture because the property ceased to be eligible for the deduction.
- Any basis increase for qualified electric vehicle credit recapture.
- Any basis increase for recapture of the employer-provided childcare facility credit.

You may have to include depreciation allowed or allowable on another asset (and refigure the basis amount for line 21) if you use its adjusted basis in determining the adjusted basis of the property described on line 19. An example is property acquired by a trade-in. See Regulations section 1.1245-2(a)(4). Also, see Like-Kind Exchanges under Nontaxable Exchanges in chapter 1 of Pub. 544.

Line 23

For section 1255 property, enter the adjusted basis of the section 126 property disposed of.

Line 25

Section 1245 property is property that is depreciable (or amortizable under section 185 (repealed), 197, or 1253(d)(2) or (3) (as in effect before the enactment of P.L. 103-66)) and is one of the following.

- Personal property.
- Elevators and escalators placed in service before 1987.
- Real property (other than property described under tangible real property below) subject to amortization or deductions under section 169, 179, 179A, 179B, 185 (repealed), 188 (repealed), 190, 193, or 194.
- Tangible real property (except buildings and their structural components) if it is used in any of the following ways.

1. As an integral part of manufacturing, production, or extraction or of furnishing transportation, communications, or certain public utility services.
2. As a research facility in these activities.
3. For the bulk storage of fungible commodities (including commodities in a liquid or gaseous state) used in these activities.

- A single purpose agricultural or horticultural structure (as defined in section 168(i)(13)).
- A storage facility (not including a building or its structural components) used in connection with the distribution of petroleum or any primary petroleum product.
- Any railroad grading or tunnel bore (as defined in section 168(e)(4)).

Exceptions and limits. See section 1245(b) for exceptions and limits involving the following.

- Gifts.
- Transfers at death.
- Certain tax-free transactions.
- Certain like-kind exchanges, involuntary conversions, etc.
- Exchanges to comply with SEC orders.
- Property distributed by a partnership to a partner.
- Transfers to tax-exempt organizations where the property will be used in an unrelated business.
- Timber property.

Special rules. See the following sections for special rules.

- Section 1245(a)(4) (repealed) for player contracts and section 1056(c) (repealed) for information required from the transferor of a franchise of any sports enterprise, for sales or exchanges before October 23, 2004, involving the transfer of player contracts.
- Section 1245(a)(5) (repealed) for property placed in service before 1987, if only a portion of a building is section 1245 recovery property.
- Section 1245(a)(6) (repealed) for qualified leased property placed in service before 1987.

Line 26

Section 1250 property is depreciable real property (other than section 1245 property). Generally, section 1250 recapture applies if you used an accelerated depreciation method or you claimed the 30% or 50% special depreciation allowance, or the commercial revitalization deduction.

Section 1250 recapture does not apply to dispositions of the following MACRS property placed in service after 1986 (or after July 31, 1986, if elected). You are not required to calculate additional depreciation for these properties on line 26.

- 27.5-year (or 40-year, if elected) residential rental property (except for 27.5 year qualified New York Liberty Zone property acquired after September 10, 2001).

- 22-, 31.5-, or 39-year (or 40-year, if elected) nonresidential real property (except for 39-year qualified New York Liberty Zone property acquired after September 10, 2001, and property for which you elected to claim a commercial revitalization deduction).

ACRS property. Real property depreciable under ACRS (pre-1987 rules) is subject to recapture under section 1245, except for the following, which are treated as section 1250 property.

- 15-, 18-, or 19-year real property and low-income housing that is residential rental property.
- 15-, 18-, or 19-year real property and low-income housing that is used mostly outside the United States.
- 15-, 18-, or 19-year real property and low-income housing for which a straight line election was made.
- Low-income rental housing described in clause (i), (ii), (iii), or (iv) of section 1250(a)(1)(B). See the instructions for line 26b.

Exceptions and limits. See section 1250(d) for exceptions and limits involving the following.

- Gifts.
- Transfers at death.
- Certain tax-free transactions.
- Certain like-kind exchanges, involuntary conversions, etc.
- Exchanges to comply with SEC orders.
- Property distributed by a partnership to a partner.
- Disposition of qualified low-income housing.
- Transfers of property to tax-exempt organizations if the property will be used in an unrelated business.
- Dispositions of property as a result of foreclosure proceedings.

Special rules. Special rules apply in the following cases.

- For additional depreciation attributable to rehabilitation expenditures, see section 1250(b)(4).
- If substantial improvements have been made, see section 1250(f).

Line 26a

Enter the additional depreciation for the period after 1975. Additional depreciation is the excess of actual depreciation (including any 30% or 50% special depreciation allowance, or commercial revitalization deduction) over depreciation figured using the straight line method. For this purpose, do not reduce the basis under section 50(c)(1) (or the corresponding provision of prior law) to figure straight line depreciation. Also, if you claimed a commercial revitalization deduction, figure straight-line depreciation using the property's applicable recovery period under section 168.

Line 26b

Generally, use 100% as the percentage for this line. However, for low-income rental housing described in clause (i), (ii), (iii), or (iv) of section 1250(a)(1)(B), see that section for the percentage to use.

Line 26d

Enter the additional depreciation after 1969 and before 1976. If straight line depreciation exceeds the actual depreciation for the period after 1975, reduce line 26d by the excess. Do not enter less than zero on line 26d.

Line 26f

The amount the corporation treats as ordinary income under section 291 is 20% of the excess, if any, of the amount that would be treated as ordinary income if such property were section 1245 property, over the amount treated as ordinary income under section 1250. If the corporation used the straight line method of depreciation, the ordinary income under section 291 is 20% of the amount figured under section 1245.

Line 27

Partnerships (other than electing large partnerships) skip this section. Partners must enter on the applicable lines of Part III amounts subject to section 1252 according to instructions from the partnership.

You may have ordinary income on the disposition of certain farmland held more than 1 year but less than 10 years.

Refer to section 1252 to determine if there is ordinary income on the disposition of certain farmland for which deductions were allowed under sections 175 (soil and water conservation) and 182 (land clearing) (repealed). Skip line 27 if you dispose of such farmland during the 10th or later year after you acquired it.

Gain from disposition of certain farmland is subject to ordinary income rules under section 1252 before the application of section 1231 (Part I).

Enter 100% of line 27a on line 27b except as follows.

- 80% if the farmland was disposed of within the 6th year after it was acquired.

- 60% if disposed of within the 7th year.
- 40% if disposed of within the 8th year.
- 20% if disposed of within the 9th year.

Line 28

If you had a gain on the disposition of oil, gas, or geothermal property placed in service before 1987, treat all or part of the gain as ordinary income. Include on line 22 of Form 4797 any depletion allowed (or allowable) in determining the adjusted basis of the property.

If you had a gain on the disposition of oil, gas, geothermal, or other mineral properties (section 1254 property) placed in service after 1986, you must recapture all expenses that were deducted as intangible drilling costs, depletion, mine exploration costs, and development costs under sections 263, 616, and 617.

Exception. Property placed in service after 1986 and acquired under a written contract entered into before September 26, 1985, and binding at all times thereafter is treated as placed in service before 1987.

Note. A corporation that is an integrated oil company completes line 28a by treating amounts amortized under section 291(b)(2) as deductions under section 263(c).

Line 28a

If the property was placed in service before 1987, enter the total expenses after 1975 that:

- Were deducted by the taxpayer or any other person as intangible drilling and development costs under section 263(c) (except previously expensed mining costs that were included in income upon reaching the producing state) and
- Would have been reflected in the adjusted basis of the property if they had not been deducted.

If the property was placed in service after 1986, enter the total expenses that:

- Were deducted under section 263, 616, or 617 by the taxpayer or any other person; and
- But for such deduction, would have been included in the basis of the property, plus
- The deduction under section 611 that reduced the adjusted basis of such property.

If you disposed of a portion of section 1254 property or an undivided interest in it, see section 1254(a)(2).

Line 29a

Use 100% if the property is disposed of less than 10 years after receipt of payments excluded from income. Use 100% minus 10% for each year, or part of a year, that the property was held over 10 years after receipt of the excluded payments. Use zero if 20 years or more.

Line 29b

If any part of the gain shown on line 24 is treated as ordinary income under sections 1231 through 1254 (for example, section 1252), enter the smaller of (a) line 24 reduced by the part of the gain treated as ordinary income under the other provision or (b) line 29a.

Part IV

Column (a)

If you took a section 179 expense deduction for property placed in service after 1986 (other than listed property, as defined in section 280F(d)(4)) and the business use of the property decreased to 50% or less this year, complete column (a) of lines 33 through 35 to figure the recapture amount.

Column (b)

If you have listed property that you placed in service in a prior year and the business use decreased to 50% or less this year, figure the amount to be recaptured under section 280F(b)(2). Complete column (b), lines 33 through 35. See Pub. 463, Travel, Entertainment, Gift, and Car Expenses, for more details on recapture of excess depreciation.

Note. If you have more than one property subject to the recapture rules, figure the recapture amounts separately for each property. Show these calculations on a separate statement and attach it to your tax return.

Line 33

In column (a), enter the section 179 expense deduction you claimed when the property was placed in service. In column (b), enter the depreciation allowable on the property in prior tax years (plus any section 179 expense deduction you claimed when the property was placed in service).

Line 34

In column (a), enter the depreciation that would have been allowable on the section 179 property from the year the property was placed in service through (and including) the current year. See Pub. 946, How To Depreciate Property.

In column (b), enter the depreciation that would have been allowable if the property had not been used more than 50% in a qualified business. Figure the depreciation from the year it was placed in service up to (but not including) the current year. See Pub. 463 and Pub. 946.

Line 35

Subtract line 34 from line 33 and enter the recapture amount as "other income" on the same form or schedule on which you took the deduction. For example, if you took the deduction on Schedule C (Form 1040), report the recapture amount as other income on Schedule C (Form 1040).

Note. If you filed Schedule C or F (Form 1040) and the property was used in both your trade or business and for the production of income, the portion of the recapture amount attributable to your trade or business is subject to self-employment tax. Allocate the amount on line 35 to the appropriate schedules.

Be sure to increase your basis in the property by the recapture amount.

General Instructions

Purpose of form. Use Form 4835 to report farm rental income based on crops or livestock produced by the tenant if you were the landowner (or sub-lessor) and did not materially participate in the operation or management of the farm. If you were a tenant, use Schedule F (Form 1040) to report farm income and expenses.

Landowners (or sub-lessors) must not use this form to report cash rent received for pasture or farmland if the amount is based on a flat charge. Report this income directly on Schedule E (Form 1040).

Use this form only if the activity is a rental activity for purposes of the passive activity loss limitations. See the Instructions for Form 8582, Passive Activity Loss Limitations, for the definition of "rental activity."

If you have net income on line 32, your tax may be less if you figure it using Schedule J (Form 1040).

Additional information. For more information, including the definition of material participation, see the Instructions for Schedule F and Pub. 225, Farmer's Tax Guide.

Specific Instructions

Employer ID number. You need an employer identification number (EIN) only if you had a qualified retirement plan or were required to file an employment, excise, or alcohol, tobacco, and firearms tax return. If you need an EIN, see the Instructions for Form SS-4.

Line A. Generally, you are considered to actively participate if you participated in making management decisions or arranging for others to provide services (such as repairs) in a significant and bona fide sense. Management decisions that are relevant in this context include approving new tenants, deciding on rental terms, approving capital or repair expenditures, and other similar decisions. You do not, however, actively participate if at any time during the year your interest (including your spouse's interest) in the activity was less than 10% (by value) of all interests in the activity.

Part I. Gross Farm Rental Income—Based on Production

Line 1. Report income you received from livestock, produce, grains, and other crops based on production. Under both the cash and the accrual methods of reporting, you must report livestock or crop share rentals received in the year you convert them into money or its equivalent.

Lines 2a and 2b. Enter on line 2a your total distributions from cooperatives as shown on Form 1099-PATR, Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives. On line 2b report the taxable amount. See the instructions for Schedule F, lines 5a and 5b, on page F-2.

Lines 3a and 3b. Enter on line 3a the total agricultural program payments you received. On line 3b report the taxable amount. See the instructions for Schedule F, lines 6a and 6b, that begin on page F-2.

Lines 4a through 4c. Report the full amount of CCC loans forfeited, even if you reported the loan proceeds as income. See the instructions for Schedule F, lines 7a through 7c, on page F-3.

Lines 5a through 5d. In general, you must report crop insurance proceeds in the year you receive them. Federal crop disaster payments are treated as crop insurance proceeds. However, if you use the cash method of accounting and 2005 was the year of damage, you can elect to include certain proceeds in income for 2006. To do this, check the box on line 5c and attach a statement to your return. See Pub. 225.

Generally, if you elect to defer any eligible crop insurance proceeds, you must defer all such crop insurance proceeds (including federal crop disaster payments).

For details on how to complete lines 5a through 5d, see the instructions for Schedule F, lines 8a through 8d, on page F-3.

Part II. Expenses—Farm Rental Property

Capitalizing costs of property. If you produced real or tangible personal property or acquired property for resale, certain expenses may have to be included in inventory costs or capitalized. These expenses include the direct costs of the property and the share of any indirect costs allocable to that property. However, these rules generally do not apply to expenses of:

- Producing any plant that has a preproductive period of 2 years or less,
- Raising animals, or
- Replanting certain crops if they were lost or damaged by reason of freezing temperatures, disease, drought, pests, or casualty.

But you may be able to currently deduct rather than capitalize the expenses of producing a plant with a preproductive period of more than 2 years. See Election to deduct certain preproductive period expenses in the Instructions for Schedule F on page F-3.

Do not reduce your expenses on lines 8 through 30f by the preproductive period expenses you must capitalize. Instead, enter the total amount capitalized in parentheses on line 30g. Reduce your total expenses by this amount before entering an amount on line 31. On the line to the left of the line 30g entry space, enter "263A."

Line 10. Expenses you paid or incurred for soil and water conservation can only be deducted if they are consistent with a conservation plan approved by the Natural Resources Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture for the area in which your land is located. If no plan exists, your expenses must be consistent with a soil conservation plan of a comparable state agency. See the Instructions for Schedule F, line 14, on page F-4.

Line 12. Enter your depreciation and section 179 expense deduction. For details, including whether you must file Form 4562, Depreciation and Amortization, see the Instructions for Schedule C (Form 1040), line 13, on page C-4.

Lines 19a and 19b. The tax treatment of interest expense differs depending on its type. For example, home mortgage interest and investment interest are treated differently. You must allocate (classify) your interest expense so it is deducted on the correct line of your tax return and it gets the right tax treatment. These rules could affect how much interest you are allowed to deduct on Form 4835. See the Instructions for Schedule F, lines 23a and 23b, on page F-5.

Line 22a. If you rented or leased vehicles, machinery, or equipment, enter on line 22a the business portion of your rental cost. But if you leased a vehicle for a term of 30 days or more, you may have to reduce your deduction by an inclusion amount. See Leasing a Car in Pub. 463.

Lines 30a through 30g. Enter expenses not listed on another line. See the Instructions for Schedule F, lines 34a through 34f, on page F-6.

Line 33. To determine your deductible loss, you may need to complete Form 8582. However, if you checked box 33b, you must complete Form 6198, At-Risk Limitations, before you complete Form 8582. See the Instructions for Schedule F, line 37, on page F-6.

Do not complete Form 8582 if either of the following applies.

- You meet all three of the conditions listed under Exception for Certain Rental Real Estate Activities in the Instructions for Schedule E on page E-2. Instead, enter your deductible loss on line 33c and on Schedule E, line 40.
- You were a real estate professional (as defined in the Instructions for Schedule E on page E-1) and you materially participated in the operation of this activity (under the passive loss rules). See the Instructions for Form 8582 for the definition of material participation. Your loss is not subject to the passive activity loss limitations. Instead, enter your deductible loss on line 33c and on Schedule E, line 40. Also, include the loss in the total for Schedule E, line 43.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, 2 hr., 57 min.; Learning about the law or the form, 4 min.; Preparing the form, 1 hr., 1 min.; and Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the IRS, 20 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. See the Instructions for Form 1040.

Note. Form 4868 and instructions have been revised to reflect that it is to be used for an automatic 6-month extension of time to file. As a result, Form 2688, Application for Additional Extension of Time To File U.S. Income Tax Return, will become obsolete. This change is based upon expected revised regulations for IRC 6081. If these regulations are not issued, Form 4868 will continue to be used for a four-month extension and we will revise Form 2688 for taxpayers who require additional time to file. See major changes on next page.

Application for Automatic Extension of Time To File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

What's New

- You can now use Form 4868 to obtain an automatic 6-month extension (generally 4 months if you are "out of the country"). You no longer need to file Form 2688 for additional time. See General Instructions on page 2.
- If you are "out of the country" and are a U.S. citizen or resident, you must check the box on line 8. See When To File Form 4868 on page 2 and the instructions for line 8 on page 3.

It's Convenient, Safe, and Secure

IRS e-file is the IRS's electronic filing program. You can get an automatic extension of time to file your tax return by filing Form 4868 electronically. You will receive an electronic acknowledgment once you complete the transaction. Keep it with your records. Do not send in Form 4868 if you file electronically.

Complete Form 4868 to use as a worksheet. If you think you may owe tax when you file your return, you will need to estimate your total tax liability and subtract how much you have already paid (lines 4, 5, and 6 below).

If you think you may owe tax and wish to make a payment, you may pay by electronic funds withdrawal using option 1 or you may pay by credit card using option 2. See 1 and 2 on this page for details.

1 E-file Using Your Personal Computer or Through a Tax Professional

Refer to your tax software package or tax preparer for ways to file electronically. Be sure to have a copy of your 2004 tax return—you will be asked to provide information from the return for taxpayer verification. If you wish to make a payment, you can pay by electronic funds withdrawal (see page 4) or send your payment to the address shown in the middle column under Where To File a Paper Form 4868 on page 4.

2 E-file and Pay by Credit Card

You can get an extension if you pay part or all of your estimate of income tax due by using a credit card (American Express® Card, Discover® Card, MasterCard® card, or Visa® card). Your payment must be at least $1. You may pay by phone or over the Internet through one of the service providers listed below.

Each service provider will charge a convenience fee based on the amount of the tax payment you are making. Fees may vary between service providers. You will be told what the fee is during the transaction and will have the option to continue or cancel the transaction. You may also obtain the convenience fee by calling the providers' toll-free automated customer service numbers or visiting their websites. Do not add the convenience fee to your tax payment.

Confirmation number. You will receive a confirmation number when you pay by credit card. Enter the confirmation number below and keep for your records.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 4868 to apply for 6 more months to file Form 1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, 1040NR, or 1040NR-EZ.

To get the extra time you must:

- Properly estimate your 2005 tax liability using the information available to you,
- Enter your total tax liability on line 4 of Form 4868, and
- File Form 4868 by the regular due date of your return.

Although you are not required to make a payment of the tax you estimate as due, Form 4868 does not extend the time to pay taxes. If you do not pay the amount due by the regular due date, you will owe interest. You may also be charged penalties. For more details, see Interest and Late Payment Penalty on this page. Any remittance you make with your application for extension will be treated as a payment of tax.

You do not have to explain why you are asking for the extension. We will contact you only if your request is denied.

Do not file Form 4868 if you want the IRS to figure your tax or you are under a court order to file your return by the regular due date.

Gift or generation-skipping transfer (GST) tax return (Form 709). An extension of time to file your 2005 calendar year income tax return also extends the time to file Form 709 for 2005. However, it does not extend the time to pay any gift or GST tax you may owe for 2005. To make a payment of gift or GST tax, see Form 8892. If you do not pay the amount due by the regular due date for Form 709, you will owe interest and may also be charged penalties. If the donor died during 2005, see the instructions for Forms 709 and 8892.

When To File Form 4868

File Form 4868 by April 17, 2006. Fiscal year taxpayers, file Form 4868 by the regular due date of the return.

Taxpayers "out of the country." If, on the regular due date of your return, you are "out of the country" (defined below) and a U.S. citizen or resident, you are allowed 2 extra months to file your return and pay any amount due. For a calendar year return, this is June 15, 2006. File this form and be sure to check the box on line 8 if you need an additional 4 months to file your return.

If, you are "out of the country" and are a U.S. citizen or resident, you may qualify for special tax treatment if you meet the foreign residence or presence tests. If you do not expect to meet either of those tests by the due date of your return, request an extension to a date after you expect to qualify using Form 2350, Application for Extension of Time To File U.S. Income Tax Return. See Pub. 54, Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad.

"Out of the country" means either:

1. You live outside the United States and Puerto Rico and your main place of work is outside the United States and Puerto Rico, or
2. You are in military or naval service outside the United States and Puerto Rico.

If you qualify as being "out of the country," you will still be eligible for the extension, even if you are physically present in the United States or Puerto Rico on the regular due date of the return.

Total Time Allowed

Generally, we cannot extend the due date of your return for more than 6 months. There may be an exception if you are living "out of the country." See the previous discussion.

Filing Your Tax Return

You may file your tax return any time before the extension expires.

Do not attach a copy of Form 4868 to your return.

Interest

You will owe interest on any tax not paid by the regular due date of your return. The interest runs until you pay the tax. Even if you had a good reason for not paying on time, you will still owe interest.

Late Payment Penalty

The penalty is usually  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1% of any tax (other than estimated tax) not paid by the regular due date. It is charged for each month or part of a month the tax is unpaid. The maximum penalty is 25%.

The late payment penalty will not be charged if you can show reasonable cause for not paying on time. Attach a statement to your return fully explaining the reason. Do not attach the statement to Form 4868.

You are considered to have "reasonable cause" for the period covered by this automatic extension if at least 90% of your actual 2005 tax liability is paid before the regular due date of your return through withholding, estimated tax payments, or with Form 4868.

Late Filing Penalty

A penalty is usually charged if your return is filed after the due date (including extensions). The penalty is usually 5% of the amount due for each month or part of a month your return is late. Generally, the maximum penalty is 25%. If your return is more than 60 days late, the minimum penalty is $100 or the balance of the tax due on your return, whichever is smaller. You might not owe the penalty if you have a good reason for filing late. Attach a statement to your return fully explaining the reason. Do not attach the statement to Form 4868.

How To Claim Credit for Payment Made With This Form

When you file your 2005 return, include the amount of any payment you made with Form 4868 on the appropriate line of your tax return.

The instructions for the following line of your tax return will tell you how to report the payment.

- Form 1040, line 69.
- Form 1040A, line 43.
- Form 1040EZ, line 9.
- Form 1040NR, line 63.
- Form 1040NR-EZ, line 21.

If you and your spouse each filed a separate Form 4868 but later file a joint return for 2005, enter the total paid with both Forms 4868 on the appropriate line of your joint return.

If you and your spouse jointly file Form 4868 but later file separate returns for 2005, you may enter the total amount paid with Form 4868 on either of your separate returns. Or you and your spouse may divide the payment in any agreed amounts. Be sure each separate return has the social security numbers of both spouses.

Specific Instructions*How To Complete Form 4868*Part I—Identification

Enter your name(s) and address. If you plan to file a joint return, include both spouses' names in the order in which they will appear on the return.

If you want correspondence regarding this extension to be sent to you at an address other than your own or to an agent acting for you, include the agent's name, if any, and enter that address instead.

If you changed your name after you filed your last return because of marriage, divorce, etc., be sure to report this to your local Social Security Administration office before filing Form 4868. This prevents delays in processing your extension request.

If you changed your mailing address after you filed your last return, you should use Form 8822, Change of Address, to notify the IRS of the change. Showing a new address on Form 4868 will not update your record. You can get IRS forms by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). You can also download forms from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

If you plan to file jointly, enter on line 2 the social security number (SSN) that you will show first on your return. Enter your spouse's SSN on line 3.

IRS individual taxpayer identification numbers (ITINs) for aliens. If you are a nonresident or resident alien and you do not have and are not eligible to get an SSN, you must apply for an ITIN. For details on how to do so, see Form W-7 and its instructions. It usually takes about 4-6 weeks to get an ITIN. If you already have an ITIN, enter it wherever your SSN is requested.

An ITIN is for tax use only. It does not entitle you to social security benefits or change your employment or immigration status under U.S. law.

Part II—Individual Income Tax

Rounding off to whole dollars. You may round off cents to whole dollars on Form 4868. If you do round to whole dollars, you must round all amounts. To round, drop amounts under 50 cents and increase amounts from 50 to 99 cents to the next dollar. For example, $1.39 becomes $1 and $2.50 becomes $3. If you have to add two or more amounts to figure the amount to enter on a line, include cents when adding the amounts and round off only the total.

Line 4—Estimate of Total Tax Liability for 2005

Enter on line 4 the total tax liability you expect to report on your 2005:

- Form 1040, line 63.
- Form 1040A, line 38.
- Form 1040EZ, line 10.
- Form 1040NR, line 58.
- Form 1040NR-EZ, line 17.

If you expect this amount to be zero, enter -0-.

Make your estimate as accurate as you can with the information you have. If we later find that the estimate was not reasonable, the extension will be null and void.

Line 5—Total 2005 Payments

Enter on line 5 the total payments from:

- Form 1040, line 71 (excluding line 69).
- Form 1040A, line 43.
- Form 1040EZ, line 9.
- Form 1040NR, line 69 (excluding line 63).
- Form 1040NR-EZ, line 21.

For Forms 1040A, 1040EZ, and 1040NR-EZ, do not include on line 5 the amount you are paying with this Form 4868.

Line 6—Balance Due

Subtract line 5 from line 4. If line 5 is more than line 4, enter -0-.

Line 7—Amount You Are Paying

If you find you cannot pay the amount shown on line 6, you can still get the extension. But you should pay as much as you can to limit the amount of interest you will owe. Also, you may be charged the late payment penalty on the unpaid tax from the regular due date of your return. See Late Payment Penalty on page 2.

Line 8—Out of the Country

If you are a taxpayer out of the country on the regular due date of your return, check the box on line 8.

How To Make a Payment With Your Extension

Pay by Electronic Funds Withdrawal

You can e-file Form 4868 using IRS e-file option 1 on page 1 and make a payment by authorizing an electronic funds withdrawal from your checking or savings account. Check with your financial institution to make sure that an electronic funds withdrawal is allowed and to get the correct routing and account numbers.

If you owe tax and wish to have the money electronically withdrawn from your account, you will be asked to make the following declaration:

I authorize the U.S. Treasury and its designated Financial Agent to initiate an ACH electronic funds withdrawal entry to the financial institution account indicated for payment of my federal taxes owed, and the financial institution to debit the entry to this account. This authorization is to remain in full force and effect until I notify the U.S. Treasury Financial Agent to terminate the authorization. To revoke a payment, I must contact the U.S. Treasury Financial Agent at 1-888-353-4537 no later than 2 business days prior to the payment (settlement) date. I also authorize the financial institutions involved in the processing of the electronic payment of taxes to receive confidential information necessary to answer inquiries and resolve issues related to the payment.

Note. This is your written copy of the electronic funds withdrawal authorization you made to have the amount you owe withdrawn. Keep it for your records. The authorization also grants you the option to request confirmation of your payment by email.

Pay by Credit Card

You can e-file Form 4868 using IRS e-file option 2 on page 1 and pay by credit card.

Pay by Check or Money Order

- When paying by check or money order with Form 4868, use the addresses in the middle column under Where To File a Paper Form 4868 below.
- Make your check or money order payable to the "United States Treasury." Do not send cash.
- Write your social security number, daytime phone number, and "2005 Form 4868" on your check or money order.
- Do not staple or attach your payment to the form.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 4952 to figure the amount of investment interest expense you can deduct for 2005 and the amount you can carry forward to future years. Your investment interest expense deduction is limited to your net investment income.

For more information, see Pub. 550, Investment Income and Expenses.

Who Must File

If you are an individual, estate, or a trust, you must file Form 4952 to claim a deduction for your investment interest expense.

Exception. You do not have to file Form 4952 if all of the following apply.

- Your investment interest expense is not more than your investment income from interest and ordinary dividends minus any qualified dividends.
- You have no other deductible investment expenses.
- You have no disallowed investment interest expense from 2004.

Allocation of Interest Expense

If you paid or accrued interest on a loan and used the loan proceeds for more than one purpose, you may have to allocate the interest. This is necessary because different rules apply to investment interest, personal interest, trade or business interest, home mortgage interest, and passive activity interest. See Pub. 535, Business Expenses.

Specific Instructions

Part I—Total Investment Interest Expense Line 1

Enter the investment interest expense paid or accrued during the tax year, regardless of when you incurred the indebtedness. Investment interest expense is interest paid or accrued on a loan or part of a loan that is allocable to property held for investment (as defined on this page).

Include investment interest expense reported to you on Schedule K-1 from a partnership or an S corporation. Include amortization of bond premium on taxable bonds purchased after October 22, 1986, but before January 1, 1988, unless you elected to offset amortizable bond premium against the interest payments on the bond. A taxable bond is a bond on which the interest is includible in gross income.

Investment interest expense does not include any of the following:

- Home mortgage interest.
- Interest expense that is properly allocable to a passive activity. Generally, a passive activity is any business activity in which you do not materially participate and any rental activity. See the Instructions for Form 8582, Passive Activity Loss Limitations, for details.

- Any interest expense that is capitalized, such as construction interest subject to section 263A.

- Interest expense related to tax-exempt interest income under section 265.

- Interest expense, disallowed under section 264, on indebtedness with respect to life insurance, endowment, or annuity contracts issued after June 8, 1997, even if the proceeds were used to purchase any property held for investment.

Property held for investment. Property held for investment includes property that produces income, not derived in the ordinary course of a trade or business, from interest, dividends, annuities, or royalties. It also includes property that produces gain or loss, not derived in the ordinary course of a trade or business, from the disposition of property that produces these types of income or is held for investment. However, it does not include an interest in a passive activity.

Exception. A working interest in an oil or gas property that you held directly or through an entity that did not limit your liability is property held for investment, but only if you did not materially participate in the activity.

Part II—Net Investment Income Line 4a

Gross income from property held for investment includes income, unless derived in the ordinary course of a trade or business, from interest, ordinary dividends (except Alaska Permanent Fund dividends), annuities, and royalties.

Include investment income reported to you on Schedule K-1 from a partnership or an S corporation. Also include net investment income from an estate or a trust.

Also include on line 4a (or 4d, if applicable) net passive income from a passive activity of a publicly traded partnership (as defined in section 469(k)(2)). See Notice 88-75, 1988-2 C.B. 386, for details.

Net income from certain passive activities, such as rental of substantially nondepreciable property, may have to be recharacterized and included on line 4a. For details, see Pub. 925, Passive Activity and At-Risk Rules, or Regulations section 1.469-2(f)(10).

If you are filing Form 8814, Parents' Election To Report Child's Interest and Dividends, part or all of your child's income may be included on line 4a. See the instructions for Form 8814 for details.

Do not include on line 4a any net gain from the disposition of property held for investment. Instead, enter it on line 4d.

Line 4b

Enter the portion of ordinary dividends included on line 4a that are qualified dividends. For the definition of qualified dividends, see the instructions for Form 1040, line 9b (or Form 1041, line 2b).

Line 4d

Net gain from the disposition of property held for investment is the excess, if any, of your total gains over your total losses from the disposition of property held for investment. When figuring this amount, include capital gain distributions from mutual funds and capital loss carryovers.

Line 4e

Net capital gain from the disposition of property held for investment is the excess, if any, of your net long-term capital gain over your net short-term capital loss from the disposition of property held for investment.

Capital gain distributions from mutual funds are treated as long-term capital gains.

Note. If line 4e is more than zero and you enter an amount on line 4g, see the Note in the line 4g instructions.

Line 4g

In general, qualified dividends and net capital gain from the disposition of property held for investment are excluded from investment income. But you can elect to include part or all of these amounts in investment income.

The qualified dividends and net capital gain that you elect to include in investment income on line 4g are not eligible to be taxed at the qualified dividends or capital gains tax rates. You should consider the tax effect of using the qualified dividends and capital gains tax rates before making this election. Once made, the election can be revoked only with IRS consent.

To make the election, enter on line 4g the amount you elect to include in investment income (do not enter more than the sum of lines 4b and 4e). Also enter this amount on whichever of the following applies.

- The Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet, line 5, on page 34 of the Instructions for Form 1040.
- The Schedule D Tax Worksheet, line 3.
- Schedule D (Form 1041), line 21.
- The Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet, line 3, in the Instructions for Form 1041.

Do not reduce the amount of qualified dividends on Form 1040, line 9b (or Form 1041, line 2b(2)), by any part of the amount on line 4g.

Note. The amount on line 4g is generally treated as being attributable first to net capital gain from property held for investment (line 4e), and then to qualified dividends (line 4b). This treatment results in the least tax being figured for Form 1040, line 44 (or Form 1041, Schedule G, line 1a). However, you can treat less of the amount on line 4e as attributable to line 4g and more to line 4b. You may want to do this if you are filing Form 1116, Foreign Tax Credit, as your tax after credits may be lower in certain cases. To do so, enter on the dotted line next to line 4e "Elec." and the part of line 4e that you elect to treat as being attributable to line 4g (do not enter less than the excess of line 4g over line 4b). You will use this smaller amount instead of the amount on line 4e when figuring your tax.

You must generally make this election on a timely filed return, including extensions. However, if you timely filed your return without making the election, you can make the election on an amended return filed within 6 months of the due date of your return (excluding extensions). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" on the amended return and file it at the same place you filed the original return.

Line 5

Investment expenses are your allowed deductions, other than interest expense, directly connected with the production of investment income. For example, depreciation or depletion allowed on assets that produce investment income is an investment expense.

Include investment expenses reported to you on Schedule K-1 from a partnership or an S corporation.

Investment expenses do not include any deductions used in determining your income or loss from a passive activity.

If you have investment expenses that are included as a miscellaneous itemized deduction on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 22, the 2% adjusted gross income limitation on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 25, may reduce the amount you must include on Form 4952, line 5. Include on line 5 the smaller of: (a) the investment expenses included on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 22, or (b) the total on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 26.

Part III—Investment Interest Expense Deduction

Line 8

Individuals. Generally, enter the amount from line 8 (excluding any amount included on Form 6198, line 4—see below) on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 13, even if all or part of it is attributable to a partnership or an S corporation. However, if any part of the interest expense is attributable to royalties, enter that part on Schedule E (Form 1040). Also, if any part of the interest is attributable to a trade or business that is not a passive activity, enter that part on the schedule where you report other expenses for that trade or business.

Estates and trusts. Enter the amount from line 8 (excluding any amount included on Form 6198, line 4—see below) on Form 1041, line 10.

Form 6198. If any of your deductible investment interest expense is attributable to an activity for which you are not at risk, you must also use Form 6198, At-Risk Limitations, to figure your deductible investment interest expense. Include the part attributable to the at-risk activity on Form 6198, line 4.

Alternative minimum tax (AMT). Deductible interest expense may be an adjustment for the AMT. For details, see Form 6251, Alternative Minimum Tax—Individuals (or Form 1041, Schedule I).

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. ## General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

A beneficiary of certain domestic trusts (see Who Must File below) uses Form 4970 to figure the partial tax on accumulation distributions under section 667. The fiduciary notifies the beneficiary of an "accumulation distribution" by completing Part IV of Schedule J (Form 1041).

Thus, if you received a distribution for this tax year from a trust that accumulated its income instead of distributing it each year (and the trust paid taxes on that income), you must complete Form 4970 to compute any additional tax liability. The trustee must give you a completed Part IV of Schedule J (Form 1041) so you can complete this form.

If you received accumulation distributions from more than one trust during the current tax year, prepare a separate Form 4970 for each trust from which you received an accumulation distribution. You can arrange the distributions in any order you want them considered to have been made.

Who Must File

Beneficiaries who received an accumulation distribution from certain domestic trusts that were created before March 1, 1984, must file Form 4970. For details, see section 665(c).

Foreign trust beneficiaries. If you received an accumulation distribution from a foreign trust, you must report the distribution and the partial tax on a 2005 Form 3520, Annual Return To Report Transactions With Foreign Trusts and Receipt of Certain Foreign Gifts.

Do not file Form 4970 for distributions from any foreign trusts, except to attach it as a worksheet to Form 3520 if those instructions direct you to.

Note: If the accumulation distributions are from a domestic trust that used to be a foreign trust, see Rev. Rul. 91-6, 1991-1 C.B. 89.

Definitions

Undistributed net income (UNI).

Undistributed net income is the distributable net income (DNI) of the trust for any tax year less (1) the amount of income required to be distributed currently and any other amounts properly paid or credited or required to be distributed to beneficiaries in the tax year and (2) the taxes imposed on the trust attributable to such DNI.

Accumulation distribution. An accumulation distribution is the excess of amounts properly paid, credited, or required to be distributed (other than income required to be distributed currently) over the DNI of the trust reduced by income required to be distributed currently.

Generally, except for tax-exempt interest, the distribution loses its character upon distribution to the beneficiary. See section 667(d) for special rules for foreign trusts.

Specific Instructions

Item E—Type of trust. If you received an accumulation distribution from a foreign trust, see Foreign trust beneficiaries above. Do not file this form other than as an attachment to Form 3520.

Line 1. For a nonresident alien or foreign corporation, include only the part of the accumulation distribution that is attributable to U.S. sources or is effectively connected with a trade or business carried on in the United States.

Line 2. Enter any amount from line 1 that represents UNI of a domestic trust accumulated before you were born or reached age 21. However, if the multiple trust rule applies, see the instructions for line 4.

Line 4—Multiple trust rule. If you received accumulation distributions from two or more other trusts that were considered to have been made in any of the earlier tax years in which the current accumulation distribution is considered to have been made, do not include on line 4 the taxes attributable to the current accumulation distribution considered to have been distributed in the same earlier tax year(s).

For this special rule, only count as trusts those trusts for which the sum of this accumulation distribution and any earlier accumulation distributions from the trust, which are considered under section 666(a) to have been distributed in the same earlier tax year, is $1,000 or more.

Foreign trust. If the trust is a foreign trust, see section 665(d)(2).

Line 8. You can determine the number of years in which the UNI is deemed to have been distributed by counting the "throwback years" for which there are entries on lines 32 through 36 of Part IV of Schedule J (Form 1041). These throwback rules apply even if you would not have been entitled to receive a distribution in the earlier tax year if the distribution had actually been made then. There can be more than 5 "throwback years."

Line 11. From the number of years entered on line 8, subtract any year in which the distribution from column (a), Part IV of Schedule J (Form 1041) is less than the amount on line 10 of Form 4970. If the distribution for each throwback year is more than line 10, then enter the same number on line 11 as you entered on line 8.

Line 13. Enter your taxable incomes for years 2000–2004, even if less than 5 years of the trust had accumulated income after you became 21. Use the taxable income as reported by you or as changed by the IRS. Include in the taxable income amounts considered distributed in that year as a result of prior accumulation distributions, whether from the same or another trust, and whether made in an earlier year or the current year.

If your taxable income as adjusted is less than zero, enter zero.

Line 17. Figure the income tax (not including any alternative minimum tax (AMT)) on the income on line 16 using the tax rates in effect for your particular earlier tax year shown in each of the three columns. Use the Tax Rate Schedules, etc., as applicable. You can get the Tax Rate Schedules and prior year forms from many IRS offices or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

Line 18. Enter your income tax (not including any AMT) as originally reported, corrected, or amended, before reduction for any credits for your particular earlier year shown in each of the three columns.

Line 20. Nonrefundable credits that are limited to tax liability, such as the general business credit, may be changed because of an accumulation distribution. If the total allowable credits for any of the 3 computation years increases, enter the increase on line 20. However, do not treat as an increase the part of the credit that was allowable as a carryback or carryforward credit in the current or any preceding year other than the computation year.

To refigure these credits, you must consider changes to the tax before credits for each of the 3 computation years due to previous accumulation distributions.

If the accumulation distribution is from a domestic trust that paid foreign income taxes, the limitation on the foreign tax credit under section 904 is applied separately to the accumulation distribution. If the distribution is from a foreign trust, see sections 667(d) and 904(f)(4) for special rules.

Attach the proper form for any credit you refigure. The amount determined for items on this line is limited to tax law provisions in effect for those years involved.

Line 22. Use and attach a separate Form 4626, Form 6251, or the AMT schedule for Form 1041 to recompute the AMT for each earlier year and show any change in those taxes in the bottom margin of the forms or schedules. Enter the adjustments on this line.

Line 28. If estate taxes or generation-skipping transfer taxes apply to the accumulation distribution, reduce the partial tax proportionately for those taxes. See section 667(b)(6) for the computation.

Individuals. Include the amount from this line on line 63, Form 1040. Write "ADT" to the left of the line 63 entry space.

Trusts and decedents' estates. Include the amount on line 7, Schedule G, Form 1041. Write "From Form 4970" and the amount of the tax to the left of the line 7 entry space.

Other filers. Add the result to the total tax liability before the refundable credits on your income tax return for the year of the accumulation distribution. Attach this form to that return.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is:

Recordkeeping . . . . .	1 hr., 12 min.
Learning about the law or the form . . . . .	15 min.
Preparing the form . . . . .	1 hr., 25 min.
Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the IRS . . . . .	20 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. See the instructions for the tax return with which this form is filed.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 4972 to figure the tax on a qualified lump-sum distribution (defined below) you received in 2005 using the 20% capital gain election, the 10-year tax option, or both. These are special formulas used to figure a separate tax on the distribution that may result in a smaller tax than if you reported the taxable amount of the distribution as ordinary income.

You pay the tax only once, for the year you receive the distribution, not over the next 10 years. The separate tax is added to the regular tax figured on your other income.

Pub. 721, Tax Guide to U.S. Civil Service Retirement Benefits.

What Is a Qualified Lump-Sum Distribution?

It is the distribution or payment in 1 tax year of a plan participant's entire balance from all of an employer's qualified plans of one kind (for example, pension, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plans) in which the participant had funds. The participant's entire balance does not include deductible voluntary employee contributions or certain forfeited amounts. The participant must have been born before January 2, 1936.

Distributions upon death of the plan participant. If you received a qualifying distribution as a beneficiary after the participant's death, the participant must have been born before January 2, 1936, for you to use this form for that distribution.

Distributions to alternate payees. If you are the spouse or former spouse of a plan participant who was born before January 2, 1936, and you received a qualified lump-sum distribution as an alternate payee under a qualified domestic relations order, you can use Form 4972 to make the 20% capital gain election and use the 10-year tax option to figure your tax on the distribution.

See How To Report the Distribution on this page.

Distributions That Do Not Qualify for the 20% Capital Gain Election or the 10-Year Tax Option

The following distributions are not qualified lump-sum distributions and do not qualify for the 20% capital gain election or the 10-year tax option.

- A distribution that is partially rolled over to another qualified plan or an IRA.

- Any distribution if an earlier election to use either the 5- or 10-year tax option had been made after 1986 for the same plan participant.

- U.S. Retirement Plan Bonds distributed with the lump sum.

- A distribution made during the first 5 tax years that the participant was in the plan, unless it was paid because the participant died.

- The current actuarial value of any annuity contract included in the lump sum (Form 1099-R, box 8, should show this amount, which you use only to figure tax on the ordinary income part of the distribution).

- A distribution to a 5% owner that is subject to penalties under section 72(m)(5)(A).

- A distribution from an IRA.

- A distribution from a tax-sheltered annuity (section 403(b) plan).

- A distribution of the redemption proceeds of bonds rolled over tax free to a qualified pension plan, etc., from a qualified bond purchase plan.

- A distribution from a qualified plan if the participant or his or her surviving spouse previously received an eligible rollover distribution from the same plan (or another plan of the employer that must be combined with that plan for the lump-sum distribution rules) and the previous distribution was rolled over tax free to another qualified plan or an IRA.

- A distribution from a qualified plan that received a rollover after 2001 from an IRA (other than a conduit IRA), a governmental section 457 plan, or a section 403(b) tax-sheltered annuity on behalf of the plan participant.

- A distribution from a qualified plan that received a rollover after 2001 from another qualified plan on behalf of that plan participant's surviving spouse.

- A corrective distribution of excess deferrals, excess contributions, excess aggregate contributions, or excess annual additions.

- A lump-sum credit or payment from the Federal Civil Service Retirement System (or the Federal Employees' Retirement System).

How To Report the Distribution

If you can use Form 4972, attach it to Form 1040 (individuals) or Form 1041 (estates or trusts). The payer should have given you a Form 1099-R or other statement that shows the amounts needed to complete Form 4972. The following choices are available.

20% capital gain election. If there is an amount in Form 1099-R, box 3, you can use Form 4972, Part II, to apply a 20% tax rate to the capital gain portion. See Capital Gain Election on page 3.

10-year tax option. You can use Part III to figure your tax on the lump-sum distribution using the 10-year tax option whether or not you make the 20% capital gain election.

Where to report. Report amounts from your Form 1099-R either directly on your tax return (Form 1040 or 1041) or on Form 4972.

- If you do not use Form 4972, report the entire amount from Form 1099-R, box 1 (Gross distribution), on Form 1040, line 16a, and the taxable amount on line 16b (or on Form 1041, line 8). If your pension or annuity is fully taxable, enter the amount from Form 1099-R, box 2a (Taxable amount), on Form 1040, line 16b; do not make an entry on line 16a.

- If you do not use Part III of Form 4972, but use Part II, report only the ordinary income portion of the distribution on Form 1040, lines 16a and 16b (or on Form 1041, line 8). The ordinary income portion is the amount from Form 1099-R, box 2a, minus the amount from box 3 of that form.

- If you use Part III of Form 4972, do not include any part of the distribution on Form 1040, lines 16a and 16b (or on Form 1041, line 8).

The entries in other boxes on Form 1099-R may also apply in completing Form 4972.

- Box 6 (Net unrealized appreciation in employer's securities). See Net unrealized appreciation (NUA) on page 3.

- Box 8 (Other). Current actuarial value of an annuity.

If applicable, get the amount of federal estate tax paid attributable to the taxable part of the lump-sum distribution from the administrator of the deceased's estate.

How Often You Can Use Form 4972

After 1986, you can use Form 4972 only once for each plan participant. If you receive more than one lump-sum distribution for the same participant in 1 tax year, you must treat all those distributions the same way. Combine them on a single Form 4972.

If you make an election as a beneficiary of a deceased participant, it does not affect any election you can make for qualified lump-sum distributions from your own plan. You can also make an election as the beneficiary of more than one qualifying person.

Example. Your mother and father died and each was born before January 2, 1936. Each had a qualified plan of which you are the beneficiary. You also received a qualified lump-sum distribution from your own plan and you were born before January 2, 1936. You can make an election for each of the distributions; one for yourself, one as your mother's beneficiary, and one as your father's. It does not matter if the distributions all occur in the same year or in different years. File a separate Form 4972 for each participant's distribution.

An earlier election on Form 4972 or Form 5544 for a distribution before 1987 does not prevent you from making an election for a distribution after 1986 for the same participant, provided the participant was under age 59½ at the time of the pre-1987 distribution.

When To File Form 4972

You can file Form 4972 with either an original or amended return. Generally, you have 3 years from the later of the due date of your tax return or the date you filed your return to choose to use any part of Form 4972.

Capital Gain Election

If the distribution includes a capital gain, you can (a) make the 20% capital gain election in Part II of Form 4972 or (b) treat the capital gain as ordinary income.

Only the taxable amount of distributions resulting from pre-1974 participation qualifies for capital gain treatment. The capital gain amount should be shown in Form 1099-R, box 3. If there is an amount in Form 1099-R, box 6 (net unrealized appreciation (NUA)), part of it will also qualify for capital gain treatment. Use the NUA Worksheet on this page to figure the capital gain part of NUA if you make the election to include NUA in your taxable income.

You can report the ordinary income portion of the distribution on Form 1040, line 16b (or Form 1041, line 8) or you can figure the tax using the 10-year tax option. The ordinary income portion is the amount from Form 1099-R, box 2a, minus the amount from box 3 of that form.

Net unrealized appreciation (NUA).

Normally, NUA in employer securities received as part of a lump-sum distribution is not taxable until the securities are sold. However, you can elect to include NUA in taxable income in the year received.

The total amount to report as NUA should be shown in Form 1099-R, box 6. Part of the amount in box 6 will qualify for capital gain treatment if there is an amount in Form 1099-R, box 3. To figure the total amount subject to capital gain treatment including the NUA, complete the NUA Worksheet on this page.

Specific Instructions

Name of recipient of distribution and identifying number. At the top of Form 4972, fill in the name and identifying number of the recipient of the distribution.

If you received more than one qualified distribution in 2005 for the same plan participant, add them and figure the tax on the total amount. If you received qualified distributions in 2005 for more than one participant, file a separate Form 4972 for the distributions of each participant.

If you and your spouse are filing a joint return and each has received a lump-sum distribution, complete and file a separate Form 4972 for each spouse's election, combine the tax, and include the combined tax in the total on Form 1040, line 44.

If you are filing for a trust that shared the distribution only with other trusts, figure the tax on the total lump sum first. The trusts then share the tax in the same proportion that they shared the distribution.

Multiple recipients of a lump-sum distribution. If you shared in a lump-sum distribution from a qualified retirement plan when not all recipients were trusts (a percentage will be shown in Form 1099-R, boxes 8 and/or 9a), figure your tax on Form 4972 as follows. (Box numbers used below are from Form 1099-R.)

Step 1. Complete Form 4972, Parts I and II. If you make the 20% capital gain election in Part II and also elect to include NUA in taxable income, complete the NUA Worksheet below to determine the amount of NUA that qualifies for capital gain treatment. Then, skip Step 2 and go to Step 3.

Step 2. Use this step only if you do not elect to include NUA in your taxable income or if you do not have NUA.

- If you are not making the capital gain election, divide the amount in box 2a by your percentage of distribution in box 9a. Enter this amount on Form 4972, line 8.
- If you are making the capital gain election, subtract the amount in box 3 from the amount in box 2a. Divide the result by your percentage of distribution in box 9a. Enter the result on Form 4972, line 8.

- Divide the amount in box 8 by the percentage in box 8. Enter the result on Form 4972, line 11. Then, skip Step 3 and go to Step 4.

Step 3. Use this step only if you elect to include NUA in your taxable income.

- If you are not making the capital gain election, add the amount in box 2a to the amount in box 6. Divide the result by your percentage of distribution in box 9a. Enter the result on Form 4972, line 8.
- If you are making the capital gain election, subtract the amount in box 3 from the amount in box 2a. Add to the result the amount from line F of your NUA Worksheet. Then, divide the total by your percentage of distribution in box 9a. Enter the result on Form 4972, line 8.

- Divide the amount in box 8 by the percentage in box 8. Enter the result on Form 4972, line 11.

Step 4. Complete Form 4972 through line 28.

Step 5. Complete the following worksheet to figure the entry for Form 4972, line 29:

- |  |       |
|--|-------|
| A. Subtract line 28 from line 25 . . . . .   | _____ |
| B. Enter your percentage of the distribution from box 9a . . . . .   | _____ |
| C. Multiply line A by line B. Enter here and on Form 4972, line 29. Also, write "MRD" on the dotted line next to line 29 . . . . . | _____ |

NUA Worksheet (keep for your records)

| C. Divide line A by line B and enter the result as a decimal (rounded to at least three places) . . . . .   | C. _____ |
| D. Enter the amount from Form 1099-R, box 6 . . . . .   | D. _____ |
| E. Capital gain portion of NUA. Multiply line C by line D . . . . .   | E. _____ |
| G. Total capital gain portion of distribution. Add lines A and E. Enter here and on Form 4972, line 6. On the dotted line next to line 6, write "NUA" and the amount from line E above. . . . . | G. _____ |

Death Benefit Worksheet (keep for your records)

- |  |          |
|--|----------|
| A. Enter the amount from Form 1099-R, box 3, or, if you are including NUA in taxable income, the amount from line G of the NUA Worksheet . . . . . | A. _____ |
| B. Enter the amount from Form 1099-R, box 2a, plus, if you are including NUA in taxable income, the amount from Form 1099-R, box 6 . . . . .       | B. _____ |
| C. Divide line A by line B and enter the result as a decimal (rounded to at least three places) . . . . .  | C. _____ |
| D. Enter your share of the death benefit exclusion* . . . . .  | D. _____ |

*Applies only for participants who died before August 21, 1996. If there are multiple recipients of the distribution, the allowable death benefit exclusion must be allocated among the recipients in the same proportion that they share the distribution.

Part II

See Capital Gain Election on page 3 before completing Part II.

Line 6. Leave this line blank if your distribution does not include a capital gain amount or you are not making the 20% capital gain election, and go to Part III.

Generally, enter on line 6 the amount from Form 1099-R, box 3. However, if you elect to include NUA in your taxable income, use the NUA Worksheet on page 3 to figure the amount to enter. If you are taking a death benefit exclusion (for a participant who died before August 21, 1996), use the Death Benefit Worksheet on page 3 to figure the amount to enter on line 6. The remaining allowable death benefit exclusion should be entered on line 9 if you choose the 10-year tax option.

If any federal estate tax was paid on the lump-sum distribution, you must decrease the capital gain amount by the amount of estate tax applicable to it. To figure this amount, you must complete line C of the Death Benefit Worksheet on page 3, even if you do not take the death benefit exclusion. Multiply the total federal estate tax paid on the lump-sum distribution by the decimal on line C of the Death Benefit Worksheet. The result is the portion of the federal estate tax applicable to the capital gain amount. Then, use that result to reduce the amount in Form 1099-R, box 3, if you do not take the death benefit exclusion, or reduce line F of the Death Benefit Worksheet if you do. Enter the remaining capital gain on line 6. If you elected to include NUA in taxable income, subtract the portion of federal estate tax applicable to the capital gain amount from the amount on line G of the NUA Worksheet. Enter the result on line 6. Enter the remainder of the federal estate tax on line 18.

CAUTION If you take the death benefit exclusion and federal estate tax was paid on the capital gain amount, the capital gain amount must be reduced by both the procedures discussed above to figure the correct entry for line 6.

Part III

Line 8. If Form 1099-R, box 2a, is blank, you must first figure the taxable amount. For details on how to do this, see Pub. 575.

If you made the 20% capital gain election, enter only the ordinary income portion of the distribution on this line. The ordinary income portion is the amount from Form 1099-R, box 2a, minus the amount from box 3 of that form. Add the amount from line F of the NUA Worksheet if you included NUA capital gain in the 20% capital gain election.

If you did not make the 20% capital gain election and did not elect to include NUA in taxable income, enter the amount from Form 1099-R, box 2a. If you did not make the 20% capital gain election but did elect to include NUA in your taxable income, add the amount from Form 1099-R, box 2a, to the amount from Form 1099-R, box 6. Enter the total on line 8. On the dotted line next to line 8, write "NUA" and the amount of NUA included.

CAUTION Community property laws do not apply in figuring tax on the amount you report on line 8.

Line 9. If you received the distribution because of the plan participant's death and the participant died before August 21, 1996, you may be able to exclude up to $5,000 of the lump sum from your gross income. If there are multiple recipients of the distribution not all of whom are trusts, enter on line 9 the full remaining allowable death benefit exclusion (after the amount taken against the capital gain portion of the distribution by all recipients—see the instructions for line 6) without allocation among the recipients. (The exclusion is in effect allocated among the recipients through the computation under Multiple recipients of a lump-sum distribution on page 3.) This exclusion applies to the beneficiaries or estates of common-law employees, self-employed individuals, and shareholder-employees who owned more than 2% of the stock of an S corporation.

Enter the allowable death benefit exclusion on line 9. But see the instructions for line 6 if you made a capital gain election.

Line 18. A beneficiary who receives a lump-sum distribution because of a plan participant's death must reduce the taxable part of the distribution by any federal estate tax paid on the lump-sum distribution. Do this by entering on line 18 the federal estate tax attributable to the lump-sum distribution. Also see the instructions for line 6.

Lines 24 and 27. Use the following Tax Rate Schedule to complete lines 24 and 27.

Tax Rate Schedule

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

What's New

The credit is not allowed with respect to wages for services of employees who began work for you after December 31, 2005.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 5884 to claim the work opportunity credit for qualified first-year wages you paid to or incurred for targeted group employees during the tax year. Your business does not have to be located in an empowerment zone, enterprise community, or renewal community to qualify for this credit.

You can claim or elect not to claim the work opportunity credit any time within 3 years from the due date of your return on either your original return or an amended return.

How To Claim the Credit

To claim the work opportunity credit, you must request and be issued a certification for each employee from the state employment security agency (SESA). The certification proves that the employee is a member of a targeted group. You must receive the certification by the day the individual begins work or complete Form 8850, Pre-Screening Notice and Certification Request for the Work Opportunity and Welfare-to-Work Credits, on or before the day you offer the individual a job.

If you complete Form 8850, it must be signed by you and the individual and submitted to the SESA by the 21st calendar day after the individual begins work. If the SESA denies the request, it will provide a written explanation of the reason for denial. If a certification is revoked because it was based on false information provided by the worker, wages paid after the date you receive the notice of revocation do not qualify for the credit.

Targeted group employee. An employee is a member of a targeted group if he or she is a:

- Qualified recipient of Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF),
- Qualified veteran,
- Qualified ex-felon,
- High-risk youth,
- Vocational rehabilitation referral,
- Qualified summer youth employee,
- Qualified food stamp recipient, or
- Qualified SSI recipient.

However, if you use any wages of an employee to figure the welfare-to-work credit for any tax year, the employee is not treated as a member of a targeted group for that year.

See Form 8850 and section 51(d) for details and restrictions.

Qualified First-Year Wages

Qualified first-year wages are wages you paid or incurred for work performed during the 1-year period beginning on the date the certified individual begins work for you. The amount of qualified wages that may be taken into account for any employee is limited to $6,000 ($3,000 for a qualified summer youth employee). Wages qualifying for the credit generally have the same meaning as wages (excluding tips) subject to the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (FUTA). If the work performed by any employee during more than half of any pay period qualifies under FUTA as agricultural labor, the first $6,000 of that employee's wages subject to social security and Medicare taxes qualify. For a special rule that applies to railroad employees, see section 51(h)(1)(B).

Qualified wages for any employee must be reduced by the amount of any work supplementation payments you received under the Social Security Act.

The amount of qualified wages for any employee is zero if:

- The employee did not work for you for at least 120 hours,
- The employee worked for you previously,
- The employee is your dependent,
- The employee is related to you (see section 51(i)(1)),
- 50% or less of the wages the employee received from you were for working in your trade or business, or
- You use any of the employee's wages to figure the welfare-to-work credit for the current year.

Qualified wages do not include:

- Wages paid to any employee during any period for which you received payment for the employee from a federally funded on-the-job training program;
- Wages paid or incurred to a high-risk or qualified summer youth employee for services performed while the employee lived outside an empowerment zone, enterprise community, or renewal community;
- Wages paid or incurred for services performed by a qualified summer youth employee before or after any 90-day period between May 1 and September 15; and
- Wages for services of replacement workers during a strike or lockout.

Specific Instructions

Note. If you only have a credit allocated to you from a pass-through entity, skip lines 1 and 2 and go to line 3.

Part I—Current Year Credit

Lines 1a and 1b

Enter on the applicable line the total qualified first-year wages paid to employees certified as members of a targeted group. Multiply the wages you enter on each line by the percentage shown on that line.

Successor employer. For successor employers, the 1-year period begins on the date the employee first began work for the previous employer and any qualified first-year wages paid by the successor employer are reduced by the qualified first-year wages paid by the previous employer. See section 51(k)(1) and Regulations section 1.51-1(h).

A successor employer is an employer that acquires substantially all of the property used in a trade or business (or a separate unit thereof) of another employer (the previous employer) and immediately after the acquisition, the successor employs in his/her trade or business an individual who was employed immediately prior to the acquisition in the trade or business of the previous employer.

Special instructions for controlled group members. The group member proportionately contributing the most qualified first-year wages figures the group credit in Part I and skips Part II. See sections 52(a) and 1563. On separate Forms 5884, that member and every other member of the group should skip lines 1a and 1b and enter its share of the group credit on line 2. Each member then completes lines 3, 4, and 5 through 15 (or Form 3800, if required) on its separate form. Each member must attach to its Form 5884 a schedule showing how the group credit was divided among all the members. The members share the credit in the same proportion that they contributed qualifying wages.

Line 2

In general, you must reduce your deduction for salaries and wages by the amount on line 2. This is required even if you cannot take the full credit this year and must carry part of it back or forward. However, the following exceptions apply.

- If you capitalized any salaries and wages on which you figured the credit, reduce your depreciable basis by the amount of the credit on those salaries and wages.
- You used the full absorption method of inventory costing, which required you to reduce your basis in inventory for the credit.

If either of the above exceptions applies, attach a statement explaining why the amount on line 2 differs from the amount by which you reduced your deduction.

Line 3

Enter the amount of credit that was allocated to you as a shareholder, partner, beneficiary, or patron of a cooperative.

Line 4

S corporations and partnerships. Allocate the credit among the shareholders or partners. Attach Form 5884 to the return and on Schedule K-1 show the credit for each shareholder or partner. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Estates and trusts. Allocate the credit on line 4 between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocable to each. On the dotted line next to line 4, the estate or trust should enter its part of the total credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in Part II (or Form 3800, if required) to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041.

Cooperatives. Most tax-exempt organizations cannot take the credit. However, a cooperative described in section 1381(a) takes the credit to the extent it has tax liability. Any excess is shared among its patrons.

Regulated investment companies and real estate investment trusts. Reduce the allowable credit to the company's or trust's ratable share of the credit. For details, see Regulations section 1.52-3(b).

Part II—Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A work opportunity credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 11

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 12

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule. Enter on line 12 the TMT from the line shown below.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 33.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 12.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 54.

Line 15

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 14 is smaller than line 4), carry the unused credit back 1 year then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Instructions for Form 6198

At-Risk Limitations

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

What's New

The following rules apply to amounts borrowed after May 3, 2004.

- You must file Form 6198 if you are engaged in an activity included in (6) under At-Risk Activities and you have borrowed amounts described in (3) under Amounts Not at Risk.
- You may be considered at risk for amounts described in (3) under Amounts Not at Risk secured by real property used in the activity of holding real property (other than mineral property) that, if nonrecourse, would be qualified nonrecourse financing.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 6198 to figure:

- The current year profit (loss) from an at-risk activity for 2004 (Part I).
- The amount at risk for 2004 (Part II or Part III).
- The deductible loss for 2004 (Part IV).

The at-risk rules of section 465 limit the amount of the loss you can deduct to the amount at risk.

For more details, see Pub. 925, Passive Activity and At-Risk Rules.

Who Must File

Form 6198 is filed by individuals (including filers of Schedules C, E, and F (Form 1040)), estates, trusts, and certain closely held C corporations described in section 465(a)(1)(B), as modified by section 465(a)(3).

File Form 6198 if during the tax year you, a partnership in which you were a partner, or an S corporation in which you were a shareholder had any Amounts Not at Risk (see this page) invested in an at-risk activity (defined below) that incurred a loss.

At-Risk Activities

The at-risk limitation rules apply to losses from the following activities carried on as a trade or business or for the production of income.

- Holding, producing, or distributing motion picture films or video tapes.
- Farming as defined in section 464(e)(1).
- Leasing any section 1245 property as defined in section 1245(a)(3).

Certain equipment leasing activities by closely held C corporations are not subject to the at-risk rules. See sections 465(c)(4), (5), and (6).

- Exploring for or exploiting oil and gas resources.
- Exploring for or exploiting geothermal deposits as defined in section 613(e)(2).
- Any other activity that is not included in 1 through 5 above.

Exception. Holding real property placed in service before 1987 and holding an interest acquired before 1987 in a partnership, an S corporation, or other pass-through entity already engaged in an activity of holding real property before 1987 are not affected by the at-risk rules. This exception does not apply to holding mineral property.

A special exception to the at-risk rules applies to a qualifying business of a qualified C corporation. See Pub. 925 for details.

Amounts Not at Risk

You are not considered at risk for any of the following.

- Nonrecourse loans used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity (unless the nonrecourse loan is secured by your own property that is not used in the activity). However, you are considered at risk for qualified nonrecourse financing secured by real property used in the activity of holding real property (other than mineral property). See Qualified Nonrecourse Financing on page 2.

- Cash, property, or borrowed amounts used in the activity that are protected against loss by a guarantee, stop-loss agreement, or other similar arrangement (excluding casualty insurance and insurance against tort liability).

- Amounts borrowed for use in the activity from a person who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest. However, this does not apply to amounts borrowed by a corporation from a person whose only interest in the activity is as a shareholder of the corporation, or amounts borrowed after May 3, 2004, and secured by real property used in the activity of holding real property (other than mineral property) that, if nonrecourse, would be qualified nonrecourse financing. See Pub. 925 for definitions.

- Any cash or property contributed to the activity or to your interest in the activity that is:

- Financed through nonrecourse indebtedness or protected against loss through a guarantee, stop-loss agreement, or other similar arrangement or

- Borrowed from a person who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest. However, this does not apply to amounts borrowed by a corporation from a person whose only interest in the activity is as a shareholder of the corporation, or amounts borrowed after May 3, 2004, and secured by real property used in the activity of holding real property (other than mineral property) that, if nonrecourse, would be qualified nonrecourse financing. See Pub. 925 for definitions.

1st draft   August 5, 2004

You do not have to file Form 6198 if you are engaged in an activity included in 6 under At-Risk Activities and you only have amounts borrowed before May 4, 2004, that are described in 3 under Amounts Not at Risk.

Qualified Nonrecourse Financing

Qualified nonrecourse financing is financing for which no one is personally liable for repayment and is:

- Borrowed by you in connection with holding real property,
- Secured by real property used in the activity,
- Not convertible debt, and
- Loaned or guaranteed by any federal, state, or local government, or borrowed by you from a qualified person (defined below).

See Regulations section 1.465-27 for details, including rules for partnership liabilities and disregarded entities. This section is effective for any financing incurred on or after August 4, 1998, but taxpayers can apply the section retroactively.

A qualified person is a person who actively and regularly engages in the business of lending money (for example, a bank or savings and loan association).

- A qualified person is not:
- A person related to you unless the person would be a qualified person but for the relationship and the nonrecourse financing is commercially reasonable and on the same terms as loans to unrelated persons,
  - The seller of the property (or a person related to the seller), or
  - A person who receives a fee as a result of your investment in the property (or a person related to that person).

Aggregation or Separation of Activities

File one form if your activities are listed under the aggregation rules. File a separate form for each activity if your activities are listed under the separation rules.

Aggregation rules. All section 1245 properties that are leased or held for lease and placed in service in any tax year of a partnership or an S corporation are treated as one activity. A partner in a partnership or an S corporation shareholder can aggregate and treat as a single activity all of the properties of that partnership or S corporation that are included within each of categories 1, 2, 4, and 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1.

Activities described in 6 under At-Risk Activities on page 1 that constitute a trade or business are treated as one activity if the taxpayer actively participates in the management of that trade or business or the business is carried on by a partnership or an S corporation and 65% or more of the losses for the tax year are allocable to persons who actively participate in the management of the trade or business. Similar rules apply to activities described in 1 through 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1.

Separation rules. Your activity with respect to each film, video tape, section 1245 property that is leased or held for lease, farm, holding of real property, oil and gas property (as defined in section 614), or geothermal property (as defined in section 614) that is not aggregated with other activities under the above rules is treated as a separate activity.

Each investment that is not a part of a trade or business is treated as a separate activity.

Specific Instructions

If you are engaged in more than one at-risk activity or in both at-risk activities and not-at-risk activities, you must allocate income, gains, losses, and deductions to each activity.

Partnerships and S corporations must give their partners and shareholders a separate statement of income, expenses, and deductions for each at-risk and not-at-risk activity.

When filling in Parts I, II, and III, enter only amounts that relate to the activity included on this form. Use accepted tax accounting methods to figure the amounts to enter.

If you are a partner or an S corporation shareholder, enter any items for the activity that are from your investment in the activity or were passed through to you on Schedule K-1 or a similar statement.

Description of activity. After the description of the activity, if applicable, enter the name and identifying number of the partnership or S corporation.

Part I—Current Year Profit (Loss) From the Activity, Including Prior Year Nondeductible Amounts

Taxpayers other than partners or S corporation shareholders. If you have losses or deductions from an earlier tax year that you could not deduct because of the at-risk rules, include those amounts on the appropriate form or schedule of your current year tax return before starting Part I. For example, if in 2003 your Schedule C had a $1,500 loss on line 31, but because of the at-risk rules your loss was limited to $500, include the $1,000 on your 2004 Schedule C in Part V, Other Expenses, and identify it as a prior year loss.

Partners and S corporation shareholders. If you have a loss or a deduction from an earlier tax year that you could not deduct because of the at-risk rules, these losses and deductions must be included in the current year amounts you enter in Part I. For example, if in 2003 your Schedule K-1 had a $1,500 loss on line 1, but because of the at-risk rules your loss was limited to $500, include both the $1,000 loss from 2003 and the amount from your 2004 Schedule K-1 on line 1 of Form 6198.

Closely held corporations. A closely held corporation must apply the limitation on the deduction for interest expense under section 163(j) before applying the at-risk limitations.

Line 1

Ordinary Income (Loss)

Taxpayers other than partners or S corporation shareholders. Enter your ordinary income or loss from the at-risk activity without regard to the at-risk limitations. This is the amount you get when you subtract your total deductions (including prior year deductions that were not allowed because of the at-risk rules) from your total income from the activity for the current year.

Do not include on line 1 capital or ordinary gains and losses from the sale or other disposition of assets used in the activity or of an interest in the activity. These amounts, casualty or theft gains and losses, and investment interest expense are entered on lines 2a, 2b, 2c, and 4.

1st draft August 5, 2004

Partners and S corporation shareholders. Enter the amount from box 1 of your current year Schedule K-1 (Form 1065 or Form 1120S) (plus any prior year ordinary loss that you could not deduct because of the at-risk rules). In the case of a partner in an electing large partnership, a partner's share of at-risk activity income or loss may be reported in box 1 or 2a of Schedule K-1 (Form 1065-B), Partner's Share of Income (Loss) From an Electing Large Partnership.

Lines 2a, 2b, and 2c

Gain (Loss)
Combine long- and short-term capital gains and losses and ordinary gains and losses from the sale or other disposition of assets used in the activity or of your interest in the activity. Enter gains and losses without regard to the at-risk limitations, the limitation on capital losses, or the passive activity loss limitations. If more than one item is included on a line, attach a statement describing each item.

Do not include amounts on lines 2a and 2b that are included on line 2c. Enter the form number or schedule letter to the left of the entry space for line 2c. For example, if you file Form 4684, Casualties and Thefts, and carry amounts from that form to Form 4797, Sales of Business Property, either enter the amounts attributable to the activity from Form 4684 on line 2c and enter "Form 4684" on the dotted line next to the entry space, or enter the amount attributable to the activity carried from Form 4684 to Form 4797 on line 2b. If you carry a loss from Form 4684 to Schedule A (Form 1040), enter on line 2c either the loss from Schedule A or the loss from Form 4684.

Taxpayers other than partners or S corporation shareholders. Include on your current year Schedule D, Form 4797, or other forms and schedules any prior year losses that you could not deduct because of the at-risk rules.

Partners and S corporation shareholders. Include on lines 2a, 2b, and 2c your current year gains and losses and prior year losses attributable to the activity that you could not deduct because of the at-risk rules.

Line 3
Other Income and Gains From the Activity
If you were a partner or S corporation shareholder, include on line 3 other income and gains from Schedule K-1 that you did not include on lines 1 through 2c.

Line 4
Other Deductions and Losses From the Activity
If you were a partner or S corporation shareholder, include on line 4 other deductions and losses from Schedule K-1 that you did not include on lines 1 through 2c.

If you have investment interest expense from your at-risk activity, first complete Form 4952, Investment Interest Expense Deduction, to figure your allowable investment interest deduction.

If you have investment interest expense from other activities on Form 4952, determine the allowable investment interest deduction attributable to the at-risk activity included on line 8 of Form 4952, and enter that amount on line 4 of Form 6198. You must reduce the allowable investment interest deduction on Form 4952 by the amount you carry to Form 6198. If you filed Form 6198 in 2003, include on line 4 of Form 6198 any investment interest expense from 2003 that was limited because of the at-risk rules.

Line 5
Current Year Profit (Loss)
If line 5 shows a current year profit, you may not have to complete the rest of this form. Report all of the income, gains, deductions, and losses shown on lines 1 through 4 on the forms and schedules normally used, and attach them to your tax return. Also attach Form 6198 and keep a copy for your records.

If your current year profit is from a passive activity and you have a loss from any other passive activity, see the Instructions for Form 8582, Passive Activity Loss Limitations, or the Instructions for Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations, whichever applies.
Note: Even if you have a current year profit on line 5, you may have recapture income if you received a distribution or had a transaction during the year that reduced your amount at risk in the activity to less than zero at the close of the tax year. See Pub. 925 for information on the recapture rules.

If line 5 shows a current year loss, your loss may be limited to the income or gains, if any, included on lines 1, 2, and 3. Separate the items of income, gains, deductions, and losses on lines 1 through 4. The income and gains are fully reportable on your tax return. The deductions and losses are allowable (subject to any other limitation such as the passive activity rules) to the extent of the income and gains. To determine the allowable portion of each deduction or loss, divide each deduction or loss from the activity by the total loss from the activity on line 5. Then, multiply the total income and gains by this fraction.

Complete the rest of the form to see how much, if any, of the excess loss can be deducted.

Example. Jill has a Schedule C loss of $4,600 on line 1 and a Schedule D gain of $3,100 on line 2a. Line 5 shows a current year loss of $1,500. Jill reports the $3,100 gain on Schedule D and can deduct $3,100 of the $4,600 loss on Schedule C. Jill completes Part II or Part III of Form 6198 and determines that only $600 of the $1,500 excess loss on line 5 is deductible in the current year. She replaces the $4,600 loss first entered on Schedule C with $3,700 ($3,100 + $600), the total loss allowed in the current year.

Part II—Simplified Computation of Amount At Risk

Part II is a simplified method of figuring your amount at risk. It can be used only if you know your adjusted basis in the activity or in your interest in the partnership's or S corporation's at-risk activity.

Part III is a longer method of figuring your amount at risk, which may allow a larger amount at risk. You do not need to complete Part II if you use Part III.

Line 6
Adjusted Basis on the First Day of Tax Year
Sole proprietors. Filers of Schedules C and F (Form 1040) must not reduce the amount on this line by any liabilities. See Pub. 551, Basis of Assets, for rules on adjusted basis.

Partners. To figure the adjusted basis, see Pub. 541, Partnerships.

S corporation shareholders. To figure the adjusted basis, see the Instructions for Form 1120S.

If the partnership or S corporation is engaged in more than one at-risk activity or in both at-risk activities and not-at-risk activities, you must figure the part of your adjusted basis that is allocable to each at-risk activity. See Aggregation or Separation of Activities on page 2 to determine each at-risk activity in which a partnership or S corporation is engaged.

Line 7

Increases for the Tax Year

Do not include the current year income or gains shown on lines 1 through 3.

Include changes during the current tax year in amounts that increase your amount at risk, such as the following.

1. Net fair market value (FMV) of property you own (not used in the activity) that secures nonrecourse loans used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity. Include the nonrecourse loans on line 9 (if included on line 6). Generally, the net FMV is determined when the property is pledged as security for the loan.

Do not enter the net FMV if (a) the nonrecourse loan was from a person who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest and (b) the activity is described in 1 through 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1. However, (a) does not apply to amounts borrowed by a corporation from a person whose only interest in the activity is as a shareholder of the corporation. See Pub. 925 for definitions.

2. Cash and the adjusted basis of other property (determined at the time of the contribution) contributed to the activity during the tax year. However, if you used your own assets to repay a nonrecourse debt and you included an amount in 1 above, the amount included as repayments cannot be more than the amount by which the balance of the loan at the time of repayment exceeds the net FMV of property you own (not used in the activity) that secures the debt.

3. Loans used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity for which you are personally liable, and qualified nonrecourse financing (defined on page 2). Do not enter amounts included in 2 above or on line 6.

4. Percentage depletion for this year deducted in excess of the adjusted basis of depletable property for the activity.

Line 9

Decreases for the Tax Year

Do not include the current year deductions or losses shown on lines 1 through 4.

Include changes during the current tax year in amounts that decrease your amount at risk, such as the following.

1. Nonrecourse loans (including recourse loans changed to nonrecourse loans) other than qualified nonrecourse financing (defined on page 2) used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity. Only amounts included on line 6 can be entered on line 9.

2. Cash, property, or borrowed amounts protected against loss by a guarantee, stop-loss agreement, or other similar arrangement. Enter this amount only if it was included on line 6. Do not include items covered by casualty insurance or insurance against tort liability.

3. Amounts borrowed from a person who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest.

This does not apply to amounts borrowed by a corporation from a person whose only interest in the activity is as a shareholder of the corporation, or amounts borrowed after May 3, 2004, and secured by real property used in the activity of holding real property (other than mineral property) that, if nonrecourse, would be qualified nonrecourse financing. Enter these amounts only if they were included on line 6 and not included under 1 or 2 above. This applies only to activities described in 1 through 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1. See Pub. 925 for definitions and more details.

4. Withdrawals and distributions during the tax year — both cash and the adjusted basis of noncash items (less nonrecourse liabilities to which the noncash items are subject) — including assets used in the activity to repay certain debts.

5. Nonrecourse liabilities included on line 6 of property you contributed to the activity.

Line 10b

Amount At Risk

If the amount on this line is smaller than your overall loss from the activity (line 5), you may want to complete Part III to see if Part III gives you a larger amount at risk.

Note: If the amount on line 10b is zero, you may be subject to the recapture rules. See Pub. 925.

Part III—Detailed Computation of Amount At Risk

If you completed Part III of Form 6198 for this activity for 2003, skip lines 11 through 14. Then, see the instructions for lines 15 and 16 that begin on page 6, and the instructions for line 18 that begin on page 7, to determine the amounts to enter on those lines.

If the activity began on or after one of the effective dates shown below and you did not complete Part III of Form 6198 for this activity for 2003, skip lines 11 through 14. Enter zero on line 15 and complete the rest of Part III.

Effective Dates

Generally, the effective date is the first day of the first tax year beginning after 1975 if the activity is described in 1 through 4 under At-Risk Activities on page 1.

If the activity is described in 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1, the effective date is usually October 1, 1978, for wells started after September 30, 1978. Generally, a well started before October 1, 1978, is not subject to the at-risk rules.

The activity of holding real property is subject to the at-risk rules for property placed in service after 1986, and for an interest acquired after 1986 in an S corporation, partnership, or other pass-through entity engaged in an activity of holding real property. An activity of holding real property does not include the holding of mineral property. Holding mineral property may be subject to at-risk limitations other than the special rules that apply to activities of holding real property.

In most cases, the effective date for all other at-risk activities is the first day of the first tax year beginning after 1978.

If you are a partner or an S corporation shareholder, the date you became a partner or shareholder may determine whether you are subject to the at-risk rules.

Line 11

Investment in the Activity at the Effective Date

Taxpayers other than partners or S corporation shareholders. Use the Line 11 Worksheet and its instructions on this page to figure your investment in the activity at the effective date. Enter all amounts as of the effective date.

Partners and S corporation shareholders. Enter on line 11 the basis of your investment in the partnership or S corporation at the effective date. If the partnership or S corporation is engaged in both at-risk and not-at-risk activities, allocate your investment between the at-risk and not-at-risk activities. Enter the part that is allocable to the at-risk activity on line 11.

Line 12

Increases at Effective Date

Enter your share of amounts such as the following.

1. Net FMV of your own property (not used in the activity) that secures nonrecourse loans used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity that will be included on line 14. Generally, the net FMV is determined when the property is pledged as security for a loan.

Do not enter the net FMV if (a) the nonrecourse loan was from a person who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest, and (b) the activity is described in 1 through 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1. However, (a) does not apply to amounts borrowed by a corporation from a person whose only interest in the activity is as a shareholder of the corporation. See Pub. 925 for definitions. If the activity is described in 6 under At-Risk Activities on page 1, you can include these amounts.

2. Total losses from years before the effective date for which there were equal or greater amounts not at risk at year end. Use the Line 12 Worksheet and its instructions on page 6 to figure this amount.

Make all entries on a year-by-year basis. Include amounts only for years before the effective date. Do not accumulate totals of earlier losses or nonrecourse debts.

If you took a deduction for percentage depletion for an item of depletable property in excess of the adjusted basis of the property in a year for which you had a loss for the activity, subtract the amount of the excess from the loss for that year.

Worksheet Instructions

Lines 3a and 3b. See the instructions for line 16, item (2), that begin on page 6, for the rules on basis. Generally, the amounts for lines 3a and 3b can be taken directly from your depreciation schedule. Use the depreciation schedule you filed at the effective date, not the schedule for the current tax year.

Line 10b. If you use a reserve for bad debts, subtract from your accounts receivable the balance of the reserve on the effective date. But only subtract up to the amount you were allowed as a deduction under repealed section 166(c) for years before the effective date.

Line 14

Decreases at Effective Date

Enter your share of amounts such as the following.

1. Nonrecourse loans outstanding at the effective date used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity, including recourse loans changed to nonrecourse loans. Enter this amount only if it was included on line 11.
2. Cash, property, or borrowed amounts, protected against loss by a guarantee, stop-loss agreement, or other similar arrangement outstanding at the effective date. Enter this amount only if it was included on line 11. Do not include items covered by casualty insurance or insurance against tort liability.
3. Amounts outstanding at the effective date borrowed from a person who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest. This does not apply to amounts borrowed by a corporation from a person whose only interest in the activity is as a shareholder of the corporation. Enter these amounts only if they were included on line 11 and not included under 1 or 2 above. This applies only to activities described in 1 through 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1. See Pub. 925 for definitions and more details.

4. If you are not an S corporation shareholder, also include liens and encumbrances on property you contributed to the activity that are included on line 11. If you are an S corporation shareholder, do not include any loans that were assumed by the corporation or that were liens or encumbrances on property you contributed to the corporation if the corporation took the property subject to the debt.

Line 15

Amount At Risk

If you completed Part III of Form 6198 for 2003, check box b and enter the amount from line 19b of the 2003 form on this line.

Do not enter the amount from line 10b of the 2003 form. Also, do not include on this line any amounts that are not at risk.

Line 16

Increases

If you completed Part III of Form 6198 for 2003, check box b and enter on this line any increases described in 1 through 9 below that occurred since the end of your 2003 tax year.

If you completed Part III of the 2003 form, "since effective date" means since the end of your 2003 tax year.

Enter your share of amounts such as the following.

1. Net FMV of property you own (not used in the activity) that secures nonrecourse loans that were acquired since the effective date and were used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity. Generally, the net FMV is determined when the property is pledged as security for the loan.
- Do not enter the net FMV if (a) the nonrecourse loan was from a person

Line 12 Worksheet—Figure Your Total Losses From Years Before the Effective Date for Which There Were Equal or Greater Amounts Not At Risk at Year End
(keep for your records)

(a) Year	(b) Amount of loss for the year	(c) Amount not at risk at end of year	(d) Total amounts from column (f) for all prior years	(e) Subtract (d) from (c)	(f) Smaller of (b) or (e)

Total (include on Form 6198, line 12) . . . . . ►

Worksheet Instructions

Use the first line of the worksheet for the first year in which you had a loss and amounts not at risk. List each subsequent year in order.

Column (d). For each year after the first year, enter the total amount in column (f) for all prior years.

Example. John had losses in 1970, 1971, and 1975. At the end of each of those years, John had outstanding amounts not at risk of $1,000. John had losses of $500 in 1970, $300 in 1971, and $500 in 1975.

For 1970, John enters $500 in column (b), $1,000 in column (c), $1,000 in column (e), and $500 in column (f).

For 1971, John enters $300 in column (b), $1,000 in column (c), $500 in column (d) (the total amount from column (f) for all prior years), $500 in column (e), and $300 in column (f).

For 1975, John enters $500 in column (b), $1,000 in column (c), $800 in column (d) (the total amount from column (f) for all prior years ($500 + $300)), $200 in column (e), and $200 in column (f). Of the $500 loss for 1975, only $200 is a loss for which there was an equal or greater amount not at risk at year end.

John's total loss from years before the effective date for which there were equal or greater amounts not at risk at year end is $1,000 (the total of the amounts in column (f)).

who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest and (b) the activity is described in 1 through 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1. However, (a) does not apply to an interest of a shareholder in the case of amounts borrowed by a corporation from the shareholder. ^ See Pub. 925 for definitions. If the activity is described in 6 under At-Risk Activities on page 1, you can include these amounts.

2. Cash and the adjusted basis of other property contributed to the activity since the effective date. Adjusted basis is the basis that would be used to figure the loss if the property was sold immediately after you contributed it to the activity. See Pub. 551 for details.

If you are an S corporation shareholder and you contributed property to the corporation subject to a liability, including a liability you are personally required to repay, then you must reduce the total of the adjusted basis of all the property you contributed by the total of all liabilities the property was subject to. This applies whether the corporation took the property subject to, or assumed, the liabilities.

3. Loans for which you are personally liable that were used to finance the activity, to acquire property used in the activity, or to acquire your interest in the activity and qualified nonrecourse financing (defined on page 1). Do not enter amounts included in 2 on page 6.

4. Total net income from this activity since the effective date (excess of all items of income received or accrued over the allowable deductions). Do not enter any amount less than zero. Do not include the current year income or gains.

If you are not an S corporation shareholder, enter the total net income from the activity since the effective date, taking into account only those years the activity had net income. For years since the effective date that the activity had a net loss, see the instructions for line 18, item 5, on page 8.

If you are an S corporation shareholder, enter your total net income from the activity for profit years since the effective date. Income from the activity includes gain recognized under section 357(c) on contributions of property to the activity. Include all distributions you received from the activity as well as your share of the activity's taxable income.

5. Gain recognized on the transfer or disposition of all or part of the activity or of your interest in the activity since the effective date.

6. Amounts you included in income since the effective date because your amount at risk was less than zero.

7. All money from outside the activity used since the effective date to repay loans included on lines 14 and 18. If, however, you used your own assets to repay a nonrecourse debt and you included an amount in 1 on page 6, the amounts included as repayments cannot exceed the amount by which the balance of the loan at the time of repayment exceeds the net FMV of property you own (not used in the activity) that secures the debt.

8. Percentage depletion deducted in excess of the adjusted basis of the depletable property for the activity since the effective date. Use the Line 16 Worksheet below to figure this amount. Be sure to include the amount for the current year.

9. If you are an S corporation shareholder, enter the loans you made to your S corporation since the effective date. Do not include notes that you have given to the activity that are still outstanding.

Line 18

Decreases

If you completed Part III of Form 6198 for 2003, check box b and enter on this line any decreases described in 1 through 8 below that occurred since the end of your 2003 tax year.

If you completed Part III of the 2003 form, "since effective date" means since the end of your 2003 tax year.

Enter your share of amounts such as the following.

1. Cash, property, or borrowed amounts protected against loss by a guarantee, stop-loss agreement, or other similar arrangement entered into since the effective date. Do not include items covered by casualty insurance or insurance against tort liability. Enter this amount only if it was included on line 16. See the instructions at the beginning of Part III on page 4 for information on effective dates.

2. Amounts borrowed since the effective date from a person who has an interest in the activity other than as a creditor or who is related under section 465(b)(3)(C) to a person (except you) having such an interest. However, this does not apply to: (a) amounts borrowed by a corporation from a person whose only interest in the activity is as a shareholder of the corporation, (b) amounts borrowed after May 3, 2004, and secured by real property used in the activity of holding real property (other than mineral property) that, if nonrecourse, would be qualified nonrecourse financing.

Enter these amounts only if they were included on line 16 and not included under 1 above. This applies only to activities described in 1 through 5 under At-Risk Activities on page 1. See the instructions at the beginning of Part III on page 4 for information on effective dates.

3. Cash and the adjusted basis of other property withdrawn or distributed since the effective date. Adjusted basis is the basis that would be used to figure the loss if the property was sold by the activity at the time you withdrew it or it was distributed to you.

If you are an S corporation shareholder and the property is subject to debt that would be included on line 14 (or on this line except for the fact that there are liens or encumbrances on the property in the activity), reduce the basis of the distributed property by the amount of the debt.

If you are not an S corporation shareholder, reduce the adjusted basis of property withdrawn by the amount, at the time of withdrawal, of any nonrecourse liability to which the property is subject.

Do not include any money from the activity used to repay loans described in the instructions for line 14 that begin on page 5. Include amounts that were withdrawn and recontributed. Recontributed amounts also must be included on line 16.

Partners and S corporation shareholders who recognize gain on distributions from the partnership or S corporation must include the distributions on line 18. They also must take them into account as income from the activity on line 16 unless the gain is recognized in the current year.

4. Recourse loans (and qualified nonrecourse financing) changed to nonrecourse loans since the effective date.

5. Total losses from this activity deducted since the effective date. Take into account only those years in which you had a net loss. Do not include current year losses or deductions. Also, do not include losses or deductions you could not deduct because of the at-risk rules.

The 2003 line 21 deductible loss reduces your at-risk investment as of the beginning of your 2004 tax year.

6. Nonrecourse liabilities of property you contributed to the activity since the effective date.

7. Any other at-risk amounts included on line 15 that changed to amounts that are not at risk since the effective date.

8. If you are an S corporation shareholder, do not include any loans that were assumed by the corporation or that were liens or encumbrances on property you contributed to the corporation since the effective date if the corporation took the property subject to the debt.

For loans, enter the amount of the loan you incurred, not the current balance of the loan.

Line 19b

Amount At Risk

If the amount on line 19b is zero, you may be subject to the recapture rules. See Pub. 925.

Part IV—Deductible Loss

Line 21

Deductible Loss

Note. When comparing lines 5 and 20, treat the loss on line 5 as a positive number only for purposes of determining the amount to enter on line 21.

If the loss on line 5 is equal to or less than the amount on line 20, report the items in Part I in full on your return, subject to any other limitations such as the passive activity and capital loss limitations. Follow the instructions for your tax return.

If the loss on line 5 is more than the amount on line 20, you must limit your deductible loss to the amount on line 20, subject to any other limitations.

Examples. (a) If line 5 is a loss of $400 and line 20 is $1,000, enter ($400) on line 21. (b) If line 5 is a loss of $1,600 and line 20 is $1,200, enter ($1,200) on line 21. (c) If line 5 is a loss of $800 and line 20 is zero, enter -0- on line 21.

If the amount on line 21 is made up of only one deduction or loss item, report on your return the amount shown on line 21, subject to any other limitations. Follow the instructions for your tax return to determine where to report the amount on your return.

If the amount on line 21 is made up of more than one deduction or loss item in Part I (such as a Schedule C loss and a Schedule D loss), a portion of each such deduction or loss item is allowed (subject to other limitations) for the year. Determine this portion by multiplying the loss on line 21 by a fraction. Figure the fraction by dividing each item of deduction or loss from the activity by the total loss from the activity on line 5. The remaining portion of each deduction or loss item from the activity is disallowed and must be carried over to next year.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

What's New

- The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 requires the application of the alternative minimum tax rules to the credit so Form 6478 is no longer filed with Form 3800, General Business Credit. This means lines 6 through 9 are now made to accommodate the passive activity rules and the carryback of any unused credit allowed that previously would have been reported on Form 3800.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 6478 to figure your credit for alcohol used as fuel. You claim the credit for the tax year in which the sale or use occurs. This credit consists of the:

- Alcohol mixture credit,
- Alcohol credit, and
- Small ethanol producer credit.

You may claim or elect not to claim the alcohol fuel credit at any time within 3 years from the due date of your return (determined without regard to extensions) on either an original or an amended return for the tax year of the sale or use.

Caution: Before claiming a credit on Form 6478, the alcohol fuel mixture credit must be taken against any section 4081 liability on Form 720. Any credit in excess of the section 4081 liability can be taken as a claim for payment on Form 8849 or an income tax credit on Form 4136.

Definitions and Special Rules

Qualified Ethanol Fuel Production

This is ethanol produced by an eligible small ethanol producer (defined below) which during the tax year:

1. Is sold by the producer to another person—
  - For use by the buyer in the buyer's trade or business to produce a qualified mixture (other than casual off-farm production),
  - For use by the buyer as a fuel in a trade or business, or
  - Who sells the ethanol at retail to another person and puts the ethanol in the retail buyer's fuel tank; or
2. Is used or sold by the producer for any purpose described in 1 above.

Eligible Small Ethanol Producer

This is a person who, at all times during the tax year, has a productive capacity for alcohol of 30 million gallons or less. This capacity includes alcohol made from petroleum, natural gas, coal, peat, and alcohol of less than 150 proof.

Alcohol

Alcohol, for credit purposes, includes ethanol and methanol but does not include the following.

- Alcohol produced from petroleum, natural gas, or coal (including peat). Methanol produced from methane gas formed in waste disposal sites is not alcohol produced from natural gas, and is included for credit purposes.
- Alcohol of less than 150 proof. In figuring the proof of any alcohol, disregard any denaturants (additives that make the alcohol unfit for human consumption). The volume of alcohol includes any denaturant up to 5% of the volume of the alcohol and denaturant combined.

The alcohol must not be a mixture with gasoline or special fuel (other than as a denaturant). The credit is for alcohol which during the tax year you:

- Used as a fuel in a trade or business, or
- Sold at retail to another person and put in the fuel tank of that person's vehicle.

However, no credit is allowed for alcohol you used as a fuel in a trade or business if that alcohol was sold in a retail sale described above.

Alcohol Fuel Mixture

The alcohol must be used to make a qualified mixture. A qualified mixture combines alcohol with gasoline or special fuel. The producer of the mixture either:

- Used it as fuel, or
- Sold it as fuel to another person.

The credit is available only to the producer who blends the mixture. The producer must use or sell the mixture in a trade or business and the credit is available only for the year the mixture is sold or used. The credit is not allowed for casual off-farm production of a qualified mixture.

Special Fuel

This is any liquid fuel other than gasoline that is suitable for use or is used in an internal combustion engine.

Registration

All producers and importers of alcohol with a proof of at least 190 must be registered with the IRS. See Form 637, Application for Registration (For Certain Excise Tax Activities).

Coordination With Excise Tax Credit

Only one credit may be taken with respect to any gallon of alcohol in a mixture reported on line 2. If any amount is claimed (or will be claimed) with respect to any gallon of alcohol on Form 720, Quarterly Federal Excise Tax Return, Form 8849, Claim for Refund of Excise Taxes, or Form 4136, Credit for Federal Tax Paid on Fuels, then a claim cannot be made on Form 6478 for that gallon of alcohol.

Recapture of Credit

You must pay a tax on each gallon of alcohol (or the alcohol in the mixture) at the rate you used to figure the credit if you:

- Separate the alcohol from the mixture,
- Use the mixture other than as a fuel,
- Mix alcohol on which the credit was allowed for the retail sale,
- Use the alcohol other than as a fuel, or
- Do not use the fuel for the purposes described under Qualified Ethanol Fuel Production.

Report the tax on Form 720.

Additional Information

See Pub. 378, Fuel Tax Credits and Refunds, and section 40.

Specific Instructions

Part I. Current Year Credit

Use lines 1 through 3 to figure any alcohol fuel credit from your own trade or business.

Note. We have shown in column (b) the rate for ethanol only. If you have a credit for alcohol other than ethanol, enter in column (b) the applicable rate shown in the instructions for lines 2 and 3.

Skip lines 1 through 3 if you are claiming only a credit that was allocated to you from a pass-through entity (that is, an S corporation, partnership, estate, trust, or cooperative).

Cooperative Election to Allocate the Small Ethanol Producer Credit to Patrons

For tax years ending after October 22, 2004, a cooperative described in section 1381(a) can elect to allocate any part of the small ethanol producer credit to patrons of the cooperative. The credit is allocated among the patrons eligible to share in patronage dividends on the basis of the quantity or value of business done with or for the patrons for the tax year.

To make an election, attach a statement to your timely filed return (including extensions) indicating the amounts you would report in columns (a) and (c) on line 1 of Form 6478 without an election, the amounts you are electing to allocate to patrons, and the amounts that will not be allocated.

If you timely filed your return without making an election, you can still make the election by filing an amended return within 6 months of the due date of the return (excluding elections). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" on the amended return.

Once made, the election cannot be revoked.

S Corporations, Partnerships, Estates, and Trusts

Figure the total credit on lines 1 through 10. Then, allocate the line 10 credit to each shareholder, partner, and beneficiary in the same way that income and loss are divided. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

If the line 10 credit includes any small ethanol producer credit (line 1), you must separately state to each shareholder, partner (except a partner in an electing large partnership), or beneficiary the number of gallons on which the credit was figured and your productive capacity (in gallons) for alcohol.

Line 1

Enter the number of gallons of ethanol, up to 15 million gallons, that meet the conditions listed under Qualified Ethanol Fuel Production on page 2. Cooperatives enter any amount of the small ethanol producer credit not allocated to patrons. Multiply by the rate of 10 cents per gallon.

Important: The amount of the credit determined for lines 2 and 3 below with respect to alcohol in qualified mixtures must be reduced by the excise tax benefit for qualified methanol or ethanol fuel reflected on Form 720. See sections 40(c) and 4041(b)(2).

Line 2

Enter the number of gallons of alcohol that is 190 proof or greater and alcohol that is 190 proof or greater in qualified mixtures (mixtures of alcohol and gasoline or alcohol and special fuels). For alcohol other than ethanol, the rate is 60 cents per gallon.

Line 3

Enter the number of gallons of alcohol that is less than 190 proof but at least 150 proof and alcohol that is less than 190 proof but at least 150 proof in qualified mixtures (mixtures of alcohol and gasoline or alcohol and special fuels). For alcohol other than ethanol, the rate is 45 cents per gallon.

Line 4

Enter the amount of credit that was allocated to you as a shareholder, partner, beneficiary, or patron.

If your credit from a pass-through entity includes the small ethanol producer credit, the pass-through entity must tell you the amount of the small producer credit included in the pass-through credit, the number of gallons for which the entity claimed the small ethanol producer credit, and the productive capacity for alcohol. You, as a shareholder, partner, beneficiary, or patron, are subject to the 15-million-gallon limitation for line 1 and the 30-million-gallon productive capacity limitation for an eligible small ethanol producer. If you receive a small ethanol producer credit from more than one entity, your credit may be limited.

Line 6

Enter the amount included on line 5 that is from a passive activity. Generally, a passive activity is a trade or business in which you did not materially participate. Rental activities are generally considered passive activities, whether or not you materially participate. For details, see Form 8582-CR, Passive Activity Credit Limitations (for individuals, trusts, and estates), or Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations (for corporations).

Line 8

Enter the passive activity credit allowed for the 2005 credit for alcohol used as fuel from Form 8582-CR or Form 8810.

Line 9

Use only if you amend your 2005 return to carry back an unused credit from 2006.

Line 10

For an estate or trust, the credit on line 10 is allocated between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocable to each. In the margin to the right of line 10, the estate or trust should enter its part of the total credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in lines 10 through 23 to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041. Also, enter and identify the beneficiaries' share of the credit to the right of line 10 and attach a schedule showing how the total credit was divided.

Part II. Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit. However, if you have a current year credit and a credit from Section B of Form 8835, Renewable Electricity and Refined Coal Production Credit, do not complete Part II. Instead, go to Form 8835 to compute the allowable combined credit.

Line 11

Enter the regular tax before credits from the following line of the appropriate form or schedule.

- Individuals: Form 1040, line 44.
- Corporations: Form 1120, Schedule J, line 3; Form 1120-A, Part I, line 1; or the amount from the applicable line of your return.
- Estates and trusts: The sum of the amounts from Form 1041, Schedule G, lines 1a and 1b; or the amount from the applicable line of your return.

Line 12

Enter the alternative minimum tax (AMT) from the following line of the appropriate form or schedule.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 35.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 14.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 56.

Line 17

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 19

Enter the amount of all other allowed credits for the current year included in the general business credit. If you are filing Form 3800, enter the amount from line 19 of that form plus the following.

- Form 8844, line 24.
- The amount from the last line of any single separate general business credit form.

Line 21

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 20 is smaller than line 10), you cannot carry the unused credit back. You must carry the unused credit forward 20 years.

What's New for 2005

The credit for increasing research activities (research credit) is not allowed for expenditures paid or incurred after December 31, 2005.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 6765 to figure and claim the credit for increasing research activities (research credit).

Who Must File

An individual, estate, trust, organization, or corporation claiming a credit for increasing research activities; or any S corporation, partnership, estate, or trust that allocates the credit to its shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries must complete this form and attach it to its income tax return. If allocating the credit, see the instructions for line 41.

Qualified Research

The research credit is generally allowed for expenditures paid or incurred for qualified research. Qualified research means research for which expenditures may be treated as section 174 expenses. This research must be undertaken for discovering information that is technological in nature, and its application must be intended for use in developing a new or improved business component of the taxpayer. In addition, substantially all of the activities of the research must be elements of a process of experimentation relating to a new or improved function, performance, reliability, or quality. The research credit generally is not allowed for the following types of activities.

- Research conducted after the beginning of commercial production.
- Research adapting an existing product or process to a particular customer's need.
- Duplication of an existing product or process.
- Surveys or studies.
- Research relating to certain internal-use computer software.
- Research conducted outside the United States, Puerto Rico, or a U.S. possession.
- Research in the social sciences, arts, or humanities.
- Research funded by another person (or governmental entity).

If you incur qualified clinical testing expenses relating to drugs for certain rare diseases, you can elect to claim the orphan drug credit for these expenses instead of the research credit. See Form 8820, Orphan Drug Credit.

See section 41 and Regulations sections 1.41-2 and 1.41-4 for other definitions and special rules.

Special Rules

See section 41(f) and Regulations section 1.41-6 for special rules related to:

- Aggregation of expenditures for members of controlled groups and businesses under common control;
- Allocation of the credit by partnerships, estates, and trusts;
- Adjustments, if a major portion of a business is acquired or disposed of; and
- Short tax years.

For special rules concerning the allocation and apportionment of research and experimental expenditures between U.S. and foreign source income, see sections 861 through 864.

Specific Instructions

Part I—Current Year Credit

You can claim either the regular credit in Section A or elect the alternative incremental credit in Section B. Under the alternative incremental credit, a smaller three-tiered fixed-base percentage and reduced three-tiered credit rate apply. You may want to figure your credit both ways to see which gives you the larger credit. However, once elected, the alternative incremental credit applies to the current tax year and all later tax years, unless you receive IRS consent to revoke the election. In the year the consent is granted, attach the consent to Form 6765 and the return.

Members of Controlled Groups or Businesses Under Common Control

For purposes of figuring the credit, all members of a controlled group of corporations (as defined in section 41(f)(5) and Regulations section 1.41-6), and all members of a group of businesses under common control, are treated as a single taxpayer. The credit allowed each member is based on its proportionate share of qualified research expenses and basic research payments giving rise to the group's research credit. Use Section A or B of Part I to figure the credit for the entire group, but enter only this member's share of the credit on line 16 or line 39, whichever applies. Attach a statement showing how this member's share of the credit was figured, and write "See Attached" next to the entry space for line 16 or line 39.

Section A—Regular Credit

Skip this section and go to Section B if you are electing or previously elected the alternative incremental credit (and have not received permission to revoke the election).

Line 1

Corporations (other than S corporations, personal holding companies, and service organizations) may be eligible for a basic research credit if payments in cash to a qualified university or scientific research organization (under a written contract) exceed a base period amount (based on their general university giving and certain other maintenance-of-effort levels for the 3 preceding years). Enter your payments on this line. See section 41(e) for details.

Line 2

Enter the qualified organization base period amount as defined in section 41(e). The amount on line 2 (not to exceed the amount on line 1), although not eligible for the basic research credit, can be treated as contract research expenses on line 7 subject to the 65% (or 75%) limitation.

Line 6

Enter the amount you paid or incurred for the rental or lease of computers used in qualified research. The computer must be located off your premises and you must not be the operator or primary user of the computer. Reduce this amount by the amount that you (or any member of a controlled group of corporations or businesses under common control) received or accrued for the right to use substantially identical property.

Line 7

Include 65% of any amount you paid or incurred for qualified research performed on your behalf. Prepaid contract research expenses are considered paid in the year the research is actually done. Also include 65% of that portion of the line 1 basic research payments that does not exceed the line 2 base amount. However, use 75% in place of 65% for payments made to a qualified research consortium. A qualified research consortium is a tax-exempt organization described in section 501(c)(3) or 501(c)(6) that is organized and operated primarily to conduct scientific research and is not a private foundation.

Line 9

The fixed-base percentage depends on whether you are an existing company or a start-up company.

A start-up company is a taxpayer that had both gross receipts and qualified research expenses either:

- For the first time in a tax year beginning after 1983 or
- For fewer than 3 tax years beginning after 1983 and before 1989.

The fixed-base percentage for a start-up company is figured as follows.

- For the first 5 tax years beginning after 1993 for which you have qualified research expenses, the percentage is 3%.

- For the 6th tax year beginning after 1993 for which you have qualified research expenses, divide the aggregate qualified research expenses for the 4th and 5th such tax years by the aggregate gross receipts for those tax years, then divide the result by 6.
- For the 7th tax year beginning after 1993 for which you have qualified research expenses, divide the aggregate qualified research expenses for the 5th and 6th such tax years by the aggregate gross receipts for those tax years, then divide the result by 3.
- For the 8th tax year beginning after 1993 for which you have qualified research expenses, divide the aggregate qualified research expenses for the 5th, 6th, and 7th such tax years by the aggregate gross receipts for those tax years, then divide the result by 2.
- For the 9th tax year beginning after 1993 for which you have qualified research expenses, divide the aggregate qualified research expenses for the 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th such tax years by the aggregate gross receipts for those tax years, then divide the result by 1.5.
- For the 10th tax year beginning after 1993 for which you have qualified research expenses, divide the aggregate qualified research expenses for the 5th through 9th such tax years by the aggregate gross receipts for those tax years, then divide the result by 1.2.
- For the 11th and later tax years beginning after 1993 for which you have qualified research expenses, divide the aggregate qualified research expenses for any 5 of the 5th through 10th such tax years by the aggregate gross receipts for those tax years.

The fixed-base percentage for an existing company (any company that is not a start-up company) is figured by dividing the aggregate qualified research expenses for the tax years beginning after 1983 and before 1989 by the aggregate gross receipts for those tax years.

The fixed-base percentage for all companies (existing and start-up) must be rounded to the nearest 1/100th of 1% (that is, four decimal places) and cannot exceed 16%. In addition, when figuring your fixed-base percentage, you must reflect expenses for qualified research conducted in Puerto Rico or a U.S. possession for all prior tax years included in the computation.

If short tax years are involved, see Regulations section 1.41-3(b).

CAUTION Reduce gross receipts by returns and allowances. For a foreign corporation, include only gross receipts that are effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States (or in Puerto Rico or a U.S. possession, if applicable).

Line 10

Enter the average annual gross receipts (reduced by returns and allowances) for the 4 tax years preceding the tax year for which the credit is being determined. You may be required to annualize gross receipts for any short tax year. For a foreign corporation, include only gross receipts that are effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States (or in Puerto Rico or a U.S. possession, if applicable).

Line 16

If you do not elect the reduced credit, which can only be claimed on an original timely filed return (with extensions), you must reduce your otherwise allowable deduction for qualified research expenses or basic research expenses by the amount of the credit on this line. If the credit exceeds the amount allowed as a deduction for the tax year, reduce the amount chargeable to the capital account for the year for such expenses by the amount of the excess. Attach a schedule to your tax return that lists the deduction amounts (or capitalized expenses) that were reduced. Identify the lines of your return (schedule or forms for capitalized items) on which the reductions were made.

Section B—Alternative Incremental Credit

Complete this section only if you are electing or previously elected the alternative incremental credit instead of the regular credit (and have not received permission to revoke the election).

Line 18

Enter the qualified organization base period amount as defined in section 41(e). The amount on line 18 (not to exceed the amount on line 17), although not eligible for the basic research credit, can be treated as contract research expenses on line 24 subject to the 65% (or 75%) limitation.

Section C—Current Year Credit

Line 41

Pass-through entities should report the amount on line 41 as follows.

Estates and trusts. Allocate the credit on line 41 between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in the same proportion as income was allocated. In the margin for line 41, the estate or trust should enter its share of the credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in Part II (or on Form 3800, if required) to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041. On Schedule K-1, report the share of credit allocated to each beneficiary.

S corporations and partnerships.

Attach Form 6765 to your tax return, and on Schedule K-1 report the credit allocated to each shareholder or partner. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Part II—Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A research credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 48

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 49

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the appropriate AMT form or schedule.

Line 52

For an individual, estate, or trust, the credits on line 16 or 39, and line 40, are limited to the amount of tax attributable to your taxable income from the sole proprietorship or your interest in the partnership, S corporation, estate, or trust (pass-through entity) generating the credit. Figure the research credit limitation separately for each business enterprise by using the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{Taxable income attributable to the sole proprietorship or your interest in the pass-through entity}}{\text{Taxable income for the year (Form 1040, line 43, or Form 1041, line 22)}} \times (\text{Line 46} - \text{Line 48})$$

The result figured above is limited to the excess of line 46 over line 48. If in the current tax year you had no taxable income attributable to a particular business interest, you cannot claim any research credit this year for that business.

If you cannot use all of the research credit because of the tax liability limit or the taxable income limit above (line 52 is less than line 41), carry the unused credit back 1 year then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800.

Major Changes to Form 8283 (Rev. August 2005)

1. New titles were added to Section A; Section A, Part II; and Section B. This suggestion came from a manager in LMSB who thought that titles would make the form less confusing.
2. On line 1, column (b), a sentence was added asking the taxpayer to provide information on a donated vehicle. This recommendation came from the Department of Treasury, Office of Tax Policy.
3. In the Part II heading, the instructions were revised to make them easier to follow. Also, the first line of instructions in questions 2 and 3 were deleted. The instructions were already stated in the heading.

4. In the Section B heading on page 2, a sentence was added to indicate that an appraisal is usually required for donations listed in this section. This sentence was added since the title of this part was changed.
5. In question 4 several checkboxes were deleted and several new ones were added. The new checkboxes should better reflect the types of property donated.
  - A. Boxes that have been deleted:
    1. Real Estate
    2. Coin Collections
    3. Gems/ Jewelry
    4. Books
    5. Stamp Collections
  - B. Boxes have been added for:
    1. Collectibles
    2. Qualified Conservation Contribution
    3. Other Real Estate
    4. Intellectual Property
    5. Equipment
    6. Securities

The boxes about the different types of collections were consolidated into one box called collectibles.

(Recommendation from the Department of Treasury, Office of Tax Policy)

6. In Section B, Part I, question 4, a second asterisk was added to explain what would be included in the collectibles checkbox.
7. In the note above question 5, a second item was added to indicate that a qualified appraisal should be attached to the tax return if the donation is over $500,000.

Instructions for Form 8582-CR

Passive Activity Credit Limitations

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Form 8582-CR is used by noncorporate taxpayers to figure the amount of any passive activity credit (PAC) for the current tax year (including any prior year unallowed credits) and the amount of credit allowed for the current year. It also is used to make the election to increase the basis of credit property when a taxpayer disposes of his or her interest in an activity.

PACs that are not allowed in the current year are carried forward until they are allowed against the tax on either net passive income or the special allowance, if applicable.

Different rules apply to your activities and the related credit, depending on the type of activity. Generally, passive activities include:

- Trade or business activities in which you did not materially participate for the tax year.
- Rental activities, regardless of your participation.

For more information, see Pub. 925, Passive Activity and At-Risk Rules.

Note. Corporations subject to the passive activity rules must use Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations.

Overview of Form

The form contains six parts. The Specific Instructions, starting on page 9, include, at the beginning of the instructions for each part, a brief explanation of the purpose or use of that part. These explanations give a general overview of how the form works.

Also, as you read the instructions that follow, see Example of How To Complete Form 8582-CR, beginning on page 5. The example goes through a six-step analysis of how the form and worksheets are completed for a partner in a limited partnership that has a low-income housing credit.

Activities That Are Not Passive Activities

The following are not passive activities.

1. Trade or business activities in which you materially participated for the tax year.
2. Any rental real estate activity in which you materially participated if you were a "real estate professional" for the tax year. You were a real estate professional only if:

a. More than half of the personal services you performed in trades or businesses during the tax year were performed in real property trades or businesses in which you materially participated, and

b. You performed more than 750 hours of services during the tax year in real property trades or businesses in which you materially participated.

For purposes of item (2), each interest in rental real estate is a separate activity unless you elect to treat all interests in rental real estate as one activity.

If you are married filing jointly, one spouse must separately meet both (2)(a) and (2)(b) without taking into account services performed by the other spouse.

A real property trade or business is any real property development, redevelopment, construction, reconstruction, acquisition, conversion, rental, operation, management, leasing, or brokerage trade or business.

Services you performed as an employee are not treated as performed in a real property trade or business unless you owned more than 5% of the stock (or more than 5% of the capital or profits interest) in the employer.

3. A working interest in an oil or gas well. Your working interest must be held directly or through an entity that does not limit your liability (such as a general partner interest in a partnership). In this case, it does not matter whether you materially participated in the activity for the tax year.

If, however, your liability was limited for part of the year (for example, you converted your general partner interest to a limited partner interest during the year), some of your income and losses from the working interest may be treated as passive activity gross income and passive activity deductions. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-1T(e)(4)(ii).

4. The rental of a dwelling unit you used as a residence if section 280A(c)(5) applies. This section applies if you rented out a dwelling unit that you also used as a home during the year for a number of days that exceeds the greater of 14 days or 10% of the number of days during the year that the home was rented at a fair rental.

5. An activity of trading personal property for the account of owners of interests in the activity. For purposes of this rule, personal property means property that is actively traded, such as stocks, bonds, and other securities. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-1T(e)(6).

Generally, credits from these activities are not entered on Form 8582-CR. However, credits from these activities may be subject to limitations other than the passive credit limitation rules.

Rental Activities

A rental activity is a passive activity even if you materially participated in the activity (unless it is a rental real estate activity in which you materially participated and you were a real estate professional).

However, if you meet any of the five exceptions listed below, the rental of the property is not treated as a rental activity. See Reporting Credits From the Activities on this page if you meet any of the exceptions.

An activity is a rental activity if tangible property (real or personal) is used by customers or held for use by customers and the gross income (or expected gross income) from the activity represents amounts paid (or to be paid) mainly for the use of the property. It does not matter whether the use is under a lease, a service contract, or some other arrangement.

Exceptions

An activity is not a rental activity if any of the following exceptions are met.

1. The average period of customer use is:

- 7 days or less, or
- 30 days or less and significant personal services (see below) were provided in making the rental property available for customer use.

Figure the average period of customer use for a class of property by dividing the total number of days in all rental periods by the number of rentals during the tax year. If the activity involves renting more than one class of property, multiply the average period of customer use of each class by the ratio of the gross rental income from that class to the activity's total gross rental income. The activity's average period of customer use equals the sum of these class-by-class average periods weighted by gross income. See Regulations section 1.469-1(e)(3)(iii).

Significant personal services include only services performed by individuals. To determine if personal services are significant, all relevant facts and circumstances are considered. Facts and circumstances include the frequency of the services, the type and amount of labor required to perform the services, and the value of the services relative to the amount charged for use of the property.

2. Extraordinary personal services were provided in making the rental property available for customer use. This applies only if the services are performed by individuals and the customers' use of the rental property is incidental to their receipt of the services.

3. Rental of the property is incidental to a nonrental activity.

The rental of property is incidental to an activity of holding property for investment if the main purpose of holding the property is to realize a gain from its appreciation and the gross rental income is less than 2% of the smaller of the unadjusted basis or the fair market value (FMV) of the property.

Unadjusted basis is the cost of the property without regard to depreciation deductions or any other basis adjustment described in section 1016.

The rental of property is incidental to a trade or business activity if:

- You own an interest in the trade or business activity during the tax year,
- The rental property was mainly used in the trade or business activity during the tax year or during at least 2 of the 5 preceding tax years, and
- The gross rental income from the property is less than 2% of the smaller of the unadjusted basis or the FMV of the property.

Lodging provided for the employer's convenience to an employee or the employee's spouse or dependents is incidental to the activity or activities in which the employee performs services.

4. You customarily make the rental property available during defined business hours for nonexclusive use by various customers.

5. You provide property for use in a nonrental activity of a partnership, S corporation, or joint venture in your capacity as an owner of an interest in the partnership, S corporation, or joint venture.

Reporting Credits From the Activities

If an activity meets any of the five exceptions listed above, it is not a rental activity. You must then determine:

1. Whether your rental of the property is a trade or business activity (see Trade or Business Activities on page 3) and, if so,

2. Whether you materially participated in the activity for the tax year (see Material Participation beginning on page 3).

- If the activity is a trade or business activity in which you did not materially participate, enter the credits from the activity on Worksheet 4 on page 11.
- If the activity is a trade or business activity in which you did materially participate, report the credits from the activity on the forms you normally use.

If the rental activity did not meet any of the five exceptions, it is generally a passive activity. Special rules apply if you conduct the rental activity through a publicly traded partnership (PTP). See Publicly Traded Partnerships (PTPs) on page 15.

If the rental activity is not conducted through a PTP, the passive rental activity is entered in Worksheet 1, 2, 3, or 4 on pages 10 and 11.

Worksheet 1 is for credits (other than rehabilitation credits and low-income housing credits) from passive rental real estate activities in which you actively participated. See Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities on page 3.

Worksheet 2 is for rehabilitation credits from passive rental real estate activities and low-income housing credits for property placed in service before 1990. This worksheet is also used for low-income housing credits from a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity if your interest in the pass-through entity was acquired before 1990, regardless of the date the property was placed in service.

Worksheet 3 is for low-income housing credits for property placed in service after 1989 (unless held through a pass-through entity in which you acquired your interest before 1990).

Worksheet 4 is for credits from passive trade or business activities in which you did not materially participate and passive rental real estate activities in which you did not actively participate (but not rehabilitation credits from passive rental real estate activities or low-income housing credits).

Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities

If you actively participated in a passive rental real estate activity, you may be able to claim credits from the activity for the tax attributable to a special allowance of up to $25,000, reduced by any passive losses, including the commercial revitalization deduction, allowed under this exception on Form 8582, Passive Activity Loss Limitations.

The special allowance also applies to low-income housing credits and rehabilitation credits from a rental real estate activity, even if you did not actively participate in the activity. The credits allowed under the special allowance are in addition to the credits allowed for the tax attributable to net passive income.

The special allowance is not available if you were married at the end of the year, are filing a separate return for the year, and lived with your spouse at any time during the year.

Only an individual, a qualifying estate, or a qualified revocable trust that made an election to treat the trust as part of the decedent's estate may actively participate in a rental real estate activity. Unless future regulations provide an exception, limited partners are not treated as actively participating in a partnership's rental real estate activity.

A qualifying estate is the estate of a decedent for tax years ending less than 2 years after the date of the decedent's death if the decedent would have satisfied the active participation requirements for the rental real estate activity for the tax year the decedent died.

A qualified revocable trust may elect to be treated as part of a decedent's estate for purposes of the special allowance for active participation in rental real estate activities. The election must be made by both the executor (if any) of the decedent's estate and the trustee of the revocable trust. For details, see Regulations section 1.645-1.

You are not considered to actively participate in a rental real estate activity if at any time during the tax year your interest (including your spouse's interest) in the activity was less than 10% (by value) of all interests in the activity.

Active participation is a less stringent requirement than material participation (see Material Participation on this page). You may be treated as actively participating if, for example, you participated in making management decisions or arranging for others to provide services (such as repairs) in a significant and bona fide sense. Management decisions that may count as active participation include:

- Approving new tenants,
- Deciding on rental terms,
- Approving capital or repair expenditures, and
- Other similar decisions.

The maximum special allowance is:

- $25,000 for single individuals and married individuals filing a joint return for the tax year.
- $12,500 for married individuals who file separate returns for the tax year and who lived apart from their spouses at all times during the tax year.
- $25,000 for a qualifying estate reduced by the special allowance for which the surviving spouse qualified.

Modified adjusted gross income limitation. If your modified adjusted gross income (defined in the instructions for line 10 beginning on page 10) is $100,000 or less ($50,000 or less if married filing separately), figure your credits based on the amount of the maximum special allowance referred to in the preceding paragraph.

If your modified adjusted gross income is more than $100,000 ($50,000 if married filing separately) but less than $150,000 ($75,000 if married filing separately), your special allowance is limited to 50% of the difference between $150,000 ($75,000 if married filing separately) and your modified adjusted gross income.

Generally, if your modified adjusted gross income is $150,000 or more ($75,000 or more if married filing separately), there is no special allowance.

However, for low-income housing credits for property placed in service before 1990 and for rehabilitation credits, the limits on modified adjusted gross income are increased. If your modified adjusted gross income is more than $200,000 ($100,000 if married filing separately) but less than $250,000 ($125,000 if married filing separately), your special allowance is limited to 50% of the difference between $250,000 ($125,000 if married filing separately) and your modified adjusted gross income.

If your modified adjusted gross income is $250,000 or more ($125,000 or more if married filing separately), there is no special allowance.

No modified adjusted gross income limitation applies when figuring the special allowance for low-income housing credits for property placed in service after 1989 (other than from a pass-through entity in which you acquired your interest before 1990).

Trade or Business Activities

A trade or business activity is an activity (other than a rental activity or an activity treated as incidental to an activity of holding property for investment) that:

1. Involves the conduct of a trade or business (within the meaning of section 162),
2. Is conducted in anticipation of starting a trade or business, or
3. Involves research or experimental expenditures deductible under section 174 (or that would be if you chose to deduct rather than capitalize them).

Reporting Credits From the Activities

Trade or business activities with material participation. If you materially participated in a trade or business activity, the activity is not a passive activity. Report the credits from the activity on the forms you normally use.

Trade or business activities without material participation. If you did not materially participate in a trade or business activity, the activity is a passive activity. Generally, you must use Worksheet 4 on page 11 to figure the amount to enter on Form 8582-CR for each trade or business activity in which you did not materially participate. However, if you held the activity through a PTP, special rules apply. See Publicly Traded Partnerships (PTPs) on page 15.

Material Participation

For the material participation tests that follow, participation generally includes any work done in connection with an activity if you owned an interest in the activity at the time you did the work. The capacity in which you did the work does not matter. However, work is not participation if:

- It is not work that an owner would customarily do in the same type of activity, and
- One of your main reasons for doing the work was to avoid the disallowance of losses or credits from the activity under the passive activity rules.

Proof of participation. You may prove your participation in an activity by any reasonable means. You do not have to maintain contemporaneous daily time reports, logs, or similar documents if you can establish your participation by other reasonable means. For this purpose, reasonable means include, but are not limited to, identifying services performed over a period of time and the approximate number of hours spent performing the services during that period, based on appointment books, calendars, or narrative summaries.

Tests for individuals. You materially participated for the tax year in an activity if you satisfy at least one of the following tests.

1. You participated in the activity for more than 500 hours.
2. Your participation in the activity for the tax year was substantially all of the participation in the activity of all individuals (including individuals who did not own any interest in the activity) for the year.
3. You participated in the activity for more than 100 hours during the tax year, and you participated at least as much as any other individual (including individuals who did not own any interest in the activity) for the year.
4. The activity is a significant participation activity for the tax year, and you participated in all significant participation activities during the year for more than 500 hours.

A significant participation activity is any trade or business activity in which you participated for more than 100 hours during the year and in which you did not materially participate under any of the material participation tests (other than this fourth test).

5. You materially participated in the activity for any 5 (whether or not consecutive) of the 10 immediately preceding tax years.

6. The activity is a personal service activity in which you materially participated for any 3

(whether or not consecutive) preceding tax years.

An activity is a personal service activity if it involves the performance of personal services in the fields of health, law, engineering, architecture, accounting, actuarial science, performing arts, consulting, or in any other trade or business in which capital is not a material income-producing factor.

7. Based on all the facts and circumstances, you participated in the activity on a regular, continuous, and substantial basis during the tax year.

You did not materially participate in the activity under this seventh test, however, if you participated in the activity for 100 hours or less during the tax year.

Your participation in managing the activity does not count in determining whether you materially participated under this test if:

- a. Any person (except you) received compensation for performing services in the management of the activity, or
- b. Any individual spent more hours during the tax year performing services in the management of the activity than you did (regardless of whether the individual was compensated for the management services).

Test for a spouse. Participation by your spouse during the tax year in an activity you own may be counted as your participation in the activity, even if your spouse did not own an interest in the activity and whether or not you and your spouse file a joint return for the tax year.

Test for investors. Work done as an investor in an activity is not treated as participation unless you were directly involved in the day-to-day management or operations of the activity. For purposes of this test, work done as an investor includes:

1. Studying and reviewing financial statements or reports on operations of the activity,
2. Preparing or compiling summaries or analyses of the finances or operations of the activity for your own use, and
3. Monitoring the finances or operations of the activity in a nonmanagerial capacity.

Special rules for limited partners.

If you were a limited partner in an activity, you generally did not materially participate in the activity. You did materially participate in the activity, however, if you met material participation test 1, 5, or 6 (see Tests for individuals) for the tax year.

However, for purposes of the material participation tests, you are not treated as a limited partner if you also were a general partner in the partnership at all times during the partnership's tax year ending with or within your tax year (or, if shorter, during the portion of the partnership's tax year in which you directly or indirectly owned your limited partner interest).

A limited partner's share of an electing large partnership's taxable income or loss from all trade or business and rental activities is treated as income or loss from the conduct of a single passive trade or business activity.

Special rules for certain retired or disabled farmers and surviving spouses of farmers. Certain retired or disabled farmers and surviving spouses of farmers are treated as materially participating in a farming activity if the real property used in the activity meets the estate tax rules for special valuation of farm property passed from a qualifying decedent. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-5T(h)(2).

Estates and trusts. The PAC limitations apply to an estate or trust. See Temporary Regulations sections 1.469-1T(b)(2) and (3). The rules for determining material participation for this purpose have not yet been issued.

Grouping of Activities

Generally, one or more trade or business activities or rental activities may be treated as a single activity if the activities make up an appropriate economic unit for the measurement of gain or loss under the passive activity rules.

Whether activities make up an appropriate economic unit depends on all the relevant facts and circumstances. The factors given the greatest weight in determining whether activities make up an appropriate economic unit are:

1. Similarities and differences in types of trades or businesses,
2. The extent of common control,
3. The extent of common ownership,
4. Geographical location, and
5. Interdependencies between or among the activities.

Example. You have a significant ownership interest in a bakery and a movie theater in Baltimore and in a bakery and a movie theater in Philadelphia. Depending on all the relevant facts and circumstances, there may be more than one reasonable method for grouping your activities. For instance, the following groupings may or may not be permissible.

- A single activity.
- A movie theater activity and a bakery activity.
- A Baltimore activity and a Philadelphia activity.
- Four separate activities.

Once you choose a grouping under these rules, you must continue using that grouping in later tax years unless a material change in the facts and circumstances makes it clearly inappropriate.

The IRS may regroup your activities if your grouping fails to reflect one or more appropriate economic units and one of the primary purposes of your grouping is to avoid the passive activity limitations.

Limitation on grouping certain activities. The following activities may not be grouped together.

1. A rental activity with a trade or business activity unless the activities being grouped together make up an appropriate economic unit and:

a. The rental activity is insubstantial relative to the trade or business activity or vice versa, or

b. Each owner of the trade or business activity has the same proportionate ownership interest in the rental activity. If so, the portion of the rental activity involving the rental of property used in the trade or business activity may be grouped with the trade or business activity.

2. An activity involving the rental of real property with an activity involving the rental of personal property (except personal property provided in connection with the real property or vice versa).

3. Any activity with another activity in a different type of business and in which you hold an interest as a limited partner or as a limited entrepreneur (as defined in section 464(e)(2)), if that other activity engages in holding, producing, or distributing motion picture films or videotapes; farming; leasing section 1245 property; or exploring for (or exploiting) oil and gas resources or geothermal deposits.

Activities conducted through partnerships, S corporations, and C corporations subject to section 469.

Once a partnership or corporation determines its activities under these rules, a partner or shareholder may use these rules to group those activities with:

- Each other,
- Activities conducted directly by the partner or shareholder, or
- Activities conducted through other partnerships and corporations.

A partner or shareholder may not treat as separate activities those activities grouped together by the partnership or corporation.

Partial disposition of an activity.

You may treat the disposition of substantially all of an activity as a separate activity if you can prove with reasonable certainty:

1. The prior year unallowed losses, if any, allocable to the part of the activity disposed of, and
2. The net income or loss for the year of disposition allocable to the part of the activity disposed of.

Dispositions

Unallowed PACs, unlike unallowed passive activity losses, are not allowed when you dispose of your interest in an activity. However, you may elect to increase the basis of the credit property by the amount of the original basis reduction of the property to the extent that the credit has not been allowed under the passive activity rules. Unallowed PACs that are not used to increase the basis of the credit property are carried forward until they are allowed. To make the election, complete Form 8582-CR, Part VI. No basis adjustment may be elected on a partial disposition of your interest in a passive activity.

Example of How To Complete Form 8582-CR

In 2005, John Jones purchased an interest as a limited partner in Partnership A. Mr. Jones is married and files a joint return. During 2005, the partnership placed in service a residential rental building that qualified for the low-income housing credit.

- Mr. Jones received a Schedule K-1 from the partnership. The low-income housing credit ($12,000) is shown on Schedule K-1 (Form 1065), box 15, with code B.

- Mr. Jones' net passive income for 2005 is zero.

Step 1. Mr. Jones will need the following forms to report the low-income housing credit:

- Form 8586, Low-Income Housing Credit.
- Form 8582-CR, Passive Activity Credit Limitations.

Mr. Jones follows the instructions for code A on Schedule K-1, line 15, and enters the employer identification number (EIN) of the partnership and the $12,000 low-income housing credit on Form 8586, line 5, and completes line 6.

Step 4. Mr. Jones completes Form 8582-CR, Part V.Part V Passive Activity Credit Allowed

37 Passive Activity Credit Allowed. Add lines 6, 16, 30, and 36. See page 12 to find out how to report the allowed credit on your tax return and how to allocate allowed and unallowed credits if you have more than one credit or credits from more than one activity. ---	-----------	-------	--

Step 5. After completing Form 8582-CR, Mr. Jones determines his allowed and unallowed credit. Because he has only one type of credit from a single passive activity, his allowed low-income housing credit for 2004 is the amount on line 37, or $8,250. His unallowed credit of $3,750 is determined by subtracting the allowed credit on line 37 from the total credit on line 5 ($12,000 – $8,250).

Step 6. Mr. Jones enters the allowed passive activity credit of $8,250 on line 7 of Form 8586 and completes Part II of that form according to the instructions for Form 8586. The unallowed credit of $3,750 is carried forward and used to figure the passive activity credit allowed for 2005.

Specific Instructions

Current Year Credits

Convert any current year qualified expenditures into credits before beginning Worksheet 1, 2, 3, or 4. If the credits are from more than one activity or are of more than one type, separate the credits by activity or type before making entries in the worksheets.

Example. You have a low-income housing credit from one activity and a research credit from a different activity. Enter the low-income housing credit in column (a) of Worksheet 2 or 3 and make a separate entry for the research credit in column (a) of Worksheet 4.

Form 3800, General Business

Credit. Enter the credits from Form 3800, line 3 in column (a) of Worksheet 1, 2, 3, or 4.

Form 6478, Credit for Alcohol Used as Fuel. Enter the credits from Form 6478, line 7 in column (a) of Worksheet 1 or 4.

Form 8586, Low-Income Housing

Credit. If you are not required to file Form 3800, enter the portion of the credit attributable to passive activities from Form 8586, line 6 in column (a) of Worksheet 2 or 3.

Form 8834, Qualified Electric

Vehicle Credit. Enter the credits from Form 8834, line 11 in column (a) of Worksheet 1 or 4.

Form 8835, Renewable Electricity and Refined Coal Production

Credit. Enter the credits from Form 8835, line 25 in column (a) of Worksheet 1 or 4.

Form 8844, Empowerment Zone and Renewal Community

Employment Credit. Enter the credits from Form 8844, line 5 in column (a) of Worksheet 1 or 4.

Nonconventional source fuel

credit. Figure your credit from passive activities for fuel produced from a nonconventional source and enter the credit in column (a) of Worksheet 4.

See section 29 for more information on the credit for fuel produced from a nonconventional source.

Prior Year Unallowed Credits

To figure this year's PAC, you must take into account any credits from passive activities disallowed for prior years and carried forward to this year.

If you had only one type of prior year unallowed credit from a single passive activity, figure your prior year unallowed credit by subtracting line 37 of your 2004 Form 8582-CR from line 5 of your 2004 Form 8582-CR.

Otherwise, your prior year unallowed credits are the amounts shown in column (b) of Worksheet 9 in the 2004 Instructions for Form 8582-CR. Enter the prior year unallowed credits in column (b) of Worksheet 1, 2, 3, or 4, whichever apply.

Part I—2005 Passive Activity Credits

Use Part I to combine your credits from passive activities to determine if you have a PAC for 2005.

If your credits from all passive activities exceed the tax attributable to net passive income, you have a PAC for 2005. Generally, you have net passive income if line 4 of Form 8582 shows income. For more information, see the instructions for Form 8582-CR, line 6 beginning on this page.

Lines 1a through 1c. Individuals and qualifying estates that actively participated in rental real estate activities must include the credits (other than rehabilitation credits or low-income housing credits) from these activities on lines 1a through 1c. Use Worksheet 1 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 1a and 1b.

If you are married filing a separate return and lived with your spouse at any time during the year, even if you actively participated in the rental real estate activity, include the credits in Worksheet 4, not in Worksheet 1.

Note. You may take credits that arose in a prior tax year (other than low-income housing and rehabilitation credits) under the special allowance only if you actively participated in the rental real estate activity for both that prior year and this year. If you did not actively participate for both years, include the credits in Worksheet 4, not in Worksheet 1.

Lines 2a through 2c. Individuals (including limited partners) and qualifying estates who had rehabilitation credits from rental real estate activities or low-income housing credits for property placed in service before 1990 must include the credits from those activities on lines 2a through 2c. Use Worksheet 2 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 2a and 2b.

If you have low-income housing credits for property placed in service after 1989, include those credits in Worksheet 3 instead of Worksheet 2. If you held an indirect interest in the property through a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity, use Worksheet 3 only if you also acquired your interest in the pass-through entity after 1989.

Include the credits in Worksheet 4, but not in Worksheet 2 or 3, if you are married filing a separate return and lived with your spouse at any time during the year.

Lines 3a through 3c. Individuals (including limited partners) and qualifying estates who had low-income housing credits from rental real estate activities for property placed in service after 1989 must include those credits on lines 3a through 3c. If you held an indirect interest in the property through a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity, use lines 3a through 3c only if you also acquired your interest in the pass-through entity after 1989. Use Worksheet 3 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 3a and 3b.

Lines 4a through 4c. Individuals must include on lines 4a through 4c credits from passive activities that were not entered on Worksheets 1, 2, or 3. Trusts must include credits from all passive activities in Worksheet 4. Use Worksheet 4 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 4a and 4b.

Line 6. If Form 8582, line 4, shows net income or you did not complete Form 8582 because you had net passive income, you must figure the tax on the net passive income. If you have an overall loss on an entire disposition of your interest in a passive activity, reduce net passive income, if any, on Form 8582, line 4, to the extent of the loss (but not below zero) and use only the remaining net passive income in the computation on page 10. If you had a net passive activity loss, enter -0- on line 6 and go on to line 7.

A. Taxable income including net passive income . . . . .	_____
B. Tax on line A* . . . . .	_____
C. Taxable income without net passive income . . . . .	_____
D. Tax on line C* . . . . .	_____
E. Subtract line D from line B and enter the result on Form 8582-CR, line 6 . . . . .	_____

* For Form 1040, use the Tax Table, Tax Computation Worksheet, the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet, or the Schedule D Tax Worksheet, whichever applies. For Form 1041, use the Tax Rate Schedules, Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet, or Schedule D, whichever applies.

Note. When using taxable income in the above computation, it is not necessary to refigure items that are based on a percentage of adjusted gross income.

Line 7. If line 7 is zero because the tax on the net passive income on line 6 is greater than your credits from passive activities on line 5, all your credits from passive activities are allowed. In this case, enter the amount from line 5 on line 37 and report the credits on the forms normally used. Do not complete Worksheets 5 through 9.

Part II—Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities With Active Participation

Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible to complete Part II.

Use Part II to figure the credit allowed if you have any credits from rental real estate activities in which you actively participated (other than rehabilitation credits and low-income housing credits). See Rental Activities on page 2 for details.

Line 9. Married persons filing separate returns who lived apart from their spouses at all times during the year must enter $75,000 on line 9 instead of $150,000. Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible for the special allowance. They must enter -0- on line 16 and go to line 17.

Line 10. To figure modified adjusted gross income, combine all the amounts used to figure adjusted gross income except do not take into account:

- Any passive activity loss as defined in section 469(d)(1),
- Any rental real estate loss allowed to real estate professionals (defined under Activities That Are Not Passive Activities on page 1),
- Any overall loss from a PTP,
- The taxable amount of social security and tier 1 railroad retirement benefits,
- The deduction allowed under section 219 for contributions to IRAs

Lines 1a and 1b. Use Worksheet 1 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 1a and 1b. Use line 1a for credits from rental real estate activities with active participation for the current year and line 1b for prior year unallowed credits from rental real estate activities with active participation in both the prior year in which the credit arose and the current year. See Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities on page 3 for a definition of active participation.

After you complete the worksheet below, enter the totals of columns (a) and (b) on the corresponding lines of Form 8582-CR and then complete line 1c.

Note. Rehabilitation credits from rental real estate activities and low-income housing credits must be entered in Worksheet 2 or 3, whichever applies, even if you actively participated in the activity.

Lines 2a and 2b. Use Worksheet 2 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 2a and 2b. Use line 2a for rehabilitation credits and low-income housing credits from rental real estate activities for the current year and line 2b for prior year unallowed credits from those activities. However, use Worksheet 3 instead of Worksheet 2 if you have any low-income housing credits for property placed in service after 1989. If you held an indirect interest in the property through a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity, use Worksheet 3 only if you also acquired your interest in the pass-through entity after 1989. Use this worksheet if you do not meet both requirements.

After you complete the worksheet below, enter the totals of columns (a) and (b) on the corresponding lines of Form 8582-CR and then complete line 2c.

and certain other qualified retirement plans,

- The domestic production activities deduction,
- The deduction allowed for one-half of self-employment taxes,
- The exclusion from income of interest from series EE and I U.S. savings bonds used to pay higher education expenses,
- The exclusion of amounts received under an employer's adoption assistance program,
- The student loan interest deduction, or
- The tuition and fees deduction.

Include in modified adjusted gross income any portfolio income and expenses that are clearly and directly allocable to portfolio income. Also include any income that is treated as nonpassive income, such as overall gain from a PTP and net income from an activity or item of property subject to the recharacterization of passive income rules. For information on recharacterization of income, see

Pub. 925 or Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(f) and Regulations section 1.469-2(f).

When figuring modified adjusted gross income, any overall loss from an entire disposition of an interest in a passive activity is taken into account as a nonpassive loss if you do not have any net passive income after combining net income and losses from all other passive activities (that is, Form 8582, line 4 is a loss or zero). If you do have net passive income when you combine the net losses and net income from all other passive activities, the overall loss from the disposition is taken into account as a nonpassive loss only to the extent that it exceeds that net passive income.

Line 12. Do not enter more than $12,500 on line 12 if you are married filing a separate return and you and your spouse lived apart at all times during the year. Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible for the special allowance. They must enter -0- on line 16 and go to line 17.

Line 15. Figure the tax attributable to the amount on line 14 as follows.

Note. When using taxable income in the above computation, it is not necessary to refigure items that are based on a percentage of adjusted gross income.

Lines 3a and 3b. Use Worksheet 3 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 3a and 3b for low-income housing credits for property placed in service after 1989. If you held an indirect interest in the property through a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity, use Worksheet 3 only if you also acquired your interest in the pass-through entity after 1989. Use line 3a for the current year credits and line 3b for prior year unallowed credits for those activities.

After you complete the worksheet below, enter the totals of columns (a) and (b) on the corresponding lines of Form 8582-CR and then complete line 3c.

Part III—Special Allowance for Rehabilitation Credits From Rental Real Estate Activities and Low-Income Housing Credits for Property Placed in Service Before 1990 (or From Pass-Through Interests Acquired Before 1990)

Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible to complete Part III.

Use Part III to figure the credit allowed if you have any rehabilitation credits or low-income housing credits for property placed in service before 1990. Also use this part if your low-income housing credit is from a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity in which you acquired your interest before 1990, regardless of the date the property was placed in service.

Line 21. Married persons filing separate returns who lived apart from their spouses at all times during the year must enter $125,000 on line 21, instead of $250,000.

Skip lines 21 through 26 if you completed Part II of this form and your modified adjusted gross income on line 10 was $100,000 or less ($50,000 or less if married filing separately and you lived apart from your spouse for the entire year). Instead, enter the amount from line 15 on line 27.

Line 24. Do not enter more than $12,500 on line 24 if you are married filing a separate return and lived apart from your spouse for the entire year.

Line 27. Figure the tax attributable to the amount on line 26 as follows.

- A. Taxable income . . . . . _____
- B. Tax on line A* . . . . . _____
- C. Enter amount from Form 8582-CR, line 26 . . . . . _____
- D. Subtract line C from line A . . . . . _____
- E. Tax on line D* . . . . . _____
- F. Subtract line E from line B and enter the result on Form 8582-CR, line 27 . . . . . _____

*For Form 1040, use the Tax Table, Tax Computation Worksheet, the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet, or the Schedule D Tax Worksheet, whichever applies. For Form 1041, use the Tax Rate Schedules, Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet, or Schedule D, whichever applies.

Note. When using taxable income in the above computation, it is not necessary to refigure items that are based on a percentage of adjusted gross income.

Part IV—Special Allowance for Low-Income Housing Credits for Property Placed in Service After 1989

Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible to complete Part IV.

Use Part IV to figure the credit allowed if you have any low-income housing credits for property placed in service after 1989. If you held an indirect interest in the property through a partnership, S corporation, or other pass-through entity, use Part IV only if your interest in the pass-through entity was also acquired after 1989.

Line 35. Figure the tax attributable to the remaining special allowance as follows.

- A. Taxable income . . . . . _____
- B. Tax on line A* . . . . . _____
- C. Enter $25,000 ($12,500 if married filing separate return and you and your spouse lived apart at all times during the year) . . . . . _____
- D. Enter amount, if any, from Form 8582, line 10 . . . . . _____

- I. Subtract line H from line B . . . . . _____
- J. Add lines 16 and 30 of Form 8582-CR and enter the total . . . . . _____
- K. Tax attributable to the remaining special allowance. Subtract line J from line I. Enter the result on Form 8582-CR, line 35 . . . . . _____

*For Form 1040, use the Tax Table, Tax Computation Worksheet, the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet, or the Schedule D Tax Worksheet, whichever applies. For Form 1041, use the Tax Rate Schedules, Qualified Dividends Tax Worksheet, or Schedule D, whichever applies.

Note. When using taxable income in the above computation, it is not necessary to refigure items that are based on a percentage of adjusted gross income.

Part V—Passive Activity Credit Allowed

Use Part V to figure the PAC (as determined in Part I) that is allowed for 2005 for all passive activities.

Line 37. If you have only one type of credit, the amount on line 37 is the credit allowed for the year. Enter this amount on the form where it is normally reported. See Reporting Allowed Credits on Your Tax Return below. Your unallowed credit is line 5 minus line 37.

Use Worksheets 5 through 9, whichever apply, on pages 13 and 14, to allocate the allowed and unallowed credits if you have credits from more than one activity. Also use the worksheets if you have more than one type of credit.

Keep a record of each unallowed credit and the activity to which it belongs so you may claim the credit if it becomes allowable in a future year.

Reporting Allowed Credits on Your Tax Return

Form 3800. Enter on Form 3800, line 5, the total passive activity general business credit allowed.

Form 6478. Enter on Form 6478, line 9, the passive activity credit for alcohol used as fuel allowed.

Form 8586. If you are not required to file Form 3800, enter on Form 8586, line 7, any low-income housing credit allowed.

Form 8834. Enter on Form 8834, line 13, the passive activity qualified electric vehicle credit allowed.

Form 8835. Enter on Form 8835, line 27, the passive activity renewable electricity and refined coal production credit allowed.

Form 8844. Enter on Form 8844, line 7, the passive activity empowerment zone and renewal community employment credit allowed.

Nonconventional source fuel credit. If you have an allowed passive activity credit for fuel produced from a nonconventional source, see section 29 for limitations and adjustments to the credit. Attach a separate schedule to your tax return showing how you figured the credit. If you have both passive and nonpassive credits, combine the credits before applying the limitations and adjustments. Report the credit on the line specified by the instructions for the tax return you file.

Instructions for Worksheet 5

Complete Worksheet 5 if you have an amount on Form 8582-CR, line 1c and you have credits from more than one activity.

Column (a). Enter the credits from Worksheet 1, column (c), in column (a) of this worksheet.

Column (b). Divide each of the credits shown in column (a) by the total of the credits in column (a) and enter the ratio for each of the activities in column (b). The total of all the ratios must equal 1.00.

Column (c). Multiply Form 8582-CR, line 16 by the ratios in column (b) and enter the result in column (c). If the total of this column is the same as the total of column (a), all credits for the activities in column (a) of this worksheet are allowed. Report them on the forms normally used, and complete Worksheet 6 if you have credits shown in Worksheet 2. Also complete Worksheet 7 or 8 if you have credits shown in Worksheet 3 or 4. If the total of column (a) is more than the total of column (c), complete column (d).

Column (d). Subtract column (c) from column (a) and enter the result in this column. Also enter the name of each activity and the form the credit is reported on in Worksheet 8 and enter the amount from column (d) of this worksheet in column (a) of Worksheet 8. Also complete Worksheet 6 or 7 if you have credits on Form 8582-CR, line 2c or 3c.

Instructions for Worksheet 6

Publicly Traded Partnerships (PTPs)

A PTP is a partnership whose interests are traded on an established securities market or are readily tradable on a secondary market (or its substantial equivalent).

An established securities market includes any national securities exchange and any local exchange registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or exempted from registration because of the limited volume of transactions. It also includes any over-the-counter market.

A secondary market generally exists if a person stands ready to make a market in the interest. An interest is treated as readily tradable if the interest is regularly quoted by persons, such as brokers or dealers, who are making a market in the interest.

The substantial equivalent of a secondary market exists if there is no identifiable market maker, but holders of interests have a readily available, regular, and ongoing opportunity to sell or exchange their interests through a public means of obtaining or providing information on offers to buy, sell, or exchange interests. Similarly, the substantial equivalent of a secondary market exists if prospective buyers and sellers have the opportunity to buy, sell, or exchange interests in a timeframe and with the regularity and continuity that the existence of a market maker would provide.

Credits From PTPs

A credit from a passive activity held through a PTP is allowed to the extent of the tax attributable to net passive income from that partnership. In addition, rehabilitation credits and low-income housing credits from rental real estate activities held through PTPs are allowed to the extent of any special allowance that remains after taking into account losses and credits from rental real estate activities not owned through PTPs. See Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities on page 3.

Computation of Allowed Passive Activity Credits From PTPs

Complete Steps 1 and 2 only if you have net passive income from a PTP with passive activity credits (including prior year unallowed credits).

Step 1. Figure the tax attributable to net passive income from each PTP with passive activity credits (including prior year unallowed credits) by following the steps shown in the worksheet in the line 6 instructions beginning on page 9. Complete a separate tax computation for each PTP with net passive income.

Step 2. Passive activity credits from each PTP are allowed to the extent of the tax attributable to net passive income from the same PTP. Credits in excess of the tax attributable to net passive income may be allowed under one or more steps below.

Complete Steps 3 through 5 only if your passive activity credits (including prior year unallowed credits) include rehabilitation credits from rental real estate activities from PTPs, low-income housing credits for property placed in service before 1990 from PTPs, or low-income housing credits from PTPs in which you acquired your interest before 1990 (regardless of the date placed in service).

Step 3. Reduce rehabilitation credits from rental real estate activities from each PTP, low-income housing credits for property placed in service before 1990 from each PTP, and any low-income housing credits (including prior year unallowed credits) from each PTP in which you acquired your interest before 1990 (regardless of the date placed in service) to the extent of the tax, which was figured in Step 1, attributable to net passive income from that PTP.

Step 4. Before beginning this step, complete Form 8582-CR if you have any passive credits that are not from PTPs. Subtract the total of lines 16, 30, and 36, if any, of Form 8582-CR, from the amount on line 27 of Form 8582-CR, to figure the tax attributable to the special allowance available for the credits in Step 3.

If your only passive credits are from PTPs, complete lines 21 through 27 of Form 8582-CR as a worksheet. The amount on line 27 is the tax attributable to the special allowance available for the credits in Step 3.

Step 5. Rehabilitation credits from rental real estate activities of PTPs, low-income housing credits for property placed in service before 1990 by PTPs, and low-income housing credits from PTPs in which you acquired your interest before 1990 (regardless of the date placed in service) allowed under the special allowance are the smaller of the total credits from Step 3 or the amount figured in Step 4. If Step 4 is smaller than Step 3, allocate the amount in Step 4 pro rata to the credits from each PTP in Step 3.

Complete Steps 6 through 8 only if you have low-income housing credits (including prior year unallowed credits) for property placed in service after 1989 from a PTP in which you acquired your interest after 1989.

Step 6. Reduce low-income housing credits (including prior year unallowed credits) for property placed in service after 1989 from each PTP in which you also acquired your interest after 1989 to the extent of the tax attributable to net passive income from that PTP, which was figured in Step 1.

Step 7. Before beginning this step, complete Form 8582-CR if you have any passive credits that are not from PTPs. Subtract the sum of the credits allowed in Step 5 above and Form 8582-CR, line 36, from the amount on Form 8582-CR, line 35, to figure the tax attributable to the special allowance available for the credits in Step 6.

If your only passive credits are from PTPs, complete the steps shown in the worksheet in the line 35 instructions on page 12. Subtract the credits allowed in Step 5 above from the tax figured on line K of that worksheet. The result is the tax attributable to the special allowance available for the credits in Step 6.

Step 8. Low-income housing credits allowed under the special allowance for property placed in service after 1989 from a PTP in which you also acquired your interest after 1989 are the smaller of the total credits from Step 6 or the amount figured in Step 7. If Step 7 is smaller than Step 6, allocate the amount in Step 7 pro rata to the credits from each PTP in Step 6.

Step 9. Add the credits from Steps 2, 5, and 8. These are the total credits allowed from passive activities of PTPs.

Step 10. Figure the allowed and unallowed credits from each PTP. Report the allowed credits on the forms normally used. Keep a record of the unallowed credits to be carried forward to 2006.

Part VI—Election To Increase Basis of Credit Property

Complete Part VI if you disposed of your entire interest in a passive activity and elect to increase the basis of the credit property used in the activity by the unallowed credit that reduced the basis of the property.

Line 38. Check the box if you elect to increase the basis of credit property used in a passive activity by the unallowed credit that reduced the property's basis. The election is available for a fully taxable disposition of an entire interest in an activity for which a basis adjustment was made as a result of placing in service property for which a credit was taken. You may elect to increase the basis of the credit property immediately before the disposition (by an amount no greater than the amount of the original basis reduction) to the extent that the credit had not been allowed previously because of the passive activity credit limitations. The amount of the unallowed credit that may be applied against tax is reduced by the amount of the basis adjustment.

No basis adjustment may be elected on a partial disposition of your interest in a passive activity or if the disposition is not fully taxable. The amount of any unallowed credit, however, remains available to offset the tax attributable to net passive income.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Form 8379 is filed by one spouse (the injured spouse) on a jointly filed tax return when the joint overpayment was (or is expected to be) applied (offset) to a past-due obligation of the other spouse.<sup>A</sup>

Are You an Injured Spouse?

You may be an injured spouse if you file a joint tax return and all or part of your portion of the overpayment was, or is expected to be, applied (offset) to your spouse's legally enforceable past-due federal tax, state income tax, child or spousal support, or a federal nontax debt, such as a student loan.

You should complete and file Form 8379 if all three of the following apply and you want your share of the overpayment shown on your joint tax return refunded to you.

1. You are not legally obligated to pay the past-due amount.
2. You reported income such as wages, taxable interest, etc., on the joint return.
3. You made and reported payments, such as federal income tax withheld from your wages or estimated tax payments, or you claimed the earned income credit or other refundable credit, on the joint return.

Note. If your residence was in a community property state (discussed later) at any time during the tax year, you may file Form 8379 if only item (1) above applies.

Innocent Spouse Relief

Do not file Form 8379 if you are claiming innocent spouse relief. Instead, file Form 8857. An innocent spouse is someone who believes a joint federal tax liability should be paid solely by his or her spouse. You may qualify for relief from liability for tax on a joint return if (a) there is an understatement of tax because your spouse omitted income or claimed false deductions or credits, (b) you are divorced, separated, or no longer living with your spouse, or (c) given all the facts and circumstances, it would not be fair to hold you liable for the tax. See Pub. 971 for more details.

When To File

File Form 8379 when you become aware that all or part of your share of an overpayment was, or is expected to be, applied (offset) against your spouse's past-due obligations. You must file Form 8379 for each year you meet this condition and want your portion of any offset refunded.

You can file Form 8379 with your joint tax return or amended joint tax return (Form 1040X). Or you can file it afterwards by itself.

~~You can file Form 8379~~ by itself and all or part of your portion of the refund is applied (offset) to your spouse's past-due obligation, you will have two years after the date of the Notice of Offset to file Form 8379. A Notice of Offset for federal tax debts is issued by the IRS. A Notice of Offset for past-due state income tax, child or spousal support, or federal nontax debts (such as a student loan) is issued by the U.S. Treasury Department's Financial Management Service (FMS).<sup>A</sup>

~~If Form 8379 is not filed with your joint return and all or part of your portion of the refund is applied (offset) to your spouse's past-due obligation, you will have two years after the date of the Notice of Offset to file Form 8379. A Notice of Offset for federal tax debts will be issued by Internal Revenue Service. All other Notices of Offset will be issued by Financial Management Service.~~

Where To File

~~If you file Form 8379 after you filed your original joint return on paper, mail it to the same Internal Revenue Service Center where you filed the original return. If you filed your original joint return electronically, mail Form 8379 to the Internal Revenue Service Center for the area where you live.~~

IF you file Form 8379...	THEN mail Form 8379...
with your joint return	and your joint return to the Internal Revenue Service Center for the area where you live.*
After you filed your original joint return on paper	To the same Internal Revenue Service Center where you filed your original return.*
After you filed your original joint return electronically	To the Internal Revenue Service Center for the area where you live.*

*See your tax return instructions for the mailing address.

How To File

If you file Form 8379 with your joint return, attach it to your return in the order of the attachment sequence number (located in the upper right corner of the tax form). Enter "Injured Spouse" in the upper left corner of page 1 of the joint return.

If you file Form 8379 separately, please be sure to attach a copy of all Form(s) W-2, W-2G, or 1099 showing federal income tax withholding to Form 8379. The processing of Form 8379 may be delayed if these forms are not attached, or if the form is incomplete when filed.

Amending Your Tax Return

If you file an amended joint tax return (Form 1040X) to claim an additional refund and you do not want your portion of the overpayment to be applied (offset) against your spouse's past-due obligation(s), then you will need to complete and file another Form 8379 to allocate the additional refund.

Time Needed to Process Form 8379

Generally, if you file Form 8379 with a joint return on paper, the time needed to process it is about 14 weeks (11 weeks if filed electronically). If you file Form 8379 by itself after a joint return has been processed, the time needed is about 8 weeks.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Line 6. If you live in a community property state, special rules will apply to the calculation of your injured spouse refund. Community property states are: Arizona, California, Idaho, Louisiana, New Mexico, Nevada, Texas, Washington, and Wisconsin.

Generally, income, deductions, credits, and expenses are allocated 50/50 between spouses who live in a community property state. Overpayments are considered joint property and subject to be applied (offset) for legally owed past-due obligations of either spouse. However, there are exceptions. The IRS will use each state's rules to determine the amount, if any, that would be refundable to the injured spouse. For more information about community property, see Pub. 555.

Part II

To properly determine the amount of tax owed and overpayment due to each spouse, an allocation must be made as if each spouse filed a separate tax return instead of a joint tax return. So, each spouse must allocate his or her separate wages, self-employment income and expenses (and self-employment tax), and credits such as education credits, to the spouse who would have shown the item(s) on his or her separate return. The IRS will figure the amount of any refund due the injured spouse.

Other items that may not clearly belong to either spouse (for example, a penalty on early withdrawal of savings from a joint bank account), would be equally divided. Special rules apply to couples living in community property states (see above).

Line 7a. Enter only W-2 income on this line. Enter the separate income that each spouse earned.

Line 7b. Identify the type and amount. Allocate joint income, such as interest earned on a joint bank account, as you determine. Be sure to allocate all income shown on the joint return.

Line 8. Enter each spouse's separate adjustments, such as an IRA deduction. Allocate other adjustments as you determine.

Line 9. If you used the standard deduction on your joint tax return, enter in both columns (b) and (c)  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the amount shown in column (a). If you itemize your deductions, enter each spouse's separate deductions, such as employee business expenses. Allocate other deductions as you determine.

Line 10. Allocate the exemptions claimed on the joint return to the spouse who would have claimed them if separate returns had been filed. Enter whole numbers only. For example, you cannot allocate 3 exemptions by giving 1.5 exemptions to each spouse.

Line 11. Allocate any child tax credit, child and dependent care credit, and additional child tax credit to the spouse who was allocated the dependent's exemption. Do not include any earned income credit here; the IRS will allocate it based on each spouse's income. Allocate business credits based on each spouse's interest in the business. Allocate any other credits as you determine.

Line 12. Allocate self-employment tax to the spouse who earned the self-employment income. Allocate any alternative minimum tax as you determine.

Line 13. Enter federal income tax withheld from each spouse's income as shown on Forms W-2, W-2G, and 1099-R. Be sure to attach copies of these forms to your tax return or to Form 8379 if you are filing it by itself. Also include on this line any tax withheld on any other Form 1099 or any excess social security or tier 1 RRTA tax withheld.

Line 14. Allocate joint estimated tax payments as you determine.

How To Avoid Common Mistakes

Mistakes may delay your refund or result in notices being sent to you.

- Make sure to enclose copies of all W-2, W-2G and any Form(s) 1099 for both spouses showing income tax withheld to prevent a delay in processing your allocation.

- Clearly write "Injured Spouse" in the upper left corner of page 1 of your joint return.

- Any dependent exemptions must be entered in whole numbers. Do not use fractions.

- Items of income, expenses, credits and deductions must be allocated to the spouse who would have entered the item on his or her separate return.

- b ☐ I do not want direct deposit of my refund or I am not receiving a refund.
- c ☐ I authorize the U.S. Treasury and its designated Financial Agent to initiate an ACH electronic funds withdrawal entry to the financial institution account indicated in the tax preparation software for payment of my Federal taxes owed on this return and/or a payment of estimated tax. I further understand that this authorization may apply to subsequent Federal tax payments that I direct to be debited through the Electronic Federal Tax Payment System (EFTPS). In order for me to initiate subsequent payments, I request that the IRS send me a personal identification number (PIN) to access EFTPS. To revoke a payment, I must contact the U.S. Treasury Financial Agent at 1-888-353-4537 no later than 2 business days prior to the payment (settlement) date. If I have filed a balance due return, I understand that if the IRS does not receive full and timely payment of my tax liability, I will remain liable for the tax liability and all applicable interest and penalties. If I have filed a joint Federal and state tax return and there is an error on my state return, I understand my Federal return will be rejected.

Form 8453 (2005)

General Instructions

TIP Instead of filing Form 8453, the taxpayer may be able to sign the return electronically using a self-selected personal identification number (PIN). For details, go to the IRS website at www.irs.gov or see Pub. 1345.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8453 to:

- Authenticate the electronic portion of Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ,
- Send any accompanying paper schedules or statements (Forms W-2, W-2G, or 1099-R should not be attached),
- Authorize the electronic return originator (ERO) to transmit via a third-party transmitter, and
- Provide the taxpayer's consent to directly deposit any refund and/or authorize an electronic funds withdrawal for payment of federal taxes owed and/or a payment of estimated tax.

When and Where To File

This form must be mailed by the ERO to the applicable submission processing center within 3 business days after the ERO has received acknowledgment from the IRS that the return was accepted. The ERO should provide the taxpayer with the address which is contained in Pub. 1345A, Filing Season Supplement for Authorized IRS e-file Providers.

Line Instructions

Declaration control number (DCN). The DCN is a 14-digit number assigned by the ERO to each return. Clearly type or print the DCN in the top left corner of each Form 8453. Enter the number after the IRS has acknowledged receipt of the electronic return as follows:

Boxes	Entry
1-2	File identification number (always "00")
3-8	Electronic filer identification number (EFIN) assigned by the IRS
9-11	Batch number (000 to 999) assigned by the ERO
12-13	Serial number (00 to 99) assigned by the ERO
14	Year digit (for returns filed in 2006, the year digit is "6")

Example. The EFIN is 509325. The batch number is 000. The serial number is 56. The DCN is 00-509325-00056-6.

Name and address. If the taxpayer received a peel-off name and address label from the IRS, put the label in the name area. Cross out any incorrect information and print the correct information. Add any missing items, such as apartment number. If the taxpayer did not receive a label, print or type the information in the spaces provided.

P.O. box. Enter the box number only if the post office does not deliver mail to the taxpayer's home.

Note. The address must match the address shown on the electronically filed return.

Social security number (SSN). Be sure to enter the taxpayer's SSN in the space provided on Form 8453. If a joint return, list the SSNs in the same order as the first names.

Part I—Tax Return Information

Line 5. Do not include any payment with Form 8453. The method of payment depends on whether the taxpayer checks the box on line 6b or 6c. For details, see the instructions for Part II.

Part II—Declaration of Taxpayer

Note. The taxpayer must check all applicable boxes on line 6.

If there is an amount on line 5 and the taxpayer checks box 6b and is paying by check or money order, mail the payment by April 17, 2006, with Form 1040-V to the applicable address shown on that form.

If the taxpayer checks box 6c, the taxpayer must ensure that the following information relating to the financial institution account is provided in the tax preparation software.

- Routing number.
- Account number.
- Type of account (checking or savings).
- Debit amount.
- Debit date (date the taxpayer wants the debit to occur).

An electronically transmitted return will not be considered complete, and therefore filed, unless and until a Form 8453 signed by the taxpayer is received by the IRS. A Form 8453 signed by an agent must have a power of attorney attached that specifically authorizes the agent to sign the return. To do this, you can use Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative.

If the ERO makes changes to the electronic return after Form 8453 has been signed by the taxpayer but before it is transmitted, the ERO must have the taxpayer complete and sign a corrected Form 8453 if either of the following applies.

- The adjusted gross income on line 1 differs from the amount on the electronic return by more than $50, or
- The total tax on line 2, the federal income tax withheld on line 3, the refund on line 4, or the amount owed on line 5 differs from the amount on the electronic return by more than $14.

Form 8453 can be faxed between the taxpayer and the ERO. The ERO must receive the faxed signed Form 8453 prior to transmitting the return to the IRS. The completed Form 8453, with signatures, must be mailed to the IRS.

Part III—Declaration of Electronic Return Originator (ERO) and Paid Preparer

The IRS requires the ERO's signature. A paid preparer must sign Form 8453 in the space for Paid Preparer's Use Only. But if the paid preparer is also the ERO, do not complete the paid preparer's section. Instead, check the box labeled "Check if also paid preparer."

Note. If the paid preparer's signature cannot be obtained on Form 8453, you can attach a copy of Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ instead. Attach only pages 1 and 2, and enter "COPY—DO NOT PROCESS" on each page.

Refunds. After the IRS has accepted the return, the refund should be issued within 3 weeks. However, some refunds may be delayed because of compliance reviews to ensure that returns are accurate.

Refund information. You can check on the status of your 2005 refund if it has been at least 3 weeks from the date you filed your return. To check on the status of your 2005 refund, do one of the following:

- Go to www.irs.gov and click on Where's My Refund.
- Call 1-800-829-4477 for automated refund information and follow the recorded instructions.
- Call 1-800-829-1954.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. - The adjusted gross income on line 1 differs from the amount on the electronic return by more than $50, or
- The total tax on line 2, the federal income tax withheld on line 3, the refund on line 4, or the amount owed on line 5 differs from the amount on the electronic return by more than $14.

Form 8453 can be faxed between the taxpayer and the ERO. The ERO must receive the faxed signed Form 8453 prior to transmitting the return to the IRS. The completed Form 8453, with signatures, must be mailed to the IRS.

Part III—Declaration of Electronic Return Originator (ERO) and Paid Preparer

The IRS requires the ERO's signature. A paid preparer must sign Form 8453 in the space for Paid Preparer's Use Only. But if the paid preparer is also the ERO, do not complete the paid preparer's section. Instead, check the box labeled "Check if also paid preparer."

Note. If the paid preparer's signature cannot be obtained on Form 8453, you can attach a copy of Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ instead. Attach only pages 1 and 2, and enter "COPY—DO NOT PROCESS" on each page.

Refunds. After the IRS has accepted the return, the refund should be issued within 3 weeks. However, some refunds may be delayed because of compliance reviews to ensure that returns are accurate.

Refund information. You can check on the status of your 2005 refund if it has been at least 3 weeks from the date you filed your return. To check on the status of your 2005 refund, do one of the following:

- Go to www.irs.gov and click on Where's My Refund.
- Call 1-800-829-4477 for automated refund information and follow the recorded instructions.
- Call 1-800-829-1954.

- 6a ☐ I consent that my refund be directly deposited as designated in the electronic portion of my 2005 Federal income tax return. If I have filed a joint return, this is an irrevocable appointment of the other spouse as an agent to receive the refund.
- b ☐ I do not want direct deposit of my refund or I am not receiving a refund.
- c ☐ I authorize the U.S. Treasury and its designated Financial Agent to initiate an ACH electronic funds withdrawal entry to the financial institution account indicated in the tax preparation software for payment of my Federal taxes owed on this return and/or a payment of estimated tax. I further understand that this authorization may apply to subsequent Federal tax payments that I direct to be debited through the Electronic Federal Tax Payment System (EFTPS). In order for me to initiate subsequent payments, I request that the IRS send me a personal identification number (PIN) to access EFTPS. This authorization is to remain in full force and effect until I notify the U.S. Treasury Financial Agent to terminate the authorization. To revoke a payment, I must contact the U.S. Treasury Financial Agent at 1-888-353-4537 no later than 2 business days prior to the payment (settlement) date. I also authorize the financial institutions involved in the processing of the electronic payment of taxes to receive confidential information necessary to answer inquiries and resolve issues related to the payment.

If I have filed a balance due return, I understand that if the IRS does not receive full and timely payment of my tax liability, I will remain liable for the tax liability and all applicable interest and penalties. If I have filed a joint Federal and state tax return and there is an error on my state return, I understand my Federal return will be rejected.

Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined a copy of my electronic individual income tax return and accompanying schedules and statements for the tax year ending December 31, 2005, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, it is true, correct, and complete. I further declare that the amounts in Part I above are the amounts shown on the copy of my electronic income tax return. I consent to allow my intermediate service provider and/or transmitter to send my return to the IRS and to receive from the IRS (a) an acknowledgment of receipt or reason for rejection of the transmission, (b) an indication of any refund offset, (c) the reason for any delay in processing the return or refund, and (d) the date of any refund.

General Instructions

TIP You may be able to file a completely paperless return! Your tax preparation software should contain information about using a self-select personal identification number (PIN) instead of filing Form 8453-OL. Or, you can go to the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8453-OL to:

- Authenticate the electronic portion of your 2005 Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ,
- Send any accompanying paper schedules or statements (Forms W-2, W-2G, or 1099-R should not be attached), and
- Provide your consent to directly deposit any refund and/or authorize an electronic funds withdrawal for payment of federal taxes owed and/or a payment of estimated tax.

Who Must File

If you are filing a 2005 Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ through an intermediate service provider and/or transmitter and you do not use a self-select PIN, you must file a signed 2005 Form 8453-OL with the IRS.

Note. Do not mail a copy of your Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ.

When and Where To File

You must mail this form to the IRS on the next working day after you have received acknowledgment from your intermediate service provider and/or transmitter that the IRS has accepted your electronically filed return. The address should be included in your acknowledgment message. If not, mail Form 8453-OL to the IRS at the applicable address shown in the chart below. If you do not receive an acknowledgment, you must contact your intermediate service provider and/or transmitter.

Line Instructions

Declaration control number (DCN). The DCN is a 14-digit number assigned to your return by your intermediate service provider and/or transmitter. It should be included in your acknowledgment message. Clearly type or print the DCN in the top left corner of Form 8453-OL. The first two digits are always "00". The next six digits are the electronic filer identification number (EFIN). The next five digits are the batch number and serial number. The "6" represents the year the return is filed (2006).

Example. The EFIN is 509325. The batch number is 000. The serial number is 56. The DCN is 00-509325-00056-6.

Name and address. If you received a peel-off name and address label from the IRS, put the label in the name area. Cross out any incorrect information and print the correct information. Add any missing items, such as your apartment number. If you did not receive a label, print or type the information in the spaces provided.

P.O. box. Enter your box number only if the post office does not deliver mail to your home.

Note. The address must match the address shown on your electronically filed return.

Social security number (SSN). Be sure to enter your SSN in the space provided on Form 8453-OL. If a joint return, list the SSNs in the same order as the first names.

Part I—Tax Return Information

Line 5. Do not include any payment with Form 8453-OL. The method of payment depends on whether you check the box on line 6b or 6c. For details, see the instructions for Part II.

Part II—Declaration of Taxpayer

Note. You must check all applicable boxes on line 6.

If there is an amount on line 5 and you check box 6b and are paying by check or money order, do not attach your payment to Form 8453-OL. Instead, mail it by April 17, 2006, with Form 1040-V to the IRS at the applicable address shown on that form. If you do not have a Form 1040-V, you may be able to get it from your intermediate service provider and/or transmitter. You can also see your tax return instruction booklet for other ways to get forms or go to the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

If you check box 6c, you must ensure that the following information relating to the financial institution account is provided in the tax preparation software.

- Routing number.
- Account number.
- Type of account (checking or savings).
- Debit amount.
- Debit date (date you want the debit to occur).

Your electronically transmitted return will not be considered complete, and therefore filed, unless and until the IRS receives your signed Form 8453-OL. If a joint return, your spouse must also sign. A Form 8453-OL signed by an agent must have a power of attorney attached that specifically authorizes the agent to sign the return. To do this, you can use Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative.

Refunds. Your refund should be issued within 3 weeks after the IRS has accepted your return. However, some refunds may be delayed because of compliance reviews to ensure that returns are accurate.

Refund information. You can check on the status of your 2005 refund if it has been at least 3 weeks from the date you filed your return. To check on the status of your 2005 refund, do one of the following:

- Go to www.irs.gov and click on Where's My Refund.
- Call 1-800-829-4477 for automated refund information and follow the recorded instructions.
- Call 1-800-829-1954.

Instructions for Form 8582

Passive Activity Loss Limitations

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code, unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Form 8582 is used by noncorporate taxpayers to figure the amount of any passive activity loss (PAL) for the current tax year.

A PAL occurs when total losses (including prior year unallowed losses) from all your passive activities exceed the total income from all your passive activities.

- Generally, passive activities include:
- Trade or business activities in which you did not materially participate for the tax year.
  - Rental activities, regardless of your participation.

PALs cannot be used to offset income from nonpassive activities. However, a special allowance for rental real estate activities may allow some losses even if the losses exceed passive income.

PALs not allowed in the current year are carried forward until they are allowed either against passive activity income, against the special allowance, if applicable, or when you sell or exchange your entire interest in the activity in a fully taxable transaction to an unrelated party.

For more information, see Pub. 925, Passive Activity and At-Risk Rules, which contains a filled-in example of Form 8582 with step-by-step instructions for reporting losses from passive activities.

Note. Corporations subject to the passive activity rules must use Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations.

Who Must File

Form 8582 is filed by individuals, estates, and trusts who have losses (including prior year unallowed losses) from passive activities. You do not have to file Form 8582 if you meet Exception 1 or 2 below.

Exception 1

You do not have an overall loss when you combine all your net income and net losses (including any prior year unallowed losses) from business or rental passive activities. Overall loss is defined under Definitions on page 2.

In figuring your overall gain or loss from all passive activities for the year, do not include the following income or losses.:

1. Net income that is not passive activity income. See Passive Activity Income beginning on page 5.
2. Net losses that are not passive activity net losses. See Activities That Are Not Passive Activities on page 2.
3. Net income or net loss from your interest in any publicly traded partnership (PTP). See Publicly Traded Partnerships (PTPs) beginning on page 11.
4. Any overall loss from an entire disposition of a passive activity. See Dispositions beginning on page 6 for more information.

Exception 2

You actively participated in rental real estate activities (see Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities on page 3), and you meet all of the following conditions.

- Rental real estate activities with active participation were your only passive activities.
- You have no prior year unallowed losses from these activities.
- Your total loss from the rental real estate activities was not more than $25,000 ($12,500 if married filing separately and you lived apart from your spouse all year).
- If you are married filing separately, you lived apart from your spouse all year.
- You have no current or prior year unallowed credits from a passive activity.
- Your modified adjusted gross income was not more than $100,000 (not more than $50,000 if married filing separately and you lived apart from your spouse all year).
- You do not hold any interest in a rental real estate activity as a limited partner or as a beneficiary of an estate or a trust.

For the definition of modified adjusted gross income, see the instructions for line 7 on page 8.

If all the above conditions are met, your rental real estate losses are not limited, and you do not need to complete Form 8582. Enter losses reported on Schedule E (Form 1040), Part I, line 22, on Schedule E, line 23. For losses from a partnership or an S corporation, enter the amount of the allowable loss from Schedule K-1 in Schedule E, Part II, column (f). Enter losses reported on line 32 of Form 4835, Farm Rental Income and Expenses, on Form 4835, line 33c.

Coordination With Other Limitations

Generally, PALs are subject to other limitations (for example, basis and at-risk limitations) before they are subject to the passive loss limitations. Once a loss becomes allowable under these other limitations, you must determine whether the loss is limited under the passive loss rules. See Form 6198, At-Risk Limitations, for details on the at-risk rules. Also, capital losses that are allowable under the passive loss rules may be limited under the capital loss limitations of section 1211. Percentage depletion deductions that are allowable under the passive loss rules may be limited under section 613A(d).

Before Completing Form 8582

To find out if your activity is treated as a passive activity, read the following sections of these instructions.

- Trade or Business Activities if your activity is a trade or business activity (page 3).
- Rental Activities if your activity is the renting of tangible property (beginning on page 2).
- Material Participation (page 4).
- Grouping of Activities (page 5).

To find out how to treat income and deductions from your activity, read Passive Activity Income and Deductions, Former Passive Activities, and Dispositions (pages 5 through 7).

To find out how to enter income and losses on Form 8582, read the instructions for Worksheets 1, 2, and 3 (beginning on page 7).

Definitions

Except as otherwise indicated, the following terms in these instructions are defined as shown below.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

Net income. This is the excess of current year income over current year deductions from the activity. This includes any current year gains or losses from the disposition of assets or an interest in the activity.

Net loss. This is the excess of current year deductions over current year income from the activity. This includes any current year gains or losses from the disposition of assets or an interest in the activity.

Overall gain. This is the excess of the "net income" from the activity over the prior year unallowed losses from the activity.

Overall loss. This is (a) the excess of the prior year unallowed losses from the activity over the "net income" from the activity or (b) the prior year unallowed losses from the activity plus the "net loss" from the activity.

Prior year unallowed losses. These are the losses from an activity that were disallowed under the PAL limitations in a prior year and carried forward to the tax year under section 469(b). See Regulations section 1.469-1(f)(4) and Pub. 925.

Activities That Are Not Passive Activities

The following are not passive activities.

- 1. Trade or business activities in which you materially participated for the tax year.
- 2. Any rental real estate activity in which you materially participated if you were a "real estate professional" for the tax year. You were a real estate professional only if:
  - a. More than half of the personal services you performed in trades or businesses during the tax year were performed in real property trades or businesses in which you materially participated, and
  - b. You performed more than 750 hours of services during the tax year in real property trades or businesses in which you materially participated.

For purposes of item (2), each interest in rental real estate is a separate activity, unless you elect to treat all interests in rental real estate as one activity. For details on making this election, see page E-1 of the instructions for Schedule E (Form 1040).

If you are married filing jointly, one spouse must separately meet both (2)(a) and (2)(b), without taking into account services performed by the other spouse.

A real property trade or business is any real property development, redevelopment, construction, reconstruction, acquisition, conversion, rental, operation, management, leasing, or brokerage trade or business.

Services you performed as an employee are not treated as performed in a real property trade or business unless you owned more than 5% of the stock (or more than 5% of the capital or profits interest) in the employer.

Note. If a rental real estate activity is not a passive activity for the current year, any prior year unallowed loss is treated as a loss from a former passive activity. See Former Passive Activities on page 6.

3. A working interest in an oil or gas well. Your working interest must be held directly or through an entity that does not limit your liability (such as a general partner interest in a partnership). In this case, it does not matter whether you materially participated in the activity for the tax year.

If, however, your liability was limited for part of the year (for example, you converted your general partner interest to a limited partner interest during the year), some of your income and losses from the working interest may be treated as passive activity gross income and passive activity deductions. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-1T(e)(4)(ii).

4. The rental of a dwelling unit you used as a residence if section 280A(c)(5) applies. This section applies if you rented out a dwelling unit that you also used as a home during the year for a number of days that exceeds the greater of 14 days or 10% of the number of days during the year that the home was rented at a fair rental.

5. An activity of trading personal property for the account of owners of interests in the activity. For purposes of this rule, personal property means property that is actively traded, such as stocks, bonds, and other securities. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-1T(e)(6) for more details.

Generally, income and losses from these activities are not entered on Form 8582. However, losses from these activities may be subject to limitations other than the passive loss rules.

Rental Activities

A rental activity is a passive activity even if you materially participated in the activity (unless it is a rental real estate activity in which you materially participated and you were a real estate professional).

However, if you meet any of the five exceptions beginning below, the rental of the property is not treated as a rental activity. See Reporting Income and Losses From the Activities on page 3 if you meet any of the exceptions.

An activity is a rental activity if tangible property (real or personal) is used by customers or held for use by customers and the gross income (or expected gross income) from the activity represents amounts paid (or to be paid) mainly for the use of the property. It does not matter whether the use is under a lease, a service contract, or some other arrangement.

Exceptions

An activity is not a rental activity if:

- 1. The average period of customer use is:
  - a. 7 days or less, or
  - b. 30 days or less and significant personal services were provided in making the rental property available for customer use.

Significant personal services include only services performed by individuals. To determine if personal services are significant, all relevant facts and circumstances are taken into consideration, including the frequency of the services, the type and amount of labor required to perform the services, and the value of the services relative to the amount charged for use of the property.

2. Extraordinary personal services were provided in making the rental property available for customer use. This applies only if the services are performed by individuals and the customers' use of the property is incidental to their receipt of the services.

3. Rental of the property is incidental to a nonrental activity.

The rental of property is incidental to an activity of holding property for investment if the main purpose of holding the property is to realize a gain from its appreciation and the gross rental income is less than 2% of the smaller of the unadjusted basis or the fair market value (FMV) of the property.

Unadjusted basis is the cost of the property without regard to depreciation deductions or any other basis adjustment described in section 1016.

The rental of property is incidental to a trade or business activity if:

- a. You own an interest in the trade or business activity during the tax year,
- b. The rental property was mainly used in the trade or business activity during the tax year or during at least 2 of the 5 preceding tax years, and

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

c. The gross rental income from the property is less than 2% of the smaller of the unadjusted basis or the FMV of the property.

Lodging provided for the employer's convenience to an employee or the employee's spouse or dependents is incidental to the activity or activities in which the employee performs services.

4. You customarily make the rental property available during defined business hours for nonexclusive use by various customers.

5. You provide property for use in a nonrental activity of a partnership, S corporation, or a joint venture in your capacity as an owner of an interest in the partnership, S corporation, or joint venture.

Example. If a partner contributes the use of property to a partnership, none of the partner's distributive share of partnership income is income from a rental activity unless the partnership is engaged in a rental activity.

Also, a partner's gross income from a guaranteed payment under section 707(c) is not income from a rental activity. The determination of whether the property used in the activity is provided in the partner's capacity as an owner of an interest in the partnership is made on the basis of all the facts and circumstances.

Reporting Income and Losses From the Activities

If an activity meets any of the five exceptions listed above, it is not a rental activity. You must then determine:

- 1. Whether your rental of the property is a trade or business activity (see Trade or Business Activities on this page) and, if so,
- 2. Whether you materially participated in the activity for the tax year (see Material Participation on page 4).

- If the activity is a trade or business activity in which you did not materially participate, enter the income and losses from the activity on Worksheet 3.
- If the activity is a trade or business activity in which you did materially participate, report any income or loss from the activity on the forms or schedules normally used.

If the rental activity did not meet any of the five exceptions, it is generally a passive activity. However, special rules apply if you conduct the rental activity through a PTP or if any of the rules described under Recharacterization of Passive Income on page 6 apply. See the PTP rules beginning on page 11.

If none of the special rules apply, enter the income and losses from the passive rental activity on Worksheet 1, 2, or 3.

Worksheet 1 is for passive rental real estate activities in which you actively participated. See Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities on this page.

Worksheet 2 is for commercial revitalization deductions (CRDs) from rental real estate activities. CRDs from rental real estate activities are not entered on Worksheet 1 or 3. See Commercial revitalization deduction (CRD) on page 4.

Worksheet 3 is for passive rental real estate activities in which you did not actively participate, activities of renting personal property, and other passive trade or business activities.

See the instructions for Worksheets 1, 2, and 3 beginning on page 7.

Trade or Business Activities

A trade or business activity is an activity (other than a rental activity or an activity treated as incidental to an activity of holding property for investment) that:

- 1. Involves the conduct of a trade or business (within the meaning of section 162),
- 2. Is conducted in anticipation of starting a trade or business, or
- 3. Involves research or experimental expenditures deductible under section 174 (or that would be if you chose to deduct rather than capitalize them).

Trade or business activities are generally reported on Schedule C, C-EZ, or F, or in Part II or III of Schedule E. See Publicly Traded Partnerships (PTPs) on page 11. For trade or business activities that are significant participation passive activities (defined on page 4), see Pub. 925 for how to report their income or losses.

Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate Activities

Active participation. If you actively participated in a passive rental real estate activity, you may be able to deduct up to $25,000 of loss from the activity from your nonpassive income. This special allowance is an exception to the general rule disallowing losses in excess of income from passive activities.

The special allowance is not available if you were married, are filing a separate return for the year, and lived with your spouse at any time during the year.

Only an individual, a qualifying estate, or a qualified revocable trust that made an election to treat the trust as part of the decedent's estate may actively participate in a rental real estate activity. Unless future regulations provide an exception, limited partners are not treated as actively participating in a partnership's rental real estate activity.

A qualifying estate is the estate of a decedent for tax years ending less than 2 years after the date of the decedent's death if the decedent would have satisfied the active participation requirements for the rental real estate activity for the tax year the decedent died.

A qualified revocable trust may elect to be treated as part of a decedent's estate for purposes of the special allowance for active participation in rental real estate activities. The election must be made by both the executor (if any) of the decedent's estate and the trustee of the revocable trust. For details, see Regulations section 1.645-1.

You are not considered to actively participate in a rental real estate activity if at any time during the tax year your interest (including your spouse's interest) in the activity was less than 10% (by value) of all interests in the activity.

Active participation is a less stringent requirement than material participation (see Material Participation on page 4). You may be treated as actively participating if, for example, you participated in making management decisions or arranged for others to provide services (such as repairs) in a significant and bona fide sense. Management decisions that may count as active participation include:

- Approving new tenants,
- Deciding on rental terms,
- Approving capital or repair expenditures, and
- Other similar decisions.

- The maximum special allowance is:
- $25,000 for single individuals and married individuals filing a joint return for the tax year.
  - $12,500 for married individuals who file separate returns for the tax year and lived apart from their spouses at all times during the tax year.
  - $25,000 for a qualifying estate reduced by the special allowance for which the surviving spouse qualified.

Modified adjusted gross income limitation. If your modified adjusted gross income (defined on page 8) is $100,000 or less ($50,000 or less if married filing separately), your loss is deductible up to the amount of the maximum special allowance referred to in the preceding paragraph.

If your modified adjusted gross income is more than $100,000 ($50,000 if married filing separately) but less than $150,000 ($75,000 if married filing separately), your special allowance is limited to 50% of the difference between $150,000 ($75,000 if married filing separately) and your modified adjusted gross income.

Generally, if your modified adjusted gross income is $150,000 or more ($75,000 or more if married filing separately), there is no special allowance.

If you qualify under the active participation rules, use Worksheet 1 and see page 7 of the instructions.

Commercial revitalization deduction (CRD). The special $25,000 allowance for the CRD from rental real estate activities is not subject to the active participation rules or modified adjusted gross income limits discussed above. The $25,000 allowance must first be applied to losses from rental real estate activities with active participation, figured without regard to the CRD (see Part II). Any remaining portion of the $25,000 allowance is available for the CRD from rental real estate activities (see Part III). See the instructions for Worksheet 2 beginning on page 7. For general information about the CRD, see Pub. 954, Tax Incentives for Distressed Communities, and section 1400I.

Material Participation

For the material participation tests listed below, participation generally includes any work done in connection with an activity if you owned an interest in the activity at the time you did the work. The capacity in which you did the work does not matter. However, work is not participation if:

- It is not work that an owner would customarily do in the same type of activity, and
- One of your main reasons for doing the work was to avoid the disallowance of losses or credits from the activity under the passive activity rules.

Proof of participation. You may prove your participation in an activity by any reasonable means. You do not have to maintain contemporaneous daily time reports, logs, or similar documents if you can establish your participation by other reasonable means. For this purpose, reasonable means include, but are not limited to, identifying services performed over a period of time and the approximate number of hours spent performing the services during that period, based on appointment books, calendars, or narrative summaries.

Tests for individuals. You materially participated for the tax year in an activity if you satisfy at least one of the following tests.

1. You participated in the activity for more than 500 hours.
2. Your participation in the activity for the tax year was substantially all of the participation in the activity of all individuals (including individuals who did not own any interest in the activity) for the year.

3. You participated in the activity for more than 100 hours during the tax year, and you participated at least as much as any other individual (including individuals who did not own any interest in the activity) for the year.

4. The activity is a significant participation activity for the tax year, and you participated in all significant participation activities during the year for more than 500 hours.

A significant participation activity is any trade or business activity in which you participated for more than 100 hours during the year and in which you did not materially participate under any of the material participation tests (other than this fourth test).

5. You materially participated in the activity for any 5 (whether or not consecutive) of the 10 immediately preceding tax years.

6. The activity is a personal service activity in which you materially participated for any 3 (whether or not consecutive) preceding tax years.

An activity is a personal service activity if it involves the performance of personal services in the fields of health, law, engineering, architecture, accounting, actuarial science, performing arts, consulting, or in any other trade or business in which capital is not a material income-producing factor.

7. Based on all the facts and circumstances, you participated in the activity on a regular, continuous, and substantial basis during the tax year.

You did not materially participate in the activity under this seventh test, however, if you participated in the activity for 100 hours or less during the tax year.

Your participation in managing the activity does not count in determining whether you materially participated under this test if:

- a. Any person (except you) received compensation for performing services in the management of the activity, or
- b. Any individual spent more hours during the tax year performing services in the management of the activity than you did (regardless of whether the individual was compensated for the management services).

Test for a spouse. Participation by your spouse during the tax year in an activity you own may be counted as your participation in the activity even if your spouse did not own an interest in the activity and whether or not you and your spouse file a joint return for the tax year.

Tests for investors. Work done as an investor in an activity is not treated as participation unless you were directly involved in the day-to-day management or operations of the activity. For purposes of this test, work done as an investor includes:

1. Studying and reviewing financial statements or reports on operations of the activity.
2. Preparing or compiling summaries or analyses of the finances or operations of the activity for your own use.
3. Monitoring the finances or operations of the activity in a nonmanagerial capacity.

Special rules for limited partners. If you were a limited partner in an activity, you generally did not materially participate in the activity. You did materially participate in the activity, however, if you met material participation test 1, 5, or 6 (see Tests for individuals on this page) for the tax year.

However, for purposes of the material participation tests, you are not treated as a limited partner if you also were a general partner in the partnership at all times during the partnership's tax year ending with or within your tax year (or, if shorter, during the portion of the partnership's tax year in which you directly or indirectly owned your limited partner interest).

A limited partner's share of an electing large partnership's taxable income or loss from all trade or business and rental activities is treated as income or loss from the conduct of a single passive trade or business activity.

Special rules for certain retired or disabled farmers and surviving spouses of farmers. Certain retired or disabled farmers and surviving spouses of farmers are treated as materially participating in a farming activity if the real property used in the activity would meet the estate tax rules for special valuation of farm property passed from a qualifying decedent. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-5T(h)(2).

Estates and trusts. The PAL limitations apply in figuring the distributable net income and taxable income of an estate or trust. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-1T(b)(2) and (3). The rules for determining material participation for this purpose have not yet been issued.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

Grouping of Activities

Generally, one or more trade or business activities or rental activities may be treated as a single activity if the activities make up an appropriate economic unit for the measurement of gain or loss under the passive activity rules.

Whether activities make up an appropriate economic unit depends on all the relevant facts and circumstances. The factors given the greatest weight in determining whether activities make up an appropriate economic unit are:

- 1. Similarities and differences in types of trades or businesses,
- 2. The extent of common control,
- 3. The extent of common ownership,
- 4. Geographical location, and
- 5. Interdependencies between or among the activities.

Example. You have a significant ownership interest in a bakery and a movie theater in Baltimore and in a bakery and a movie theater in Philadelphia. Depending on all the relevant facts and circumstances, there may be more than one reasonable method for grouping your activities. For instance, the following groupings may or may not be permissible:

- A single activity,
- A movie theater activity and a bakery activity,
- A Baltimore activity and a Philadelphia activity, or
- Four separate activities.

Once you choose a grouping under these rules, you must continue using that grouping in later tax years unless a material change in the facts and circumstances makes it clearly inappropriate.

The IRS may regroup your activities if your grouping fails to reflect one or more appropriate economic units and one of the primary purposes of your grouping is to avoid the passive activity limitations.

Limitation on grouping certain activities. The following activities may not be grouped together.

- 1. A rental activity with a trade or business activity unless the activities being grouped together make up an appropriate economic unit and:
  - a. The rental activity is insubstantial relative to the trade or business activity or vice versa, or
  - b. Each owner of the trade or business activity has the same proportionate ownership interest in the rental activity. If so, the portion of the rental activity involving the rental of property used in the trade or business activity may be grouped with the trade or business activity.

2. An activity involving the rental of real property with an activity involving the rental of personal property (except personal property provided in connection with the real property or vice versa).

3. Any activity with another activity in a different type of business and in which you hold an interest as a limited partner or as a limited entrepreneur (as defined in section 464(e)(2)) if that other activity engages in holding, producing, or distributing motion picture films or videotapes; farming; leasing section 1245 property; or exploring for or exploiting oil and gas resources or geothermal deposits.

Activities conducted through partnerships, S corporations, and C corporations subject to section 469.

Once a partnership or corporation determines its activities under these rules, a partner or shareholder may use these rules to group those activities with:

- Each other,
- Activities conducted directly by the partner or shareholder, or
- Activities conducted through other partnerships and corporations.

A partner or shareholder may not treat as separate activities those activities grouped together by the partnership or corporation.

Passive Activity Income and Deductions

Take into account only passive activity income and passive activity deductions to figure your net income or net loss from all passive activities or any passive activity.

If your passive activity is reported on Schedule C, C-EZ, E, or F, and the activity has no prior year unallowed losses or any gain or loss from the disposition of assets or an interest in the activity, take into account only the passive activity income and passive activity deductions from the activity to figure the amount to enter on Form 8582 and the worksheets.

If you own an interest in a passive activity through a partnership or an S corporation, the partnership or S corporation will generally provide you with the net income or net loss from the passive activity. If, however, the partnership or S corporation must state an item of gross income or deduction separately to you, and the gross income or deduction is passive activity gross income or a passive activity deduction (respectively), include that amount in the net income or net loss entered on Form 8582 and the worksheets.

The partnership or S corporation does not have a record of any prior year unallowed losses from the passive activities of the partnership or S corporation. If you had prior year unallowed losses from these activities, they can be found in column (c) of your 2004 Worksheet 5.

Self-Charged Interest

Certain self-charged interest income or deductions may be treated as passive activity gross income or passive activity deductions if the loan proceeds are used in a passive activity. Generally, self-charged interest income and deductions result from loans between you and a partnership or S corporation in which you had a direct or indirect ownership interest. This includes both loans you made to the partnership or S corporation and loans the partnership or S corporation made to you. It also includes loans from one partnership or S corporation to another partnership or S corporation if each owner in the borrowing entity has the same proportional ownership interest in the lending entity. The self-charged interest rules do not apply to your interest in a partnership or S corporation if the entity made an election under Regulations section 1.469-7(g) to avoid the application of these rules. For more details on the self-charged interest rules, see Regulations section 1.469-7.

Passive Activity Income

To figure your overall gain or loss from all passive activities or any passive activity, take into account only passive activity income. Do not enter income that is not passive activity income on Form 8582 or the worksheets.

Passive activity income includes all income from passive activities, including (with certain exceptions described in Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(c)(2) and Regulations section 1.469-2(c)(2)) gain from the disposition of an interest in a passive activity or of property used in a passive activity at the time of the disposition.

Passive activity income does not include the following.

- Income from an activity that is not a passive activity.
- Portfolio income, including interest (other than self-charged interest treated as passive activity income), dividends, annuities, and royalties not derived in the ordinary course of a trade or business, and gain or loss from the disposition of property that produces portfolio income or is held for investment (see section 163(d)(5)). See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(c)(3).
- Alaska Permanent Fund dividends.
- Personal service income, including salaries, wages, commissions, self-employment income from trade or business activities in which you materially participated for the tax year, deferred compensation, taxable social security and other retirement benefits, and payments from partnerships to partners for personal services. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(c)(4).

- Income from positive section 481 adjustments allocated to activities other than passive activities. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(c)(5).
- Income or gain from investments of working capital.
- Income from an oil or gas property if you treated any loss from a working interest in the property for any tax year beginning after 1986 as a nonpassive loss under the rule excluding working interests in oil and gas wells from passive activities (see item 3 under Activities That Are Not Passive Activities on page 2). See Regulations section 1.469-2(c)(6).
- Any income from intangible property if your personal efforts significantly contributed to the creation of the property.
- Any income treated as not from a passive activity under Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(f) and Regulations section 1.469-2(f). See Recharacterization of Passive Income on this page.
- Overall gain from any interest in a PTP (see item 2 under Special Instructions for PTPs beginning on page 11).
- State, local, and foreign income tax refunds.
- Income from a covenant not to compete.
- Any reimbursement of a casualty or theft loss included in income as recovery of all or part of a prior year loss deduction if the deduction for the loss was not treated as a passive activity deduction.
- Cancellation of debt income to the extent that at the time the debt was discharged the debt was not properly allocable under Temporary Regulations section 1.163-8T to passive activities.

Recharacterization of Passive Income

Certain income from passive activities must be recharacterized and excluded from passive activity income. The amount of income recharacterized equals the net income from the sources given below. If during the tax year you received net income from any of these sources (either directly or through a partnership or an S corporation), see Pub. 925 to find out how to report net income or loss from these sources. For more information, see Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(f) and Regulations section 1.469-2(f).

Income from the following sources may be subject to the net income recharacterization rules.

- Significant participation passive activities defined on page 4.
- Rental of property if less than 30% of the unadjusted basis of the property is subject to depreciation.
- Passive equity-financed lending activities.
- Rental of property incidental to a development activity.
- Rental of property to a nonpassive activity.
- Acquisition of an interest in a pass-through entity that licenses intangible property.

Passive Activity Deductions

To figure your overall gain or overall loss from all passive activities or any passive activity, take into account only passive activity deductions.

Passive activity deductions include all deductions from activities that are passive activities for the current tax year and all deductions from passive activities that were disallowed under the PAL rules in prior tax years and carried forward to the current tax year. See Regulations section 1.469-1(f)(4).

Passive activity deductions include losses from a disposition of property used in a passive activity at the time of the disposition and losses from a disposition of less than your entire interest in a passive activity. See Dispositions on this page for the treatment of losses upon disposition of your entire interest in an activity.

- Passive activity deductions do not include the following.
- Deductions for expenses (other than interest expense) that are clearly and directly allocable to portfolio income.
  - Qualified home mortgage interest, capitalized interest expenses, and other interest expenses (except self-charged interest treated as a passive activity deduction (discussed on page 5) and interest expenses properly allocable to passive activities).
  - Losses from dispositions of property that produce portfolio income or property held for investment.
  - State, local, and foreign income taxes.
  - Miscellaneous itemized deductions that may be disallowed under section 67.
  - Charitable contribution deductions.
  - Net operating loss deductions, percentage depletion carryovers under section 613A(d), and capital loss carryovers.
  - Deductions and losses that would have been allowed for tax years beginning before 1987, but for basis or at-risk limitations.
  - Net negative section 481 adjustments allocated to activities other than passive activities. See Temporary Regulations section 1.469-2T(d)(7).
  - Deductions for losses from fire, storm, shipwreck, or other casualty or from theft if losses similar in cause and severity do not recur regularly in the activity.

- The deduction allowed for one-half of self-employment taxes.

Former Passive Activities

A former passive activity is any activity that was a passive activity in a prior tax year but is not a passive activity in the current tax year. A prior year unallowed loss from a former passive activity is allowed to the extent of current year income from the activity.

- If current year net income from the activity is less than the prior year unallowed loss, enter the prior year unallowed loss and any current year net income from the activity on Form 8582 and the applicable worksheets.
- If current year net income from the activity is more than or equal to the prior year unallowed loss from the activity, report the income and loss on the forms and schedules normally used; do not enter the amounts on Form 8582.
- If the activity has a net loss for the current year, enter the prior year unallowed loss (but not the current year loss) on Form 8582 and the applicable worksheets.

To report a disposition of a former passive activity, follow the rules below under Dispositions.

Dispositions

Disposition of an Entire Interest

If you disposed of your entire interest in a passive activity or a former passive activity to an unrelated person in a fully taxable transaction during the tax year, your losses allocable to the activity for the year are not limited by the PAL rules.

A fully taxable transaction is a transaction in which you recognize all realized gain or loss.

If you are using the installment method to report this kind of disposition, figure the loss for the current year that is not limited by the PAL rules by multiplying your overall loss (which does not include losses allowed in prior years) by the following fraction:

Gain recognized in the current year
Unrecognized gain as of the beginning of the current year

A partner in a PTP is not treated as having disposed of an entire interest in an activity of a PTP until there is an entire disposition of the partner's interest in the PTP.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

Reporting an Entire Disposition on Schedule D or Form 4797

If you completely dispose of your entire interest in a passive activity or a former passive activity, you may have to report net income or loss and prior year unallowed losses from the activity. All the net income and losses are reported on the forms and schedules normally used.

Combine all income and losses (including any prior year unallowed losses) from the activity for the tax year to see if you have an overall gain or loss.

If you have an overall gain and you have other passive activities to report on Form 8582, include the income, losses, and prior year unallowed losses on Worksheet 1, 2, or 3.

If you have an overall gain and this is your only passive activity or a former passive activity, report all income and losses (including any prior year unallowed losses) on the forms and schedules normally used and do not use Form 8582.

If you have an overall loss when you combine the income and losses, do not use the worksheets or Form 8582 for the activity. All losses (including prior year unallowed losses) are allowed in full. Report the income and losses on the forms and schedules normally used.

An overall loss from an entire disposition of a passive activity is a nonpassive loss if you have an aggregate loss from all other passive activities. When figuring your modified adjusted gross income for line 7 of Form 8582, be sure to take into account the overall loss from the disposition of the activity.

Example 1. Activity with overall gain. You sell your entire interest in a rental real estate activity in which you actively participated for a gain of $15,525. $7,300 of the gain is section 1231 gain reported on Form 4797, Part I, and $8,225 is ordinary recapture income reported on Form 4797, Part II. On line 23 of Schedule E (Form 1040), you report a total loss of $15,450, which includes a current year $2,800 net loss and a $12,650 prior year unallowed loss. You have an overall gain from the disposition ($15,525 – $15,450 = $75).

Because you had other passive activities reportable on Form 8582, you make the following entries on Worksheet 1. You enter the $15,525 gain on the disposition in column (a), the current year loss of $2,800 in column (b), and the prior year unallowed loss of $12,650 in column (c).

Example 2. Activity with overall loss. You sell your entire interest in an oil and gas limited partnership that was your only passive activity for a gain of $2,000. You have a current year Schedule E loss of $3,330 and a Schedule E prior year unallowed loss of $1,115.

Because you have an overall loss of $2,445 after combining the gain and losses, none of the amounts are entered on Worksheet 3 or on Form 8582.

You enter the net loss plus the prior year unallowed loss ($3,330 + $1,115 = $4,445) on Schedule E, Part II, column (h), and the $2,000 gain on the sale on Schedule D, in either Part I or Part II, depending on how long you held the partnership interest.

Disposition of Less Than an Entire Interest

Gains and losses from the disposition of less than an entire interest in an activity are treated as part of the net income or net loss from the activity for the current year.

CAUTION A disposition of less than substantially all of an entire interest does not trigger the allowance of prior year unallowed losses.

Disposition of substantially all of an activity. You may treat the disposition of substantially all of an activity as a separate activity if you can prove with reasonable certainty:

- 1. The prior year unallowed losses, if any, allocable to the part of the activity disposed of, and
- 2. The net income or loss for the year of disposition allocable to the part of the activity disposed of.

Specific Instructions

Part I—2005 Passive Activity Loss

Use Part I to combine the net income and net loss from all passive activities to determine if you have a passive activity loss (PAL) for 2005. Use Worksheets 1, 2, and 3 to determine the entries for lines 1–3 of Part I, as follows.

- Worksheet 1 is used for rental real estate activities with active participation.
- Worksheet 2 is used for commercial revitalization deductions (CRDs) from rental real estate activities (with or without active participation).
- Worksheet 3 is used for all other passive activities.

See Pub. 925 for examples showing how to complete the worksheets.

Worksheet 1

Individuals and qualifying estates who actively participated in rental real estate activities must include the income or loss from those activities in Worksheet 1 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 1a through 1c of Form 8582. Do not include any commercial revitalization deductions (CRDs) from these activities in the net income or loss reported in Worksheet 1.

Do not enter a prior year unallowed loss in column (c) of Worksheet 1 unless you actively participated in the activity in both the year the loss arose and the current tax year. If you did not actively participate in both years, enter the prior year unallowed loss in column (c) of Worksheet 3.

CAUTION Married individuals who file separate returns and lived with their spouses at any time during the tax year do not qualify under the active participation rule and must use Worksheet 3 instead of Worksheet 1.

Column (a). Enter the current year net income from each activity. Enter the total of column (a) on line 1a of Form 8582.

Example. A Schedule E rental activity has current year profit of $5,000 and a Form 4797 gain of $2,000. You enter $7,000 in column (a).

Column (b). Enter the current year net loss for each activity. Do not enter any prior year unallowed losses in this column. Enter the total of column (b) on line 1b of Form 8582.

If an activity has net income on one form or schedule and a net loss on another form or schedule, report the net amounts separately in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 1.

Example. A Schedule E rental activity has current year income of $1,000 on line 22 of Schedule E and a current year Form 4797 loss of $4,500. You enter $1,000 in column (a) and ($4,500) in column (b).

Column (c). Enter the prior year unallowed losses for each activity. You find these amounts on Worksheet 5, column (c), of your 2004 Form 8582. Enter the total of column (c) from your 2005 Worksheet 1 on line 1c of Form 8582.

Columns (d) and (e). Combine income and losses in columns (a) through (c) for each activity, and either enter the overall gain for the activity in column (d) or enter the overall loss for the activity in column (e). Do not enter amounts from columns (d) and (e) on Form 8582. These amounts will be used when Form 8582 is completed to figure the loss allowed for the current year.

Worksheet 2

Use Worksheet 2 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 2a and 2b for commercial revitalization deductions (CRD) from rental real estate activities (see Commercial revitalization deduction (CRD) on page 4). Do not include the following amounts.

- Income or other deductions from the same activity. Instead, report any net income or net loss from the activity, except for the CRD, in Worksheet 1 if you actively participated in the activity or in Worksheet 3 if you did not actively participate.
- CRDs from passive activities other than rental real estate activities. Instead, report these deductions as part of the net income or loss from the passive activity in Worksheet 3.

Column (a). Enter the current year CRD from each rental real estate activity. Enter the total of column (a) on line 2a of Form 8582.

Column (b). Enter the unallowed CRDs from the prior year for each rental real estate activity. Enter the total of column (b) on line 2b of Form 8582.

Column (c). Combine the amounts in columns (a) and (b) for each activity and enter the overall loss for the activity in column (c). Do not enter amounts from column (c) on Form 8582. These amounts will be used when Form 8582 is completed to figure the loss allowed for the current year.

Worksheet 3

Use Worksheet 3 to figure the amounts to enter on lines 3a through 3c for:

1. Passive trade or business activities,
2. Passive rental real estate activities that do not qualify for the special allowance (but do not include CRDs reported in Worksheet 2), and
3. Rental activities other than rental real estate activities.

Column (a). Enter the current year net income for each activity. Enter the total of column (a) on line 3a of Form 8582. (See the example under Column (a) for Worksheet 1, on page 7.)

Column (b). Enter the current year net loss for each activity. Enter the total of column (b) on line 3b of Form 8582. (See the example under Column (b) of Worksheet 1, on page 7.)

Column (c). Enter the unallowed losses for the prior years for each activity. You find these amounts on Worksheet 5, column (c), of your 2004 Form 8582. Enter the total of column (c) from your 2005 Worksheet 3 on line 3c of Form 8582.

Columns (d) and (e). Combine income and losses in columns (a) through (c) for each activity, and either enter the overall gain for the activity in column (d) or enter the overall loss for the activity in column (e). Do not enter amounts from columns (d) and (e) on Form 8582. These amounts will be used when Form 8582 is completed to figure the loss allowed for the current year.

Part II—Special Allowance for Rental Real Estate With Active Participation

Use Part II to figure the maximum amount of rental loss allowed if you have a net loss from a rental real estate activity with active participation.

Enter all numbers in Part II as positive amounts (that is, greater than zero).

Example. Line 5 has a loss of $42,000 (reported as a positive amount) and line 9 is $25,000. You enter $25,000 on line 10 (the smaller of line 5 or line 9, both treated as positive amounts).

Line 5. Enter on line 5 the smaller of the loss on line 1d or the loss on line 4.

Example. Line 1d has a loss of $3,000, line 2c is zero, and line 3d has a gain of $100. The combined loss on line 4 is $2,900. You enter $2,900 as a positive number on line 5 (the smaller of the loss on line 1d or the loss on line 4).

Line 6. Married persons filing separate returns who lived apart from their spouses at all times during the year must enter $75,000 on line 6 instead of $150,000. Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible for the special allowance. They must enter -0- on line 10 and go to line 15.

Line 7. To figure modified adjusted gross income, combine all the amounts used to figure adjusted gross income except do not take into account:

- Passive income or loss included on Form 8582,
- Any rental real estate loss allowed to real estate professionals (defined under Activities That Are Not Passive Activities on page 2),
- Any overall loss from a PTP,
- The taxable amount of social security and tier 1 railroad retirement benefits,
- The deduction allowed under section 219 for contributions to IRAs and certain other qualified retirement plans,
- The domestic production activities deduction.
- The deduction allowed for one-half of self-employment taxes,
- The exclusion from income of interest from series EE and I U.S. savings bonds used to pay higher education expenses,
- The exclusion of amounts received under an employer's adoption assistance program,
- The student loan interest deduction, or
- The tuition and fees deduction.

Include in modified adjusted gross income any portfolio income and expenses that are clearly and directly allocable to portfolio income. Also include any income that is treated as nonpassive income, such as overall gain from a PTP and net income from an activity or item of property subject to the recharacterization of passive income rules. When figuring modified adjusted gross income, include any overall loss from the entire disposition of a passive activity (considered a nonpassive loss).

Example. Your adjusted gross income on line 38 of Form 1040 is $92,000, and you have taxable social security benefits of $5,500 on line 20b. Your modified adjusted gross income is $86,500 ($92,000 – $5,500).

Line 9. Do not enter more than $12,500 on line 9 if you are married filing a separate return and you and your spouse lived apart at all times during the year. Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible for the special allowance. They must enter -0- on line 10 and go to line 15.

Part III—Special Allowance for Commercial Revitalization Deductions From Rental Real Estate Activities

Use Part III to figure the maximum amount of commercial revitalization deductions allowed if you have a commercial revitalization deduction from a rental real estate activity.

Enter all numbers in Part III as positive amounts (that is, greater than zero.)

Line 11. Enter $12,500 (reduced by the amount, if any, on line 10) on line 11 if you are married filing a separate return and you and your spouse lived apart at all times during the year. Married persons filing separate returns who lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not eligible for the special allowance. They must enter -0- on line 14 and go to line 15.

Part IV—Total Losses Allowed

Use Part IV to figure the amount of the PAL (as determined in Part I) allowed for 2005 from all passive activities.

Line 16. Use the worksheets on Form 8582 and the following instructions for those worksheets to figure the unallowed loss to be carried forward and the allowed loss to report on your forms and schedules for 2005.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

Worksheets 1, 2, and 3

Worksheets 1 and 3, columns (d) and (e), show whether an activity had an overall gain or loss. Worksheet 2, column (c), shows the overall loss for CRDs from rental real estate activities. If you have activities that show overall gain in column (d) of Worksheet 1 or 3, report all the income and losses listed in columns (a), (b), and (c) for those activities on the proper forms and schedules.

If you have activities that show an overall loss in column (e) of Worksheet 1 or 3 or column (c) of Worksheet 2, you must allocate your allowed loss on line 16 of Form 8582 to those activities by completing Worksheets 4, 5, and 6 or 7.

Complete Worksheet 4 only if you entered an amount (other than zero) on line 10 or 14 of Form 8582. Otherwise, skip Worksheet 4 and complete Worksheet 5 for all activities in Worksheets 1 or 3 that have overall losses in column (e) and all activities in Worksheet 2.

Worksheet 4

Use Worksheet 4 to allocate the special allowance on line 10 or line 14 of Form 8582 among your rental real estate activities.

In the first column of Worksheet 4, enter the name of each activity. In the second column, enter the form or schedule and line number on which the loss will be reported.

Example. You receive a Schedule K-1 from partnership P that reports losses from two rental real estate activities, Activity X and Activity Y. The losses from partnership P are reported on line 28A of Schedule E. In the first two columns of Worksheet 4, enter:

Name of Activity	Form or Schedule
Activity X	Sch E, line 28A
Activity Y	Sch E, line 28A

If the loss from an activity is reported in more than one place, identify both locations in the second column (for example, Sch E, line 28A/Form 4797, line 2). If you need additional space, show this information on an attached statement.

Enter all activities with overall losses from Worksheets 1 and 2 as follows.

- If you entered an amount on line 10, list on Worksheet 4 all activities with an overall loss in column (e) of Worksheet 1.
- If you entered an amount on line 14, list on Worksheet 4 all activities with an overall loss in column (c) of Worksheet 2.
- If you entered amounts on both lines 10 and 14 of Form 8582, you must complete two separate Worksheets 4.

For the second worksheet, you either may attach an extra copy of page 2 of Form 8582 or your own schedule in the same format as Worksheet 4. On the first Worksheet 4, list all activities with an overall loss in column (e) of Worksheet 1. On the second Worksheet 4, list all activities with an overall loss in column (c) of Worksheet 2.

Column (a). Enter the overall loss from column (e) of Worksheet 1 or column (c) of Worksheet 2 for each activity.

Column (b). Divide each of the individual losses shown in column (a) by the total of all the losses in column (a) and enter this ratio for each activity in column (b). The total of all the ratios in column (b) must equal 1.00.

Column (c). Multiply each ratio in column (b) by the amount on line 10 or line 14 of Form 8582, and enter the results in column (c). The total of column (c) must be the same as line 10 or line 14 of Form 8582.

Column (c) total is the same as column (a) total. If the total losses in column (c) are the same as those in column (a), the losses in Worksheets 1 and 2 are allowed in full and are not carried over to Worksheet 5. Report all amounts in columns (a), (b), and (c) of Worksheet 1 and columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 2 on the proper forms and schedules.

Column (c) total is less than column (a) total. If the total losses in column (c) are less than the total losses in column (a), complete column (d).

Column (d). Subtract column (c) from column (a) and enter the results in column (d). Also enter the amounts from column (d) of Worksheet 4 in column (a) of Worksheet 5.

Worksheet 5

Complete Worksheet 5 if any activities have an overall loss in column (e) of Worksheet 3 or losses in column (d) of Worksheet 4 (in column (e) of Worksheet 1 or column (c) of Worksheet 2 if you did not have to complete Worksheet 4).

On Worksheet 5, enter the name of each activity and the form or schedule and line number on which the loss will be reported. See the example for Worksheet 4. Identify any deduction from Worksheet 2 on a separate line (even if the amount is from an activity also shown on Worksheet 1 or 3) and add "CRD" after the name of the activity.

Column (a). Enter the amounts, if any, from column (d) of Worksheet 4 (from column (e) of Worksheet 1 or column (c) of Worksheet 2 if you did not have to complete Worksheet 4). Also enter the losses, if any, from column (e) of Worksheet 3.

Column (b). Divide each of the individual losses shown in column (a) by the total of all the losses in column (a) and enter this ratio for each activity in column (b). The total of all the ratios must equal 1.00.

Column (c). Complete the following computation.

- A. Enter as a positive amount line 4 of Form 8582 . . . . .

B. Add lines 10 and 14 of
Form 8582 . . . . .

C. Subtract line B from line A . .

Multiply each ratio in column (b) by the amount on line C above, and enter the result in column (c).

Worksheets 6 and 7

These worksheets allocate your unallowed and allowed losses for each activity.

If you have losses from any activity that are reported on two or more different forms or schedules, use Worksheet 7 instead of Worksheet 6 for that activity.

Also use Worksheet 7 instead of Worksheet 6 for any activity with two or more transactions that are reported on the same form or schedule but must be separately identified for tax purposes. Transactions that must be separately identified include capital losses that are 28% rate losses and those that are not.

Note. 28% rate gain or loss includes all collectibles gains and deductible long-term losses and section 1202 gain on the sale of qualified small business stock. See the instructions for Schedule D (Form 1040) for details, including the definitions of "collectibles gains and losses" and "section 1202 gain."

Worksheet 6

Use Worksheet 6 for any activity listed in Worksheet 5 if all the loss from that activity is reported on one form or schedule and no transactions need to be identified separately (as discussed above).

Example. Use Worksheet 6 if all the loss from an activity is reported on Schedule E, even though part of the loss is a current year Schedule E loss and part of it is from a Schedule E prior year unallowed loss.

On Worksheet 6, enter the name of each activity and the form or schedule and line number on which the loss is reported. See the example for Worksheet 4. Identify each CRD from Worksheet 5 on a separate line and add "CRD" after the name of the activity.

Column (a). For each activity entered in Worksheet 6, enter the net loss plus the prior year unallowed loss for the activity. Figure this amount by adding the losses in columns (b) and (c) of

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

Worksheets 1 and 3 or enter the loss from column (c) of Worksheet 2.

Column (b). For each activity entered in Worksheet 6, enter the amount from column (c) of Worksheet 5 for the activity. These are your unallowed losses for 2005. Keep a record of these amounts so the losses can be used to figure your PAL next year.

Column (c). Subtract column (b) from column (a). These are your allowed losses for 2005. Report the amounts in this column on the forms and schedules normally used.

See the forms and schedules listed under How To Report Allowed Losses beginning on this page. Also, see Pub. 925 for an extensive example of how to report passive income and losses on the forms and schedules.

Worksheet 7

Use Worksheet 7 for any activity listed in Worksheet 5 that has losses that are reported on two or more different forms and schedules or on different parts of the same form or schedule (for example, 28% rate and non-28%-rate capital losses reported on Schedule D). Worksheet 7 allocates the allowed and unallowed loss for the activity and allocates the allowed loss to the different forms or schedules (or different parts of the same form or schedule) used to report the losses.

Only losses that would cause a difference in tax liability if they were reported on a different form or schedule or on different parts of the same form or schedule are kept separate. Those forms, schedules, and parts are:

- Schedules C, E, and F.
- Schedule D (Parts I and II (28% rate losses and non-28%-rate losses)).

Note. You must make a separate entry in Schedule D, Part I or Part II, for each transaction reported. See the Instructions for Schedule D (Form 1040).

- Forms 4684 (Section B), 4797 (Parts I and II), and 4835.

Use a separate copy of Worksheet 7 for each activity for which you have losses reported on two or more different forms or schedules or different parts of the same form or schedule.

On Worksheet 7, enter the form or schedule and line number on the dotted line above each line 1a (for example, Schedule D, line 12, to report a 28% rate loss from a partnership).

Line 1a, column (a). Enter the net loss plus any prior year unallowed loss from the activity that is reported on the same form or, in the case of Schedule D and Form 4797, the same part.

If you have a Schedule D 28% rate loss and a Schedule D non-28%-rate loss, see Example of Schedule D (Form 1040) transactions on this page before completing Worksheet 7.

Line 1b, column (a). Enter any net income from the activity that is reported on the same form or schedule (or on the same part of the same form or schedule) as the loss on line 1a, column (a).

Example. You enter a prior year unallowed loss from Form 4797, Part I, on line 1a. If the activity has a current year Form 4797, Part I, gain, enter the gain on line 1b, column (a). If the activity does not have a Form 4797, Part I, gain, enter -0- on line 1b, column (a).

Line 1c, column (b). Subtract line 1b, column (a), from line 1a, column (a), and enter the result in column (b). If line 1b, column (a), is more than line 1a, column (a), enter -0- in column (b).

Column (c). Divide each of the losses entered in column (b) by the total of column (b) and enter the ratio in column (c). The total of this column must be 1.00.

Column (d). Multiply the unallowed loss for this activity, found in Worksheet 5, column (c), by each ratio in column (c) of Worksheet 7. If -0- is entered in column (b) of Worksheet 7, also enter -0- for that form or schedule in column (d).

The amount in column (d) is the unallowed loss for 2005. Keep a record of this worksheet so you can use the losses to figure your PAL next year.

Column (e). Subtract the amount in column (d) from the loss entered on line 1a, column (a). This is the allowed loss for 2005 to enter on the forms or schedules. The forms and schedules you use must show the losses from this column and the income, if any, for that activity from column (a) of Worksheet 1 or Worksheet 3.

Example of Schedule D (Form 1040) transactions. The taxpayer had the following Schedule D (Form 1040) transactions from passive activities in 2005.

Activity I

A passive activity prior year unallowed long-term capital loss (a 28% rate loss) of $1,000 and a current year long-term capital loss (a non-28%-rate loss) of $3,000.

Activity II

A current year collectibles loss (a 28% rate loss) of $230 and net income of $1,100 from Schedule E (Form 1040).

Worksheet 3

Activity I has an overall loss of $4,000 (current year long-term capital loss of $3,000 and a prior year unallowed long-term capital loss of $1,000). Activity II has an overall gain of $870 (current year net income of $1,100 less a current year long-term capital loss of $230). Line 16 of Form 8582 shows an allowed loss of $1,100.

Since Activity II has an overall gain, the amounts shown in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 3 for that activity are reported on the proper forms and schedules and are not shown on any other worksheet.

Worksheet 5

Activity I has an unallowed loss of $3,130 (line 4 of Form 8582 ($3,130) less the sum of lines 10 and 14 of Form 8582 (-0-) x 100%).

Worksheet 7

This worksheet is used to figure the portion of the unallowed loss attributable to the 28% rate loss and the portion attributable to the non-28%-rate loss.

The loss attributable to the 28% rate loss ($1,000) and the loss attributable to the non-28%-rate loss ($3,000) are separate entries in Worksheet 7. The ratio of each loss to the total of the two losses is figured as follows. $1,000/$4,000 = .25. $3,000/$4,000 = .75. Each of these ratios is multiplied by the unallowed loss for Activity I, shown in column (c) of Worksheet 5 ($3,130).

Unallowed losses for Activity I:

- 28% rate loss: .25 x $3,130 = $782.50.
- Non-28%-rate loss: .75 x $3,130 = $2,347.50.

Allowed losses for Activity I:

- 28% rate loss: $1,000 – $782.50 = $217.50.
- Non-28%-rate loss: $3,000 – $2,347.50 = $652.50.

The total loss allowed for Activity I ($870) is entered in Part II of Schedule D (Form 1040). The 28% rate loss ($217.50) is entered on the 28% Rate Gain Worksheet (see Schedule D instructions for line 18). Keep a record of the unallowed 28% rate and non-28%-rate losses to figure the PAL for these transactions next year.

See the forms and schedules listed under How To Report Allowed Losses beginning below. Also, see Pub. 925 for an extensive example of how to report passive income and losses on the forms and schedules.

How To Report Allowed Losses

Line 4 is income. If line 4 of Form 8582 shows net income or zero, all the losses in columns (b) and (c) of Worksheets 1 and 3 and all the deductions in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 2 are allowed in full. Report the income and losses in columns (a), (b), and (c) of Worksheets 1 and 3 and deductions in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 2 on the forms and schedules normally used.

Line 16 is the same as the total of lines 1b, 1c, 2a, 2b, 3b, and 3c. In this case also, all the losses in columns

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

(b) and (c) of Worksheets 1 and 3 and all the deductions in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 2 are allowed in full. Report the income and losses in columns (a), (b), and (c) of Worksheets 1 and 3 and deductions in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 2 on the forms and schedules normally used.

Columns (a) and (c) of Worksheet 4 are the same amount. In this case, all the losses in columns (b) and (c) of Worksheet 1 and all the deductions in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 2 are allowed in full. Report the income and losses in columns (a), (b), and (c) of Worksheet 1 and the deductions in columns (a) and (b) of Worksheet 2 on the forms and schedules normally used.

Losses allowed in column (c) of Worksheet 6. The amounts in column (c) of Worksheet 6 are the losses or deductions allowed for 2005 for the activities listed in that worksheet. Report the loss allowed from column (c) of Worksheet 6 and the income, if any, for that activity from column (a) of Worksheet 1 or 3, on the form or schedule normally used.

Losses allowed in column (e) of Worksheet 7. The amounts in column (e) of Worksheet 7 are the losses or deductions allowed for 2005 for the activity listed on that worksheet. Report the losses allowed from column (e) of Worksheet 7 and the income, if any, for that activity from column (a) of Worksheet 1 or 3, on the forms or schedules normally used.

Schedules C and F, and Form 4835. Enter on the net profit or loss line of your schedule or form the allowed passive loss from the worksheet. To the left of the entry space enter "PAL."

If the net profit or loss line on your form or schedule shows net profit for the year, reduce the net profit by the allowed loss from Worksheet 6 or 7, and enter the result on the net profit or loss line.

Example. Schedule C shows net profit for the year of $5,000 from a passive activity. The activity also has a Form 4797 gain of $2,500 and a prior year unallowed Schedule C loss of $6,000. The loss allowed for 2005 is $6,000. You enter a net loss of $1,000 on line 31 of Schedule C (the $5,000 net profit for the year less the $6,000 loss allowed for the year). To the left of the entry space, you enter "PAL."

See Schedule D and Form 4797 instructions on this page if you also had passive gains and losses from the sale of assets or of an interest in a passive activity.

Schedule E, Part I. Enter the allowed loss from the worksheet on line 23 of Schedule E. An activity that has net profit for the year and prior year unallowed losses will have net profit on line 22 and the allowed loss on line 23.

The allowed loss on line 23 will include the loss allowed to the extent of the net profit. Line 24 of Schedule E will show total net profit and line 25 will show total losses allowed (both passive and nonpassive). Line 26 will show the total net profit or loss.

Schedule E, Parts II and III. Any net income shown on your Schedule K-1 that is passive income must be entered as passive income in the appropriate column of Schedule E, Part II or III. Enter the passive loss allowed from Worksheet 6 or 7 in the appropriate column for passive losses. The passive losses allowed include the loss allowed to the extent of any net income from the activity. Passive net income or loss reportable on Schedule E, Part II, includes any self-charged interest income and deductions treated as passive activity income and deductions.

See Schedule D and Form 4797 instructions on this page if you also had passive gains or losses from the sale of assets or of an interest in a passive activity.

Form 4684, Section B. Any passive activity gain from Form 4684 is unchanged. It was used on Form 8582 to determine allowable PALs. If you do not have passive losses on Form 4684, complete Form 4684 and follow the instructions for that form for where to report the gain.

If you have passive losses on Form 4684, cross through the amount you first entered on line 31, 32, 38a, 38b, or 39 of that form, and enter the allowed loss from the worksheet. To the left of the entry space, enter "PAL."

Schedule D and Form 4797. If you sold assets from a passive activity or you sold an interest in your passive activity, all gains from the activity must be entered on the appropriate line of Schedule D or Form 4797. Identify the gain as "FPA." Enter any allowed losses for Schedule D or Form 4797 on the appropriate line, and to the left of the entry space, enter "PAL."

Entire disposition with an overall loss. If you made an entire disposition of your interest in a passive activity and that activity had an overall loss, none of the gains, if any, or losses were entered on Form 8582 or the worksheets. However, all the gains and losses must be reported on the forms or schedules normally used. To the left of the entry space, enter "EDPA."

Entire disposition with an overall gain. Gains and losses from this activity were included on Form 8582 so that the gains might offset other PALs. Report all the gains and losses on the forms and schedules normally used, and to the left of the entry space, enter "EDPA."

Publicly Traded Partnerships (PTPs)

A PTP is a partnership whose interests are traded on an established securities market or are readily tradable on a secondary market (or its substantial equivalent).

An established securities market includes any national securities exchange and any local exchange registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 or exempted from registration because of the limited volume of transactions. It also includes any over-the-counter market.

A secondary market generally exists if a person stands ready to make a market in the interest. An interest is treated as readily tradable if the interest is regularly quoted by persons, such as brokers or dealers, who are making a market in the interest.

The substantial equivalent of a secondary market exists if there is no identifiable market maker, but holders of interests have a readily available, regular, and ongoing opportunity to sell or exchange interests through a public means of obtaining or providing information on offers to buy, sell, or exchange interests. Similarly, the substantial equivalent of a secondary market exists if prospective buyers and sellers have the opportunity to buy, sell, or exchange interests in a timeframe and with the regularity and continuity that the existence of a market maker would provide.

Special Instructions for PTPs

Section 469(k) provides that the passive activity limitations must be applied separately to items from each PTP. PALs from a PTP generally may be used only to offset income or gain from passive activities of the same PTP. The special allowance (including CRDs) for rental real estate activities does not apply to PALs from a PTP.

Passive activity loss rules for partners in PTPs. Do not report passive income, gains, or losses from a PTP on Form 8582. Instead, use the following rules to figure and report your income, gains, and losses from passive activities you held through each PTP you owned during the tax year.

1. Combine any current year income, gains and losses, and any prior year unallowed losses to see if you have an overall loss from the PTP. Include only the same types of income and losses you would include to figure your net income or loss from a non-PTP passive activity. See Passive Activity Income and Deductions on page 5.

2. If you have an overall gain, the net gain portion (total gain minus total losses) is nonpassive income.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

It is important to figure the nonpassive income because it must be included in modified adjusted gross income to figure the special allowance for active participation in a non-PTP rental real estate activity on Form 8582. Also, you may be able to include the nonpassive income in investment income when figuring your investment interest expense deduction. See Form 4952, Investment Interest Expense Deduction.

Report all gains and allowed losses from the activity on the forms or schedules normally used, and to the left of each entry space, enter "From PTP."

Example. You have Schedule E income of $8,000 and a Form 4797 prior year unallowed loss of $3,500 from the passive activities of a PTP. You have a $4,500 overall gain ($8,000 – $3,500) that is nonpassive income. On Schedule E, Part II, you report the $4,500 net gain as nonpassive income in column (j). In column (g), you report the remaining Schedule E gain of $3,500 ($8,000 – $4,500) as passive income. On the appropriate line of Form 4797, you report the prior year unallowed loss of $3,500. You enter "From PTP" to the left of each entry space.

3. If you have an overall loss (but did not dispose of your entire interest in the PTP to an unrelated person in a fully taxable transaction during the year), the losses are allowed only to the extent of the income, and the excess loss is carried forward to use in a future year if you have income to offset it. Report as a passive loss on the schedule or form you normally use the portion of the loss equal to the income. Report the income as passive income on the form or schedule you normally use.

Example. You have a Schedule E loss of $12,000 (current year losses plus prior year unallowed losses) and Form 4797 gain of $7,200 from the passive activities of a PTP. You report the $7,200 gain on the appropriate line of Form 4797. On Schedule E, Part II, you report $7,200 of the losses as a passive loss in column (f). You carry forward the unallowed loss of $4,800 ($12,000 – $7,200).

If you have unallowed losses from more than one activity of the PTP or from the same activity of the PTP that must be reported on different forms or schedules, allocate the unallowed losses on a pro rata basis to figure the amount allowed for each activity or on each form or schedule.

 TIP

To allocate and keep a record of the unallowed losses, use Worksheets 5, 6, and 7 of Form 8582.

List each activity of the PTP in Worksheet 5. Enter the overall loss from each activity in column (a). Complete column (b) of Worksheet 5 according to its instructions. Multiply the total unallowed loss from the PTP by each ratio in column (b) and enter the result in column (c) of Worksheet 5.

Next, complete Worksheet 6 for each activity listed in Worksheet 5 if all the loss from that activity is reported on one form or schedule. Use Worksheet 7 instead of Worksheet 6 for each activity with losses reported on two or more different forms or schedules (or on different parts of the same form or schedule). Enter the net loss plus any prior year unallowed losses in column (a) of Worksheet 6 (or Worksheet 7 if applicable). The losses in column (c) of Worksheet 6 (column (e) of Worksheet 7) are the allowed losses to report on your forms or schedules. Report these losses and any income from the PTP on the forms and schedules normally used.

4. If you have an overall loss and you disposed of your entire interest in the PTP to an unrelated person in a fully taxable transaction during the year, your losses (including prior year unallowed losses) allocable to the activity for the year are not limited by the passive loss rules. A fully taxable transaction is one in which you recognize all your realized gain or loss. Report the income and losses on the forms and schedules normally used.

For rules on the disposition of an entire interest reported using the installment method, see Disposition of an Entire Interest on page 6.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8586 to claim the low-income housing credit.

This general business credit is allowed for each new qualified low-income building placed in service after 1986; it is taken over a 10-year credit period. The present value of the 10 annual credit amounts equals 70% of the building's qualified basis (30% for certain federally subsidized new buildings or existing buildings). In general, the 10-year credit period starts at the beginning of the tax year in which the building is placed in service. However, you may elect to begin the 10-year credit period in the succeeding tax year by checking the "Yes" box in Part II, line 10a, of Form 8609, Low-Income Housing Credit Allocation and Certification.

S Corporations, Partnerships, Estates, and Trusts

Complete Part I to figure the credit to pass through to the shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries. Attach Form 8586 to the pass-through income tax return along with Form 8609-A, Annual Statement for Low-Income Housing Credit, for each building. An electing large partnership treats the part of the credit attributable to property placed in service before 1990 as a "rehabilitation credit" when reporting the credit to its partners.

Qualified Low-Income Housing Project

The low-income housing credit can only be claimed for residential rental buildings in low-income housing projects that meet one of the minimum set-aside tests (20-50 or 40-60 (25-60 for New York City only)). For details, see the instructions for Form 8609, Part II, line 10c.

Except for buildings financed with certain tax-exempt bonds, you may not take a low-income housing credit on a building if it has not received an allocation from the housing credit agency. Also, the credit cannot exceed the amount allocated to the building. See section 42(h)(1) for details. No allocation is needed when (a) 50% or more of the aggregate basis of the building and the land on which the building is located is financed with certain tax-exempt bonds issued after 1989 for buildings placed in service after 1989 or (b) 70% or more of the aggregate basis of the building and land is financed with certain tax-exempt bonds issued before 1990. "Land on which the building is located" includes only land that is functionally related and subordinate to the qualified low-income building (see Regulations sections 1.103-8(a)(3) and 1.103-8(b)(4)(iii) for the meaning of "functionally related and subordinate").

Except as noted in the Specific Instructions, you must have a Form 8609 (with Part I completed) from the state or local housing credit agency for each building for which you are claiming a credit. Instructions for filing related Forms 8609 and 8609-A can be found on the respective forms.

Recapture of Credit

There is a 15-year compliance period during which the residential rental building must continue to meet certain requirements. If, as of the close of any tax year in this period, there is a reduction in the qualified basis of the building from the previous year, you may have to recapture a part of the credit you have taken. Similarly, you may have to recapture part of the credits taken in previous years upon certain dispositions of the building or interests therein. See Form 8611, Recapture of Low-Income Housing Credit, and section 42(j) for details.

Recordkeeping

Keep a copy of this Form 8586 together with all Forms 8609, Schedules A (Form 8609) (or successor Forms 8609-A), and Forms 8611 for 3 years after the 15-year compliance period ends.

Specific Instructions

Note. For credits from a pass-through entity (such as an S corporation, partnership, estate, or trust), you do not have to obtain, complete, or attach Form 8609 or Form 8609-A. If all your credits are from pass-through entities, skip lines 1 through 3.

Line 1. If any of the attached Forms 8609-A are for buildings that are part of a multiple building project (defined in instructions for Part II of Form 8609), attach a schedule listing for each project (a) the name and address of the project and each building in the project, (b) the building identification number (BIN) of each building, (c) the aggregate credit dollar amount for the project, and (d) the credit allocated to each building.

Line 2. A decrease in qualified basis will result in recapture if the qualified basis at the close of the tax year is less than the qualified basis at the close of the first year of the credit period.

Important: If the reduction in qualified basis at the close of the tax year also results in a violation of the minimum set-aside requirement, then no credit is allowable for the year. If you must recapture credits, use Form 8611. See section 42(j) for more information.

Line 3. The line 3 credit for the year is figured on Form 8609-A for each building. Attach copies of Form 8609-A to Form 8586 for each tax year a credit is claimed. Enter on line 3 the credit from Form 8609-A. If more than one Form 8609-A is attached, enter on line 3 the total credit from all attached Forms 8609-A.

For a pass-through entity with a line 3 credit attributable to more than one building, attach a schedule to Form 8586 that shows each shareholder's, partner's, or beneficiary's name, identifying number, and share of the line 3 credit and the BIN for each building.

Line 4. If you have a credit from a pass-through entity, enter the entity's employer identification number (EIN) and the credit amount on line 4. If you have credits from more than one pass-through entity, attach a statement that shows the EIN and credit amount for each entity. Enter the total credit on line 4.

Line 5. The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Complete line 6 and Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit. You must file Form 3800 if you have more than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835) or a carryback or carryforward of any of those credits. See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 6. The credit on line 5 may be subject to the passive activity credit limitation. Individuals, estates, and trusts figure the limit on Form 8582-CR, Passive Activity Credit Limitations, and personal service and closely held corporations figure the limit on Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations. If this limitation applies, enter the allowable credit from Form 8582-CR or 8810 on line 6. If line 6 is zero, skip Part II. If you are not subject to the passive activity limitation, enter on line 6 the amount from line 5.

Line 13. See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 14. Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule.

Line 17. If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 16 is smaller than line 6), carry the unused credit back 1 year and then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, 6 hr., 13 min.; Learning about the law or the form, 1 hr., 37 min.; Preparing the form, 3 hr., 40 min.; Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the IRS, 32 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. See the instructions for the tax return with which this form is filed.

Changes to the 2005 Instructions for Form 8606

Line references to Form 1040 have been updated.

References to traditional and Roth IRA contributions have been updated to reflect increased limits, per IRC section 219(b)(5).

The definition of Modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes on page 2 was changed to exclude IRA minimum required distributions from modified AGI, and to include in modified AGI, the domestic production activities deduction, per IRC 408A(c)(3)(C)(i).

Under specific instructions for line 6 on page 6, the definition of "outstanding rollover" was reworded for clarity.

The basis charts on pages 7 and 8 were updated to add 2004 to prior years' distributions.

File Form 8606 if any of the following apply.

- You made nondeductible contributions to a traditional IRA for 2005.
- You received distributions from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA in 2005 (other than a rollover, conversion, recharacterization, or return of certain contributions) and your basis in traditional IRAs is more than zero.

- You converted an amount from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA to a Roth IRA in 2005 (unless you recharacterized the entire conversion—see page 3).
- You received distributions from a Roth IRA in 2005 (other than a rollover, recharacterization, or return of certain contributions—see page 7).

Note. If you recharacterized a 2005 Roth IRA contribution as a traditional IRA contribution, or vice versa, treat the contribution as having been made to the second IRA, not the first IRA. See page 3.

You do not have to file Form 8606 solely to report regular contributions to Roth IRAs. But see What Records Must I Keep? on page 5.

When and Where To File

File Form 8606 with your 2005 Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040NR. If you are not required to file an income tax return but are required to file Form 8606, sign Form 8606 and send it to the Internal Revenue Service at the same time and place you would otherwise file Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040NR.

Definitions

Deemed IRAs

A qualified employer plan (retirement plan) can maintain a separate account or annuity under the plan (a deemed IRA) to receive voluntary employee contributions. If in 2005 you had a deemed IRA, use the rules for either a traditional IRA or a Roth IRA depending on which type it was. See Pub. 590 for more details.

Traditional IRAs

For purposes of Form 8606, a traditional IRA is an individual retirement account or an individual retirement annuity other than a SEP, SIMPLE, or Roth IRA.

Contributions. An overall contribution limit applies to traditional IRAs and Roth IRAs. See Overall Contribution Limit for Traditional and Roth IRAs that begins on page 2. Contributions to a traditional IRA may be fully deductible, partially deductible, or completely nondeductible.

Basis. Your basis in traditional IRAs is the total of all your nondeductible contributions to traditional IRAs minus the total of all your nontaxable distributions, adjusted if necessary (see the instructions for line 2 on page 5). Keep track of your basis to figure the nontaxable part of your future distributions.

SEP IRAs

A simplified employee pension (SEP) is an employer-sponsored plan under which an employer can make contributions to traditional IRAs for its employees. If you make contributions to that IRA (excluding employer contributions you make if you are self-employed), they are treated as contributions to a traditional IRA and may be deductible or nondeductible. SEP IRA distributions are reported in the same manner as traditional IRA distributions.

SIMPLE IRAs

Your participation in your employer's SIMPLE IRA plan does not prevent you from making contributions to a traditional, SEP, or Roth IRA.

Roth IRAs

A Roth IRA is similar to a traditional IRA, but has the following features.

- Contributions are never deductible.
- Contributions can be made after the owner reaches age 70½.
- No minimum distributions are required during the Roth IRA owner's lifetime.
- Qualified distributions are not includible in income.

Qualified distribution. Generally, a qualified distribution is any distribution made:

- On or after age 59½,

- Upon death,
- Due to disability, or
- For qualified first-time homebuyer expenses.

Exception. Any distribution made during the 5-year period beginning with the first year for which you made a Roth IRA contribution or conversion is not a qualified distribution, and may be taxable.

Contributions. You can contribute to a Roth IRA for 2005 only if your 2005 modified adjusted gross income (AGI) for Roth IRA purposes is less than:

- $10,000 if married filing separately and you lived with your spouse at any time in 2005,
- $160,000 if married filing jointly or qualifying widow(er), or
- $110,000 if single, head of household, or if married filing separately and you did not live with your spouse at any time in 2005.

Use the Maximum Roth IRA Contribution Worksheet below to figure the maximum amount you can contribute to a Roth IRA for 2005. If you are married filing jointly, complete the worksheet separately for you and your spouse.

Maximum Roth IRA Contribution Worksheet (keep for your records)

Caution: If married filing jointly and the combined taxable compensation (defined on this page) for you and your spouse is less than $8,000 ($8,500 if one spouse is 50 or older at the end of 2005; $9,000 if both spouses are 50 or older at the end of 2005), do not use this worksheet. Instead, see Pub. 590 for special rules.

If you contributed too much, see Recharacterizations on page 3.

Modified AGI for Roth IRA

purposes. First, figure your AGI (Form 1040, line 38; Form 1040A, line 22; or Form 1040NR, line 35). Then, refigure it by:

1. Subtracting the following.
  - a. Roth IRA conversions included on Form 1040, line 15b; Form 1040A, line 11b; or Form 1040NR, line 16b.
  - b. Minimum required distributions from IRAs (for conversions only).
2. Adding the following.
  - a. IRA deduction from Form 1040, line 32; Form 1040A, line 17; or Form 1040NR, line 31.
  - b. Student loan interest deduction from Form 1040, line 33; Form 1040A, line 18; or Form 1040NR, line 32.
  - c. Tuition and fees deduction from Form 1040, line 34, or Form 1040A, line 19.
  - d. Exclusion of interest from Form 8815, Exclusion of Interest From Series EE and I U.S. Savings Bonds Issued After 1989.

e. Exclusion of employer-provided adoption benefits from Form 8839, Qualified Adoption Expenses.

f. Foreign earned income exclusion from Form 2555, Foreign Earned Income, or Form 2555-EZ, Foreign Earned Income Exclusion.

g. Foreign housing exclusion or deduction from Form 2555.

h. Domestic production activities deduction from Form 1040, line 35, or Form 1040NR, line 33.

When figuring modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes, you may have to refigure items based on modified AGI, such as taxable social security benefits and passive activity losses allowed under the special allowance for rental real estate activities. See Can You Contribute to a Roth IRA? in Pub. 590 for details.

Distributions. See the instructions for Part III beginning on page 7.

Overall Contribution Limit for Traditional and Roth IRAs

If you are not married filing jointly, your limit on contributions to traditional and Roth IRAs is the smaller of $4,000 ($4,500 if age 50 or older at the end of 2005) or your taxable compensation (defined below). If you are married filing jointly, your contribution limit is generally $4,000 ($4,500 if age 50 or older at the end of 2005) and your spouse's contribution limit is $4,000 ($4,500 if age 50 or older at the end of 2005) as well. But if the combined taxable compensation of both you and your spouse is less than $8,000 ($8,500 if one spouse is 50 or older at the end of 2005; $9,000 if both spouses are 50 or older at the end of 2005), see Pub. 590 for special rules. This limit does not apply to employer contributions to a SEP or SIMPLE IRA.

The amount you can contribute to a Roth IRA may also be limited by your modified AGI (see Contributions and the Maximum Roth IRA Contribution Worksheet on this page).

Taxable compensation includes the following.

- Wages, salaries, tips, etc. If you received a distribution from a nonqualified deferred compensation plan or nongovernmental section 457 plan that is included in box 1 of your Form W-2, do not include that distribution in taxable compensation. The distribution should be shown in box 11 of your Form W-2. If it is not, contact your employer for the amount of the distribution.

- Self-employment income. If you are self-employed (a sole proprietor or a partner), taxable compensation is your net earnings from your trade or business (provided your personal services are a material income-producing factor) reduced by your deduction for contributions made on your behalf to retirement plans and the deduction allowed for one-half of your self-employment tax.
- Alimony and separate maintenance.

See Pub. 590 for details.

Note. Rollovers and Roth IRA conversions do not affect your contribution limit.

Recharacterizations

Generally, you can recharacterize (correct) an IRA contribution or Roth IRA conversion by making a trustee-to-trustee transfer from one IRA to another type of IRA. Trustee-to-trustee transfers are made directly between financial institutions or within the same financial institution. You generally must make the transfer by the due date of your return (including extensions) and reflect it on your return. However, if you timely filed your return without making the transfer, you can make the transfer within 6 months of the due date of your return, excluding extensions. If necessary, file an amended return reflecting the transfer (see page 5). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" on the amended return.

Reporting recharacterizations. Any recharacterized conversion will be treated as though the conversion had not occurred. Any recharacterized contribution will be treated as having been originally contributed to the second IRA, not the first IRA. The amount transferred must include related earnings or be reduced by any loss. In most cases, the related earnings that you must transfer are figured by your IRA trustee or custodian. If you need to figure the related earnings, see How Do You Recharacterize a Contribution in Pub. 590. Any earnings or loss that occurred in the first IRA will be treated as having occurred in the second IRA. You may not deduct any loss that occurred while the funds were in the first IRA. Also, you cannot take a deduction for a contribution to a traditional IRA if the amount is later recharacterized. See below for how to report the three different types of recharacterizations, including the statement that must be attached to your return explaining the recharacterization.

1. You converted an amount from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA to a Roth IRA in 2005 and later recharacterized all or part of the amount back to a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA. If you only recharacterized part of the amount converted, report the amount not recharacterized on Form 8606. If you recharacterized the entire amount, do not report the recharacterization on Form 8606. In either case, attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization and include the amount converted from the traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA in the total on Form 1040, line 15a; Form 1040A, line 11a; or Form 1040NR, line 16a. If the recharacterization occurred in 2005, also include the amount transferred back from the Roth IRA on that line. If the recharacterization occurred in 2006, report the amount transferred only in the attached statement, and not on your 2005 or 2006 tax return (a 2006 Form 1099-R should be sent to you by January 31, 2007, stating that you made a recharacterization of an amount converted in the prior year).

Example. You are married filing jointly and converted $20,000 from your traditional IRA to a new Roth IRA on May 21, 2005. On April 8, 2006, you determine that your 2005 modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes will exceed $100,000, and you are not allowed to make a Roth IRA conversion. The value of the Roth IRA on that date is $19,000. You recharacterize the conversion by transferring that entire amount to a traditional IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer. You report $20,000 on Form 1040, line 15a. You do not include the $19,000 on line 15a because it did not occur in 2005 (you also do not report that amount on your 2006 return because it does not apply to the 2006 tax year). You attach a statement to Form 1040 explaining that (a) you made a conversion of $20,000 from a traditional IRA on May 21, 2005, (b) you recharacterized the entire amount, which was then valued at $19,000, back to a traditional IRA on April 8, 2006, and (c) you recharacterized because your 2005 modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes exceeded $100,000.

2. You made a contribution to a traditional IRA and later recharacterized part or all of it to a Roth IRA. If you recharacterized only part of the contribution, report the nondeductible traditional IRA portion of the remaining contribution, if any, on Form 8606, Part I. If you recharacterized the entire contribution, do not report the contribution on Form 8606. In either case, attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization. If the recharacterization occurred in 2005, include the amount transferred from the traditional IRA on Form 1040, line 15a; Form 1040A, line 11a; or Form 1040NR, line 16a. If the recharacterization occurred in 2006, report the amount transferred only in the attached statement.

Example. You are single, covered by a retirement plan, and you contributed $4,000 to a new traditional IRA on May 28, 2005. On February 24, 2006, you determine that your 2005 modified AGI will limit your traditional IRA deduction to $1,000. The value of your traditional IRA on that date is $4,400. You decide to recharacterize $3,000 of the traditional IRA contribution as a Roth IRA contribution, and have $3,300 ($3,000 contribution plus $300 related earnings) transferred from your traditional IRA to a Roth IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer. You deduct the $1,000 traditional IRA contribution on Form 1040. You are not required to file Form 8606, but you must attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization. The statement indicates that you contributed $4,000 to a traditional IRA on May 28, 2005; recharacterized $3,000 of that contribution on February 24, 2006, by transferring $3,000 plus $300 of related earnings from your traditional IRA to a Roth IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer; and that all $1,000 of the remaining traditional IRA contribution is deducted on Form 1040. You do not report the $3,300 distribution from your traditional IRA on your 2005 Form 1040 because the distribution occurred in 2006. You do not report the distribution on your 2006 Form 1040 because the recharacterization related to 2005 and was explained in an attachment to your 2005 return.

3. You made a contribution to a Roth IRA and later recharacterized part or all of it to a traditional IRA. Report the nondeductible traditional IRA portion, if any, on Form 8606, Part I. If you did not recharacterize the entire contribution, do not report the remaining Roth IRA portion of the contribution on Form 8606. Attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization. If the recharacterization occurred in 2005, include the amount transferred from the Roth IRA on Form 1040, line 15a; Form 1040A, line 11a; or Form 1040NR, line 16a. If the recharacterization occurred in 2006, report the amount transferred only in the attached statement, and not on your 2005 or 2006 tax return.

Example. You are single and contributed $4,000 to a new Roth IRA on June 14, 2005. On December 27, 2005, you determine that your 2005 modified AGI will allow a full traditional IRA deduction. You decide to recharacterize the Roth IRA contribution as a traditional IRA contribution and have $4,200, the balance in the Roth IRA account ($4,000 contribution plus $200 related earnings), transferred from your Roth IRA to a traditional IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer. You deduct the $4,000 traditional IRA contribution on Form 1040. You are not required to file Form 8606, but you must attach a statement to your return explaining the recharacterization. The statement indicates that you contributed $4,000 to a new Roth IRA on June 14, 2005; recharacterized that contribution on December 27, 2005, by transferring $4,200, the balance in the Roth IRA, to a traditional IRA in a trustee-to-trustee transfer; and that $4,000 of the traditional IRA contribution is deducted on Form 1040. You include the $4,200 distribution on your 2005 Form 1040, line 15a.

Return of IRA Contributions

If, in 2005, you made traditional IRA contributions or Roth IRA contributions for 2004 or 2005 and you had those contributions returned to you with any related earnings (or less any loss) by the due date (including extensions) of your 2005 tax return, the returned contributions are treated as if they were never contributed. Do not report the contribution or distribution on Form 8606 or take a deduction for the contribution. However, you must report the distribution and any related earnings on your 2005 Form 1040, lines 15a and 15b; Form 1040A, lines 11a and 11b; or Form 1040NR, lines 16a and 16b. Attach a statement explaining the distribution. You cannot deduct any loss that occurred (see Pub. 590 for an exception if you withdrew the entire amount in all your traditional or Roth IRAs). Also, if you were under age 59½ at the time of a distribution with related earnings, you generally are subject to the additional 10% tax on early distributions (see Form 5329, Additional Taxes on Qualified Plans (Including IRAs) and Other Tax-Favored Accounts).

If you timely filed your 2005 tax return without withdrawing a contribution that you made in 2005, you can still have the contribution returned to you within 6 months of the due date of your 2005 tax return, excluding extensions. If you do, file an amended return with "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" written at the top. Report any related earnings on the amended return and include an explanation of the withdrawal. Make any other necessary changes on the amended return (for example, if you reported the contributions as excess contributions on your original return, include an amended Form 5329 reflecting that the withdrawn contributions are no longer treated as having been contributed).

In most cases, the related earnings that you must withdraw are figured by your IRA trustee or custodian. If you need to figure the related earnings on IRA contributions that were made in 2004 or 2005 and were returned to you, see How Do You Recharacterize a Contribution in Pub. 590. If you made a contribution or distribution while the IRA held the returned contribution, see Notice 2000-39.

If you made a contribution in 2004 and you had it returned to you in 2005 as described above, do not report the distribution on your 2005 tax return. Instead, report it on your 2004 original or amended return in the manner described above. Likewise, report on your 2006 tax return any distribution made in 2006 that is a return of contributions that were made in 2006 for 2005 (but be sure that your original or amended 2005 tax return reflects that the contribution is treated as not having been contributed).

Example. On May 31, 2005, you contributed $4,000 to your traditional IRA. The value of the IRA was $18,000 prior to the contribution. On December 29, 2005, when you are age 57 and the value of the IRA is $23,600, you realize you cannot make the entire contribution because your taxable compensation for the year will be only $3,000. You decide to have $1,000 of the contribution returned to you and withdraw $1,076 from your IRA ($1,000 contribution plus $76 earnings). You did not make any other withdrawals or contributions. You are not required to file Form 8606. You deduct the $3,000 remaining contribution on Form 1040. You include $1,076 on Form 1040, line 15a, and $76 on line 15b. You attach a statement to your tax return explaining the distribution. Because you properly removed the excess contribution with the related earnings by the due date of your tax return, you are not subject to the additional 6% tax on excess contributions. However, because you were under age 59½ at the time of the distribution, the $76 of earnings is subject to the additional 10% tax on early distributions. You include $7.60 on Form 1040, line 60.

Return of Excess Traditional IRA Contributions

The return (distribution) in 2005 of excess traditional IRA contributions for years prior to 2005 is not taxable if all three of the following apply.

1. The distribution was made after the due date, including extensions, of your tax return for the year for which the contribution was made (if the distribution was made earlier, see Return of IRA Contributions on page 4).

2. The total contributions (excluding rollovers and conversions) to your traditional and SEP IRAs for the year for which the excess contribution was made did not exceed:

- a. $3,000 ($3,500 if age 50 or older at the end of the year) for years after 2001 and before 2005,
- b. $2,000 for years after 1996 and before 2002, or
- c. $2,250 for years before 1997.

If your total IRA contributions for the year included employer contributions to a SEP IRA, increase the $3,000 ($3,500, if applicable), $2,000, or $2,250 by the smaller of the employer contributions or $40,000 ($35,000 for 2001, or $30,000 for years before 2001).

3. No deduction was allowable (without regard to the modified AGI limitation) or taken for the excess contributions.

Include the total amount distributed on Form 1040, line 15a; Form 1040A, line 11a; or Form 1040NR, line 16a; and attach a statement to your return explaining the distribution. See the example below.

If you meet the above conditions and are otherwise required to file Form 8606:

- Do not take into account the amount of the withdrawn contributions in figuring line 2 and
- Do not include the amount of the withdrawn contributions on line 7.

Example. You are single, you retired in 2002, and you had no taxable compensation after 2002. However, you made traditional IRA contributions (that you did not deduct) of $3,000 in 2003 and $3,000 in 2004. In November 2005, a tax practitioner informed you that you had made excess contributions for those years because you had no taxable compensation. You withdrew the $6,000 and filed amended returns for 2003 and 2004 reflecting the additional 6% tax on excess contributions on Form 5329. You include the $6,000 distribution on your 2005 Form 1040, line 15a, enter -0- on line 15b, and attach a statement to your return explaining the distribution, including the fact that you filed amended returns for 2003 and 2004 and paid the additional 6% tax on the excess contributions for those years. The statement indicates that the distribution is not taxable because (a) it was made after the due dates of your 2003 and 2004 tax returns, including extensions, (b) your total IRA contributions did not exceed $3,000 ($3,500 if age 50 or older at the end of 2003) for 2003 or $3,000 ($3,500 if age 50 or older at the end of 2004) for 2004, and (c) you did not take a deduction for the contributions, and no deduction was allowable because you did not have any taxable compensation for those years. The statement also indicates that the distribution reduced your excess contributions to -0-, as reflected on your 2005 Form 5329 and it indicates your adjusted basis in nondeductible contributions.

Amending Form 8606

After you file your return, you can change a nondeductible contribution to a traditional IRA to a deductible contribution or vice versa. You also may be able to make a recharacterization (see page 3). If necessary, complete a new Form 8606 showing the revised information and file it with Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return.

Penalty for Not Filing

If you are required to file Form 8606 to report a nondeductible contribution to a traditional IRA for 2005, but do not do so, you must pay a $50 penalty, unless you can show reasonable cause.

Overstatement Penalty

If you overstate your nondeductible contributions, you must pay a $100 penalty, unless you can show reasonable cause.

What Records Must I Keep?

To verify the nontaxable part of distributions from your IRAs, including Roth IRAs, keep a copy of the following forms and records until all distributions are made.

- Page 1 of Forms 1040 (or Forms 1040A, 1040NR, or 1040-T) filed for each year you made a nondeductible contribution to a traditional IRA.
- Forms 8606 and any supporting statements, attachments, and worksheets for all applicable years.
- Forms 5498 or similar statements you received each year showing contributions you made to a traditional IRA or Roth IRA.
- Forms 5498 or similar statements you received showing the value of your traditional IRAs for each year you received a distribution.
- Forms 1099-R or W-2P you received for each year you received a distribution.

Note. Forms 1040-T and W-2P are forms that were used in prior years.

Specific Instructions

Name and social security number (SSN). If you file a joint return, enter only the name and SSN of the spouse whose information is being reported on Form 8606. If both you and your spouse are required to file Form 8606, file a separate Form 8606 for each of you.

Part I—Nondeductible Contributions to Traditional IRAs and Distributions From Traditional, SEP, and SIMPLE IRAs

Line 1

If you used the IRA Deduction Worksheet in the Form 1040 or 1040A instructions, subtract line 10 of the worksheet (or the amount you chose to deduct on Form 1040, line 32, or Form 1040A, line 17, if less) from the smaller of line 8 or line 9 of the worksheet. Enter the result on line 1 of Form 8606. You cannot deduct the amount included on line 1.

If you used the worksheet Figuring Your Reduced IRA Deduction for 2005 in Pub. 590, enter on line 1 of Form 8606 any nondeductible contributions from the appropriate lines of that worksheet.

If you did not have any deductible contributions, you can make nondeductible contributions up to your contribution limit. Enter on line 1 of Form 8606 your nondeductible contributions.

Do not include on line 1 contributions that you had returned to you with the related earnings (or less any loss). See page 4.

Line 2

If this is the first year you are required to file Form 8606, enter -0-. Otherwise, use the chart below to find the amount to enter on line 2.

However, you may need to enter an amount other than -0- or adjust the amount from the chart if your basis changed because of any of the following.

- You had a return of excess traditional IRA contributions (see page 4).
- Incident to divorce, you transferred or received part or all of a traditional IRA (see Distributions that are incident to divorce on this page).
- You rolled over any nontaxable portion of your qualified employer plan to a traditional or SEP IRA. Include the nontaxable portion on line 2.

IF the last Form 8606 you filed was for...	THEN enter on line 2...
2004, 2003, 2002, or 2001	The amount from line 14 of that Form 8606
A year after 1992 and before 2001	The amount from line 12 of that Form 8606
A year after 1988 and before 1993	The amount from line 14 of that Form 8606
1988	The total of the amounts on lines 7 and 16 of that Form 8606
1987	The total of the amounts on lines 4 and 13 of that Form 8606

Line 4

If you made contributions to traditional IRAs for 2005 in 2005 and 2006 and you have both deductible and nondeductible contributions, you can choose to treat the contributions made in 2005 first as nondeductible contributions and then as deductible contributions, or vice versa. But the amount on line 4 cannot be less than the excess, if any, of the amount on line 1 over the contributions you actually made in 2005.

Example. You made contributions for 2005 of $2,000 in May 2005 and $2,000 in January 2006, of which $3,000 are deductible and $1,000 are nondeductible. You choose $1,000 of your contribution in 2005 to be nondeductible. You enter the $1,000 on line 1, but not line 4, and it becomes part of your basis for 2005.

Although the contributions to traditional IRAs for 2005 that you made from January 1, 2006, through April 15, 2006, can be treated as nondeductible, they are not included in figuring the nontaxable part of any distributions you received in 2005.

Line 6

Enter the total value of all your traditional, SEP, and SIMPLE IRAs as of December 31, 2005, plus any outstanding rollovers. A statement should be sent to you by January 31, 2006, showing the value of each IRA on December 31, 2005. However, if you recharacterized any amounts, enter on line 6 the total value taking into account all recharacterizations, including recharacterizations made after December 31, 2005.

For line 6, a rollover is a tax-free distribution from one traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA that is contributed to another traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA. The rollover must be completed within 60 days of receiving the distribution from the first IRA. An outstanding rollover is any amount distributed after November 1, 2005, that was rolled over in 2006, but within the 60-day rollover period.

The IRS may waive the 60-day requirement if failing to waive it would be against equity or good conscience, such as situations where a casualty, disaster, or other events beyond your reasonable control prevented you from meeting the 60-day requirement. Also, the 60-day period may be extended if you had a frozen deposit. See Pub. 590 for details.

Note. Do not include a rollover from a traditional or SEP IRA to a qualified employer plan even if it was an outstanding rollover.

Line 7

If you received a distribution in 2005 from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA and you also made contributions for 2005 to a traditional IRA that may not be fully deductible because of the income limits, you must make a special computation before completing the rest of this form. For details, including how to complete Form 8606, see Are Distributions Taxable? in Chapter 1 of Pub. 590.

Do not include any of the following on line 7.

- Distributions that you converted to a Roth IRA.
- Recharacterizations.
- Distributions that you rolled over by December 31, 2005, and any outstanding rollovers included on line 6.
- Distributions you rolled over to a qualified employer plan.
- Distributions that are treated as a return of contributions under Return of IRA Contributions on page 4.
- Distributions that are treated as a return of excess contributions under Return of Excess Traditional IRA Contributions on page 4.
- Distributions of excess contributions due to incorrect rollover information. If an excess contribution in your traditional IRA is the result of a rollover from a qualified retirement plan and the excess occurred because the information the plan was required to give you was incorrect, the distribution of the excess contribution is not taxable. Attach a statement to your return explaining the distribution and include the amount of the distribution on Form 1040, line 15a; Form 1040A, line 11a; or Form 1040NR, line 16a. See Pub. 590 for more details.

- Distributions that are incident to divorce. The transfer of part or all of your traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA to your spouse under a divorce or separation agreement is not taxable to you or your spouse. If this transfer results in a change in the basis of the traditional IRA of either spouse, both spouses must file Form 8606 and show the increase or decrease in the amount of basis on line 2. Attach a statement explaining this adjustment. Include in the statement the character of the amounts in the traditional IRA, such as the amount attributable to nondeductible contributions. Also, include the name and social security number of the other spouse.

Line 8

If, in 2005, you converted any amounts from traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs to a Roth IRA, enter on line 8 the net amount you converted. To figure that amount, subtract from the total amount converted in 2005 any portion that you recharacterized back to traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs in 2005 or 2006 (see Recharacterizations on page 3). Do not take into account related earnings that were transferred with the recharacterized amount or any loss that occurred while the amount was in the Roth IRA. See item 1 under Reporting recharacterizations on page 3 for details.

Line 15

If you were under age 59½ at the time you received distributions from your traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA, there generally is an additional 10% tax on the portion of the distribution that is included in income (25% for a distribution from a SIMPLE IRA during the first 2 years). See the Instructions for Form 1040, line 60.

Part II—2005 Conversions From Traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs to Roth IRAs

Complete Part II if you converted part or all of your traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRAs to a Roth IRA in 2005, excluding any portion you

Limit on number of conversions. If you converted an amount from a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA to a Roth IRA in 2005 and then recharacterized the amount back to a traditional, SEP, or SIMPLE IRA, you cannot reconvert that amount until the later of January 1, 2006, or 30 days after the recharacterization. See Pub. 590 for details.

You cannot convert any amount to Roth IRAs in 2005 if (a) your modified AGI for Roth IRA purposes (see page 2) is more than $100,000 or (b) your filing status is married filing separately and you lived with your spouse at any time in 2005. If you erroneously made a conversion, you must

Line 16

If you did not complete line 8, see the instructions for that line. Then, enter on line 16 the amount you would have entered on line 8 had you completed it.

Line 17

If you did not complete line 11, enter on line 17 the amount from line 2 (or the amount you would have entered on line 2 if you had completed that line) plus any contributions included on line 1 that you made before the conversion.

Part III—Distributions From Roth IRAs

Complete Part III to figure the taxable part, if any, of your 2005 Roth IRA distributions.

Line 19

Do not include on line 19 any of the following.

- Distributions that you rolled over, including distributions made in 2005 and rolled over after December 31, 2005 (outstanding rollovers).
- Recharacterizations.
- Distributions that are a return of contributions under Return of IRA Contributions on page 4.
- Distributions made on or after age 59½ if you made a contribution (including a conversion) for 1998, 1999, or 2000.
- Distributions made upon death or due to disability if you made a contribution (including a conversion) for 1998, 1999, or 2000.
- Distributions that are incident to divorce. The transfer of part or all of your Roth IRA to your spouse under a divorce or separation agreement is not taxable to you or your spouse.

If, after considering the items above, you do not have an amount to enter on line 19, do not complete Part III; your Roth IRA distribution(s) is not taxable. Instead, include your total Roth IRA distribution(s) on Form 1040, line 15a; Form 1040A, line 11a; or Form 1040NR, line 16a.

Line 20

If you had a qualified first-time homebuyer distribution from your Roth IRA and you made a contribution (including a conversion) to a Roth IRA for 1998, 1999, or 2000, enter the amount of your qualified expenses on line 20, but do not enter more than $10,000.

Figure the amount to enter on line 22 as follows.

- If you did not take a Roth IRA distribution before 2005 (other than an amount rolled over or recharacterized or a returned contribution), enter on line 22 the total of all your regular contributions to Roth IRAs for 1998 through 2005 (excluding rollovers and any contributions that you had returned to you), adjusted for any recharacterizations.
- If you did take such a distribution before 2005, use the chart on page 7 to figure the amount to enter.

Basis in Roth IRA Conversions—Line 24

Major Changes to the Instructions for Form 8615

- We revised the net investment income amount (Internal Revenue Code section 1(g)(4)(A)(ii)) in the title and throughout the instructions to reflect the change made by Rev. Proc. 2003-85.
- Throughout the instructions we revised the line references to Form 1040 to reflect the changes made to that form and added line references to the Form 1040NR because IRC Sec. 1(g) applies to nonresident aliens also.
SE:W:CAR:MP:T:I:R
- We moved worksheets for Form 8615, line 5 and the related instructions, from Pub. 929 to the Instructions for Form 8615 because the changes to IRC Sec. 1(h) made by the Jobs and Growth Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2003 (JGTRRA) mean that anyone using this form who has income from qualified dividends and/or capital gains will have to use them. SE:W:CAR:MP:T:I:R
- Under Line 9, Line 15, and Line 17, references to the Tax Rate Schedules and Schedule D have been changed to the Tax Computation Worksheet and the Schedule D Tax Worksheet respectively. Also, the instructions have been revised to reflect changes to the Instructions for Form 1040, Schedule D and the Instructions for Schedule D.
- In the Line 5 Worksheet #3, we revised the “applicable amount” of adjusted gross income under IRC sec. 68(b) and the exemption amount under IRC sec. 151(d) to reflect the changes made by Rev. Proc. 2003.85.

Tax for Children Under Age 14 With Investment Income of More Than $1,600

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

For children under age 14, investment income over $1,600 is taxed at the parent's rate if the parent's rate is higher than the child's. If the child's investment income is more than $1,600, use Form 8615 to figure the child's tax.

Investment Income

For Form 8615, "investment income" includes all taxable income other than earned income as defined on this page. Investment income includes taxable interest, ordinary dividends, capital gains (including capital gain distributions), rents, royalties, etc. It also includes taxable social security benefits, pension and annuity income, and income (other than earned income) received as the beneficiary of a trust.

Who Must File

Form 8615 must be filed for any child who meets the following conditions.

- The child was under age 14 at the end of 2004. A child born on January 1, 1991, is considered to be age 14 at the end of 2004.
- At least one of the child's parents was alive at the end of 2004.
- The child had more than $1,600 of investment income.
- The child is required to file a tax return.

The parent may be able to elect to report the child's interest, ordinary dividends, and capital gain distributions on the parent's return. If the parent makes this election, the child will not have to file a return or Form 8615. However, the federal income tax on the child's income, including qualified dividends and capital gain distributions, may be higher if this election is made. For more details, see Form 8814, Parents' Election To Report Child's Interest and Dividends.

Additional Information

For more details, see Pub. 929, Tax Rules for Children and Dependents.

Incomplete Information for Parent or Other Children

If the parent's taxable income or filing status or the net investment income of the parent's other children is not known by the due date of the child's return, reasonable estimates can be used. Enter "Estimated" next to the appropriate line(s) of Form 8615. When the correct information is available, file Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return.

Instead of using estimates, the child may be able to get an automatic 4-month extension of time to file. For details, see Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time To File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return.

Amended Return

If after the child's return is filed the parent's taxable income changes or the net investment income of any of the parent's other children changes, the child's tax must be refigured using the adjusted amounts. If the child's tax changes, file Form 1040X to correct the child's tax.

Alternative Minimum Tax

A child whose tax is figured on Form 8615 may owe the alternative minimum tax. For details, see Form 6251, Alternative Minimum Tax—Individuals, and its instructions.

which parent had the higher taxable income, see Pub. 929.

If the parents were unmarried, treated as unmarried for federal income tax purposes, or separated by either a divorce or separate maintenance decree, enter the name and SSN of the parent who had custody of the child for most of the year (the custodial parent).

Exceptions. If the custodial parent remarried and filed a joint return with his or her new spouse, enter the name and SSN of the person listed first on the joint return, even if that person is not the child's parent. If the custodial parent and his or her new spouse filed separate returns, enter the name and SSN of the person with the higher taxable income, even if that person is not the child's parent.

If the parents were unmarried but lived together during the year with the child, enter the name and SSN of the parent who had the higher taxable income.

Line 1

If the child had no earned income (defined below), enter the child's adjusted gross income from Form 1040, line 37; Form 1040A, line 22; or Form 1040NR, line 35.

If the child had earned income, use the worksheet on page 2 to figure the amount to enter on line 1. But use Pub. 929 instead of the worksheet to figure the amount to enter on line 1 if the child:

- Files Form 2555 or 2555-EZ (relating to foreign earned income),
- Has a net loss from self-employment, or
- Claims a net operating loss deduction.

Earned income includes wages, tips, and other payments received for personal services performed. Generally, it is the total of the amounts reported on Form 1040, lines 7, 12, and 18; Form 1040A, line 7; or Form 1040NR, lines 8, 13, and 19.

Line Instructions

Lines A and B

If the child's parents were married to each other and filed a joint return, enter the name and social security number (SSN) of the parent who is listed first on the joint return.

If the parents were married but filed separate returns, enter the name and SSN of the parent who had the higher taxable income. If you do not know

Child's Investment Income Worksheet—Line 1

(keep for your records)

1. Enter the amount from the child's Form 1040, line 22; Form 1040A, line 15; or Form 1040NR, line 23, whichever applies . . . . .
2. Enter the child's earned income (defined on page 1) plus any amount from the child's Form 1040, line 33, or Form 1040NR, line 31, whichever applies . . . . .
3. Subtract line 2 from line 1. Enter the result here and on Form 8615, line 1 . . . . .

Line 2

If the child itemized deductions, enter the larger of:

- $1,600 or
- $800 plus the portion of the amount on Schedule A (Form 1040), line 28 (or Form 1040NR, Schedule A, line 17), that is directly connected with the production of the investment income on Form 8615, line 1.

Line 6

If the parent filed a joint return, enter the taxable income shown on that return even if the parent's spouse is not the child's parent.

Line 8

Enter on this line the total of lines 5, 6, and 7. You must determine the amount of net capital gain and qualified dividends included on this line before completing line 9.

Net capital gain. Net capital gain is the smaller of the gain, if any, on Schedule D, line 15, or the gain, if any, on Schedule D, line 16. If Schedule D is not required, it is the amount on line 13 of Form 1040, line 10 of Form 1040A, or line 14 of Form 1040NR.

Qualified dividends. Qualified dividends are those dividends reported on line 9b of Form 1040 or Form 1040A or line 10b of Form 1040NR.

Net capital gain and qualified dividends on line 8. If neither the child nor the parent nor any other child has net capital gain, the net capital gain on line 8 is zero.

If neither the child, nor the parent, nor any other child has qualified dividends, the amount of qualified dividends on line 8 is zero.

If the child, parent, or any other child has net capital gain, figure the amount of net capital gain included on line 8 by adding together the net capital gain amounts included on lines 5, 6, and 7. If the child, parent, or any other child has qualified dividends, figure the amount of qualified dividends included on line 8 by adding together the qualified dividend amounts included on lines 5, 6, and 7. Use the following discussions to find these amounts.

Net capital gain or qualified dividends on line 5. If the child has a net capital gain or qualified dividends, use the appropriate Line 5 Worksheet on this page or page 3 to find the amount of each included on line 5. These worksheets are needed to adjust the child's net capital gain and qualified dividends by the appropriate allocated amount of the child's deductions.

Line 5 Worksheet #1

(keep for your records)

Use this worksheet only if line 2 of the child's Form 8615 is $1,600 and lines 3 and 5 are the same amount.

3. Enter the amount from the child's Form 8615, line 1 . . . . .
4. Divide line 1 by line 3. Enter the result as a decimal (rounded to at least three places). Do not enter more than 1.000 . . . . .
5. Divide line 2 by line 3. Enter the result as a decimal (rounded to at least three places). Do not enter more than 1.000 . . . . .

7. Multiply $1,600 by line 5 . . . . .
8. Qualified dividends on Form 8615, line 5. Subtract line 6 from line 1 (but do not enter less than zero or more than the amount on Form 8615, line 5) . . . . .
9. Net capital gain on Form 8615, line 5. Subtract line 7 from line 2 (but do not enter less than zero or more than the excess of Form 8615, line 5, over line 8 of this worksheet) . . . . .

Find these amounts for each other child as explained under Net capital gain or qualified dividends on line 5 beginning on page 2. (Do not attach the other children's Forms 8615 to the child's return.)

Line 9

Figure the tax using the Tax Table, Tax Computation Worksheet, Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet, Schedule D Tax Worksheet, or Schedule J, whichever applies. Use the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet in the Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040NR instructions to figure the tax if you do not have to use the Schedule D Tax Worksheet or Schedule J (see below) and any of the following apply.

- You received qualified dividends.
- Schedule D, lines 15 and 16, are both more than zero.
- You do not have to file Schedule D and you received capital gain distributions.

Schedule J. If any farm income is included on line 8, the tax may be less if you use Schedule J. If Schedule J was used to figure the tax on the parent's return, see Pub. 929 for details on how to figure the tax.

Schedule D Tax Worksheet. If the child, parent, or another child has to file Schedule D and line 18 or 19 of any Schedule D is more than zero, use the Schedule D Tax Worksheet in the Instructions for Schedule D to figure the tax. See Pub. 929 for details on how to figure the line 9 tax using the Schedule D Tax Worksheet.

Using the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet for line 9 tax. If you use the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet to figure the line 9 tax, complete that worksheet as follows.

1. On line 1, enter the amount from Form 8615, line 8.
2. On line 2, enter the amount of qualified dividends included on Form 8615, line 8. (See the instructions for line 8.)
3. On line 3, enter the amount of the net capital gain included on Form 8615, line 8. (See the instructions for line 8.)
4. Complete line 4 following the worksheet instructions.

5. If you are completing the worksheet in the Form 1040 instructions, enter on line 5 the total of the amounts, if any, on line 4g of all Forms 4952 filed by the child, parent, or any other child.

6. Complete lines 6 through 19 (lines 5 through 17 of the worksheet in the Form 1040A or Form 1040NR instructions) following the worksheet instructions. Use the parent's filing status to complete lines 8, 16, and 18 (lines 6, 14, and 16 of the worksheet in the Form 1040A instructions).

Enter the amount from line 19 of the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet (or line 17 of the worksheet in the Form 1040A or Form 1040NR instructions) on Form 8615, line 9, and check the box on that line. Do not attach this worksheet to the child's return.

Line 10

If the parent filed a joint return, enter the tax shown on that return even if the parent's spouse is not the child's parent.

Line 15

Figure the tax using the Tax Table, Tax Computation Worksheet, Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet, Schedule D Tax Worksheet, or Schedule J, whichever applies. If line 14 includes any net capital gain or qualified dividends (see below), use the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet to figure this tax. However, if the child has to file Schedule D and line 18 or line 19 of the child's Schedule D is more than zero, use the Schedule D Tax Worksheet to figure this tax instead. See Pub. 929 for details on how to figure the line 15 tax using the Schedule D Tax Worksheet.

Before using the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet to figure the line 15 tax, you will need to know the amount of net capital gain and qualified dividends, if any, included on line 14.

Net capital gain and qualified dividends on line 14. If the child does not have any net capital gain or qualified dividends, line 14 does not include any net capital gain or qualified dividends.

If the child has net capital gain, the amount of net capital gain included on line 14 is the amount from line 2 of the child's completed Line 5 Worksheet minus the amount from the last line of that worksheet.

If the child has qualified dividends, the amount of qualified dividends included on line 14 is the amount from line 1 of the child's completed Line 5 Worksheet minus the amount from the next to the last line of that worksheet.

Using the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet for line 15 tax. If you use the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet to figure the line 15 tax, complete that worksheet as follows.

1. On line 1, enter the amount from Form 8615, line 14.
2. On line 2, enter the amount of the qualified dividends included on Form 8615, line 14. (See Net capital gain and qualified dividends on line 14 on page 3.)
3. On line 3, enter the amount of the net capital gain included on Form 8615, line 14. (See Net capital gain and qualified dividends on line 14 on page 3.)
4. Complete line 4 following the worksheet instructions.
5. If you are completing the worksheet in the Form 1040 instructions, leave line 5 blank.
6. Complete lines 6 through 19 (lines 5 through 17 of the worksheet in the Form 1040A or Form 1040NR instructions) following the worksheet instructions. Use the child's filing status to complete lines 8, 16, and 18 of the worksheet for Form 1040 (lines 6, 14, and 16 of the worksheet for Form 1040A or Form 1040NR).

Enter the amount from line 19 of this Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet (line 17 of the worksheet in the Form 1040A or Form 1040NR instructions) on line 15 of Form 8615 and check the box on that line. Do not attach this worksheet to the child's return.

Using Schedule J for line 15 tax. If line 14 includes any farm income, the tax may be less if you use Schedule J. See Pub. 929 for details on how to figure the line 15 tax using Schedule J.

Line 17

Figure the tax using the Tax Table, Tax Computation Worksheet, Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet, Schedule D Tax Worksheet, or Schedule J, whichever applies. If line 4 includes any qualified dividends or net capital gain, use the Qualified Dividends and Capital Gain Tax Worksheet to figure the tax unless the Schedule D Tax Worksheet has to be used instead. If any farm income is included on line 4, the tax may be less if you use Schedule J.

Justification Statement

A pending Treasury Regulation will provide an opportunity for U.S. taxpayers who are shareholders in passive foreign investment companies (PFICs) to make an election (more specifically, a late purging election under section 1298(b)(1) that is made after the time prescribed in Regulations section 1.1298-3(c)(4) or Temporary Regulations section 1.1297-3T(c)(4) has elapsed) that will include a one-time payment to afford retroactive relief and avoid future tax liability. Taxpayers will use Form 8621-A to elect treatment under the pending Treasury Regulations.

Taxpayers' requests for retroactive elections will be sent to the Ogden Service Center. Because the retroactive elections generally will be for tax years with closed statutes, most taxpayers requesting retroactive relief will be required to enter into a closing agreement (page 3 of Form 8621-A) to pay the tax and interest that would have been due if the tax years were still open. There are no numbers available on the number of PFICs that exist, nor on the number of shareholders who might take advantage of this relief. It is estimated that approximately 1,000 elections will be filed in the first year that this relief is available. The number of requests for retroactive relief would decrease after the first or second year it is available.

Return by a Shareholder Making Certain Late Elections To End Treatment as a Passive Foreign Investment Company

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

A U.S. person that is a direct or indirect shareholder of a former Passive Foreign Investment Company (PFIC) or a Section 1297(e) PFIC is treated for tax purposes as holding stock in a PFIC and therefore continues to be subject to taxation under section 1291 unless the shareholder makes a purging election under section 1298(b)(1).

A purging election under section 1298(b)(1) is:

- A deemed dividend election or a deemed sale election made with respect to a former PFIC under the rules of Regulations section 1.1298-3(c) or
- A deemed dividend election or a deemed sale election made with respect to a Section 1297(e) PFIC under the rules of Temporary Regulations section 1.1297-3T(e).

A timely filed purging election is made on Form 8621. This Form 8621-A is used only to make a late purging election under section 1298(b)(1).

A late purging election is a purging election under section 1298(b)(1) that is made:

- In the case of a shareholder of a former PFIC, after 3 years from the due date, as extended, of the tax return for the taxable year that includes the termination date, or
- In the case of a shareholder of a section 1297(e) PFIC, after 3 years from the due date, as extended, of the tax return for the taxable year that includes the CFC qualification date.

See Regulations section 1.1298-3(e) or Temporary Regulations section 1.1297-3T(e) for more details.

Generally, the amount due with respect to a late purging election is computed in the same manner as if the purging election had been timely filed. However, the taxpayer must also pay interest on the amount due determined for the period beginning on the due date (without extensions) for the taxpayer's income tax return for the election year and ending on the date the late purging election is filed with the IRS. See the instructions for Part I on page 2 for details.

How to Complete Form 8621-A

The shareholder makes the applicable election in Part I of the form. The shareholder then provides basic information about the election in Part II or Part III of the form and computes the tax and interest due in Part IV of the form.

If the election year (defined below) is a closed taxable year, the taxpayer must enter into a closing agreement (page 3 of the form) to agree to eliminate any prejudice to the interests of the U.S. government as a consequence of the taxpayer's inability to file an amended return for the election year.

A separate Form 8621-A must be filed for each PFIC for which a late purging election is being made. See Chain of ownership below for specific filing requirements.

Chain of ownership. If the shareholder owns one PFIC and through that PFIC owns one or more other PFICs, the shareholder must file a separate Form 8621-A for each Section 1297(e) PFIC or former PFIC in the chain for which a late purging election is made. File these Forms 8621-A together.

Where to File

File Form 8621-A with:

Internal Revenue Service
DP 8621-A
Ogden, UT 84201

Filing Checksheet

Be sure to:

- Check the applicable box in Part I of the form that corresponds to the election you are making.
- Complete the applicable lines in Part II or III of the form (along with any required attachments requested on any of those lines) as requested at the end of the election description in Part I of the form.
- Complete Part IV of the form along with any required attachments requested on any of the lines in that Part IV.
- Sign and date the form in the spaces provided at the bottom of page 2 of the form.

- If the election year is a closed taxable year, file page 3 in duplicate. Both of the page 3 submissions must contain original signatures. See Closing Agreement below for details.
- Complete the balance sheet on page 4, if applicable (i.e., if required by line 4 or line 8 of the form).
- Make your check or money order payable to the "United States Treasury." Include your identifying number and "Form 8621-A" on your payment.
- Enclose the check in the mailing envelope, but do not attach it to Form 8621-A.
- Keep a copy of the form for your records.

Definitions

Controlled Foreign Corporation (CFC)

See section 957(a) for definition.

CFC Overlap Rules

A 10% U.S. shareholder (defined in section 951(b)) of a CFC that is also a PFIC that includes in income its pro rata share of subpart F income of the CFC generally will not be subject to the PFIC provisions for the same stock during the qualified portion of the shareholder's holding period of the stock in the PFIC. This exception does not apply to option holders. For more information, see section 1297(e).

Note. The attribution rules of section 1298(a)(2)(b) will continue to apply even if the foreign corporation is not a PFIC under the CFC overlap rule.

Qualified portion of holding period.

For purposes of section 1297(e), the qualified portion of the shareholder's holding period in a corporation is the portion of the shareholder's holding period:

- That is after December 31, 1997, and
- During which the shareholder is a U.S. shareholder under section 951(b) and the corporation is a CFC.

CFC Qualification Date. The CFC qualification date is the first day on which the qualified portion of the shareholder's holding period in the Section 1297(e) PFIC begins, as determined under section 1297(e).

Section 1297(e) PFIC. A foreign corporation is a Section 1297(e) PFIC with respect to a shareholder if:

1. The foreign corporation qualifies as a PFIC under section 1297(a) on the first day on which the qualified portion of the shareholder's holding period in the foreign corporation begins, as determined under section 1297(e)(2) (CFC overlap rule) and

2. The stock of the foreign corporation held by the shareholder is treated as stock of a PFIC, under section 1298(b)(1), because, at any time during the shareholder's holding period of the stock, other than the qualified portion, the corporation was a PFIC that was not a QEF.

Election Year

- In the case of a Former PFIC, the election year is the taxable year of the electing shareholder that includes the termination date.
- In the case of a Section 1297(e) PFIC, the election year is the taxable year of the electing shareholder and includes the CFC qualification date.

Former PFIC

A foreign corporation is a former PFIC with respect to the shareholder if the corporation satisfies neither the income test nor the asset test (described under the definition of PFIC below), but whose stock, held by that shareholder, is treated as stock of a PFIC, under section 1297(b)(1), because at any time during the shareholder's holding period of the stock the corporation was a PFIC (under the income or asset test of section 1297(a) described below) that was not a qualified electing fund (QEF).

Indirect shareholder

Generally, a U.S. person is an indirect shareholder of a Section 1297(e) PFIC or a former PFIC if it is:

1. A direct or indirect owner of a pass-through entity that is a direct or indirect shareholder of a Section 1297(e) PFIC or a former PFIC,
2. A shareholder of a PFIC that is a shareholder of a Section 1297(e) PFIC, or a former PFIC, or
3. A 50%-or-more shareholder of a foreign corporation that is not a PFIC and that directly or indirectly owns stock of a Section 1297(e) PFIC or a former PFIC.

Passive Foreign Investment Company (PFIC)

A foreign corporation is a PFIC if it meets either the income or asset test described below.

1. Income test. 75% or more of the corporation's gross income for its taxable year is passive income (as defined in section 1297(b)).
2. Asset test. At least 50% of the average percentage of assets (determined under section 1207(f)) held by the foreign corporation during the taxable year are assets that produce passive income or that are held for the production of passive income.

Basis for measuring assets. When determining PFIC status using the asset test, a foreign corporation may use adjusted basis if:

1. The corporation is not publicly traded for the taxable year and
2. The corporation (a) is a CFC or (b) makes an election to use adjusted basis.

Publicly traded corporations must use fair market value when determining PFIC status using the asset test.

Look-thru rule. When determining if a foreign corporation that owns at least 25% (by value) of another corporation is a PFIC, the foreign corporation is treated as if it held a proportionate share of the assets and received directly its proportionate share of the income of the 25%-or-more owned corporation.

Qualified Electing Fund (QEF)

A PFIC is a QEF if the U.S. person who is a direct or indirect shareholder of the PFIC elects (under section 1298) to treat the PFIC as a QEF. See the instructions for Form 8621 for more information.

Shareholder

A shareholder is a U.S. person that is a direct or indirect shareholder of the foreign corporation. See Indirect shareholder above for definition.

Termination date

The termination date is the last day of the last taxable year of the foreign corporation during which it qualified as a PFIC under section 1297(a).

Part I. Elections

A. Late Deemed Dividend Election With Respect to a Former PFIC

This is a deemed dividend election under section 1.298(b)(1) that is made with respect to a former PFIC after the time prescribed in Regulations section 1.1298-3(c)(4) has elapsed.

Who May Make the Election

This election may be made by a U.S. person that is a shareholder of a foreign corporation that is a former PFIC provided the foreign corporation was a CFC during the last taxable year as a PFIC.

Effect of Election

A shareholder making this election is treated as receiving a dividend of its pro rata share of the post-1986 earnings and profits of the former PFIC on the termination date. The deemed dividend is taxed under section 1291 as an excess distribution, allocated only to the days in the shareholder's holding period during which the foreign corporation qualified as a PFIC. For this purpose, the shareholder's holding period ends on the termination date.

Special Rules

For purposes of this election, the following apply.

- The basis of the shareholder's stock is increased by the amount of the deemed dividend. The manner in which the basis adjustment is made depends on whether the shareholder is a direct or indirect shareholder. See Regulations section 1.1298-3(c)(6).
- The shareholder's holding period (solely for purposes of applying the PFIC rules after the deemed dividend election) begins on the day following the termination date.
- The term "post-1986 earnings and profits" means the undistributed earnings and profits of the PFIC (as of the close of the taxable year that includes the termination date without reduction for dividends distributed during the taxable year) accumulated in tax years beginning after 1986 during which the CFC was a PFIC and while the shareholder held the stock.

Attachments

The shareholder must attach a statement to Form 8621-A that shows the calculation of its pro rata share of the post-1986 earnings and profits of the former PFIC that is treated as distributed to the shareholder on the termination date. The post-1986 earnings and profits may be reduced (but not below zero) by the amount that the shareholder satisfactorily shows was previously included in its income or in the income of another U.S. person. The shareholder shows this by including in the statement mentioned above the following information:

- The name, address, and identifying number of the U.S. person and the amount that was included in income;
- The tax year in which the amount was previously included in income;
- The provision of law under which the amount was previously included in income;
- A description of the transaction in which the shareholder acquired the stock of the former PFIC from the other U.S. person; and

- The provision of law under which the shareholder's holding period includes the holding period of the other U.S. person.

For more information on making Election A, see Regulations section 1.1298-3(c).

How To Make the Election

To make this election, check box A in Part I and complete Part II, lines 1, 2, and 3, and Part IV.

B. Late Deemed Sale Election With Respect to a Former PFIC

This is a deemed sale election under section 1298(b)(1) that is made with respect to a former PFIC after the time prescribed in Regulations section 1.1298-3(b)(3) has elapsed.

Who May Make the Election

This election may be made by a U.S. person that is a shareholder of a former PFIC.

Effect of Election

A shareholder making this election is deemed to have sold the former PFIC stock on the termination date for its fair market value. The gain from the deemed sale is taxed under section 1291 as an excess distribution received on the termination date.

Special Rules

For purposes of this election, the following apply.

- The basis of the shareholder's stock is increased by the gain recognized on the deemed sale. The manner in which the basis adjustment is made depends on whether the shareholder is a direct or indirect shareholder. See Regulations section 1.1298-3(b)(5).
- For purposes of the PFIC rules only, the shareholder's new holding period of the stock begins on the day following the termination date.
- The election may be made for stock on which the shareholder will realize a loss, but that loss cannot be recognized. In addition, there is no basis adjustment for a loss.
- After the deemed sale, the shareholder stock is not treated as stock in a PFIC.

How to Make the Election

To make this election, check box B in Part I and complete Part II, lines 1, 2, and 4, and Part IV. For more information regarding making Election B, see Regulations section 1.1298-3(e).

C. Late Deemed Dividend Election With Respect To a Section 1297(e) PFIC

This is a deemed dividend election under section 1298(b)(1) that is made by a shareholder (as defined on page 1) with respect to a Section 1297(e) PFIC that is also a CFC after the time prescribed in Temporary Regulations section 1.1297-3T(c)(4) has elapsed.

Who May Make the Election

The election may be made by a shareholder of a foreign corporation that is a Section 1297(e) PFIC with respect to that shareholder.

Effect of Election

A shareholder making this election is treated as receiving a dividend of its pro rata share of the post-1986 earnings and profits of the Section 1297(e) PFIC on the CFC qualification date. The deemed dividend is taxed under section 1291 as an excess distribution, allocated only to the days in the shareholder's holding period during which the foreign corporation qualified as a PFIC. For this purpose, the shareholder's holding period ends on the day before the CFC qualification date.

Special Rules

For the purpose of this election the following apply:

- The basis of the shareholder's stock is increased by the amount of the deemed dividend. The manner in which the basis adjustment is made depends on whether the shareholder is a direct or indirect shareholder. See Temporary Regulations section 1.1297-3T(c)(6).
- The shareholder's holding period (solely for purposes of applying the PFIC rules after the deemed dividend election) begins on the CFC qualification date.
- The term "post-1986 earnings and profits" means the undistributed earnings and profits of the PFIC (as of the day before the CFC qualification date) accumulated in taxable years beginning after 1986 during which the CFC was a PFIC and while the shareholder held the stock.

Attachments

The shareholder must attach a statement to Form 8621-A that shows the calculation of its pro rata share of the post-1986 earnings and profits of the Section 1297(e) PFIC that is treated as distributed to the shareholder on the CFC qualification date. The post-1986 earnings and profits may be reduced (but not below zero) by the amount that the shareholder satisfactorily shows was previously included in its income or in the income of another U.S. person. - The name, address, and identifying number of the U.S. person and the amount that was included in income;
- The tax year in which the amount was previously included in income;
- A description of the transaction in which the shareholder acquired the stock

Who May Make the Election

This election may be made by a U.S. person that is a shareholder of a foreign corporation that is a Section 1297(e) PFIC with respect to such shareholder.

Effect of Election

Part IV. Computation of Tax and Interest Due

Line 9a

Enter the amount treated as an excess distribution under the deemed dividend or deemed sale election. This amount is:

- In the case of a former PFIC making a deemed dividend election, the amount on line 3 of Part II.
- In the case of a former PFIC making a deemed sale election, the amount on line 4 of Part II.
- In the case of a Section 1297(e) PFIC making a deemed dividend, the amount on line 7 of Part III.
- In the case of a Section 1297(e) PFIC making a deemed sale election, the amount on line 8 of Part III.

Lines 9b and 10

Determine the allocation of the excess distribution to all applicable taxable years on a separate sheet and attach it to Form 8621-A. Divide the amount on line 9a by the number of days in your holding period. The holding period of the stock is treated as ending on:

- The termination date, in the case of a former PFIC making a deemed sale or deemed dividend election;
- The CFC qualification date, in the case of a Section 1297(e) PFIC making a deemed sale election; and
- The day before the CFC qualification date, in the case of a Section 1297(e) PFIC making a deemed dividend election.

Determine the amount allocable to each tax year in your holding period by adding the amounts allocated to the days in each such tax year. Add the amounts allocated to the tax years before the foreign corporation became a PFIC (pre-PFIC years) and amounts allocated to the election year. Enter the sum on line 10.

Line 14

Determine the increase in tax for each tax year in your holding period (other than the election year and pre-PFIC years). An increase in tax is determined for each PFIC year by multiplying the part of the distribution or disposition allocated to each year (as determined following the instructions for line 10) by the highest rate of tax under section 1 or section 11, whichever applies, in effect for that tax year. Add the increases in tax computed for all years. Enter the aggregate increases in tax (before credits) on line 14.

Line 15

To figure the foreign tax credit, figure the total creditable foreign taxes attributable to the excess distribution (line 9a) amount. This amount includes, for 10% or greater corporate shareholders, any taxes deemed paid under section 902. Both the direct and indirect foreign taxes must be creditable under general foreign tax credit principles and the shareholder must choose to claim the foreign tax credit.

The excess distribution taxes (the creditable foreign taxes attributable to an excess distribution) are allocated in the same manner as the excess distribution is allocated. See instructions for lines 10 and 14. Those taxes allocated to pre-PFIC tax years and the election year are taken into account for the election year under the general rules of the foreign tax credit.

The excess distribution taxes allocated to a PFIC year only reduce the increase in tax figured for that tax year (but not below zero). No carryover of any unused excess distribution taxes is allowed.

When you dispose of PFIC stock, the above foreign tax credit rules apply only to the part of the gain that, without regard to section 1291, would be treated under section 1248 as a dividend.

Line 16

This amount is the aggregate increases in taxes on the excess distribution within the meaning of section 1291(c)(2).

Line 17

Compute the interest on each net increase in tax for the period beginning on the due date (without regard to extensions) of your income tax return for the tax year to which an increase in tax is attributable and ending with the due date (without regard to extensions) of your income tax return for the election year.

Attach a schedule that shows the computation of interest on each net increase in tax.

Lines 18 and 19

The line 18 subtotal represents all amounts due as of the due date (without regard to extensions) of the shareholder's income tax return for the election year. The shareholder making the late deemed dividend or late deemed sale election must pay additional interest on the amount on line 18 from the due date (without regard to extensions) of its income tax return for the election year up to and including the date the Form 8621-A and payment are filed with the IRS. Include this interest amount on line 19.

Closing Agreement

If the election year is a closed taxable year, file page 3 of the form in duplicate.

Both of the page 3 submissions must contain original signatures. Photocopies of signatures are not acceptable. Page 3 of the actual form you file is the IRS copy. The photocopy of page 3 that you send in with the 4-page form is the taxpayer copy. Write "Taxpayer Copy" in the upper margin of this copy. File the taxpayer copy as the first attachment after the 4-page form. The taxpayer copy will be returned to you after an authorized IRS official has signed it.

Closing Agreement on Final Determination Covering Specific Matters► File Page 3 in Duplicate (see instructions).

Name of shareholder _____

Identifying number (see instructions) _____

Under section 7121 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended ("the Code"), the shareholder filing this Form 8621-A ("Shareholder"), and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue ("Commissioner") hereby make the following closing agreement ("Closing Agreement").

WHEREAS, Shareholder is requesting consent to make the election specified in Part I of this Form 8621-A with respect to the PFIC specified on page 1 of this Form 8621-A ("Corporation");

WHEREAS, Shareholder has completed ALL of the applicable information requested on pages 1 and 2 of this Form 8621-A, which is incorporated into this closing agreement by reference.

WHEREAS, under Regulations section 1.1298-3(e)(1) and Temporary Regulations section 1.1297-3T(e)(1), the Commissioner may grant consent to make a late purging election if (1) Shareholder requests consent to make such election before a representative of the Internal Revenue Service raises upon audit the PFIC status of the foreign corporation for any taxable year of Shareholder; (2) Shareholder has agreed in a closing agreement with the Commissioner to eliminate any prejudice to the interests of the U.S. Government as a consequence of Shareholder's inability to file amended returns for the taxable year in which the CFC qualification date or termination date, as applicable, falls, or an earlier closed taxable year in which Shareholder has taken a position that is inconsistent with the treatment of the Corporation as a PFIC; and (3) Shareholder satisfies the procedural requirements set forth in Regulations section 1.1298-3(e)(3).

WHEREAS, Regulations section 1.1298-3(e)(2) and Temporary Regulations section 1.1297-3(e)(2) provide that the interests of the U.S. Government are prejudiced if granting relief would result in Shareholder having a lower tax liability (other than by a de minimis amount), taking into account applicable interest charges, for the taxable year that includes the CFC qualification date or termination date, as applicable (or a prior taxable year in which Shareholder took a position on a return that was inconsistent with the treatment of the Corporation as a PFIC), than Shareholder would have had if Shareholder had properly made the section 1298(b)(1) election in the time prescribed in Regulations section 1.1298-3(b)(2) or (c)(3) or had not taken a position in a return for an earlier year that was inconsistent with the status of the Corporation as a PFIC;

THEREFORE, based on the material submitted by Shareholder in connection with this Closing Agreement, and in the absence of other material factual or legal circumstances concerning the events described above, it is determined and agreed for federal income tax purposes that—

1. The Commissioner grants Shareholder permission to make the election specified in Part I of this Form 8621-A with respect to Corporation.

2. If Shareholder had made a timely election for the Election Year for Corporation, it would have had an increase in tax for the Election Year in the amounts shown in Part IV of this Form 8621-A. Therefore, the payment of the amount shown on line 21 of this Form 8621-A is sufficient to eliminate any prejudice to the interest of the U.S. Government as a result of Taxpayer's inability to file a return for the Election Year, a closed taxable year.

3. Shareholder's basis in the stock of Corporation will be increased by the amount of the gain resulting from the deemed sale election shown on line 4 or line 8 of this Form 8621-A or the amount of the deemed dividend resulting from the deemed dividend election shown on line 3 or line 7 of this Form 8621-A.

4. This Closing Agreement constitutes a resolution under the Code of the specific matters discussed herein. No inference shall be made with respect to whether this resolution satisfies other federal law.

NOW THIS CLOSING AGREEMENT WITNESSETH, that Shareholder and the Commissioner hereby mutually agree to the determinations set forth above and further mutually agree that those determinations shall be final and conclusive, subject, however, to reopening in the event of fraud, malfeasance, or misrepresentation of material fact, and provided that any change or modification of applicable statutes or tax conventions shall render this Closing Agreement ineffective to the extent that it is dependent upon such statutes or tax conventions.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, by signing the foregoing, the above parties signify that they have read and agreed to the terms of this document.

Instructions for Form 8697

(Rev. August 2005)

Department of the Treasury
Internal Revenue Service

(Use with the November 2002 revision of Form 8697)

Interest Computation Under the Look-Back Method for Completed Long-Term Contracts

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

What's New

- The tax rates used for the interest computation have changed. See the instructions for Line 2 on page 5.
- The address for mailing comments or suggestions on this form has changed. See Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice on page 6.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8697 to figure the interest due or to be refunded under the look-back method of section 460(b)(2) on certain long-term contracts that are accounted for under either the percentage of completion method or the percentage of completion-capitalized cost method. For guidance concerning these methods, see Notice 89-15, 1989-1 C.B. 634. For details and computational examples illustrating the use of the look-back method, see Regulations section 1.460.

Who Must File

General Rule

You must file Form 8697 for each tax year in which you completed a long-term contract entered into after February 28, 1986, that you accounted for using either the percentage of completion method or the percentage of completion-capitalized cost method for Federal income tax purposes. You also must file Form 8697 for any tax year in which the contract price or contract costs are adjusted for one or more of these long-term contracts from a prior year.

Pass-Through Entities

A pass-through entity (partnership, S corporation, or trust) that is not closely held must apply the look-back method at the entity level to any contract for which at least 95% of the gross income is from U.S. sources. A pass-through entity is considered closely held if, at any time during any tax year for which there is income under the contract, 50% or more (by value) of the beneficial interests in the entity is held (directly or indirectly) by or for five or fewer persons. For this purpose, rules similar to the constructive ownership rules of section 1563(e) apply.

If you are an owner of an interest in a pass-through entity for every year in which a long-term contract was being accounted for under the percentage of completion method or the percentage of completion-capitalized cost method and the pass-through entity is not subject to the look-back method at the entity level, you must file this form for your tax year that ends with or includes the end of the entity's tax year in which the contract was completed or adjusted. The pass-through entity will provide the information you need to complete this form on Schedule K-1.

Change of Taxpayer

If the taxpayer reporting income from a long-term contract changes prior to the year of completion of the contract, the taxpayer as of the date of completion will be responsible for the payment of interest, if any, due from any year in which the contract was being accounted for under either the percentage of completion method or the percentage of completion-capitalized cost method. Generally, only the taxpayer that had accounted for a long-term contract in a year that an overpayment occurred may request a refund of interest on the overpayment.

Exception for Certain Construction Contracts

The look-back method does not apply to the regular taxable income from:

- Any home construction contract (as defined in section 460(e)(6)(A)) or
- Any other construction contract entered into by a taxpayer: (a) who estimates the contract will be completed within 2 years from the date the contract begins and (b) whose average annual gross receipts for the 3 tax years preceding the tax year in which the contract is entered into do not exceed $10 million. See section 460(e).

However, the look-back method does apply to the alternative minimum taxable income from any such contract that must be accounted for using the percentage of completion method for alternative minimum tax purposes. See section 56(a)(3) for details.

Small Contract Exception

The look-back method does not apply to any contract completed within 2 years of the contract start date if the gross price of the contract (as of contract completion) does not exceed the smaller of:

- $1 million or
- 1% of the taxpayer's average annual gross receipts for the 3 tax years before the tax year of contract completion.

See section 460(b)(3)(B) for details.

De Minimis Exception

You may elect not to apply the look-back method in certain de minimis cases for contracts completed in tax years ending after August 5, 1997. The look-back method does not apply in the following cases if the election is made.

1. In the completion year if, for each prior contract year, the cumulative taxable income (or loss) actually reported under the contract is within 10% of the cumulative look-back income (or loss). Cumulative look-back income (or loss) is the amount of taxable income (or loss) that you would have reported if you had used actual contract price and costs instead of estimated contract price and costs.

2. In a post-completion year if, as of the close of the post-completion year, the cumulative taxable income (or loss) under the contract is within 10% of the cumulative look-back income (or loss) under the contract as of the close of the most recent year in which the look-back method was applied to the contract (or would have been applied if the election had not been made).

For purposes of item 2, discounting under section 460(b)(2) does not apply.

To make the election, attach a statement to your timely filed income tax return (determined with extensions) for the first tax year of the election. Write at the top of the statement "NOTIFICATION OF ELECTION UNDER SECTION 460(b)(6)." Include on the statement your name, identifying number, and the effective date of the election. Also identify the trades or businesses that involve long-term contracts. Once made, the election applies to all contracts completed during the election year and all later tax years, and may not be revoked without IRS consent. See Regulations section 1.460-6(j) for more details. If you timely filed your return without making the election, you may make the election on an amended return filed no later than 6 months after the due date of your tax return (excluding extensions). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100" at the top of the amended return.

Filing Instructions

If You Owe Interest (or No Interest Is To Be Refunded to You)

Attach Form 8697 to your income tax return. Neither you nor any paid preparer is required to complete the Signature section of Form 8697.

For taxpayers other than partnerships (that are not electing large partnerships), include any interest due in the amount to be entered for total tax (after credits and other taxes) on your return (e.g., 2002 Form 1040, line 61; 2002 Form 1120, Schedule J, line 11, etc.). Write on the dotted line to the left of the entry space "From Form 8697" and the amount of interest due.

For partnerships (other than electing large partnerships), write "From Form 8697" and any interest due in the bottom margin of the tax return and attach a check or money order for the full amount payable to "United States Treasury." Write the partnership's employer identification number (EIN), daytime phone number, and "Form 8697 Interest" on the check or money order.

If Interest Is To Be Refunded to You

Do not attach Form 8697 to your income tax return. Instead, file Form 8697 separately with the IRS at the applicable address listed below.

- Individuals:
Philadelphia, PA 19255-0001
- All others:
Cincinnati, OH 45999-0001

Complete the Signature section of Form 8697 following the instructions for the Signature section of your income tax return. If additional Forms 8697 are needed (to show more than 3 prior tax years), sign only the first Form 8697.

File Form 8697 by the date you are required to file your income tax return (including extensions). Keep a copy of Form 8697 and any attached schedules for your records.

Filing a Corrected Form 8697

You must file a corrected Form 8697 only if the amount shown on Part I, line 6, or Part II, line 7, for any prior year changes as a result of an error you made, an income tax examination, or the filing of an amended tax return.

When completing Part I, line 1, of the corrected Form 8697, follow the instructions on the form but do not enter the adjusted taxable income from Part I, line 3, of the original Form 8697. When completing Part I, line 5 (or Part II, line 6), of the corrected Form 8697, do not include the interest due, if any, from Part I, line 10 (or Part II, line 11), of the original Form 8697 that was included in your total tax when Form 8697 was filed with your tax return.

- If both the original and corrected Forms 8697 show an amount on the line for interest you owe, file an amended income tax return.
- If both the original and corrected Forms 8697 show an amount on the line for interest to be refunded to you, write "Amended" in the top margin of the corrected Form 8697, and file it separately.
- If your original Form 8697 shows an amount on the line for interest you owe and the corrected Form 8697 shows an amount on the line for interest to be refunded to you, you must:

1. File an amended income tax return showing $0 interest from Form 8697 and
  2. File the corrected Form 8697 separately (but do not write "Amended" at the top of the form because this is the first Form 8697 that you will file separately).
- If the original Form 8697 shows an amount on the line for interest to be refunded to you and the corrected Form 8697 shows an amount on the line for interest you owe, you must:

1. File the corrected Form 8697 separately (with "Amended" written at the top) showing $0 interest to be refunded and
2. File an amended income tax return and attach a copy of the corrected Form 8697.

Attachments

If you need more space, attach separate sheets to the back of Form

8697. Put your name and identifying number on each sheet.

Applying the Look-Back Method Under Special Situations

10% Method

For purposes of the percentage of completion method, a taxpayer may elect to postpone recognition of income and expense under a long-term contract entered into after July 10, 1989, until the first tax year as of the end of which at least 10% of the estimated total contract costs have been incurred. For purposes of the look-back method, the recognition of income and expense must be postponed for such contracts until the first tax year as of the end of which at least 10% of the actual total contract costs have been incurred. Therefore, income and expense will be allocated to a different tax year if the first tax year that the 10% threshold is exceeded based on actual costs differs from the first tax year that the 10% threshold is exceeded based on estimated costs. The election to use the 10% method applies to all long-term contracts entered into during the tax year for which the election is made and all later years. See section 460(b)(5) for more details.

Change Orders

A change order for a contract is not treated as a separate contract for purposes of applying the look-back method unless the change order would be treated as a separate contract under the rules for severing and aggregating contracts provided in Regulations section 1.460-1(e). Therefore, if a change order is not treated as a separate contract, that portion of the actual contract price and contract costs attributable to the change order must be taken into account in allocating contract income to all tax years of the contract, including tax years before the change order was agreed to.

Post-Completion Adjustments

General Rule

If the contract price or costs are revised to reflect amounts properly taken into account after the contract completion date for any reason, you must apply the look-back method in the year such amounts are properly taken into account, even if no other contract is completed in that year. Generally, the amount of each such post-completion adjustment to total contract price or contract costs is discounted, solely for look-back purposes, from its value at the time the amount is taken into account in computing taxable income to its value at the time the contract was completed. The discount rate for this purpose is the Federal mid-term rate under section 1274(d) in effect at the time the amount is properly taken into account.

However, you may elect not to discount post-completion adjustments for any contract. To make this election, attach a statement to your timely filed income tax return (determined with extensions) for the first tax year after completion in which you take into account any adjustment to the contract price or contract costs. Indicate on the statement that you are making an election not to discount post-completion adjustments under Regulations section 1.460-6(c)(1)(ii)(C)(2) and identify the contracts to which the election applies. Once made, the election is binding for all post-completion adjustments that apply to a contract under an election.

Delayed Reapplication Method

For purposes of reapplying the look-back method after the year of contract completion, you may elect the delayed reapplication method. Under this method, the look-back method is reapplied after the contract completion year (or after a later reapplication of the look-back method) only when one of the following conditions is met for that contract:

1. The net undiscounted value of increases or decreases in the contract price occurring from the time of the last application of the look-back method exceeds the smaller of $1 million or 10% of the total contract price at that time,
2. The net undiscounted value of increases or decreases in contract costs occurring from the time of the last application of the look-back method exceeds the smaller of $1 million or 10% of the total actual contract costs at that time,
3. The taxpayer goes out of existence,
4. The taxpayer reasonably believes the contract is finally settled and closed, or
5. None of the above conditions (1–4) are met by the end of the 5th tax year that begins after the last previous application of the look-back method.

To elect the delayed reapplication method, attach a statement to your timely filed income tax return (determined with extensions) for the first tax year of the election. Indicate on the statement that you are making an election under Regulations section 1.460-6(e) to use the delayed reapplication method. Once made, the election is binding for all long-term contracts for which you would reapply the look-back method in the absence of the election in the year of the election and all later years, unless the IRS consents to a revocation of the election. See Regulations section 1.460-6(e) for more details.

Specific Instructions

All filers must complete the information at the top of the form above Part I according to the following instructions and complete either Part I or Part II as appropriate. Also sign the form at the bottom of page 2 unless you are filing the form with your tax return.

Filing Year

Fill in the filing year line at the top of the form to show the tax year in which the contracts for which this form is being filed were completed or adjusted. If you were an owner of an interest in a pass-through entity that has completed or adjusted one or more contracts, enter your tax year that ends with or includes the end of the entity's tax year in which the contracts were completed or adjusted.

Name

Enter the name shown on your Federal income tax return for the filing year. If you are an individual filing a joint return, also enter your spouse's name as shown on Form 1040.

Address

Enter your address only if you are filing this form separately. Include the apartment, suite, room, or other unit number after the street address. If the Post Office does not deliver mail to the street address and you have a P.O. box, show the box number instead.

Item A—Identifying Number

If you are an individual, enter your social security number. Other filers must use their EIN.

Part I—Regular Method

Use Part I only if you are not electing, do not have an election in effect, or are not required to use the simplified marginal impact method as described in the instructions for Part II on page 4.

Columns (a), (b), and (c)

Enter at the top of each column the ending month and year for:

- Each prior tax year in which you were required to report income from the completed long-term contract(s) and
- Any other tax year affected by such years.

Note. If there were more than 3 prior tax years, attach additional Forms 8697 as needed. On the additional Forms 8697, enter your name, identifying number, and tax year. Complete lines 1 through 8 (as applicable), but do not enter totals in column (d). Enter totals only in column (d) of the first Form 8697.

Line 1

Do not reduce taxable income or increase a loss on line 1 by any carryback of a net operating loss, capital loss, or net section 1256 contracts loss, except to the extent that carryback resulted from or was adjusted by the redetermination of your income from a long-term contract for look-back purposes.

Line 2

In each column, show a net increase to income as a positive amount and a net decrease to income as a negative amount.

In figuring the net adjustment to be entered in each column on line 2, be sure to take into account any other income and expense adjustments that may result from the increase (or decrease) to income from long-term contracts (e.g., a change to adjusted gross income affecting investment expenses under section 212, medical expenses under section 213, etc.; and the deduction for state income taxes by an accrual basis taxpayer).

Include the following on an attached schedule.

1. Identify each completed long-term contract by contract number, job name, or any other reasonable method used in your records to identify each contract.

2. For each contract, report in columns for each prior year: (a) the amount of income previously reported based on estimated contract price and costs and (b) the amount of income allocable to each prior year based on actual contract price and costs. Total the columns for each prior year and show the net adjustment to income from long-term contracts.

3. Identify any other adjustments that result from a change in income from long-term contracts and show the amounts in the columns for the affected years so that the net adjustment shown in each column on the attached schedule agrees with the amounts shown on line 2.

An owner of an interest in a pass-through entity is not required to provide the detail listed in 1 and 2 above with respect to prior years. The entity should provide the line 2 amounts with Schedule K-1 or on a separate statement for its tax year in which the contracts are completed or adjusted.

Note. Taxpayers reporting line 2 amounts from more than one Schedule K-1 (or a similar statement) must attach a schedule detailing by entity the net change to income from long-term contracts.

Lines 4 and 5

Reduce the tax liability to be entered on lines 4 and 5 by allowable credits (other than refundable credits, e.g., the credit for taxes withheld on wages, the earned income credit, the credit for Federal tax on fuels, etc.), but do not take into account any credit carrybacks to the prior year in computing the amount to enter on lines 4 and 5 (other than carrybacks that resulted from or were adjusted by the redetermination of your income from a long-term contract for look-back purposes). Include on lines 4 and 5 any taxes (such as alternative minimum tax) required to be taken into account in the computation of your tax liability (as originally reported or as redetermined).

Lines 7 and 8

For the increase or decrease in tax for each prior year, interest due or to be refunded must be computed at the applicable interest rate and compounded on a daily basis, generally from the due date (not including extensions) of the return for the prior year until the earlier of:

- The due date (not including extensions) of the return for the filing year or
- The date the return for the filing year is filed and any income tax due for that year has been fully paid.

Exceptions:

- If a net operating loss, capital loss, net section 1256 contracts loss, or credit carryback is being increased or decreased as a result of the adjustment made to net income from long-term contracts, the interest due or to be refunded must be computed on the increase or decrease in tax attributable to the change to the carryback only from the due date (not including extensions) of the return for the prior year that generated the carryback and not from the due date of the return for the year in which the carryback was absorbed. See section 6611(f).
- In the case of a decrease in tax on line 6, if a refund has been allowed for any part of the income tax liability shown on line 5 for any year as a result of a net operating loss, capital loss, net section 1256 contracts loss, or credit carryback to such year, and the amount of the refund exceeds the amount on line 4, interest is allowed on the amount of such excess only until the due date (not including extensions) of the return for the year in which the carryback arose.

Note. If a different method of interest computation must be used to produce the correct result in your case, use that method and attach an explanation of how the interest was computed.

Applicable Interest Rates

Tables of interest factors to compute daily compound interest were published in Rev. Proc. 95-17, 1995-1 C.B. 556. The annual interest rate in effect and the table and corresponding page number in 1995-1 C.B. for periods through September 30, 2005, are shown in the tables on page 5. For periods beginning after September 30, 2005, use the applicable overpayment rate under section 6621(a)(1) in the revenue rulings published quarterly in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

Contracts completed in tax years ending after August 5, 1997. For contracts completed in tax years ending after August 5, 1997, an interest rate is determined for each interest accrual period. The interest accrual period starts on the day after the return due date (not including extensions) for each prior tax year and ends on the return due date for the following tax year. The interest rate in effect for the entire interest accrual period is the overpayment rate determined under section 6621(a)(1) applicable on the first day of the interest accrual period. The applicable interest rates for taxpayers other than corporations are shown in Table 1 (for interest accrual periods beginning through 1994) and Table 2 (for interest accrual periods beginning after 1994). Corporations also use Table 1 for interest accrual periods beginning through 1994. For interest accrual periods beginning after 1994, corporations use Table 3 for the first $10,000, and use Table 4 for the portion (if any) of the increase or decrease in tax exceeding $10,000.

Contracts completed in tax years ending before August 6, 1997. The applicable interest rates for taxpayers other than corporations are shown in Table 1 (for periods through 1994) and Table 2 (for periods after 1994). Corporations use Table 1 for periods through 1994. For periods after 1994, corporations use Table 3 for the first $10,000, and use Table 4 for the portion (if any) of the increase or decrease in tax exceeding $10,000.

Line 9

See If Interest Is To Be Refunded to You on page 2 for where to file Form 8697. Additional interest to be refunded for periods after the due date of the return, if any, will be computed by the IRS and included in your refund. Report the amount on line 9 (or the amount refunded by the IRS if different) as interest income on your income tax return for the tax year in which it is received or accrued.

Line 10

See If You Owe Interest under Filing Instructions on page 1 for how to report this amount on your tax return. Corporations (other than S corporations) may deduct this amount (or the amount computed by the IRS if different) as interest expense for the tax year in which it is paid or incurred. For individuals and other taxpayers, this interest is not deductible.

Part II—Simplified Marginal Impact Method

Part II is used only by pass-through entities required to apply the look-back method at the entity level (see Who Must File on page 1) and taxpayers electing (or with an election in effect) to use the simplified marginal impact method. Under the simplified method, prior year hypothetical underpayments or overpayments in tax are figured using an assumed marginal tax rate, which is generally the highest statutory rate in effect for the prior year under section 1 (for an individual) or section 11 (for a corporation). This method eliminates the need to refigure your tax liability based on actual contract price and actual contract costs each time the look-back method is applied.

To elect the simplified marginal impact method, attach a statement to your timely filed income tax return (determined with extensions) for the first tax year of the election. Indicate on the statement that you are making an election under Regulations section 1.460-6(d) to use the simplified marginal impact method. Once made, the election applies to all applications of the look-back method in the year of the election and all later years, unless the IRS consents to a revocation of the election.

Columns (a), (b), and (c)

Enter at the top of each column the ending month and year for each prior tax year in which you were required to report income from the completed long-term contract.

Note. If there were more than 3 prior tax years, attach additional Forms 8697 as needed. On the additional Forms 8697, enter your name, identifying number, and tax year. Complete lines 1 through 9 (as applicable), but do not enter totals in column (d). Enter totals only in column (d) of the first Form 8697.

Line 1

In each column, show a net increase to income as a positive amount and a net decrease to income as a negative amount.

On an attached schedule:

- Identify each completed long-term contract by contract number, job name, or any other reasonable method used in your records to identify each contract; and
- For each contract, report in columns for each prior year: (a) the amount of income previously reported based on estimated contract price and costs and (b) the amount of income allocable to each prior year based on actual contract price and costs. Total the columns for each prior year and show the net adjustment to income from long-term contracts.

An owner of an interest in a pass-through entity is not required to provide the detail listed in (a) and (b) above for prior years. The entity should provide the line 1 amounts with Schedule K-1 or on a separate statement for its tax year in which the contracts are completed or adjusted.

Note. Taxpayers reporting line 1 amounts from more than one Schedule K-1 (or a similar statement) must attach a schedule detailing by entity the net change to income from long-term contracts.

Line 2

Multiply the amount on line 1 by the applicable regular tax rate for each prior year shown in column (a), (b), or (c). The applicable regular tax rate is as follows:

1. Individuals and pass-through entities in which, at all times during the year, more than 50% of the interests in the entity are held by individuals directly or through other pass-through entities:

a. Tax years beginning before 1987	50%
b. Tax years beginning in 1987	38.5%
c. Tax years beginning in 1988, 1989, or 1990	28%
d. Tax years beginning in 1991 or 1992	31%

e. Tax years beginning in 1993 through 2000	39.6%
f. Tax years beginning in 2001	39.1%
g. Tax years beginning in 2002	38.6%
h. Tax years beginning in 2003 or later	35%

2. Corporations (other than S corporations) and pass-through entities not included in 1 above:

a. Tax years ending before July 1, 1987	46%
b. For tax years beginning before July 1, 1987, that include July 1, 1987, the rate is 34% plus the following:

$$\frac{\text{Number of days in tax year before 7/1/87}}{\text{Number of days in tax year}} \times 12\%$$

c. Tax years beginning after June 30, 1987, and ending before 1993	34%
d. For tax years beginning before 1993 that include January 1, 1993, the rate is 34% plus the following:

$$\frac{\text{Number of days in tax year after 12/31/92}}{\text{Number of days in tax year}} \times 1\%$$

e. Tax years beginning after 1992	35%
-----------------------------------	-----

Line 3

See the instructions for Part II, line 1, on this page and complete line 3 in the same manner, using only income and deductions allowed for alternative minimum tax (AMT) purposes.

Line 4

Multiply the amount on line 3 by the applicable AMT rate, which is as follows:

1. Individuals and pass-through entities in which, at all times during the year, more than 50% of the interests in the entity are held by individuals directly or through other pass-through entities:

a. Tax years beginning in 1987 through 1990	21%
b. Tax years beginning in 1991 or 1992	24%
c. Tax years beginning in 1993 or later	28%

2. Corporations (other than S corporations) and pass-through entities not included in 1 above

Line 5

If both lines 2 and 4 are negative, enter whichever amount is greater. Treat both numbers as positive when making this comparison, but enter the amount as a negative number. (If the amount on one line is negative, but the amount on the other line is positive, enter the positive amount.)

Lines 8 and 9

For the increase (or decrease) in tax for each prior year, interest due or to be refunded must be computed at the applicable interest rate and compounded on a daily basis from the due date (not including extensions) of the return for the prior year until the earlier of:

- The due date (not including extensions) of the return for the filing year or
- The date the return for the filing year is filed and any income tax due for that year has been fully paid.

- Comments: Please email, fax, call, or mail any comments by June 7, 2005.

Major Changes to Form 8818

- Changes have been made to Parts I and II to respond to two changes that have occurred with series EE savings bonds. The Bureau of Public Debt began issuing electronic series EE bonds. Unlike paper series EE bonds electronic series EE bonds are issued at face value. And beginning this year, owners of paper series EE bonds are able to convert them to electronic bonds that do not retain the denomination listed on the paper certificate but are posted at their purchase price (the accrued interest is recorded separately for the bond in the Treasury Direct Account.)
- Part I has been changed to include the term "Paper" in the title to highlight the fact only paper series EE bonds should be entered in this section.
- The phrase "and electronic series EE bonds" has been added in the first sentence of the note (Next) after line 3, in the title in Part II and in the second sentence of line 5.
- The phrase "(must be after 1989)" is added under the title for column (b) of line 4 in Part II. This has been added to reflect the fact series EE bonds could have been issued before 1990 and therefore would not be eligible for the Educational Savings Bond Program.
- There is a note added to the beginning of the "Specific Instructions" section. This statement was moved from the line 1 instructions and now applies to both the line 1 and line 4 instructions.
- Instructions for line 4 have been added to explain what should be entered on this line.
- Revised address for comments and suggestions.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

If you cashed series EE or series I U.S. savings bonds that were issued after 1989 and you paid qualified higher education expenses during the year, you may be able to exclude from income part or all the interest on those bonds.

Use Form 8818 to keep a record of the post-1989 series EE and I bonds you cash. You will need the information on this form to complete Form 8815, Exclusion of Interest From Series EE and I U.S. Savings Bonds Issued After 1989. Form 8815 is used to figure the amount of interest you can exclude from your income when you file your income tax return. The instructions for your tax return will tell you how to take the exclusion.

Use a separate Form 8818 each time you cash series EE or series I bonds issued after 1989. If you choose not to use Form 8818 but intend to exclude the interest from your income, you should keep records that include the information asked for on this form.

Bonds That Qualify for Exclusion

To qualify for the exclusion, the bonds must have been issued after 1989 in your name, or, if you are married, they may be issued in your name and your spouse's name. It does not matter who bought the bonds. Also, you must have been age 24 or older before the bonds were issued. A bond bought by a parent and issued in the name of his or her child who is under age 24 will not qualify for the exclusion by the parent or the child. However, the interest on the bond will be taxed at the child's rate once the child reaches age 14. Prior to reaching age 14, the interest may be taxed at the parent's or the child's rate depending on the total amount of the child's investment income (for example, interest and dividends).

Note. Interest on U.S. savings bonds is exempt from state and local income taxes.

Qualified Higher Education Expenses

Qualified higher education expenses include tuition and fees, but not room and board, required for the enrollment or attendance at a college, university, or vocational school. Qualified expenses also include contributions to a qualified tuition program or to a Coverdell education savings account. The expenses must be for you, your spouse, or your dependent.

Additional Information

For more details about the exclusion, including limits that apply to the amount you may exclude, see Pub. 550, Investment Income and Expenses or Pub. 970, Tax Benefits for Education.

Specific Instructions

Note. Before you cash your series EE bonds, separate the bonds issued after 1989 from the bonds issued before 1990.

Line 1

For each paper series EE bond issued after 1989, enter the correct information for columns (a), (b), and (c) of line 1.

Line 4

For each series I bond and electronic series EE bond issued after 1989, enter the correct information for columns (a), (b), and (c) of line 4. Include post-1989 series EE bonds converted from paper to electronic bonds. Do not include them in Part I.

Line 8

You may be able to exclude this interest from your income. See Form 8815 for details.

Note. Keep Form 8818 for your records. Do not send it to the IRS.

Purpose of Form

Who Must File

An individual, estate, trust, organization, or corporation that elects to claim an orphan drug credit, or any S corporation, partnership, estate, or trust that allocates the credit to its shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries must complete this form and attach it to its income tax return.

Definitions

Qualified clinical testing expenses.

Generally, qualified clinical testing expenses are amounts paid or incurred by the taxpayer that would be described as qualified research expenses under section 41, with two modifications:

- In sections 41(b)(2) and (3), "clinical testing" is substituted for "qualified research" and

- 100% (instead of 65% or 75%) of contract research expenses are treated as clinical testing expenses.

Qualified clinical testing expenses do not include expenses to the extent they are funded by a grant, contract, or otherwise by a governmental entity or another person.

Clinical testing. Generally, clinical testing means any human clinical testing that meets all four of the following conditions.

1. The testing is carried out under an exemption for a drug being tested for a rare disease or condition under section 505(i) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (Act).
2. The testing occurs after the date the drug is designated under Act section 526 and before the date on which an application for the drug is approved under Act section 505(b) (or, if the drug is a biological product, before the date the drug is licensed under section 351 of the Public Health Service Act).
3. The testing is conducted by or for the taxpayer to whom the designation under Act section 526 applies.
4. The testing relates to the use of the drug for the rare disease or condition for which it was designated under Act section 526.

Rare disease or condition. A rare disease or condition is one which afflicts:

- 200,000 or fewer persons in the United States or
- More than 200,000 persons in the United States, but for which there is no reasonable expectation of recovering the cost of developing and making available a drug in the United States for the disease from sales of the drug in the United States.

The above determinations are made as of the date the drug is designated under Act section 526.

Testing Not Eligible for the Credit

The credit is not allowed for clinical testing conducted outside the United States unless there is an insufficient U.S. testing population and the testing is conducted by a U.S. person or by another person not related to the taxpayer. Testing conducted either inside or outside the United States by a corporation to which section 936 applies is not eligible for the orphan drug credit.

Coordination With the Research Credit

Qualified clinical testing expenses used to figure the orphan drug credit cannot also be used to figure the credit for increasing research activities. However, any of these expenses that are also qualified research expenses must be included in base period research expenses when figuring the credit for increasing research activities in a later tax year.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Current Year Credit

Figure any orphan drug credit from your own trade or business on lines 1 and 2. Skip lines 1 and 2 if you are claiming only a credit that was allocated to you from an S corporation, a partnership, an estate, or a trust.

Line 1

Members of a controlled group of corporations or group of businesses under common control. The group is treated as a single taxpayer and the credit allowed each member is based on its proportionate share of the qualified clinical testing expenses of the group. Enter on line 1 your share of the group's qualified clinical testing expenses.

Line 2

Reduce the deduction for qualified clinical testing expenses otherwise allowable on your income tax return by the amount of the credit shown on line 2. If the credit exceeds the amount allowed as a deduction for the tax year, reduce the amount chargeable to the capital account for the year for such expenses by the amount of the excess. See section 280C(b) for special rules.

Line 3

Enter the amount of credit that was allocated to you as a shareholder, partner, or beneficiary.

Line 4

Estates and trusts. Allocate the orphan drug credit on line 4 between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in the same proportion as income was allocated. On the dotted line to the left of line 4, the estate or trust should enter its share of the credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in Part II (or on Form 3800, if required) to figure the credit to take on Form 1041. On Schedule K-1, show each beneficiary's share of the portion allocated to beneficiaries.

S corporations and partnerships.

Allocate the orphan drug credit on line 4 among the shareholders or partners. Attach Form 8820 to Form 1120S or 1065 and on Schedule K-1 show the credit for each shareholder or partner. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Part II

Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- An orphan drug credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 for a list of credits included in the general business credit.

Line 11

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 12

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule.

Line 15

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 14 is smaller than line 4), carry the unused credit back 1 year, then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Use Parts I, II, and III of Form 8824 to report each exchange of business or investment property for property of a like kind. Certain members of the executive branch of the Federal Government use Part IV to elect to defer gain on conflict-of-interest sales.

Multiple exchanges. If you made more than one like-kind exchange, you may file only a summary Form 8824 and attach your own statement showing all the information requested on Form 8824 for each exchange. Include your name and identifying number at the top of each page of the statement. On the summary Form 8824, enter only your name and identifying number, "Summary" on line 1, the total recognized gain from all exchanges on line 23, and the total basis of all like-kind property received on line 25.

When To File

If during the current tax year you transferred property to another party in a like-kind exchange, you must file Form 8824 with your tax return for that year. Also file Form 8824 for the 2 years following the year of a related party exchange (see the instructions for line 7 on page 3).

Like-Kind Exchanges

Generally, if you exchange business or investment property solely for business or investment property of a like kind, no gain or loss is recognized under section 1031. If, as part of the exchange, you also receive other (not like-kind) property or money, gain is recognized to the extent of the other property and money received, but a loss is not recognized.

Section 1031 does not apply to exchanges of inventory, stocks, bonds, notes, other securities or evidence of indebtedness, or certain other assets. See section 1031(a)(2). In addition, section 1031 does not apply to certain exchanges involving tax-exempt use property subject to a lease. See section 470(e)(4).

Like-kind property. Properties are of like kind if they are of the same nature or character, even if they differ in grade or quality. Personal properties of a like class are like-kind properties. However, livestock of different sexes are not like-kind properties. Also, personal property used predominantly in the United States and personal property used predominantly outside the United States are not like-kind properties. See Pub. 544, Sales and Other Dispositions of Assets, for more details.

Real properties generally are of like kind, regardless of whether they are improved or unimproved. However, real property in the United States and real property outside the United States are not like-kind properties.

Deferred exchanges. A deferred exchange occurs when the property received in the exchange is received after the transfer of the property given up. For a deferred exchange to qualify as like-kind, you must comply with the 45-day written notice and receipt requirements explained in the instructions for lines 5 and 6.

Multi-asset exchanges. A multi-asset exchange involves the transfer and receipt of more than one group of like-kind properties. For example, an exchange of land, vehicles, and cash for land and vehicles is a multi-asset exchange. An exchange of land, vehicles, and cash for land only is not a multi-asset exchange. The transfer or receipt of multiple properties within one like-kind group is also a multi-asset exchange. Special rules apply when figuring the amount of gain recognized and your basis in properties received in a multi-asset exchange. For details, see Regulations section 1.1031(j)-1.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Eligible small businesses use Form 8826 to claim the disabled access credit. This credit is part of the general business credit.

A partnership or S corporation that is an eligible small business completes Part I of the form to figure the credit to pass through to its partners or shareholders. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Definitions

Eligible Small Business

For purposes of the credit, an eligible small business is any business or person that:

- Had gross receipts for the preceding tax year that did not exceed $1 million or had no more than 30 full-time employees during the preceding tax year and
- Elects (by filing Form 8826) to claim the disabled access credit for the tax year.

For purposes of the definition:

- Gross receipts are reduced by returns and allowances made during the tax year,
- An employee is considered full time if employed at least 30 hours per week for 20 or more calendar weeks in the tax year, and
- All members of the same controlled group and all persons under common control generally are considered to be one person—see section 44(d)(2).

Eligible Access Expenditures

For purposes of the credit, these expenditures are amounts paid or incurred by the eligible small business to comply with applicable requirements under the Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990 (Public Law 101-336) as in effect on November 5, 1990.

Eligible access expenditures include amounts paid or incurred:

1. To remove barriers that prevent a business from being accessible to or usable by individuals with disabilities;
  2. To provide qualified interpreters or other methods of making audio materials available to hearing-impaired individuals;
  3. To provide qualified readers, taped texts, and other methods of making visual materials available to individuals with visual impairments; or
  4. To acquire or modify equipment or devices for individuals with disabilities.
- The expenditures must be reasonable and necessary to accomplish the above purposes.

Eligible expenditures do not include expenditures in 1 above that are paid or incurred in connection with any facility first placed in service after November 5, 1990.

Eligible access expenditures must meet those standards issued by the Secretary of the Treasury as agreed to by the Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board and set forth in regulations. See section 44(c) for other details.

Disability. For an individual, this means:

- A physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities,
- A record of such an impairment, or
- Being regarded as having such an impairment.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Current Year Credit

Line 1. Enter total eligible access expenditures paid or incurred during the tax year. See Eligible Access Expenditures above.

Controlled groups. All members of a controlled group of corporations (within the meaning of section 52(a)) and all persons under common control (within the meaning of section 52(b)) are treated as one person for purposes of the credit. The group member with the most eligible access expenditures should figure the group credit in Part I and skip Part II. On separate Forms 8826, each member of the group skips lines 1 through 5 and enters its share of the group credit on line 6. Each member then completes the remaining applicable lines (or Form 3800, if required) on its separate form. Each member must also attach to its Form 8826 a schedule showing how the group credit was divided among all members. The members share the credit in the same proportion that they contributed eligible access expenditures.

Denial of double benefit. To the extent of the credit shown on line 6, the eligible access expenditures may not be claimed as a deduction in figuring taxable income, capitalized, or used in figuring any other credit.

Part II

Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A disabled access credit from a passive activity,

- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or

- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 for a list of credits included in the general business credit.

Line 15. See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, and real estate investment trusts.

Line 16. Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule.

Line 19. If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 18 is smaller than line 8), carry the unused credit back 1 year then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is:

Recordkeeping . . . . 6 hr., 13 min.

Learning about the law or the form . . . . 42 min.

Preparing and sending the form to the IRS . . . . 49 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. See the instructions for the tax return with which this form is filed.

Instructions for Form 8829

Expenses for Business Use of Your Home

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

General Instructions

Note. If you are claiming expenses for business use of your home as an employee or a partner, or you are claiming these expenses on Schedule F (Form 1040), do not use Form 8829. Instead, complete the worksheet in Pub. 587, Business Use of Your Home (Including Use by Daycare Providers).

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8829 to figure the allowable expenses for business use of your home on Schedule C (Form 1040) and any carryover to 2006 of amounts not deductible in 2005.

If all of the expenses for business use of your home are properly allocable to inventory costs, do not complete Form 8829. These expenses are figured in Schedule C, Part III, and not on Form 8829.

You must meet specific requirements to deduct expenses for the business use of your home. Even if you meet these requirements, your deductible expenses may be limited. Part IV is used to figure any allowable carryover of expenses that are more than the limit. For details, see Publication 587.

Who Can Deduct Expenses for Business Use of a Home

Generally, you can deduct business expenses that apply to a part of your home only if that part is exclusively used on a regular basis:

- As your principal place of business for any of your trades or businesses,
- As a place of business used by your patients, clients, or customers to meet or deal with you in the normal course of your trade or business, or
- In connection with your trade or business if it is a separate structure that is not attached to your home.

As explained on this page, exceptions to this rule apply to space used on a regular basis for:

- Storage of inventory or product samples, and
- Certain daycare facilities.

Principal Place of Business

In determining whether the office in your home qualifies as your principal place of business, you must consider the following two items.

- The relative importance of the activities performed at each place where you conduct business, and
- The amount of time spent at each place where you conduct business.

Your home office will qualify as your principal place of business if you meet the following requirements.

- You use it exclusively and regularly for administrative or management activities of your trade or business.
- You have no other fixed location where you conduct substantial administrative or management activities of your trade or business.

Administrative or management activities. There are many activities that are administrative or managerial in nature. The following are a few examples.

- Billing customers, clients, or patients.
- Keeping books and records.
- Ordering supplies.
- Setting up appointments.
- Forwarding orders or writing reports.

Administrative or management activities performed at other locations. The following activities performed by you or others will not disqualify your home office from being your principal place of business.

- You have others conduct your administrative or management activities at locations other than your home. (For example, another company does your billing from its place of business.)
- You conduct administrative or management activities at places that are not fixed locations of your business, such as in a car or a hotel room.
- You occasionally conduct minimal administrative or management activities at a fixed location outside your home.
- You conduct substantial nonadministrative or nonmanagement business activities at a fixed location outside your home. (For example, you meet with or provide services to customers, clients, or patients at a fixed location of the business outside your home.)
- You have suitable space to conduct administrative or management activities outside your home, but choose to use your home office for those activities instead.

More information. For information on other ways to qualify to deduct business use of the home expenses, see Pub. 587.

Storage of Inventory or Product Samples

You can also deduct expenses that apply to space within your home used on a regular basis to store inventory or product samples from your trade or business of selling products at retail or wholesale. Your home must be the only fixed location of your trade or business.

Daycare Facilities

If you use space in your home on a regular basis in the trade or business of providing daycare, you may be able to deduct the business expenses even though you use the same space for nonbusiness purposes. To qualify for this exception, you must have applied for (and not have been rejected), been granted (and still have in effect), or be exempt from having a license, certification, registration, or approval as a daycare center or as a family or group daycare home under state law.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

Expenses Related to Tax-Exempt Income

Generally, you cannot deduct expenses that are allocable to tax-exempt income. However, if you receive a tax-exempt parsonage allowance or a tax-exempt military housing allowance, your expenses for mortgage interest and real property taxes are deductible under the normal rules. No deduction is allowed for other expenses allocable to the tax-exempt allowance.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Lines 1 and 2

To determine the area on lines 1 and 2, you can use square feet or any other reasonable method if it accurately figures your business percentage on line 7.

Do not include on line 1 the area of your home you used to figure any expenses allocable to inventory costs. The business percentage of these expenses should have been taken into account in Schedule C, Part III.

Special Computation for Certain Daycare Facilities

If the part of your home used as a daycare facility included areas used exclusively for business as well as other areas used only partly for business, you cannot figure your business percentage using Part I. Instead, follow these three steps:

1. Figure the business percentage of the part of your home used exclusively for business by dividing the area used exclusively for business by the total area of the home.
2. Figure the business percentage of the part of your home used only partly for business by following the same method used in Part I of the form, but enter on line 1 of your computation only the area of the home used partly for business.
3. Add the business percentages you figured in the first two steps and enter the result on line 7. Attach your computation and enter "See attached computation" directly above the percentage you entered on line 7.

Line 4

Enter the total number of hours the facility was used for daycare during the year.

Example. Your home is used Monday through Friday for 12 hours per day for 250 days during the year. It is also used on 50 Saturdays for 8 hours per day. Enter 3,400 hours on line 4 (3,000 hours for weekdays plus 400 hours for Saturdays).

Line 5

If you started or stopped using your home for daycare in 2005, you must prorate the number of hours based on the number of days the home was available for daycare. Cross out the preprinted entry on line 5. Multiply 24 hours by the number of days available and enter the result.

Part II

Line 8

If all the gross income from your trade or business is from the business use of your home, enter on line 8 the amount from Schedule C, line 29, plus any net gain or (loss) derived from the business use of your home and shown on Schedule D or Form 4797. If you file more than one Form 8829, include only the income earned and the deductions attributable to that income during the period you owned the home for which Part I was completed.

If some of the income is from a place of business other than your home, you must first determine the part of your gross income (Schedule C, line 7, and gains from Schedule D and Form 4797) from the business use of your home. In making this determination, consider the amount of time you spend at each location as well as other facts. After determining the part of your gross income from the business use of your home, subtract from that amount the total expenses shown on Schedule C, line 28, plus any losses from your business shown on Schedule D or Form 4797. Enter the result on Form 8829, line 8.

Columns (a) and (b)

Enter as direct or indirect expenses only expenses for the business use of your home (that is, expenses allowable only because your home is used for business). If you did not operate a business for the entire year, you can deduct only the expenses paid or incurred for the portion of the year you used your home for business. Other expenses not allocable to the business use of your home, such as salaries, supplies, and business telephone expenses, are deductible elsewhere on Schedule C and should not be entered on Form 8829.

Direct expenses benefit only the business part of your home. They include painting or repairs made to the specific area or rooms used for business. Enter 100% of your direct expenses on the appropriate line in column (a).

Indirect expenses are for keeping up and running your entire home. They benefit both the business and personal parts of your home. Generally, enter 100% of your indirect expenses on the appropriate line in column (b).

Exception. If the business percentage of an indirect expense is different from the percentage on line 7, enter only the business part of the expense on the appropriate line in column (a), and leave that line in column (b) blank. For example, your electric bill is $800 for lighting, cooking, laundry, and television. If you reasonably estimate $300 of your electric bill is for lighting and you use 10% of your home for business, enter $30 on line 19 in column (a). Do not make an entry on line 19 in column (b) for any part of your electric bill.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

Lines 9, 10, and 11

Enter only the amounts that would be deductible whether or not you used your home for business (that is, amounts allowable as itemized deductions on Schedule A (Form 1040)).

Treat casualty losses as personal expenses for this step. Figure the amount to enter on line 9 by completing Form 4684, Section A. When figuring Form 4684, line 17, enter 10% of your adjusted gross income excluding the gross income from business use of your home and the deductions attributable to that income. Include on Form 8829, line 9, the amount from Form 4684, line 18. See Line 27 below to deduct part of the casualty losses not allowed because of the limits on Form 4684.

Do not file or use that Form 4684 to figure the amount of casualty losses to deduct on Schedule A. Instead, complete a separate Form 4684 to deduct the personal portion of your casualty losses.

On line 10, include only mortgage interest that would be deductible on Schedule A and that qualifies as a direct or indirect expense. Do not include interest on a mortgage loan that did not benefit your home (for example, a home equity loan used to pay off credit card bills, to buy a car, or to pay tuition costs).

If you itemize your deductions, be sure to claim only the personal portion of your deductible mortgage interest and real estate taxes on Schedule A. For example, if your business percentage on line 7 is 30%, you can claim 70% of your deductible mortgage interest and real estate taxes on Schedule A.

Line 16

If the amount of home mortgage interest you deduct on Schedule A is limited, enter the part of the excess mortgage interest that qualifies as a direct or indirect expense. Do not include mortgage interest on a loan that did not benefit your home (explained earlier).

Line 20

Include on this line any 2005 operating expenses not included on lines 9 through 19.

If you rent rather than own your home, include the rent you paid on line 20, column (b). If your housing is provided free of charge and the value of the housing is tax exempt, you cannot deduct the rental value of any portion of the housing.

Line 27

Multiply your casualty losses in excess of the amount on line 9 by the business percentage of those losses and enter the result.

Line 34

If your home was used in more than one business, allocate the amount shown on line 34 to each business using any method that is reasonable under the circumstances. For each business, enter on Schedule C, line 30, only the amount allocated to that business.

Part III

Lines 35 Through 37

Enter on line 35 the cost or other basis of your home, or, if less, the fair market value of your home on the date you first used the home for business. Do not adjust this amount for depreciation claimed or changes in fair market value after the year you first used your home for business. Allocate this amount between land and building values on lines 36 and 37.

Attach your own schedule showing the cost or other basis of additions and improvements placed in service after you began to use your home for business. Do not include any amounts on lines 35 through 38 for these expenditures. Instead, see the instructions for line 40.

Line 39

IF you first used your home for business in the following month in 2005...	THEN enter the following percentage on line 39*...
January	2.461%
February	2.247%
March	2.033%
April	1.819%
May	1.605%
June	1.391%
July	1.177%
August	0.963%
September	0.749%
October	0.535%
November	0.321%
December	0.107%

IF you first used your home for business...	THEN the percentage to enter on line 39 is...
after May 12, 1993, and before 2005 (except as noted below),	2.564%*.
after May 12, 1993, and before 1994, and you either started construction or had a binding contract to buy or build that home before May 13, 1993,	the percentage given in Pub. 946.
after May 12, 1993, and you stopped using your home for business before the end of the year,	the percentage given in Pub. 946 as adjusted by the instructions under Sale or Other Disposition Before the Recovery Period Ends in that publication.
after 1986 and before May 13, 1993,	the percentage given in Pub. 946.

The type and rule above prints on all proofs including departmental reproduction proofs. MUST be removed before printing.

IF you first used your home for business...	THEN the percentage to enter on line 39 is...
before 1987,	the percentage given in Pub. 534, Depreciating Property Placed in Service Before 1987.
*Exception. If the business part of your home is qualified Indian reservation property (as defined in section 168(j)(4)), see Pub. 946, How To Depreciate Property, to figure the depreciation.

Line 40

If no additions and improvements were placed in service after you began using your home for business, multiply line 38 by the percentage on line 39. Enter the result on lines 40 and 28.

IF additions and improvements were placed in service...	THEN figure the depreciation allowed on these expenditures by multiplying the business part of their cost or other basis by...
during 2005 (but after you began using your home for business),	the percentage in the line 39 instructions for the month placed in service*.
after May 12, 1993, and before 2005 (except as noted below),	2.564%*.
after May 12, 1993, and before 1994, and you either started construction or had a binding contract to buy or build that home before May 13, 1993,	the percentage given in Pub. 946.
after May 12, 1993, and you stopped using your home for business before the end of the year,	the percentage given in Pub. 946 as adjusted by the instructions under Sale or Other Disposition Before the Recovery Period Ends in that publication.
after 1986 and before May 13, 1993,	the percentage given in Pub. 946.
before 1987,	the percentage given in Pub. 534.

Attach a schedule showing your computation and include the amount you figured in the total for line 40. Enter "See attached" below the entry space.

Complete and attach Form 4562, Depreciation and Amortization, only if:

- You first used your home for business in 2005, or
- You are depreciating additions and improvements placed in service in 2005.

If you first used your home for business in 2005, enter the amounts from Form 8829, lines 38 and 40, in columns (c) and (g) of line 19i, Form 4562. In column (b) of line 19i, enter the month and year you first used your home for business. Do not include the amount from Form 8829, line 40, on Schedule C, line 13.

If you are depreciating additions and improvements placed in service in 2004, enter in column (b) of line 19i on Form 4562 the month and year the additions or improvements were placed in service. Enter the business basis of the additions or improvements in column (c) and the depreciation allowable on the additions or improvements in column (g). Do not include the amount entered in column (g) on Schedule C, line 13.

Part IV

If your expenses are greater than the current year's limit, you can carry over the excess to 2006. The carryover will be subject to the deduction limit for that year, whether or not you live in the same home during that year.

Line 41

Figure the amount of operating expenses you can carry over to 2006 by subtracting line 25 from line 24. If the result is zero or less, you have no amount to carry over.

Line 42

Figure the amount of excess casualty losses and depreciation you can carry over to 2006 by subtracting line 31 from line 30. If the result is zero or less, you have no amount to carry over.

Major Changes

On the form:

1) Major changes to the form portion begin with the box references on lines 3a - codes G, H, and V are now codes F, G, and U.

2) On line 3b, codes G and H are now codes F and G.

Major changes to the form portion also include the following Form 1040 line reference changes.

In the Instructions:

1) The definition of qualified enhanced oil recovery costs is expanded to include those with respect to an Alaska natural gas plant within the meaning of section 43(c)(1)(D) and 43(c)(5) (added by section 707 of the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004).

2) Under Who must file Form 3800, the major change is the deletion of the reference to Form 8884, New York Liberty Zone Employment Credit, as it is obsolete for tax year 2005. A reference to Form 6478 is added here because it is no longer filed with Form 3800.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8830 to claim the enhanced oil recovery credit.

An owner of an operating mineral interest may claim or elect not to claim this credit any time within 3 years from the due date (excluding extensions) of its return on either its original or an amended return. This credit is part of the general business credit.

Amount of Credit

The credit generally is 15% of qualified costs for the year, but is reduced when the reference price per barrel exceeds the base value of $28 (as adjusted by inflation). For 2005, there is no reduction of the credit.

Definitions

Qualified enhanced oil recovery costs means:

- Any amount paid or incurred during the tax year for tangible property—
  - That is an integral part of a qualified enhanced oil recovery project and

b. For which depreciation (or amortization) is allowable.

2. Any intangible drilling and development costs—

a. That are paid or incurred in connection with a qualified enhanced oil recovery project and

b. For which the taxpayer may make an election under section 263(c). For an integrated oil company, this includes intangible drilling costs required to be amortized under section 291(b).

3. Any qualified tertiary injectant expenses (as defined in section 193(b)) paid or incurred in connection with a qualified enhanced oil recovery project for which a deduction is allowable for the tax year. Qualified tertiary injectant expenses includes expenditures related to the use of a tertiary injectant as well as expenditures related to the acquisition (whether produced or acquired by purchase) of the tertiary injectant. However, it does not include costs that would have been paid or incurred in the development or operation of a mineral property if an enhanced oil recovery project had not been implemented with respect to the property. Costs that are related to the use of a tertiary injectant and that also are related to other activities (for example, primary or secondary recovery) must be reasonably allocated among the tertiary injectant and the other activities to determine the amount of tertiary injectant expenses paid or incurred for the tax year. For more details, see Rev. Rul. 2003-82, 2003-30 I.R.B. 125.

4. Any amount paid or incurred during the tax year to construct an Alaska natural gas plant within the meaning of sections 43(c)(1)(D) and 43(c)(5).

Qualified enhanced oil recovery project means any project involving the application of one or more tertiary recovery methods defined in section 193(b)(3) (and listed below) that can reasonably be expected to result in more than an insignificant increase in the amount of crude oil that will ultimately be recovered. The project must be located within the United States, including the seabed and subsoil adjacent to the territorial waters of the United States over which the United States has exclusive rights by international law for exploration and exploitation of natural resources (see section 638(1)). The first injection of liquids, gases, or other matter must begin after 1990. However, any significant expansion after 1990 of a project begun before 1991 is treated as a project where the first injection begins after 1990.

Additionally, the operator or designated owner must file a certification from a petroleum engineer, who is registered or certified by a state, that the project meets the above requirements. The operator or designated owner also must file a certification each subsequent year indicating that the project continues to be implemented substantially in accordance with the petroleum engineer's certification.

If the application of a tertiary recovery method is terminated, the operator or designated owner must file a notice of project termination for the tax year when the project terminates.

Send these filings to the Ogden Submission Processing Center, P.O. Box 9941, Ogden, UT 84409, by the due date of the operator's or designated owner's Federal income tax return. See Regulations section 1.43-3 for the information required in the notice and certifications.

Tertiary recovery methods qualifying for the credit include:

- Miscible fluid displacement,
- Steam drive injection,
- Microemulsion flooding,
- In situ combustion,
- Polymer-augmented water flooding,
- Cyclic-steam injection,
- Alkaline (or caustic) flooding,
- Carbonated water flooding,
- Immiscible nonhydrocarbon gas displacement, or
- Any other method approved by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Current Year Credit

Figure any enhanced oil recovery credit from your own trade or business on lines 1 and 2. Skip lines 1 and 2 if you are only claiming a credit that was allocated to you from an S corporation or a partnership.

S Corporations and Partnerships

Figure the total credit on lines 1 through 4. Then allocate the line 4 credit among the individual shareholders or partners in the same way that income and loss are shared. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Line 1

Enter the total of the qualified costs paid or incurred during the year in connection with a qualified enhanced oil recovery project. See Definitions above.

Reduce the otherwise allowable deductions for line 1 costs by the line 2 credit attributable to these costs. Also, if any part of the line 1 costs are for expenditures that increase the basis of property, reduce the otherwise allowable basis increase by the line 2 credit attributable to these costs.

Part II

Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- An enhanced oil recovery credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or

- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 11

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 12

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the AMT form or schedule and enter the TMT on line 12.

Line 15

If you cannot use all of your credit because of the tax liability limit (line 14 is smaller than line 4), carry the unused credit back 1 year and then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8835 to claim the renewable electricity and refined coal production credit. The credit is allowed only for the sale of electricity or refined coal produced in the United States or U.S. possessions from qualified energy resources at a qualified facility (see Definitions below).

How To Figure the Credit

Generally, the credit is 1.5 cents per kilowatt-hour (kWh) for the sale of electricity produced by the taxpayer from qualified energy resources at a qualified facility during the credit period (see Definitions below). The 1.5 cents credit amount is reduced by  $\frac{1}{2}$  for open-loop biomass, small irrigation, landfill gas and trash combustion facilities. In the case of a closed-loop biomass facility, the 1.5 cent amount is multiplied by the ratio of the thermal content of the closed-loop biomass used in the facility to the thermal content of all fuels used in the facility. The credit is \$4.375 per ton for the sale of refined coal produced at a qualified facility during the credit period; see section 45(e)(8)(A).

The credit for electricity produced is proportionately phased out over a 3-cent range when the reference price exceeds the 8-cent threshold price. The refined coal credit is proportionately phased out over an $8.75 range when the reference price of fuel used as feedstock exceeds 1.7 times the 2002 reference price. The 1.5-cent credit rate, the 8-cent threshold price, the $4.375 refined coal rate, and the reference price of fuel used as a feedstock are adjusted for inflation. The reference price and the inflation adjustment factor (IAF) for each calendar year are published during the year in the Federal Register. If the reference price is less than the threshold price (adjusted by the IAF), there is no reduction. For electricity produced, if the reference price is more than 3 cents over the adjusted threshold price, there is no credit; if the reference price is more than the threshold price, but not more than 3 cents over the adjusted threshold price, there is a phaseout adjustment on line 2 of Section A and lines 4 and 20 of Section B. For refined coal produced, if the reference price is more than $8.75 over the adjusted threshold price, there is no credit; if the reference price is more than the threshold price, but not more than the $8.75 over the adjusted threshold price, there is a phaseout adjustment on line 7 of Section B.

Note. For calendar year 2005, the credit for electricity and refined coal produced and sold is, respectively, 1.9 cents per kWh and $5.481 per ton; there is no phaseout adjustment for either.

Section A example. If the reference price of electricity is 10.0¢ and the adjusted threshold price is 9.0¢, reduce the credit by  $\frac{1}{3}$   $((10.0¢ - 9.0¢) \div 3¢ = .3333)$ . Enter the line 1 credit in the first entry space on line 2. .3333 in the second entry space, and multiply to figure the reduction.

Definitions

Qualified energy resources means wind, closed-loop biomass, poultry waste, open-loop biomass, geothermal energy, solar energy, small irrigation power, municipal solid waste, and refined coal.

Closed-loop biomass is any organic material from a plant that is planted exclusively for use at a qualified facility to produce electricity.

Poultry waste is poultry manure and litter, including wood shavings, straw, rice hulls, and other bedding material for the disposition of manure.

Open-loop biomass is cellulosic or agricultural livestock waste materials as defined in section 45(c)(3).

Geothermal energy is energy derived from a geothermal deposit as defined by section 613(e)(2).

Small irrigation power is power generated without any dam or impoundment of water. See section 45(c)(5).

Municipal solid waste is solid waste as defined under paragraph 27 of 42 U.S.C. 6903.

Refined coal is a liquid, gaseous, or solid synthetic fuel produced from coal or high carbon fly ash meeting the requirements of section 45(c)(7).

Qualified facility is any of the following facilities owned by the taxpayer and used to produce electricity or, in the case of a refined coal production facility, refined coal. The facilities are broken down by form section.

Section A

- Poultry waste facility placed in service after 12/31/99 and before 1/1/04.
- Wind facility placed in service after 12/31/93 and before 10/23/04.
- Closed-loop biomass facility placed in service after 12/31/92 and before 10/23/04.

Section B

- Wind facility placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/06.
- Closed-loop biomass facility placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/06.
- Closed-loop biomass facility modified to co-fire with coal or other biomass (or both), placed in service before 1/1/06. See section 45(d)(2).
- Open-loop biomass facility using cellulosic waste placed in service before 1/1/06.
- Open-loop biomass facility using agricultural livestock waste placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/06 and the nameplate capacity rating is not less than 150 kilowatts.
- Geothermal energy facility placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/06.
- Solar energy facility placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/06.
- Small irrigation power facility placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/06.
- Landfill gas or trash combustion facility using municipal solid waste placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/06.
- A refined coal production facility originally placed in service after 10/22/04 and before 1/1/09.

A qualified facility does not include any facility that qualifies for the credit under section 29 for producing fuel from a nonconventional source in the current or any prior tax year.

Credit period is:

- 10 years for a wind, poultry waste, closed-loop biomass (not modified for co-fire purposes), or refined coal production facility, beginning on the date the facility was placed in service.
- 10 years for a closed-loop biomass facility modified to co-fire with coal, other biomass (or both), beginning on the date the facility was placed in service but not earlier than 10/22/04.
- 5 years for an open-loop biomass using agricultural livestock waste, geothermal, solar energy, small irrigation power, landfill gas, or trash combustion facility, beginning on the date the facility was placed in service.
- 5 years for an open-loop biomass facility using cellulosic waste, beginning on the date the facility was placed in service but not earlier than 10/22/04.

United States and U.S. possessions include the seabed and subsoil of those submarine areas that are adjacent to the territorial waters over which the United States has exclusive rights according to international law.

Who Can Take the Credit

Generally, the owner of the facility is allowed the credit. In the case of closed-loop biomass and open-loop biomass facilities, if the owner is not the producer of the electricity, the lessee or the operator of the facility is eligible for the credit. If a governmental unit owns a poultry waste facility, the lessee or operator of the facility is eligible for the credit.

Specific Instructions for Section A and Section B

Note. Where line references between Section A and B differ, the Section B line references are in parentheses.

Figure any renewable electricity and refined coal production credit from your trade or business on lines 1 through 8 (lines 1 through 21 of Section B). Skip lines 1 through 8 (lines 1 through 21 of Section B) if you are only claiming a credit that was allocated to you from an S corporation, partnership, estate, or trust.

Fiscal year taxpayers. If you have sales in 2005 and 2006 and the credit rate on line 1 (lines 1, 2, 6, or 18 of Section B) or the phaseout adjustment on line 2 (lines 4, 7, or 20 of Section B) is different for 2006, make separate computations for each line. Use the respective sales, credit rate, and phaseout adjustment for each calendar year. Enter the total of the two computations on the credit rate line(s)—line 1 of Section A (lines 1, 2, 6, or 18 of Section B)—or the phaseout adjustment line(s)—line 2 of Section A (lines 4, 7, or 20 of Section B). Attach the computations to Form 8835 and write "FY" in the margin.

Part I—Current Year Credit

Line 1 (Line 18, Section B)

Enter the kilowatt-hours of electricity produced at qualified facilities and multiply by $.019. Fiscal year filers with 2006 sales may have to refigure lines 1 and 18 as explained under Fiscal year taxpayers above.

Line 2, Section B only

Enter the kilowatt-hours of electricity produced and sold at qualified facilities and multiply by $.009. Fiscal filers with 2006 sales must figure line 2 as explained under Fiscal year taxpayers above.

Line 2, Section A (Lines 4 and 20, Section B)

Calendar year filers enter zero on lines 2, 4, and 20. Fiscal year filers with sales in 2006 also enter zero if the published 2006 reference price is equal to or less than the 2006 adjusted threshold price. See How To Figure the Credit to figure the adjustment.

Line 6, Section B only

Enter the tons of refined coal produced and sold during 2005 from a qualified refined coal production facility and multiply by $.481. Fiscal filers with 2006 sales must figure line 6 as explained under Fiscal year taxpayers above.

Line 7, Section B only

Calendar year filers enter zero on line 7. Fiscal year filers with sales in 2006 also enter zero if the published 2006 reference price is equal to or less than 1.7 times the 2002 reference price. See How To Figure the Credit to figure the adjustment.

Line 4, Section A (Line 10, Section B)

Enter the sum, for this and all prior tax years, of:

- Grants provided by the United States, a state, or political subdivision of a state for the project;
- Proceeds of a tax-exempt issue of state or local government obligations used to provide financing for the project;
- Total of subsidized energy financing provided directly or indirectly under a Federal, state, or local program provided for the project; and
- The amount of any other credit allowable for any property that is part of the project.

Line 24, Section B only

Enter the amount included on line 23 that is from a passive activity. Generally, a passive activity is a trade or business in which you did not materially participate. Rental activities are generally considered passive activities, whether or not you materially participate. For details, see Form 8582-CR, Passive Activity Credit Limitations (for individuals, trusts, and estates), or 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations (for corporations).

Line 26, Section B only

Enter the passive activity credit allowed for the 2005 renewable electricity and refined coal production credit from Form 8582-CR or Form 8810.

Line 28, Section B only

Use only if you amend your 2005 return to carry back an unused renewable electricity or refined coal production credit from 2006.

Line 10, Section A (Line 29, Section B)

Credit from Form 6478 (Section B only). If you have a current year credit from Form 6478, Credit for Alcohol Used as Fuel, include that amount (line 10 of Form 6478) in the total for line 29. On the dotted line next to line 29, enter "From Form 6478" and the amount.

Pass-through entities should report the amount on lines 10 and 29 as follows.

S corporations and partnerships. Allocate the line 10 (line 29 of Section B) credit to the shareholders or partners. Attach Form 8835 to the S corporation or partnership return, and show on Schedule K-1 each shareholder's or partner's credit. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Estates and trusts. Allocate the line 10 (line 29 of Section B) credit between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocated to each. On the dotted line to the left of the entry space, enter the estate or trust's share of the credit. Label it "1041 portion" and use it in Part II (or on Form 3800, if required) to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041.

Part II—Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. If you are completing Section B, you must complete Part II to figure the allowable credit. If you are completing Section A, use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A renewable electricity production credit from a passive activity (in Section A),
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 11, Section A (Line 30, Section B)

Enter the regular tax before credits from the following line of the appropriate form or schedule.

- Individuals. Enter the amount from Form 1040, line 44.
- Corporations. Enter the amount from Form 1120, Schedule J, line 3; Form 1120-A, Part I, line 1; or the applicable line of your return.
- Estates and trusts. Enter the sum of the amounts from Form 1041, Schedule G, lines 1a and 1b, or the amount from the applicable line of your return.

Line 12, Section A (Line 31, Section B)

Enter the alternative minimum tax (AMT) from the following line of the appropriate form or schedule.

- Individuals. Enter the amount from Form 6251, line 35.
- Corporations. Enter the amount from Form 4626, line 14.
- Estates and trusts. Enter the amount from Form 1041, Schedule I, line 56.

Line 17, Section A (Line 36, Section B)

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 18, Section A only

Although you may not owe AMT, you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule. Enter on line 18 the TMT from the line shown below.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 33.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 54.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 12.

Line 38, Section B only

Enter the amount of all other allowed credits for the current year included in the general business credit. If you are filing Form 3800, enter the amount from line 19 of that form plus the following.

- Form 8844, line 24.
- The amount from the last line of any single separate general business credit form.

Line 21, Section A (Line 40, Section B)

If you are completing Section A, and cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 20 is smaller than line 10) carry the unused credit back 1 year and then forward 20 years.

If you are completing Section B, and have a current year credit from Form 6478, enter on line 40 the smaller of line 29 or line 39. If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 39 is smaller than line 29), carry any unused credit back 1 year and then forward 20 years. However, the credit from Form 6478 cannot be carried back; it must be carried forward for 20 years.

General Instructions

Section references are to the U.S. Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8840 to claim the closer connection to a foreign country(ies) exception to the substantial presence test. The exception is described in Regulations section 301.7701(b)-2.

Note: You are not eligible for the closer connection exception if (a) you were present in the United States 183 days or more in calendar year 2005 or (b) you are a lawful permanent resident of the United States (that is, you are a green card holder).

Who Must File

If you are an alien individual and you meet the closer connection exception to the substantial presence test, you must file Form 8840 with the IRS to establish your claim that you are a nonresident of the United States by reason of that exception.

For more details on the substantial presence test and the closer connection exception, see Pub. 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens.

Note: You can download forms and publications from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Substantial Presence Test

You are considered a U.S. resident if you meet the substantial presence test for 2005. You meet this test if you were physically present in the United States for at least:

- 31 days during 2005 and
- 183 days during the period 2005, 2004, and 2003, counting all the days of physical presence in 2005 but only 1/3 the number of days of presence in 2004 and only 1/6 the number of days in 2003.

Days of presence in the United States.

Generally, you are treated as being present in the United States on any day that you are physically present in the country at any time during the day. However, you do not count the following days of presence in the United States for purposes of the substantial presence test.

1. Days you regularly commuted to work in the United States from a residence in Canada or Mexico.
2. Days you were in the United States for less than 24 hours when you were traveling between two places outside the United States.

3. Days you were temporarily in the United States as a regular crew member of a foreign vessel engaged in transportation between the United States and a foreign country or a possession of the United States unless you otherwise engaged in trade or business on such a day.

4. Days you were unable to leave the United States because of a medical condition or medical problem that developed while you were in the United States.

5. Days you were an exempt individual.

In general, an exempt individual is a (a) foreign government-related individual, (b) teacher or trainee, (c) student, or (d) professional athlete competing in a charitable sports event. For more details, see Pub. 519.

Note: If you qualify to exclude days of presence in the United States because you were an exempt individual (other than a foreign government-related individual) or because of a medical condition or medical problem (see item 4 above), you must file Form 8843, Statement for Exempt Individuals and Individuals With a Medical Condition.

Closer Connection Exception

Even though you would otherwise meet the substantial presence test, you will not be treated as a U.S. resident for 2005 if:

- You were present in the United States for fewer than 183 days during 2005,
- You establish that during 2005, you had a tax home in a foreign country, and
- You establish that during 2005, you had a closer connection to one foreign country in which you had a tax home than to the United States, unless you had a closer connection to two foreign countries.

Closer Connection to Two Foreign Countries

You may demonstrate that you have a closer connection to two foreign countries (but not more than two) if all five of the following apply.

1. You maintained a tax home as of January 1, 2005, in one foreign country.
2. You changed your tax home during 2005 to a second foreign country.
3. You continued to maintain your tax home in the second foreign country for the rest of 2005.

4. You had a closer connection to each foreign country than to the United States for the period during which you maintained a tax home in that foreign country.

5. You are subject to tax as a resident under the tax laws of either foreign country for all of 2005 or subject to tax as a resident in both foreign countries for the period during which you maintained a tax home in each foreign country.

Tax Home

Your tax home is your main place of business, employment, or post of duty regardless of where you maintain your family home. If you do not have a regular or main place of business because of the nature of your work, then your tax home is the place where you regularly live. If you do not fit either of these categories, you are considered an itinerant and your tax home is wherever you work.

Establishing a Closer Connection

You will be considered to have a closer connection to a foreign country than to the United States if you or the IRS establishes that you have maintained more significant contacts with the foreign country than with the United States.

When and Where To File

If you are filing a 2005 Form 1040NR or Form 1040NR-EZ, attach Form 8840 to it. Mail your tax return by the due date (including extensions) to the address shown in your tax return instructions.

If you do not have to file a 2005 tax return, mail Form 8840 to the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255 by the due date (including extensions) for filing Form 1040NR or Form 1040NR-EZ.

Penalty for Not Filing Form 8840

If you do not timely file Form 8840, you will not be eligible to claim the closer connection exception and may be treated as a U.S. resident.

You will not be penalized if you can show by clear and convincing evidence that you took reasonable actions to become aware of the filing requirements and significant steps to comply with those requirements.

Specific Instructions

Line 6

If you checked the "Yes" box on line 6, do not file Form 8840. You are not eligible for the closer connection exception. However, you may qualify for nonresident status by reason of a treaty. See Pub. 519 for details. If so, file Form 8833, Treaty-Based Return Position Disclosure Under Section 6114 or 7701(b), with your Form 1040NR or Form 1040NR-EZ.

Line 14

A "permanent home" is a dwelling unit (whether a house owned or rented, an apartment, or a furnished room) that is available at all times, continuously and not solely for short stays.

Line 30

For stocks and bonds, indicate the country of origin of the stock company or debtor. For example, if you own shares of a U.S. publicly traded corporation, the investment is considered located in the United States, even though the shares of stock are stored in a safe deposit box in a foreign country.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Note. You can download forms and publications from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Who Must File

If you are an alien individual, you must file Form 8843 to explain the basis of your claim that you can exclude days of presence in the United States for purposes of the substantial presence test because you:

- Were an exempt individual (other than a foreign government-related individual) or
- Were unable to leave the United States because of a medical condition or medical problem.

Substantial Presence Test

You are considered a U.S. resident if you meet the substantial presence test for 2005. You meet this test if you were physically present in the United States for at least:

- 31 days during 2005 and
- 183 days during the period 2005, 2004, and 2003, counting all the days of physical presence in 2005 but only 1/3 the number of days of presence in 2004 and only 1/6 the number of days in 2003.

Note. To claim the closer connection to a foreign country(ies) exception to the substantial presence test described in Regulations section 301.7701(b)-2, you must file Form 8840, Closer Connection Exception Statement for Aliens.

Days of presence in the United States.

Generally, you are treated as being present in the United States on any day that you are physically present in the country at any time during the day. However, you do not count the following days of presence in the United States for purposes of the substantial presence test.

1. Days you regularly commuted to work in the United States from a residence in Canada or Mexico.
2. Days you were in the United States for less than 24 hours when you were traveling between two places outside the United States.
3. Days you were temporarily in the United States as a regular crew member of a foreign vessel engaged in transportation between the United States and a foreign country or a possession of the United States unless you otherwise engaged in trade or business on such a day.
4. Days you were unable to leave the United States because of a medical condition or medical problem that arose while you were in the United States.

5. Days you were an exempt individual.

Exempt Individuals

For purposes of the substantial presence test, an exempt individual includes anyone in the following categories.

- A teacher or trainee (defined on this page).
- A student (defined on this page).
- A professional athlete temporarily present in the United States to compete in a charitable sports event.
- An individual temporarily present in the United States as a foreign government-related individual.

Alien individuals with "Q" visas are treated as students, teachers, or trainees and, as such, are exempt individuals for purposes of the substantial presence test if they otherwise qualify. "Q" visas are issued to aliens participating in certain international cultural exchange programs.

Part II—Teachers and Trainees

A teacher or trainee is an individual who is temporarily present in the United States under a "J" or "Q" visa (other than as a student) and who substantially complies with the requirements of the visa.

If you were a teacher or trainee under a "J" or "Q" visa, you are considered to have substantially complied with the visa requirements if you have not engaged in activities that are prohibited by U.S. immigration laws and could result in the loss of your "J" or "Q" visa status.

Even if you meet these requirements, you cannot exclude days of presence in 2005 as a teacher or trainee if you were exempt as a teacher, trainee, or student for any part of 2 of the 6 prior calendar years. But see the Exception below.

If you qualify to exclude days of presence as a teacher or trainee, complete Parts I and II of Form 8843. If you have a "Q" visa, complete Part I and only lines 6 through 8 of Part II. On line 6, enter the name, address, and telephone number of the director of the cultural exchange program in which you participated.

Exception. If you were exempt as a teacher, trainee, or student for any part of 2 of the 6 prior calendar years, you can exclude days of presence in 2005 as a teacher or trainee only if all four of the following apply.

1. You were exempt as a teacher, trainee, or student for any part of 3 (or fewer) of the 6 prior calendar years.

2. A foreign employer paid all your compensation during 2005.

3. You were present in the United States as a teacher or trainee in any of the 6 prior years.

4. A foreign employer paid all of your compensation during each of those prior 6 years you were present in the United States as a teacher or trainee.

For more details, see Pub. 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens.

If you meet this exception, you must attach information to verify that a foreign employer paid all the compensation you received in 2005 and all prior years that you were present in the United States as a teacher or trainee.

Part III—Students

A student is an individual who is temporarily present in the United States under an "F," "J," "M," or "Q" visa and who substantially complies with the requirements of the visa.

If you were a student under an "F," "J," "M," or "Q" visa, you are considered to have substantially complied with the visa requirements if you have not engaged in activities that are prohibited by U.S. immigration laws and could result in the loss of your visa status.

Even if you meet these requirements, you cannot exclude days of presence in 2005 as a student if you were exempt as a teacher, trainee, or student for any part of more than 5 calendar years unless you establish that you do not intend to reside permanently in the United States. The facts and circumstances to be considered in determining if you have demonstrated an intent to reside permanently in the United States include, but are not limited to:

1. Whether you have maintained a closer connection to a foreign country than to the United States (for details, see Pub. 519) and
2. Whether you have taken affirmative steps to change your status from nonimmigrant to lawful permanent resident.

If you qualify to exclude days of presence as a student, complete Parts I and III of Form 8843. If you have a "Q" visa, complete Part I and only lines 10 through 14 of Part III. United States to compete in a charitable sports event. For details on charitable sports events, see Pub. 519.

If you qualify to exclude days of presence as a professional athlete, complete Parts I and IV of Form 8843.

Part V—Individuals With a Medical Condition or Medical Problem

For purposes of the substantial presence test, do not count the days you intended to leave the United States but could not do so because of a medical condition or medical problem that arose while you were in the United States. Whether you intended to leave the United States on a particular day is determined based on all the facts and circumstances. For more details, see Pub. 519.

If you qualify to exclude days of presence because of a medical condition or medical problem, complete Part I and lines 17a through 17c. Have your physician or other medical official complete line 18.

When and Where To File

If you are filing a 2005 Form 1040NR or Form 1040NR-EZ, attach Form 8843 to it. Mail your tax return by the due date (including extensions) to the address shown in your tax return instructions.

If you do not have to file a 2005 tax return, mail Form 8843 to the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255 by the due date (including extensions) for filing Form 1040NR or Form 1040NR-EZ.

Failure to exclude days of presence in the United States could result in your being considered a U.S. resident under the substantial presence test.

You will not be penalized if you can show by clear and convincing evidence that you took reasonable actions to become aware of the filing requirements and significant steps to comply with those requirements.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8844 to claim the empowerment zone and renewal community employment (EZ/RC) credit. For tax years that include December 31, 2005, the credit is:

- 20% of the employer's qualified wages (up to $15,000) paid or incurred during calendar year 2005 on behalf of qualified empowerment zone employees plus
  - 15% of the employer's qualified wages (up to $10,000) paid or incurred during calendar year 2005 on behalf of qualified renewal community employees.
- Although the credit is a component of the general business credit, a special tax liability limit applies. The allowable credit, therefore, is figured on Form 8844 and is not carried to Form 3800, General Business Credit.

- Performs substantially all of the services for that employer within a renewal community in the employer's trade or business and
- Has his or her principal residence within that renewal community while performing those services.

See Qualified Employees below for a list of persons who are not qualified employees.

Qualified Employees

Any person may be a qualified employee except the following.

- Any relative of the employer described in sections 152(d)(2)(A) through 152(d)(2)(G).
- A dependent of the employer described in section 152(d)(2)(H).
- If the employer is a corporation, any individual who bears any of the relationships described in sections 152(d)(2)(A) through 152(d)(2)(G), or is a dependent described in section 152(d)(2)(H), of an individual who owns (or is considered to own under section 267(c)) more than 50% in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation.
- If the employer is an entity other than a corporation, any individual who owns directly or indirectly more than 50% of the capital and profits interest, including constructive ownership, in the entity.
- If the employer is an estate or trust, any individual who is a grantor, beneficiary, or fiduciary of the estate or trust (or a dependent, as described in section 152(d)(2)(H), of such an individual), or any individual who is a relative, as described in sections 152(d)(2)(A) through 152(d)(2)(G), of the grantor, beneficiary, or fiduciary of the estate or trust.
- Any person who owns (or is considered to own under section 318) more than 5% of the outstanding or voting stock of the employer, or if not a corporate employer, more than 5% of the capital or profits interest in the employer.
- Any individual employed by the employer for less than 90 days. For exceptions, see Early termination of employee below.
- Any individual employed by the employer at any private or commercial golf course, country club, massage parlor, hot tub facility, suntan facility, racetrack or other facility used for gambling, or any store the principal business of which is the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption off premises.

- Any individual employed by the employer in a trade or business for which the principal activity is farming (see Note below), but only if at the close of the tax year the sum of the following amounts exceeds $500,000.

1. The larger of the unadjusted bases or fair market value of the farm assets owned by the employer.

2. The value of the farm assets leased by the employer.

Note. Certain farming activities described in section 2032A(e)(5)(A) or (B).

Early termination of employee.

Generally, an individual is not a qualified zone employee unless employed for at least 90 days. The 90-day requirement does not apply in the following situations.

- The employee is terminated because of misconduct as determined under the applicable state unemployment compensation law.
  - The employee becomes disabled before the 90th day. However, if the disability ends before the 90th day, the employer must offer to reemploy the former employee.
- An employee is not treated as terminated if the corporate employer is acquired by another corporation under section 381(a) and the employee continues to be employed by the acquiring corporation. Nor is a mere change in the form of conducting the trade or business treated as a termination if the employee continues to be employed in such trade or business and the taxpayer retains a substantial interest therein.

Wages

Wages are defined in section 51(c) and generally are wages (excluding tips) subject to the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (FUTA), without regard to the FUTA dollar limitation. The following are also treated as wages.

- Amounts paid or incurred by the employer as educational assistance payments excludable from the employee's gross income under section 127. However, this does not apply if the employee has a relationship to the employer described in section 267(b) or 707(b)(1) (substituting "10 percent" for "50 percent" in those sections) or the employer and employee are engaged in trades or businesses under common control (within the meaning of sections 52(a) and (b)).
- Amounts paid or incurred by the employer on behalf of an employee under age 19 for a youth training program operated by that employer in conjunction with local education officials.

Specific Instructions

Complete lines 1 and 2 to figure the current year credit for your trade or business. Skip lines 1 and 2 if you are only claiming a credit that was allocated to you from a pass-through entity.

Line 1a—Qualified Empowerment Zone Wages

Enter the total qualified empowerment zone wages paid or incurred during calendar year 2005. The credit must be figured using only the wages that you paid or incurred in the calendar year that ended with or within your tax year. For example, if your tax year began on April 1, 2005, and ended on March 31, 2006, you must figure wages based on the calendar year that began on January 1, 2005, and ended on December 31, 2005. Wages paid after the end of the calendar year may be used only to figure the credit claimed on the following year's tax return.

Qualified empowerment zone wages are qualified wages paid or incurred by an employer for services performed by an employee while the employee is a qualified empowerment zone employee (defined earlier). The maximum wages that may be taken into account for each employee is limited to $15,000. The $15,000 amount for any employee is reduced by the amount of wages paid or incurred during the calendar year on behalf of that employee that are used in figuring:

- The work opportunity credit (Form 5884) or
- The welfare-to-work credit (Form 8861).

Line 1b—Qualified Renewal Community Wages

Enter the total qualified renewal community wages paid or incurred during calendar year 2005. The credit must be figured using only the wages that you paid or incurred in the calendar year that ended with or within your tax year. For example, if your tax year began on April 1, 2005, and ended on March 31, 2006, you must figure wages based on the calendar year that began on January 1, 2005, and ended on December 31, 2005. Wages paid after the end of the calendar year may be used only to figure the credit claimed on the following year's tax return.

Qualified renewal community wages are qualified wages paid or incurred by an employer for services performed by an employee while the employee is a qualified renewal community employee (defined earlier). The maximum wages that may be taken into account for each employee is limited to $10,000. The $10,000 amount for any employee is reduced by the amount of wages paid or incurred during the calendar year on behalf of that employee that are used in figuring:

- The work opportunity credit (Form 5884) or
- The welfare-to-work credit (Form 8861).

Line 2

In general, you must reduce your deduction for salaries and wages and certain educational and training costs by the line 2 credit amount. You must make this reduction even if you cannot take the full credit this year because of the tax liability limit. If you capitalized any costs on which you figured the credit, reduce the amount capitalized by the amount of the credit attributable to these costs.

Members of a controlled group of corporations and businesses under common control are treated as a single employer in determining the credit. The members share the credit in the same proportion that they paid or incurred qualifying wages.

Line 5

Enter the amount included on line 4 that is from a passive activity. Generally, a passive activity is a trade or business in which you did not materially participate. Rental activities are generally considered passive activities, whether or not you materially participate. For details, see Form 8582-CR, Passive Activity Credit Limitations (for individuals, trusts, and estates), or Form 8810, Corporate Passive Activity Loss and Credit Limitations (for corporations).

Line 7

Enter the passive activity credit allowed for the 2005 EZRCE credit from Form 8582-CR or Form 8810. See the instructions for the applicable form for details.

Line 9

Use only if you amend your 2005 return to carry back an unused credit from 2006.

Line 10

If line 10 is zero, skip Part II.

Pass-through entities allocate the credit as follows.

S corporations and partnerships.

Allocate the credit among the shareholders or partners. Attach Form 8844 to the return and show the credit for each shareholder or partner on Schedule K-1. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Estates and trusts. Allocate the credit between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocable to each. On the dotted line to the left of the amount on line 10, the estate or trust should enter its part of the total credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in Part II to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041, U.S. Income Tax Return for Estates and Trusts.

Cooperatives. Most tax-exempt organizations cannot take the credit, but a cooperative described in section 1381(a) can take the credit to the extent of its tax liability. Allocate the credit in excess of the tax liability limit to the patrons of the cooperative.

Line 17

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule. Enter on line 17 the TMT from the line shown below.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 33.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 12.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 54.

Line 18

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married individuals filing separate returns, controlled groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 22

Enter the amount of all other allowed credits that make up the general business credit (other than any credit from Section B of Form 8835). If you are filing Form 3800, enter on line 22 the amount shown on line 19 of Form 3800. Otherwise, enter on line 22 the credit from the last line of the credit form (for example, line 17 of Form 8586, Low-Income Housing Credit).

Line 24

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 23 is smaller than line 10), carry the unused credit back 1 year then forward up to 20 years. To carry back an unused credit, file an amended income tax return (Form 1040X, 1120X, or other amended return) for the prior tax year or an application for tentative refund (Form 1045, Application for Tentative Refund, or Form 1139, Corporation Application for Tentative Refund). If you file an application for tentative refund, it generally must be filed by the end of the tax year following the tax year in which the credit arose.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Employers of American Indians who are qualified employees use Form 8845 to claim the Indian employment credit.

Definitions

Qualified wages means any wages paid or incurred by an employer for services performed by an employee while such employee is a qualified employee (see below). It does not include wages attributable to services rendered during the 1-year period beginning with the day the employee starts work for the employer if any portion of such wages is used in figuring the work opportunity credit on Form 5884. Wages has the same meaning given in section 51.

Qualified employee health insurance costs means any amount paid or incurred by an employer for health insurance coverage for an employee while the employee is a qualified employee. Do not include amounts paid or incurred for health insurance under a salary reduction arrangement.

Qualified employee means, for any tax period, any employee who meets all three of the following tests.

1. The employee is an enrolled member, or the spouse of an enrolled member, of an Indian tribe. Each tribe determines who qualifies for enrollment and what documentation, if any, is issued as proof of enrollment status. Examples of appropriate documentation will vary from one tribe to another and may include a tribal membership card, Certified Degree of Indian Blood (CDIB) card, or letter from the tribe or tribal enrollment office. Employers should retain a copy of the proof of enrollment status provided by the employee.

2. Substantially all the services performed by the employee for the employer are performed within an Indian reservation (defined below).

3. The employee's principal residence while performing such services is on or near the reservation where the services are performed.

However, the employee shall be treated as a qualified employee for any tax year only if more than 50% of the wages paid or incurred by the employer to the employee during the tax year are for services performed in the employer's trade or business. Each member of a controlled group must meet this requirement independently. Also, see the instructions for lines 1 and 2.

The following are not qualified employees.

- Any individual who bears any of the relationships described in sections 152(d)(2)(A) through 152(d)(2)(G) to, or is a dependent described in section 152(d)(2)(H) of, the employer.
- If the employer is a corporation, any individual who bears any of the relationships described in sections 152(d)(2)(A) through 152(d)(2)(G) to, or is a dependent described in section 152(d)(2)(H) of, an individual who owns (or is considered to own under section 267(c)) more than 50% in value of the outstanding stock of the corporation.
- If the employer is an estate or trust, any individual who is a grantor, beneficiary, or fiduciary of the estate or trust (or a dependent, as described in section 152(d)(2)(H), of that individual), or any individual who is a relative, as described in sections 152(d)(2)(A) through 152(d)(2)(G), of the grantor, beneficiary, or fiduciary of the estate or trust.
- If the employer is other than a corporation, estate, or trust, any individual who owns directly or indirectly more than 50% of the capital and profits interest, including constructive ownership, in the entity.

- Any person who owns (or is considered to own under section 318) more than 5% of the outstanding or voting stock of the employer or, if not a corporate employer, more than 5% of the capital or profits interest in the employer.
- Any individual who performs services involving the conduct of Class I, II, or III gaming, as defined in section 4 of the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, and any individual performing any services in a building housing such gaming activity.

Indian tribe means any Indian tribe, band, nation, pueblo, or other organized group or community, including any Alaska Native village or regional or village corporation, as defined in, or established under, the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, that is recognized as eligible for the special programs and services provided by the United States to Indians because of their status as Indians. See the Federal Register dated July 12, 2002 (67 FR 46328), for the most recent listing of federally recognized Indian tribes.

Indian reservation means a reservation as defined in section 3(d) of the Indian Financing Act of 1974 or section 4(10) of the Indian Child Welfare Act of 1978.

Early Termination of Employee

Generally, if the employer terminates a qualified employee less than 1 year after the date of initial employment, the following rules apply.

- No wages or qualified employee health insurance costs may be taken into account for the tax year the employment is terminated.
- Any credits allowed for prior tax years by reason of wages paid or incurred to that employee must be recaptured. Include the recapture amount on the line for recapture taxes on your income tax return. Also, any carryback or carryover of the credit must be adjusted.

These rules do not apply if:

- The employee voluntarily quits,
- The employee is terminated because of misconduct, or
- The employee becomes disabled. However, if the disability ends during the first year of employment, the employer must offer reemployment to that employee.

An employee is not treated as terminated if the corporate employer is acquired by another corporation covered under the rules in section 381(a) and the employee continues to be employed by the acquiring corporation. Nor is a mere change in the form of conducting the trade or business treated as a termination if the employee continues to be employed in such trade or business and the taxpayer retains a substantial interest in such trade or business.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Current Year Credit

Figure the credit for your trade or business on lines 1 through 4. Skip lines 1 through 4 if you are only claiming a credit that was allocated to you from a pass-through entity. The following rules apply for lines 1 and 2.

- The total amount of qualified wages and qualified employee health insurance costs for each qualified employee for any tax year is limited to $20,000.
- Members of a controlled group of corporations and businesses under common control are treated as a single employer in determining the credit.
- For a short tax year, multiply the wages limit by the number of days in the short tax year and divide the result by 365.

Line 1

Enter the total qualified wages and qualified employee health insurance costs paid or incurred for qualified employees during the tax years. An employee is not a qualified employee if the total amount of wages paid or incurred by the employer to the employee during the tax year (whether or not for services within an Indian reservation) exceeds $35,000.

Line 2

Enter the total qualified wages and qualified employee health insurance costs paid or incurred by the employer (or predecessor) for qualified employees during calendar year 1993 (as if section 45A had been in effect during 1993). If none, enter zero. For this purpose, an employee is not a qualified employee if the total amount of wages paid or incurred by the employer to the employee during calendar year 1993 (whether or not for services within an Indian reservation) exceeds $30,000.

Line 4

Generally, you must reduce the deductions on your return for salaries and wages and health insurance costs by the credit on line 4, even if you cannot take the full credit this year because of the tax liability limit. If you capitalized any costs on which you figured the credit, reduce the amount capitalized by the credit attributable to these costs.

Line 6

If you have a credit from a passive activity, stop here and go to Form 3800.

S corporations and partnerships. Allocate the line 6 credit among the shareholders or partners. Show the credit for each shareholder or partner on Schedule K-1. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Estates and trusts. Allocate the line 6 credit between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocable to each. On the dotted line to the left of the amount on line 6, the estate or trust should enter its part of the total Indian employment credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in Part II (or on Form 3800, if required) to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041.

Cooperatives. A cooperative described in section 1381(a) takes the Indian employment credit to the extent it has tax liability. Any excess is shared among its patrons, but any credit recapture applies as if the cooperative had claimed the entire credit.

Part II*Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- An Indian employment credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credits.

Line 13

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 14

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule and enter the TMT on line 14.

Line 17

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 16 is smaller than line 6), carry the unused credit back 1 year and then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. Cat. No. 16149K

Form 8847 (2005)

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8847 to claim the credit for qualified contributions made to selected community development corporations (CDCs).

How the Credit Is Figured

The credit is figured over a 10-year credit period beginning with the tax year the qualified CDC contribution was made. The credit for each tax year in the credit period is 5% of the qualified CDC contribution (see below). The credit is part of the general business credit and is figured under section 13311 of the Revenue Reconciliation Act of 1993.

A qualified CDC contribution is any transfer of cash to a selected CDC before June 30, 1999, that is available for use by the CDC for at least 10 years and was designated by the CDC as a qualified contribution for purposes of the credit. Selected CDCs furnished each contributor a Schedule A (Form 8847), Receipt for Contribution to a Selected Community Development Corporation (CDC), with Part I of Schedule A completed.

Selected CDCs were announced in HUD News Release No. 94-94, dated June 30, 1994.

Specific Instructions

Part II—Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835) or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

Enter on line 12 the TMT from the line shown below.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 33.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 12.

Instructions for Form 8854

(Rev. May 2005)

Department of the Treasury
Internal Revenue Service

Initial and Annual Expatriation Information Statement

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

What's New

The American Jobs Creation Act of 2004 made substantial changes to both the tax and information reporting rules (and associated penalties) that apply to individuals who expatriated or terminated their residency after June 3, 2004. The most important changes are as follows:

- Form 8854 must be filed in order for your expatriation or termination of residency to be effective for tax purposes.
- The thresholds (U.S. income tax and net worth) for determining whether you are subject to section 877 have changed. There is no longer a presumption that your expatriation or termination of residency is tax motivated if the thresholds have been exceeded. Rather, if the thresholds have been exceeded, you are subject to section 877 unless certain limited exceptions apply. Accordingly, you can no longer request a private letter ruling to avoid the application of section 877.
- If you are subject to section 877, you must file Form 8854 for the year of your expatriation or termination of residency and, if you are subject to the rules for the alternative tax of section 877(b), for each tax year for which the alternative tax applies.
- Form 8854 is no longer filed with a U.S. Embassy or consulate. It is now filed in the Philadelphia Service Center. See Where To File on page 2.
- Failure to file Form 8854 will result in a $10,000 penalty.
- If, during a calendar year ending in a tax year during the 10-year period in which you are otherwise subject to section 877, you return to the United States for more than 30 days, you will be treated for that tax year as a U.S. citizen or resident, despite the legal termination of your citizenship or permanent resident status under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Purpose of Form

If you expatriated or terminated your long-term resident status after June 3, 2004, use Form 8854 to provide the information required by section 6039G.

Expatriation or Termination of Residency

For purposes of immigration and nationality law, the date of your expatriation or termination of residency depends on when certain acts occurred. The specific acts that must have occurred depend on whether you are a former U.S. citizen or a former U.S. long-term resident (LTR). The specific acts are described below.

Former U.S. Citizens

If you were a U.S. citizen, you expatriated:

- On the date you renounced your U.S. citizenship outside the United States before a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States pursuant to paragraph (5) of section 349 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, provided there is a determination of loss of citizenship by the Secretary of State, as reflected by your receipt of an approved Certificate of Loss of Nationality, or

- On the date you voluntarily performed an act of expatriation with the specific and contemporaneous intention of giving up your U.S. citizenship, provided there is a determination of loss by the Secretary of State, as reflected by your receipt of an approved Certificate of Loss of Nationality. An act of expatriation is any act defined as a potentially expatriating act either by paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of section 349(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act or by any other Act of Congress defining expatriating acts.

While your citizenship may have ended because a federal court revoked your naturalization under section 340 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, this type of loss of citizenship is not treated as an expatriating event for purposes of section 877 and this form, if after the revocation, you hold the status under the Immigration and Nationality Act of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence.

Former U.S. Long-Term Residents (LTRs)

If you were a U.S. long-term resident (LTR) (see Definitions below), you terminated your residency:

- On the date you voluntarily abandoned your lawful permanent resident (LPR) status by filing Department of Homeland Security Form I-407 with a U.S. consular or immigration officer, and the Department of Homeland Security determines that you have, in fact, abandoned your LPR status,
- On the date you became subject to a final administrative order for your removal from the United States under the Immigration and Nationality Act and you actually left the United States as a result of that order, or
- If you were a dual resident of the United States and a country with which the United States has an income tax treaty, on the date you commenced to be treated as a resident of that country and you determined that, for purposes of the treaty, you are a resident of the treaty country. See Treas. Reg. Section 301.7701(b)-7 for information on other filing requirements for such individuals.

Definitions

Former U.S. LTR. You are a former U.S. LTR if you were a lawful permanent resident of the United States for at least 8 of the 15 consecutive tax years ending with the date of your termination of residency.

LPR. You are an LPR of the United States if you have been given the privilege, according to U.S. immigration laws, of residing permanently in the United States as an immigrant. You generally have this status if the Immigration and Naturalization Service (now the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS)) has issued you an alien registration card, also known as a "green card."

Date of Tax Expatriation

Until you file Form 8854 and notify the Department of State or the Department of Homeland Security of your expatriating act or termination of residency, your expatriation or termination of residency for immigration purposes will not relieve you of your obligation to file U.S. tax returns and report your worldwide income as a citizen or resident of the United States. For purposes of U.S. tax rules, the date of your expatriation or termination of residency will be the later of the date you notify the relevant agency of your expatriating act or termination of residency, or the date this form is filed in accordance with these instructions. For purposes of determining the date on which this form is filed, apply the rules of section 7502. Generally, this is the postmark date.

Who Must File

You must file Form 8854 to:

- Establish that you have expatriated or terminated your LTR status for tax purposes, or
- Comply with the annual information reporting requirements of section 6039G, if you are subject to tax under section 877.

Note. If you were a naturalized citizen, but lost your citizenship because a federal court revoked your naturalization under section 340 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, you do not need to complete this form if, after the revocation, you hold the status under the Immigration and Nationality Act of an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence. You must complete this form, however, if you were a naturalized citizen and you gave up your citizenship by expatriation under section 349 of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Taxation under section 877. You are subject to taxation under section 877 if you are a former U.S. citizen or former LTR, and

- Your average annual net income tax liability for the 5 years ending before the date of your expatriation or termination of residency is more than a set amount ($124,000 for 2004),
- Your net worth is $2 million or more on the date of your expatriation or termination of residency, or
- You fail to certify on Form 8854 that you have complied with all of your U.S. federal tax obligations for the 5 years preceding the date of your expatriation or termination of residency.

Exceptions to Section 877

Provided you have certified that you have met your tax obligations for the 5 tax years prior to your expatriation or termination of residency, you will not be subject to tax under section 877(b) if either of the following exceptions applies.

- You became at birth a U.S. citizen and a citizen of another country, you continue to be a citizen of the other country, and you have no substantial contacts with the United States.
- You became at birth a U.S. citizen, neither of your parents was a U.S. citizen at the time of your birth, your loss of citizenship occurred before you attained age 18½, and you were not present in the United States for more than 30 days during any of the 10 calendar years preceding your loss of citizenship.

See the instructions for lines 9 and 10 on page 3.

Tax Consequences of Presence in the United States After Expatriation or Termination of Residency

If, for any tax year during the 10-year period in which you are otherwise subject to section 877, you are present in the United States for more than 30 days in a calendar year ending in such tax year, you will be treated as a U.S. citizen or resident for that tax year. You will be subject to U.S. tax on your worldwide income unless the following exception applies.

Exception. You can be present in the United States for up to 60 days without being treated as a U.S. citizen or resident if you are performing personal services in the United States for an employer who is not related (within the meaning of sections 267 and 707) to you and you meet either of the following requirements.

- You were a U.S. citizen and, within a reasonable period following your expatriation, you became a citizen or resident fully liable to tax in the country in which either you, your spouse, or either of your parents were born, or
- For each year in the 10-year period ending on the date of expatriation or termination of residency, you were physically present in the United States for 30 days or less.

See Pub. 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens, for details about what constitutes a day of presence in the United States.

When To File

Initial Information Statement

If you are filing this form because you ceased to be a U.S. citizen (expatriated) or terminated your U.S. residency during the tax year, there is no due date for filing this form. However, until you both file this form with the Internal Revenue Service and notify either the Department of State or the Department of Homeland Security of your expatriation or termination of residency, you will continue to be treated, for tax purposes, as if you were still a U.S. citizen or resident. The date of your tax expatriation (the date you are no longer subject to U.S. taxation on a worldwide basis) is the date on which you have satisfied both requirements.

Annual Information Statement

If you are a nonresident alien filing this form to comply with the annual information reporting requirements of section 6039G, this form should be attached to a timely filed Form 1040NR, U.S. Nonresident Alien Income Tax Return, and a copy of the form should be sent to the address below. If you are not required to file Form 1040NR, submit this form to the address below by the due date for filing Form 1040NR.

If you are present in the United States following your expatriation and are subject to tax as a U.S. citizen or resident, file Form 8854 with your Form 1040 and send a copy to the address listed below.

Specific Instructions

Initial or Annual Information Statement

Check the Initial Information Statement box if you are filing this form as your initial expatriation information statement to establish that you have expatriated or terminated your LTR status for tax purposes. Check the Annual Information Statement box if you have already expatriated or terminated your LTR status, are subject to the tax rules of section 877(b), and are filing this form as your annual expatriation information statement.

Part I – General Information

This section is to be completed by all filers.

Line 1

Generally, this number is your U.S. social security number. An incorrect or missing identifying number may result in failure to expatriate or terminate residency and/or a penalty of $10,000. If you were never issued a social security number, please attach a statement explaining the reason.

Line 2

If you have a P.O. box, enter your box number instead of your street address only if your post office does not deliver mail to the street address.

Line 3

Enter the information in the following order: street address, city, province or state, and country. Follow the country's practice for entering the postal code. Do not abbreviate the country name.

Line 4

Enter the country of which you are considered a resident for tax purposes if different from the country in which your principal foreign residence is located.

Line 5

Date of notification, termination, or claim. In order to expatriate for tax purposes (to no longer be subject to U.S. tax as a U.S. citizen or LTR), you must (a) give notice of an expatriating act or termination of residency (with the requisite intent to relinquish citizenship or terminate residency) to the Secretary of State or the Secretary of Homeland Security, and (b) provide a statement in accordance with the information reporting requirements of section 6039G. The date of your expatriation is the date on which the latter of these two events occurs.

You will be considered to have given notice of an expatriating act (with the requisite intent to relinquish citizenship) to the Secretary of State as of the date that you either:

- Renounced your U.S. citizenship outside the United States before a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States pursuant to paragraph (5) of section 349(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, or
- Submitted to a U.S. Embassy or consulate a signed statement affirming your voluntary and intentional relinquishment of U.S. citizenship accompanied by documentation confirming the performance of an act defined as potentially expatriating by paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of section 349(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act provided that such notification is ultimately confirmed by the issuance of a Certificate of Loss of Nationality from the Department of State.

You will be considered to have given notice of a termination of residency (with the requisite intent to terminate residency) to the Secretary of Homeland Security as of the date that you complete Form I-407, Abandonment of Lawful Permanent Resident Status, before a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States or at a Port of Entry of the United States before a U.S. immigration official.

You should retain written evidence of your notification.

Box a. Check this box if you are a former U.S. citizen, and enter the date on which you gave notice of your expatriation to the Department of State.

Box b. Check this box if you are a former LTR, and enter the date on which you gave notice of termination of your LPR status to the Department of Homeland Security.

Box c. Check this box if you are an LTR with dual residency in a treaty country, and enter the date you commenced to be treated for tax purposes as a resident of the treaty country (see Former U.S. Long-Term Residents (LTRs) on page 1).

If you have not yet notified the Secretary of State or Secretary of Homeland Security in connection with your expatriating act or termination of residency, you must file an amended Form 8854 stating the date on which such notification occurs.

Part II—Initial Expatriation or Termination Information Statement

This section and Schedules A (Balance Sheet) and B (Income Statement) must be completed by all individuals who expatriate or terminate residency during the tax year.

Line 7

Use the balance sheet in Schedule A to arrive at your net worth.

Line 9

You have no substantial contacts with the United States if you (a) were never a resident of the United States (as defined in section 7701(b)), (b) never held a U.S. passport, and (c) were not present in the United States for more than 30 days during any of the 10 calendar years preceding your loss of U.S. citizenship.

Line 10

Check the "Yes" box if:

- You are a minor who became a U.S. citizen at birth,
- Neither of your parents was a U.S. citizen at the time of your birth,
- Your loss of citizenship occurred before you attained age 18½, and
- You were not present in the United States for more than 30 days in any of the 10 calendar years preceding your loss of U.S. citizenship.

Line 11

Check the "Yes" box if you have complied with your tax obligations for the 5 tax years ending before the date on which you expatriated or terminated your residency, including but not limited to, your obligations to file income tax, employment tax, gift tax, and information returns, if applicable, and your obligation to pay all relevant tax liabilities, interest, and penalties. You will be subject to tax under section 877 if you have not complied with these obligations, regardless of whether your average annual income tax liability or net worth exceeds the applicable threshold amounts.

Part III—Annual Information Reporting Under Section 6039G

If section 877 applies to you, you must complete Part III and Schedules A (Balance Sheet) and B (Income Statement) for the 10 tax years beginning with the year that includes the date of your expatriation or termination of residency, whether or not you owe tax under section 877 for the tax year. This means that if you perform an expatriating act or terminate residency, you must complete both Parts II and III of this form for the year in which that event occurs.

If you are subject to tax under section 877, you are no longer taxed as a citizen or resident on your worldwide income. However, you must compute your tax as a nonresident in accordance with the special rules of section 877. These rules expand the categories of income and gain on which you owe tax. You are also subject to special rules for gift and estate tax purposes that differ from those applicable to other nonresident aliens.

Exceptions to Filing Part III

Section 877 does not apply to you if your net worth is less than $2 million as of the date of your tax expatriation, your average annual net income tax liability for the 5 tax years prior to the date of your tax expatriation was not more than $124,000 (for 2004), and you certify that you have met your tax obligations for the 5 years prior to expatriation.

If you exceed these dollar thresholds and you certify that you have met your tax obligations, section 877 may still not apply to you if you meet one of the exceptions for dual citizens at birth with no substantial presence or for certain minors. See Exceptions to Section 877 on page 2.

You do not need to complete Part III of this form if:

- Your average annual net income tax liability for the 5 tax years ending before the date of expatriation (see line 6 on the form) was $124,000 or less (if you expatriated in 2004), your net worth on line 7 was less than $2 million, and you checked the "Yes" box on line 11.
- You checked the "Yes" box on line 8, and the "No" box on line 9, and you checked the "Yes" box on line 11, or
- You checked the "Yes" box on lines 10 and 11.

Line 12a

List all foreign countries of which you are a citizen.

Line 12b

Indicate how you became a U.S. citizen. For example, if you acquired citizenship at birth, write "At Birth." If you acquired citizenship through naturalization, write "Naturalized Citizen."

Line 12c

Provide the date on which you became a citizen of each country listed on line 12a.

Line 13

If you were physically present in the United States for more than 60 days during the tax year, you will be taxed as a U.S. citizen or resident and must file Form 1040 for the current tax year. If in a subsequent year within the 10 year period you are not physically present more than 30 days during the year, you will again be subject to section 877 and file Form 1040NR. If you were present more than 60 days during the year, skip line 14.

Line 14

If you were physically present in the United States more than 30 days but not more than 60 days during the tax year, complete lines 14a and b. If you answer "No" to either question, you will be taxed as a U.S. citizen or resident and must file Form 1040 for the current tax year. If you answer "Yes" to both questions, you remain subject to section 877 for the tax year.

Signature

Form 8854 is not considered valid unless you sign it. If you have someone else prepare Form 8854, you are still responsible for its correctness.

Paid preparers. Generally, anyone you pay to prepare Form 8854 must sign it in the space provided. The preparer must give you a copy for your records. Someone who prepares Form 8854 but does not charge you a fee should not sign it.

Schedule A—Balance Sheet

Note. If there have been significant changes in your assets and liabilities for the period that began 5 years prior to your expatriation and ended on the date that you file Form 8854, you must attach a statement explaining the changes. Also, attach a similar statement if you expect significant changes in the 10-year period after expatriation or termination of residency.

Columns (a) and (b)

List the fair market value (in U.S. dollars) of each class of assets and your U.S. adjusted basis (in U.S. dollars) in the class of assets. You can use good faith estimates of fair market value and basis. Formal appraisals are not required.

Column (c)

Subtract the amounts in column (b) from the amounts in column (a) and show the gain or (loss) in column (c). Enter negative amounts in parentheses.

Column (d)

If you are a former U.S. LTR, it may benefit you to complete column (d). For more details, see section 877(e)(3)(B). Only former U.S. LTRs should complete column (d).

Enter in column (d) the fair market value of each asset on the date you first became a U.S. resident for tax purposes.

Note. The date you first became a U.S. resident for tax purposes is not always the same as the date you first became a U.S. LPR. For details on U.S. residency (including the substantial presence test), see Pub. 519.

Line 5a

List the appropriate amount in each column for all nonmarketable stock and securities issued by foreign corporations that would be controlled foreign corporations if you were still a U.S. citizen or resident. Note that these amounts are already included on line 5. Do not include amounts on this line in the total on line 20.

Line 8

List the total value of all your partnership interests. If you hold an interest in one or more partnerships, you must attach a statement to Form 8854 that lists each partnership separately. Include the employer identification number (EIN), if any, for each partnership. Describe the assets and liabilities of each partnership (using the categories on the balance sheet on page 3 of Form 8854) attributable to your interest in the partnership.

Line 9

List the total value of all assets held by trusts that you are considered to own for tax purposes. You must attach a statement to Form 8854 that lists each trust separately. Include the EIN (if any) for each trust. Describe the assets and liabilities of each trust (using the categories on the balance sheet on page 3 of Form 8854) attributable to your interest in the trust.

Note. To determine if you are an owner of a trust, see sections 671 through 679.

Line 10

List the total value of all assets held by nongrantor trusts in which you are considered to have a beneficial interest. You must attach a statement to Form 8854 that lists each trust separately. Include the EIN (if any) for each trust. Describe the assets and liabilities of each trust (using the categories on the balance sheet on page 3 of Form 8854) attributable to your interest in the trust.

Note. To determine if you are a beneficiary of a nongrantor trust, you must allocate the property interests of the trust based on all relevant facts and circumstances. To determine the value of your beneficial interest, use the valuation principles under section 2512. See section III of Notice 97-19 for examples of how the property interests of a nongrantor trust should be allocated to the beneficiaries of the trust. You can find Notice 97-19 on page 40 of Internal Revenue Bulletin 1997-10 at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb97-10.pdf.

Lines 11 and 12

Intangible property includes any of the following items that have substantial value independent of the services of any individual.

- Patent, invention, formula, process, design, pattern, or know-how.
- Copyright, literary, musical, or artistic composition.
- Trademark, trade name, or brand name.
- Franchise, license, or contract.
- Method, program, system, procedure, campaign, survey, study, forecast, estimate, customer list, or technical data.
- Any similar item.

Line 19

Attach a statement describing and listing the total value of any other assets you have that are not included on lines 1 through 18.

Line 20

Add lines 1 through 5 and 6 through 19, not including any amounts on line 5a. The amounts on line 5a are included in determining the amounts on line 5.

Line 23

Attach a statement describing and listing the total value of any other liabilities you have that are not included on lines 21 and 22.

Schedule B—Income Statement

Schedule B is required to satisfy the requirements of section 6039G(b)(5), and must be completed without regard to whether you have income subject to tax under section 877 for the tax year.

Note. If you are subject to section 877 for all or a portion of the tax year, and you derive income subject to tax under section 877 for the taxable year, you are liable for tax on that income as provided in section 1 or section 55, if the tax computed under such sections exceeds the tax that would be imposed on you under section 871. This generally means that you must report all income subject to tax under section 877 on Form 1040NR, whether or not it is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States, and you are not permitted to exclude certain types of income, such as portfolio interest or capital gains, which normally would be exempt from tax in the hands of a nonresident alien.

Treaty Residents

Most U.S. tax treaties do not prevent the United States from continuing to tax former citizens and former LTRs under domestic law. Unless the treaty prevents it, you will be subject to the rules of section 877.

Specific Line Instructions

Lines 3 through 6 require reporting of income which, but for the application of section 877(d), would be income from sources outside the United States. If you report income on these lines, you must also report this income as taxable income on Form 1040NR.

Line 5

If you owned (within the meaning of section 958(a) or (b)) at any time during the 2-year period ending on the date of your expatriation or termination of residency, more than 50% of the vote or value of a foreign corporation, income or gain you receive from the foreign corporation during the tax year will be treated as from sources within the United States, to the extent such income or gain is not more than the earnings and profits from such stock which were earned or accumulated before the date of your expatriation or termination of residency while such ownership requirements were met.

Line 6

If, during the current tax year, you exchanged any property, and (a) the gain would not (but for this paragraph) be recognized on such exchange in whole or in part, (b) income derived from such property was from sources within the United States (or, if no income was so derived, would have been from such sources), and (c) income derived from the property acquired in the exchange would be from sources outside the United States, then the property will be treated as sold for its fair market value on the date of the exchange, in accordance with Section V of Notice 97-19, 1997-1 C.B. 394. The removal of appreciated property with an aggregate fair market value in excess of $250,000, from the United States is an exchange of property covered by this provision.

Enter on line 5 the total amount of gain resulting from any such exchanges during the tax year, and if you have elected to enter into a gain recognition agreement with the IRS deferring the gain, attach a copy of the agreement to your Form 1040NR. If you dispose of any property covered by a gain recognition agreement during the tax year, also list the gain realized on this line. See Section V of Notice 97-19, for additional information on exchanges and gain recognition agreements.

Line 7

If, during the 10-year period beginning on the date of your expatriation or termination of residency, or during the 5 year period prior to your expatriation or termination of residency, you contributed U.S. source property to a foreign corporation that would be a controlled foreign corporation had you remained a U.S. citizen or LTR, any income or gain on that property received or accrued by the foreign corporation during the tax year is treated as received or accrued by you. See Section VI of Notice 97-19 for additional information.

Line 8

Add lines 1f through 7 to report your total income from U.S. sources.

Line 9

List the total amount of all other income or gain for the tax year.

Penalties

If you are subject to section 877 and required to file Form 8854 for any tax year, and you fail to file or do not include all the information required by the form or the form includes incorrect information, you will owe a penalty of $10,000 for that year, unless it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8860 to claim the qualified zone academy bond (QZAB) credit. A QZAB is a taxable bond issued after 1997 by a state or local government, the proceeds of which are used to improve certain eligible public schools. In lieu of receiving periodic interest payments from the issuer, the holder of the bond is generally allowed an annual income tax credit while the bond is outstanding. The credit compensates the holder for lending money to the issuer and functions as interest paid on the bond.

Who May Claim the Credit

An eligible taxpayer may claim the QZAB credit by filing Form 8860 for each tax year in which it holds a QZAB on the credit allowance date. To be an eligible taxpayer, the taxpayer must be a bank, insurance company, or other corporation actively engaged in the business of lending money. In addition, the shareholder of an S corporation may claim the credit from an S corporation that is an eligible taxpayer. The credit allowance date is the last day of (a) the 1-year period beginning on the date the bond was issued and (b) each successive 1-year period thereafter. The credit is deemed paid on the credit allowance date.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Current Year Credit

Line 1, Column (c)

Caution. Shareholders do not complete line 1. See the instructions for line 2.

Enter the face amount of the bond minus any payments of principal received.

Line 1, Column (d)

For bonds sold before July 1, 1999, the credit rate is 110% of the long-term applicable federal rate (AFR), compounded annually, for the month and year the bond is issued. The IRS announced the long-term AFR monthly in a series of revenue rulings published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

For bonds sold after June 30, 1999, the credit rate is the rate published daily by the Bureau of the Public Debt under "SLGS and Other Special Investments" on its Internet website at www.publicdebt.treas.gov. The rate is applied to the bond on the first day on which there is a binding contract in writing for the sale or exchange of the bond. The rate is determined by the Department of the Treasury based on its estimate of the yield on outstanding AA rated corporate bonds of a similar maturity for the business day immediately prior to the date on which there is a binding contract in writing for the sale or exchange of the bond.

Line 2

Complete line 2, not line 1, for a credit you received as a shareholder of an S corporation. If you received a QZAB credit from more than one S corporation, attach a schedule showing the EIN and credit amount for each S corporation and enter the total credit on line 2a.

Line 3

The current year credit on line 3 is deemed to be a payment of qualified stated interest (as defined in Regulations section 1.1273-1(c)) on the credit allowance date. Therefore, a holder on the accrual method must accrue the credit amount as taxable interest income over the 1-year period that ends on the credit allowance date. If the holder is an S corporation, the S corporation reports the interest income.

If the holder buys a bond between credit allowance dates, the interest (credit) accrued at the time of purchase is not interest income, and is not taxable as interest when paid. Instead, the payment of the interest (credit) on the credit allowance date is treated as a return of capital (to the extent of the accrued interest (credit) at the time of purchase), which reduces the holder's cost basis in the bond. If the holder sells a bond between credit allowance dates, part of the sales price is treated as interest accrued to the date of sale and must be reported as interest income.

Part II

Allowable Credit

S corporations complete only Part I of Form 8860 and pro-rate the credit on line 3 to their shareholders.

Corporations filing Form 8895, Section 965(f) Election for Corporations That are U.S. Shareholders of a Controlled Foreign Corporation, must see the instructions for Form 8895 for the amounts to enter on lines 4 through 7g.

Line 7f

If you are filing Form 3800, General Business Credit, enter the credit from Form 3800. If you are not filing Form 3800, enter the credit allowed for the current tax year (after the tax liability limit) from the general business credit form you are filing. See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit. Also include any credit from Form 8844, Empowerment Zone and Renewal Community Employment Credit, Form 6478, Credit for Alcohol Used as Fuel, or Section B of Form 8835, Renewable Electricity and Refined Coal Production Credit.

Line 9

If you cannot use all of the credit on line 3 because of the tax liability limit in Part II (i.e., line 3 is more than line 9), a deduction is allowed for any unused credit for the tax year that includes the credit allowance date. Because this deduction may further reduce the tax liability limit, the holder may need to refigure the tax liability limit and the unallowed credit. Refigure the unallowed credit until it equals the deduction. It may be necessary to use the "trial and error" method. If the holder is an S corporation, the shareholder, not the S corporation, takes the deduction.

Note: To the extent the unallowed credit is attributable to bonds sold after September 25, 2000, you may deduct the unallowed credit in the next tax year instead of the current tax year. See Regulations sections 1.1397E-1(f)(2) and (k).

General Instructions

What's New

The credit is not allowed with respect to wages for services of employees who began work for you after December 31, 2005.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8861 to claim the welfare-to-work credit for wages you paid to or incurred for long-term family assistance recipients during the tax year. The credit is 35% of qualified first-year wages and 50% of qualified second-year wages paid or incurred during the tax year.

You can claim or elect not to claim the welfare-to-work credit any time within 3 years from the due date of your return on either your original return or on an amended return.

How To Claim the Credit

To claim the welfare-to-work credit, you must request and be issued a certification for each employee from the state employment security agency (SESA). The certification proves that the employee is a long-term family assistance recipient. You must receive the certification by the day the individual begins work, or you must complete Form 8850, Pre-Screening Notice and Certification Request for the Work Opportunity and Welfare-to-Work Credits, on or before the day you offer the individual a job.

If you complete Form 8850, it must be signed by you and the individual and submitted to the SESA by the 21st calendar day after the individual begins work. If the SESA denies the request, it will provide a written explanation of the reason for denial. If a certification is revoked because it was based on false information provided by the worker, wages paid after the date you receive the notice of revocation do not qualify for the credit.

Long-term family assistance recipient. An employee may be certified as a long-term family assistance recipient if the employee is a member of a family that:

- Received assistance payments from Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) for at least 18 consecutive months ending on the hiring date,
- Received assistance payments from TANF for any 18 months (whether or not consecutive) beginning after August 5, 1997, and the employee is hired not more than 2 years after the end of the earliest 18-month period, or
- After August 5, 1997, stopped being eligible for assistance payments from TANF because federal or state law limits the maximum period such assistance is payable, and the employee is hired not more than 2 years after the date the eligibility for such assistance ended.

Additional Information

For more details, see Pub. 954, Tax Incentives for Distressed Communities, and section 51A.

Specific Instructions

Part I—Current Year Credit

Note. If you only have a credit allocated to you from a pass-through entity, skip lines 1 and 2 and go to line 3.

Line 1

Enter on the applicable line and multiply by the percentage shown the total qualified first-year or second-year wages paid or incurred to employees certified as long-term family assistance recipients. Qualified first-year wages are qualified wages you paid or incurred for work performed during the 1-year period beginning on the date the certified individual begins work for you. Qualified second-year wages are qualified wages you paid or incurred for work performed during the 1-year period beginning on the day after the last day of the first-year wage period. The amount of qualified first-year wages, and the amount of qualified second-year wages, which may be taken into account for any employee is limited to $10,000 per year.

Qualified Wages

Wages qualifying for the credit generally have the same meaning as wages subject to the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (FUTA). For agricultural employees, if the work performed by any employee during more than half of any pay period qualifies under FUTA as agricultural labor, that employee's wages subject to social security and Medicare taxes are qualified wages. For a special rule that applies to railroad employees, see section 51(h)(1)(B). Qualified wages for any employee must be reduced by the amount of any work supplementation payments you received under the Social Security Act for the employee.

Qualified wages also include the following amounts you paid or incurred for the employee that are excludable from the employee's gross income.

- Premiums and other amounts you paid or incurred under an accident and health plan excluded under section 105 or 106 (the amount must be based on the reasonable cost of coverage, but may not exceed the "applicable premium" under section 4980B(f)(4)).
- Educational assistance excluded under section 127, if paid or incurred to a person not related to the employer.
- Dependent care benefits excluded under section 129.

The amount of qualified wages for any employee is zero if:

- The employee did not work for you for at least 400 hours or 180 days,
- The employee worked for you previously,
- The employee is your dependent,
- The employee is related to you (see section 51(i)(1)), or
- 50% or less of the wages the employee received from you were for working in your trade or business.

Qualified wages do not include:

- Wages paid to any employee during any period for which you received payment for the employee from a federally funded on-the-job training program, and
- Wages for services of replacement workers during a strike or lockout at a plant or facility.

Successor employer. For successor employers, the 1-year period begins on the date the employee first began work for the previous employer and any qualified first-year wages paid by the successor employer are reduced by the qualified first-year wages paid by the previous employer. See section 51(k)(1) and Regulations section 1.51-1(h).

A successor employer is an employer that acquires substantially all of the property used in a trade or business (or a separate unit thereof) of another employer (the previous employer) and immediately after the acquisition the successor employs in his/her trade or business an individual who was employed immediately prior to the acquisition in the trade or business of the previous employer.

Special instructions for controlled group members. The group member proportionately contributing the greatest first-year wages figures the group credit in Part I and skips Part II. See sections 52(a) and 1563. On separate Forms 8861, that member and every other member of the group should skip line 1 and enter its share of the group credit on line 2. Each member then completes lines 3, 4, and 5 through 15 (or Form 3800, if required) on its separate form. Each member must attach to its Form 8861 a schedule showing how the group credit was divided among all the members. The members share the credit in the same proportion that they contributed qualifying wages.

Line 2

In general, you must reduce your deduction for salaries and wages by the amount on line 2. This is required even if you cannot take the full credit this year and must carry part of it back or forward.

The exceptions to this rule are as follows.

- If you capitalized any salaries and wages on which you figured the credit, reduce the amount capitalized by the amount of the credit on those salaries and wages.
- You used the full absorption method of inventory costing which required you to reduce your basis in inventory for the credit.

If either of the above exceptions applies, attach a statement explaining why the amount on line 2 differs from the amount by which you reduced your deduction.

Line 3

Enter the amount of credit that was allocated to you as a shareholder, partner, beneficiary, or patron of a cooperative.

Line 4

S corporations and partnerships. Allocate the credit on line 4 among the shareholders and partners. Attach Form 8861 to the return and on Schedule K-1 show the credit for each shareholder or partner. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Estates and trusts. Allocate the credit on line 4 between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocable to each. On the dotted line next to line 4, the estate or trust should enter its part of the total credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in Part II (or Form 3800, if required) to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041.

Cooperatives. Most tax-exempt organizations cannot take the credit. However, a cooperative described in section 1381(a) takes the credit to the extent it has tax liability. Any excess is shared among its patrons.

Regulated investment companies and real estate investment trusts. Reduce the allowable credit to the company's or trust's ratable share of the credit. For details, see Regulations section 1.52-3(b).

Part II—Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A welfare-to-work credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 11

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 12

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule and enter the TMT on line 12.

Line 15

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 14 is smaller than line 4), carry the unused credit back 1 year then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. ### Major Changes to Form 8862

- Updated years as appropriate.
- One page 1 under "Before you begin," we deleted the fourth item (concerning years prior to 2002) and deleted the words "for a year after 2001" from the third item. This information is no longer needed due to expiration of the statute of limitations for years prior to 2002 for most taxpayers.
- For the same reason, we deleted the caution in the instructions that advised taxpayers to not use this form for a year prior to 2002.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

You must complete Form 8862 and attach it to your tax return if both of the following apply.

1. Your EIC was reduced or disallowed for any reason other than a math or clerical error for a year after 1996.

2. You now want to claim the EIC and you meet all the requirements.

But do not file Form 8862 if either of the following applies.

- After your EIC was reduced or disallowed in an earlier year (a) you filed Form 8862 (or other documents) and your EIC was then allowed, and (b) your EIC has not been reduced or disallowed again for any reason other than a math or clerical error.

- You are taking the EIC without a qualifying child and the only reason your EIC was reduced or disallowed in the earlier year was because it was determined that a child listed on Schedule EIC was not your qualifying child.

Also, do not file Form 8862 or take the credit for the:

- 2 years after the most recent tax year for which there was a final determination that your EIC was reduced or disallowed due to reckless or intentional disregard of the EIC rules, or

- 10 years after the most recent tax year for which there was a final determination that your EIC was reduced or disallowed due to fraud.

You also must attach Schedule EIC to your return if you have a qualifying child or children. In addition to filing Form 8862 and, if required, Schedule EIC, you may be asked to provide other information before any refund claimed on your return is issued. The process of establishing your eligibility to take the EIC will delay your refund.

Additional Information

For more details on the EIC, including the definition of a qualifying child and who is eligible to take the EIC, see your tax return instructions or Pub. 596, Earned Income Credit (EIC), for the year for which you are filing Form 8862.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8864 to figure your biodiesel fuels credit. You claim the credit for the tax year in which the sale or use occurs. This credit consists of the:

- Biodiesel (or agri-biodiesel) mixture credit, and
- Biodiesel (or agri-biodiesel) credit.

Caution: Before claiming a credit on Form 8864, the qualified biodiesel mixture credit should be taken against any section 4081 liability on Form 720. Any credit in excess of the section 4081 liability can be taken as a claim for payment on Form 8849 or as an income tax credit on Form 4136.

Definitions and Special Rules

Biodiesel

Biodiesel means the monoalkyl esters of long chain fatty acids derived from plant or animal matter which meet the registration requirements for fuels and fuel additives established by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) under section 211 of the Clean Air Act, and the requirements of the American Society of Testing and Materials (ASTM) D6751.

Agri-Biodiesel

Agri-biodiesel means biodiesel derived solely from virgin oils, including esters derived from virgin vegetable oils from corn, soybeans, sunflower seeds, cottonseeds, canola, crambe, rapeseeds, safflowers, flaxseeds, rice bran, and mustard seeds, and from animal fats.

Biodiesel (or Agri-Biodiesel) Mixture

The biodiesel (or agri-biodiesel) must be used to make a qualified mixture. A qualified mixture combines biodiesel (or agri-biodiesel) with diesel fuel (defined below), determined without regard to any use of kerosene. The producer of the mixture either:

- Used it as fuel, or
- Sold it as fuel to another person.

The credit is available only to the producer who blends the mixture. The producer must use or sell the mixture in a trade or business and the credit is available only for the year the mixture is sold or used. The credit is not allowed for casual off-farm production of a qualified mixture.

Diesel Fuel

Diesel fuel means

- Any liquid that, without further processing or blending, is suitable for use as a fuel in a diesel-powered highway vehicle or diesel-powered train,
- Transmix, and
- Diesel fuel blendstocks (when identified by the IRS).

A liquid is suitable for this use if the liquid has practical and commercial fitness for use in the propulsion engine of a diesel-powered highway vehicle or diesel-powered train. A liquid may possess this practical and commercial fitness even though the specified use is not the liquid's predominant use. However, a liquid does not possess this practical and commercial fitness solely by reason of its possible or rare use as a fuel in the propulsion engine of a diesel-powered highway vehicle or diesel-powered train. Diesel fuel does not include gasoline, kerosene, excluded liquid, No. 5 and No. 6 fuel oils covered by ASTM specification D 396, or F-76 (Fuel Naval Distillate) covered by military specification MIL-F-16884.

An excluded liquid is any liquid that (a) contains less than 4% normal paraffins, or (b) has a (i) distillation range of 125° F or less, (ii) sulfur content of 10 parts per million or less, and (iii) minimum color of +27 Saybolt.

Transmix means a by-product of refined products created by the mixing of different specification products during pipeline transportation.

Certification

You must obtain and keep as part of your records a certification from the producer or importer of the biodiesel. The certificate is required for any credit claimed on lines 1–5. The certificate must identify the product produced and the percentage of biodiesel and agri-biodiesel in the product. If the producer or importer of the biodiesel is also the taxpayer claiming the biodiesel credit, the certificate is still required. See Publication 510, Excise Taxes for 2006, or Notice 2005-4 for a model certificate.

Straight Biodiesel (or Agri-Biodiesel)

The biodiesel must not be a mixture. The credit is for biodiesel (or agri-biodiesel) which during the tax year you:

- Used as a fuel in a trade or business, or
- Sold at retail to another person and put in the fuel tank of that person's vehicle.

However, no credit is allowed for biodiesel (or agri-biodiesel) you used as a fuel in a trade or business if that biodiesel (or agri-biodiesel) was sold in a retail sale described above.

Caution: You may be liable for a 24.4 cents per gallon excise tax on the biodiesel used in a qualified biodiesel or agri-biodiesel mixture that you used or sold for use in your trade or business. Report the tax liability on Form 720 on the line for IRS No. 60(c), for the quarter in which the mixture was sold or used. For more information, see the Instructions for Form 720.

Registration

All producers and importers of biodiesel must be registered with the IRS. See Form 637, Application for Registration (For Certain Excise Tax Activities).

Coordination With Excise Tax Credit

Only one credit may be taken with respect to any gallon of biodiesel. If any amount is claimed (or will be claimed), with respect to any gallon of biodiesel on Form 720, Quarterly Federal Excise Tax Return, Form 8849, Claim for Refund of Excise Taxes, or Form 4136, Credit for Federal Tax Paid on Fuels, then a claim cannot be made on Form 8864 for that gallon of biodiesel.

Recapture of Credit

You must pay a tax on each gallon of biodiesel (or the biodiesel in the mixture) at the rate you used to figure the credit if you:

- Separate the biodiesel from the mixture,
- Use the mixture other than as a fuel,
- Mix straight biodiesel on which the credit was allowed for the retail sale, or
- Use the straight biodiesel other than as a fuel.

Report the tax on Form 720, Quarterly Federal Excise Tax Return.

Additional Information

See Pub. 378, Fuel Tax Credits and Refunds.

Specific Instructions

Part I. Current Year Credit

Use lines 1 through 5 to figure any biodiesel fuels credit from your own trade or business.

Skip lines 1 through 5 if you are claiming only a credit that was allocated to you from a pass-through entity (that is, an S corporation, partnership, estate, or trust).

S Corporations, Partnerships, Estates, and Trusts

Figure the total credit on lines 1 through 7. Then, allocate the line 7 credit to each shareholder, partner, and beneficiary in the same way that income and loss are divided. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Line 5

Include this amount in income, under "other income" on the applicable line of your income tax return, even if you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit. However, if you are subject to alternative minimum tax (AMT), this amount is not income in computing AMT and must be subtracted when figuring your alternative minimum taxable income. Do this by including this amount on line 26 of Form 6251, line 23 of Schedule I, Form 1041, or line 2o of Form 4626.

Line 6

Enter the amount of credit that was allocated to you as a shareholder, partner, or beneficiary.

Line 7

For an estate or trust, the credit on line 7 is allocated between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocable to each. In the margin to the right of line 7, the estate or trust should enter its part of the total credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in lines 8 through 18 (or Form 3800 General Business Credit) to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041. Also, enter and identify the total beneficiaries' share of the credit to the right of line 7 and attach a schedule showing how the total credit was divided.

Part II. Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A biodiesel fuels credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 for a list of credits included in the general business credit.

Line 14

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 15

Although you may not owe AMT, you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter -0-. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule. Enter on line 15 the TMT from the line shown below.

- Individuals: Form 6251, line 33.
- Corporations: Form 4626, line 12.
- Estates and trusts: Form 1041, Schedule I, line 54.

Line 18

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 17 is smaller than line 7), carry the unused credit back 1 year and then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Note. Any unused credit cannot be carried back to a tax year ending before 2005.

Instructions for Form 8866

(Rev. August 2005)

Department of the Treasury
Internal Revenue Service

Use with the November 2002 revision of Form 8866)

Interest Computation Under the Look-Back Method for Property Depreciated Under the Income Forecast Method

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

What's New

- The tax rates used for the interest computation have changed. See the instructions for Line 6 on page 3.
- The address for making comments or suggestions on this form has changed. See Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice on page 4.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8866 to figure the interest due or to be refunded under the look-back method of section 167(g)(2) for property placed in service after September 13, 1995, that is depreciated under the income forecast method as described in section 167(g).

The income forecast method generally is limited to depreciation of:

- Motion picture films,
- Video tapes,
- Sound recordings,
- Copyrights,
- Books, and
- Patents.

Who Must File

General Rule

You generally must file Form 8866 to figure interest under the look-back method for each recomputation year for property placed in service after September 13, 1995, that you depreciate under the income forecast method.

Exception. The look-back method does not apply for any property that had an unadjusted basis (total capitalized cost) of $100,000 or less at the end of the recomputation year.

Recomputation Year

A recomputation year is generally the 3rd and 10th tax years after the tax year in which the property was placed in service.

Exception. A tax year is not a recomputation year for the property if, for each year before the recomputation year, the actual income from the property is within 10% of the estimated income taken into account in determining the depreciation deduction for the property under the income forecast method.

Additional Costs

Any costs incurred after the property was placed in service (that is not treated as separate property—see below) is taken into account by discounting (using the Federal mid-term rate determined under section 1274(d) as of the time the cost was incurred) the cost to its value as of the date the property was placed in service. However, you may elect not to apply this discounting rule to any property.

Separate property. The following costs are treated as separate property.

- Any costs incurred related to any property after the 10th tax year after the tax year the property was placed in service.
- Any other costs incurred if they are significant and give rise to a significant increase in the income from the property which was not included in the estimated income from the property.

Pass-Through Entities

A pass-through entity (partnership, S corporation, or trust) that is not closely held must apply the look-back method at the entity level to any property for which substantially all of the gross income is from U.S. sources. A pass-through entity is considered closely held if, at any time during any tax year for which there is income related to the property, 50% or more (by value) of the beneficial interests in the entity is held (directly or indirectly) by or for five or fewer persons. For this purpose, rules similar to the constructive ownership rules of section 1563(e) apply.

If you are an owner of an interest in a pass-through entity for every year in which any property was depreciated under the income forecast method and the entity is not subject to the look-back method at the entity level for that property, you must file this form for your tax year that ends with or includes the end of the entity's recomputation year. The pass-through entity will provide the information you need to complete this form on Schedule K-1.

Change of Taxpayer

If the taxpayer deducting depreciation under the income forecast method changes prior to the recomputation year, the taxpayer as of the end of the recomputation year will be responsible for the payment of interest, if any, due for any year in which the property was depreciated under the income forecast method. Generally, only the taxpayer that had depreciated property under the income forecast method in a year that an overpayment occurred may request a refund of interest on the overpayment.

Filing Instructions

Interest You Owe

If you owe interest, or no interest is to be refunded to you, attach Form 8866 to your income tax return. Neither you nor any paid preparer is required to complete the Signature section on Form 8866.

For taxpayers other than partnerships (that are not electing large partnerships), include any interest due in the amount to be entered for total tax (after credits and other taxes) on your return (for example, 2002 Form 1040, line 61; 2002 Form 1120, Schedule J, line 11, etc.). Next to the entry space, write "From Form 8866" and the amount of interest due.

For partnerships (other than electing large partnerships), write "From Form 8866" and any interest due in the bottom margin of the tax return, and attach a check or money order for the full amount payable to "United States Treasury." Write the partnership's employer identification number (EIN), daytime phone number, and "Form 8866 Interest" on the check or money order.

Interest To Be Refunded

If interest is to be refunded to you, do not attach Form 8866 to your income tax return. Instead, file Form 8866 separately with the IRS at the applicable address listed below.

- Individuals:
Philadelphia, PA 19255-0001
- All others:
Cincinnati, OH 45999-0001

Complete the Signature section on Form 8866 following the instructions for the Signature section of your income tax return. A paid preparer must also complete the Signature section. If additional Forms 8866 are needed (to show more than 3 prior tax years), sign only the first Form 8866.

File Form 8866 by the date you are required to file your income tax return (including extensions). Keep a copy of Form 8866 and any attached schedules for your records.

Filing a Corrected Form 8866

You must file a corrected Form 8866 only if the amount shown on line 6 for any prior year changes as a result of an error you made, an income tax examination, or the filing of an amended tax return.

When completing line 1 of the corrected Form 8866, follow the instructions on the form but do not enter the adjusted taxable income from line 3 of the original Form 8866. When completing line 5 of the corrected Form 8866, do not include the interest due, if any, from line 10 of the original Form 8866 that was included in your total tax when Form 8866 was filed with your tax return.

- If both the original and corrected Forms 8866 show interest you owe, file an amended income tax return following the filing instructions on page 1 and the amended return instructions for your tax return.
- If both the original and corrected Forms 8866 show interest to be refunded to you, write "Amended" in the top margin of the corrected Form 8866, and file it separately following the filing instructions beginning on page 1.
- If your original Form 8866 shows interest you owe and the corrected Form 8866 shows interest to be refunded to you, you must:

1. File an amended tax return showing $0 interest from Form 8866 and

2. File the corrected Form 8866 separately (but do not write "Amended" at the top of the form because this is the first Form 8866 that you will file separately for this recomputation year). Follow the filing instructions beginning on page 1 and the amended return instructions for your tax return.

- If the original Form 8866 shows interest to be refunded to you and the corrected Form 8866 shows interest you owe, you must:

1. File the corrected Form 8866 separately (with "Amended" written at the top) showing $0 interest to be refunded and

2. File an amended income tax return and attach a copy of the corrected Form 8866. Follow the filing instructions on page 1 and the amended return instructions for your tax return.

Attachments

If you need more space, attach separate sheets to the back of Form

8866. Put your name and identifying number on each sheet.

Specific Instructions

Recomputation Year

If you were an owner of an interest in a pass-through entity that has depreciated one or more properties under the income forecast method, enter your tax year that ends with or includes the end of the entity's recomputation year.

Name

Enter the name shown on your Federal income tax return for the recomputation year. If you are an individual filing a joint return, also enter your spouse's name as shown on Form 1040.

Address

Enter your address only if you are filing this form separately. Include the apartment, suite, room, or other unit number after the street address.

P.O. Box

Enter your box number instead of your street address only if your post office does not deliver mail to your home.

Foreign Address

Enter the information in the following order: city, province or state, and country. Follow the country's practice for entering the postal code. Please do not abbreviate the country name.

Identifying Number

If you are an individual, enter your social security number. Other filers must use their EIN.

Columns (a), (b), and (c)

Enter at the top of each column the ending month and year for:

- Each tax year prior to the recomputation year in which you depreciated property under the income forecast method to which this form applies and
- Any other tax year affected by such years.

Note. If there are more than 3 prior tax years, attach additional Forms 8866 as needed. On the additional Forms 8866, enter your name, identifying number, and tax year. Complete lines 1 through 8 (as applicable), but do not enter totals in column (d). Enter totals only in column (d) of the first Form 8866.

Line 1

Do not reduce taxable income or increase a loss on line 1 by any carryback of a net operating loss, net section 1256 contracts loss, or capital loss, except to the extent that carryback resulted from or was adjusted by the redetermination of depreciation under the income forecast method for look-back purposes.

Line 2

In each column, show a net increase to taxable income as a positive amount and a net decrease as a negative amount.

In figuring the net adjustment to be entered in each column on line 2, be sure to take into account any other income and expense adjustments that may result from the increase (or decrease) to depreciation under the income forecast method (for example, for an individual, a change to adjusted gross income may affect charitable contributions or medical expenses).

Include the following on an attached schedule.

1. Identify each property depreciated under the income forecast method to which this form applies.
2. For each property, report in columns for each prior year: (a) the amount of depreciation previously deducted based on estimated future income and (b) the amount of depreciation allowable for each prior year based on actual income earned before the end of the recomputation year and estimated future income to be earned after the recomputation year. Total the columns for each prior year and show the net adjustment to depreciation.
3. Identify any other adjustments that result from a change in depreciation under the income forecast method and show the amounts in the columns for the affected years so that the net adjustment shown in each column on the attached schedule agrees with the amounts shown on line 2.

An owner of an interest in a pass-through entity is not required to provide the detail listed in 1 and 2 with respect to prior years. The entity should provide the line 2 amounts with Schedule K-1 or on a separate statement for its recomputation year.

Note. Taxpayers reporting line 2 amounts from more than one Schedule K-1 (or a similar statement) must attach a schedule detailing by entity the net change to depreciation under the income forecast method.

Lines 4 and 5

Reduce the tax liability to be entered on lines 4 and 5 by allowable credits (other than refundable credits, for example, the credit for taxes withheld on wages, the earned income credit, the additional child tax credit, the credit for Federal tax paid on fuels, etc.), but do not take into account any credit carrybacks to the prior year in computing the amount to enter on lines 4 and 5 (except to the extent of carrybacks that resulted from or were adjusted by the redetermination of depreciation for look-back purposes).

Include on lines 4 and 5 any taxes (such as alternative minimum tax) required to be taken into account in the computation of your tax liability (as originally reported or as redetermined).

Line 6

Pass-through entities. Multiply the amount on line 2 by the applicable regular tax rate for each prior year shown in column (a), (b), or (c). The applicable regular tax rate is as follows.

1. Pass-through entities in which, at all times during the year, more than 50% of the interests in the entity are held by individuals directly or through other pass-through entities—For tax years beginning:

a. In 2000 or earlier . . . . .	39.6%
b. In 2001 . . . . .	39.1%
c. In 2002 . . . . .	38.6%
d. In 2003 or later . . . . .	35.0%

2. All other pass-through entities not included in 1 above: 35%.

Lines 7 and 8

For the increase or decrease in tax for each prior year, interest due or to be refunded must be computed at the adjusted overpayment rate determined under section 460(b)(7) and compounded on a daily basis, generally from the due date (not including extensions) of the return for the prior year until the earlier of:

- The due date (not including extensions) of the return for the recomputation year, or
- The date the return for the recomputation year is filed and any income tax due for that year has been fully paid.

Exceptions

- If a net operating loss, capital loss, net section 1256 contracts loss, or credit carryback is being increased or decreased as a result of the adjustment made to net income due to refiguring depreciation under the income forecast method, the interest due or to be refunded must be computed on the increase or decrease in tax attributable to the change to the carryback only from the due date (not including extensions) of the return for the prior year that generated the carryback and not from the due date of the return for the year in which the carryback was absorbed. See section 6611(f).

- In the case of a decrease in tax on line 6, if a refund has been allowed for any part of the income tax liability shown on line 5 for any year as a result of a net operating loss, capital loss, net section 1256 contracts loss, or credit carryback to such year, and the amount of the refund exceeds the amount on line 4, interest is allowed on the amount of such excess only until the due date (not including extensions) of the return for the year in which the carryback arose.

Note. If a different method of interest computation must be used to produce the correct result in your case, use that method and attach an explanation of how the interest was computed.

You must determine the adjusted overpayment rate for each interest accrual period. The interest accrual period starts on the day after the return due date (not including extensions) for each prior tax year and ends on the return due date for the following tax year. The adjusted overpayment rate in effect for the entire interest accrual period is the overpayment rate determined under section 6621(a)(1) for the calendar quarter in which the interest accrual period begins. Taxpayers other than corporations use Table 1 on this page to figure the interest for each interest accrual period that began during the applicable period shown in the table. Corporations generally use Table 2, for each interest accrual period that began during the applicable period shown in that table on page 4, but must use Table 3 to figure the interest on any portion of the increase or decrease in tax exceeding $10,000.

Tables of interest factors to compute daily compound interest were published in Rev. Proc. 95-17, 1995-1 C.B. 556. The overpayment rate in effect for each calendar quarter in which an interest accrual period begins and the table and corresponding page number in 1995-1 C.B. for calendar quarters through September 30, 2005, are shown in Table 1 below and in Tables 2 and 3 on page 4.

For periods beginning after September 30, 2005, use the applicable overpayment rate under section 6621(a)(1) in the revenue rulings published quarterly in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

Line 9

Additional interest to be refunded for periods after the due date of the return, if any, will be computed by the IRS and included in your refund. Report the amount on line 9 (or the amount refunded by the IRS if different) as interest income on your income tax return for the tax year in which it is received or accrued.

Line 10

Corporations (other than S corporations) may deduct this amount (or the amount computed by the IRS if different) as interest expense for the tax year in which it is paid or incurred. For individuals and other taxpayers, this interest is not deductible.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. The Privacy Act of 1974 and Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 say that when we ask you for information we must tell you our legal right to ask for it, why we are asking for it, and how it will be used. We must also tell you what could happen if we do not receive it and whether your response is voluntary or mandatory under the law.

Section 167(g) provides special rules for computing interest under the look-back method for property depreciated under the income forecast method. Section 6001 and its regulations say that you must file a return or statement with us for any tax for which you are liable. Your response is mandatory under this section and its regulations. Section 6109 and its regulations say that you must show your identifying number (social security number or employer identification number) on what you file. This is so we know who you are and can process your return and other papers.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to figure and collect or refund the correct amount of interest.

We may give the information to the Department of Justice and to other Federal agencies, as provided by law. We may give it to cities, states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. commonwealths or possessions to carry out their tax laws. ## General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8874 to claim the new markets credit for qualified equity investments made in qualified community development entities (CDEs). This credit is part of the general business credit.

Definitions

Qualified CDE

A qualified CDE is a domestic corporation or partnership that meets the following requirements.

- Its primary mission is serving, or providing investment capital for, low-income communities or persons.
- It maintains accountability to residents of low-income communities through their representation on any governing board or advisory board of the entity.
- It is certified as a qualified CDE by the Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFI) Fund of the Department of the Treasury.

Qualified CDEs also include specialized small business investment companies and community development financial institutions. See section 45D(c)(2).

Qualified Equity Investment

A qualified equity investment is an interest in a qualified CDE in the form of stock (other than nonqualified preferred stock) in a corporation or a capital interest in a partnership that meets all of the following requirements.

- You acquired the investment solely for cash at its original issue (or from a taxpayer for whom the investment was a qualified equity investment). The cash may be from borrowed funds, including a nonrecourse loan.
- Substantially all (at least 85%) of the cash is used to make qualified low-income community investments. The 85% requirement is reduced to 75% for the seventh year of the 7-year credit period.
- The investment was designated as a qualified equity investment by the CDE on its books and records for purposes of the new markets credit.

Generally, a qualified CDE can designate an equity investment as a qualified equity investment only if it applied for and received a new markets credit allocation and entered into an allocation agreement with the CDFI Fund before the equity investment was made.

Exceptions. An equity investment in an entity that otherwise qualifies as a qualified equity investment is eligible to be designated as a qualified equity investment if made prior to an allocation agreement only if either of the following applies.

- The equity investment was made on or after April 20, 2001, and the designation of the equity investment as a qualified equity investment is made for a credit allocation received under an allocation application submitted to the CDFI Fund no later than August 29, 2002. If the entity in which the equity investment is made does not receive an allocation under an allocation application submitted no later than August 29, 2002, the equity investment will not be eligible to be designated as a qualified equity investment. For details, see Regulations sections 1.45D-1(c)(3)(ii)(A) and 1.45D-1(c)(3)(iii).
- The equity investment was made on or after the date the CDFI Fund publishes a Notice of Allocation Availability (NOAA) in the Federal Register, and the designation of the equity investment as a qualified equity investment is made for a credit allocation received under an allocation application submitted to the CDFI Fund under that NOAA. If the entity in which the equity investment is made does not receive an allocation under that NOAA, the equity investment will not be eligible to be designated as a qualified equity investment. For details, see Regulations sections 1.45D-1(c)(3)(ii)(B) and 1.45D-1(c)(3)(iii).

The maximum amount of equity investments so designated by the qualified CDE cannot exceed the amount of the allocation it received from the CDFI Fund. The names and addresses of qualified CDEs that have received an allocation for each allocation round and the amount of that allocation is listed on the CDFI Fund website at www.cdfifund.gov/awardees.

How To Figure the Credit

A credit generally is allowed to the holder of the qualified equity investment on each of 7 credit allowance dates. The credit allowance dates are the date you make the initial investment and each of the next 6 anniversary dates. The credit is equal to the qualified equity investment multiplied by 5% (6% for the 4th through 7th years). However, the credit is not allowed for a credit allowance date if the investment is not a qualified equity investment on that date.

Recapture of the Credit

You may have to increase your tax by a credit recapture amount if at any time within 7 years from the date of the original issuance of the qualified equity investment:

- The entity ceases to be a qualified CDE,
- Substantially all of the proceeds of the investment cease to be used to make qualified low-income community investments, or
- The investment is redeemed or otherwise cashed out by the entity.

Exception. If a qualified equity investment fails to use substantially all of the proceeds to make qualified low-income community investments, the CDE may avoid recapture of the credit if the CDE corrects the failure within 6 months after the date it becomes aware (or reasonably should have become aware) of the failure. Only one correction is permitted for each qualified equity investment during the 7-year credit period.

See section 45D(g) and Regulations section 1.45D-1(e) for details, including how to figure the credit recapture amount. Generally, include the credit recapture amount on the line for recapture taxes on your income tax return for the year in which the recapture event occurs. For example, the credit recapture amount on a 2005 Form 1040 is reported on line 63 (total tax) and the amount on a 2005 Form 1120 is reported on Schedule J, line 10 (Other taxes).

You are not subject to recapture of the credit solely because you sell or otherwise dispose of your investment. However, you cannot claim the credit for any credit allowance date after the disposition.

Basis Reduction

You must reduce your basis in your qualified equity investment by the amount of the new markets credits allowed (even if part or all of the credit is not allowed for the current year and is carried forward). However, do not reduce your basis for purposes of figuring the exclusion of gain for:

- Qualified small business stock under section 1202,
- Certain DC zone assets under section 1400B, or
- Certain qualified community assets under section 1400F.

Additional Information

For more details, see Pub. 954, Tax Incentives for Distressed Communities, section 45D, Regulations section 1.45D-1, or www.cdfifund.gov.

Specific Instructions

Part I—Current Year Credit

Figure the credit for qualified equity investments in a qualified CDE you own on line 1. Complete line 2 (instead of line 1) for a credit that was allocated to you by an S corporation or a partnership from a qualified equity investment it made in a qualified CDE, either directly or through another pass-through entity.

Line 1

Enter the information requested for each qualified equity investment held directly by you on a credit allowance date in the current tax year. In column (e), enter the credit rate. For the first, second, or third year of the 7-year credit period, enter "5." For any later year, enter "6."

If you need more space, attach a statement showing all the information requested for each qualified equity investment. On the last row on line 1, write "See attached" in column (a) and enter the total of the credit amounts from the attached statement in column (f).

Line 2

If you have a new markets credit from more than one pass-through entity, attach a statement showing the employer identification number (EIN) and credit amount for each pass-through entity, write "See attached" in the entry space for the EIN, and enter the total of the credit amounts on line 2.

Line 3

S corporations and partnerships complete lines 1 and 2 and allocate the credit on line 3 to their shareholders or partners on Schedule K-1. Electing large partnerships must include this credit in "general credits."

Part II—Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- Another credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835) or

- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 10

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns and controlled corporate groups.

Line 11

Although you may not owe the alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your allowable credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule and enter the TMT on line 11.

Line 14

If you cannot use all of your credit because of the tax liability limit (line 13 is smaller than line 3), carry the unused credit back 1 year and then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Form 2350</li> </ul>	Complete Form 8878, Parts I and II only if the taxpayer authorizes the ERO to enter the taxpayer's PIN.

ERO Responsibilities

The ERO will:

- Enter the name(s) and social security number(s) of the taxpayer(s) at the top of the form.
- Complete Part I by entering the required information from the taxpayer(s) extension form.
- Enter or generate, if authorized by the taxpayer, the taxpayer's PIN and enter it in the boxes provided in Part II.
- Enter on the authorization line in Part II the ERO firm name (not the name of the individual preparing the return) if the ERO is authorized to enter the taxpayer's PIN.
- Give the taxpayer Form 8878 for completion and review. This can be done in person or by using the U.S. mail, a private delivery service, email, or an Internet website.

- Enter the 14-digit Declaration Control Number (DCN) assigned to the taxpayer's extension form, after the taxpayer completes Part II. See Part I of Pub. 1346, Electronic Return File Specifications and Record Layouts for Individual Income Tax Returns.

Taxpayer Responsibilities

Taxpayers have the following responsibilities: (a) to verify the accuracy of the prepared application for an extension of time to file, (b) to check the appropriate box in Part II to authorize the ERO to enter their PIN or to do it themselves, (c) to indicate or verify their PIN when authorizing the ERO to enter it (the PIN must be five numbers other than all zeros), (d) to sign and date Form 8878, and (e) to return the completed Form 8878 to the ERO by hand delivery, U.S. mail, private delivery service, or fax. Your application for extension of time to file will not be transmitted to the IRS until the ERO receives your signed Form 8878.

Important Notes for EROs

- Do not send Form 8878 to the IRS unless requested to do so. Retain the completed Form 8878 for 3 years from the return due date or IRS received date, whichever is later. Form 8878 may be retained electronically in accordance with the recordkeeping guidelines in Rev. Proc. 97-22, which is on page 9 of Internal Revenue Bulletin 1997-13 at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb97-13.pdf.
- You should confirm the identity of the taxpayer(s). For additional guidance, see Pub. 1345, Handbook for Authorized e-file Providers.
- Provide the taxpayer with a copy of the signed Form 8878 for his or her records upon request.
- Provide the taxpayer with a corrected copy of Form 8878 if changes are made to the extension form (for example, based on taxpayer review).
- Enter the taxpayer's PIN(s) on the input screen only if the taxpayer has authorized you to do so. If married filing jointly, it is acceptable for one spouse to authorize the ERO to enter his or her PIN, and for the other spouse to enter his or her own PIN. It is not acceptable for a taxpayer to select or enter the PIN of an absent spouse.
- If the taxpayer is making a payment by electronic funds withdrawal and for Form 4868 the ERO is not using the Practitioner PIN method, the ERO must enter the taxpayer's date of birth and prior year adjusted gross income amount from the taxpayer's originally filed tax return. This information will be required on the input screen. Do not use an amount from an amended return or a math error correction made by the IRS.
- Complete Part III only if you are filing Form 4868 using the Practitioner PIN method.

- You must receive the completed and signed Form 8878 from the taxpayer before the application for extension of time to file is transmitted (or released for transmission).

- For more information, see Pub. 1345 and Pub. 1345A, Filing Season Supplement for Authorized IRS e-file Providers. Also, go to www.irs.gov/efile and select e-file For Tax Professionals.

- Call 1-800-829-4477 and follow the recorded instructions.
- Call 1-800-829-1954.

Important Notes for EROs

- Do not send Form 8879 to the IRS unless requested to do so. Retain the completed Form 8879 for 3 years from the return due date or IRS received date, whichever is later. Form 8879 may be retained electronically in accordance with the recordkeeping guidelines in Rev. Proc. 97-22, which is on page 9 of Internal Revenue Bulletin 1997-13 at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb97-13.pdf.
- You should confirm the identity of the taxpayer(s). For additional guidance, see Pub. 1345, Handbook for Authorized e-file Providers.
- Complete Part III only if you are filing the return using the Practitioner PIN method. You are not required to enter the taxpayer's date of birth and prior year adjusted gross income for the Authentication Record of the electronically filed return.
- Enter, for the Authentication Record of the taxpayer's electronically filed return, the taxpayer(s) date of birth and adjusted gross income from the taxpayer's prior year originally filed return if you are not using the Practitioner PIN method. Do not use an amount from an amended return or a math error correction.
- Enter the taxpayer's PIN(s) on the input screen only if the taxpayer has authorized you to do so. If married filing jointly, it is acceptable for one spouse to authorize you to enter his or her PIN, and for the other spouse to enter his or her own PIN. It is not acceptable for a taxpayer to select or enter the PIN of an absent spouse.
- Generally, most taxpayers can use a PIN to sign their return instead of filing Form 8453, U.S. Individual Income Tax Declaration for an IRS e-file Return. However, they cannot use a PIN signature if they must use Form 8453 to send attachments to the IRS.
- Provide the taxpayer with a copy of the signed Form 8879 for his or her records upon request.

- Provide the taxpayer with a corrected copy of Form 8879 if changes are made to the return (for example, based on taxpayer review).

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

Eligible small employers use Form 8881 to claim the credit for qualified startup costs incurred in establishing or administering an eligible employer plan. The credit is allowed only for costs paid or incurred in tax years beginning after 2001 with respect to qualified employer plans first effective after 2001.

The credit is allowed under section 45E and is part of the general business credit. You may elect, however, to have section 45E not apply for your tax year beginning in 2005 by not filing Form 8881 with your 2005 tax return.

S Corporations and Partnerships

A partnership or S corporation that is an eligible small employer completes Part I of the form to figure the credit to pass through to its partners and shareholders. Show on Schedule K-1 each shareholder's or partner's allocable portion of the line 5 credit. Electing large partnerships must include this credit in "general credits."

How To Figure the Credit

For an eligible small employer, the credit is 50% of the qualified startup costs paid or incurred during the tax year. The credit is limited to $500 per year for the first credit year and each of the following 2 tax years. No credit is allowed for any other tax year.

Eligible small employer. To be an eligible small employer, you must have had no more than 100 employees during the tax year preceding the first credit year who received at least $5,000 of compensation from you during that tax year. However, you are not an eligible small employer if, during the 3 tax years preceding the first credit year, you established or maintained a qualified employer plan with respect to which contributions were made, or benefits were accrued, for substantially the same employees as are in the new qualified employer plan. See section 45E(c) for rules for controlled groups and predecessor employers.

Qualified startup costs. Qualified startup costs are expenses paid or incurred in connection with (a) establishing or administering an eligible employer plan or (b) the retirement-related education of employees about the plan.

Eligible employer plan. An eligible employer plan is a qualified employer plan (as defined in section 4972(d)) with at least one employee eligible to participate who is not a highly compensated employee. All eligible employer plans of the same employer are treated as one eligible employer plan.

First credit year. The first credit year generally is your tax year that includes the date that the eligible employer plan becomes effective. However, you may elect to have the preceding tax year be the first credit year, and claim the credit for qualified startup costs paid or incurred during that tax year. For example, a calendar-year eligible small employer whose eligible plan is first effective on January 1, 2006, may elect to treat 2005 as the first credit year and claim the credit on its 2005 tax return for qualified startup costs incurred in 2005.

No Deduction Allowed for Credit Amount

You must reduce your otherwise allowable deduction for startup costs by the credit amount on line 2.

Controlled Groups

All persons treated as a single employer under section 52(a), 52(b), 414(m), or 414(o) are treated as one person for purposes of the credit. If the group qualifies as an eligible small employer, the group member with the greatest startup costs figures the group credit on lines 1 and 2 and skips the rest of the form. On separate Forms 8881, each member skips line 1 and enters its share of the group credit on line 2. Each member then completes the remaining applicable lines on its separate Form 8881 (and Form 3800, if required). Each member must also attach a statement showing how the group credit was divided among all members. The members share the credit in the same proportion as they contributed qualified startup costs.

Additional Information

For more details, see section 45E.

Specific Instructions

Part I. Current Year Credit

If you paid or incurred qualified startup costs, complete lines 1 and 2. Complete line 3 for credits that were allocated to you from an S corporation or a partnership.

Part II. Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A credit for small employer pension plan startup costs from a passive activity,
- More than one of the credits included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 12

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, and estates and trusts.

Line 13

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your allowable credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule and enter the TMT on line 13.

Line 16

If you cannot use all of the credit because of the tax liability limit (line 15 is smaller than line 5), carry the unused credit back one year and then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

Form 8891 must be used by certain taxpayers who hold interests in Canadian registered retirement savings plans (RRSPs) or registered retirement income funds (RRIFs) to comply with the reporting requirements of Notice 2003-75, which is available at www.irs.gov.

Generally, a U.S. citizen or resident who is a beneficiary of a Canadian RRSP or RRIF is subject to U.S. income tax on any income from that plan for the year, even if the income is accrued, but not distributed, that year. Income from the plan may not be subject to Canadian income tax until the year in which actually distributed. This could result in double taxation.

Article XVIII(7) of the treaty provides that an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and the beneficiary of a Canadian pension, retirement, or employee benefit plan that is exempt from Canadian income tax can elect to defer U.S. income tax on income from the plan that is accrued, but not distributed, until the income is distributed (either from the plan or from another plan to which it is transferred in a tax-free rollover).

The procedures for making the election to defer United States income tax on the beneficiary's share of the income are described in Revenue Procedure 2002-23, which is available at www.irs.gov. Taxpayers who have not previously made the election under Revenue Procedure 2002-23 can make it on this form.

Form 8891 is used by United States citizens or residents to (a) report distributions received from Canadian registered retirement savings plans (RRSPs) and registered retirement income funds (RRIFs), (b) to report contributions and undistributed earnings, and (c) to make the election to defer U.S. income tax on income from an RRSP or an RRIF that has been accrued, but not distributed.

Who Must File

Form 8891 must be completed and attached to Form 1040 by any U.S. citizen or resident who is a beneficiary of an RRSP or RRIF. A U.S. citizen or resident who is an annuitant of an RRSP or RRIF must file the form for any year in which he or she receives a distribution from the RRSP or RRIF.

A separate Form 8891 must be filed for each RRSP or RRIF for which there is a filing requirement. If you and your spouse both must file Form 8891, you each must file a separate Form 8891.

Definitions

Beneficiary. A beneficiary of an RRSP or RRIF is an individual who is subject to current U.S. income taxation on income accrued in the RRSP or RRIF or would be subject to current income taxation had the individual not made the election under Article XVIII(7) of the U.S.-Canada income tax treaty to defer U.S. income taxation of income accrued in the RRSP or RRIF.

Annuitant. An annuitant of an RRSP or RRIF is an individual who is designated pursuant to the RRSP or RRIF as an annuitant.

Record Retention

Taxpayers must retain supporting documentation relating to the information reported on Form 8891, including Canadian forms T4RSP, T4RIF, or NR4, and periodic or annual statements issued by the custodian of the RRSP or RRIF.

Other Reporting Requirements

Pursuant to section 6048(d)(4), annuitants and beneficiaries who are required to file Form 8891 will not be required to file Form 3520, and will not be subject to the associated penalties described in section 6677 on such RRSPs or RRIFs.

Specific Instructions

Name

Even if you are filing a joint Form 1040 with your spouse, enter only your name.

Identifying number

Enter your U.S. social security number (SSN) or individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). Do not enter a Canadian identifying number.

Beneficiaries

A beneficiary who has previously made the election to defer income on the plan or is making it initially by checking the box on line 6c, must only complete lines 1 through 8 of the form.

Annuitants

If you are an annuitant, you should complete only lines 1 through 5, 7a, 7b, and 8.

Line 6

If the election you made previously was made under Rev. Proc. 89-45, check the "No" box. If an election (other than an election under Rev. Proc. 89-45) was made for an RRSP, and amounts from the RRSP were rolled over tax-free to an RRIF or another RRSP, the election is considered to have been made for the plan which received the tax-free rollover.

Line 7(b)

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8896 to claim the low sulfur diesel fuel production credit.

The credit generally is 5 cents for every gallon of low sulfur diesel fuel produced by a qualified small business refiner during the tax year. However, the total credits allowed for all tax years cannot be more than the refiner's qualified capital costs limitation on line 3. This credit is part of the general business credit.

Definitions*Low Sulfur Diesel Fuel

This is diesel fuel with a sulfur content of 15 parts per million or less.

Small Business Refiner

A small business refiner generally is a refiner of crude oil with an average daily domestic refinery run or average retained production for all facilities that did not exceed 205,000 barrels for the 1-year period ending on December 31, 2002. To figure the average daily domestic refinery run or retained production, only include refineries that were refineries of the refiner or a related person (within the meaning of section 613A(d)(3)) on April 1, 2003. However, a refiner is not a small business refiner for a tax year if more than 1,500 individuals are engaged in the refinery operations of the business on any day during the tax year.

Qualified Capital Costs

For each facility, qualified capital costs are costs paid or incurred to comply with the highway diesel fuel sulfur control requirements of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) during the period beginning January 1, 2003, and ending on the earlier of:

- The date 1 year after the date on which the refiner must comply with these EPA requirements with respect to such facility or
- December 31, 2009.

Qualified capital costs include costs for the construction of new process operation units or the dismantling and reconstruction of existing process units to be used in the production of low sulfur diesel fuel, associated adjacent or offsite equipment (including tankage, catalyst, and power supply), engineering, construction period interest, and site work.

In addition, the small business refiner must obtain certification from the IRS (which will consult with the EPA) that the taxpayer's qualified capital costs will result in compliance with the applicable EPA regulations. This certification must be obtained not later than the date that is 30 months after the first day of the first tax year in which the credit is determined.

Additional Information

For more details, including basis reduction, see section 45H.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Current Year Credit

Use lines 1 through 6 to figure any low sulfur diesel fuel production credit from your own trade or business.

Skip lines 1 through 6 if you are claiming only a credit that was allocated to you from a pass-through entity (that is, an S corporation, partnership, or cooperative).

Cooperative Election to Allocate Credit to Patrons

A cooperative described in section 1381(a) can elect to allocate any part of the low sulfur diesel fuel production credit among the patrons of the cooperative. The credit is allocated among the patrons eligible to share in patronage dividends on the basis of the quantity or value of business done with or for such patrons for the tax year.

To make an election, attach a statement to your timely filed return (including extensions) indicating the amounts you would report on lines 1 through 6 of Form 8896 without an election, the amounts you are electing to allocate to patrons, and any amounts that will not be allocated.

If you timely file your return without making an election, you can still make the election by filing an amended return within 6 months of the due date of the return (excluding extensions). Enter "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" on the amended return.

Once made, the election cannot be revoked.

S Corporations and Partnerships

Figure the total credit on lines 1 through 6. Then, allocate the line 6 credit to each shareholder or partner in the same way that income and loss are divided. Electing large partnerships include this credit in "general credits."

Line 1

Enter the number of gallons of diesel fuel produced with a sulfur content of 15 parts per million or less.

Line 3

On line 3, enter 25% of the qualified capital costs (defined above) for the facility that produced the fuel reported on line 1 if your average daily domestic refinery runs were not more than 155,000 barrels for the 1-year period ending on December 31, 2002. If your average daily domestic refinery runs were more than 155,000 barrels, the 25% is reduced (but not below zero) by multiplying it by 1 minus your excess over 155,000 barrels divided by 50,000 barrels.

Example. Your average daily domestic refinery runs were 165,000 barrels for the 1-year period ending on December 31, 2002. First divide 10,000 (your excess over 155,000 barrels) by 50,000 to get .2. Next subtract .2 from 1 to get .8. Then multiply 25% by .8 to get 20%. On line 3, enter 20% of the qualified capital costs for the facility that produced the fuel reported on line 1.

Line 4

Enter the total low sulfur diesel fuel production credits allowed for all prior tax years (as determined for line 6).

Part II

Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A low sulfur diesel fuel production credit from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 6478, or Section B of Form 8835), or

- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 to find out which credits are included in the general business credit.

Line 15

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, regulated investment companies, real estate investment trusts, and estates and trusts.

Line 16

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter -0-. Otherwise, complete and attach the AMT form or schedule and enter the TMT on line 16.

Line 19

If you cannot use all of your credit because of the tax liability limit (line 18 is smaller than line 8), carry the unused credit back 1 year and then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Comments: Please email, fax, call, or mail any comments by July 26, 2005.

Major Changes to the Form 8898 (July 2005)

The major changes since our last circulation dated 05/16/2005 are:

We reduced the number of pages from four pages to two pages. The leading between the lines was reduced.

We removed the attachment sequence number 118 because the form will not be an attachment to Form 1040 per Karen Van Fossan, SBSE International Policy Office.

We added an amount box for line 3 per a comment from Karen Van Fossan, SBSE International Policy Office.

In Part II, we added a Note after line 4b because the presence test does not apply to taxpayers under the new rules in the 2004 tax year.

On lines 4a and b, the entry lines for the date are flush right.

We moved the Note from the Part II header to follow line 5b and precede line 6.

On line 10, we deleted "and explain."

We clarified line 21 by adding a Note.

We changed the Sign Here block to reflect that the form will not be an attachment to Form 1040.

New 2005 Form 8901, Information on Qualifying Children Who Are Not Dependents

- Purpose: This is the first circulated draft of this new 2005 Form 8901 for your review and comments.
- TPCC Meeting: None, but may be arranged if requested.
- Other Products: Circulations of draft tax forms, instructions, notices, and publications are posted at:
http://taxforms.web.irs.gov/draft\_products.html
- Comments: Please email, fax, call, or mail any comments by August 19, 2005.

Major Changes to Form 8901

This is a new form for 2005. Under prior law, section 24(c)(1)(A) required that a qualifying child for purposes of the child tax credit be claimed as a dependent. Because of the changes made to Internal Revenue Code sections 24(c) and 152 by PL 108-311, it is now possible to have a child who is a qualifying child for purposes of the child tax credit but who is not a dependent.

Taxpayers claiming the child tax credit for one or more children that are not the taxpayer's dependent must provide the Internal Revenue Service information about that child on this new form. Taxpayers will provide the child's name, social security number, and the child's relationship to the taxpayer.

This form may become obsolete prior to release.

Name(s) shown on return

Your social security number

- Do not use this form for any child who is claimed as your dependent on Form 1040 or Form 1040A, line 6c.
- It will take us longer to process your return and issue your refund if you do not complete all columns for each qualifying child.
- Be sure the child's name and social security number (SSN) agree with the child's social security card. Otherwise, at the time we process your return, we may reduce or disallow your child tax credit. If the name or SSN on the child's social security card is not correct, call the Social Security Administration at 1-800-772-1213.

Qualifying Child Information

	(a) First name Last name	(b) Child's social security number	(c) Child's relationship to you (son, daughter, etc.)
Child 1
Child 2
Child 3
Child 4

General Instructions*Purpose of Form

Use Form 8901 to give the IRS information on any qualifying child (defined on back) who is not your dependent. To figure the amount of your child tax credit, see the instructions for Form 1040, line 52, or Form 1040A, line 33.

Who Must File

Use Form 8901 if your qualifying child is not your dependent because either of the following apply.

- You, or your spouse if filing jointly, can be claimed as a dependent on someone else's 2005 return.
- Your qualifying child is married and files a joint return for 2005 (other than a joint return filed only as a claim for a refund and no tax liability would exist for either spouse if they had filed separate returns).

Specific Instructions*Column (b)

If your child was born and died in 2005 and you do not have an SSN for the child, you can attach a copy of the child's birth certificate instead and enter "Died" in column (b).

If you do not have an SSN for the child because you tried to adopt the child but were unsuccessful or the adoption was not final by the end of 2005, enter "See page 2" in column (b). Then, on the bottom of page 2, enter the name and address of any agency or agent (such as an attorney) that assisted in the attempted adoption.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by Internal Revenue code section 6103.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, XX min.; Learning about the law or the form, XX min.; Preparing the form, XX min.; and Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the IRS, XX min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. See the Instructions for Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

Major Changes

Form W-4, Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate (2005)

1. Xs are used as placeholders throughout the form for dollar amounts that will be available later in 2004.
2. Dates were revised throughout the form and instructions.
3. We revised the jurat above the space for the employee's signature to cover the entire form and to be similar to the jurat on Form 1040. We did this to try to improve withholding compliance and reduce the number of name/TIN mismatches based on a suggestion from LMSB.
4. On page 2, we reversed the order of the first two columns in Table I of the Two-Earner/Two-Job Worksheet because the computation above considers the lowest paying job first.
5. We revised the Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice to reflect current law and expiration of the authority to disclose tax information to combat terrorism.

Form W-4 (2005)

Purpose. Complete Form W-4 so that your employer can withhold the correct Federal income tax from your pay. Because your tax situation may change, you may want to refigure your withholding each year.

Exemption from withholding. If you are exempt, complete only lines 1, 2, 3, 4, and 7 and sign the form to validate it. Your exemption for 2005 expires February 16, 2006. See Pub. 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax.

Note: You cannot claim exemption from withholding if: (a) your income exceeds $XXX and includes more than $XXX of unearned income (e.g., interest and dividends) and (b) another person can claim you as a dependent on their tax return.

Basic instructions. If you are not exempt, complete the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. The worksheets on page 2 adjust your withholding allowances based on itemized deductions, certain credits, adjustments to income, or two-earner/two-job situations. Complete all worksheets that apply. However, you may claim fewer (or zero) allowances.

Head of household. Generally, you may claim head of household filing status on your tax return only if you are unmarried and pay more than 50% of the costs of keeping up a home for yourself and your dependent(s) or other qualifying individuals. See line E below.

Tax credits. You can take projected tax credits into account in figuring your allowable number of withholding allowances. Credits for child or dependent care expenses and the child tax credit may be claimed using the Personal Allowances Worksheet below. See Pub. 919, How Do I Adjust My Tax Withholding? for information on converting your other credits into withholding allowances.

Nonwage income. If you have a large amount of nonwage income, such as interest or dividends, consider making estimated tax payments using

Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. Otherwise, you may owe additional tax.

Two earners/two jobs. If you have a working spouse or more than one job, figure the total number of allowances you are entitled to claim on all jobs using worksheets from only one Form W-4. Your withholding usually will be most accurate when all allowances are claimed on the Form W-4 for the highest paying job and zero allowances are claimed on the others.

Nonresident alien. If you are a nonresident alien, see the Instructions for Form 8233 before completing this Form W-4.

Check your withholding. After your Form W-4 takes effect, use Pub. 919 to see how the dollar amount you are having withheld compares to your projected total tax for 2005. See Pub. 919, especially if your earnings exceed $XXX,XXX (Single) or $XXX,XXX (Married).

Recent name change? If your name on line 1 differs from that shown on your social security card, call 1-800-772-1213 to initiate a name change and obtain a social security card showing your correct name.

Major Changes

Form W-4P, Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments (2005)

1. Xs are used as placeholders throughout the form for dollar amounts that will be available later in 2004.
2. Dates and years were revised throughout the form and instructions.
3. We made minor editorial changes throughout the form and instructions.
4. We deleted most of the second paragraph under "Payments Outside the United States" based on an inquiry from CC:INTL about whether the deleted language was consistent with section 1.1441-4(b)(1)(ii) of the regulations, which provides that withholding on qualified plan distributions (and certain other payments) to nonresident aliens is exclusively under section 1441 of the Code.
5. We revised the Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice in the instructions to reflect expiration of the authority to disclose tax information to combat terrorism.

Withholding Certificate for Pension or Annuity Payments

OMB No. 1545-0415

2005

Purpose. Form W-4P is for U.S. citizens, resident aliens, or their estates who are recipients of pensions, annuities, including commercial annuities, and certain other deferred compensation. Use Form W-4P to tell payers the correct amount of Federal income tax to withhold from your payment(s). You also may use Form W-4P to choose (a) not to have any income tax withheld from the payment (except for eligible rollover distributions or payments to U.S. citizens delivered outside the United States or its possessions) or (b) to have an additional amount of tax withheld.

Your options depend on whether the payment is periodic, nonperiodic, or an eligible rollover distribution as explained on pages 3 and 4. Your previously filed Form W-4P will remain in effect if you do not file a Form W-4P for 2005.

What do I need to do? Complete lines A through G of the Personal Allowances Worksheet. Use the additional worksheets on page 2 to adjust your withholding allowances for itemized deductions, adjustments to income, certain credits, or multiple pensions/more-than-one-income situations. If you do not want any income tax withheld, you can skip the worksheets and go directly to the Form W-4P below.

Sign this form. Form W-4P is not valid unless you sign it.

Additional Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

When should I complete the form? Complete Form W-4P and give it to the payer as soon as possible. Get Pub. 919, How Do I Adjust My Tax Withholding? to see how the dollar amount you are having withheld compares to your projected total tax for 2005. You may also use the Withholding Calculator on the IRS website at www.irs.gov/individuals for help in determining how many withholding allowances to claim on your Form W-4P.

Multiple pensions/more than one income. To figure the number of allowances that you may claim, combine allowances and income subject to withholding from all sources on one worksheet. You may file a Form W-4P with each pension payer, but do not claim the same allowances more than once. Your withholding will usually be more accurate if you claim all allowances on the Form W-4P for the highest source of income subject to withholding.

Other income. If you have a large amount of income from other sources not subject to withholding (such as interest, dividends, or capital gains), consider making estimated tax payments using Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. Call 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676) to get Form 1040-ES and Pub. 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax. You can also get forms and publications from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Note: Social security and railroad retirement payments may be includible in income. See Form W-4V, Voluntary Withholding Request, for information on voluntary withholding from these payments.

Withholding From Pensions and Annuities

Generally, Federal income tax withholding applies to the taxable part of payments made from pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, annuity, and certain deferred compensation plans; from individual retirement arrangements (IRAs); and from commercial annuities. However, qualified distributions from a Roth IRA are nontaxable and, therefore, not subject to withholding. The method and rate of withholding depends on the kind of payment that you receive. Also, because your tax situation may change from year to year, you may want to refigure your withholding each year. You can change the amount to be withheld by using lines 2 and 3 of Form W-4P.

Choosing not to have income tax withheld. You (or in the event of death, your beneficiary or estate) can choose not to have income tax withheld from your payments by using line 1 of Form W-4P. For an estate, the election to have no income tax withheld may be made by the executor or personal representative of the decedent. Enter the estate's EIN in the area reserved for "Your social security number" on Form W-4P.

You may not make this choice for eligible rollover distributions. See Eligible rollover distribution—20% withholding on page 4. Also, this choice does not apply to certain recipients who have payments delivered outside the United States or its possessions. See Payments Outside the United States on page 4.

Caution: There are penalties for not paying enough tax during the year, either through withholding or estimated tax payments. New retirees, especially, should see Pub. 505. It explains your estimated tax requirements and describes penalties in detail. You may be able to avoid quarterly estimated tax payments by having enough tax withheld from your pension or annuity using Form W-4P.

Periodic payments. Withholding from periodic payments of a pension or annuity is figured in the same manner as withholding from wages. Periodic payments are made in installments at regular intervals over a period of more than 1 year. They may be paid annually, quarterly, monthly, etc.

If you want income tax to be withheld, you must designate the number of withholding allowances on line 2 of Form W-4P. Under current law, you cannot designate a specific dollar amount to be withheld. However, you can designate an additional amount to be withheld on line 3. If you do not want any income tax withheld from your periodic payments, check the box on line 1 of Form W-4P and submit the form to your payer.

Caution: If you do not submit Form W-4P to your payer, the payer must withhold on periodic payments as if you are married claiming three withholding allowances. Generally, this means that tax will be withheld if your pension or annuity is at least $X,XXX a month.

If you submit a Form W-4P that does not contain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN), the payer must withhold as if you are single claiming zero withholding allowances even if you choose not to have income tax withheld.

There are some kinds of periodic payments for which you cannot use Form W-4P because they are already defined as wages subject to income tax withholding. These payments include retirement pay for service in the U.S. Armed Forces and payments from certain nonqualified deferred compensation plans and compensation plans of exempt organizations described in section 457. Your payer should be able to tell you whether Form W-4P applies.

For periodic payments, your Form W-4P stays in effect until you change or revoke it. Your payer must notify you each year of your right to choose not to have Federal income tax withheld or to change your choice.

Nonperiodic payments—10% withholding. Your payer must withhold at a flat 10% rate from nonperiodic payments (but see Eligible rollover distribution—20% withholding on page 4) unless you choose not to have income tax withheld. Distributions from an IRA that are payable on demand are treated as nonperiodic payments. You can choose not to have income tax withheld from a nonperiodic payment by submitting Form W-4P (containing your correct TIN) to your payer and checking the box on line 1. Generally, your choice not to have income tax withheld will apply to any later payment from the same plan. You cannot use line 2 for nonperiodic payments. But you may use line 3 to specify an additional amount that you want withheld.

Caution: If you submit a Form W-4P that does not contain your correct TIN, the payer cannot honor your request not to have income tax withheld and must withhold 10%.

Eligible rollover distribution—20% withholding.

Distributions that you receive from qualified pension or annuity plans (e.g., 401(k) pension plans, IRAs, and section 457(b) plans maintained by a governmental employer) or tax-sheltered annuities that are eligible to be rolled over tax free to an IRA or qualified plan are subject to a flat 20% withholding rate. The 20% withholding rate is required, and you cannot choose not to have income tax withheld from eligible rollover distributions. See Pub. 505 for details. Do not give Form W-4P to your payer unless you want an additional amount withheld. Then, complete line 3 of Form W-4P and submit the form to your payer.

Note: The payer will not withhold income tax if the entire distribution is transferred by the plan administrator in a direct rollover to a traditional IRA, qualified pension plan, governmental section 457(b) plan (if allowed by the plan), or tax-sheltered annuity.

Payments Outside the United States

If you are a U.S. citizen or resident alien receiving periodic or nonperiodic payments that are delivered outside the United States or its possessions, withholding is required. You cannot choose not to have income tax withheld on line 1 of Form W-4P.

Foreign persons are subject to withholding under section 1441 and should complete Form W-8BEN, Certificate of Foreign Status of Beneficial Owner for United States Tax Withholding, if applicable.

Changing Your “No Withholding” Choice

Periodic payments. If you previously chose not to have income tax withheld and you now want withholding, complete another Form W-4P and submit it to your payer. If you want income tax withheld at the rate set by law (married with three allowances), write “Revoked” next to the checkbox on line 1 of the form. If you want tax withheld at any different rate, complete line 2 on the form.

Nonperiodic payments. If you previously chose not to have income tax withheld and you now want withholding, write “Revoked” next to the checkbox on line 1 and submit Form W-4P to your payer.

Statement of Income Tax Withheld From Your Pension or Annuity

By January 31 of next year, your payer will furnish a statement to you on Form 1099-R, Distributions From Pensions, Annuities, Retirement or Profit-Sharing Plans, IRAs, Insurance Contracts, etc., showing the total amount of your pension or annuity payments and the total income tax withheld during the year.

General Instructions

Purpose of form. Give this form to the third-party payer of your sick pay, such as an insurance company, if you want federal income tax withheld from the payments. You are not required to have federal income tax withheld from sick pay paid by a third party. However, if you choose to request such withholding, Internal Revenue Code sections 3402(o) and 6109 and their regulations require you to provide the information requested on this form. Do not use this form if your employer (or its agent) makes the payments because employers are already required to withhold income tax from sick pay.

Note: If you receive sick pay under a collective bargaining agreement, see your union representative or employer.

Definition. Sick pay is a payment that you receive:

1. Under a plan your employer takes part in and
2. In place of wages for any period when you are temporarily absent from work because of sickness or injury.

Amount to be withheld. Enter on this form the amount that you want withheld from each payment. The amount that you enter:

- Must be in whole dollars (for example, $35, not $34.50).
- Must be at least $20 a week.
- Must not reduce the net amount of each sick pay payment that you receive to less than $10.

For payments larger or smaller than a regular full payment of sick pay, the amount withheld will be in the same proportion as your regular withholding from sick pay. For example, if your regular full payment of $100 a week normally has $25 (25%) withheld, then $20 (25%) will be withheld from a partial payment of $80.

Caution: Generally, you may be subject to a penalty if your tax payments during the year are not at least 90% of the tax shown on your tax return. For exceptions and details, see Pub. 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax. You may pay tax during the year through withholding or estimated tax payments or both. To avoid a penalty, make sure that you have enough tax withheld or make estimated tax payments using Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. You may estimate your income tax liability by using the worksheet above.

Sign this form. Form W-4S is not valid unless you sign it.

Statement of income tax withheld. After the end of the year, you will receive a Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, reporting the taxable sick pay paid and income tax withheld during the year. These amounts are reported to the Internal Revenue Service.

Changing your withholding. Form W-4S remains in effect until you change or revoke it. You may do this by giving a new Form W-4S or a written notice to the payer of your sick pay. To revoke your previous Form W-4S, complete a new Form W-4S and write "Revoked" in the money amount box, sign it, and give it to the payer.

Specific Instructions for Worksheet

You may use the worksheet on page 1 to estimate the amount of income tax that you want withheld from each sick pay payment. Use your tax return for last year and the worksheet as a basis for estimating your tax, tax credits, and withholding for this year.

You may not want to use Form W-4S if you already have your total tax covered by estimated tax payments or other withholding.

If you expect to file a joint return, be sure to include the income, deductions, credits, and payments of both yourself and your spouse in figuring the amount you want withheld.

Caution: If any of the amounts on the worksheet change after you give Form W-4S to the payer, you may use a new Form W-4S to request a change in the amount withheld.

Line 2—Deductions

Itemized deductions. You may have to reduce your itemized deductions if your income is over $XXX,XXX ($XX,XXX if married filing separately). See Pub. 919 for details.

Standard deduction, individuals (other than the elderly or blind). For 2005, the amounts are:

Filing Status	Standard Deduction
Married filing jointly or qualifying widow(er) . . . . .	$X,XXX*
Head of household . . . . .	$X,XXX*
Single . . . . .	$X,XXX*
Married filing separately . . . . .	$X,XXX*

*If you are age 65 or older or blind, add to the standard deduction amount the additional amount that applies to you as shown in the next paragraph. If you can be claimed as a dependent on another person's return, see Limited standard deduction for dependents below.

Additional amount for the elderly or blind. An additional standard deduction of $XXX is allowed for a married individual (filing jointly or separately) or qualifying widow(er) who is 65 or older or blind, $X,XXX if 65 or older and blind. If both spouses are 65 or older or blind, an additional $X,XXX is allowed on a joint return ($X,XXX on a separate return if you can claim an exemption for your spouse). If both spouses are 65 or older and blind, an additional $X,XXX is allowed on a joint return ($X,XXX on a separate return if you can claim an exemption for your spouse). An additional $X,XXX is allowed for an unmarried individual (single or head of household) who is 65 or older or blind, $X,XXX if 65 or older and blind.

Limited standard deduction for dependents. If you can be claimed as a dependent on another person's return, your standard deduction is the greater of: (a) $XXX or (b) your earned income plus $XXX (up to the regular standard deduction for your filing status). If you are 65 or older or blind, see Pub. 505 for additional amounts that you may claim.

Certain individuals not eligible for standard deduction. For the following individuals, the standard deduction is zero:

- A married individual filing a separate return if either spouse itemizes deductions.
- A nonresident alien individual.
- An individual filing a return for a period of less than 12 months because of a change in his or her annual accounting period.

Line 7—Credits

Include on this line any tax credits that you are entitled to claim, such as the child tax and higher education credits, credit for child and dependent care expenses, earned income credit, or credit for the elderly or the disabled.

Line 9—Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax

Enter the income tax that you expect will be withheld this year on income other than sick pay and any payments that you made using Form 1040-ES. Include income tax withheld from wages and pensions.

2006 Form W-5

Department of the Treasury
Internal Revenue ServiceInstructions*Purpose of Form

Use Form W-5 if you are eligible to get part of the earned income credit (EIC) in advance with your pay and choose to do so. See Who Is Eligible To Get Advance EIC Payments? below. The amount you can get in advance generally depends on your wages. If you are married, the amount of your advance EIC payments also depends on whether your spouse has filed a Form W-5 with his or her employer. However, your employer cannot give you more than $X,XXX throughout 2006 with your pay. You will get the rest of any EIC you are entitled to when you file your tax return and claim the EIC.

If you do not choose to get advance payments, you can still claim the EIC on your 2006 tax return.

What Is the EIC?

The EIC is a credit for certain workers. It reduces the tax you owe. It may give you a refund even if you do not owe any tax.

Who Is Eligible To Get Advance EIC Payments?

You are eligible to get advance EIC payments if all three of the following apply.

1. You expect to have at least one qualifying child. If you do not expect to have a qualifying child, you may still be eligible for the EIC, but you cannot receive advance EIC payments. See Who Is a Qualifying Child? below.

2. You expect that your 2006 earned income and adjusted gross income (AGI) will each be less than $XX,XXX ($XX,XXX if you expect to file a joint return for 2006). Include your spouse's income if you plan to file a joint return. As used on this form, earned income does not include amounts inmates in penal institutions are paid for their work, amounts received as a pension or annuity from a nonqualified deferred compensation plan or a nongovernmental section 457 plan, or nontaxable earned income.

3. You expect to be able to claim the EIC for 2006. To find out if you may be able to claim the EIC, answer the questions on page 2.

How To Get Advance EIC Payments

If you are eligible to get advance EIC payments, fill in the 2006 Form W-5 at the bottom of this page. Then, detach it and give it to your employer. If you get advance payments, you must file a 2006 Form 1040 or 1040A income tax return.

You may have only one Form W-5 in effect at one time. If you and your spouse are both employed, you should file separate Forms W-5.

This Form W-5 expires on December 31, 2006. If you are eligible to get advance EIC payments for 2007, you must file a new Form W-5 next year.

You may be able to get a larger credit when you file your 2006 return. For details, see Additional Credit on page 3.

Who Is a Qualifying Child?

A qualifying child is any child who meets all three of the following conditions.

1. The child is:

a. Your son, daughter, adopted child (including a child lawfully placed with you for legal adoption even if the adoption is not final), stepchild, or a descendant of any of them (for example, your grandchild), or

b. Your brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, or a descendant of any of them (for example, your niece or nephew), or

c. A foster child (any child placed with you by an authorized placement agency or by judgment, decree, or other order of any court of competent jurisdiction).

Give the bottom part to your employer; keep the top part for your records.

Questions To See if You May Be Able To Claim the EIC for 2006

You cannot claim the EIC if you plan to file either Form 2555 or Form 2555-EZ (relating to foreign earned income) for 2005. You also cannot claim the EIC if you are a nonresident alien for any part of 2006 unless you are married to a U.S. citizen or resident, file a joint return, and elect to be taxed as a resident alien for all of 2006.

- 1 Do you expect to have a qualifying child? Read Who Is a Qualifying Child? that starts on page 1 before you answer this question. If the child is married, be sure you also read Married child on page 3.

- ☐ No. You may be able to claim the EIC but you cannot get advance EIC payments.
☐ Yes. Continue.

If the child meets the conditions to be a qualifying child for both you and another person, see Qualifying child of more than one person on page 3.

- 2 Do you expect your 2006 filing status to be married filing a separate return?

- ☐ Yes. You cannot claim the EIC.
☐ No. Continue.

If you expect to file a joint return for 2006, include your spouse's income when answering questions 3 and 4.

- 3 Do you expect that your 2006 earned income and AGI will each be less than: $XX,XXX ($XX,XXX if married filing jointly) if you expect to have 1 qualifying child; $XX,XXX ($XX,XXX if married filing jointly) if you expect to have 2 or more qualifying children?

- ☐ No. You cannot claim the EIC.
☐ Yes. Continue. But remember, you cannot get advance EIC payments if you expect your 2006 earned income or AGI will be $XX,XXX ($XX,XXX or more if married filing jointly) or more.

- 4 Do you expect that your 2006 investment income will be more than $X,XXX? For most people, investment income is the total of their taxable interest, ordinary dividends, capital gain distributions, and tax-exempt interest. However, if you plan to file a 2006 Form 1040, see the 2005 Form 1040 instructions to figure your investment income.

- ☐ Yes. You cannot claim the EIC.
☐ No. Continue.

- 5 Do you expect that you, or your spouse if filing a joint return, will be a qualifying child of another person for 2006?

- ☐ No. You may be able to claim the EIC.
☐ Yes. You cannot claim the EIC.

2. At the end of 2006, the child is under age 19, or under age 24 and a student, or any age and permanently and totally disabled. A student is a child who during any 5 months of 2005 (a) was enrolled as a full-time student at a school or (b) took a full-time, on-farm training course given by a school or a state, county, or local government agency. A school includes a technical, trade, or mechanical school. It does not include an on-the-job training course, correspondence school, or night school.

3. The child lives with you in the United States for over half of 2006. But you do not have to meet this condition if (a) the child was born or died during the year and your home was this child's home for the entire time he or she was alive in 2006, or (b) the child is presumed by law enforcement authorities to have been kidnapped by someone who is not a family member and the child lived with you for over half of the part of the year before he or she was kidnapped.

Note. Temporary absences, such as for school, vacation, medical care, or detention in a juvenile facility, count as time lived at home. Members of the military on extended active duty outside the United States are considered to be living in the United States.

Married child. A child who is married at the end of 2006 is a qualifying child only if:

1. You may claim him or her as your dependent, or
2. You are the custodial parent and would be able to claim the child as your dependent, but the noncustodial parent claims the child as a dependent because:
  - a. You signed Form 8332, Release of Claim to Exemption for Child of Divorced or Separated Parents, or a similar statement, agreeing not to claim the child for 2006, or
  - b. You have a pre-1985 divorce decree or separation agreement that allows the noncustodial parent to claim the child and he or she gives at least $600 for the child's support in 2006.

Other rules may apply. See Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information, for more information on children of divorced or separated parents.

Qualifying child of more than one person. If the child meets the conditions to be a qualifying child of more than one person, only one person may treat that child as a qualifying child for 2006. If more than one person actually claims the credit based on the same qualifying child, the IRS will apply the "tie-breaker" rules to determine which person can treat the child as a qualifying child for 2006. The "tie-breaker" rules are in Table 2, When More Than One Person Claims EIC Using Same Child, in Pub. 596, Earned Income Credit (EIC).

Caution. A qualifying child whom you use to claim the EIC must have a valid social security number unless he or she was born and died in 2006.

What if My Situation Changes?

If your situation changes after you give Form W-5 to your employer, you will probably need to file a new Form W-5. For example, you must file a new Form W-5 if any of the following applies for 2006.

- You no longer expect to have a qualifying child. Check "No" on line 1 of your new Form W-5.
- You no longer expect to be able to claim the EIC for 2006. Check "No" on line 1 of your new Form W-5.
- You no longer want advance payments. Check "No" on line 1 of your new Form W-5.
- Your spouse files Form W-5 with his or her employer. Check "Yes" on line 3 of your new Form W-5.

Note. If you get advance EIC payments and find you are not eligible for the EIC, you must pay back these payments when you file your 2006 federal income tax return.

Additional Information

How To Claim the EIC

If you are eligible, claim the EIC on your 2006 tax return. See your 2006 tax return instruction booklet.

Additional Credit

You may be able to claim a larger credit when you file your 2006 Form 1040 or Form 1040A because your employer cannot give you more than $X,XXX throughout the year with your pay. You may also be able to claim a larger credit if you have more than one qualifying child. But you must file your 2005 tax return to claim any additional credit.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form W-7 to apply for an IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). An ITIN is a nine-digit number issued by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to individuals who are required for U.S. tax purposes to have a U.S. taxpayer identification number but who do not have, and are not eligible to obtain, a social security number (SSN).

The ITIN is for federal tax purposes only. It does not entitle you to social security benefits and does not change your immigration status or your right to work in the United States. Also, individuals filing tax returns using an ITIN are not eligible for the earned income credit (EIC).

SSNs. Do not complete Form W-7 if you have an SSN or you are eligible to obtain an SSN. You are eligible for an SSN if you are a U.S. citizen or if you have been admitted by the United States for permanent residence or U.S. employment.

If you have an application for an SSN pending, do not file Form W-7. Complete Form W-7 only if the Social Security Administration (SSA) notifies you that an SSN cannot be issued.

To obtain an SSN, see Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card. To get Form SS-5 or to find out if you are eligible to obtain an SSN, go to www.socialsecurity.gov or contact an SSA office.

Who Must Apply

Any individual who is not eligible to obtain an SSN but who must furnish a taxpayer identification number must apply for an ITIN on Form W-7. Examples are:

- A nonresident alien individual eligible to obtain the benefit of reduced withholding under an income tax treaty. See Pub. 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities.
- A nonresident alien individual not eligible for an SSN who is required to file a U.S. tax return or who is filing a U.S. tax return only to claim a refund.
- A nonresident alien individual not eligible for an SSN who elects to file a joint U.S. tax return with a spouse who is a U.S. citizen or resident.
- A U.S. resident alien (based on the substantial presence test) who files a U.S. tax return but who is not eligible for an SSN. For information about the substantial presence test, see Pub. 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens.
- An alien spouse claimed as an exemption on a U.S. tax return who is not eligible to obtain an SSN.
- An alien individual eligible to be claimed as a dependent on a U.S. tax return but who is not eligible to obtain an SSN. To determine if an alien individual is eligible to be claimed as a dependent on a U.S. tax return, see Pub. 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information, and Pub. 519.
- A nonresident alien student, professor, or researcher who is required to file a U.S. tax return but who is not eligible for an SSN.
- A dependent/spouse of a nonresident alien holding a U.S. visa who is not eligible for an SSN.

ITIN not needed for Forms 4868, 2688, 1040-ES, or 1040-ES(NR). If you are filing an application for an extension of time to file using Form 4868 or Form 2688, or making an estimated tax payment using Form 1040-ES or Form 1040-ES(NR), do not file Form W-7 with these forms. Enter "ITIN TO BE REQUESTED" wherever your SSN or ITIN is requested. An ITIN will be issued only after you file a tax return and meet all other requirements.

How To Apply

Your application must include all of the following.

1. Your completed Form W-7.
2. Your original, completed tax return(s) for which the ITIN is needed. Attach Form W-7 to the front of your tax return.

After your Form W-7 has been processed, the IRS will assign an ITIN to the return and process the return. The tax return will be processed as if it were filed at the address listed in the tax return instructions. Do not send a copy of the return to any other IRS office.

If you are not required to file a tax return or if you fail to file a completed tax return with your Form W-7, you will not be issued an ITIN, unless one of the exceptions explained on page 3 applies. If an exception applies, include instead the documents described under that exception.

3. The original documents, or certified or notarized copies of documents, that substantiate the information provided on the Form W-7. The supporting documentation must be consistent with the applicant's information provided on Form W-7. For example, the name, date of birth, and country of citizenship must be the same as on Form W-7, lines 1a, 4, and 6a.

If you submit an original valid passport (or a notarized or certified copy of a valid passport), you do not need to submit any other documents from the list below.

Otherwise, you must submit at least two or more of the documents listed below. The documents must be current and verify your identity (that is, contain your name). At least one document must contain your photograph and one must support your claim of foreign status. Do not attach expired documents.

- a. National identification card (must show photo, name, current address, date of birth, and expiration date).
- b. U.S. driver's license.
- c. Civil birth certificate.
- d. Foreign driver's license.
- e. U.S. state identification card.
- f. Foreign voter's registration card.
- g. U.S. military identification card.
- h. Foreign military identification card.
- i. U.S. visa issued by the U.S. Department of State.
- j. U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) photo identification.
- k. Medical records (dependents only).
- l. School records (dependents and/or students only).

You can submit copies of original documents if the copies are:

- Certified by the issuing agency or official custodian of the original record, or
- Notarized by a U.S. notary public legally authorized within his or her local jurisdiction to certify that the document is a true copy of the original. To do this, the notary must see the valid, unaltered original document and verify that the copy conforms to the original. U.S. notaries public are available at U.S. embassies and consulates worldwide. Foreign notaries are acceptable as outlined by the Hague Convention.

Original documents you submit will be returned to you. You do not need to provide a return envelope. If your original documents are not returned within 60 days, you can call the IRS (see Telephone help on this page). Copies of documents will not be returned.

Keep a copy of your application for your records.

When To Apply

Complete and attach Form W-7 when you file the tax return for which the ITIN is needed. However, if you meet one of the exceptions on page 3, complete and submit Form W-7 as soon as possible after you determine you are covered by that exception.

Allow 4 to 6 weeks for the IRS to notify you in writing of your ITIN. If you have not received your ITIN or correspondence at the end of the 6-week period, you can call the IRS to find out the status of your application (see Telephone help on page 2).

Where To Apply

By mail. Mail Form W-7, your tax return (or other documents required by an exception on this page), and the documentation listed in item (3) under How To Apply on page 2 to:

Internal Revenue Service
Philadelphia Service Center
ITIN Unit
P.O. Box 447
Bensalem, PA 19020

Do not use the mailing address in the instructions for your tax return.

In person. You can apply for an ITIN by bringing your completed forms and documentation to any IRS Taxpayer Assistance Center in the United States and most IRS offices abroad. Before applying at an IRS office abroad, find out if that office accepts Form W-7 applications.

Through Acceptance Agent. You can also apply through an acceptance agent authorized by the IRS. To obtain a list of agents, visit the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Specific Instructions

If you are completing this form for someone else, answer the questions as they apply to that person.

Reason For Applying

You must check the box to indicate the reason you are completing Form W-7. If more than one box applies to you, check the box that best explains your reason for submitting Form W-7.

If you check box b, c, d, e, or g, you must file a completed tax return by attaching it to Form W-7. You must do this even if the ITIN is for a spouse or dependent. If you are applying for more than one ITIN for the same return (such as for a spouse or dependent), attach all Forms W-7 to the same return.

a. Nonresident alien required to obtain ITIN to claim tax treaty benefit. Certain nonresident aliens must obtain an ITIN to claim a tax treaty benefit even if they do not have to file a U.S. tax return. If you check this box to claim the benefits of a U.S. income tax treaty with a foreign country, also check box h. On the lines next to box h, enter "Exception 1" or "Exception 2," whichever applies (see this page), and the name of the foreign country and treaty article number. Also attach the documents required under whichever exception applies. For more details on tax treaties, see Pub. 901, U.S. Tax Treaties.

b. Nonresident alien filing a U.S. tax return and not eligible for an SSN. This category includes:

- A nonresident alien who must file a U.S. tax return to report income effectively or not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.
- A nonresident alien who is filing a U.S. tax return only to obtain a refund.

c. U.S. resident alien (based on days present in the United States) filing a U.S. tax return and not eligible for an SSN. A foreign individual living in the United States who does not have permission to work from the USCIS, and is thus ineligible for an SSN, may still be required to file a U.S. tax return. These individuals must check this box.

d. Dependent of U.S. citizen/resident alien. This is an individual who can be claimed as a dependent on a U.S. tax return and is not eligible to obtain an SSN.

e. Spouse of U.S. citizen/resident alien. This category includes:

- A nonresident alien husband or wife who is not filing a U.S. tax return (including a joint return) and who is not eligible to obtain an SSN but who, as a spouse, can be claimed as an exemption.

- A nonresident alien electing to file a U.S. tax return jointly with a spouse who is a U.S. citizen or resident.

f. Nonresident alien student, professor, or researcher filing a U.S. tax return and not eligible for an SSN. This is an individual who has not abandoned his or her residence in a foreign country and who is a bona fide student, professor, or researcher coming temporarily to the United States solely to attend classes at a recognized institution of education, to teach, or to perform research. If you check this box, you must complete lines 6c and 6g, provide your passport with a valid U.S. visa, and a letter from an official of the school or institution stating that you have not been offered, and have not secured other employment. If applicable, enter the name of the foreign country and the treaty article number that applies on the lines next to box h.

g. Dependent/spouse of a nonresident alien holding a U.S. visa. This is an individual who can be claimed as a dependent or a spouse on a U.S. tax return and who is unable, or not eligible, to obtain an SSN and has entered the United States with a nonresident holding a U.S. visa. For example, the primary visa holder has a B-1 visa; the dependent or spouse has a B-2 visa.

h. Other. If the reason for your ITIN request is not described in a through g, check this box. Describe in detail your reason for requesting an ITIN and attach supporting documents. If any of the following exceptions apply to you, you will not need to attach a tax return to your Form W-7. Check box h and enter the number of the exception that applies (for example, "Exception 3") on the line next to box h.

Exception 1. Passive income—treaty benefits (box a) or third party withholding (box h). To obtain an ITIN under this exception, you must include documentation with the Form W-7 showing you own an asset that generates income subject to information reporting or withholding requirements. Examples include:

- Evidence that you opened an account with a financial institution and you have an ownership interest in that account.
- For a partnership interest—the partnership agreement together with the partnership's EIN or other evidence that the partnership is conducting business in the United States.

Exception 2. Other income (wages, salary, compensation)—treaty benefits (box a).

Applicants with a U.S. visa that is valid for employment should first apply for an SSN with the Social Security Administration (SSA). You are not eligible for an ITIN if you are eligible to obtain an SSN.

If you are an individual receiving pay for personal services, your Form W-7 will be processed if you provide proof that your application for an SSN (Form SS-5) was rejected by the SSA and include a Form 8233, Exemption From Withholding on Compensation for Independent (and Certain Dependent) Personal Services of a Nonresident Alien Individual.

If you are a nonresident alien visitor with gaming winnings, your Form W-7 will be processed if submitted through the appropriate gaming official serving as an acceptance agent.

Exception 3. Third party reporting—mortgage interest (box h). To obtain an ITIN under this exception, you must include documentation with the Form W-7 showing evidence of a home mortgage loan on real property located in the United States. This documentation could include a loan commitment letter from the financial institution, a broker's listing agreement, or similar documentation.

Exception 4. Disposition by foreign person of U.S. real property interest (box h). If a transfer or transferee does not have a TIN, and an amount withheld is due, attach completed Forms 8288, U.S.

Withholding Tax Return for Dispositions by Foreign Persons of U.S. Real Property Interest, and 8288-A, Statement of Withholding on Dispositions by Foreign Persons of U.S. Real Property Interests, to the completed Form W-7.

If you are applying for a withholding certificate to reduce or eliminate withholding on dispositions of U.S. real property, you must attach a copy of the contract for sale and a completed application for a withholding certificate to the completed Form W-7. The application for a withholding certificate must comply with the provisions of Regulations sections 1.1445-3 and 1.1445-6 and Rev. Proc. 2000-35, 2000-35 I.R.B. 211. You can find Rev. Proc. 2000-35 on page 211 of Internal Revenue Bulletin 2000-35 at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irb/irb00-35.pdf. You may be able to use Form 8288-B, Application for Withholding Certificate for Dispositions by Foreign Persons of U.S. Real Property Interests, for this purpose. See Form 8288-B for details.

Line Instructions

Enter N/A (not applicable) on all lines that do not apply to you. Do not leave any lines blank.

Line 1a. Enter your legal name on line 1a as it appears on your documents. This entry should reflect your name as it will appear on a U.S. tax return.

Your ITIN will be established using this name. If you do not use this name on the U.S. tax return, the processing of the U.S. tax return may be delayed.

Line 1b. Enter your name as it appears on your birth certificate if it is different from your entry on line 1a.

Line 2. Enter your complete foreign address in the country where you permanently or normally reside. If you no longer have a permanent residence, due to your relocation to the United States, enter only the foreign country where you last resided on line 2 and enter your complete mailing address on line 3. If you are claiming a benefit under an income tax treaty with the United States, line 2 must show the treaty country.

Do not use a post office box or an "in care of" (c/o) address. If you do, your application will be rejected.

Line 3. Enter your complete mailing address if it is different from the address on line 2. This is the address the IRS will use to return your original documents and send written notification of your ITIN.

Note. If the U.S. Postal Service will not deliver mail to your physical location, enter the U.S. Postal Service's post office box number for your mailing address. Contact your local U.S. Post Office for more information. Do not use a post office box owned and operated by a private firm or company.

Line 4. To be eligible for an ITIN, your birth country must be recognized as a foreign country by the U.S. Department of State.

Line 6a. Enter the country or countries (in the case of dual citizenship) in which you are a citizen. Enter the complete country name; do not abbreviate.

Line 6b. If your country of residence for tax purposes has issued you a tax identification number, enter that number on line 6b. For example, if you are a resident of Canada, enter your Canadian Social Insurance Number.

Line 6c. Enter only U.S. nonimmigrant visa information. Include the USCIS classification, number of the U.S. visa, and the expiration date in month/day/year format. For example, if you have a B-1/B-2 visa with the number 123456 that has an expiration date of December 31, 2004, enter "B-1/B-2," "123456," and "12/31/2004" in the entry space.

Note. If the visa has been issued under a "duration of stay" label by USCIS, enter "D/S" as the expiration date.

Line 6d. Check the box indicating the type of document(s) you are submitting for identification.

You must submit documents as explained in item (3) under How To Apply on page 2.

Enter the name of the state or country or other issuer, the identification number (if any) appearing on the document(s), the expiration date, and the date on which you entered the United States. Dates must be entered in the month/day/year format. Also, you may be required to provide a certified translation of foreign language documents.

Note. Any visa information shown on a passport must be entered on line 6c.

Line 6e. If you ever received a temporary Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) or an Employer Identification Number (EIN), check the "Yes" box and enter the number on line 6f. If you never had a temporary TIN or an EIN, or you do not know your temporary TIN, check the "No/Do not know" box.

A temporary TIN is a nine-digit number issued by the IRS to persons who file a return or make a payment without providing a TIN. You would have been issued this number if you filed a U.S. tax return and did not have a social security number. This temporary TIN will appear on any correspondence the IRS sent you concerning that return.

An EIN is a nine-digit number (for example, 12-3456789) assigned by the IRS to businesses, such as sole proprietorships.

Line 6f. If you have both a temporary TIN and an EIN, attach a separate sheet listing both. If you were issued more than one temporary TIN, attach a separate sheet listing all the temporary TINs you received.

Line 6g. If you checked reason f, you must enter the name of the educational institution and the city and state in which it is located. You must also enter your length of stay in the United States.

If you are temporarily in the United States for business purposes, you must enter the name of the company with whom you are conducting your business and the city and state in which it is located. You must also enter your length of stay in the United States.

Signature. You must sign Form W-7. However, if the applicant is a minor under 14 years of age, a delegate (parent or court-appointed guardian) should sign for him or her. Type or print the delegate's name in the space provided and check the appropriate box that indicates his or her relationship to the applicant. If the delegate is signing as a court-appointed guardian, attach a copy of the court-appointment papers showing the legal guardianship.

If the applicant is 14 years of age or over, the applicant can appoint an authorized agent to sign. The authorized agent must print his or her name in the space provided for the name of the delegate and attach Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. ## Instrucciones Generales

Propósito de esta forma

Utilice la Forma W-7(SP) para solicitar un número de identificación personal del contribuyente, conocido por sus siglas en inglés, ITIN. El ITIN es un número de nueve dígitos que el Servicio de Impuestos Internos (IRS) de los EE.UU. otorga a las personas físicas que están obligadas, para propósitos tributarios de los EE.UU., a tener un número que los identifique como contribuyentes y que, no teniéndolo, tampoco son elegibles para obtener un número de seguro social (SSN).

El ITIN es para usos tributarios federales exclusivamente. El ITIN no le permitirá tener derecho a recibir beneficios del seguro social, ni tendrá efecto alguno sobre la condición migratoria de un(a) extranjero(a) o sobre el derecho del(la) mismo(a) de estar empleado(a) legalmente en los Estados Unidos. Las personas que presentan declaraciones de impuestos usando un ITIN tampoco pueden reclamar el crédito por ingreso del trabajo (EIC).

SSN*. Por favor, no complete la Forma W-7(SP) si usted tiene un SSN o es elegible para obtener un SSN. Será elegible para obtener un SSN si usted es ciudadano(a) de los EE.UU. o ha sido admitido(a) por los EE.UU. para vivir permanentemente o para trabajar en los EE.UU.

Si tiene una solicitud para un SSN ya pendiente, por favor, no presente la Forma W-7(SP). Llene la Forma W-7(SP) únicamente si la Administración del Seguro Social (SSA) le notifica que no se le puede otorgar un SSN.

Para solicitar un SSN, vea la Forma SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card (Solicitud para una Tarjeta de Seguro Social), en inglés. Para obtener una Forma SS-5 ó para saber si usted es elegible para obtener un SSN, visite el sitio www.socialsecurity.gov o póngase en contacto con una oficina de la SSA.

Quién debe solicitar la forma

Cualquier persona física que no es elegible para obtener un SSN pero que tiene un número de identificación del contribuyente que debe proporcionar, deberá solicitar un ITIN llenando la Forma W-7(SP). Puede ser, por ejemplo:

- Una persona física extranjera no residente que tiene derecho a una tasa de retención reducida de acuerdo con los beneficios de un tratado tributario. Vea la Publicación 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities (Retención de Impuestos a Extranjeros No Residentes y Entidades Extranjeras), en inglés.
- Una persona física extranjera no residente que no es elegible para obtener un SSN, pero que debe presentar una declaración de impuestos de este país únicamente para obtener una devolución de impuestos pagados.
- Una persona física extranjera no residente que no es elegible para obtener un SSN, pero que opta por presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. conjuntamente con su cónyuge, el(la) cual es ciudadano(a) o residente del país.
- Extranjero(a) residente (basado en la prueba de presencia considerable) de los EE.UU. que presenta declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU., pero que no es elegible para obtener un SSN. Para mayor información sobre la prueba de presencia considerable en los EE.UU., vea la Publicación 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens (Guía Tributaria para Extranjeros sobre los Impuestos Estadounidenses), en inglés.

- Una persona física extranjera que es reclamada como cónyuge en una declaración de impuestos estadounidense y que no es elegible para obtener un SSN.
- Una persona física extranjera reclamada como dependiente económico(a) para efectos de exenciones en declaraciones de impuestos de los EE.UU. pero que no puede o no es elegible para obtener un SSN. Para determinar si una persona física extranjera puede ser reclamada como dependiente en la declaración de impuestos federales de los EE.UU., vea las Publicaciones 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information (Información sobre Exenciones, Deducción Estándar y la Presentación de Declaraciones), y 519, ambas en inglés.
- Estudiante, profesor(a) o investigador(a) no residente quien está obligado(a) a presentar una declaración de impuestos estadounidense pero no es elegible para obtener un SSN.
- Dependiente/cónyuge de un(a) extranjero(a) que lleva un visado de no residente de los EE.UU. y no es elegible para obtener un SSN.

No se requiere ITIN para las Formas 4868, 2688, 1040-ES ó 1040-ES(NR). Si usted solicita una prórroga (extensión) para presentar (rendir) la Forma 4868 ó la Forma 2688 ó si hace un pago de impuesto estimado con la Forma 1040-ES o la Forma 1040-ES(NR), por favor, no incluya la Forma W-7(SP) con ninguna de esas formas. Escriba "SE SOLICITA ITIN" en el espacio para su número de seguro social. Se le otorgará un ITIN únicamente después de que se presente (rinda) una declaración de impuestos y se satisfagan todos los demás requisitos.

Cómo se solicita

La solicitud deberá incluir todo lo siguiente:

1. Su Forma W-7(SP) cumplimentada.
2. El (Los) original(es) de su(s) declaración(es) de impuestos debidamente completada(s) por la(s) cual(es) se necesita un ITIN. Adjunte la Forma W-7(SP) a la primera página de su declaración. Una vez procesada su Forma W-7(SP), el IRS le asignará un ITIN a la declaración y, a su vez, la procesará. Se le procesará la declaración de impuestos como si hubiera sido presentada (rendida) a la dirección que aparece en las instrucciones para tal declaración. Por favor, no envíe una copia de la declaración a ninguna otra oficina del IRS.

Si no está obligado(a) a presentar (rendir) una declaración de impuestos o si no presenta (rinda) una declaración debidamente cumplimentada junto con la Forma W-7(SP), no se le expedirá a usted un ITIN, a menos que satisfaga una de las excepciones explicadas en la página 5. Si le corresponde una de dichas excepciones, incluya entonces los documentos descritos bajo tal excepción.

3. Originales o copias certificadas o autorizadas por notario de la documentación que respalda todo lo informado en la Forma W-7(SP). La documentación de apoyo debe ser compatible con la información proporcionada por el(la) solicitante en la Forma W-7(SP). Por ejemplo, el nombre, fecha de nacimiento y país de ciudadanía tienen que ser idénticos a los mismos que aparecen en las líneas 1a, 4 y 6a de la Forma W-7(SP).

Si usted proporciona el original de un pasaporte válido (o una copia notariada o certificada de un pasaporte válido), no tiene que proveer ninguno de los documentos descritos en la lista de abajo. De otra manera, usted tiene que proveer una combinación de los varios documentos (por lo menos, dos o más) de la lista. Estos deben ser corrientes y verificar: a) su identidad, o sea, contener su nombre completo y una foto y b) su estado o condición de extranjero(a). Por favor, no incluya ningún documento vencido.

- a. Tarjeta de identificación que verifica su nacionalidad (debe mostrar una foto, su nombre, dirección corriente, fecha de nacimiento y fecha de vencimiento)
- b. Licencia para conducir en los EE.UU.
- c. Acta de nacimiento civil
- d. Licencia para conducir en el extranjero
- e. Carnet de identidad expedido por una autoridad de un gobierno estatal de los EE.UU.
- f. Carnet de registro de votación en el extranjero
- g. Carnet de identidad militar los EE.UU.
- h. Tarjeta (Carnet) de identidad militar de su país de origen
- i. Visados emitidos por el Departamento de Estado de los EE.UU.

j. Tarjeta (Carnet) de identidad personal con foto de la Oficina de Servicios de Ciudadanía e Inmigración de los EE.UU. (U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services - USCIS, siglas en inglés)

k. Registros médicos (sólo en el caso de dependientes económicos)

l. Registros de instituciones académicas (sólo dependientes y/o estudiantes)

Usted puede facilitar fotocopias de su documentación original. Sin embargo, las mismas tienen que ser:

- Certificadas como tal por la agencia emisora o por el custodio oficial del documento original; o

- Certificadas como tal por un notario de los EE.UU. autorizado a certificar legalmente dentro de su jurisdicción local que el documento es una copia fiel del original. Para cumplir este requisito, el notario debe ver el original del documento, en su forma válida e inalterada, y debe verificar que la copia se conforma con el original. Se pueden hallar los notarios estadounidenses en el extranjero, dentro de las embajadas o consulados de los EE.UU. Las autorizaciones hechas por personas extranjeras serán aceptadas según se estipulan en el Convenio de La Haya.

Se le devolverán los originales de toda su documentación. Usted no tiene que proporcionar un sobre para la devolución. Si no recibe sus documentos dentro del plazo de 60 días, puede llamar al IRS (vea, Ayuda por teléfono, en la página 3). No se le devolverán las copias de su documentación.

Guarde una copia de esta solicitud para su archivo.

Cuándo se debe solicitar

Complete y adjunte la Forma W-7(SP) al presentar (rendir) una declaración de impuestos por la cual se necesita un ITIN. No obstante, si satisface una de las excepciones descritas en la página 5, llene y envíe la Forma W-7(SP) lo más pronto posible después de determinar que tal excepción le corresponde.

Por favor, deje que pasen de 4 a 6 semanas para que le notifique el IRS por escrito de su ITIN. Si usted no ha recibido su ITIN al final del período de 6 semanas, puede entonces llamar al IRS para saber el estado de su solicitud (vea, Ayuda por teléfono, en la página 3).

Adónde se envía la forma

Por correo. Envíe la Forma W-7(SP), su declaración de impuestos (u otros documentos requeridos por una excepción listada bajo, Razón por solicitar, más adelante) y la documentación listada en el artículo 3 bajo, Cómo se solicita, en la página 3 al:

Internal Revenue Service
Philadelphia Service Center
ITIN Unit
P.O. Box 447
Bensalem, PA 19020

Por favor, no utilice la dirección que aparece en las instrucciones para su declaración de impuestos.

En persona. Usted puede solicitar un ITIN llevando sus formas completadas y su documentación comprobante a cualquiera de los centros de servicio al contribuyente del IRS en los EE.UU. y también en muchas de las oficinas del IRS en el extranjero. Comuníquese con la oficina del IRS en el extranjero para saber si esa oficina acepta las solicitudes por medio de la Forma W-7(SP).

A través de un(a) agente autorizado(a). Usted también puede solicitar un ITIN a través de un(a) agente tramitador(a) autorizado(a) por el IRS. Para obtener una lista de agentes, visite el sitio en la red Internet del IRS www.irs.gov.

Instrucciones Específicas

Utilice las instrucciones siguientes para llenar la Forma W-7(SP). Si usted está llenando esta forma a nombre de un tercero, por favor, responda a las preguntas tal como se aplican a esa persona.

Razón por solicitar

Usted deberá marcar uno de los encasillados para indicar la razón por la que llena esta Forma W-7(SP). Si le corresponde a usted más de un solo encasillado, por favor, marque el encasillado que mejor explica la razón por la que usted presenta la Forma W-7(SP).

Si marcó el encasillado b, c, d, e o g, usted tiene que presentar (rendir) una declaración de impuestos debidamente completada anexándola a la Forma W-7(SP). Debe hacer esto aun cuando el ITIN sea para un(a) cónyuge o dependiente. Si solicita más de un ITIN para la misma declaración (p.e., para su cónyuge o dependiente), adjunte todas las Formas W-7(SP) a la misma declaración.

a. Extranjero(a) no residente que solicita un ITIN para poder reclamar beneficios de un tratado tributario. Ciertos extranjeros no residentes deberán obtener un ITIN para poder reclamar beneficios de un tratado tributario aunque no tengan que presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. Si marca este encasillado para reclamar beneficios de un tratado tributario con los EE.UU., marque también el encasillado h. En la línea de puntos junto al encasillado h, anote "Excepción 1" o "Excepción 2," cualquiera que le corresponda (vea en esta página). Además, anote el nombre del país que tiene un tratado tributario con los EE.UU. y el número del artículo del tratado pertinente en los espacios apropiados debajo del encasillado h. Además, incluya cualquier documentación requerida según estipulada en la excepción en cuestión. Para mayor información sobre los tratados tributarios, vea la Publicación 901, U.S. Tax Treaties (Tratados Tributarios de los EE.UU.), en inglés.

b. Extranjero(a) no residente que presenta declaración estadounidense y no es elegible para obtener un SSN. En esta categoría se incluyen:

- Un(a) extranjero(a) no residente que debe presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. para informar ingresos relacionados principalmente o no relacionados principalmente con la operación de un negocio u ocupación dentro de los EE.UU.

- Un(a) extranjero(a) no residente que esenta una declaración de los EE.UU. únicamente para recibir una devolución de su impuesto.

c. Extranjero(a) residente de los EE.UU. (basado en la cuantía de días en que está presente en este país) que presenta una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y no es elegible para obtener un SSN. Un individuo extranjero que vive en los EE.UU. y que no ha obtenido permiso para trabajar en este país del USCIS, y por consiguiente, no es elegible para un SSN, puede verse obligado a presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. Tal individuo deberá entonces marcar este encasillado.

d. Dependiente de un(a) ciudadano(a)/residente de los EE.UU. Esta es una persona física cuya exención de dependencia puede ser reclamada en una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y que no es elegible para obtener un SSN.

e. Cónyuge de un(a) ciudadano(a)/residente de los EE.UU. En esta categoría se incluyen:

- Un(a) cónyuge extranjero(a) no residente que no presenta una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. (incluyendo una declaración conjunta), ni tampoco es elegible para obtener un SSN, pero cuya exención de cónyuge puede ser reclamada en la declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. de su cónyuge.

- Un(a) extranjero(a) no residente que elige presentar una declaración de impuestos conjuntamente con su cónyuge, el(la) cual es ciudadano(a) o residente de los EE.UU.

f. Estudiante, profesor(a) o investigador(a) no residente que presenta declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y no es elegible para un SSN. Este es un individuo que no ha abandonado su residencia en el extranjero y que es un(a) estudiante, profesor(a) o investigador(a) bona fide y viene a los EE.UU. temporalmente sólo para asistir a clases dadas en una institución educativa, enseñar o realizar pesquisas o investigaciones. Si marca este encasillado, usted debe llenar también las líneas 6c y 6g de esta forma y facilitar su pasaporte con un visado válido de los EE.UU. y una carta de un funcionario de la escuela o institución educativa declarando que usted nunca fue ofrecido(a) ningún otro empleo ni lo ha obtenido por su cuenta. Si le corresponde, anote el nombre del país con el cual se celebra el tratado en cuestión y el número de artículo del tratado correspondiente en los espacios apropiados debajo del encasillado h.

g. Dependiente/cónyuge de un(a) extranjero(a) de visado no residente. Este es un individuo que puede ser reclamado como dependiente o cónyuge en una declaración de impuestos de los Estados Unidos y que no puede, o no es elegible para, obtener un SSN y ha entrado en los EE.UU. con un(a) extranjero(a) que tiene un visado de no residente. Por ejemplo, el(la) que tiene el visado principal tiene la clasificación de B-1; el(la) dependiente/cónyuge tiene la clasificación de B-2.

h. Otra. Si su situación no cae dentro del ámbito de ninguna de las categorías descritas de la a a la g, marque este encasillado. Describa en gran detalle su razón por la que solicita un ITIN y adjunte la documentación comprobante. Si cualquiera de las excepciones siguientes le corresponde, usted no tendrá que incluir una declaración de impuestos con su Forma W-7(SP). Marque el encasillado h y anote el número de la excepción pertinente (por ejemplo, "Excepción 3") en la línea al lado del encasillado h.

Excepción 1. Ingreso de actividades pasivas - beneficiarios de un tratado tributario (encasillado a) o retención de un tercero (encasillado h). Para obtener un ITIN de acuerdo con esta excepción, usted tiene que incluir la documentación apropiada, junto con la Forma W-7(SP), en la que se muestra que usted posee un activo que produce ingreso sujeto a los requisitos de la declaración de información o a la retención de impuestos. En esto se incluyen los ejemplos siguientes:

- Evidencia que indica que usted abrió una cuenta en una institución financiera y que usted tiene interés propietario en esa cuenta.
- Para una sociedad colectiva, el contrato o acuerdo de asociación, junto con el EIN de la sociedad, u otra evidencia que compruebe que la sociedad opera en los Estados Unidos.

Excepción 2. Otros ingresos (sueldos, salarios y otras remuneraciones) - beneficiarios de un tratado tributario (encasillado a).

Los solicitantes que tienen un visado de los EE.UU., que les permite trabajar deberán primero solicitarle un SSN a la Administración del Seguro Social (SSA, siglas en inglés). No puede solicitar un ITIN si usted es elegible para obtener un SSN.

Si usted es un individuo que recibe remuneraciones por prestar servicios personales, su Forma W-7(SP) será procesada si usted puede comprobar que su solicitud para un SSN (la Forma SS-5) fue rechazada por la SSA. En este caso, usted debe incluir una Forma 8233, Exemption From Withholding on Compensation for Independent (and Certain Dependent) Personal Services of a Nonresident Alien Individual (Exención de retención del impuesto sobre las remuneraciones de los servicios personales independientes (y algunos servicios dependientes) prestados por un(a) extranjero(a) no residente).

Si usted es un(a) extranjero(a) no residente con visado de visitante que recibió ganancias de juegos de azar, se le procesará su Forma W-7(SP) si la presenta (rinde) mediante un(a) oficial o agente de tales juegos que tiene la autoridad de aceptar su solicitud.

Excepción 3. Información de un tercero—interés hipotecario (encasillado h). Para obtener un ITIN de acuerdo con esta excepción, usted debe incluir la documentación apropiada junto con la Forma W-7(SP), en la cual se muestra evidencia de un préstamo hipotecario para bienes ubicados en los EE.UU. Dicha documentación pudiera incluir una carta de compromiso a una hipoteca expedida por una institución financiera, un convenio o contrato de inscripción de un corredor u otra documentación similar.

Excepción 4. Disposición (o enajenación) del interés que tiene un(a) extranjero(a) en bienes inmuebles o propiedades localizadas en los EE.UU. (encasillado h). Si un(a) transferidor(a) (cesionario(a)) o un(a) beneficiario(a) de una transferencia no tiene un número de identificación del contribuyente y se le debe una cantidad retenida del impuesto, por favor, adjunte a su Forma W-7(SP) completada una Forma 8288, U.S. Withholding Tax Return for Dispositions by Foreign Persons of U.S. Real Property Interests (Declaración Estadounidense del Impuesto Retenido para Enajenaciones Hechas por Extranjeros de Intereses en Bienes Raíces en los EE.UU.) completada, o la Forma 8288-A, Statement of Withholding on Dispositions by Foreign Persons of U.S. Real Property Interests (Informe del Impuesto Retenido para Enajenaciones Hechas por Extranjeros de Intereses en Bienes Raíces en los EE.UU.) completada, ambas formas en inglés.

Si usted solicita un certificado de retención a fin de reducir o eliminar el impuesto retenido sobre las enajenaciones de bienes raíces en los EE.UU., debe adjuntar a su Forma W-7(SP) completada una copia del contrato de venta y una solicitud completada para un certificado de retención. Dicho certificado debe cumplir con las disposiciones estipuladas en las secciones 1.1445-3 y 1.1445-6 de la Reglamentación y del Procedimiento Administrativo (Rev. Proc.) 2000-35, 2000-35 I.R.B. 211. Usted puede hallar el Procedimiento Administrativo (Rev. Proc.) 2000-35 en la página 211 del Internal Revenue Bulletin 2000-35 en www.irs.gov/pub/irsirbs/irb00-35.pdf.

Quizás podrá utilizar la Forma 8288-B, Application for Withholding Certificate for Dispositions by Foreign Persons of U.S. Real Property Interests (Solicitud del certificado del impuesto retenido para enajenaciones hechas por extranjeros de intereses en bienes raíces en los EE.UU.), en inglés, para tal propósito. Vea la Forma 8288-B para más detalles.

Instrucciones para las líneas

Escriba "N/A" (No aplica) en toda línea que no aplique en su caso. No deje en blanco ninguna línea.

Línea 1a. Escriba su nombre legal en la línea 1a. Este deberá aparecer exactamente como el mismo aparecerá en una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU.

Se establecerá su ITIN con este nombre. Si usted no utiliza este nombre en una declaración de impuestos estadounidense, ello podrá demorar la tramitación de la declaración hasta que se resuelvan las discrepancias.

Línea 1b. Escriba aquí su nombre tal como aparece en el acta de nacimiento si es distinto al que aparece en la línea 1a.

Línea 2. Escriba la dirección de su domicilio completo en el país donde reside permanente o normalmente, para efectos del impuesto. Si usted ya no tiene una residencia permanente, debido a que se mudó a los Estados Unidos, escriba en la línea 2 únicamente la residencia donde vivió por último en el extranjero y anote su dirección completa en la línea 3. Si está solicitando la aplicación de los beneficios conforme a un tratado tributario con los Estados Unidos, la línea 2 debe indicar el país con el que se tiene tal tratado.

No anote un número de apartado postal, ni ningún domicilio en el que recibe correspondencia "a cargo de" (c/o), en lugar de su domicilio en la calle donde reside. Si lo hace, su solicitud será rechazada.

Línea 3. Escriba su domicilio postal completo sólo cuando sea distinto al que escribió en la línea 2. Esta es la dirección a la cual el IRS le devolverá su documentación original y le enviará la notificación por escrito de su ITIN.

Aviso: Si el Servicio Postal de los EE.UU. no entregará correo a su vivienda actual, anote aquí el número del apartado en la oficina de correos del Servicio Postal de los EE.UU. para su domicilio postal. Comuníquese con la oficina local del Servicio Postal de los EE.UU. para mayor información. Por favor, no utilice un apartado en una oficina de correos que esté en manos de y operado por una empresa o negocio particular.

Línea 4. Para ser elegible para recibir un ITIN, su país de origen tiene que ser un país extranjero reconocido como tal por el Departamento del Estado de los Estados Unidos.

Línea 6a. Escriba aquí el país o países (en casos de doble nacionalidad) del cual usted es ciudadano(a). Por favor, escriba el nombre completo del país; no utilice abreviaturas.

Línea 6b. Si su país de residencia le ha otorgado algún número de identificación, para efectos del impuesto, anote ese número en la línea 6b. Por ejemplo, si usted es residente del Canadá, anotará su número de seguro social canadiense.

Línea 6c. Escriba únicamente información relacionada con su visado de extranjero(a) no inmigrante de los EE.UU. Incluya la clasificación del USCIS, número del visado y la fecha de vencimiento en el formato siguiente: mes/día/año. Por ejemplo, si usted tiene un visado con la clasificación de B-1/B-2 con el número 123456 que vence el 31 de diciembre del 2006, anotará "B-1/B-2", "123456" y "12/31/2006" en los espacios apropiados.

Aviso: Si se ha expedido el visado de acuerdo con el título de "duración de permanencia" del USCIS, escriba "D/S" como la fecha de vencimiento.

Línea 6d. Marque el encasillado que indique la clase de documentación que usted presenta para propósitos de identificación. Debe presentar documentos tales como se explican en el artículo 3 bajo Cómo se solicita en la página 3. Escriba el nombre del estado, país u otro expedidor del documento; el número de identificación (si alguno) que aparece en el documento; la fecha de su vencimiento; y la fecha en la que usted entró en los EE.UU. Hay que escribir las fechas de la manera siguiente: mes/día/año para el tipo de documentación que está facilitando. Además, usted pudiera estar obligado(a) a facilitar una traducción fiel de los documentos provistos en un idioma ajeno.

Importante: Si el pasaporte contiene información sobre su visado, por favor, escriba esta información en la línea 6c.

Línea 6e. Si usted alguna vez recibió un número temporal de identificación del contribuyente (TIN) o número de identificación patronal (EIN), marque el encasillado Sí y anote el número correspondiente en la línea 6f. Si nunca tuvo un número temporal TIN o EIN o si no sabe su número temporal TIN o EIN, marque el encasillado No/Desconozco.

Un TIN temporal es un número de nueve dígitos, emitido por el IRS a ciertas personas físicas que presentan una declaración de impuestos o hacen un pago de impuestos sin facilitar un TIN. A usted se le pudo haber emitido este número si presentó una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y no contaba con un SSN. Ese TIN temporal aparece en cualquier correspondencia que el IRS le haya mandado relacionada con esa declaración.

Un EIN es un número de nueve dígitos (p.e., 12-3456789), asignado por el IRS a negocios y empresas, tales como una empresa unipersonal.

Línea 6f. Si usted tiene tanto un TIN temporal como un EIN, por favor, incluya una hoja por separado que indica los dos números. A usted se le pudo haber emitido más de un TIN temporal. En este caso, adjunte a la Forma W-7(SP) una hoja por separado que enumera todos los TIN temporales que se le han emitido.

Línea 6g. Si usted marcó la razón f, deberá facilitar el nombre de la institución educativa y también la ciudad y estado donde se ubica. Usted tiene que anotar además la duración de su permanencia en los EE.UU.

Si usted se encuentra temporalmente en los EE.UU. para propósitos comerciales, deberá facilitar el nombre del negocio con el cual usted conduce tratos comerciales y también la ciudad y estado donde se ubica. Usted tiene que anotar además la duración de su permanencia en este país.

Firma. Usted debe firmar la Forma W-7(SP). Sin embargo, si el(la) solicitante tiene menos de 14 años de edad, una persona delegada (uno de sus padres o su tutor legal) deberá firmarla por él o ella. Escriba a máquina o con letras de molde el nombre del(la) delegado(a) en el espacio provisto y marque el encasillado apropiado para indicar su parentesco con el(la) solicitante. Si el(la) delegado(a) firma como tutor legal (autorizado(a) por el tribunal), sírvase adjuntar una copia de la documentación del tribunal que le permite ser tutor legal.

Si el(la) solicitante tiene 14 años o más de edad, el(la) mismo(a) puede nombrar a un(a) apoderado(a) autorizado(a) a firmar por él o ella. Dicho(a) apoderado(a) deberá escribir con letras de molde su nombre en el espacio provisto para anotar el nombre del(la) delegado(a) y deberá además incluir una Forma 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative (Poder legal y declaración del representante), en inglés.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 926 to report certain transfers of tangible or intangible property to a foreign corporation required by section 6038B.

Who Must File

Generally, a U.S. citizen or resident, a domestic corporation, or a domestic estate or trust must file Form 926 to report transfers of property described in section 6038B(a)(1)(A) to a foreign corporation.

Special Rules

- Transfers by a partnership. If the transferor is a partnership (domestic or foreign), the domestic partners of the partnership, not the partnership itself, are required to comply with section 6038B and file Form 926. Each domestic partner is treated as a transferor of its proportionate share of the property.
- Transfers by a husband and wife. A husband and wife may file Form 926 jointly, but only if they file a joint income tax return.
- Transfers of cash. A U.S. person that transfers cash to a foreign corporation must report the transfer on Form 926 if (a) immediately after the transfer the person holds directly or indirectly at least 10% of the total voting power or the total value of the foreign corporation or (b) the amount of cash transferred by the person to the foreign corporation during the 12-month period ending on the date of the transfer exceeds $100,000. See Regulations section 1.6038B-1(b)(3).

Exceptions to Filing

1. For exchanges described in section 354, a U.S. person does not have to file Form 926 if:
  - a. The U.S. person exchanges stock of a foreign corporation in a reorganization described in section 368(a)(1)(E) or
  - b. The U.S. person exchanges stock of a domestic or foreign corporation for stock of a foreign corporation under an asset reorganization described in section 368(a)(1)(C), (D), or (F), that is not treated as an indirect stock transfer under section 367(a).
2. Generally, a domestic corporation that distributes stock or securities of a domestic corporation under section 355 is not required to file Form 926. However, this exception does not apply if the distribution is of stock or securities of a foreign controlled corporation to a distributee shareholder who is not a U.S. citizen or resident or a domestic corporation.
3. A U.S. person that transfers stock or securities under section 367(a) does not have to file Form 926 if either a or b below applies.
  - a. The U.S. transferor owned less than 5% of both the total voting power and the total value of the transferee foreign corporation immediately after the transfer and either:
    - The U.S. transferor qualified for nonrecognition treatment with respect to the transfer, or
    - The U.S. transferor is a tax-exempt entity and the income was not unrelated business income, or

- The transfer was taxable to the U.S. transferor and such person properly reported the income on its timely filed return, or
- The transfer is considered to be to a foreign corporation solely by reason of Regulations section 1.83-6(d)(1) and the fair market value of the property transferred did not exceed $100,000.
  - b. The U.S. transferor owned 5% or more of the total voting power or the total value of the transferee foreign corporation immediately after the transfer and either:
    - The transferor (or one or more successors) properly entered into a gain recognition agreement, or
    - The U.S. transferor is a tax-exempt entity and the income was not unrelated business income, or
    - The transfer was taxable to the U.S. transferor and such person properly reported the income on its timely filed return, or
  - The transfer is considered to be to a foreign corporation solely by reason of Regulations section 1.83-6(d)(1) and the fair market value of the property transferred did not exceed $100,000.

When and How To File

Form 926 (and the additional information required under Regulations section 1.6038B-1(c) and Temporary Regulations sections 1.6038B-1T(c)(1) through (5) and 1.6038B-1T(d)) must be filed with the U.S. transferor's income tax return for the tax year that includes the date of the transfer.

Other Forms That May Be Required

Persons filing this form may be required to file Form TD F 90-22.1, Report of Foreign Bank and Financial Accounts.

A U.S. transferor that is required to enter into a gain recognition agreement under section 367 to qualify for nonrecognition treatment must file Form 8838, Consent To Extend the Time To Assess Tax Under Section 367—Gain Recognition Agreement, or a similar statement, to extend the statute of limitations with respect to the gain realized but not recognized on the transfer.

Penalties for Failure To File

If a taxpayer fails to comply with section 6038B, the penalty equals 10% of the fair market value of the property at the time of the transfer. The penalty will not apply if the failure to comply is due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. The penalty is limited to $100,000 unless the failure to comply was due to intentional disregard. Moreover, the period of limitations for assessment of tax upon the transfer of that property is extended to the date that is 3 years after the date on which the information required to be reported is provided.

Specific Instructions

Part I—U.S. Transferor Information

Identifying Number

The identifying number of an individual is his or her social security number (SSN). The identifying number of all others is their employer identification number (EIN).

Lines 1 and 2

Line 1a. If you answered "Yes" to question 1a and the asset is a tangible asset, section 367(a)(5) may require basis adjustments. If you answered "No" to question 1a and the asset is a tangible asset, the transfer is taxable under sections 367(a)(1) and (a)(5). If the asset transferred is an intangible asset, see section 367(d) and its regulations.

Line 1b. If the transferor went out of existence pursuant to the transfer (e.g., as in a reorganization described in section 368(a)(1)(C)), list the controlling shareholders.

Line 1c. If the transferor was a member of an affiliated group filing a consolidated tax return (see sections 1501 through 1504), but was not the parent corporation, list the name and EIN of the parent corporation and file Form 926 with the parent corporation's consolidated return.

Line 2. If the actual transferor was a partnership, the domestic partners of the partnership, not the partnership itself, are deemed to be the transferors. See Temporary Regulations section 1.367(a)-1T(c)(3). List the name and identification number of the partnership.

Part II—Transferee Foreign Corporation Information

Line 7. List the entity classification (e.g., partnership, corporation, etc.) of the transferee foreign corporation under the laws of the country of incorporation or organization.

Line 12. If this transfer resulted from a change in the classification of the transferee to that of a foreign corporation (a deemed transfer resulting from a classification change on Form 8832, Entity Classification Election, or a termination of a section 1504(d) election), check the "Yes" box. If the transfer was an actual transfer of property to a foreign corporation, check the "No" box.

Line 13. See Temporary Regulations sections 1.367(a)-4T through 1.367-6T for instances in which a transferor must recognize income on the transfer of tangible property that qualifies for nonrecognition treatment (see section 367(a)(3) and Temporary Regulations section 1.367(a)-2T). Additional information is required to be attached to this form. See Temporary Regulations sections 1.6038B-1T(c)(4)(iii) and (vii), and 1.6038B-1T(c)(5).

General Instructions

Purpose of form. Form 972 is used by a shareholder who agrees to report a consent dividend as taxable income in the form of a dividend on the shareholder's own tax return even though the shareholder receives no actual distribution of the consented amounts. A dividend is a consent dividend only if it would have been included in the shareholder's gross income if it was actually paid. If the shareholder agrees to treat the dividend as taxable, the corporation may be able to claim a consent dividend deduction on its income tax return. Also, the shareholder increases its basis in the stock of that corporation in the amount of the consent dividend for which the shareholder is taxed.

Who may file. A shareholder who agrees to treat the consent dividend as a taxable dividend must complete and send Form 972 to the corporation that will claim the consent dividend as a deduction.

When and where to file. Send the completed Form 972 to the corporation by the due date of the corporation's tax return for the tax year the corporation will claim the consent dividends as a deduction.

The corporation must attach Form 973, Corporation Claim for Deduction for Consent Dividends, and a copy of each completed Form 972 to its income tax return.

Note: The shareholder must report the consent dividend as a taxable dividend in the same tax year the corporation will claim the consent dividend deduction. For example, the corporation has a fiscal tax year that starts July 1, 1999, and ends June 30, 2000. In November 1999, a calendar year shareholder agrees to a consent dividend and sends a completed Form 972 to the corporation. The corporation claims the consent dividend deduction on its tax return for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2000. The shareholder reports the consent dividend as a taxable dividend on its tax return filed for the calendar year ending December 31, 2000.

Identifying number. Individuals enter their social security number. All others enter their employer identification number.

Address. Include the room, suite, or other unit number after the street address. If the Post Office does not deliver mail to the street address and the shareholder has a P.O. box, show the box number instead of the street address.

Signature. Form 972 must be signed by the shareholder. If the shareholder is a partnership, one of the partners must sign. If the shareholder is a fiduciary, the fiduciary or officer representing the fiduciary must sign. For a corporate shareholder, the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, chief accounting officer, or other authorized officer (such as tax officer) must sign the consent.

The shareholder's attorney or agent may sign this consent if he or she is specifically authorized by a power of attorney which, if not previously filed, must accompany Form 972.

(State of incorporation)

Note: You must attach a description of the transactions resulting in the nonrecognition of gain under section 1081.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose of form. Generally, the amount by which you benefit from the discharge of indebtedness is included in your gross income. However, under certain circumstances described in section 108, you may exclude the amount of discharged indebtedness from your gross income. Unless you check the box on line 1d or make the election on line 5, the amount excluded from gross income reduces certain tax attributes either dollar for dollar or 33 cents per dollar (see below).

Use Part I of Form 982 to indicate why any amount received from the discharge of indebtedness should be excluded from gross income.

Use Part II to report your reduction of tax attributes. The reduction must be made in the following order:

- Any net operating loss (NOL) for the tax year of the discharge (and any NOL carryover to that year) (dollar for dollar);
- Any general business credit carryover to or from the tax year of the discharge (33 cents per dollar);
- Any minimum tax credit as of the beginning of the tax year immediately after the tax year of the discharge (33 cents per dollar);
- Any net capital loss for the tax year of the discharge (and any capital loss carryover to that tax year) (dollar for dollar);
- Basis of property (dollar for dollar);
- Any passive activity loss (dollar for dollar) and credit (33 cents per dollar) carryovers from the tax year of the discharge; and
- Any foreign tax credit carryover to or from the tax year of the discharge (33 cents per dollar).

Use Part III to exclude from gross income under section 1081(b) any amounts of income attributable to the transfer of property described in that section.

Definitions. A "title 11 case" is a case under title 11 of the United States Code (relating to bankruptcy), but only if you are under the jurisdiction of the court in the case and the discharge of indebtedness is granted by the court or is under a plan approved by the court.

The term "discharge of indebtedness" conveys forgiveness of, or release from, an obligation to repay.

You are "insolvent" to the extent your liabilities exceed the fair market value (FMV) of your assets immediately before the discharge.

For details, get Pub. 908, Bankruptcy Tax Guide.

When to file. File Form 982 with your timely filed federal income tax return (including extensions) in a year a discharge of indebtedness is excluded from your income under section 108(a). Also file this form if you elect to reduce the basis of depreciable property under section 108(b)(5) or if you are making the election on line 1d of Part I regarding the discharge of qualified real property indebtedness.

These elections may be revoked only with the consent of the IRS.

If you timely filed your tax return without making the election, you can still make the election by filing an amended return within 6 months of the due date of the return (excluding extensions). Write "Filed pursuant to section 301.9100-2" on the amended return and file it at the same place you filed the original return.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Lines 1a through 1c. If you check any of these boxes, you may elect, by completing line 5, to apply all or a part of the debt discharge amount to first reduce the basis of depreciable property (including property you elected on line 3 to treat as depreciable property). Any balance of the debt discharge amount will then be applied to reduce the tax attributes in the order listed on lines 6 through 13. For lines 1a and 1b only, if after reducing the tax attributes there remains a balance of the debt discharge, the excess is permanently excluded from your gross income. You must attach a statement describing the transactions that resulted in the reduction in basis and identifying the property for which you reduced the basis. If you do not make the election on line 5, complete lines 6 through 13 to reduce your attributes. See section 1017(b)(2) and (c) for limitations of reductions in basis on line 10.

The exclusion relating to insolvency does not apply to a discharge that occurs in a title 11 case. Also, the exclusions relating to qualified farm indebtedness and qualified real property business indebtedness do not apply to a discharge that occurs in a title 11 case or to the extent the taxpayer is insolvent.

"Qualified farm indebtedness" is the amount of indebtedness incurred directly in connection with the trade or business of farming. In addition, 50% or more of your aggregate gross receipts for the 3 tax years preceding the tax year in which the discharge of such indebtedness occurs must be from the trade or business of farming. For more information, see sections 108(g) and 1017(b)(4).

The discharge must have been made by a qualified person. Generally, a "qualified person" is an individual, organization, etc., who is actively and regularly engaged in the business of lending money. This person cannot be related to you, be the person from whom you acquired the property, or be a person who receives a fee with respect to your investment in the property. Also, a qualified person includes any federal, state, or local government or agency or instrumentality thereof.

If you checked line 1c and did not make the election on line 5, the debt discharge amount will be applied to reduce the tax attributes in the order listed on lines 6 through 9. Any remaining amount will be applied to reduce the tax attributes in the order listed on lines 11a through 13.

You cannot exclude more than the total of your: (a) tax attributes (determined under section 108(g)(3)(B)); and (b) basis of property used or held for use in a trade or business or for the production of income. Any excess is included in income.

Line 1d. If you check this box, the discharge of qualified real property business indebtedness is applied to reduce the basis of depreciable real property on line 4.

"Qualified real property business indebtedness" is indebtedness (other than qualified farm indebtedness) that: (a) is incurred or assumed in connection with real property used in a trade or business; (b) is secured by that real property; and (c) with respect to which you have made an election under this provision. This provision does not apply to a corporation (other than an S corporation).

Indebtedness incurred or assumed after 1992 is not qualified real property business indebtedness unless it is either: (a) debt incurred to refinance qualified real property business indebtedness incurred or assumed before 1993 (but only to the extent the amount of such debt does not exceed the amount of debt being refinanced) or (b) qualified acquisition indebtedness.

“Qualified acquisition indebtedness” is

(a) debt incurred or assumed to acquire, construct, reconstruct, or substantially improve real property that is secured by such debt; and (b) debt resulting from the refinancing of qualified acquisition indebtedness, to the extent the amount of such debt does not exceed the amount of debt being refinanced.

You cannot exclude more than the excess of the outstanding principal amount of the debt (immediately before the discharge) over the net FMV (as of that time) of the property securing the debt, reduced by the outstanding principal amount of other qualified real property business indebtedness secured by that property (as of that time). The amount excluded is further limited to the aggregate adjusted basis (as of the first day of the next tax year, or if earlier, the date of disposition) of depreciable real property (determined after any reductions under sections 108(b) and (g)) you held immediately before the discharge (other than property acquired in contemplation of the discharge). Any excess is included in income.

Line 2. Enter the total amount excluded from your gross income due to discharge of indebtedness under section 108. If you checked line 1a, 1b, and/or 1c, this amount will not necessarily equal the total reductions on lines 5 through 13 because the debt discharge amount may exceed the total tax attributes.

See section 382(l)(5) for a special rule regarding a reduction of a corporation’s tax attributes after certain ownership changes.

Line 3. You may elect under section 1017(b)(3)(E) to treat all real property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of a trade or business as if it were depreciable property. This election does not apply to the discharge of qualified real property business indebtedness. To make the election, check the “Yes” box.

Part II

Line 7. If you have a general business credit carryover to or from the tax year of the discharge, you must reduce that carryover by 33 cents for each dollar excluded from gross income. See Form 3800, General Business Credit, for more details on the general business credit, including rules for figuring any carryforward or carryback.

Line 10. In the case of a title 11 case or insolvency (except when an election under section 108(b)(5) is made), the reduction in basis is limited to the aggregate of the basis of your property immediately after the discharge over the aggregate of your liabilities immediately after the discharge.

Part III

Adjustment to basis. Unless it specifically states otherwise, the corporation, by filing this form, agrees to apply the general rule for adjusting the basis of property (as described in Regulations section 1.1082-3(b)).

If the corporation desires to have the basis of its property adjusted in a manner different from the general rule, it must attach a request for variation from the general rule. The request must show the precise method used and the allocation of amounts.

Consent to the request for variation from the general rule will be effective only if it is incorporated in a closing agreement entered into by the corporation and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue under the rules of section 7121. If no agreement is entered into, then the general rule will apply in determining the basis of the corporation’s property.

Instructions for Form 1128

(Rev. September 2003)

Application To Adopt, Change, or Retain a Tax Year

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Changes To Note

- Partnerships must now file Form 1128 to change to a required tax year.
- A taxpayer that wants to change from a 52-53-week tax year that references a particular month to a non-52-53-week tax year that ends on the last day of that month, or vice versa, must file Form 1128.

Note: If the applicant qualifies, the above changes must be made using the automatic approval procedures. See the instructions for Part II on page 3 for details.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

File Form 1128 to request a change in tax year. Partnerships, S corporations, or personal service corporations (PSCs) may be required to file the form to adopt or retain a certain tax year. For more information, see Pub. 538, Accounting Periods and Methods.

Who Must File

Generally, all taxpayers must file Form 1128 to adopt, change, or retain a tax year. However, see Exceptions below.

The common parent of a consolidated group that files a consolidated return files one Form 1128 for the consolidated group. In addition, the common parent corporation must (a) indicate that the Form 1128 is for the common parent corporation and all its subsidiaries and (b) answer all relevant questions on the application for each member of the consolidated group.

If a consolidated group filing a consolidated return wants to change its tax year by using Rev. Proc. 2002-37, 2002-1 C.B. 1030, every member of the group must meet the revenue procedure requirements.

If a controlled foreign corporation (CFC) or a foreign personal holding company (FPHC) does not have a U.S. trade or business, then the CFC's controlling U.S. shareholder(s) or the FPHC's U.S. shareholders must file Form 1128 on behalf of such foreign corporation to change its tax year (except as provided above with respect to a controlling U.S. shareholder that is a member of a consolidated group). See Regulations section 1.964-1(c)(5) for the definition of controlling U.S. shareholders of a CFC.

Exceptions

Do not file Form 1128 in the following circumstances.

Corporations

- A corporation adopting its first tax year.
- A corporation required to change its tax year to file a consolidated return with its new common parent (see Regulations sections 1.442-1(c) and 1.1502-76(a)).
- A foreign sales corporation (FSC) or an interest charge domestic international sales corporation (IC-DISC) changing to the tax year of the U.S. shareholder with the highest percentage of voting power (see section 441(h)). Also see Temporary Regulations section 1.921-1T(b)(4). However, a FSC or IC-DISC must file Form 1128 to change its tax year concurrently, if a tax year change has been made by the U.S. shareholder.

Partnerships, S Corporations, and Personal Service Corporations

- A newly formed partnership adopting a required tax year or a 52-53 week tax year with reference to such required tax year.
- A partnership, S corporation, or PSC terminating its section 444 election (see Temporary Regulations section 1.444-1T(a)(5)).
- A newly formed partnership, an electing S corporation, or a newly formed PSC that elects under section 444 a tax year other than the required tax year by filing Form 8716, Election To Have a Tax Year Other Than a Required Tax Year.
- A corporation electing to be treated as an S corporation and filing Form

2553, Election by a Small Business Corporation.

Individuals

Newly married individuals changing to the tax year of the other spouse in order to file a joint return (Regulations section 1.442-1(d) must be followed).

Exempt Organizations

An organization exempt under section 501(a) does not file Form 1128 unless the organization has changed its tax year at any time within a 10-calendar-year period, and the organization has had an annual filing requirement during that 10-year period (see Rev. Proc. 85-58, 1985-2 C.B. 740). This exception does not apply to organizations exempt from tax under section 521, 526, 527, or 528; organizations described in section 401(a); and organizations involved in a group change in tax year for all its subordinate organizations.

Trusts

- A trust (other than a tax-exempt trust or a grantor trust under Rev. Rul. 90-55, 1990-2 C.B. 161) that adopts the calendar year as required by section 645.
- Certain revocable trusts electing to be treated as part of an estate.
- An employee plan or trust filing Form 5308, Request for Change in Plan/Trust Year, to change its plan or trust year.

When To File

Tax Year Adoption, Change, or Retention

- To request a ruling to adopt, change, or retain a tax year, file by the due date (not including extensions) of the Federal income tax return for the first effective year. Do not file earlier than the day following the end of the first effective year.
- To request automatic approval to change a tax year under Rev. Proc. 2002-37 (Part II, Section A) or Rev. Proc. 2002-38 (Part II, Section B), file by the due date of the return (including extensions) for the first effective year required by the change.

- For an individual filing to change to a calendar year under Rev. Proc. 2003-62, 2003-32 I.R.B. 299 (Part II, Section C), Form 1128 must be filed on or before the due date (including extensions) for filing the Federal income tax return for the short period required to effect the change.
- To change a tax year under Rev. Proc. 85-58 (Part II, Section D), file by the 15th day of the 5th calendar month after the first effective year ends.

Late Applications

Generally, an application filed after the appropriate due date stated above is considered late.

However, applications filed within 90 days after the due date may be considered as timely filed under Regulations section 301.9100-1 when the applicant establishes that:

1. The taxpayer acted reasonably and in good faith and
2. Granting relief will not prejudice the interests of the government.

Applications that are filed more than 90 days after the due date are presumed to jeopardize the interests of the Government, and will be approved only in unusual and compelling circumstances.

Under either circumstance an extension request must be filed under Procedure and Administration Regulations section 301.9100-3 and is a ruling request under Rev. Proc. 2003-1, 2003-1 I.R.B. 1 (updated annually), and is subject to public inspection under section 6110. See section 8 of Rev. Proc. 2003-1 for information on requesting a ruling.

Note: An extension request under Rev. Proc. 2003-1 (or its successor), requires payment of a user fee.

Early Applications

Generally, an application to adopt or change a tax year will not be considered if it is submitted before the close of the first effective year.

Where To File

Part II—Automatic Approval Request

If the applicant completes Part II (automatic approval request), file Form 1128 with the Internal Revenue Service Center, Attention: Entity Control, where the applicant's income tax return is filed. The applicant also must attach a copy of Form 1128 to the Federal income tax return filed for the short period required to effect the change. A shareholder filing the form on behalf of an applicant that is a CFC or FPHC should file the form with the service center where the shareholder's income tax return is filed.

Applications prior to an election to become an S corporation.

If a corporation is requesting to change its tax year prior to making an election to become an S corporation, it may be necessary to file Form 1128 with Form 2553 to ensure that the S corporation is permitted the tax year requested on Form 2553. See line 2 of Part II on Form 1128. Form 1128 must be filed with Form 2553 instead of the above address for automatic approval requests if:

- The corporation is requesting to change its tax year under the automatic approval request procedures,
- The corporation intends to elect to be an S corporation for the tax year immediately following the short period, and
- The requested tax year is a permitted tax year for S corporations (e.g., a calendar tax year).

Do not file a request for automatic approval with either address below. Doing so will result in a significant delay in the processing of your request.

Part III—Ruling Request

If the applicant completes Part III (ruling request), file Form 1128 and the appropriate user fee with the IRS National Office. Mail Form 1128 to:

Internal Revenue Service,
Associate Chief Counsel (Income Tax and Accounting)
Attention: CC:PA:T:CRU,
P.O. Box 7604, Ben Franklin Station,
Washington DC 20044-7604.

The IRS will acknowledge receipt of the application within 45 days. You can inquire about the status of the application by writing to:

Control Clerk, CC:ITA,
Internal Revenue Service, Room 4516,
1111 Constitution Ave., NW,
Washington DC 20224-0002.

The applicant will receive notification of its approval or denial. If no communication is received from the IRS regarding the application within 90 days, contact the Control Clerk.

Exempt organizations requesting a ruling should send Form 1128 and the application user fee to:

Internal Revenue Service
Commissioner, Tax Exempt and Government Entities Attention: T:EO
P.O. Box 27720
McPherson Station
Washington DC 20038

You can inquire about the status of an application for exempt organizations by calling 202-283-2300.

Who Must Sign

Except as discussed below (regarding certain foreign corporations), Form 1128 must be signed by the applicant as discussed below. A valid signature by the individual or an officer of the organization is required on Form 1128. If the form does not have a valid signature, it will not be considered.

Individuals

If this application is for a husband and wife, enter both names on the line "Name of applicant." Both husband and wife must sign the application on the line "Applicant or officer's signature and date."

Partnerships

Show the partnership name, followed by the signature of a general partner on behalf of a state law partnership, or a member-manager on behalf of a limited liability company.

Estates

Show the name of the estate and the signature and title of the fiduciary or other person legally authorized to sign.

Tax-Exempt Organizations

Show the name of the organization and the signature of a principal officer or other person authorized to sign, followed by his or her title.

All Other Applicants

The application must show the name of the company and the signature of the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, or chief accounting officer (such as tax officer) authorized to sign, and their official title. Receivers, trustees, or assignees must sign any application they are required to file. For a consolidated group filing a consolidated return with its common parent, the form should be signed by an authorized officer of the common parent corporation.

An application that is filed on behalf of a CFC must be signed by an authorized officer of each of its controlling U.S. shareholder(s). An application that is filed on behalf of a FPHC must be signed by an authorized officer of each of its U.S. shareholder(s). If any such shareholder is a member of a consolidated group, then an authorized officer of the common parent must sign. If multiple signatures are required, the signatures must be provided on a "SIGNATURE ATTACHMENT" to the form under the "declaration under penalties of perjury" (this is the statement that appears on Form 1128 immediately above the relevant signature line). Write "see attached" in the signature area of Form 1128.

Preparer Other Than Applicant

The preparer cannot sign on behalf of the applicant. Unless you are self-employed, show the name of the firm that employs you. If you file on an applicant's behalf, include a power of attorney. Show any specific acts the power of attorney grants, such as representation before the IRS.

Note: The individual preparing the application must also sign it.

Specific Instructions

Part I—General Information

All applicants must complete Part I. Attachments to Form 1128 must show the applicant's name, identifying number, and address. Also indicate that the statement is an attachment to Form 1128.

Name

If the application is filed for a husband and wife who file a joint income tax return, the names of both should appear in the heading.

Identifying Number

Individuals enter their social security number (SSN). If the application is for a husband and wife who file a joint return, enter both SSNs. However, if one or both are engaged in a trade or business, enter the employer identification number (EIN) instead of the SSNs. All other applicants enter their EIN.

Except as discussed below (regarding foreign corporations), if the applicant does not have an EIN or SSN, it must apply for one. An EIN may be applied for:

- Online—Click on the EIN link at www.irs.gov/business/small. The EIN is issued immediately once the application information is validated.
- By telephone at 1-800-829-4933 from 7:30 am to 5:30 pm in the corporation's local time zone.
- By mailing or faxing Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number.

A limited liability company must determine which type of federal tax entity it will be (i.e., partnership, corporation, or disregarded entity) before applying for an EIN (see Form 8832, Entity Classification Election, for details).

Note: The online application process is not yet available for the following types of entities: Entities with addresses in foreign countries or Puerto Rico, REMICs, state and local governments, Federal government/military entities, and Indian Tribal Government/Enterprise entities. Please call the toll-free Business and Specialty Tax Line at 1-800-829-4933 for assistance in applying for an EIN.

An SSN must be applied for on Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card. Form SS-5 can be obtained at SSA offices or by calling the SSA at 1-800-772-1213.

If the applicant has not received its EIN or SSN by the time the application is due, write "Applied for" in the space for the EIN/SSN. See Pub. 583, Starting a Business and Keeping Records.

Note: If the applicant is a foreign corporation that is not otherwise required to have or obtain an EIN, enter "Not applicable" in the space provided for the EIN/SSN.

Address

Include the suite, room, or other unit number after the street address.

If the Post Office does not deliver mail to the street address and the applicant has a P.O. box, show the box number instead.

Person To Contact

The person to contact must be the person authorized to sign the Form 1128, or the applicant's authorized representative. If the person to contact is not the applicant or the filer, attach Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative.

Line 1. Check all applicable boxes to indicate the type of entity filing this application. For example, an entity that is a domestic corporation may also be a regulated investment company (RIC). That entity would check both the "Domestic corporation" box and the "Other" box, and write, "RIC under sec. 851" on the dotted line.

Lines 2a and 2b. If the requested year is a 52-53-week tax year, describe the year (e.g., last Saturday in December or Saturday nearest to December 31). A 52-53-week tax year must end on the date a specified day of the week last occurs in a particular month or on the date that day of the week occurs nearest to the last day of a particular calendar month.

Line 2c. The required short period return must begin on the day following the close of the old tax year and end on the day before the first day of the new tax year. An applicant's first tax year generally starts when business operations begin.

A corporation's tax year begins at the earliest date it first:

- Has shareholders,
- Has assets, or
- Begins doing business. The initial year ends on the day before the first day of the new tax year.

Part II—Automatic Approval Request

Part II is completed by applicants requesting automatic approval of a change in tax year under:

- Rev. Proc. 2002-37 (corporations),
- Rev. Proc. 2002-38 (pass-through entities),
- Rev. Proc. 2003-62 (individuals),
- Rev. Proc. 76-10, 1976-1 C.B. 548 and Rev. Proc. 85-58 (exempt organizations), and
- Rev. Proc. 85-15, 1985-1 C.B. 516 (all filers), to correct an improper tax year.

Note: Applicants requesting an automatic approval, complete Parts I and II only.

Note: A user fee is not required if requesting an automatic approval under any of the sections of Part II listed below.

Complete Part II if the applicant can use the automatic approval rules under one of the sections listed below and the application is filed on time.

If the applicant is:	Complete only
A corporation (other than an S corporation or a PSC)	Section A
A partnership, S corporation, or a PSC	Section B
An individual	Section C
A tax-exempt organization.	Section D

If the applicant does not qualify for automatic approval, a ruling must be requested. See Part III for more information.

If the Service Center denies approval because Form 1128 was not filed on time, the applicant may request relief under Regulations section 301.9100-3, discussed earlier under Late Applications on page 2, by completing Part III, as discussed on page 5, and sending Form 1128 to the IRS National Office for consideration.

Section A—Corporations (Other than S Corporations or Personal Service Corporations)

Rev. Proc. 2002-37 provides exclusive procedures for certain corporations to obtain automatic approval to change their annual accounting period under section 442 and Regulations section 1.442-1(b). A corporation complying with all the applicable provisions of this revenue procedure will be deemed to have established a business purpose and obtained the approval of the IRS to change its accounting period. See Rev. Proc. 2002-37 for more information.

A corporation is not eligible to make an automatic approval request if it:

1. Has changed its annual accounting period at any time within the most recent 48-month period ending with the last month of the requested tax year. For exceptions, see section 4.02(1) of Rev. Proc. 2002-37.

2. Has an interest in a pass-through entity as of the end of the short period. For exceptions, see section 4.02(2) of Rev. Proc. 2002-37.

3. Is a shareholder of a FSC or IC-DISC, as of the end of the short period. For exceptions, see section 4.02(3) of Rev. Proc. 2002-37.

4. Is a FSC or an IC-DISC.

5. Is an S corporation.

6. Attempts to make an S corporation election for the tax year immediately following the short period, unless the change is to a permitted tax year.

7. Is a PSC.

8. Is a CFC or a foreign personal holding company (FPHC). For exceptions, see sections 4.01(4) and 4.02(8) of Rev. Proc. 2002-37.

9. Is a tax-exempt organization, other than an organization exempt from tax under section 521, 526, 527, or 528.

10. Has in effect a possessions corporation election under section 936.

11. Is a cooperative association (within the meaning of section 1381(a)) with a loss in the short period required to effect the change of annual accounting period, unless the patrons of the cooperative association are substantially the same in the year before the change of annual accounting period, in the first effective year required to effect the change, and in the year following the change.

12. Has a required tax year (e.g., a real estate investment trust), unless the corporation is changing to its required tax year and is not described in 1 through 11 above.

Line 3. If the answer to question 3 is "Yes," attach a statement providing the names, addresses, and identifying numbers for each U.S. shareholder of the foreign corporation.

Line 4. If a corporation's interest in a pass-through entity, CFC, FSC, or IC-DISC (related entity) is disregarded under section 4.02(2) or 4.02(3) of Rev. Proc. 2002-37 because the related entity is required to change its tax year to the corporation's new tax year (or, in the case of a CFC, to a tax year beginning one month earlier than the corporation's new tax year), the related entity must change its tax year concurrently with the corporation's change in tax year, either under Rev. Proc. 2002-37 or 2002-38. This related party change is required notwithstanding the testing date provisions in section 706(b)(4)(A)(ii), section 898(c)(1)(C)(ii), Temporary Regulations section 1.921-1T(b)(6), and the special provision in section 706(b)(4)(B).

Section B—Partnerships, S Corporations, or Personal Service Corporations

A partnership, S corporation, or PSC may be able to adopt, change, or retain its tax year by following Rev. Proc. 2002-38.

Line 5. A partnership, S corporation, or PSC is not eligible to make an automatic approval request if any of the following apply:

1. It is under examination, unless it obtains consent of the appropriate director as provided in section 7.03(1) of Rev. Proc. 2002-38.

2. It is before an appeals office with respect to any income tax issue and its annual accounting period is an issue under consideration by the appeals office.

3. It is before a Federal court with respect to any income tax issue and its annual accounting period is an issue under consideration by the Federal court.

4. On the date the partnership or S corporation would otherwise file its application, the partnership's or S corporation's annual accounting period is an issue under consideration in the examination of a partner's or shareholders's Federal income tax return or an issue under consideration by an area office or by a Federal court with respect to a partner's or shareholder's Federal income tax return.

5. It is requesting a change to, or retention of, a natural business year as described in section 4.01(2) of Rev. Proc. 2002-38 if the entity has changed its annual accounting period at any time in the most recent 48-month period ending with the last month of the requested tax year. For this purpose, the following changes are not considered prior changes in annual accounting period: (a) a change to a required tax year or ownership tax year; (b) a change from a 52-53 week tax year to a non-52-53 week tax year that ends with reference to the same calendar month, and vice versa; or (c) a change in accounting period by a S corporation or PSC, in order to comply with the common tax year requirements of Regulations sections 1.1502-75(d)(3)(v) and 1.1502-76(a)(1).

Line 7. A partnership, S corporation, electing S corporation, or PSC establishes a "natural business year" under Rev. Proc. 2002-38 by satisfying the following “25-percent gross receipts test:”

1. Prior three years gross receipts.

a. Gross receipts from sales and services for the most recent 12-month period that ends with the last month of the requested annual accounting period are totaled and then divided into the amount of gross receipts from sales and services for the last 2 months of this 12-month period.

b. The same computation as in a above is made for the two preceding 12-month periods ending with the last month of the requested annual accounting period.

2. Natural business year:

a. Except as provided in b below, if each of the three results described in 1 equals or exceeds 25 percent, then the requested annual accounting period is deemed to be the taxpayer's natural business year.

b. The taxpayer must determine whether any annual accounting period other than the requested annual accounting period also meets the 25-percent test described in a. If one or more other annual accounting periods produce higher averages of the three percentages (rounded to 1/100 of a percent) described in 1 than the requested annual accounting period, then the requested annual accounting period will not qualify as the taxpayer's natural business year.

3. Special rules:

a. To apply the 25-percent gross receipts test for any particular year, the taxpayer must compute its gross receipts under the method of accounting used to prepare its federal income tax returns for such tax year.

b. If the taxpayer has a predecessor organization and is continuing the same business as its predecessor, the taxpayer must use the gross receipts of its predecessor for purposes of computing the 25-percent gross receipts test.

c. If the taxpayer (including any predecessor organization) does not have a 47-month period of gross receipts (36-month period for the requested tax year plus an additional 11-month period for comparing the requested tax year with other potential tax years), then it cannot establish a natural business year under this revenue procedure.

d. If the requested tax year is a 52-53-week tax year, the calendar month ending nearest to the last day of the 52-53-week tax year is treated as the last month of the requested tax year for purposes of computing the 25-percent gross receipts test.

Line 8. For an S corporation, an “ownership tax year” is the tax year (if any) that, as of the first day of the first effective year, constitutes the tax year of one or more shareholders (including any shareholder that concurrently changes to such tax year) holding more than 50 percent of the corporation's issued and outstanding shares of stock. For this purpose, a shareholder that is tax-exempt under section 501(a) is disregarded if such shareholder is not subject to tax on any income attributable to the S corporation. Tax-exempt shareholders are not disregarded, however, if the S corporation is wholly-owned by such tax-exempt entities. A shareholder in an S corporation that wants to concurrently change its tax year must follow the instructions generally applicable to taxpayers changing their tax years contained in Regulations section 1.442-1(b), Rev. Proc. 2002-39, or any other applicable administrative procedure published by the IRS.

Line 9. The partnership must concurrently change its tax year as a term and condition of a related entity change in tax year.

Section C—Individuals

An individual is eligible for automatic approval if:

- The individual is changing from a fiscal year to a calendar year and
- The individual is not subject to the restrictions of section 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 2003-62 (or its successor).

Section D—Tax-Exempt Organizations

A tax-exempt organization may request a change to its tax year under the simplified method of either Rev. Proc. 85-58 or Rev. Proc. 76-10.

Under Rev. Proc. 85-58, an organization exempt under section 501(a) does not have to file Form 1128 unless:

1. The organization was required to file an annual information return or Form 990-T, Exempt Organization Business Income Tax Return, at any time during the last 10 calendar years, and
2. The organization has changed its tax year at any time within the last 10 calendar years ending with the calendar year that includes the beginning of the first effective year resulting from the change of tax year.

An organization described in section 501(c) or (d) is exempt from tax under section 501(a) unless the exemption is denied under section 502 or 503.

Rev. Proc. 85-58 does not apply to:

- Farmers' cooperatives exempt from Federal income tax under section 521,
- Organizations described in sections 526, 527, and 528,
- Organizations described in section 401(a), and
- Organizations requesting a change in a tax year on a group basis.

A central organization should follow Rev. Proc. 76-10 to apply for a group change in tax year for all its subordinate organizations.

Rev. Proc. 76-10 does not apply to:

- Farmers' cooperatives exempt from Federal income tax under section 521,
- Certain organizations that have unrelated business taxable income defined in section 512(a), and
- Organizations that are private foundations defined in section 509(a).

Part III—Ruling Request

Part III is completed only by applicants requesting to adopt, change, or retain a tax year that cannot use the automatic procedures listed in Part II.

Also, the applicant must complete the specific section(s) in Part III that applies to that particular applicant.

If the applicant is:	Complete only
A corporation (other than an S corporation or CFC)	Sections A and B, plus any other applicable section in Part III
An S corporation	Sections A and C
A Partnership	Sections A and D
A Controlled Foreign Corporation	Sections A and E

Do not file a tax return using the requested tax year until this application is approved.

Rev. Proc. 2002-39 provides the general procedures for obtaining approval to adopt, change, or retain a tax year for taxpayers not qualifying under the automatic approval rules or if the application is late.

Section A—General Information

All applicants must complete this section to request a ruling on an adoption, change to, or retention of a tax year.

Line 1. If the applicant is:

- Under examination. Attach to the application a statement from the director consenting to the change or retention. The applicant must also attach to the application a statement indicating if a copy of the application has been given to the examination agent as required by section 6.06(1)(b) of Rev. Proc. 2002-39, as well as the name and telephone number of the examination agent.

- Before an appeals (area) office. Attach to the application a statement signed by an appropriate person certifying that, to the best of that person's knowledge, the entity's annual accounting period is not an issue under consideration by the appeals (area) office. The applicant must also attach to the application a statement indicating if a copy of the application has been given to the appeals officer as required by section 6.06(2) of Rev. Proc. 2002-39, as well as the name and telephone number of the appeals officer.

The applicant must also attach to the application a statement indicating if a copy of the application has been given to the government counsel as required by section 6.06(3) of Rev. Proc. 2002-39, as well as the name and telephone number of the government counsel.

Line 4a. Attach an explanation of the legal basis supporting the requested tax year. Include all authority (statutes, regulations, etc.) supporting the requested year. The applicant is encouraged to include all relevant facts and circumstances that may establish a business purpose.

Line 4b. If the applicant requests to establish a natural business year under the annual business cycle test or seasonal business test of sections 5.03(1) and 5.03(2) of Rev. Proc. 2002-39, it must provide its gross receipts from sales or services and approximate inventory costs (where applicable) for each month in the requested short period and for each month of the three immediately preceding tax years.

If the applicant is requesting to change to a natural business year that satisfies the 25-percent gross receipts test described in section 5.03(3) of Rev. Proc. 2002-39, the applicant must supply the gross receipts for the most recent 47 months for itself (or any predecessor).

Line 14. Applicants filing to request an automatic approval for a change in tax year under Rev. Procs. 2002-37, 2002-38, 2003-62, 85-58, or 76-10 (Part II) are not required to pay a user fee when Form 1128 is filed on time.

Applicants filing to request a letter ruling on a change in tax year under Rev. Proc. 2003-1 and Rev. Proc. 2002-39 must pay a $1,000 user fee. A request for an exempt organization letter ruling on a change in tax year under Rev. Proc. 2003-8, 2003-1 I.R.B. 236, requires payment of a $150 user fee.

A separate $1,200 user fee is also required for applicants filing a letter ruling request for an extension of time to file under Regulations section 301.9100-3 (including requests under Rev. Procs. 2002-37, 2002-38, and 2003-62 (Part II, Sections A, B, and C)).

Note: The user fees referred to in the above paragraphs are published in Rev. Proc. 2003-1 (exempt organizations, see Rev. Proc. 2003-8), or an annual update. The annual updates are published as revenue procedures in the Internal Revenue Bulletin. The Internal Revenue Bulletins can be accessed on the IRS web site, www.irs.gov.

Payment of the user fee (check or money order made payable to the United States Treasury) must be attached to Form 1128 at the time the form is filed. See Rev. Proc. 2003-1 for more information.

Section B—Corporations (Other Than S Corporations and Controlled Foreign Corporations)

Corporations must complete this section and any other section in Part III that applies to that particular entity. For example, a PFIC completes Section B and attaches the statement required by Section H. Complete Sections B and F for a tax-exempt organization that is a corporation.

Section C—S Corporations

An S corporation must have a permitted tax year unless it has elected under section 444 to have a tax year other than the required tax year. A "permitted tax year" is:

1. A tax year that ends on December 31 or
2. Any other tax year if the corporation can establish a business purpose to the satisfaction of the IRS.

For purposes of 2, any deferral of income to shareholders will not be treated as a business purpose. For more information, see Rev. Proc. 2002-38

If any shareholder is applying for a corresponding change in tax year, that shareholder must file a separate Form 1128 to get advance approval to change its tax year.

Section D—Partnerships

A partnership must obtain advance approval from the IRS to adopt, change, or retain a tax year unless it is not required to file Form 1128, or it meets one of the automatic approval rules discussed in Part II, Section B on page 4. See Exceptions on page 1.

Partners must also get separate advance approval to change their tax years.

Line 23. Enter the first date a business transaction resulted in a tax consequence, such as receiving income or incurring an expense.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. Section 442 says that you must obtain IRS approval if you want to adopt, change, or retain a tax year. To obtain approval, you are required to file an application to adopt, change, or retain a tax year. Section 6109 requires that you disclose your taxpayer identification number (SSN or EIN). Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation, and to cities, states, and the District of Columbia for use in administering their tax laws. Failure to provide this information in a timely manner could result in approval of your application being delayed or withheld.

In addition, the Privacy Act requires that when we ask you for information we must first tell you our legal right to ask for the information, why we are asking for it, and what could happen if we do not receive it and whether your response is voluntary, required to obtain a benefit, or mandatory under the law.

Our authority to ask for information is sections 6001, 6011, and 6012(a) and their regulations, which require you to file a return or statement with us for any tax for which you are liable. Your response is mandatory under these sections. Section 6109 requires that you provide your SSN or EIN on what you file. This is so we know who you are, and can process your return and other papers. You must fill in all parts of the form that apply to you.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

However, section 6103 allows or requires the Internal Revenue Service to disclose or give the information shown on your application to others as described in the Code. For example, we may disclose your tax information to the Department of Justice to enforce the tax laws, both civil and criminal, and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, U.S. commonwealths or possessions, and certain foreign governments to carry out their laws. We may also disclose this information to Federal and state or local agencies to enforce Federal nontax criminal laws and to combat terrorism.

Keep this notice with your records. It may help you if we ask you for other information. If you have any questions about the rules for filing and giving information, call or visit any Internal Revenue Service office.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average times are:

	Recordkeeping	Learning about the law or the form	Preparing and sending the form to the IRS
Parts I and II	8 hr., 36 min.	5 hr., 51 min.	6 hr., 15 min.
Parts I and III	22 hr., 14 min.	5 hr., 37 min.	7 hr., 26 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to the Tax Products Coordinating Committee, Western Area Distribution Center, Rancho Cordova, CA 95743-0001. Do not send the tax form to this office. ## General Instructions

Purpose of Form

File Form 3115 to request a change in either an overall accounting method or the accounting treatment of any item. File a separate Form 3115 for each unrelated item or submethod, unless the IRS specifically permits (in published guidance) a change for more than one unrelated item or submethod to be requested on a single Form 3115.

Two procedures exist under which an applicant may request a change in accounting method:

Automatic Change Request. You must file under the automatic change request procedures if (a) the accounting method change is included in those procedures for the requested year of change and (b) you are within the scope of those procedures for the requested year of change (see Automatic Change Request Scope Limitations on page 3). A Form 3115 filed under these procedures may be reviewed by the IRS and you will be notified if information in addition to that requested on Form 3115 is required or if your request is denied. No user fee is required. An applicant that timely files and complies with an automatic change request procedure is granted consent to change its accounting method, subject to review by the IRS National Office and operating division director. See the instructions for Part I on page 3 for more information and the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes beginning on page 8.

Advance Consent Request. If you are not within the scope of the automatic change request procedures for the requested year of change or the accounting method change you are requesting is not included in those procedures for the requested year of change, you may be able to file under the advance consent request procedures (see Advance Consent Request Scope Limitations on page 5). If the requested change is approved, the applicant will receive a letter ruling on the requested change. A user fee is required. See the instructions for Part III on page 5 for more information.

For general rules on changing an accounting method under:

Automatic change request procedures . . .	See Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as modified by Announcement 2002-17, Rev. Proc. 2002-19, and Rev. Proc. 2002-54.
Advance consent request procedures . . .	See Rev. Proc. 97-27, as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19 and Rev. Proc. 2002-54.

For more information, see Rev. Proc. 2004-1, particularly section 9.

When filing Form 3115, applicants must determine if the IRS has published an accounting method revenue procedure, revenue ruling, notice, regulation, or other published guidance relating to the specific method the applicant is requesting to change. This guidance is published in the Internal Revenue Bulletin and, for years after 1995, is available at www.irs.gov.

For more information, see Pub. 538, Accounting Periods and Methods.

Who Must File

Generally, a Form 3115 must be filed by or on behalf of each applicant seeking consent to change an accounting method. An "applicant" is a taxpayer whose accounting method is being changed.

For a consolidated group of corporations, the parent corporation must file the Form 3115 for a change in accounting method for itself or any member of the consolidated group. For a controlled foreign corporation or 10/50 corporation without a U.S. trade or business, the Form 3115 must be filed, respectively, by the controlling U.S. shareholder(s) or majority domestic corporate shareholder(s). If the U.S. shareholder(s) is a member of a consolidated group, the parent corporation must file Form 3115 for the U.S. shareholder on behalf of the foreign corporation.

Generally, a separate Form 3115 must be filed for each applicant that is part of a related group of corporations. However, a single Form 3115 may be filed by a parent corporation requesting the identical accounting method change on behalf of more than one member of a consolidated group.

When and Where To File

Automatic change requests. A Form 3115 that is filed under the automatic change request procedures is filed in duplicate. The original must be attached to the filer's timely filed (including extensions) Federal income tax return for the year of change. A copy of the Form 3115 must be filed with the IRS National Office (see page 2) no earlier than the first day of the year of change and no later than when the original is filed with the Federal income tax return for the year of change. See also Late Application on page 2 and instructions for lines 4d and 4e on page 4.

Advance consent requests. A Form 3115 that is filed under the advance consent request procedures must be filed during the tax year for which the change is requested. If the tax year is a short period, file Form 3115 by the last day of the short tax year. File the Form 3115 with the IRS National Office (see page 2). Form 3115 should be filed as early as possible during the year of change to provide adequate time for the IRS to respond prior to the due date of the applicant's return for the year of change. See also Late Application on page 2 and instructions for lines 4d and 4e on page 4.

File Form 3115 at the applicable IRS address listed below.

The IRS normally acknowledges receipt of a filed Form 3115 for an advance consent request within 60 days after receipt. If an acknowledgement has not been received within 60 days of filing Form 3115, the filer of an advance consent request can inquire to: Internal Revenue Service, Control Clerk, CC:IT&A, Room 4516, 1111 Constitution Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20224.

Note: The filer of an automatic change request will not receive an acknowledgment.

Late Application

In general, a taxpayer that fails to timely file a Form 3115 will not be granted an extension of time to file except in unusual and compelling circumstances. See Regulations section 301.9100-3 for the standards that must be met. For information on the period of limitations, see section 5.02(2) of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

In certain circumstances, an automatic extension of time to file is available for automatic change requests. For details, see section 6.02(3)(b) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.

A taxpayer submitting a ruling request for an extension of time to file Form 3115 must pay a user fee for its accounting method change request and a separate user fee for its extension request. For the schedule of user fees, see (A)(3)(b) in Appendix A of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

Specific Instructions

Name(s) and Signature(s)

Enter the name of the filer on the first line of page 1 of Form 3115. In the case of an advance consent request, the Form 3115 and any attached statements required to be signed must be signed and dated by, or on behalf of, the filer. In the case of an automatic consent request, the copy of the Form 3115 that is sent to the IRS National Office must be signed and dated by, or on behalf of, the filer; the Form 3115 attached to the income tax return (including any additional statements) does not need to be signed. The name and signature requirements are discussed below.

In general, the filer of the Form 3115 is the applicant. However, for certain corporations discussed in the following paragraphs, Form 3115 is filed on behalf of the applicant. If such an exception applies, enter the filer name and identification number on the first line of Form 3115 and enter the applicant's name and identification number on the fourth line. If Form 3115 is filed for multiple applicants in a consolidated group of corporations, attach a schedule listing each applicant, its identification number, and principal business activity code (see Principal Business Activity Code on page 3). This schedule may be combined with the information requested for Part III, line 23a (regarding the user fee) and Part IV (section 481(a) adjustment). If multiple names and signatures are required (e.g., as in the case of controlled foreign corporations (CFCs)—see instructions below), attach a schedule labeled "SIGNATURE ATTACHMENT" to the Form 3115, signed under penalties of perjury using the same language as in the declaration on page 1 of Form 3115. Receivers, trustees, or assignees must sign the Form 3115 they are required to file.

Individuals. If Form 3115 is filed for a husband and wife who file a joint income tax return, enter the names of both on the first line and the signatures of both on the signature line.

Partnerships. Enter the name of the partnership on the first line of Form 3115. In the signature section of Form 3115, enter the signature of one of the general partners or limited liability company members authorized to sign and that person's name and title below the signature.

Corporations, personal service corporations, S corporations, cooperatives, and insurance companies. Enter the name of the filer on the first line of Form 3115. In the signature section of Form 3115, enter the signature of the officer authorized to sign and the officer's name and title below the signature.

Consolidated group of corporations. Enter the name of the parent corporation on the first line of Form 3115. Also enter the name(s) of the applicant(s) on the fourth line of Form 3115 if a member of the consolidated group other than, or in addition to, the parent corporation is requesting an accounting method change. Only an officer authorized to sign for the parent corporation may sign Form 3115.

Controlled foreign corporations (CFCs). For a CFC with a U.S. trade or business, use the same rules as other corporations. For a CFC that does not have a U.S. trade or business, enter the name(s) of the controlling U.S. shareholder(s) of the CFC on the first line of Form 3115 and the name of the CFC on the fourth line. All of the controlling U.S. shareholders must sign Form 3115.

However, if any controlling U.S. shareholder is a member of a consolidated group, enter the name of the shareholder's parent corporation rather than the shareholder's name on the first line of Form 3115. A person authorized to sign for the shareholder's parent corporation must sign Form 3115.

10/50 corporations. For a 10/50 corporation with a U.S. trade or business, use the same rules as other corporations. For a 10/50 corporation that does not have a U.S. trade or business, enter the name(s) of the majority domestic corporate shareholder(s) on the first line of Form 3115 and the name of the 10/50 corporation on the fourth line. A person authorized to sign for each of the majority domestic corporate shareholders must sign Form 3115.

However, if any majority domestic corporate shareholder is a member of a consolidated group, enter the name of the shareholder's parent corporation rather than the shareholder's name on the first line of Form 3115. A person authorized to sign for the shareholder's parent corporation must sign Form 3115.

Estates or trusts. Enter the name of the estate or trust on the first line of Form 3115. In the signature section of Form 3115, enter the signature of the fiduciary, personal representative, executor, administrator, etc., having legal authority to sign and that person's name and official title below the signature.

Exempt organizations. Enter the name of the organization on the first line of Form 3115. In the signature section of Form 3115 enter the signature of a principal officer or other person authorized to sign and that person's name and official title below the signature.

Preparer (other than filer/applicant). If the individual preparing the Form 3115 is not the filer or applicant, the preparer also must sign. However, in the case of an automatic change request, the Form 3115 attached to the income tax return does not need to be signed.

Identification Number

Enter the filer's taxpayer identification number on the first line of Form 3115.

Individuals enter their social security number (SSN) (or individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN) for a resident or nonresident alien). If the Form 3115 is for a husband and wife who file a joint return, enter the identification number of both.

For all others, enter the employer identification number (EIN).

For a consolidated group of corporations enter the EIN of the parent corporation on the first line of Form 3115. Enter the EIN of the applicant on the fourth line if a member of the consolidated group other than, or in addition to, the parent corporation is requesting the accounting method change.

If Form 3115 is filed on behalf of a CFC or 10/50 corporation, and the foreign corporation does not have an EIN, it does not have to obtain one. Instead, enter "N/A" next to the CFC's or 10/50 corporation's name on the fourth line.

Principal Business Activity Code

For filer(s) that are businesses, enter the six-digit principal business activity (PBA) code of the filer. The principal business activity of the filer is the one generating the largest percentage of its total receipts. The PBA code is based on the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) codes. See the instructions for the income tax return of the filer for the filer's PBA code and definition of "total receipts."

Note: An applicant requesting to change its accounting method under designated automatic accounting method change numbers 33 and/or 51 in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes beginning on page 8 must attach a schedule to the Form 3115 listing the detailed NAICS code associated with the applicant's principal business activity. See Rev. Proc. 2002-28, 2002-18 I.R.B. 815, for further guidance.

Address

Include the suite, room, or other unit number after the street address. If the Post Office does not deliver mail to the street address and the filer has a P.O. box, show the box number instead of the street address.

Contact Person

The contact person must be an individual authorized to sign Form 3115, or the filer's authorized representative. If this person is someone other than an individual authorized to sign Form 3115, you must attach Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative.

An individual authorized to represent the filer before the IRS, to receive a copy of the requested letter ruling, or to perform any other act(s), must properly reflect the authorization on Form 2848. For further details for an authorized representative and a power of attorney, see section 9.03(8) and (9) of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

Note: A filer that wants to receive correspondence regarding its Form 3115 (e.g., additional information letters or the letter ruling) by fax must attach to the Form 3115 a statement requesting this service. The attachment must also list the authorized name(s) and fax number(s) of the person(s) who are to receive the fax. The person(s) must be authorized to sign Form 3115 or an authorized representative of the filer that is included on Form 2848. For further details on the fax procedures, see section 9.04(3) of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

Type of Accounting Method Change Requested

Check the appropriate box described below indicating the type of change being requested.

- Depreciation or amortization. Check this box for a change in the (a) computation of depreciation or amortization (e.g., the depreciation method or recovery period), (b) treatment of salvage proceeds or costs of removal, (c) method of accounting for retirements of depreciable property, or (d) treatment of depreciable property from a single asset account to a multiple asset account (pooling), or vice versa.

- Financial products and/or financial activities of financial institutions. Check this box for a change in the treatment of a financial product (e.g., accounting for debt instruments, derivatives, mark-to-market accounting, etc.), or in the financial activities of a financial institution (e.g., a lending institution, a regulated investment company, a real estate investment trust, a real estate mortgage investment conduit, a financial asset securitization investment trust, etc.).

- Other. For advance consent requests, check this box if neither of the above boxes applies to the requested change. State the type of method change being requested and, in the space provided, enter a short description of the change (e.g., LIFO to FIFO, change within section 263A costs, deduction of warranty expenses, changes to the completed contract method for long-term contracts, etc.). For automatic change requests, this informational requirement is satisfied by properly completing Part I, line 1 of Form 3115.

Follow the instructions below to correctly complete Form 3115.

- Applicants requesting to change an accounting method using the automatic change request procedures must complete Parts I, II, and IV.
- Applicants requesting a change to an accounting method using the advance consent request procedures must complete Parts II, III, and IV.
- All applicants must complete Schedules A, B, C, D, and E, as applicable, for the change in accounting method requested.
- Attachments submitted with Form 3115 must show the filer's name and identification number. Also, indicate that the information is an attachment to Form 3115.
- Report amounts in U.S. dollars, translated, if necessary, from functional currency with a statement of exchange rates used.
- If more room is needed to respond to any line, attach a schedule labeled with the line number providing the applicable information.

Part I—Information For Automatic Change Request

Automatic Change Request Scope Limitations

An applicant may not be eligible to use the automatic change request procedures with respect to an automatic change provided by Rev. Proc. 2002-9 (either in the Appendix or included by reference in other published guidance) if any of the following six scope limitations (section 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9 as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19) apply at the time the copy of the Form 3115 would be filed with the IRS National Office and if the scope limitation(s) is applicable to the requested automatic accounting method change as described in the applicable section of the Appendix of Rev. Proc. 2002-9 or other published guidance.

1. The applicant is under examination, except as provided in section 4.02(1) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.
2. The applicant is (or was formerly) a member of a consolidated group that is under examination, or before

Appeals, or before a Federal court for the tax year(s) the applicant was a member of the group. For more information, see section 4.02(4) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.

3. In the case of a partnership or S corporation, the accounting method the applicant is requesting to change is an issue under consideration in an examination, or by an Appeals office, or before a Federal court with respect to a partner, member, or shareholder of the applicant. For more information, see section 4.02(5) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.

4. The applicant made or applied to make the same change in accounting method within the last 5 tax years, including the year of change. For more information, see section 4.02(6) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.

5. The applicant engages in a transaction to which section 381(a) applies within the proposed tax year of change. For more information, including exceptions to this limitation, see section 4.02(7) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.

6. The applicant is in the final tax year of its trade or business as described in sections 4.02(8) and 5.04(3) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.

Line 1. Enter the designated automatic accounting method change number on line 1(a). These numbers may be found in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes beginning on page 8, or in subsequently published guidance. In general, enter a number for only one change. However, in certain limited circumstances, the numbers for two changes may be entered on line 1(a). The List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes specifies which requests for change in accounting method may be made with another request for change.

If the accounting method change is not included in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes or assigned a number in subsequently published guidance, the filer should check the box for line 1(b) and identify the revenue procedure or other published guidance under which the accounting method change is being requested.

Filers who properly complete line 1 have fulfilled the label requirements of section 6.02(4)(a) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9 and any similar requirements in other guidance.

Line 2. An applicant filing under the automatic change request procedures should review the applicable accounting method change section in the Appendix of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, or the procedures in other published guidance, if applicable, to determine if the scope limitations of section 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19, are inapplicable to the specific change in accounting method requested.

Line 2 is asking whether the scope limitations do not apply to the accounting method change being requested. By answering "Yes" on line 2, the applicant is stating that the Appendix of Rev. Proc. 2002-9 or the procedures in other published guidance specifically state that the scope limitations are not applicable to the requested accounting method change. However, the applicant must complete all the lines in Part II, Information For All Requests. If any of the scope limitations apply to the requested accounting method change and apply to the applicant, the applicant may not request an automatic accounting method change. However, the applicant may be eligible to request its change under the advance consent request procedures. See Part III—Information For Advance Consent Request on page 5 of these instructions to determine if these procedures apply to the applicant. The descriptions of the automatic changes in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes indicate whether, with respect to a particular change, scope limitations may not apply. Refer to section 4 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19, for specific requirements regarding scope limitations.

Line 3. If the applicant would be required by section 5.04(3)(c) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9 to take the entire amount of the section 481(a) adjustment into account in computing taxable income for the year of change, and if section 4.02(8) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9 applies to the applicant's accounting method change request, the applicant is not eligible to make the change under automatic change request procedures.

Part II—Information For All Requests

Note: For lines 4a, 4b, 4c, 5a, 5c, and 6, the reference to "applicant" includes the applicant and any present or former consolidated group in which the applicant was a member during the applicable tax year(s). A reference to "applicable tax year(s)" includes any tax years for which the applicant's present or former consolidated group is under examination, before Appeals, and/or before a Federal court if the applicant was a member of the group in those tax years. For each of the applicable lines (4a, 4b, 4c, 5a, 5c, and/or 6), attach to the Form 3115 a list of the beginning and ending dates of the tax year(s) that the applicant (including its present and former consolidated group) is under examination, before Appeals, and/or before a Federal court. If the method of accounting the applicant is requesting to change is an issue either under consideration, placed in suspense, or pending for any tax year under examination, or if the method of accounting the applicant is requesting to change is an issue under consideration by an Appeals office or by a Federal court, indicate the applicable tax year(s).

Line 4a. The applicant is under examination if it has a Federal income tax return under examination on the date the Form 3115 is filed. For the definition of "under examination," see section 3.07 of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or section 3.08 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, both as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19, as applicable.

Line 4b. The applicant's method of accounting is an issue under consideration if the applicant receives written notification from the examining agent specifically citing the treatment of the item as an issue under consideration. For further details, see section 3.08 of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or section 3.09 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as applicable. The applicant's method of accounting is an issue placed in suspense if the examining agent has given the applicant written notification that the issue is placed in suspense.

Line 4c. The applicant's method of accounting is an issue pending if the IRS has given the applicant written notification indicating that an adjustment is being made or will be proposed with respect to the applicant's method of accounting for the tax year(s) under examination. Attach a copy of this written notification to Form 3115. For further details, see section 6.01(5) of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or section 6.03(6) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, both as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19, as applicable.

Line 4d. A taxpayer under examination may request to change an accounting method if the operating division director consents to the filing of the Form 3115. The operating division director will consent to the filing of the Form 3115 unless, in the opinion of the operating division director, the method of accounting to be changed would ordinarily be included as an item of adjustment in the year(s) for which the applicant is under examination. The applicant should submit its request for the consent of the operating division director to the examining agent. If the operating division director consents to the filing of the Form 3115, the consent must be attached to the Form 3115 filed with the IRS National Office. Also, the applicant must submit the operating division director copy of Form 3115 to the examining agent at the same time the Form 3115 is filed with the IRS National Office. For applicants filing under the automatic change request procedures, attach to the Form 3115 submitted with the filer's income tax return a written statement certifying that (a) the written consent was obtained from the director and (b) the applicant will retain a copy of the consent for inspection by the IRS. For further details, see section 6.01(4) of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or section 6.03(4) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as applicable.

Line 4e. The following exceptions apply to the under examination scope limitations:

- 90-day window period. This exception applies during the first 90 days of any tax year if the applicant has been under examination for at least 12 consecutive months as of the first day of the tax year. The 90-day window period exception does not apply if the method the applicant is requesting to change is an issue under consideration or placed in suspense by the examining agent. For further details, including the required statement, see section 6.01(2) of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or 6.03(2) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as applicable.

• 120-day window period. This exception applies during the 120-day period following the date an examination ends regardless of whether a subsequent examination has commenced. For the definition of when an examination ends, see section 3.07 of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or section 3.08 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as applicable. The 120-day window period exception does not apply if the method the applicant is requesting to change is an issue under consideration or placed in suspense by the examining agent. Applicants should include the ending date of the examination that qualifies the applicant to file under the 120-day window. For further details, including the required statement, see section 6.01(3) of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or section 6.03(3) of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, as applicable.

Line 5a. If the applicant has any Federal income tax return before Appeals and/or a Federal court, refer to sections 6.02 and 6.03 of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or sections 6.04 and 6.05 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, both as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19, as applicable.

Line 5c. Except as otherwise provided in published guidance, an applicant that is requesting to change a method of accounting that is an issue under consideration by Appeals and/or a Federal court will not receive audit protection for the requested change. For further details, see sections 6.02 and 6.03 of Rev. Proc. 97-27 or 6.04 and 6.05 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, both as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19, as applicable.

Line 6. The information requested on line 6 may be provided in an attachment that includes the information requested on line 4f and/or line 5a, as applicable.

Line 8. Indicate the lack of audit protection by checking the "Yes" box. An applicant filing under the automatic change request procedures should review the applicable accounting method change section in the Appendix of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, or the procedures in other published guidance, if applicable, to determine if, under the specific change in accounting method requested, the applicant will not receive audit protection in connection with the change. Applicants filing under either the automatic change or advance consent request procedures must also indicate lack of audit protection for their change if audit protection does not apply under the provisions of sections 6.01(5), 6.02 or 6.03 of Rev. Proc. 97-27, or under sections 6.03(6), 6.04 or 6.05 of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, both as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19.

Line 13. Each applicant, including each applicant that is a member of a consolidated group filing a single Form 3115 requesting the identical accounting method change, must attach a schedule describing its trade(s) or business(es) for each separate trade or business of the applicant. For guidance regarding the phrase "separate trade or business," see Regulations section 1.446-1(d).

Line 14. Insurance companies must also state whether the proposed method of accounting will be used for annual statement accounting purposes.

Line 16. For details on requesting and scheduling a conference of request, see sections 9.05(4) and 10 of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

Line 17. For an applicant changing to or from the cash method or changing its method of accounting under sections 263A, 448, 460, or 471, enter the gross receipts, as determined under the applicable Code section, of the applicant and other taxpayers, as applicable.

Part III—Information For Advance Consent Request

Advance Consent Request Scope Limitations

An applicant may not use the advance consent request procedures if any of the following four scope limitations apply at the time the Form 3115 would be filed with the IRS National Office. See Rev. Proc. 97-27 as modified by Rev. Proc. 2002-19.

1. The change in accounting method is required to be made pursuant to a published automatic change procedure. For more information, see section 4.02(1) of Rev. Proc. 97-27.

2. The applicant is under examination, except as provided in section 4.02(2) of Rev. Proc. 97-27.

3. The applicant is (or was formerly) a member of a consolidated group that is under examination, or before Appeals, or before a Federal court for the tax year(s) the applicant was a member of the group. For more information, see section 4.02(5) of Rev. Proc. 97-27.

4. In the case of a partnership or S corporation, the accounting method the applicant is requesting to change is an issue under consideration in an examination, or by an Appeals office, or before a Federal court with respect to a partner, member, or shareholder of the applicant. For more information, see section 4.02(6) of Rev. Proc. 97-27.

Line 18. If the requested change is covered by an automatic change request procedure, and the procedure applies to the applicant for the requested year of change, the applicant is not eligible to file an advance consent request. If the requested change is covered by an automatic change request procedure, explain why the applicant is requesting to make the change under advance consent request procedures.

Line 19. For further details on what is to be included in the attachment, see sections 9.03(1) (facts and other information), 9.03(4) (analysis of material facts), 7.01(8) and 9.03(1) (statement of supporting authorities), 9.03(2) (statement of contrary authorities), and 9.03(7) (statement identifying pending legislation) of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

Line 20. True copies of all contracts, agreements, and other documents directly related to the proposed accounting method change must be submitted with the request. See section 9.03(3) of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

Line 21. For further details on what is to be included in the attachment, see section 7.01(1)(d) of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

Line 23. Taxpayers filing under the advance consent request procedures must pay a user fee for each Form 3115. See Appendix A of Rev. Proc. 2004-1. (Taxpayers filing under an automatic change request procedure do not pay a user fee.)

A separate user fee must be paid for each member of an affiliated group that files a Form 3115. However, a parent corporation requesting an identical accounting method change for more than one member of a consolidated group qualifies for a reduced user fee (see (A)(5) in Appendix A of Rev. Proc. 2004-1). If a filer qualifies for a reduced user fee under this provision, the filer must submit the additional information required by section 15.07 of Rev. Proc. 2004-1. Only the members of the consolidated group requesting the accounting method change are required to pay a user fee.

Filers whose gross income is less than the amount specified in (A)(4) in Appendix A of Rev. Proc. 2004-1 qualify for a reduced user fee. For the definition of gross income, see (B)(2) and (3) in Appendix A of Rev. Proc. 2004-1. If the filer qualifies for the reduced user fee under this provision, the filer must attach to the Form 3115 the representation required by (B)(1) in Appendix A of Rev. Proc. 2004-1.

For information on user fees for tax-exempt organizations, see Rev. Proc. 2004-8, 2004-1 I.R.B. 240 (or its successor).

The user fee (check or money order payable to the Internal Revenue Service) must be attached to the Form 3115 that is filed with the IRS National Office.

Part IV—Section 481(a) Adjustment

Line 24. Certain accounting method changes require the use of the cut-off method. In those cases there is no section 481(a) adjustment.

Line 25. Attach a schedule showing the section 481(a) adjustment for each applicant included in the Form 3115. This schedule may be combined with the information requested on the fourth line on page 1 (list of applicants, their identification numbers, and their principal business activity codes) and on line 23 (user fee). Include a summary of the computation of the section 481(a) adjustment and an explanation of the methodology used to determine it. If the section 481(a) adjustment is based on more than one component of the accounting method being changed, include a summary of the computation for each component. The summary of the computation and explanation of the section 481(a) adjustment need not be extensive but should be sufficient to demonstrate that the section 481(a) adjustment is being computed correctly.

Example. Under its present method, XYZ Corporation is deducting certain costs that are required to be capitalized into inventory under section 263A. XYZ Corporation is proposing to change its method of accounting to properly capitalize such costs. The computation of the section 481(a) adjustment with respect to the change in method of accounting may be demonstrated as follows:

Beginning inventory for year of change under proposed method . . . . .	$120,000
Beginning inventory for year of change under present method . . . . .	100,000
Difference (positive section 481(a) adjustment) . . . . .	+$ 20,000

Schedule A—Change in Overall Method of Accounting

Part I—Change in Overall Method

All applicants filing to change their overall method of accounting must complete Part I, including applicants filing under designated automatic accounting method change numbers 30, 32, 33, and 34 in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes.

Lines 1a through 1g. Enter the amounts requested on lines 1a through 1g, even though the calculation of some amounts may not have been required in determining taxable income due to the applicant's present method of accounting.

Note: Do not include amounts that are not attributable to the change in method of accounting, such as amounts that correct a math or posting error or errors in calculating tax liability.

Line 1b. Enter amounts received or reported as income in a prior year that were not earned as of the beginning of the year of change. Examples include:

1. An advance payment received in a prior year for goods that were not delivered by the beginning of the year of change may be reported upon delivery if the taxpayer qualifies under Regulations section 1.451-5. If any amounts entered on line 1b are for advance payments, complete Schedule B.
2. A discount on installment loans is reported as income in the year the loans were made instead of in the year(s) the income was received or earned.

Line 1h. The following example illustrates how an applicant calculates the section 481(a) adjustment when changing to an accrual method, a nonaccrual-experience method, and the recurring item exception.

Example. ABC corporation, a calendar year taxpayer using the cash method of accounting, has the following items of unreported income and expense on December 31, 2003:

Accrued income . . . . .	$250,000
Uncollectible amounts based on the nonaccrual-experience method . . . . .	50,000
Accrued amounts properly deductible (economic performance has occurred) . . . . .	75,000
Expenses eligible for recurring item exception . . . . .	5,000

ABC corporation changes to an overall accrual method, a nonaccrual-experience method, and the recurring item exception for calendar year 2004. The section 481(a) adjustment is calculated as follows:

Accrued income . . . . .	$250,000
Less:
Uncollectible amount . . . . .	50,000
Net income accrued but not received . . . . .	$200,000
Less:
Accrued expenses . . . . .	75,000
Expenses deducted as recurring item . . . . .	5,000
Total expenses accrued but not paid . . . . .	80,000
Section 481(a) adjustment . . . . .	$120,000

Line 2. If an applicant is requesting to use the recurring item exception (section 461(h)(3)), the section 481(a) adjustment must include the amount of the additional deduction that results from using the recurring item exception.

Part II—Change to the Cash Method For Advance Consent Request

Limits on cash method use. Except as provided below, C corporations and partnerships with a C corporation as a partner may not use the cash method of accounting. Tax shelters, also, are precluded from using the cash method. For this purpose, a trust subject to tax on unrelated business income under section 511(b) is treated as a C corporation with respect to its unrelated trade or business activities.

The limit on the use of the cash method under section 448 does not apply to:

1. Farming businesses as defined in section 448(d)(1).
2. Qualified personal service corporations as defined in section 448(d)(2).
3. C corporations and partnerships with a C corporation as a partner if the corporation or partnership has gross receipts of $5 million or less. See section 448(b)(3) and (c) to determine if the applicant qualifies for this exception.

For farming corporations and partnerships with a C corporation as a partner, see section 447 for limits on the use of the cash method.

Use of the cash method is also limited under Regulations sections 1.471-1 and 1.446-1(c)(2)(i) if the applicant purchases, produces, or sells merchandise that is an income-producing factor in its business. However, for exceptions to this limitation, see section 5.05 in the Appendix of Rev. Proc. 2002-9 and Rev. Proc. 2002-28.

Schedule B—Change in Reporting Advance Payments

Line 1. In general, payments received for services to be performed in the future must be included in gross income in the tax year of receipt. However, Rev. Proc. 71-21, 1971-2 C.B. 549, allows applicants on the accrual method, in certain circumstances, to defer for Federal income tax purposes, payments received (or amounts due and payable) in one tax year, if the services are to be performed by the end of the succeeding tax year.

Line 2. Advance payments received from a contract for the sale of goods generally may be deferred for Federal income tax purposes until the second year following the receipt of substantial advance payments on the contract. See Regulations section 1.451-5 for requirements that must be met and for the definition of "substantial advance payments."

Schedule C—Changes Within the LIFO Inventory Method

Use this schedule to request a change from one LIFO inventory method or submethod to another LIFO inventory method or submethod. All applicants changing within the LIFO inventory method or submethods must complete Part I. Complete Part II only if applicable.

Part I—General LIFO Information

Line 6. Applicants changing to the IPIC method must use this method for all LIFO inventories. This includes applicants requesting designated automatic accounting method change numbers 61 or 62 in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes.

Schedule D—Change in the Treatment of Long-Term Contracts Under Section 460, Inventories, or Other Section 263A Assets

Part I—Change in Reporting Income From Long-Term Contracts

Line 2a. Under section 460(f), the term “long-term contract” means any contract for the manufacture, building, installation, or construction of property that is not completed in the tax year in which it is entered into. However, a manufacturing contract will not qualify as long-term unless the contract involves the manufacture of (a) a unique item not normally included in finished goods inventory or (b) any item that normally requires more than 12 calendar months to complete.

Generally, all long-term contracts entered into after July 10, 1989, that do not meet the exceptions under section 460(e) must be accounted for using the percentage of completion method. See section 460 and the related regulations.

Line 2b. To qualify for the contract exceptions under section 460(e), the contract must be:

1. A home construction contract entered into after June 20, 1988, involving dwelling units in buildings containing four or fewer units or
2. Any other construction contract entered into by the applicant if, at the time the contract is entered into, it is expected to be completed within 2 years and the applicant’s average annual gross receipts determined under section 460(e)(2) for the 3-year period preceding the tax year the contract was entered into did not exceed $10 million.

Line 4b. Under the simplified cost-to-cost method, only certain costs are used in determining both (a) costs allocated to the contract and incurred before the close of the tax year and (b) estimated contract costs. These costs are: (1) direct material costs; (2) direct labor costs; and (3) allowable deductions for depreciation, amortization, and cost recovery allowances on equipment and facilities directly used to construct or produce the subject matter of the long-term contract. See Regulations section 1.460-5(c).

Part II—Change in Valuing Inventories Including Cost Allocation Changes

If the applicant is currently using a LIFO inventory method or submethod and is changing to another LIFO inventory method or submethod, Part II is not applicable. Use Schedule C, Changes Within the LIFO Inventory Method.

Line 3. If an applicant is subject to, but not in compliance with, section 263A, generally on the same Form 3115 the applicant must first comply with section 263A before changing an inventory valuation method. The applicant must complete Schedule D, Part III, Method of Cost Allocation. For exceptions, see Regulations section 1.263A-7(b)(2).

Line 5a. If the applicant properly elected the LIFO inventory method but is unable to furnish a copy of Form(s) 970, attach the following statement to Form 3115:

“I certify that to the best of my knowledge and belief (name of applicant) properly elected the LIFO inventory method by filing Form 970 with its return for the tax year(s) ended (insert date(s)) and otherwise complied with the provisions of section 472(d) and Regulations section 1.472-3.”

Line 5c. Attach the three statements required by section 10.01(4) in the Appendix of Rev. Proc. 2002-9.

Part III—Method of Cost Allocation

Applicants requesting to change their method of accounting for any property (produced or acquired for resale) subject to section 263A or any long-term contracts as described in section 460 must complete this schedule.

If the change is for noninventory property that is subject to section 263A, attach a detailed description of the types of property involved and an explanation detailing how that property was accounted for prior to January 1, 1987.

There are several methods available for allocating and capitalizing costs under section 263A, and for allocating and, where appropriate, capitalizing costs properly allocable to long-term contracts. A change to or from any of these methods is a change in accounting method that requires IRS consent. Using the applicable regulations and notice listed below, the applicant should verify which methods are presently being used and the proposed methods that will be used before completing Schedule D, Part III. These methods are as follows:

1. Allocating Direct and Indirect Costs

- Specific identification method—Regulations sections 1.263A-1(f)(2) and 1.460-5.
- Burden rate method—Regulations sections 1.263A-1(f)(3)(i) and 1.460-5.
- Standard cost method—Regulations sections 1.263A-1(f)(3)(ii) and 1.460-5.
- Any other reasonable allocation method—Regulations sections 1.263A-1(f)(4) and 1.460-5.

2. Allocating Mixed Service Costs

- Direct reallocation method—Regulations section 1.263A-1(g)(4)(iii)(A).
- Step-allocation method—Regulations section 1.263A-1(g)(4)(iii)(B).
- Simplified service cost method:
  - Using the labor-based allocation ratio—Regulations section 1.263A-1(h)(4).
  - Using the production cost allocation ratio—Regulations section 1.263A-1(h)(5).
- Any other reasonable allocation method—Regulations section 1.263A-1(f)(4).

3. Capitalizing Additional Section 263A Costs

- Simplified production method:
  - Without historic absorption ratio election—Regulations section 1.263A-2(b)(3).
  - With historic absorption ratio election—Regulations section 1.263A-2(b)(4).
- Simplified resale method:
  - Without historic absorption ratio election—Regulations section 1.263A-3(d)(3).
  - With historic absorption ratio election—Regulations section 1.263A-3(d)(4).
- U.S. ratio method—Notice 88-104, 1988-2 C.B. 443.
- Any other reasonable allocation method—Regulations section 1.263A-1(f)(4) (including the methods listed above under Allocating Direct and Indirect Costs).

Schedule E—Change in Depreciation or Amortization

Automatic change for depreciable property. All applicants requesting to change their method of depreciation or amortization must complete Schedule E of Form 3115. Applicants changing their method of accounting for depreciation or amortization under the automatic change request procedures should see the depreciation changes in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes.

Do not file Form 3115:

1. To make an election under sections 167, 168, 1400L, 1400L(b), or 1400L(c), or former section 168,
2. To revoke an election made under one of those sections,

5. To change the salvage value (except for a change in salvage value to zero when the salvage value is expressly treated as zero by the Code, the regulations, or other published guidance), or

6. To change a useful life under section 167 (except for a change to or from a useful life, recovery period, or amortization period that is specifically assigned by the Code, the regulations, or other published guidance).

List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes

Listed below are automatic accounting method changes providing for the filing of Form 3115. The List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes includes regulatory automatic changes, changes provided for in the Appendix of Rev. Proc. 2002-9, and automatic changes provided for in other guidance. These automatic changes may be modified or supplemented with additional automatic changes by subsequently published guidance.

Note: The list provides a brief description of each automatic accounting method change that is included in the list. A filer/applicant may not rely on the list or the descriptions of accounting method changes in the list as authority for making an accounting method change. A filer/applicant that is within the scope of, and complies with, all the applicable provisions of the published guidance that authorizes each listed change may rely on the applicable published guidance as authority for its automatic accounting method change. If any information in the List of Automatic Accounting Method Changes conflicts with published guidance, the published guidance applies.

Instructions for Form 3520

Annual Return To Report Transactions With Foreign Trusts and Receipt of Certain Foreign Gifts

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

U.S. persons file Form 3520 to report:

- Certain transactions with foreign trusts and
- Receipt of certain large gifts or bequests from certain foreign persons.

A separate Form 3520 must be filed for transactions with each foreign trust.

Who Must File

File Form 3520 if:

1. You are the responsible party for reporting a reportable event that occurred during the current tax year, or you held an outstanding obligation of a related foreign trust (or a person related to the trust) that you treated as a qualified obligation during the current tax year. Responsible party, reportable event, and qualified obligation are defined on pages 3 and 4.

Complete the identifying information on page 1 of the form and the relevant portions of Part I. See the instructions for Part I.

2. You are a U.S. person who, during the current tax year, is treated as the owner of any part of the assets of a foreign trust under the grantor trust rules.

Complete the identifying information on page 1 of the form and Part II. See the instructions for Part II.

3. You are a U.S. person who received (directly or indirectly) a distribution from a foreign trust during the current tax year or a related foreign trust held an outstanding obligation issued by you (or a person related to you) that you treated as a qualified obligation (defined on page 3) during the current tax year.

Complete the identifying information on page 1 of the form and Part III. See the instructions for Part III.

4. You are a U.S. person who, during the current tax year, received either:

a. More than $100,000 from a nonresident alien individual or a foreign estate (including foreign persons related to that nonresident alien individual or foreign estate) that you treated as gifts or bequests or

b. More than $12,097 from foreign corporations or foreign partnerships (including foreign persons related to such foreign corporations or foreign partnerships) that you treated as gifts.

Complete the identifying information on page 1 of the form and Part IV. See the instructions for Part IV.

Note. You may also be required to file Form TD F 90-22.1, Report of Foreign Bank and Financial Accounts.

Exceptions To Filing

Form 3520 does not have to be filed to report the following transactions.

- Transfers to foreign trusts described in sections 402(b), 404(a)(4), or 404A.
- Most fair market value (FMV) transfers by a U.S. person to a foreign trust. However, some FMV transfers must nevertheless be reported on Form 3520 (e.g., transfers in exchange for obligations that are treated as qualified obligations, transfers of appreciated property to a foreign trust for which the U.S. transferor does not immediately recognize all of the gain on the property transferred, transfers involving a U.S. transferor that is related to the foreign trust). See Section III of Notice 97-34, 1997-25 I.R.B. 22.
- Transfers to foreign trusts that have a current determination letter from the IRS recognizing their status as exempt from income taxation under section 501(c)(3).
- Transfers to, ownership of, and distributions from a Canadian registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) or a Canadian registered retirement income fund (RRIF), where the U.S. citizen or resident alien holding an interest in such RRSP or RRIF is eligible to file Form 8891, U.S. Information Return for Beneficiaries of Certain Canadian Registered Retirement Plans, with respect to the RRSP or RRIF.
- Distributions from foreign trusts that are taxable as compensation for services rendered (within the meaning of section 672(f)(2)(B) and its regulations), so long as the recipient reports the distribution as compensation income on its applicable federal income tax return.
- Distributions from foreign trusts to domestic trusts that have a current determination letter from the IRS recognizing their status as exempt from income taxation under section 501(c)(3).
- Domestic trusts that become foreign trusts to the extent the trust is treated as owned by a foreign person, after application of section 672(f).

Joint Returns

Two transferors or grantors of the same foreign trust, or two U.S. beneficiaries of the same foreign trust, may file a joint Form 3520, but only if they file a joint income tax return.

When and Where To File

In general, Form 3520 is due on the date that your income tax return is due, including extensions. Send Form 3520 to the Internal Revenue Service Center, Philadelphia, PA 19255.

Form 3520 must have all required attachments to be considered complete.

Note. If a complete Form 3520 is not filed by the due date, including extensions, the time for assessment of any tax imposed with respect to any event or period to which the information required to be reported in Parts I through III of such Form 3520 relates, will not expire before the date that is 3 years after the date on which the required information is reported. See section 6501(c)(8).

Who Must Sign

If the return is filed by:

- An individual or a fiduciary, it must be signed and dated by that individual or fiduciary.
- A partnership, it must be signed and dated by a general partner or limited liability company member.
- A corporation, it must be signed and dated by the president, vice president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, chief accounting officer, or any other corporate officer (such as a tax officer) who is authorized to sign.

The paid preparer must complete the required preparer information and:

- Sign the return in the space provided for the preparer's signature.
- Give a copy of the return to the filer.

Inconsistent Treatment of Items

The U.S. beneficiary and U.S. owner's tax return must be consistent with the Form 3520-A, Annual Information Return of Foreign Trust With a U.S. Owner, filed by the foreign trust unless you report the inconsistency to the IRS. If you are treating items on your tax return differently from the way the foreign trust treated them on its return, file Form 8082, Notice of Inconsistent Treatment or Administrative Adjustment Request (AAR). See Form 8082 for more details.

Penalties

A penalty generally applies if Form 3520 is not timely filed or if the information is incomplete or incorrect. Generally, the penalty is:

1. 35% of the gross value of any property transferred to a foreign trust for failure by a U.S. transferor to report the transfer,
2. 35% of the gross value of the distributions received from a foreign trust for failure by a U.S. person to report receipt of the distribution, or
3. 5% of the amount of certain foreign gifts for each month for which the failure to report continues (not to exceed a total of 25%). See section 6039F(c).

If a foreign trust has a U.S. owner and the trust fails to file the required annual reports on trust activities and income, the U.S. owner is subject to a penalty equal to 5% of the gross value of the portion of the trust's assets treated as owned by the U.S. person (the gross reportable amount). See Form 3520-A.

Additional penalties may be imposed if noncompliance continues after the IRS mails a notice of failure to comply with required reporting. However, this penalty may not exceed the gross reportable amount. Also, penalties will only be imposed to the extent that the transaction is not reported. For example, if a U.S. person transfers property worth $1 million to a foreign trust but only reports $400,000 of that amount, penalties could only be imposed on the unreported $600,000.

For more information, see section 6677.

Reasonable cause. No penalties will be imposed if the taxpayer can demonstrate that the failure to comply was due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

Note. The fact that a foreign country would impose penalties for disclosing the required information is not reasonable cause. Similarly, reluctance on the part of a foreign fiduciary or provisions in the trust instrument that prevent the disclosure of required information is not reasonable cause.

Definitions

Distribution

A distribution is any gratuitous transfer of money or other property from a trust, whether or not the trust is treated as owned by another person under the grantor trust rules, and without regard to whether the recipient is designated as a beneficiary by the terms of the trust. A distribution includes the receipt of trust corpus and the receipt of a gift or bequest described in section 663(a).

A distribution also includes constructive transfers from a trust. For example, if charges you make on a credit card are paid by a foreign trust or guaranteed or secured by the assets of a foreign trust, the amount charged will be treated as a distribution to you by the foreign trust. Similarly, if you write checks on a foreign trust's bank account, the amount will be treated as a distribution.

Also, if you receive a payment from a foreign trust in exchange for property transferred to the trust or services rendered to the trust, and the FMV of the payment received exceeds the FMV of the property transferred or services rendered, the excess will be treated as a distribution to you.

Examples

1. If you sell stock with an FMV of $100 to a foreign trust and receive $150 in exchange, you have received a distribution of $50.
2. If you receive $100 from the trust for services performed by you for the trust, and the services have an FMV of $20, you have received a distribution of $80.

See the instructions for Part III, line 25, on page 6, for another example of a distribution from a foreign trust.

Foreign Trust and Domestic Trust

A foreign trust is any trust other than a domestic trust.

A domestic trust is any trust if:

1. A court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust and
2. One or more U.S. persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.

Grantor

A grantor includes any person who creates a trust or directly or indirectly makes a gratuitous transfer of cash or other property to a trust. A grantor includes any person treated as the owner of any part of a foreign trust's assets under sections 671 through 679, excluding section 678.

Note. If a partnership or corporation makes a gratuitous transfer to a trust, the partners or shareholders are generally treated as the grantors of the trust, unless the partnership or corporation made the transfer for a business purpose of the partnership or corporation.

If a trust makes a gratuitous transfer to another trust, the grantor of the transferor trust is treated as the grantor of the transferee trust, except that if a person with a general power of appointment over the transferor trust exercises that power in favor of another trust, such person is treated as the grantor of the transferee trust, even if the grantor of the transferor trust is treated as the owner of the transferor trust.

Grantor Trust

A grantor trust is any trust to the extent that the assets of the trust are treated as owned by a person other than the trust. See the grantor trust rules in sections 671 through 679. A part of the trust may be treated as a grantor trust to the extent that only a portion of the trust assets are owned by a person other than the trust.

Gratuitous Transfer

A gratuitous transfer to a foreign trust is any transfer to the trust other than (a) a transfer for FMV or (b) a distribution to the trust with respect to an interest held by the trust (i) in an entity other than a trust (e.g., a corporation or a partnership) or (ii) in an investment trust described in Regulations section 301.7701-4(c), a liquidating trust described in Regulations section 301.7701-4(d), or an environmental remediation trust described in Regulations section 301.7701-4(e).

A transfer of property to a trust may be considered a gratuitous transfer without regard to whether the transfer is a gift for gift tax purposes (see Chapter 12 of Subtitle B of the Code).

For purposes of this determination, if a U.S. person contributes property to a trust in exchange for any type of interest in the trust, such interest in the trust will be disregarded in determining whether FMV has been received. In addition, a U.S. person will not be treated as making a transfer for FMV merely because the transferor is deemed to recognize gain on the transaction.

If you transfer property to a foreign trust in exchange for an obligation of the trust (or a person related to the trust), it will be a gratuitous transfer unless the obligation is a qualified obligation. Obligation and qualified obligation are defined below.

Gross Reportable Amount

Gross reportable amount is:

- The gross value of property involved in the creation of a foreign trust or the transfer of property to a foreign trust (including a transfer by reason of death);
- The gross value of any portion of a foreign trust treated as owned by a U.S. person under the grantor trust rules or any part of a foreign trust that is included in the gross estate of a U.S. citizen or resident;
- The gross value of assets deemed transferred at the time a domestic trust to which a U.S. citizen or resident previously transferred property becomes a foreign trust, provided such U.S. citizen or resident is alive at the time the trust becomes a foreign trust (see section 679(a)(5)); or
- The gross amount of distributions received from a foreign trust.

Gross Value

Gross value is the FMV of property as determined under section 2031 and its regulations as if the owner had died on the valuation date. Although formal appraisals are not generally required, you should keep contemporaneous records of how you arrived at your good faith estimate.

Guarantee

A guarantee:

- Includes any arrangement under which a person, directly or indirectly, assures, on a conditional or unconditional basis, the payment of another's obligation;

- Encompasses any form of credit support, and includes a commitment to make a capital contribution to the debtor or otherwise maintain its financial viability; or
- Includes an arrangement reflected in a "comfort letter," regardless of whether the arrangement gives rise to a legally enforceable obligation. If an arrangement is contingent upon the occurrence of an event, in determining whether the arrangement is a guarantee, you must assume that the event has occurred.

Nongrantor Trust

A nongrantor trust is any trust to the extent that the assets of the trust are not treated as owned by a person other than the trust. Thus, a nongrantor trust is treated as a taxable entity. A trust may be treated as a nongrantor trust with respect to only a portion of the trust assets. See Grantor Trust above.

Obligation

An obligation includes any bond, note, debenture, certificate, bill receivable, account receivable, note receivable, open account, or other evidence of indebtedness, and, to the extent not previously described, any annuity contract.

Owner

An owner of a foreign trust is the person that is treated as owning any of the assets of a foreign trust under the grantor trust rules.

Property

Property means any property, whether tangible or intangible, including cash.

Qualified Obligation

A qualified obligation, for purposes of this form, is any obligation only if:

1. The obligation is reduced to writing by an express written agreement;
2. The term of the obligation does not exceed 5 years (including options to renew and rollovers) and it is repaid within the 5-year term;
3. All payments on the obligation are denominated in U.S. dollars;
4. The yield to maturity of the obligation is not less than 100% of the applicable federal rate under section 1274(d) for the day on which the obligation is issued and not greater than 130% of the applicable federal rate;
5. The U.S. person agrees to extend the period for assessment of any income or transfer tax attributable to the transfer and any consequential income tax changes for each year that the obligation is outstanding, to a date not earlier than 3 years after the maturity date of the obligation, unless the maturity date of the obligation does not extend beyond the end of the U.S. person's tax year and is paid within such period (this is done on Part I, Schedule A, and Part III, as applicable); and
6. The U.S. person reports the status of the obligation, including principal and interest payments, on Part I, Schedule C, and Part III, as applicable, for each year that the obligation is outstanding.

Related Person

A related person generally includes any person who is related to you for purposes of section 267 and 707(b). This includes, but is not limited to:

- A member of your family—your brothers and sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters, spouse, ancestors (parents, grandparents, etc.), lineal descendants (children, grandchildren, etc.), and the spouses of any of these persons.

- A corporation in which you, directly or indirectly, own more than 50% in value of the outstanding stock.

See section 643(i)(2)(B) and the regulations under sections 267 and 707(b).

Person related to a foreign trust. A person is related to a foreign trust if such person, without regard to the transfer at issue, is a grantor of the trust, a beneficiary of the trust, or is related to any grantor or beneficiary of the trust. See the definition of related person above.

Reportable Event

A reportable event includes:

1. The creation of a foreign trust by a U.S. person.
2. The transfer of any money or property, directly or indirectly, to a foreign trust by a U.S. person, including a transfer by reason of death. This includes transfers that are deemed to have occurred under sections 679(a)(4) and (5).
3. The death of a citizen or resident of the United States if:
  - The decedent was treated as the owner of any portion of a foreign trust under the grantor trust rules or
  - Any portion of a foreign trust was included in the gross estate of the decedent.

Responsible Party

Responsible party means:

- The grantor in the case of the creation of an inter vivos trust,
- The transferor, in the case of a reportable event (defined above) other than a transfer by reason of death, or
- The executor of the decedent's estate in any other case.

U.S. Agent

A U.S. agent is a U.S. person (defined below) that has a binding contract with a foreign trust that allows the U.S. person to act as the trust's authorized U.S. agent in applying sections 7602, 7603, and 7604 with respect to:

- Any request by the IRS to examine records or produce testimony related to the proper U.S. tax treatment of amounts distributed, or required to be taken into account under the grantor trust rules, with respect to a foreign trust or
- Any summons by the IRS for such records or testimony.

A U.S. grantor, a U.S. beneficiary, or a domestic corporation controlled by the grantor or beneficiary may act as a U.S. agent. However, you may not treat the foreign trust as having a U.S. agent unless you enter the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the U.S. agent on lines 3a through 3g. If the person identified as the U.S. agent does not produce records or testimony when requested or summoned by the IRS, the IRS may redetermine the tax consequences of your transactions with the trust and impose appropriate penalties under section 6677.

The agency relationship must be established by the time the U.S. person files Form 3520 for the relevant tax year and must continue as long as the statute of limitations remains open for the relevant tax year. If the agent resigns or liquidates, or its responsibility as an agent of the trust is terminated, see Section IV(B) of Notice 97-34.

U.S. Beneficiary

A U.S. beneficiary generally includes any U.S. person that could possibly benefit (directly or indirectly) from the trust (including an amended trust) at any time, whether or not the person is named in the trust instrument as a beneficiary and whether or not the person can receive a distribution from the trust in the current year. In addition, a U.S. beneficiary includes:

- A foreign corporation that is a controlled foreign corporation (as defined in section 957(a)),
- A foreign partnership if a U.S. person is a partner of the partnership, and
- A foreign estate or trust if the estate or trust has a U.S. beneficiary.

A foreign trust will be treated as having a U.S. beneficiary unless the terms of the trust instrument specifically prohibit any distribution of income or corpus to a U.S. person at any time, even after the death of the U.S. transferor, and the trust cannot be amended or revised to allow such a distribution.

U.S. Person

A U.S. person is:

- A citizen or resident alien of the United States (see Pub. 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens, for guidance on determining resident alien status),
- A domestic partnership,
- A domestic corporation,
- Any estate (other than a foreign estate, within the meaning of section 7701(a)(31)(A)), and
- Any domestic trust (defined on page 2).

U.S. Transferor

A U.S. transferor is any U.S. person who:

1. Creates or settles a foreign trust.
2. Directly or indirectly transfers money or property to a foreign trust. This includes a U.S. citizen or resident who has made a deemed transfer under section 679(a)(4) or a U.S. resident who has made a deemed transfer under section 679(a)(5).
3. Makes a sale to a foreign trust if the sale was at other than arm's-length terms or was to a related foreign trust, or makes (or guarantees) a loan to a related foreign trust.
4. Is the executor of the estate of a U.S. person and:
  - a. The decedent made a testamentary transfer (a transfer by reason of death) to a foreign trust,
  - b. Immediately prior to death, the decedent was treated as the owner of any portion of a foreign trust under the grantor trust rules, or
  - c. Any portion of a foreign trust's assets were included in the estate of the decedent.

Generally, the person defined as the transferor is the responsible party (defined above) who must ensure that required information be provided or pay appropriate penalties.

Specific Instructions

Period Covered

File the 2004 return for calendar year 2004 and fiscal years that begin in 2004 and end in 2005. For a fiscal year, fill in the tax year space at the top of the form.

Item A—Initial Return, Final Return, Amended Return

Initial return. If this is the first return you are filing concerning the foreign trust identified, check the “Initial return” box.

Final return. If no further returns for transactions with the foreign trust are required, check the “Final return” box.

Example. If you annually filed Part II, Form 3520, because you were the owner of the trust for U.S. income tax purposes and the trust has terminated within the tax year, that year’s return would be a final return with respect to that foreign trust.

Amended return. If this Form 3520 is filed to amend a Form 3520 that you previously filed, check the “Amended return” box.

Identifying Information

Identification numbers. Use social security numbers or individual taxpayer identification numbers to identify individuals. Use employer identification numbers to identify estates, trusts, partnerships, and corporations.

Address. Include the suite, room, or other unit number after the street address. If the Post Office does not deliver mail to the street address and the U.S. person has a P.O. box, show the box number instead.

Foreign address. Do not abbreviate the country name.

Line 1. This line identifies the U.S. person that is filing Form 3520. If you and your spouse are both making transfers to the same trust and you file joint returns, you may file only one Form 3520. Put the names and taxpayer identification numbers in the same order as they appear on your Form 1040.

Line 4. If you are the executor of the estate of a U.S. citizen or resident, you must identify the decedent on this line.

Part I—Transfers by U.S. Persons to a Foreign Trust During the Current Tax Year

Complete Part I for information on a reportable event (defined on page 4).

Note. Although the basic reporting requirements for Form 3520 are contained in section 6048 (and are clarified by Notice 97-34), the reporting requirements have been clarified by the regulations under sections 679 and 684. Accordingly, the regulations under sections 679 and 684 should be referred to for additional clarification for transfers that are required to be reported in Part I of Form 3520.

Line 5. If you are not the trust creator, enter the name of the person that created or originally settled the foreign trust.

Line 6. See the list of country codes on pages 11 and 12. If the country is not included in the list, enter “OC” for “other country” and enter the country’s name.

Lines 7, 8, and 10. If you are reporting multiple transfers to a single foreign trust and the answers to lines 7, 8, or 10 are different for various transfers, complete a separate line for each transfer on duplicate copies of the relevant pages of the form.

Line 7a. If “Yes,” you must comply with the reporting requirements that would apply to a direct transfer to that other person. For example, if that other person is a foreign partnership, you must comply with the reporting requirements for transfers to foreign partnerships (see Form 8865, Return of U.S. Persons With Respect to Certain Foreign Partnerships).

Line 8. If the transfer was a completed gift (see Regulations section 25.2511-2) or bequest, you may have to file Form 706, United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return, or Form 709, United States Gift (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return.

Line 9. See definition of U.S. beneficiary on page 4.

Line 10. If you are treated as the owner of any portion of the foreign trust under the grantor trust rules, answer “Yes” to this question and complete Part II.

Schedule A—Obligations of a Related Trust

Line 11a. The FMV of an obligation of the trust (or an obligation of another person related to the trust) that you receive in exchange for the transferred property equals zero, unless the obligation meets the requirements of a qualified obligation. See page 3 for the definitions of obligation and qualified obligation. See page 4 for the definition of person related to a foreign trust.

Lines 12 and 26. If you answered “Yes” to the question on line 11b (line 25, column (e)) with respect to any obligation, you generally must answer “Yes” to the question on line 12 (line 26). By so doing, you agree to extend the period of assessment of any income or transfer tax attributable to the transfer and any consequential income tax changes for each year that the obligation is outstanding. This form will be deemed to be agreed upon and executed by the IRS for purposes of Regulations section 301.6501(c)-1(d).

If you answer “No” to the question on line 12 (line 26), you generally may not treat an obligation as a qualified obligation on line 11b (line 25, column (e)). The one exception to this is if the maturity date of the obligation does not extend beyond the end of your tax year for which you are reporting and such obligation is paid within that tax year.

Schedule B—Gratuitous Transfers

Complete the applicable portions of Schedule B with respect to all reportable events (defined on page 4) that took place during the current tax year.

Line 13

- In your description, indicate whether the property is tangible or intangible.
- You may aggregate transfers of cash during the year on a single line of line 13.
- If there is not enough space on the form, please attach a statement.
- For transfers reported on attachments, you must enter “Attachment” on one of the lines in column (b), and enter the total amount of transfers reported on the attachment on line 13, columns (c), (d), (e), (f), (h), and (i).

Note. Penalties may be imposed for failure to report all required information. See Item 1 of Penalties on page 2.

Line 13, column (e). Only include gain that is immediately recognized at the time of the transfer.

Note. For any transfer by a U.S. person to a foreign nongrantor trust after August 4, 1997, the transfer is treated as a sale or exchange and the transferor must recognize as a gain the excess of the FMV of the transferred property over its adjusted basis. Although the gain is not recognized on Form 3520, it must be reported on the appropriate form or schedule of the transferor's income tax return. See section 684.

Line 13, column (f). Generally, if the reported transaction is a sale, you should report the gain on the appropriate form or schedule of your income tax return.

Line 15. Enter the name, address, whether the person is a U.S. beneficiary (defined on page 4), and taxpayer identification number, if any, of all reportable beneficiaries. Include specified beneficiaries, classes of discretionary beneficiaries, and names or classes of any beneficiaries that could be named as additional beneficiaries. If there is not enough space on the form, please attach a statement.

Line 17. Enter the name, address, and taxpayer identification number (if any) of any person, other than those listed on line 16, that has significant powers over the trust (e.g., "protectors," "enforcers," any person that must approve trustee decisions, or otherwise direct trustees, any person with a power of appointment, any person with powers to remove or appoint trustees, etc.). Include a description of each person's powers. If there is not enough space, attach a statement.

Line 18. If you checked "No" on line 3 (or you did not complete lines 3a through 3g) attach:

- A summary of the terms of the trust that includes a summary of any oral agreements or understandings you have with the trustee, whether or not legally enforceable.
- A copy of all trust documents (and any revisions), including the trust instrument, any memoranda of wishes prepared by the trustees summarizing the settlor's wishes, any letter of wishes prepared by the settlor summarizing his or her wishes, and any similar documents.
- A copy of the trust's financial statements, including a balance sheet and an income statement similar to those shown on Form 3520-A. These financial statements must reasonably reflect the trust's accumulated income under U.S. income tax principles. For example, the statements must not treat capital gains as additions to trust corpus.

Schedule C—Qualified Obligations Outstanding in the Current Tax Year

Line 19. Provide information on the status of outstanding obligations of the foreign trust (or person related to the foreign trust) that you reported as a qualified obligation in the current tax year. This information is required in order to retain the obligation's status as a qualified obligation. If relevant, attach a statement describing any changes in the terms of the qualified obligation.

If the obligation fails to retain the status of a qualified obligation, you will be treated as having made a gratuitous transfer to the foreign trust, which must be reported on Schedule B, Part I. See Section III(C)(2) of Notice 97-34.

Part II—U.S. Owner of a Foreign Trust

Complete Part II if you are considered the owner of any assets of a foreign trust under the grantor trust rules during the tax year. You are required to enter a taxpayer identification number for such foreign trust on line 2b.

Line 20. Enter information regarding any person other than yourself who is considered the owner of any portion of the trust under the grantor trust rules. Also, enter in column (e) the specific Code section that causes that person to be considered an owner for U.S. income tax purposes. See the grantor trust rules under sections 671 through 679.

Line 21. See the list of country codes on pages 11 and 12. If the country is not included in the list, enter "OC" for "other country" and the country's name.

Line 22. If "Yes," the copy of the Foreign Grantor Trust Owner Statement (page 3 of Form 3520-A) should show the amount of the foreign trust's income that is attributable to you for U.S. income tax purposes. See Section IV of Notice 97-34.

If "No," you may be liable for a penalty of 5% of the trust assets that you are treated as owning, plus additional penalties for continuing failure to file after notice by the IRS. See section 6677. Also see Penalties on page 2.

Line 23. Enter the FMV of the trust assets that you are treated as owning. Include all assets at FMV as of the end of the tax year. For this purpose, disregard all liabilities. The trust should send you this information in connection with its Form 3520-A. If you did not receive such information (line 9 of the Foreign Grantor Trust Owner Statement) from the trust, complete line 23 to the best of your ability. At a minimum, include the value of all assets that you have transferred to the trust. Also use Form 8082 to notify the IRS that you did not receive a Foreign Grantor Trust Owner Statement. However, filing Form 8082 does not relieve you of any penalties that may be imposed under section 6677. See Penalties on page 2.

Part III—Distributions to a U.S. Person From a Foreign Trust During the Current Tax Year

If you received an amount from a portion of a foreign trust of which you are treated as the owner and you have correctly reported any information required on Part II and the trust has filed a Form 3520-A with the IRS, do not separately disclose distributions again in Part III. If you received an amount from a foreign trust that would require a report under both Parts III and IV (gifts and bequests) of Form 3520, report the amount only in Part III.

Line 24. Report any cash or other property that you received (actually or constructively, directly or indirectly) during the current tax year, from a foreign trust, whether or not taxable, unless the amount is a loan to you from the trust that must be reported on line 25. For example, if you are a partner in a partnership that receives a distribution from a foreign trust, you must report your allocable share of such payment as an indirect distribution from the trust.

Line 24, column (c). The filer is permitted to enter the basis of the property in the hands of the beneficiary (as determined under section 643(e)(1)), if lower than the FMV of the property, but only if the taxpayer is not required to complete Schedule A (lines 31 through 38) due to lack of documentation. For these purposes, lack of documentation refers to a situation in which the filer checked "No" on line 29 or 30 because (a) the beneficiary did not receive a Foreign Grantor Trust Beneficiary Statement or a Foreign Nongrantor Trust Beneficiary Statement from the trust or (b) such statement did not contain all six of the items specified under the instructions for line 29 or line 30 on page 7.

Line 25. If you, or a person related to you, received a loan from a related foreign trust, it will be treated as a distribution to you unless the obligation you issued in exchange is a qualified obligation.

For this purpose, a loan to you by an unrelated third party that is guaranteed by a foreign trust is generally treated as a loan from the trust.

Line 25, column (e). Answer “Yes” if your obligation given in exchange for the loan is a qualified obligation (defined on page 3).

Line 26. See Lines 12 and 26 on page 5.

Line 27. Penalties may be imposed for failure to accurately report all distributions received during the current tax year. See item 2 of Penalties on page 2.

Line 28. Provide information on the status of any outstanding obligation to the foreign trust that you reported as a qualified obligation in the current tax year. This information is required in order to retain the obligation’s status as a qualified obligation. If relevant, attach a statement describing any changes to the terms of the qualified obligation. If the obligation fails to retain the status of a qualified obligation, you will be treated as having received a distribution from the foreign trust, which must be reported as such on line 25. See Section V(A) of Notice 97-34.

Lines 29 and 30. If any of the six items required for the Foreign Grantor Trust Beneficiary Statement (see Line 29 below) or for the Foreign Nongrantor Trust Beneficiary Statement (see Line 30 below) is missing, you must check “No” on line 29 or line 30, as applicable.

Also, if you answer “Yes” to line 29 or line 30, and the foreign trust or U.S. agent does not produce records or testimony when requested or summoned by the IRS, the IRS may redetermine the tax consequences of your transactions with the trust and impose appropriate penalties under section 6677.

Line 29. If “Yes,” attach the Foreign Grantor Trust Beneficiary Statement (page 4 of Form 3520-A) from the foreign trust and do not complete the rest of Part III with respect to the distribution. If a U.S. beneficiary receives a complete Foreign Grantor Trust Beneficiary Statement with respect to a distribution during the tax year, the beneficiary should treat the distribution for income tax purposes as if it came directly from the owner. For example, if the distribution is a gift, the beneficiary should not include the distribution in gross income.

In addition to basic identifying information (i.e., name, address, TIN, etc.) about the foreign trust and its trustee, this statement must contain these items:

1. The first and last day of the tax year of the foreign trust to which this statement applies.
2. An explanation of the facts necessary to establish that the foreign trust should be treated for U.S. tax purposes as owned by another person. (The explanation should identify the Code section that treats the trust as owned by another person.)
3. A statement identifying whether the owner of the trust is an individual, corporation, or partnership.
4. A description of property (including cash) distributed or deemed distributed to the U.S. person during the tax year, and the FMV of the property distributed.
5. A statement that the trust will permit either the IRS or the U.S. beneficiary to inspect and copy the trust’s permanent books of account, records, and such other documents that are necessary to establish that the trust should be treated for U.S. tax purposes as owned by another person. This statement is not necessary if the trust has appointed a U.S. agent.

6. A statement as to whether the foreign trust has appointed a U.S. agent (defined on page 4). If the trust has a U.S. agent, include the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the agent.

Line 30. If “Yes,” attach the Foreign Nongrantor Trust Beneficiary Statement from the foreign trust. A Foreign Nongrantor Trust Beneficiary Statement must include the following items:

1. An explanation of the appropriate U.S. tax treatment of any distribution or deemed distribution for U.S. tax purposes, or sufficient information to enable the U.S. beneficiary to establish the appropriate treatment of any distribution or deemed distribution for U.S. tax purposes.
2. A statement identifying whether any grantor of the trust is a partnership or a foreign corporation. If so, attach an explanation of the relevant facts.
3. A statement that the trust will permit either the IRS or the U.S. beneficiary to inspect and copy the trust’s permanent books of account, records, and such other documents that are necessary to establish the appropriate treatment of any distribution or deemed distribution for U.S. tax purposes. This statement is not necessary if the trust has appointed a U.S. agent.
4. The Foreign Nongrantor Trust Beneficiary Statement must also include items 1, 4, and 6, as listed for line 29 above as well as basic identifying information (e.g., name, address, TIN, etc.) about the foreign trust and its trustee.

Schedule A—Default Calculation of Trust Distributions

If you answered “Yes” to line 30, you may complete either Schedule A or Schedule B. Generally, however, if you complete Schedule A in the current year (or did so in the prior years), you must continue to complete Schedule A for all future years, even if you are able to answer “Yes” to line 30 in that future year. (The only exception to this consistency rule is that you may use Schedule B in the year that a trust terminates, but only if you are able to answer “Yes” to line 30 in the year of termination.)

Line 32. To the best of your knowledge, state the number of years the trust has been in existence as a foreign trust and attach an explanation of your basis for this statement. Consider any portion of a year to be a complete year. If this is the first year that the trust has been a foreign trust, do not complete the rest of Part III (you do not have an accumulation distribution).

Line 33. Enter the total amount of distributions that you received during the 3 preceding tax years (or the number of years the trust has been a foreign trust, if less than 3). For example, if a trust distributed $50 in year 1, $120 in year 2, and $150 in year 3, the amount reported on line 33 would be $320 ($50 + $120 + $150).

Line 35. Divide line 34 by 3 (or the number of years the trust has been a foreign trust if fewer than 3). Consider any portion of a year to be a complete year. For example, a foreign trust created on July 1, 2003, would be treated on a 2005 calendar year return as having 2 preceding years (2003 and 2004). In this case, you would calculate the amount on line 35 by dividing line 34 by 2. Do not disregard tax years in which no distributions were made. The IRS will consider your proof of these prior distributions as adequate records to demonstrate that any distribution up to the amount on line 31 is not an accumulation distribution in the current tax year.

Line 36. Enter this amount as ordinary income on your tax return. Report this amount on the appropriate schedule of your tax return (e.g., Schedule E (Form 1040), Part III).

Note. If there is an amount on line 37, you must also complete line 38 and Schedule C — Calculation of Interest Charge, to determine the amount of any interest charge you may owe.

Schedule B—Actual Calculation of Trust Distributions

You may only use Schedule B if:

- You answered "Yes" to line 30,
- You attach a copy of the Foreign Nongrantor Trust Beneficiary Statement to this return, and
- You have never before used Schedule A for this foreign trust or this foreign trust terminated during the tax year.

Line 40. Enter the amount received by you from the foreign trust that is treated as ordinary income of the trust in the current tax year. Ordinary income is all income that is not capital gains. Report this amount on the appropriate schedule of your tax return (e.g., Schedule E (Form 1040), Part III).

Line 42. Enter the amount received by you from the foreign trust that is treated as capital gain income of that trust in the current tax year. Report this amount on the appropriate schedule of your tax return (e.g., Schedule D (Form 1040)).

Line 45. Enter the foreign trust's aggregate undistributed net income (UNI). For example, assume that a trust was created in 1998 and has made no distributions prior to 2004. Assume the trust's ordinary income was $0 in 2003, $60 in 2002, $124 in 2001, $87 in 2000, $54 in 1999, and $25 in 1998. Thus, for 2004, the trust's UNI would be $350. If the trust earned $100 and distributed $200 during 2004 (so that $100 was distributed from accumulated earnings), the trust's 2005 aggregate UNI would be $250 ($350 + $100 - $200).

Line 46. Enter the foreign trust's weighted undistributed net income (weighted UNI). The trust's weighted UNI is its accumulated income that has not been distributed, weighted by the years that it has accumulated income. To calculate weighted UNI, multiply the undistributed income from each of the trust's years by the number of years since that year, and then add each year's result. Using the example from line 45, the trust's weighted UNI in 2004 would be $1,260, calculated as follows:

Year	No. of years since that year	UNI from each year	Weighted UNI
2003	1	$ 0	$ 0
2002	2	60	120
2001	3	124	372
2000	4	87	348
1999	5	54	270
1998	6	25	150
TOTAL		$350	$1,260

To calculate the trust's weighted UNI for the following year (2005), the trust could update this calculation, or the weighted UNI shown on line 46 of the 2004 Form 3520 could simply be updated using the following steps:

1. Begin with the 2004 weighted UNI.
2. Add UNI at the beginning of 2004.
3. Add trust earnings in 2004.

4. Subtract trust distributions in 2004.

5. Subtract weighted trust accumulation distributions in 2004. (Weighted trust accumulation distributions are the trust accumulation distributions in 2004 multiplied by the applicable number of years from 2004.)

Using the examples above, the trust's 2005 weighted UNI would be $1,150, calculated as follows.

2004 weighted UNI	$1,260
UNI at beginning of 2004	+ 350
Trust earnings in 2004	+ 100
Trust distributions in 2004	- 200
Weighted trust accumulation distributions in 2004 ($100 X 3.6)	-360
2005 weighted UNI	$1,150

Line 47. Calculate the trust's applicable number of years by dividing line 46 by line 45. Using the examples in the instructions for lines 45 and 46, the trust's applicable number of years would be 3.6 in 2004 (1,260/350) and 4.6 in 2005 (1,150/250).

Note. Include as many decimal places as there are digits in the UNI on line 45 (e.g., using the example in the instructions for line 45, include three decimal places).

Schedule C—Calculation of Interest Charge

Complete Schedule C if you entered an amount on line 37 or line 41.

Line 49. Include the amount from line 48 of this form on line 1, Form 4970. Then compute the tax on the total accumulation distribution using lines 1 through 28 of Form 4970. Enter on line 49 the tax from line 28 of Form 4970, Tax on Accumulation Distribution of Trusts.

Note. Use Form 4970 as a worksheet and attach it to Form 3520.

Line 51. Interest accumulates on the tax (line 49) for the period beginning on the date that is the applicable number of years (as rounded on line 50) prior to the applicable date and ending on the applicable date. For purposes of making this interest calculation, the applicable date is the date that is mid-year through the tax year for which reporting is made (e.g., in the case of a 2004 calendar year taxpayer, the applicable date would be June 30, 2004). Alternatively, if you received only a single distribution during the tax year that is treated as an accumulation distribution, you may use the date of that distribution as the applicable date.

For portions of the interest accumulation period that are prior to 1996 (and after 1976), interest accumulates at a simple rate of 6% annually, without compounding. For portions of the interest accumulation period that are after 1995, interest is compounded daily at the rate imposed on underpayments of tax under section 6621(a)(2). This compounded interest for periods after 1995 is imposed not only on the tax, but also on the total simple interest attributable to pre-1996 periods.

If you are a 2004 calendar year taxpayer and you use June 30, 2004, as the applicable date for calculating interest, use the table on page 9 to determine the combined interest rate and enter it on line 51. If you are not a 2004 calendar year taxpayer or you choose to use the actual date of the distribution as the applicable date, calculate the combined interest rate using the above principles and enter it on line 51.

Table of Combined Interest Rate Imposed on the Total Accumulation Distribution

Look up the applicable number of years of the foreign trust that you entered on line 50. Read across to find the combined interest rate to enter on line 51. Use this table only if you are a 2004 calendar year taxpayer and are using June 30, 2004, as the applicable date.

Line 53. Report this amount as additional tax (ADT) on the appropriate line of your income tax return (e.g., for Form 1040 filers, include this amount as part of the total for line 62 of your 2004 Form 1040 and enter "ADT" to the left of the line 62 entry space).

Part IV—U.S. Recipients of Gifts or Bequests Received During the Current Tax Year From Foreign Persons

Note. Penalties may be imposed for failure to report gifts that should be reported. See item 3 of Penalties on page 2.

A gift to a U.S. person does not include any amount paid for qualified tuition or medical payments made on behalf of the U.S. person.

If a foreign trust makes a distribution to a U.S. beneficiary, the beneficiary must report the amount as a distribution in Part III, rather than as a gift in Part IV.

Contributions of property by foreign persons to domestic or foreign trusts that have U.S. beneficiaries are not reportable by those beneficiaries in Part IV unless they are treated as receiving the contribution in the year of the transfer (e.g., the beneficiary is an owner of that portion of the trust under section 678).

A domestic trust that is not treated as owned by another person is required to report the receipt of a contribution to the trust from a foreign person as a gift in Part IV.

A domestic trust that is treated as owned by a foreign person is not required to report the receipt of a contribution to the trust from a foreign person. However, a U.S. person should report the receipt of a distribution from such a trust as a gift from a foreign person in Part IV.

Line 54. To calculate the threshold amount ($100,000), you must aggregate gifts from different foreign nonresident aliens and foreign estates if you know (or have reason to know) that those persons are related to each other (see definition of related person on page 3) or one is acting as a nominee or intermediary for the other. For example, if you receive a gift of $75,000 from nonresident alien individual A and a gift of $40,000 from nonresident alien individual B, and you know that A and B are related, you must answer "Yes" and complete columns (a) through (c) for each gift.

If you answered "Yes" to the question on line 54 and none of the gifts or bequests received exceeds $5,000, do not complete columns (a) through (c) of line 54. Instead, enter in column (b) of the first line: "No gifts or bequests exceed $5,000."

Line 55. Answer "Yes" if you received aggregate amounts in excess of $12,097 during the current tax year that you treated as gifts from foreign corporations or foreign partnerships (or any persons that you know (or have reason to know) are related to such foreign corporations or foreign partnerships).

For example, if you, a calendar-year taxpayer during 2004, received $5,000 from foreign corporation X that you treated as a gift, and $8,000 that you received from nonresident alien A that you treated as a gift, and you know that X is wholly owned by A, you must complete columns (a) through (g) for each gift.

Note. Gifts from foreign corporations or foreign partnerships are subject to recharacterization by the IRS under section 672(f)(4).

Line 56. If you answered “Yes” to the question on line 56 and the ultimate donor on whose behalf the reporting donor is acting is a foreign corporation or foreign partnership, attach an explanation including the ultimate foreign donor’s name, address, identification number (if any), and status as a corporation or partnership.

If the ultimate donor is a foreign trust, treat the amount received as a distribution from a foreign trust and complete Part III.

File Three Copies*Part I To Be Completed by Applicant (Please print or type)Caution: Approval of Form 4029 exempts you from social security and Medicare taxes only. It does not apply to Federal income tax.

Name of taxpayer

Social security number

Address (number, street or P.O. box)

City or town, state, and ZIP code

Before you file this form, please read the instructions under Who may apply.I certify that I am and continuously have been a member of .....
(Name of religious group).....
(Religious district and location)since ..... , and as a follower of the established teachings of that group, I am conscientiously opposed to (Month) (Day) (Year)

accepting benefits of any private or public insurance that makes payments in the event of death, disability, old age, or retirement; or makes payments for the cost of medical care; or provides services for medical care. Public insurance includes any insurance system established by the Social Security Act.

I request that I be exempted from paying social security and Medicare taxes on my earnings from self-employment under Internal Revenue Code section 1401 and from the employer's share of social security and Medicare taxes under Internal Revenue Code section 3111.

I further request exemption from the employee's share of social security and Medicare taxes under Internal Revenue Code section 3101, for my services as an employee whenever I am employed by an employer who has an identical exemption from social security and Medicare taxes.

I waive all rights to any social security payment or benefit under Titles II and XVIII of the Social Security Act. I understand and agree that no benefits or other payments of any kind under Titles II and XVIII of the Social Security Act will be paid based on my wages and self-employment income to any other person. I certify that I have never received benefits or payments under the above titles, nor has anyone else received these benefits based on my earnings.

I agree to notify the Internal Revenue Service within 60 days of any occurrence that results in my no longer being a member of the religious group described above, or in my no longer following the established teachings of this group.

Furthermore, I understand that if the tax exemption for myself or for my employer under sections 1402(g)(1) or 3127 of the Internal Revenue Code is no longer effective, this waiver will also no longer be effective for:

- myself, with respect to all my wages and self-employment income; and
- my employees with respect to wages I may pay to them; and that if my employer's exemption is no longer in effect, my exemption will end with respect to wages paid to me by my employer. However, the waiver will no longer be effective only to the extent that benefits and other payments under Titles II and XVIII of the Social Security Act can be payable on the basis of:
- my self-employment income for and after the first tax year in which the exemption ends; and
- my wages for and after the calendar year following the calendar year in which the exemption no longer meets the requirements of section 1402(g)(1) or 3127 on which the end of the exemption is based.

Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this application and waiver, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, it is true and correct.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of form. Form 4029 is used by members of recognized religious groups to apply for exemption from social security and Medicare taxes. The exemption is for individuals and partnerships (when all the partners have approved certification).

Note: The election to waive social security benefits, including Medicare benefits, applies to all wages and self-employment income earned before and during the effective period of this exemption and is irrevocable for that period.

Who may apply. You may apply for this exemption if you are a member of, and follow the teachings of, a recognized religious group (as defined below). If you already have approval for exemption from self-employment taxes, you are considered to have met the requirements for exemption from social security and Medicare taxes and do not need to file this form.

You are not eligible for this exemption if you received social security benefits or payments, or if anyone else received these benefits or payments based on your wages or self-employment income. However, you can file Form 4029 and be considered for approval if you paid back any benefits you received.

Note: *Do not file Form 4029 if you seek exemption for work performed as a minister, member of a religious order, or a Christian Science practitioner. Instead, file Form 4361, Application for Exemption From Self-Employment Tax for Use by Ministers, Members of Religious Orders and Christian Science Practitioners.

Recognized religious group. A recognized religious group must meet all the following requirements:

- It is conscientiously opposed to accepting benefits of any private or public insurance that makes payments in the event of death, disability, old age, or retirement; makes payments for the cost of medical care; or provides services for medical care (including social security and Medicare benefits).
- It has provided a reasonable level of living for its dependent members.
- It has existed continuously since December 31, 1950.

When to file. File Form 4029 when you want to apply for exemption from social security and Medicare taxes. This is a one-time election. Keep your approved copy of Form 4029 for your permanent records.

Where to file. Send three copies of Form 4029 to:

Social Security Administration
Division of Earnings Adjustments
Attention: Form 4029 Process
Metro West, North Building
Baltimore, MD 21201

Social security number. Enter your social security number in the space provided. If you do not have a social security number, file Form SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card, with your Form 4029. You can order Form SS-5 by calling 1-800-772-1213.

Effective date of exemption. An approved exemption begins on the first day of the first quarter after the quarter in which Form 4029 is filed. The exemption will continue as long as you, or in the case of wage payments, both the employee and employer, continue to meet the exemption requirements.

Signature. The completed Form 4029 must be signed and dated by the applicant in Part I and by the authorized representative of the religious group in Part II.

How to show exemption from self-employment taxes on Form 1040. If the IRS returned your copy of Form 4029 marked "Approved," write "Form 4029" on the "Self-employment tax" line in the Other Taxes section of Form 1040, page 2.

Instructions to Employers

Employees without Form 4029 approval. If you have employees who do not have an approved Form 4029, you must withhold the employee's share of social security and Medicare taxes and pay the employer's share.

Reporting exempt wages. If you are a qualifying employer with one or more qualifying employees, you are not required to report wages that are exempt under section 3127. Do not include these wages on Form 941, Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return, or on Form 943, Employer's Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees. If you have received an approved Form 4029, enter "Form 4029" on Form 941 to the left of the entry spaces on the lines for Taxable social security wages, Taxable social security tips, and Taxable Medicare wages and tips. If you file Form 943 and have received an approved Form 4029, write "Form 4029" to the left of the wage entry spaces for Total wages subject to social security taxes and Total wages subject to Medicare taxes.

Preparation of Form W-2. When you prepare Form W-2 for a qualifying employee, enter "Form 4029" in the box marked "Other." Do not make any entries in the boxes for Social security wages, Medicare wages and tips, Social security tax withheld, or Medicare tax withheld for these employees.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. The Privacy Act of 1974 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 require that when we ask you for information we must first tell you our legal right to ask for the information, why we are asking for it, and how it will be used. We must also tell you what could happen if we do not receive it and whether your response is voluntary, required to obtain a benefit, or mandatory under the law.

Our authority to ask for information is Internal Revenue Code sections 6001, 6011, and 6012(a) which require you to file a return or statement with us for any tax for which you are liable. Your response is mandatory under these sections. Code section 6109 requires that you provide your social security number on what you file. This is so we know who you are, and can process your return and other papers. You must fill in all parts of the tax form that apply to you. You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may be material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law.

Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as stated in Code section 6103. However, Code section 6103 allows or requires the Internal Revenue Service to disclose or give the information shown on your tax return to others as described in the Code. For example, we may disclose your tax information to the Department of Justice to enforce the tax laws, both civil and criminal, to cities, states, the District of Columbia, U.S. commonwealths or possessions, and certain foreign governments to carry out their tax laws.

Please keep this notice with your records. It may help you if we ask for other information. If you have any questions about the rules for filing and giving information, please call or visit any Internal Revenue Service office.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, 7 min.; Learning about the law or the form, 11 min.; Preparing the form, 11 min.; Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the SSA, 35 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to the Tax Forms Committee, Western Area Distribution Center, Rancho Cordova, CA 95743-0001. DO NOT send the form to this address. Instead, see Where to file on this page.

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

What's New

Authorization to file Form 8821 electronically. Your appointee may be able to file Form 8821 with the IRS electronically. PIN number boxes have been added to the taxpayer's signature section. Entering a PIN number will give your appointee authority to file Form 8821 electronically using the PIN number as the electronic signature. You can use any five digits other than all zeroes as a PIN number. You may use the same PIN number that you used on other filings with the IRS. See Where To File on page 3 if completing Form 8821 only for this purpose.

Purpose of Form

Form 8821 authorizes any individual, corporation, firm, organization, or partnership you designate to inspect and/or receive your confidential information in any office of the IRS for the type of tax and the years or periods you list on Form 8821. You may file your own tax information authorization without using Form 8821, but it must include all the information that is requested on Form 8821.

Form 8821 does not authorize your appointee to advocate your position with respect to the Federal tax laws; to execute waivers, consents, or closing agreements; or to otherwise represent you before the IRS. If you want to authorize an individual to represent you, use Form 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative.

Use Form 4506, Request for Copy of Tax Return, to get a copy of your tax return.

Use new Form 4506-T, Request for Transcript of Tax Return, to order: (a) transcript of tax account information and (b) Form W-2 and Form 1099 series information.

Use Form 56, Notice Concerning Fiduciary Relationship, to notify the IRS of the existence of a fiduciary relationship. A fiduciary (trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, or guardian) stands in the position of a taxpayer and acts as the taxpayer. Therefore, a fiduciary does not act as an appointee and should not file Form 8821. If a fiduciary wishes to authorize an appointee to inspect and/or receive confidential tax information on behalf of the fiduciary, Form 8821 must be filed and signed by the fiduciary acting in the position of the taxpayer.

When To File

Form 8821 must be received by the IRS within 60 days of the date it was signed and dated by the taxpayer.

Where To File

Generally, mail or fax Form 8821 directly to the IRS. See the Where To File Chart on page 2. Exceptions are listed below.

- If Form 8821 is for a specific tax matter, mail or fax it to the office handling that matter. For more information, see the instructions for line 4.
- If you complete Form 8821 only for the purpose of electronic signature authorization, do not file Form 8821 with the IRS. Instead, give it to your appointee, who will retain the document.

Revocation of an Existing Tax Information Authorization

If you want to revoke an existing tax information authorization and do not want to name a new appointee, send a copy of the previously executed tax information authorization to the IRS, using the Where To File Chart on page 2. The copy of the tax information authorization must have a current signature of the taxpayer under the original signature on line 7. Write "REVOKE" across the top of Form 8821. If you do not have a copy of the tax information authorization you want to revoke, send a statement to the IRS. The statement of revocation must indicate that the authority of the tax information authorization is revoked, list the tax matters, must be signed and dated by the taxpayer, and list the name and address of each recognized appointee whose authority is revoked.

To revoke a specific use tax information authorization, send the tax information authorization or statement of revocation to the IRS office handling your case, using the above instructions.

Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs)

TINs are used to identify taxpayer information with corresponding tax returns. It is important that you furnish correct names, social security numbers (SSNs), individual taxpayer identification numbers (ITINs), or employer identification numbers (EINs) so that the IRS can respond to your request.

Partnership Items

Sections 6221–6234 authorize a Tax Matters Partner to perform certain acts on behalf of an affected partnership. Rules governing the use of Form 8821 do not replace any provisions of these sections.

Specific Instructions

Line 1. Taxpayer Information

Individuals. Enter your name, TIN, and your street address in the space provided. Do not enter your appointee's address or post office box. If a joint return is used, also enter your spouse's name and TIN. Also enter your EIN if applicable.

Corporations, partnerships, or associations. Enter the name, EIN, and business address.

Employee plan. Enter the plan name, EIN of the plan sponsor, three-digit plan number, and business address of the plan sponsor.

Trust. Enter the name, title, and address of the trustee, and the name and EIN of the trust.

Estate. Enter the name, title, and address of the decedent's executor/personal representative, and the name and identification number of the estate. The identification number for an estate includes both the EIN, if the estate has one, and the decedent's TIN.

Line 2. Appointee

Enter your appointee's full name. Use the identical full name on all submissions and correspondence. Enter the nine-digit CAF number for each appointee. If an appointee has a CAF number for any previously filed Form 8821 or power of attorney (Form 2848), use that number. If a CAF number has not been assigned, enter "NONE," and the IRS will issue one directly to your appointee. The IRS does not assign CAF numbers to requests for employee plans and exempt organizations.

If you want to name more than one appointee, indicate so on this line and attach a list of appointees to Form 8821.

Check the appropriate box to indicate if either the address, telephone number, or fax number is new since a CAF number was assigned.

Line 3. Tax Matters

Enter the type of tax, the tax form number, the years or periods, and the specific tax matter. Enter "Not applicable," in any of the columns that do not apply.

For example, you may list "Income tax, Form 1040" for calendar year "2003" and "Excise tax, Form 720" for the "1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th quarters of 2003." For multiple years, you may list "2001 through (thru or a dash —) 2003" for an income tax return; for quarterly returns, list "1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th quarters of 2001 through 2002" (or 2nd 2002 — 3rd 2003). For fiscal years, enter the ending year and month, using the YYYYMM format. Do not use a general reference such as "All years," "All periods," or "All taxes." Any tax information authorization with a general reference will be returned.

You may list any tax years or periods that have already ended as of the date you sign the tax information authorization. Also, you may include on a tax information authorization future tax periods that end no later than 3 years after the date the tax information authorization is received by the IRS. The 3 future periods are determined starting after December 31 of the year the tax information authorization is received by the IRS. You must enter the type of tax, the tax form number, and the future year(s) or period(s). If the matter relates to estate tax, enter the date of the decedent's death instead of the year or period.

In column (d), enter any specific information you want the IRS to provide. Examples of column (d) information are: lien information, a balance due amount, a specific tax schedule, or a tax liability.

For requests regarding Form 8802, Application for United States Residency Certification, enter "Form 8802" in column (d) and check the specific use box on line 4. Also, enter the appointee's information as instructed on Form 8802.

Line 4. Specific Use Not Recorded on CAF

Generally, the IRS records all tax information authorizations on the CAF system. However, authorizations relating to a specific issue are not recorded.

Check the box on line 4 if Form 8821 is filed for any of the following reasons: (a) requests to disclose information to loan companies or educational institutions, (b) requests to disclose information to Federal or state agency investigators for background checks, (c) application for EIN, or (d) claims filed on Form 843, Claim for Refund and Request for Abatement. If you check the box on line 4, your appointee should mail or fax Form 8821 to the IRS office handling the matter. Otherwise, your appointee should bring a copy of Form 8821 to each appointment to inspect or receive information. A specific-use tax information authorization will not revoke any prior tax information authorizations.

Line 6. Retention/Revocation of Tax Information Authorizations

Check the box on this line and attach a copy of the tax information authorization you do not want to revoke. The filing of Form 8821 will not revoke any Form 2848 that is in effect.

Line 7. Signature of Taxpayer(s)

Individuals. You must sign and date the authorization. Either husband or wife must sign if Form 8821 applies to a joint return.

Corporations. Generally, Form 8821 can be signed by: (a) an officer having legal authority to bind the corporation, (b) any person designated by the board of directors or other governing body, (c) any officer or employee on written request by any principal officer and attested to by the secretary or other officer, and (d) any other person authorized to access information under section 6103(e).

Partnerships. Generally, Form 8821 can be signed by any person who was a member of the partnership during any part of the tax period covered by Form 8821. See Partnership Items on page 3.

All others. See section 6103(e) if the taxpayer has died, is insolvent, is a dissolved corporation, or if a trustee, guardian, executor, receiver, or administrator is acting for the taxpayer.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice

We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. Form 8821 is provided by the IRS for your convenience and its use is voluntary. If you designate an appointee to inspect and/or receive confidential tax information, you are required by section 6103(c) to provide the information requested on Form 8821. Under section 6109, you must disclose your social security number (SSN), employer identification number (EIN), or individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN). If you do not provide all the information requested on this form, we may not be able to honor the authorization.

Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation, and to cities, states, and the District of Columbia for use in administering their tax laws. We may also give this information to other countries pursuant to tax treaties. We may also disclose this information to Federal and state agencies to enforce Federal nontax criminal laws and to combat terrorism. The authority to disclose information to combat terrorism expired on December 31, 2003. Legislation is pending that would reinstate this authority.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, 6 min.; Learning about the law or the form, 12 min.; Preparing the form, 24 min.; Copying and sending the form to the IRS, 20 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making Form 8821 simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to the Tax Products Coordinating Committee, Western Area Distribution Center, Rancho Cordova, CA 95743-0001. Do not send Form 8821 to this address. ## General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code.

Purpose of Form

Employers use Form 8882 to claim the credit for qualified childcare facility and resource and referral expenditures. The credit is part of the general business credit. You may claim the credit any time within 3 years from the due date of your return on either an original or amended return.

How To Figure the Credit

The credit is 25% of the qualified childcare facility expenditures plus 10% of the qualified childcare resource and referral expenditures paid or incurred during the tax year. The credit is limited to $150,000 per tax year.

Qualified childcare facility expenditures are amounts paid or incurred:

- To acquire, construct, rehabilitate, or expand property that:
  1. Is to be used as part of a qualified childcare facility of the taxpayer,
  2. Is depreciable (or amortizable) property, and
  3. Is not part of the principal residence of the taxpayer or any employee of the taxpayer;
- For the operating expenses of a qualified childcare facility of the taxpayer, including expenses for training of employees, scholarship programs, and providing increased compensation to employees with higher levels of childcare training; or
- Under a contract with a qualified childcare facility to provide childcare services to employees of the taxpayer.

Note. Any expenses for childcare included in qualified childcare facility expenditures may not exceed the fair market value of such care.

A qualified childcare facility is a facility that meets the requirements of all applicable laws and regulations of the state or local government in which it is located, including the licensing of the facility as a childcare facility. The following conditions must also be met.

- The principal use of the facility must be to provide childcare (unless the facility is also the personal residence of the person operating the facility).
- Enrollment in the facility must be open to employees of the taxpayer during the tax year.
- If the facility is the principal trade or business of the taxpayer, at least 30% of the enrollees of the facility must be dependents of employees of the taxpayer.
- The use of the facility (or the eligibility to use the facility) must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees.

Qualified childcare resource and referral expenditures are amounts paid or incurred under a contract to provide childcare resource and referral services to employees of the taxpayer. The provision of the services (or the eligibility to use the services) must not discriminate in favor of highly compensated employees.

No Double Benefit Allowed

You must reduce:

- The basis of any qualified childcare facility by the amount of the credit on line 7 allocable to capital expenditures related to the facility,
- Any otherwise allowable deductions used to figure the credit by the amount of the credit on line 7 allocable to those deductions, and
- Any expenditures used to figure any other credit by the amount of the credit on line 7 allocable to those expenditures (for purposes of figuring the other credit).

Note. For credits entered on line 5, only the pass-through entity is required to make this reduction.

Recapture of Credit

You may have to recapture part or all of the credit if, before the 10th tax year after the tax year in which your qualified childcare facility is placed in service, the facility ceases to operate as a qualified childcare facility or there is a change in ownership of the facility. However, a change in ownership will not require recapture if the person acquiring the interest in the facility agrees, in writing, to assume the recapture liability. See section 45F(d) for details.

Any recapture tax is reported on the line of your tax return where other recapture taxes are reported (or, if no such line, on the "total tax" line). The recapture tax may not be used in figuring the amount of any credit or in figuring the alternative minimum tax.

Controlled Groups

All members of a controlled group of corporations (within the meaning of section 52(a)) and all partnerships, corporations, unincorporated businesses, and other persons under common control (within the meaning of section 52(b)) are treated as one person for purposes of the credit. The group member who would have the largest credit if this rule did not apply completes Form 8882, Part I, figures the group credit on line 7, and skips Part II. On separate Forms 8882, each member (including the member who completed the group Form 8882) skips lines 1 through 6 and enters its share of the group credit on line 7. Each member then completes Part II on its separate form (or Form 3800, if required). Each member also must attach a statement showing how the group credit was divided among all members. The members share the credit on line 2 in the same proportion that they contributed qualified childcare facility expenditures and share the credit on line 4 in the same proportion that they contributed qualified resource and referral expenditures.

Additional Information

For more details, see section 45F.

Specific Instructions

Part I

Current Year Credit

Figure the credit for expenditures you paid on lines 1 through 4. Do not complete lines 1 through 4 for credits allocated to you from S corporations, partnerships, estates, or trusts; instead, complete line 5.

Line 1

Enter your qualified childcare facility expenditures (defined above) paid or incurred during the tax year.

Line 3

Enter your qualified childcare resource and referral expenditures (defined above) paid or incurred during the tax year.

Line 5

Enter the amount of credit that was allocated to you as a partner, shareholder, or beneficiary. Also enter the employer identification number (EIN) of the pass-through entity. If you received a credit from more than one pass-through entity, write "see attached" in the entry space for the EIN, and attach a statement showing the EIN and credit amount for each pass-through entity.

Line 7

S corporations and partnerships. Allocate the credit on line 7 among the shareholders and partners. Attach Form 8882 to the return and on Schedule K-1 show the credit for each shareholder or partner. Electing large partnerships must include this credit in "general credits."

Estates and trusts. The credit on line 7 is allocated between the estate or trust and the beneficiaries in proportion to the income allocable to each. On the dotted line next to line 7, the estate or trust should enter its part of the total credit. Label it "1041 Portion" and use this amount in Part II (or Form 3800, if required) to figure the credit to claim on Form 1041.

Part II*Allowable Credit

The credit allowed for the current year may be limited based on your tax liability. Use Part II to figure the allowable credit unless you must file Form 3800, General Business Credit.

Who must file Form 3800. You must file Form 3800 if you have:

- A credit for employer-provided childcare facilities and services from a passive activity,
- More than one credit included in the general business credit (other than a credit from Form 8844, Form 8884, or Section B of Form 8835), or
- A carryback or carryforward of any of those credits.

See the instructions for Form 3800 for a list of credits included in the general business credit.

Line 14

See section 38(c)(5) for special rules that apply to married couples filing separate returns, controlled corporate groups, estates, and trusts.

Line 15

Although you may not owe alternative minimum tax (AMT), you generally must still compute the tentative minimum tax (TMT) to figure your credit. For a small corporation exempt from the AMT under section 55(e), enter zero. Otherwise, complete and attach the applicable AMT form or schedule.

Line 18

If you cannot use all of your credit because of the tax liability limit (line 17 is smaller than line 7), carry the unused credit back 1 year then forward up to 20 years. See the instructions for Form 3800 for details.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is:

Recordkeeping . . . . . 6 hr., 42 min.

Learning about the law or the form . . . . . 42 min.

Preparing and sending the form to the IRS . . . . . 50 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. See the instructions for the tax return with which this form is filed.

Instructions for Form 8886

(Rev. June 2004)

Reportable Transaction Disclosure Statement

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

What's New

- The confidential transactions category has been revised to reflect recent changes in the regulations. See Confidential Transactions below and Regulations section 1.6011-4(b)(3) for more details.
- There are additional reporting requirements for listed transactions. You are now required to identify all parties to the transaction. See the instructions for Line 7 on page 3 for more details.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form 8886 to disclose information for each reportable transaction in which you participated. See Participation in a Reportable Transaction below to determine if you participated in a reportable transaction.

The form applies to transactions entered into after December 31, 2002. However, these instructions are based on Regulations section 1.6011-4, which applies to transactions entered into after February 27, 2003. For transactions entered into after December 31, 2002, and before February 28, 2003, you may either follow these instructions or the rules of Temporary Regulations section 1.6011-4T (T.D. 9017, 2002-45 I.R.B. 815). For transactions entered into prior to January 1, 2003, see your tax return instructions for the disclosure requirements.

Generally, you must file a separate Form 8886 for each reportable transaction. However, you may report more than one transaction on one form if the transactions are the same or substantially similar. See the definition of substantially similar below.

The fact that a transaction must be reported on this form does not mean the tax benefits from the transaction will be disallowed.

Who Must File

Any taxpayer, including an individual, trust, estate, partnership, S corporation, or other corporation, that participates in a reportable transaction and is required to file a federal income tax return or information return must file Form 8886. However, a regulated investment company (RIC) (as defined in section 851) or an investment vehicle that is at least 95% owned by one or more RICs at all times during the course of a transaction is not required to file Form 8886 for any transaction other than a listed transaction (as defined below).

Definitions

Transaction

A transaction includes all of the factual elements relevant to the expected tax treatment of any investment, entity, plan, or arrangement and it includes any series of steps carried out as part of a plan.

Substantially Similar

A transaction is substantially similar to another transaction if it is expected to obtain the same or similar types of tax consequences and is either factually similar or based on the same or similar tax strategy. Receipt of an opinion regarding the tax consequences of the transaction is not relevant to the determination of whether the transaction is the same as or substantially similar to another transaction. Further, the term substantially similar must be broadly construed in favor of disclosure. See Regulations section 1.6011-4(c)(4) for examples.

Participation in a Reportable Transaction

A reportable transaction is a transaction described in one or more of the following six categories.

Listed Transactions

This category includes transactions that are the same as or substantially similar to one of the types of transactions that the IRS has determined to be a tax avoidance transaction. These transactions are identified by notice, regulation, or other form of published guidance as a listed transaction. For existing guidance see:

- Notice 2003-76, 2003-49 I.R.B. 1181
- Notice 2003-77, 2003-49 I.R.B. 1182
- Notice 2003-81, 2003-51 I.R.B. 1223
- Notice 2004-8, 2004-4 I.R.B. 333
- Rev. Rul. 2004-4, 2004-6 I.R.B. 414
- Rev. Rul. 2004-20, 2004-10 I.R.B. 546
- Notice 2004-19, 2004-11 I.R.B. 606, withdrew Notice 98-5 from the list of listed transactions.
- Notice 2004-20, 2004-11 I.R.B. 608
- Notice 2004-30, 2004-17 I.R.B. 828
- Notice 2004-31, 2004-17 I.R.B. 830

For updates to this list go to the IRS web page at www.irs.gov/businesses/corporations and click on Abusive Tax Shelters and Transactions. The listed transactions in the above notices and rulings will also be periodically updated in future issues of the Internal Revenue Bulletin. You can find a notice or ruling in the Internal Revenue Bulletin at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irbXX-YY.pdf, where XX is the two-digit year and YY is the two-digit bulletin number. For example, you can find Notice 2003-76, 2003-49 I.R.B. 1181, at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb03-49.pdf.

You have participated in a listed transaction if any of the following applies.

- Your tax return reflects tax consequences or a tax strategy described in published guidance that lists the transaction.
- You know or have reason to know that tax benefits reflected on your tax return are derived directly or indirectly from such tax consequences or tax strategy.
- You are in a class of persons that published guidance treats as participants in a listed transaction.

Confidential Transactions

This category includes transactions that are offered to you under conditions of confidentiality and for which you paid an advisor a minimum fee (defined below). A transaction is considered to be offered under conditions of confidentiality if the advisor places a limitation on your disclosure of the tax treatment or tax structure of the transaction and the limitation on disclosure protects the confidentiality of the advisor's tax strategies. The transaction is treated as confidential even if the conditions of confidentiality are not legally binding on you. See Regulations section 1.6011-4(b)(3) for more information.

Minimum fee. For a corporation, or a partnership or trust in which all of the owners or beneficiaries are corporations, the minimum fee is $250,000. For all others, the minimum fee is $50,000. The minimum fee includes all fees paid directly or indirectly for the tax strategy, advice or analysis of the transaction (whether or not related to the tax consequences of the transaction), implementation and documentation of the transaction, and tax preparation fees to the extent they exceed customary return preparation fees. Fees do not include amounts paid to a person, including an advisor, in that person's capacity as a party to the transaction.

You have participated in a confidential transaction if your tax return reflects a tax benefit from the transaction. If disclosure by a pass-through entity (partnership, S corporation, or trust) is limited, but disclosure by the partner, shareholder, or beneficiary is not limited, then the pass-through entity (but not the partner, shareholder, or beneficiary) has participated in the confidential transaction.

Transactions With Contractual Protection

This category includes transactions for which you have, or a related party (as described in sections 267(b) or 707(b)) has, the right to a full refund or partial refund of fees if all or part of the intended tax consequences from the transaction are not sustained. It also includes a transaction for which fees are contingent on your realization of tax benefits from the transaction. For exceptions and other details, see Regulations section 1.6011-4(b)(4).

You have participated in a transaction with contractual protection if your tax return reflects a tax benefit from the transaction. If a pass-through entity (partnership, S corporation, or trust) has the right to a full or partial refund of fees or has a contingent fee arrangement, but the partner, shareholder, or beneficiary individually does not, then the pass-through entity (but not the partner, shareholder, or beneficiary) has participated in the transaction with contractual protection.

Loss Transactions

This category includes transactions that result in your claiming a loss under section 165 (described below) if the gross amount of the loss (before netting any gain against it) is:

For individuals. At least $2 million in any single tax year or $4 million in any combination of tax years. (At least $50,000 for a single tax year if the loss arose from a section 988 transaction defined in section 988(c)(1) (relating to foreign currency transactions), whether or not the loss flows through from an S corporation or partnership).

For corporations (other than S corporations). At least $10 million in any single tax year or $20 million in any combination of tax years.

For partnerships with only corporations (other than S corporations) as partners (looking through any partners that are also partnerships). At least $10 million in any single tax year or $20 million in any combination of tax years, whether or not any losses flow through to one or more partners.

For all other partnerships and S corporations. At least $2 million in any single tax year or $4 million in any combination of tax years, whether or not any losses flow through to one or more partners or shareholders.

For trusts. At least $2 million in any single tax year or $4 million in any combination of tax years, whether or not any losses flow through to one or more beneficiaries. (At least $50,000 for a single tax year if the loss arose from a section 988 transaction defined in section 988(c)(1) (relating to foreign currency transactions), whether or not the loss flows through from an S corporation or partnership).

For purposes of the above threshold amounts, the full amount of a loss must be taken into account in the year it was sustained, regardless of any carryback or carryover of that loss to another year, and does not take into account any income limitations (e.g., the limit on capital losses). When figuring the above threshold amounts for a combination of tax years, only losses claimed in the tax year of the transaction and the 5 following tax years are included.

The types of losses included in this category are section 165 losses, including amounts deductible under a provision that treats a transaction as a sale or other disposition or otherwise results in a deduction under section 165. However, this category does not include losses described in Rev. Proc. 2003-24, 2003-11 I.R.B. 599 (or future published guidance).

You have participated in a loss transaction if your tax return reflects a section 165 loss that equals or exceeds the applicable threshold amount. If you are a partner, shareholder, or beneficiary of a pass-through entity (partnership, S corporation, or trust), you have participated in a loss transaction if your tax return reflects a section 165 loss allocable to you from the pass-through entity (disregarding netting at the entity level) that equals or exceeds the applicable threshold amount.

Transactions With a Significant Book-Tax Difference

This category includes transactions that result in book-tax differences of more than $10 million in any tax year. This category applies only to:

- Reporting companies under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related business entities (as defined in sections 267(b) and 707(b)) or
- Business entities that have $250 million or more in gross assets, including the assets of all related business entities (as defined in sections 267(b) and 707(b)), as of the end of any financial accounting period that ends with or within the tax year in which the transaction occurs.

The book-tax difference is the amount by which the amount of any income, gain, expense, or loss item from the transaction for federal income tax purposes differs on a gross basis from the amount of the item for book purposes in any tax year. Determine the book-tax difference resulting from the transaction without netting any items. Generally, book income is determined by using U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) for worldwide income. However, for a taxpayer that does not use U.S. GAAP for any purpose (including reports to shareholders, creditors, or regulators), the taxpayer may determine the amount of a book item by using the taxpayer's books, if the books use the same method consistently from year to year. For special rules that apply to consolidated returns, foreign persons, owners of disregarded entities, and partners of partnerships, see Regulations section 1.6011-4(b)(6)(ii).

Disregard the following items in determining whether a transaction has a significant book-tax difference.

- Items to the extent any book loss or expense is reported before or without a loss or deduction for federal income tax purposes.
- Items to the extent any income or gain for federal income tax purposes is reported before or without book income or gain.
- Any other disregarded items described in Rev. Proc. 2003-25, 2003-11 I.R.B. 601 (or future published guidance).

You have participated in a transaction with a significant book-tax difference if your tax treatment of an item from the transaction differs from the book treatment of that item by more than $10 million in the tax year. Do not take into account differences that arise solely because a subsidiary of the taxpayer is consolidated with the taxpayer, in whole or in part, for book purposes, but not for tax purposes.

Transactions with a Brief Asset Holding Period

This category includes transactions that result in your claiming a tax credit (including a foreign tax credit) of more than $250,000 if the asset giving rise to the credit was held by you for 45 days or less. For purposes of determining the holding period of the asset, the principles of section 246(c)(3) and (c)(4) apply. Disregard any transactions generating a foreign tax credit for withholding taxes or other taxes imposed on a dividend that are not disallowed under section 901(k) (including transactions eligible for the exception for security dealers under section 901(k)(4)).

You have participated in a transaction involving a brief asset holding period if your tax return reflects items giving rise to a tax credit of more than $250,000. If you are a partner, shareholder, or beneficiary of a pass-through entity (partnership, S corporation, or trust), you have participated in such a transaction if you are claiming a tax credit on your tax return from the pass-through entity (disregarding netting at the entity level) of more than $250,000.

Exceptions

Published Guidance

A transaction is not considered a reportable transaction if the IRS makes a determination in published guidance or in a private letter ruling that it is not subject to the reporting requirements. However, a private letter ruling may be relied upon only by the taxpayer to whom it was issued. This includes a transaction that would otherwise be included in any of the above reportable transaction categories.

Certain Lease Transactions

Customary leasing transactions involving tangible personal property that are exempt from the tax shelter registration requirements and the list maintenance requirements under Notice 2001-18, 2001-9 I.R.B. 731, are not required to be reported on Form 8886 unless the transaction is a listed transaction.

Shareholders of Foreign Corporations

Special rules apply when determining whether you participated in a reportable transaction if you are a U.S. shareholder of a foreign personal holding company or a controlled foreign corporation or if you are a 10% shareholder of a qualified electing fund. See Regulations section 1.6011-4(c)(3)(i)(G) for details.

Request for Ruling

You may request a ruling from the IRS to determine whether a transaction must be disclosed. The request for a ruling must be submitted to the IRS by the date Form 8886 would otherwise be required to be filed. Send the request to Internal Revenue Service, Attn: CC:PA:LPD:DRU, P.O. Box 7604, Ben Franklin Station, Washington, DC 20044. However, if a private delivery service is used, send the request to Internal Revenue Service, Attn: CC:PA:LPD:DRU, Room 5336, 1111 Constitution Avenue, NW,

Washington, DC 20224. See Rev. Proc. 2004-1, 2004-1 I.R.B. 1, or subsequent IRS guidance for more details. If the request fully discloses all relevant facts relating to the transaction, your requirement to disclose the transaction will be suspended during the period that the ruling request is pending. If the IRS determines that the transaction is a reportable transaction, you must disclose the transaction on Form 8886 and file the form by the 60th day after the issuance of the ruling. Also send a copy of the form by this date to the address shown in When and How To File. If your request for a ruling is withdrawn, you must file the form by the 60th day after the date it is withdrawn.

Recordkeeping

You must keep a copy of all documents and other records related to a reportable transaction. See Regulations section 1.6011-4(g) for more details.

When and How To File

Attach Form 8886 to your income tax return or information return (including a partnership, S corporation or trust return), including amended returns, for each tax year in which you participated in a reportable transaction. If a reportable transaction results in a loss or credit carried back to a prior tax year, attach Form 8886 to an application for tentative refund (Form 1045 or 1139) or amended return for the carryback years. If you filed a return or amended return that reflects the tax consequences or tax strategy of a transaction that later becomes a listed transaction, attach Form 8886 to the first tax return you file after the date the transaction became a listed transaction.

Also file separately. For only the first time you disclose the reportable transaction, send a copy of Form 8886 to the following address when you file the form with your tax return:

Internal Revenue Service
LM:PFTG:OTSA
Large & Mid-Size Business Division
1111 Constitution Ave., NW
Washington, DC 20224

If you need more space, attach separate sheets.

Instrucciones Generales

Las secciones a las cuales se hace referencia en estas instrucciones corresponden al Código Federal de Impuestos Internos.

¿Por Qué Se Utiliza Esta Forma?

Utilice la Forma 9465-SP (o la Forma 9465, en inglés) para solicitar un plan de pagos a plazos si usted no puede pagar en su totalidad la cantidad que debe, tal como se indica en su declaración de impuestos (o en un aviso que le enviamos anteriormente). Por regla general, usted tendrá hasta 60 meses para liquidar el saldo. En ciertas circunstancias, usted podría tener aún más tiempo para pagar el adeudo o su plan de pagos a plazos podría ser aprobado para una cantidad que es menos de la cantidad de impuesto que usted adeuda. Sin embargo, antes de solicitar un plan de pagos a plazos, usted deberá considerar otras alternativas menos costosas, tal como un préstamo bancario o pago con tarjeta de crédito. Si tiene cualquier duda acerca de esta solicitud, sírvase llamar al 1-800-829-1040.

Si usted no desea participar en un plan de pagos a plazos llenando la Forma 9465-SP, el IRS le ofrecerá unas opciones alternativas para pagar el saldo debido. Algunas de esas opciones a las que usted tiene derecho son:

- Prórroga del plazo para pagar de 120 días y
- Deducciones de su sueldo o salario de acuerdo con un plan de pagos a plazos.

Para mayor información sobre éstos y otros métodos de pago, llame al 1-800-829-1040.

Plan garantizado de pagos a plazos. No se puede negar la solicitud de un plan de pagos a plazos si la cantidad de impuesto que usted debe es menos de $10,000 y todas las tres condiciones siguientes le corresponden:

1. Durante los últimos 5 años tributarios, usted (y su cónyuge, si hace la solicitud para una declaración conjunta de impuestos) presentó todas las declaraciones de impuestos que estuvo obligado(a) a presentar y pagó todo saldo debido en ellas a su debido tiempo, y no entró en ningún plan de pagos del impuesto a plazos anteriormente.

2. El IRS determina que usted no puede pagar el impuesto en su totalidad cuando se debe pagarlo y usted le facilita al IRS cualquier información que se utilizó para llegar a tal determinación.

3. Usted conviene en pagar la cantidad que debe en su totalidad dentro de 3 años, a más tardar, y cumple con las leyes de impuestos mientras que el plan queda en vigor.

Se puede imponer una notificación de gravamen por impuesto federal para proteger los intereses del gobierno hasta que usted pague la deuda en su totalidad.

Quiebra—Ofrecimientos de transacción. Si usted está en quiebra o hemos aceptado su ofrecimiento de transacción, no presente esta forma. En vez de eso, llame al 1-800-829-1040 para obtener el número local del IRS para la función de insolvencias y quiebras o el sector de apoyo técnico para los ofrecimientos de transacción.

¿Cuánto Le Cobrarán a Usted?

Usted tendrá que pagar un cobro de $43 si se le aprueba la solicitud. No incluya este cobro al enviar esta forma. Una vez aprobada su solicitud, le enviaremos una factura por esa cantidad, la cual tendrá que pagar con su primer plazo.

Se le cobrará interés y quizás una multa por pagar el impuesto fuera de plazo sobre la cantidad de impuesto que no se haya pagado para la fecha de vencimiento, aun cuando su solicitud para un plan de pagos haya sido aprobada. Se le cobrará interés (y cualesquier multas que correspondan) hasta que se liquide el saldo debido. Para limitar el cobro de interés y multas, sírvase presentar su declaración de impuestos a su debido tiempo y pagar lo que pueda de la cantidad del impuesto que adeuda al enviar la declaración (o aviso).

¿Cómo Funciona el Plan de Pagos a Plazos?

Si aprobamos su solicitud, le enviaremos a usted una carta. Ésta le explicará cómo pagar el cobro de $43 y cómo hacer el primer plazo. Solemos enviarle la carta dentro de 30 días a partir de la fecha en la que recibimos su solicitud; no importa si la aprobamos o no. Si la solicitud tiene que ver con un saldo debido en una declaración que haya presentado después del 31 de marzo, nos pudiera tardar más de 30 días para responderle.

Al aprobar su solicitud, acordamos permitirle a usted liquidar el impuesto que debe en pagos mensuales en lugar de pagar inmediatamente la cantidad debida en su totalidad. Por su parte, usted acuerda hacer los pagos mensuales a su debido tiempo. También, usted acuerda cumplir con todas sus obligaciones tributarias futuras. Esto quiere decir que usted tendrá suficiente retención del impuesto federal de su sueldo, o hará suficientes pagos estimados del impuesto, durante el año para que se pague la obligación tributaria por completo al presentar su declaración de impuestos para el año. Se le podrá negar su solicitud para un acuerdo de pagos a plazos si no se han presentado todas las declaraciones del impuesto requeridas.

Al recibir cada pago, le enviaremos una carta que indica la cantidad de impuesto que le queda por pagar, la fecha en que su próximo plazo vence y la cantidad que usted debe pagar con su próximo plazo. Pero, si usted elige el retiro automático de fondos de su cuenta corriente para pagar el adeudo, no recibirá ninguna carta de nosotros. El extracto de cuenta que le envía su banco será su comprobante de pago. Usted también puede pagar el adeudo usando su tarjeta de crédito. Para más detalles sobre cómo pagar su impuesto, vea las instrucciones de su declaración de impuestos o visite nuestro sitio de la red en www.irs.gov. Además, le enviaremos un estado anual que indica el balance que usted debe pagar al comenzar el año, todos los pagos que haya hecho durante el año y el saldo debido al terminar el año.

Si usted no hace sus pagos a tiempo o tiene una obligación tributaria que se vence en un año futuro, no cumplirá con las condiciones de su plan de pagos a plazos y podremos iniciar acción ejecutiva de cobro, tal como una Notificación de Gravamen por Impuesto Federal o un embargo del IRS, para recaudar la cantidad que usted adeuda en su totalidad. Para asegurar de que sus pagos sean oportunos, usted debería considerar la opción de hacer los pagos mediante el retiro electrónico de fondos (vea las instrucciones para las líneas 13a y 13b).

Vea la Publicación 594SP para mayor información sobre el proceso de cobro del IRS.

Instrucciones Específicas

Línea 1

Si usted hace esta solicitud para una declaración de impuestos que presentó junto con su cónyuge, anote ambos nombres y números de seguro social (SSN) en el mismo orden en que aparecen en su declaración de impuestos.

Línea 10

Aunque usted no puede pagar por completo la cantidad que debe ahora, le sugerimos que le será ventajoso pagar lo más que le sea posible para reducir la cantidad de penalidad e interés. Si presenta esta forma con su declaración de impuestos, envíe su pago junto con la declaración.

Si presenta esta forma separadamente (p.e., para responder a un aviso), incluya su cheque o giro pagadero a "United States Treasury," con esta forma. No envíe dinero en efectivo. Asegúrese de incluir:

- Su nombre, dirección, SSN y número telefónico donde llamarlo durante el día.
- El año tributario y tipo de declaración (p.e., "Forma 1040 para el 2004"), por los cuales usted hace esta solicitud.

Línea 11

Usted deberá hacer pagos en cantidades suficientemente grandes para pagar por completo la cantidad adeudada antes de la fecha de vencimiento para presentar su próxima declaración de impuestos.

Línea 12

Usted puede escoger el día de cada mes en que desea hacer sus pagos. Por ejemplo, si el pago de hipoteca se vence en el primer día del mes, tal vez desearía hacer sus pagos a plazos en el día 15 de cada mes. Cuando aprobemos su petición, le avisaremos el día y el mes en que vence su primer pago.

Si no le hemos contestado para la fecha que usted escogió para hacer su primer pago, puede enviar su primer pago al Servicio de Impuestos Internos (IRS) a la dirección indicada en la página 2 para el lugar donde vive. Vea las instrucciones para la línea 10 en esta página para saber lo que usted debe incluir con el pago.

Líneas 13a y 13b

El hacer sus pagos mediante el retiro electrónico de fondos asegurará que dichos pagos serán hechos a su debido tiempo y que usted no incumplirá los deberes de su plan de pagos a plazos.

En vez de enviarnos un cheque de pago cada mes, usted puede pagar el impuesto adeudado retirando los fondos de su cuenta corriente o de otra institución financiera (p.e., fondo mutualista, correduría o cooperativa de crédito) por medios electrónicos. Para tal propósito, sírvase llenar las líneas 13a y 13b. Además, verifique con la institución financiera si la misma acepta el retiro de fondos por medios electrónicos y también para obtener el número de su cuenta y el número de circulación correctos.

Aviso: Le enviaremos una factura que indica el primer pago y la cantidad del cargo o tarifa. Los demás pagos serán automáticamente retirados de su cuenta.

Línea 13a: El número de circulación tiene que ser de nueve dígitos. Las dos primeras cifras del número de circulación tienen que ser desde 01 hasta 12 ó desde 21 hasta 32. Utilice un cheque para verificar cualesquier números de circulación. En el cheque de muestra que se ilustra más adelante en esta página, el número de circulación es 250250025. Sin embargo, si su cheque es pagadero mediante una institución financiera que sea distinta a donde usted mantiene su cuenta corriente, sírvase no utilizar los números de circulación indicados en tal cheque. En vez de eso, comuníquese con su institución financiera para obtener los números correctos.

Línea 13b: El número de su cuenta puede ser hasta 17 caracteres (tanto cifras como letras). Escriba guiones pero omita espacios en blanco y cualesquier símbolos especiales. Anote el número desde la izquierda hasta la derecha y sírvase dejar en blanco las casillas que no utilice. En el cheque de muestra que se ilustra más adelante en esta página, el número de la cuenta es 20202086. Asegúrese de no incluir el número del cheque.

No se le aprobará el retiro electrónico de fondos de su cuenta corriente a no ser que usted (y su cónyuge, si se trata de una declaración conjunta) firme la

Cheque de muestra—Líneas 13a y 13b

Los números de circulación y de su cuenta pueden aparecer en distintas partes de su cheque.

General Instructions

Use these instructions to complete Form SS-4, Application for Employer Identification Number. Also see Do I Need an EIN? on page 2 of Form SS-4.

Purpose of Form

Use Form SS-4 to apply for an employer identification number (EIN). An EIN is a nine-digit number (for example, 12-3456789) assigned to sole proprietors, corporations, partnerships, estates, trusts, and other entities for tax filing and reporting purposes. The information you provide on this form will establish your business tax account.

An EIN is for use in connection with your business activities only. Do not use your EIN in place of your social security number (SSN).

Items To Note

Apply online. You can now apply for and receive an EIN online using the internet. See How To Apply below.

File only one Form SS-4. Generally, a sole proprietor should file only one Form SS-4 and needs only one EIN, regardless of the number of businesses operated as a sole proprietorship or trade names under which a business operates. However, if the proprietorship incorporates or enters into a partnership, a new EIN is required. Also, each corporation in an affiliated group must have its own EIN.

EIN applied for, but not received. If you do not have an EIN by the time a return is due, write "Applied For" and the date you applied in the space shown for the number.

Do not show your SSN as an EIN on returns.

If you do not have an EIN by the time a tax deposit is due, send your payment to the Internal Revenue Service Center for your filing area as shown in the instructions for the form that you are filing. Make your check or money order payable to the "United States Treasury" and show your name (as shown on Form SS-4), address, type of tax, period covered, and date you applied for an EIN.

How To Apply

You can apply for an EIN online, by telephone, by fax, or by mail depending on how soon you need to use the EIN. Use only one method for each entity so you do not receive more than one EIN for an entity.

Online. You can receive your EIN by internet and use it immediately to file a return or make a payment. Go to the IRS website at www.irs.gov/businesses and click on Employer ID Numbers under topics.

Telephone. You can receive your EIN by telephone and use it immediately to file a return or make a payment. Call the IRS at 1-800-829-4933. (International applicants must call 215-516-6999.) The hours of operation are 7:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. The person making the call must be authorized to sign the form or be an authorized designee. See Signature and Third Party Designee on page 6. Also see the TIP below.

If you are applying by telephone, it will be helpful to complete Form SS-4 before contacting the IRS. An IRS representative will use the information from the Form SS-4 to establish your account and assign you an EIN. Write the number you are given on the upper right corner of the form and sign and date it. Keep this copy for your records.

If requested by an IRS representative, mail or fax (facsimile) the signed Form SS-4 (including any Third Party Designee authorization) within 24 hours to the IRS address provided by the IRS representative.

Taxpayer representatives can apply for an EIN on behalf of their client and request that the EIN be faxed to their client on the same day.

Note: By using this procedure, you are authorizing the IRS to fax the EIN without a cover sheet.

Fax. Under the Fax-TIN program, you can receive your EIN by fax within 4 business days. Complete and fax Form SS-4 to the IRS using the Fax-TIN number listed on page 2 for your state. A long-distance charge to callers outside of the local calling area will apply. Fax-TIN numbers can only be used to apply for an EIN. The numbers may change without notice. Fax-TIN is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Be sure to provide your fax number so the IRS can fax the EIN back to you. Note: By using this procedure, you are authorizing the IRS to fax the EIN without a cover sheet.

Mail. Complete Form SS-4 at least 4 to 5 weeks before you will need an EIN. Sign and date the application and mail it to the service center address for your state. You will receive your EIN in the mail in approximately 4 weeks. See also Third Party Designee on page 6.

Call 1-800-829-4933 to verify a number or to ask about the status of an application by mail.

Specific Instructions

Print or type all entries on Form SS-4. Follow the instructions for each line to expedite processing and to avoid unnecessary IRS requests for additional information. Enter "N/A" (nonapplicable) on the lines that do not apply.

Line 1—Legal name of entity (or individual) for whom the EIN is being requested. Enter the legal name of the entity (or individual) applying for the EIN exactly as it appears on the social security card, charter, or other applicable legal document.

Individuals. Enter your first name, middle initial, and last name. If you are a sole proprietor, enter your individual name, not your business name. Enter your business name on line 2. Do not use abbreviations or nicknames on line 1.

Trusts. Enter the name of the trust.

Estate of a decedent. Enter the name of the estate.

Partnerships. Enter the legal name of the partnership as it appears in the partnership agreement.

Corporations. Enter the corporate name as it appears in the corporation charter or other legal document creating it.

Plan administrators. Enter the name of the plan administrator. A plan administrator who already has an EIN should use that number.

Line 2—Trade name of business. Enter the trade name of the business if different from the legal name. The trade name is the “doing business as” (DBA) name.

Use the full legal name shown on line 1 on all tax returns filed for the entity. (However, if you enter a trade name on line 2 and choose to use the trade name instead of the legal name, enter the trade name on all returns you file.) To prevent processing delays and errors, always use the legal name only (or the trade name only) on all tax returns.

Line 3—Executor, trustee, “care of” name. Trusts enter the name of the trustee. Estates enter the name of the executor, administrator, or other fiduciary. If the entity applying has a designated person to receive tax information, enter that person’s name as the “care of” person. Enter the individual’s first name, middle initial, and last name.

Lines 4a-b—Mailing address. Enter the mailing address for the entity’s correspondence. If line 3 is completed, enter the address for the executor, trustee or “care of” person. Generally, this address will be used on all tax returns.

File Form 8822, Change of Address, to report any subsequent changes to the entity’s mailing address.

Lines 5a-b—Street address. Provide the entity’s physical address only if different from its mailing address shown in lines 4a-b. Do not enter a P.O. box number here.

Line 6—County and state where principal business is located. Enter the entity’s primary physical location.

Lines 7a-b—Name of principal officer, general partner, grantor, owner, or trustor. Enter the first name, middle initial, last name, and SSN of (a) the principal officer if the business is a corporation, (b) a general partner if a partnership, (c) the owner of an entity that is disregarded as separate from its owner (disregarded entities owned by a corporation enter the corporation’s name and EIN), or (d) a grantor, owner, or trustor if a trust.

If the person in question is an alien individual with a previously assigned individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN), enter the ITIN in the space provided and submit a copy of an official identifying document. If necessary, complete Form W-7, Application for IRS Individual Taxpayer Identification Number, to obtain an ITIN.

You are required to enter an SSN, ITIN, or EIN unless the only reason you are applying for an EIN is to make an entity classification election (see Regulations sections 301.7701-1 through 301.7701-3) and you are a nonresident alien with no effectively connected income from sources within the United States.

Line 8a—Type of entity. Check the box that best describes the type of entity applying for the EIN. If you are an alien individual with an ITIN previously assigned to you, enter the ITIN in place of a requested SSN.

Other. If not specifically listed, check the “Other” box, enter the type of entity and the type of return, if any, that will be filed (for example, “Common Trust Fund, Form 1065” or “Created a Pension Plan”). Do not enter “N/A.” If you are an alien individual applying for an EIN, see the Lines 7a-b instructions above.

- Household employer. If you are an individual, check the “Other” box and enter “Household Employer” and your SSN. If you are a state or local agency serving as a tax reporting agent for public assistance recipients who become household employers, check the “Other” box and enter “Household Employer Agent.” If you are a trust that qualifies as a household employer, you do not need a separate EIN for reporting tax information relating to household employees; use the EIN of the trust.

- QSub. For a qualified subchapter S subsidiary (QSub) check the “Other” box and specify “QSub.”

- Withholding agent. If you are a withholding agent required to file Form 1042, check the “Other” box and enter “Withholding Agent.”

Sole proprietor. Check this box if you file Schedule C, C-EZ, or F (Form 1040) and have a qualified plan, or are required to file excise, employment, alcohol, tobacco, or firearms returns, or are a payer of gambling winnings. Enter your SSN (or ITIN) in the space provided. If you are a nonresident alien with no effectively connected income from sources within the United States, you do not need to enter an SSN or ITIN.

Corporation. This box is for any corporation other than a personal service corporation. If you check this box, enter the income tax form number to be filed by the entity in the space provided.

*If you entered “1120S” after the “Corporation” checkbox, the corporation must file Form 2553 no later than the 15th day of the 3rd month of the tax year the election is to take effect.

Until Form 2553 has been received and approved, you will be considered a Form 1120 filer. See the Instructions for Form 2553.

Personal service corp. Check this box if the entity is a personal service corporation. An entity is a personal service corporation for a tax year only if:

- The principal activity of the entity during the testing period (prior tax year) for the tax year is the performance of personal services substantially by employee-owners, and
- The employee-owners own at least 10% of the fair market value of the outstanding stock in the entity on the last day of the testing period.

Personal services include performance of services in such fields as health, law, accounting, or consulting. For more information about personal service corporations, see the Instructions for Forms 1120 and 1120-A and Pub. 542.

Other nonprofit organization. Check this box if the nonprofit organization is other than a church or church-controlled organization and specify the type of nonprofit organization (for example, an educational organization).

If the organization also seeks tax-exempt status, you must file either Package 1023 or Package 1024. See Pub. 557 for more information.

If the organization is covered by a group exemption letter, enter the four-digit group exemption number (GEN). (Do not confuse the GEN with the nine-digit EIN.) If you do not know the GEN, contact the parent organization. Get Pub. 557 for more information about group exemption numbers.

Plan administrator. If the plan administrator is an individual, enter the plan administrator's SSN in the space provided.

REMIC. Check this box if the entity has elected to be treated as a real estate mortgage investment conduit (REMIC). See the Instructions for Form 1066 for more information.

Limited liability company (LLC). An LLC is an entity organized under the laws of a state or foreign country as a limited liability company. For Federal tax purposes, an LLC may be treated as a partnership or corporation or be disregarded as an entity separate from its owner.

By default, a domestic LLC with only one member is disregarded as an entity separate from its owner and must include all of its income and expenses on the owner's tax return (e.g., Schedule C (Form 1040)). Also by default, a domestic LLC with two or more members is treated as a partnership. A domestic LLC may file Form 8832 to avoid either default classification and elect to be classified as an association taxable as a corporation. For more information on entity classifications (including the rules for foreign entities), see the instructions for Form 8832.

Do not file Form 8832 if the LLC accepts the default classifications above. However, if the LLC will be electing S Corporation status, it must timely file both Form 8832 and Form 2553.

Complete Form SS-4 for LLCs as follows:

- A single-member domestic LLC that accepts the default classification (above) does not need an EIN and generally should not file Form SS-4. Generally, the LLC should use the name and EIN of its owner for all Federal tax purposes. However, the reporting and payment of employment taxes for employees of the LLC may be made using the name and EIN of either the owner or the LLC as explained in Notice 99-6. You can find Notice 99-6 on page 12 of Internal Revenue Bulletin 1999-3 at www.irs.gov/pub/irs-irbs/irb99-03.pdf. (Note: If the LLC applicant indicates in box 13 that it has employees or expects to have employees, the owner (whether an individual or other entity) of a single-member domestic LLC will also be assigned its own EIN (if it does not already have one) even if the LLC will be filing the employment tax returns.)

- A single-member, domestic LLC that accepts the default classification (above) and wants an EIN for filing employment tax returns (see above) or non-Federal purposes, such as a state requirement, must check the "Other" box and write "Disregarded Entity" or, when applicable, "Disregarded Entity—Sole Proprietorship" in the space provided.
- A multi-member, domestic LLC that accepts the default classification (above) must check the "Partnership" box.
- A domestic LLC that will be filing Form 8832 to elect corporate status must check the "Corporation" box and write in "Single-Member" or "Multi-Member" immediately below the "form number" entry line.

Line 9—Reason for applying. Check only one box. Do not enter "N/A."

Started new business. Check this box if you are starting a new business that requires an EIN. If you check this box, enter the type of business being started. Do not apply if you already have an EIN and are only adding another place of business.

Hired employees. Check this box if the existing business is requesting an EIN because it has hired or is hiring employees and is therefore required to file employment tax returns. Do not apply if you already have an EIN and are only hiring employees. For information on employment taxes (e.g., for family members), see Circular E.

You may be required to make electronic deposits of all depository taxes (such as employment tax, excise tax, and corporate income tax) using the Electronic Federal Tax Payment System (EFTPS). See section 11, Depositing Taxes, of Circular E and Pub. 966.

Created a pension plan. Check this box if you have created a pension plan and need an EIN for reporting purposes. Also, enter the type of plan in the space provided.

Check this box if you are applying for a trust EIN when a new pension plan is established. In addition, check the "Other" box in line 8a and write "Created a Pension Plan" in the space provided.

Banking purpose. Check this box if you are requesting an EIN for banking purposes only, and enter the banking purpose (for example, a bowling league for depositing dues or an investment club for dividend and interest reporting).

Changed type of organization. Check this box if the business is changing its type of organization. For example, the business was a sole proprietorship and has been incorporated or has become a partnership. If you check this box, specify in the space provided (including available space immediately below) the type of change made. For example, "From Sole Proprietorship to Partnership."

Purchased going business. Check this box if you purchased an existing business. Do not use the former owner's EIN unless you became the "owner" of a corporation by acquiring its stock.

Created a trust. Check this box if you created a trust, and enter the type of trust created. For example, indicate if the trust is a nonexempt charitable trust or a split-interest trust.

Exception. Do not file this form for certain grantor-type trusts. The trustee does not need an EIN for the trust if the trustee furnishes the name and TIN of the grantor/owner and the address of the trust to all payors. See the Instructions for Form 1041 for more information.

Do not check this box if you are applying for a trust EIN when a new pension plan is established. Check "Created a pension plan."

Other. Check this box if you are requesting an EIN for any other reason; and enter the reason. For example, a newly-formed state government entity should enter "Newly-Formed State Government Entity" in the space provided.

Line 10—Date business started or acquired. If you are starting a new business, enter the starting date of the business. If the business you acquired is already operating, enter the date you acquired the business. If you are changing the form of ownership of your business, enter the date the new ownership entity began. Trusts should enter the date the trust was legally created. Estates should enter the date of death of the decedent whose name appears on line 1 or the date when the estate was legally funded.

Line 11—Closing month of accounting year. Enter the last month of your accounting year or tax year. An accounting or tax year is usually 12 consecutive months, either a calendar year or a fiscal year (including a period of 52 or 53 weeks). A calendar year is 12 consecutive months ending on December 31. A fiscal year is either 12 consecutive months ending on the last day of any month other than December or a 52-53 week year. For more information on accounting periods, see Pub. 538.

Individuals. Your tax year generally will be a calendar year.

Partnerships. Partnerships must adopt one of the following tax years:

- The tax year of the majority of its partners,

- In certain cases, some other tax year.

See the Instructions for Form 1065 for more information.

REMICs. REMICs must have a calendar year as their tax year.

Personal service corporations. A personal service corporation generally must adopt a calendar year unless:

- It can establish a business purpose for having a different tax year, or
- It elects under section 444 to have a tax year other than a calendar year.

Trusts. Generally, a trust must adopt a calendar year except for the following:

- Tax-exempt trusts,
- Charitable trusts, and
- Grantor-owned trusts.

Withholding agent. Enter the date you began or will begin to pay income (including annuities) to a nonresident alien. This also applies to individuals who are required to file Form 1042 to report alimony paid to a nonresident alien.

Line 13—Highest number of employees expected in the next 12 months. Complete each box by entering the number (including zero ("0-")) of "Agricultural," "Household," or "Other" employees expected by the applicant in the next 12 months. For a definition of agricultural labor (farmwork), see Circular A.

Use line 15 to describe the applicant's principal line of business in more detail. For example, if you checked the "Construction" box in line 14, enter additional detail such as "General contractor for residential buildings" in line 15.

Construction. Check this box if the applicant is engaged in erecting buildings or other structures, (e.g., streets, highways, bridges, tunnels). The term "Construction" also includes special trade contractors, (e.g., plumbing, HVAC, electrical, carpentry, concrete, excavation, etc. contractors).

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Purpose

Firms and workers file Form SS-8 to request a determination of the status of a worker for purposes of Federal employment taxes and income tax withholding.

A Form SS-8 determination may be requested only in order to resolve Federal tax matters. If Form SS-8 is submitted for a tax year for which the statute of limitations on the tax return has expired, a determination letter will not be issued. The statute of limitations expires 3 years from the due date of the tax return or the date filed, whichever is later.

The IRS does not issue a determination letter for proposed transactions or on hypothetical situations. We may, however, issue an information letter when it is considered appropriate.

Definition

Firm. For the purposes of this form, the term "firm" means any individual, business enterprise, organization, state, or other entity for which a worker has performed services. The firm may or may not have paid the worker directly for these services. If the firm was not responsible for payment for services, be sure to enter the name, address, and employer identification number of the payer on the first page of Form SS-8 below the identifying information for the firm and the worker.

The SS-8 Determination Process

The IRS will acknowledge the receipt of your Form SS-8. Because there are usually two (or more) parties who could be affected by a determination of employment status, the IRS attempts to get information from all parties involved by sending those parties blank Forms SS-8 for completion. The case will be assigned to a technician who will review the facts, apply the law, and render a decision. The technician may ask for additional information from the requestor, from other involved parties, or from third parties that could help clarify the work relationship before rendering a decision. The IRS will generally issue a formal determination to the firm or payer (if that is a different entity), and will send a copy to the worker. A determination letter applies only to a worker (or a class of workers) requesting it, and the decision is binding on the IRS. In certain cases, a formal determination will not be issued. Instead, an information letter may be issued. Although an information letter is advisory only and is not binding on the IRS, it may be used to assist the worker to fulfill his or her Federal tax obligations.

Neither the SS-8 determination process nor the review of any records in connection with the determination constitutes an examination (audit) of any Federal tax return. If the periods under consideration have previously been examined, the SS-8 determination process will not constitute a reexamination under IRS reopening procedures. Because this is not an examination of any Federal tax return, the appeal rights available in connection with an examination do not apply to an SS-8 determination. However, if you disagree with a determination and you have additional information concerning the work relationship that you believe was not previously considered, you may request that the determining office reconsider the determination.

Completing Form SS-8

Answer all questions as completely as possible. Attach additional sheets if you need more space. Provide information for all years the worker provided services for the firm. Determinations are based on the entire relationship between the firm and the worker.

Additional copies of this form may be obtained by calling 1-800-829-4933 or from the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Fee

There is no fee for requesting an SS-8 determination letter.

Signature

Form SS-8 must be signed and dated by the taxpayer. A stamped signature will not be accepted.

The person who signs for a corporation must be an officer of the corporation who has personal knowledge of the facts. If the corporation is a member of an affiliated group filing a consolidated return, it must be signed by an officer of the common parent of the group.

The person signing for a trust, partnership, or limited liability company must be, respectively, a trustee, general partner, or member-manager who has personal knowledge of the facts.

Instructions for Workers

If you are requesting a determination for more than one firm, complete a separate Form SS-8 for each firm.

Form SS-8 is not a claim for refund of social security and Medicare taxes or Federal income tax withholding.

If the IRS determines that you are an employee, you are responsible for filing an amended return for any corrections related to this decision. A determination that a worker is an employee does not necessarily reduce any current or prior tax liability. For more information, call 1-800-829-1040.

Time for filing a claim for refund. Generally, you must file your claim for a credit or refund within 3 years from the date your original return was filed or within 2 years from the date the tax was paid, whichever is later.

Filing Form SS-8 does not prevent the expiration of the time in which a claim for a refund must be filed. If you are concerned about a refund, and the statute of limitations for filing a claim for refund for the year(s) at issue has not yet expired, you should file Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, to protect your statute of limitations. File a separate Form 1040X for each year.

On the Form 1040X you file, do not complete lines 1 through 24 on the form. Write "Protective Claim" at the top of the form, sign and date it. In addition, you should enter the following statement in Part II, Explanation of Changes to Income, Deductions, and Credits: "Filed Form SS-8 with the Internal Revenue Service Office in (Holtsville, NY; Newport, VT; or Washington, DC; as appropriate). By filing this protective claim, I reserve the right to file a claim for any refund that may be due after a determination of my employment tax status has been completed."

Filing Form SS-8 does not alter the requirement to timely file an income tax return. Do not delay filing your tax return in anticipation of an answer to your SS-8 request. In addition, if applicable, do not delay in responding to a request for payment while waiting for a determination of your worker status.

Instructions for Firms

If a worker has requested a determination of his or her status while working for you, you will receive a request from the IRS to complete a Form SS-8. In cases of this type, the IRS usually gives each party an opportunity to present a statement of the facts because any decision will affect the employment tax status of the parties. Failure to respond to this request will not prevent the IRS from issuing a determination letter based on the information he or she has made available so that the worker may fulfill his or her Federal tax obligations. However, the information that you provide is extremely valuable in determining the status of the worker.

If you are requesting a determination for a particular class of worker, complete the form for one individual who is representative of the class of workers whose status is in question. If you want a written determination for more than one class of workers, complete a separate Form SS-8 for one worker from each class whose status is typical of that class. A written determination for any worker will apply to other workers of the same class if the facts are not materially different for these workers. Please provide a list of names and addresses of all workers potentially affected by this determination.

If you have a reasonable basis for not treating a worker as an employee, you may be relieved from having to pay employment taxes for that worker under section 530 of the 1978 Revenue Act. However, this relief provision cannot be considered in conjunction with a Form SS-8 determination because the determination does not constitute an examination of any tax return. For more information regarding section 530 of the 1978 Revenue Act and to determine if you qualify for relief under this section, you may visit the IRS website at www.irs.gov.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. This information will be used to determine the employment status of the worker(s) described on the form. Subtitle C, Employment Taxes, of the Internal Revenue Code imposes employment taxes on wages. Sections 3121(d), 3306(a), and 3401(c) and (d) and the related regulations define employee and employer for purposes of employment taxes imposed under Subtitle C. Section 6001 authorizes the IRS to request information needed to determine if a worker(s) or firm is subject to these taxes. Section 6109 requires you to provide your taxpayer identification number. Neither workers nor firms are required to request a status determination, but if you choose to do so, you must provide the information requested on this form. Failure to provide the requested information may prevent us from making a status determination. If any worker or the firm has requested a status determination and you are being asked to provide information for use in that determination, you are not required to provide the requested information. However, failure to provide such information will prevent the IRS from considering it in making the status determination. Providing false or fraudulent information may subject you to penalties. Routine uses of this information include providing it to the Department of Justice for use in civil and criminal litigation, to the Social Security Administration for the administration of social security programs, and to cities, states, and the District of Columbia for the administration of their tax laws. We may also disclose this information to Federal and state agencies to enforce Federal nontax criminal laws and to combat terrorism. We may provide this information to the affected worker(s) or the firm as part of the status determination process.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Recordkeeping, 22 hrs.; Learning about the law or the form, 47 min.; and Preparing and sending the form to the IRS, 1 hr., 11 min. If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to the Tax Products Coordinating Committee, Western Area Distribution Center, Rancho Cordova, CA 95743-0001. Do not send the tax form to this address. Instead, see Where To File on page 4.

Exención de la retención. Si usted está exento(a), llene sólo las líneas 1, 2, 3, 4 y 7, y firme la forma para validarla. Su exención para el 2005 vence el 16 de febrero del 2006. Vea la Publicación 505, Tax Withholding and Estimated Tax (Retención del impuesto e impuesto estimado), en inglés.

Aviso: Usted no puede reclamar la exención de la retención si: (a) su ingreso excede de $800 e incluye más de $250 de ingreso no derivado del trabajo (p.e., intereses y dividendos) y (b) otra persona puede reclamarlo(a) a usted como dependiente en su declaración de impuestos.

Instrucciones básicas. Si usted no está exento(a), llene la Hoja de Trabajo para Descuentos Personales, más abajo. Las hojas de trabajo en la página 2 ajustan sus descuentos de la retención basados en las deducciones detalladas, ciertos créditos, ajustes al ingreso, o situaciones de dos asalariados/dos empleos. Llene todas las hojas de trabajo que le apliquen. Sin embargo, usted pudiera reclamar menos (o cero) descuentos.

Cabeza de familia. Por lo general, usted puede reclamar el estado de cabeza de familia para efectos de la declaración de impuesto sólo si usted no está casado(a) y paga más del 50% de los costos de mantener el hogar para usted y para su(s) dependiente(s) u otros individuos calificados. Vea la línea E, abajo.

Créditos tributarios. Usted puede tomar en cuenta créditos tributarios previstos al calcular su número permisible de descuentos de la retención. Los créditos por gastos del cuidado de hijos o de dependientes y el crédito tributario por hijos pueden ser reclamados usando la Hoja de Trabajo para Descuentos Personales, abajo. Vea la Publicación 919, How Do I Adjust My Tax Withholding? (¿Cómo Ajusto la Retención de mi Impuesto?), en inglés, para saber información sobre la conversión de sus otros créditos a descuentos de la retención.

Ingreso que no proviene de sueldos o salarios. Si usted tiene una suma cuantiosa de ingreso que no proviene de sueldos o salarios, tal como de intereses o dividendos, considere hacer pagos de impuesto estimado usando la Forma 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals (Impuesto Estimado para Individuos), en inglés. De lo contrario, usted pudiera deber impuesto adicional.

Dos asalariados/dos empleos. Si usted tiene un(a) cónyuge que trabaja o si tiene más de un empleo, calcule el número total de exenciones al cual usted tiene derecho de reclamar en todos los empleos usando la hoja de trabajo de sólo una Forma W-4(SP). Su retención usualmente será la más precisa cuando todos los descuentos son reclamados en la Forma W-4(SP) para el empleo que paga más y cero descuentos son reclamados en los otros empleos.

Extranjero(a) no residente. Si usted es un(a) extranjero(a) no residente, vea las Instructions for Form 8233 (Instrucciones para la Forma 8233), disponibles en inglés, antes de llenar esta Forma W-4(SP).

Revise su retención. Después de que su Forma W-4(SP) entre en vigencia, use la Publicación 919, en inglés, para saber cómo la cantidad en dólares que a usted se le está siendo retenida se compara con la cantidad total de impuestos prevista para el 2005. Vea la Publicación 919, especialmente si sus ingresos exceden de $125,000 (Soltero(a)) o de $175,000 (Casado(a)).

¿Cambio de nombre reciente? Si su nombre en la línea 1 es diferente del que aparece en su tarjeta de seguro social, llame al 1-800-772-1213 para iniciar un cambio de nombre y obtener una tarjeta de seguro social que muestre su nombre correcto.

Voluntary Withholding Request
(For unemployment compensation and certain Federal government payments.)

Instructions

Purpose of Form

If you receive any government payment shown below, you may use Form W-4V to ask the payer to withhold Federal income tax.

1. Unemployment compensation (including Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act (RUIA) payments),
2. Social security benefits,
3. Social security equivalent Tier 1 railroad retirement benefits,
4. Commodity Credit Corporation loans, or
5. Certain crop disaster payments under the Agricultural Act of 1949 or under Title II of the Disaster Assistance Act of 1988.

You are not required to have Federal income tax withheld from these payments. Your request is voluntary.

Note: Payers may develop their own form for you to request Federal income tax withholding. If a payer gives you its own form instead of Form W-4V, use that form.

Why Should I Request Withholding?

You may find that having Federal income tax withheld from the listed payments is more convenient than making quarterly estimated tax payments. However, if you have other income that is not subject to withholding, consider making estimated tax payments. For more details, see Form 1040-ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals.

How Much Can I Have Withheld?

For unemployment compensation, the payer is permitted to withhold 10% from each payment. No other percentage or amount is allowed. For any other government payment listed above, you may choose to have the payer withhold 7%, 10%, 15%, or 25% from each payment, but no other percentage or amount.

What Do I Need To Do?

Complete lines 1–4; check one box on line 5, 6, or 7; sign Form W-4V; and give it to the payer, not to the IRS.

Note: For withholding on social security benefits, give or send the completed Form W-4V to your local Social Security office.

Line 3. If your address is outside the United States or its possessions or territories, enter on line 3 the city, province or state, and name of the country. Follow the country's practice for entering the postal code. Do not abbreviate the country name.

Line 5. If you want Federal income tax withheld from your unemployment compensation, check the box on line 5. The payer will withhold 10% from each payment.

Line 6. If you receive any of the payments listed on line 6, check the box to indicate the percentage (7%, 10%, 15%, or 25%) you want withheld from each payment.

Line 7. See How Do I Stop Withholding? below.

Sign this form. Form W-4V is not considered valid unless you sign it.

When Will My Withholding Start?

Ask your payer exactly when income tax withholding will begin. The Federal income tax withholding you choose on this form will remain in effect until you change it, stop it, or the payments stop.

How Do I Change Withholding?

If you are getting a payment other than unemployment compensation and want to change your withholding rate, complete a new Form W-4V. Give the new form to the payer.

How Do I Stop Withholding?

If you want to stop withholding, complete a new Form W-4V. After completing lines 1–4, check the box on line 7, and sign and date the form. Then give the new form to the payer.

Instrucciones

¿Qué Hay de Nuevo para el 2005?

- La definición de hijo(a) calificado(a) ha sido modificada. Vea, ¿Quién es un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a)?, más adelante.
- Usted puede elegir el incluir su paga por combate no tributable en su ingreso del trabajo para propósitos del cálculo de su Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo. Sin embargo, no la incluya en el ingreso del trabajo para propósitos del pago por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

Propósito de la Forma

Use la Forma W-5(SP) si usted es elegible para obtener parte del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo (conocido por sus siglas en inglés, EIC) por adelantado en su paga y elige hacerlo. Vea, ¿Quién es elegible para obtener pagos adelantados del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo?, más adelante. La cantidad que usted puede obtener por adelantado depende por lo general de sus salarios o sueldos. Si usted es casado(a), la cantidad de sus pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo también depende de si su cónyuge haya presentado una Forma W-5(SP) (o la Forma W-5, en inglés) a su empleador o patrono. Sin embargo, el empleador o patrono de usted no puede darle más de $1,597 a través del 2005 junto con su paga. Usted recibirá el resto del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo al cual usted tenga derecho cuando usted presente su declaración de impuestos y reclama el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

Si no elige obtener pagos por adelantado, usted aún puede reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo en su declaración de impuestos del 2005.

¿Qué es el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo?

El Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo es un crédito para ciertos trabajadores. El crédito reduce el impuesto que usted adeuda. Pudiera darle un reembolso aún si usted no debe ningún impuesto.

¿Quién es elegible para obtener pagos adelantados del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo?

Usted es elegible para recibir pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo si todas las tres siguientes condiciones le aplican:

- Usted espera tener por lo menos un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a). Si usted no espera tener un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a), usted pudiera aún ser elegible para el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo, pero usted no puede recibir pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo. Vea, ¿Quién es un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a)?, más adelante.
- Usted espera que su ingreso del trabajo y su ingreso bruto ajustado (conocido por sus siglas en inglés, AGI) del 2005 cada uno será menor de $31,030 ($33,030 si usted espera presentar una declaración conjunta para el 2005). Incluya el ingreso de su cónyuge si piensa presentar una declaración conjunta. Tal como se usa en esta forma, el ingreso del trabajo no incluye las cantidades que los reclusos en instituciones penales reciben por su trabajo, las cantidades recibidas en concepto de pensiones o anualidades de un plan no calificado de compensación diferida o de un plan no gubernamental bajo la sección 457, o ingreso del trabajo no sujeto a impuestos.

3. Usted espera poder reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo para el 2005. Para saber si usted pudiera reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo, conteste las preguntas en la página 2.

Cómo obtener los pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo

Si usted es elegible para obtener pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo, llene la Forma W-5(SP) para el 2005 que encontrará más abajo. Luego, separe la forma de las instrucciones y entréguesela a su empleador o patrono. Si obtiene los pagos por adelantado, usted debe presentar una Forma 1040 ó 1040A del 2005.

Usted puede tener sólo una Forma W-5(SP) en vigencia a la vez. Si usted y su cónyuge están empleados, ambos deberán presentar Formas W-5(SP) por separado.

Esta Forma W-5(SP) vence el 31 de diciembre del 2005. Si usted es elegible para recibir pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo para el 2006, deberá presentar una nueva Forma W-5(SP) el próximo año.

CONSEJO Usted pudiera obtener un crédito mayor cuando presenta su declaración para el 2005. Para más detalles, vea, Crédito Adicional, en la página 3.

¿Quién es un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a)?

Un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a) debe cumplir todas las tres condiciones a continuación:

- El(la) hijo(a) es:

2. Al final del 2005, el(la) hijo(a) deberá tener menos de 19 años de edad, o menos de 24 años de edad y ser estudiante, o cualquier edad y estar total y permanentemente incapacitado(a). Un(a) estudiante es un(a) hijo(a) que durante cualesquier cinco meses del 2004 (a) estuvo matriculado(a) como estudiante con dedicación completa en una escuela o (b) toma un curso con dedicación completa de adiestramiento agrícola ofrecido por una escuela o por un organismo del gobierno estatal, de un condado o local. 3. El(la) hijo(a) vive con usted en los EE.UU. por más de la mitad del 2005. Pero usted no tiene que cumplir con esta condición si (a) el(la) hijo(a) nació o falleció durante el año y su hogar fue el hogar del(la) hijo(a) durante todo el tiempo que estuvo vivo(a) durante el 2005 ó (b) las autoridades legales correspondientes presumen que el(la) hijo(a) ha sido secuestrado(a) por alguien que no es un miembro de la familia y que el(la) hijo(a) vivió con usted durante más de la mitad de la parte del año transcurrida antes de la fecha en que ocurrió su secuestro.

Preguntas para Saber si Usted Pudiera Reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo en el 2005

Usted no puede reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo si piensa presentar la Forma 2555 ó la Forma 2555-EZ (relacionadas con el ingreso del trabajo del extranjero) para el 2005. Usted tampoco puede reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo si usted es un(a) extranjero(a) no residente durante cualquier momento del 2005 a menos que usted esté casado(a) con un(a) ciudadano(a) o residente de los Estados Unidos, presente una declaración conjunta y elija que se le graven impuestos como un(a) extranjero(a) residente para todo el 2005.

- 1 ¿Espera usted tener un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a)? Lea, ¿Quién es un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a)?, que comienza en la página 1 antes de que conteste esta pregunta. Si el(la) hijo(a) está casado(a), asegúrese de leer también, Hijo(a) casado(a), en la página 3.

☐ No. Usted pudiera reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo pero no puede obtener los pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

☐ Sí. Siga.

Si el(la) hijo(a) cumple con las condiciones para ser un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a) para tanto usted como otra persona, vea, Hijo(a) calificado(a) de más de una persona, en la página 3.

- 2 ¿Espera usted que su estado civil para efectos de la declaración en el 2005 será “casado(a) que presenta por separado”?

☐ Sí. Usted no puede reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

☐ No. Siga.

Si usted espera presentar una declaración conjunta para el 2005, incluya el ingreso de su cónyuge al contestar las preguntas 3 y 4.

- 3 ¿Espera usted que su ingreso del trabajo y su ingreso bruto ajustado del 2005 cada uno será menor de: $31,030 ($33,030 si es casado(a) que presenta conjuntamente) si usted espera tener un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a); $35,263 ($37,263 si es casado(a) que presenta conjuntamente) si usted espera tener 2 ó más hijos calificados?

☐ No. Usted no puede reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

☐ Sí. Siga. Pero recuerde, usted no puede recibir pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo si espera que su ingreso del trabajo y su ingreso bruto ajustado del 2005 será $31,030 ($33,030 ó más si es casado(a) que presenta conjuntamente) o más.

- 4 ¿Espera usted que su ingreso de inversiones del 2005 será mayor de $2,700? Para la mayoría de las personas, el ingreso de inversiones es el total de sus intereses sujetos a impuestos, dividendos ordinarios, reparticiones de ganancias de capital e intereses exentos de impuestos. Sin embargo, si piensa presentar una Forma 1040 del 2005, vea las instrucciones de la Forma 1040 del 2004 para calcular su ingreso de inversiones.

☐ Sí. Usted no puede reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

☐ No. Siga.

- 5 ¿Espera que usted o su cónyuge, si presenta una declaración conjunta, será el(la) hijo(a) calificado(a) de otra persona para el 2005?

☐ No. Usted pudiera reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

☐ Sí. Usted no puede reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo.

Nota. Las ausencias temporales, tales como por asistencia a una escuela, vacaciones, atención médica o por detención en un reclusorio juvenil, cuentan como tiempo vivido en el hogar. Los miembros de las fuerzas armadas que prestan servicio activo prolongado fuera de los Estados Unidos se les considera que viven en los Estados Unidos.

Hijo(a) casado(a). Un(a) hijo(a) casado(a) para el final del 2005 es un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a) sólo si:

1. Usted puede reclamarlo(la) como su dependiente ó
2. Usted es el padre (la madre) con custodia y podría reclamar el(la) hijo(a) como su dependiente, pero el padre (la madre) que no tiene custodia reclama al(la) hijo(a) como dependiente porque:

a. Usted firmó la Forma 8332, Release of Claim to Exemption for Child of Divorced or Separated Parents (Cesión del Derecho a Reclamar una Exención por un(a) Hijo(a) de Padres Divorciados o Separados), en inglés, o una declaración similar, donde acuerda no reclamar al(la) hijo(a) para el 2005 ó

b. Usted tiene una sentencia o decreto de divorcio que fue ejecutado antes de 1985 que le permite al padre (la madre) que no tiene custodia a reclamar al(la) hijo(a) y él(ella) contribuye por lo menos $600 al sostenimiento del(la) hijo(a) en el 2005.

Otras reglas pudieran aplicar. Vea la Publicación 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information (Exenciones, Deducción Estándar e Información sobre la Presentación de la Declaración), en inglés, o la Publicación 579(SP), Cómo Preparar la Declaración de Impuesto Federal, en español, para más información sobre los hijos de padres divorciados o separados.

Hijo(a) calificado(a) de más de una persona. Si el(la) hijo(a) cumple con las condiciones para ser un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a) para más de una persona, sólo una persona puede tratar a ese(a) hijo(a) como hijo(a) calificado(a) para el 2005. Si más de una persona reclama el crédito basado en el(la) mismo(a) hijo(a) calificado(a), el IRS aplicará la regla del empate para determinar cuál persona puede tratar al(la) hijo(a) como hijo(a) calificado(a) para el 2005. La regla del empate aparece en la Tabla 2, Cuando Más de Una Persona Reclama el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo Usando al(la) Mismo(a) Hijo(a), en la Publicación 596SP, Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo, disponible en español.

Precaución. Un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a) que usted usa para reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo debe tener un número de seguro social válido a menos que él(ella) nació y murió en el 2005.

¿Qué tal si mi situación cambia?

Si su situación cambia después de que le entregue su Forma W-5(SP) a su empleador o patrono, usted probablemente necesitará presentar una nueva Forma W-5(SP). Por ejemplo, usted debe presentar una nueva Forma W-5(SP) si cualquiera de las siguientes situaciones aplican para el 2005:

- Usted ya no espera tener un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a). Marque el encasillado "No" en la línea 1 de su nueva Forma W-5(SP).
- Usted ya no espera poder reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo para el 2005. Marque el encasillado "No" en la línea 1 de su nueva Forma W-5(SP).
- Usted ya no quiere pagos por adelantado. Marque el encasillado "No" en la línea 1 de su nueva Forma W-5(SP).
- Su cónyuge presenta la Forma W-5(SP) con el empleador o patrono de él(ella). Marque el encasillado "Si" en la línea 3 de su nueva Forma W-5(SP).

Nota. Si usted recibe pagos por adelantado del Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo y descubre que no es elegible para el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo, deberá reembolsar estos pagos cuando presente su declaración de impuestos federales sobre el ingreso para el 2005.

Información Adicional

Cómo reclamar el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo

Si usted es elegible, reclame el Crédito por Ingreso del Trabajo en su declaración de impuestos para el 2005. Vea el folleto de instrucciones para su declaración de impuestos para el 2005.

Crédito Adicional

Usted pudiera reclamar un crédito mayor cuando presente su Forma 1040 ó Forma 1040A para el 2005 porque su empleador o patrono no le puede dar más de $1,597 a través del año con su paga. Usted quizás pudiera reclamar un crédito mayor si usted tiene más de un(a) hijo(a) calificado(a). Pero deberá presentar su declaración de impuestos para el 2005 para reclamar cualquier crédito adicional.

Cambios Importantes

Si usted es extranjero(a) residente o no residente que solicita un ITIN para poder presentar (rendir) una declaración de impuestos, ahora tiene que incluir el original, completado, de la declaración junto con la Forma W-7(SP) para obtener el ITIN. Vea, Adónde se envía la forma, en la página 4 para mayor información sobre cómo se presentan (rinden) estas formas.

Una vez procesada su Forma W-7(SP), el IRS le asignará un ITIN a la declaración de impuestos y, a su vez, le procesará. Se le procesará su declaración de impuestos como si hubiera sido presentada (rendida) a la dirección que aparece en las instrucciones para dicha declaración. Por favor, no envíe una copia de esa declaración a ninguna otra oficina del IRS.

Si no está obligado(a) a presentar (rendir) una(s) declaración(es) de impuestos o si no presenta (rinde) una(s) declaración(es) debidamente cumplimentada(s) junto con la Forma W-7(SP), no se le expedirá a usted un ITIN, a menos que satisfaga una de las excepciones explicadas bajo, Instrucciones Específicas, en la página 5.

Instrucciones Generales

Propósito de esta forma

Utilice la Forma W-7(SP) para solicitar un número de identificación personal del contribuyente, conocido por sus siglas en inglés, ITIN. El ITIN es un número de nueve dígitos que el Servicio de Impuestos Internos (IRS) de los EE.UU. otorga a las personas físicas que están obligadas, para propósitos tributarios de los EE.UU., a tener un número que lo identifique como contribuyentes y que, no teniéndolo, tampoco son elegibles para obtener un número de seguro social (SSN).

El ITIN es para usos tributarios federales exclusivamente. El ITIN no le permitirá tener derecho a recibir beneficios del seguro social, ni tendrá efecto alguno sobre la condición migratoria de un(a) extranjero(a) o sobre el derecho del(la) mismo(a) de estar empleado(a) legalmente en los Estados Unidos. Las personas que presentan declaraciones de impuestos usando un ITIN tampoco pueden reclamar el crédito por ingreso del trabajo (EIC).

SSN*. Por favor, no complete la Forma W-7(SP) si usted tiene un SSN o es elegible para obtener un SSN. Será elegible para obtener un SSN si usted es ciudadano(a) de los EE.UU. o ha sido admitido(a) por los EE.UU. para vivir permanentemente o para trabajar en los EE.UU.

Si tiene una solicitud para un SSN ya pendiente, por favor, no presente la Forma W-7(SP). Llene la Forma W-7(SP) únicamente si la Administración del Seguro Social (SSA) le notifica que no se le puede otorgar un SSN.

Para solicitar un SSN, vea la Forma SS-5, Application for a Social Security Card (Solicitud para una Tarjeta de Seguro Social), en inglés. Para obtener una Forma SS-5 ó para saber si usted es elegible para obtener un SSN, póngase en contacto con una oficina de la SSA.

Quién debe solicitar la forma

Cualquier persona física que no es elegible para obtener un *SSN pero que tiene un número de identificación del contribuyente que debe proporcionar, deberá solicitar un ITIN llenando la Forma W-7(SP). Puede ser, por ejemplo:

- Una persona física extranjera no residente que tiene derecho a una tasa de retención reducida de acuerdo con los beneficios de un tratado tributario. Vea la Publicación 515, Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities (Retención de impuestos a Extranjeros No Residentes y Entidades Extranjeras), en inglés.

- Una persona física extranjera no residente que no es elegible para obtener un SSN, pero que debe presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. o que presenta una declaración de impuestos de este país únicamente para obtener una devolución de impuestos pagados.

- Una persona física extranjera no residente que no es elegible para obtener un SSN, pero que opta por presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. conjuntamente con su cónyuge, el(la) cual es ciudadano(a) o residente del país.

- Extranjero(a) residente (basado en la prueba de presencia considerable) de los EE.UU. que presenta declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU., pero que no es elegible para obtener un SSN. Para mayor información sobre la prueba de presencia considerable en los EE.UU., vea la Publicación 519, U.S. Tax Guide for Aliens (Guía tributaria para extranjeros sobre los impuestos estadounidenses), en inglés.

- Una persona física extranjera que es reclamada como cónyuge en una declaración de impuestos estadounidense y que no es elegible para obtener un SSN.

- Una persona física extranjera reclamada como dependiente económico(a) para efectos de exenciones en declaraciones de impuestos de los EE.UU. pero que no puede o no es elegible para obtener un SSN. Para determinar si una persona física extranjera puede ser reclamada como dependiente en la declaración de impuestos federales de los EE.UU., vea las Publicaciones 501, Exemptions, Standard Deduction, and Filing Information (Información sobre exenciones, deducción estándar y la presentación de declaraciones), y 519, ambas en inglés.

- Estudiante, profesor(a) o investigador(a) no residente quien está obligado(a) a presentar una declaración de impuestos estadounidense pero no es elegible para obtener un SSN.

- Dependiente/cónyuge de un(a) extranjero(a) que lleva un visado de no residente y no es elegible para obtener un SSN.

No se requiere ITIN para las Formas 4868, 2688, 1040-ES ó 1040-ES(NR). Si usted solicita una prórroga (extensión) para presentar (rendir) la Forma 4868 ó la Forma 2688 o si hace un pago de impuesto estimado con la Forma 1040-ES ó la Forma 1040-ES(NR), por favor, no incluya la Forma W-7(SP) con ninguna de esas formas. Escriba "SE SOLICITA ITIN" en el espacio para su número de seguro social. Se le otorgará un ITIN únicamente después de que se presente (rinda) una declaración de impuestos y se satisfagan todos los demás requisitos.

Dónde se adjunta

Si usted está presentando una declaración de impuestos junto con esta forma, adjunte la Forma W-7(SP) a la primera página de su declaración de impuestos.

Instrucciones Específicas

Utilice las instrucciones siguientes para llenar la Forma W-7(SP). Si usted está llenando esta forma a nombre de un tercero, por favor, responda a las preguntas tal como se aplican a esa persona.

Razón por solicitar

Usted deberá marcar uno de los encasillados para indicar la razón por la que llena esta Forma W-7(SP). Si le corresponde a usted más de un solo encasillado, por favor, marque el encasillado que mejor explica la razón por la que usted presenta la Forma W-7(SP).

Importante: Si marcó el encasillado b, c, d, e o g, usted tiene que presentar (rendir) una declaración de impuestos debidamente completada anexándola a la Forma W-7(SP). Debe hacer esto aun cuando el ITIN sea para un(a) cónyuge o dependiente. Si solicita más de un ITIN para la misma declaración (p.e., para su cónyuge o dependiente), adjunte todas las Formas W-7(SP) a la misma declaración.

a. Extranjero(a) no residente que solicita un ITIN para poder reclamar beneficios de un tratado tributario. Ciertos extranjeros no residentes deberán obtener un ITIN para poder reclamar beneficios de un tratado tributario aunque no tengan que presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. Si marca este encasillado para reclamar beneficios de un tratado tributario con los EE.UU., marque también el encasillado h. Escriba "Excepción 1" o "Excepción 2," cualquiera que le corresponda, en las líneas que aparecen al lado del encasillado h y anote el nombre del país que tiene un tratado tributario con los EE.UU. y el número del artículo del tratado pertinente. Además, incluya cualquier documentación requerida según estipulada en la excepción en cuestión.

b. Extranjero(a) no residente que presenta declaración estadounidense y no es elegible para obtener un SSN. En esta categoría se incluyen:

- Un(a) extranjero(a) no residente que debe presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. para informar ingresos relacionados principalmente o no relacionados principalmente con la operación de un negocio u ocupación dentro de los EE.UU.

- Un(a) extranjero(a) no residente que presenta una declaración de los EE.UU. únicamente para recibir una devolución de su impuesto.

c. Extranjero(a) residente de los EE.UU. (basado en la cuantía de días en que está presente en este país) que presenta una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y no es elegible para obtener un SSN. Un individuo extranjero que vive en los EE.UU. y que no ha obtenido permiso para trabajar en este país del USCIS, y por consiguiente, no es elegible para un SSN, puede verse obligado a presentar una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. Tal individuo deberá entonces marcar este encasillado.

d. Dependiente de un(a) ciudadano(a)/residente de los EE.UU. Esta es una persona física cuya exención de dependencia puede ser reclamada en una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y que no es elegible para obtener un SSN.

e. Cónyuge de un(a) ciudadano(a)/residente de los EE.UU. En esta categoría se incluyen:

- Un(a) cónyuge extranjero(a) no residente que no presenta una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. (incluyendo una declaración conjunta), ni tampoco es elegible para obtener un SSN, pero cuya exención de cónyuge puede ser reclamada en (la) declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. de su cónyuge.

- Un(a) extranjero(a) no residente que elige presentar una declaración de impuestos conjuntamente con su cónyuge, el(la) cual es ciudadano(a) o residente de los EE.UU.

f. Estudiante, profesor(a) o investigador(a) no residente que presenta declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y no es elegible para un SSN. Este es un individuo que no ha abandonado su residencia en el extranjero y que es un(a) estudiante, profesor(a) o investigador(a) bona fide y viene a los EE.UU. temporalmente sólo para asistir a clases dadas en una institución educativa, enseñar o realizar pesquisas o investigaciones. Si marca este encasillado, usted debe llenar también las líneas 6c y 6g de esta forma y facilitar su pasaporte con un visado válido y marcar el encasillado h. Añote en las líneas al lado del encasillado h el nombre del país que tiene un tratado tributario con los EE.UU. y el número del artículo del tratado pertinente. Si le corresponde la Excepción 2, usted tiene que escribir “Excepción 2” también en la línea al lado del encasillado h e incluir cualquier documentación requerida según la Excepción 2.

g. Dependiente/cónyuge de un(a) extranjero(a) de visado no residente. Este es un individuo que puede ser reclamado como dependiente o cónyuge en una declaración de impuestos de los Estados Unidos y que no puede, o no es elegible para, obtener un SSN y ha entrado en los EE.UU. con un(a) extranjero(a) que tiene un visado de no residente. Por ejemplo, el(la) que tiene el visado principal tiene la clasificación de B-1; el(la) dependiente/cónyuge tiene la clasificación de B-2.

h. Otra. Si su situación no cae dentro del ámbito de ninguna de las categorías descritas de la a a la g, marque este encasillado. Describa en gran detalle su razón por la que solicita un ITIN y adjunte la documentación comprobante. Si cualquiera de las excepciones siguientes le corresponde, usted no tendrá que incluir una declaración de impuestos con su Forma W-7(SP). Marque el encasillado h y añote el número de la excepción pertinente (por ejemplo, “Excepción 3”) en la línea al lado del encasillado h.

Excepción 1. Ingreso de actividades pasivas - beneficios de un tratado tributario (encasillado a) o retención de un tercero (encasillado h). Para obtener un ITIN de acuerdo con esta excepción, usted tiene que incluir la documentación apropiada, junto con la Forma W-7(SP), en la que se muestra que usted posee un activo que produce ingreso sujeto a los requisitos de la declaración de información o a la retención de impuestos. En esto se incluyen los ejemplos siguientes:

- Evidencia que indica que usted abrió una cuenta en una institución financiera y que usted tiene interés propietario en esa cuenta.
- Para una sociedad colectiva, el contrato o acuerdo de asociación, junto con el EIN de la sociedad, u otra evidencia que compruebe que la sociedad opera en los Estados Unidos.

Los requisitos de la declaración de información y la retención de impuestos corresponden a terceros (en la mayoría de los casos, los bancos y otras instituciones financieras) que le solicitan a usted un ITIN de manera que puedan presentar (rendir) las declaraciones informativas requeridas por la ley. Entre las declaraciones informativas, por ejemplo, se incluyen la Forma 1099-INT,

Interest Income (Ingreso de Intereses), y la Forma 1042-S, Foreign Person's U.S. Source Income Subject to Withholding (Ingresos de un(a) extranjero(a) de fuentes en los EE.UU. sujetos a retención del impuesto). Usted quizás necesitará un ITIN para poder llenar la Forma W-9 (para los extranjeros residentes) o, en algunos casos, una de las formas de la serie W-8 (para los extranjeros no residentes). Los terceros mantienen tales formas.

Excepción 2. Otros ingresos (sueldos, salarios y otras remuneraciones) - beneficios de un tratado tributario (encasillado a) o un(a) estudiante extranjero(a) con una beca o pensión para realizar pesquisas o investigaciones (encasillado f).

Aviso: Los solicitantes que tienen un visado que les permite trabajar deberán primero solicitarle un SSN a la Administración del Seguro Social (SSA, siglas en inglés). No puede solicitar un ITIN si usted es elegible para obtener un SSN.

Si usted es un(a) estudiante, becario(a), profesor(a) o investigador(a) o un individuo que recibe remuneraciones por prestar servicios personales, su Forma W-7(SP) será procesada si usted puede comprobar que su solicitud para un SSN (la Forma SS-5) fue rechazada por la SSA. En este caso, usted debe incluir una Forma 8233, Exemption From Withholding on Compensation for Independent (and Certain Dependent) Personal Services of a Nonresident Alien Individual (Exención de retención del impuesto sobre las remuneraciones de los servicios personales independientes (y algunos servicios dependientes) prestados por un(a) extranjero(a) no residente).

Si usted es un(a) extranjero(a) no residente con visado de visitante que recibió ganancias de juegos de azar, se le procesará su Forma W-7(SP) si la presenta (rinde) mediante un(a) oficial o agente de tales juegos que tiene la autoridad de aceptar su solicitud.

Excepción 3. Información de un tercero—interés hipotecario (encasillado h). De acuerdo con las leyes tributarias, la mayoría de los que reciben intereses hipotecarios (prestamistas) informan la cantidad de intereses que reciben de un(a) prestatario(a) al IRS y también al (a la) prestatario(a). Se suele informar esos ingresos llenando una Forma 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement (Comprobante de Intereses Hipotecarios). Los que informan por primera vez para obtener un préstamo residencial pudieran pedir un ITIN si deben proporcionarlo al prestamista.

Para obtener un ITIN de acuerdo con esta excepción, usted debe incluir la documentación apropiada junto con la Forma W-7(SP), en la cual se muestra evidencia de un préstamo hipotecario. Dicha documentación pudiera incluir una carta de compromiso a una hipoteca expedida por una institución financiera, un convenio o contrato de inscripción de un corredor u otra documentación similar.

Excepción 4. Disposición (o enajenación) del interés que tiene un(a) extranjero(a) en bienes inmuebles o propiedades localizadas en los EE.UU. (encasillado h). Se suele imponer una obligación de retener impuestos sobre el(la) comprador(a) u otro(a) cesionario(a) (agente de retención) en el caso de un(a) extranjero(a) que adquiere un interés en bienes inmuebles dentro de los EE.UU. La retención de impuestos en este caso sirve para recaudar los impuestos que el(la) extranjero(a) pueda adeudar. En algunos casos, el(la) extranjero(a) puede solicitar un certificado de retención para reducir o eliminar por completo la retención de impuesto sobre la disposición de bienes inmuebles.

Para obtener un ITIN de acuerdo con esta excepción, usted debe incluir con la Forma W-7(SP) una Forma 8288-B, Application for Withholding Certificate for Dispositions by Foreign Persons of U.S. Real Property Interests (Solicitud para un certificado de retención de impuesto sobre la disposición de bienes inmuebles localizados en los EE.UU.), y una copia del contrato por la venta del terreno.

Instrucciones para las líneas

Escriba “N/A” (No aplica) en toda línea que no aplique en su caso.

Línea 1a. Escriba su nombre legal en la línea 1a. Este deberá aparecer exactamente como el mismo aparecerá en una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU.

¡Ojo! Se establecerá su ITIN con este nombre. Si usted no utiliza este nombre en una declaración de impuestos estadounidense, ello podrá demorar la tramitación de la declaración hasta que se resuelvan las discrepancias.

Línea 1b. Escriba aquí su nombre tal como aparece en el acta de nacimiento si es distinto al que aparece en la línea 1a.

Línea 2. Escriba la dirección de su domicilio completo en el país donde reside normalmente, para efectos del impuesto. Si está solicitando la aplicación de los beneficios conforme a un tratado tributario con los Estados Unidos, la dirección que escriba deberá ser la de su domicilio en el país con el que se tiene tal tratado. Incluya el código postal si es apropiado.

No anote un número de apartado postal, ni ningún domicilio en el que recibe correspondencia “a cargo de” (c/o), en lugar de su domicilio en la calle donde reside. Si lo hace, su solicitud será rechazada.

Aviso: Si usted ya no tiene una residencia permanente, debido a que se mudó a los Estados Unidos, escriba aquí la residencia donde vivió por último en el extranjero.

Línea 3. Escriba su domicilio postal completo sólo cuando sea distinto al que escribió en la línea 2. Esta es la dirección a la cual el IRS le devolverá su documentación original y le enviará la notificación por escrito de su ITIN.

Aviso: Si el Servicio Postal de los EE.UU. no entregará correo a su vivienda actual, añote aquí el número del apartado en la oficina de correos del Servicio Postal de los EE.UU. para su domicilio postal. Comuníquese con la oficina local del Servicio Postal de los EE.UU. para mayor información. Por favor, no utilice un apartado en una oficina de correos que esté en manos de y operado por una empresa o negocio particular.

Línea 4. Añote la fecha de su nacimiento en el formato siguiente: mes/día/año. También escriba su país de origen. Si los sabe, por favor, incluya la ciudad y el estado o provincia donde usted nació. Usted debe identificar el país de su nacimiento. Para ser elegible para recibir un ITIN, su país de origen tiene que ser un país extranjero reconocido como tal por el Departamento del Estado de los Estados Unidos.

Línea 5. Marque el encasillado que indique su sexo.

Línea 6a. Escriba aquí el país o países (en casos de doble nacionalidad) del cual usted es ciudadano(a). Por favor, escriba el nombre completo del país; no utilice abreviaturas.

Línea 6b. Si su país de residencia le ha otorgado algún número de identificación, para efectos del impuesto, anote ese número en la línea 6b. Por ejemplo, si usted es residente del Canadá, anotará su número de seguro social canadiense.

Línea 6c. Escriba únicamente información relacionada con su visado de extranjero(a) no inmigrante de los EE.UU. Incluya la clasificación del USCIS, número del visado y la fecha de vencimiento en el formato siguiente: mes/día/año. Por ejemplo, si usted tiene un visado con la clasificación de B-1/B-2 con el número 123456 que vence el 31 de diciembre del 2004, anotará "B-1/B-2", "123456" y "12/31/2004" en los espacios apropiados.

Aviso: Si se ha expedido el visado de acuerdo con el título de "duración de permanencia" del USCIS, escriba "D/S" como la fecha de vencimiento.

Línea 6d. Marque el encasillado que indique la clase de documentación que usted presenta para propósitos de identificación. Si tiene un pasaporte, utilícelo para verificar su identidad y condición de extranjero. Si usted hace eso, no tendrá que proporcionar ningún otro documento de apoyo.

Importante: Si el pasaporte contiene información sobre su visado, por favor, escriba esta información en la línea 6c.

Si no tiene pasaporte, usted debe utilizar la documentación listada bajo, Cómo se solicita, en la página 3. Se le obligará a usted a proveer más de un documento corriente para verificar su identidad y clasificación de extranjero(a). Por lo menos uno de los documentos que presente tiene que contener una fotografía reciente de usted. Escriba el nombre del estado, país u otro expedidor del documento; el número de identificación (si alguno) que aparece en el documento; la fecha de su vencimiento; y la fecha en la que usted entró en los EE.UU. Hay que escribir las fechas de la manera siguiente: mes/día/año para el tipo de documentación que está facilitando. Además, usted pudiera estar obligado(a) a facilitar una traducción fiel de los documentos provistos en un idioma ajeno.

Línea 6e. Si usted alguna vez recibió un número temporal de identificación del contribuyente (TIN) o número de identificación patronal (EIN), marque el encasillado Sí y anote el número correspondiente en la línea 6f. Si nunca tuvo un número temporal TIN o EIN o si no sabe su número temporal TIN o EIN, marque el encasillado No/Desconozco.

Un TIN temporal es un número de nueve dígitos, emitido por el IRS a ciertas personas físicas que presentan una declaración de impuestos o hacen un pago de impuestos sin facilitar un TIN. A usted se le pudo haber emitido este número si presentó una declaración de impuestos de los EE.UU. y no contaba con un SSN. Ese TIN temporal aparece en cualquier correspondencia que el IRS le haya mandado relacionada con esa declaración.

Un EIN es un número de nueve dígitos, (p.e., 12-3456789), asignado por el IRS a negocios y empresas, tales como una empresa unipersonal.

Línea 6f. Anote en el espacio provisto el número temporal TIN y/o EIN y el nombre conforme al que se emitió dicho número. Si usted tiene tanto un TIN temporero como un EIN, por favor, incluya una hoja por separado que indica los dos números. A usted se le pudo haber emitido varios TIN temporales. En este caso, adjunte a la Forma W-7(SP) una hoja por separado que enumera los TIN temporales que se le han emitido.

Línea 6g. Si usted marcó la razón f, deberá facilitar el nombre de la institución educativa y también la ciudad y estado donde se ubica. Usted tiene que anotar además la duración de su permanencia en este país.

Si usted se encuentra temporalmente en los EE.UU. para propósitos comerciales, deberá facilitar el nombre del negocio con el cual usted conduce tratos comerciales y también la ciudad y estado donde se ubica. Usted tiene que anotar además la duración de su permanencia en este país.

Firma. Por regla general, el(la) solicitante deberá firmar la Forma W-7(SP). Sin embargo, si el(la) solicitante tiene menos de 14 años de edad, una persona delegada (uno de sus padres o su tutor legal) deberá firmarla por él o ella. Escriba a máquina o con letras de molde el nombre del(la) delegado(a) en el espacio provisto y marque el encasillado apropiado para indicar su parentesco con el(la) solicitante. Si el(la) delegado(a) firma como tutor legal (autorizado(a) por el tribunal), sírvase adjuntar una copia de la documentación del tribunal que le permite ser tutor legal.

Si el(la) solicitante tiene 14 años o más de edad, el(la) mismo(a) puede nombrar a un(a) apoderado(a) autorizado(a) a firmar por él o ella. Dicho(a) apoderado(a) deberá escribir con letras de molde su nombre en el espacio provisto para anotar el nombre del(la) delegado(a) y deberá además incluir una Forma 2848, Power of Attorney and Declaration of Representative (Poder legal y declaración del representante), en inglés.

Aviso sobre la Ley de Reducción de Trámites. Solicitamos la información requerida en esta forma para cumplir con las leyes que regulan la recaudación de los impuestos internos de los Estados Unidos. Usted está obligado(a) a facilitarnos esta información. La necesitamos para asegurar su cumplimiento con dichas leyes y para poder computar y cobrar la cantidad correcta de contribuciones.

General Instructions

Purpose of Form

Use Form W-7A to apply for an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) adoption taxpayer identification number (ATIN) for a child who is placed in your home for purposes of legal adoption. However, do not use Form W-7A if you will be able to obtain a social security number (SSN) for the child in time to file your tax return. Also, do not use Form W-7A if the child is not a U.S. citizen or resident.

What is an ATIN?

An ATIN is a temporary nine-digit number issued by the IRS to individuals who are in the process of legally adopting a U.S. citizen or resident child but who cannot get an SSN for that child in time to file their tax return.

You may be able to use an ATIN on your tax return to:

- Claim the child as your dependent if the child meets the dependency tests. See Pub. 501.
- Claim the child and dependent care credit. See Pub. 503.

- Claim the adoption credit. See Form 8839, Qualified Adoption Expenses.
- Claim the child tax credit. See Pub. 972.

However, you will not be able to use an ATIN to claim the earned income credit (EIC). When the adoption is final and the child has an SSN, you may file an amended return for an earlier year if you find that you could have claimed the EIC in the earlier year except for the fact that the child did not have an SSN. Use Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and Schedule EIC.

How Long To Use an ATIN

An ATIN issued to you for your adoptive child will expire 2 years from the date it is issued. However, you will receive a notice from the IRS 6 months before the expiration date to remind you that the ATIN will expire. The notice will explain how you can apply for an extension if the adoption will not be final by the expiration date.

After the adoption is final, do not continue using the ATIN. Instead, you must use an SSN. To obtain an SSN for the child, get Form SS-5 from your local Social Security Administration (SSA) office. Call 1-800-772-1213. You can also find Form SS-5 online at www.socialsecurity.gov.

If the SSA denies your application for an SSN, contact the IRS to request an extension or reactivation of the ATIN. When you request the extension or reactivation of the ATIN, include the SSA's denial letter or an explanation with your correspondence.

Who Must File

File Form W-7A if:

- You have a child living with you who was placed in your home for legal adoption by an authorized placement agency,
- You cannot obtain the child's existing SSN even though you have made a reasonable attempt to obtain it from the birth parents, the placement agency, and other persons,
- You cannot obtain an SSN for the child from the SSA because, for example, the adoption is not final,
- You cannot obtain an IRS individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN) for the child, and

- You are eligible to claim the child as a dependent on your tax return.

Who Should Not File

Do not file Form W-7A if:

- The child has an SSN and you know that number or can obtain it from the birth parents, the placement agency, or other persons, or
- You can file Form SS-5 with the SSA and obtain an SSN for the child in time to file your tax return, or
- The child is not a U.S. citizen or resident. If the child is not a U.S. citizen or resident and you cannot obtain an SSN for the child, apply for an ITIN (see Pub. 1915).

Foster Children

Do not apply for an ATIN for a foster child who has been placed in your home even if you have filed a petition in court to adopt the foster child or intend to adopt the child. You will not need an ATIN for a foster child because you should be able to obtain the child's SSN from the foster care agency.

How To File

You must complete Form W-7A, sign it, date it, and mail it along with the required attachments (see What To Include With Form W-7A) to the address on this page.

What To Include With Form W-7A

You must attach signed and dated documentation to Form W-7A to prove that the child was placed with you for legal adoption (not for foster care) by an authorized placement agency.

In general, one of the following documents will satisfy this requirement:

- A copy of the placement agreement entered into between you and an authorized placement agency;
- A copy of the document signed by a hospital official authorizing the release of a newborn child from the hospital to you for legal adoption;
- A copy of the court order or other court document ordering or approving the placement of a child with you for legal adoption; or
- An affidavit signed by the adoption attorney or government official who placed the child with you for legal adoption pursuant to state law.

Where To File

Internal Revenue Service
Philadelphia Service Center
ATIN Unit
P.O. Box 447
Bensalem, PA 19020

When To File

File Form W-7A as soon as you meet the conditions under Who Must File on page 1.

When To Expect the ATIN

It will take 4–8 weeks to get an ATIN. If you have not heard from the IRS about your application within this time, you may call 215-516-4846 to find out the status of your application. This is not a toll-free number. Be sure to have a copy of your Form W-7A available when you call.

Specific Instructions

Complete all lines on the form. Enter N/A (not applicable) on the lines that do not apply. The instructions that follow are for those items that are not self-explanatory.

Line 1. Enter your name and SSN on line 1a. If you and another person are adopting the child, enter the other person's name and SSN on line 1b. Also, if you are married filing jointly, be sure to enter the names and SSNs in the order shown on your tax return.

Name change. If you changed your name after you filed your last return because of marriage, divorce, etc., be sure to report this to your local Social Security Administration Office before filing your Form W-7A. This will prevent delays in processing your ATIN request.

Line 2. Enter the address where you and the child live.

Enter your post office box number only if your post office does not deliver mail to your home.

Address change. If you changed your mailing address after you filed your last return, you should use Form 8822, Change of Address, to notify the IRS of the change. A new address shown on Form W-7A will not update your record. You can get Form 8822 by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676).

Line 3a. Enter the child's adoptive name as it will appear on your tax return.

Line 3b. If you know the child's birth name, enter it on line 3b.

Line 4. Enter the child's date of birth and sex. If you know the child's place of birth, enter the information on line 4.

Line 5. Enter the name and address of the authorized placement agency that placed the child with you for legal adoption. An authorized placement agency may include a private adoption agency, a government agency, an adoption attorney, or any other person authorized by state law to place a child for legal adoption. Also, enter the date the child was placed.

Signature. Form W-7A must be signed and dated by the adoptive parent(s) applying for the ATIN. If you and another person are adopting this child, that person must also sign and date the application.

Privacy Act and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice.

We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. Internal Revenue Code section 23(f)(2) requires that you furnish an identifying number on your tax return if you are claiming certain tax benefits during the process of adopting a U.S. citizen or resident child and cannot get an SSN for that child until the adoption is final. Form W-7A must be used to apply for the identification number, an ATIN. Section 6109 requires that you disclose your taxpayer identification number (SSN). Routine uses of this information include giving it to the Department of Justice for civil and criminal litigation and to cities, states, and the District of Columbia for use in administering their tax laws. If you do not file the form, you will not be issued an ATIN.

You are required to give us the information. We need it to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law. Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by Internal Revenue Code section 6103.

The time needed to complete and file this form will vary depending on individual circumstances. The estimated average time is: Learning about the law or the form, 8 min.; Preparing the form, 16 min.; and Copying, assembling, and sending the form to the IRS, 16 min.

If you have comments concerning the accuracy of these time estimates or suggestions for making this form simpler, we would be happy to hear from you. You can write to the Tax Products Coordinating Committee, Western Area Distribution Center, Rancho Cordova, CA 95743-0001. Do not send the form to this address. Instead, see Where To File on this page.

Submission to OMB for Approval and Request for Comment for Form 1040 and Schedules A, B, C, C-EZ, D, D-1, E, EIC, F, H, J, R, and SE, Form 1040A and Schedules 1, 2, and 3, Form 1040EZ, Form 1040X, and all attachments to these forms.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The Department of the Treasury and the Internal Revenue Service, as part of our continuing efforts to reduce paperwork and respondent burden, invite the general public and other Federal agencies to take this opportunity to comment on proposed and continuing information collections, as required by the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA), Public Law 104-13 (44 U.S.C. 3506(c)(2)(A)). This notice requests comments on all forms used by individual taxpayers: Form 1040, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and Schedules A, B, C, C-EZ, D, D-1, E, EIC, F, H, J, R, and SE; Form 1040A and Schedules 1, 2, and 3; Form 1040EZ; Form 1040X; and all attachments to these forms (see the Appendix to this notice).

With this notice, the IRS is again announcing significant changes to (1) the manner in which tax forms used by individual taxpayers will be approved under the PRA and (2) its method of estimating the paperwork burden imposed on individual taxpayers.

Change in PRA Approval of Forms Used by Individual Taxpayers

Under the PRA, OMB assigns a control number to each “collection of information” that it reviews and approves for use by an agency. A single information collection may consist of one or more forms, recordkeeping requirements, and/or third-party disclosure requirements. Under the PRA and OMB regulations, agencies have the discretion to seek separate OMB approvals for individual forms, recordkeeping requirements, and third-party reporting requirements or to combine any number of forms, recordkeeping requirements, and/or third-party disclosure requirements (usually related in subject matter) under one OMB Control Number. Agency decisions on whether to group individual requirements under a single OMB Control Number or to disaggregate them and request separate OMB Control Numbers are based largely on considerations of administrative practicality.

The PRA also requires agencies to estimate the burden for each collection of information. Accordingly, each OMB Control Number has an associated burden estimate. The burden estimates for each control number are displayed in (1) the PRA notices that accompany collections of information, (2) Federal Register notices such as this one, and (3) in OMB's database of approved information collections. If more than one form, recordkeeping requirement, and/or third-party disclosure requirement is approved under a single control number, then the burden estimate for that control number reflects the burden associated with all of the approved forms, recordkeeping requirements, and/or third-party disclosure requirements.

As described below under the heading "New Burden Model," the IRS' new Individual Taxpayer Burden Model (ITBM) estimates of taxpayer burden are based on taxpayer characteristics and activities, taking into account, among other things, the forms and schedules generally used by those groups of individual taxpayers and the recordkeeping and other activities needed to complete those forms. The ITBM represents the first phase of a long-term effort to improve the ability of IRS to measure the burden imposed on various groups of taxpayers by the Federal tax system. While the new methodology provides a more accurate and comprehensive description of individual taxpayer burden, it does not estimate burden on a form-by-form basis, as has been done under the previous methodology. When the prior model was developed in the mid-1980s, almost all tax returns were prepared manually, either by the taxpayer or a paid provider. In this context, it was determined that estimating burden on a form-by-form basis was an appropriate methodology. Today, about 85 percent of all individual tax returns are prepared utilizing computer software (either by the taxpayer or a paid provider), and about 15 percent are prepared manually. In this environment, in which many taxpayers' activities are no longer as directly associated with particular forms, estimating burden on a form-by-form basis is not an appropriate measurement of taxpayer burden. The new model, which takes into account broader and more comprehensive taxpayer characteristics and activities, provides a much more accurate and useful estimate of taxpayer burden.

Currently, there are 195 forms used by individual taxpayers. These include Forms 1040, 1040A, 1040 EZ, and their schedules and all the forms individual taxpayers attach to their tax returns (see the Appendix to this notice). For most of these forms, IRS has in the past obtained separate OMB approvals under unique OMB Control Numbers and separate burden estimates.

Since the ITBM does not estimate burden on a form-by-form basis, IRS is no longer able to provide burden estimates for each tax form used by individuals. The ITBM estimates the aggregate burden imposed on individual taxpayers, based upon their tax-related characteristics and activities. IRS therefore will seek OMB approval of all 195 individual tax forms as a single "collection of information.” The aggregate burden of these tax forms will be accounted for under OMB Control Number 1545-0074, which is currently assigned to Form 1040 and its schedules. OMB Control Number 1545-0074 will be displayed on all individual tax forms and other information collections.

As a result of this change, burden estimates for individual taxpayers will now be displayed differently in PRA Notices on tax forms and other information collections, and in Federal Register notices. This new way of displaying burden is presented below under the heading “PRA Submission to OMB.” Since a number of forms used by individual taxpayers are also used by corporations, partnerships, and other kinds of taxpayers, there will be a transition period during which IRS will report different burden estimates for individual taxpayers and for other taxpayers using the same forms. For those forms used by both individual and other taxpayers, IRS will display two OMB Control Numbers (1545-0074 and the OMB Control Numbers currently assigned to these forms) and provide two burden estimates. The burden estimates for individual taxpayers will be reported and accounted for as described in this notice. The burden estimates for other users of these forms will be reported under the existing methodology, which is based on form length and complexity.<sup>1</sup>

New Burden Model

Data from the new ITBM revises the estimates of the levels of burden experienced by individual taxpayers when complying with the Federal tax laws. It replaces the earlier burden measurement developed in the mid-1980s. Since that time, improved technology and modeling sophistication have enabled the IRS to improve the burden estimates. The new model provides taxpayers and the IRS with a more comprehensive understanding of the current levels of taxpayer burden. It reflects major changes over the past two decades in the way taxpayers prepare and file their returns. The new ITBM also represents a substantial step forward in the IRS' ability to assess likely impacts of administrative and legislative changes on individual taxpayers.

<sup>1</sup> As IRS continues to develop the new burden model, the new method of estimating burden will be expanded to cover other groups of taxpayers (corporations, partnerships, tax-exempt entities, etc.).

The ITBM's approach to measuring burden focuses on the characteristics and activities of individual taxpayers rather than the forms they use. Key determinants of taxpayer burden in the model are the way the taxpayer prepares the return (e.g. with software or paid preparer) and the taxpayer's activities, such as recordkeeping and tax planning. In contrast, the previous estimates primarily focused on the length and complexity of each tax form. The changes between the old and new burden estimates are due to the improved ability of the new methodology to measure burden and the expanded scope of what is measured. These changes create a one-time shift in the estimate of burden levels that reflects the better measurement of the new model. The differences in estimates between the models do not reflect any change in the actual burden experienced by taxpayers. Comparisons should not be made between these and the earlier published estimates, because the models measure burden in different ways.

Methodology

Burden is defined as the time and out-of-pocket costs incurred by taxpayers to comply with the Federal tax system. For the first time, the time expended and the out-of-pocket costs are estimated separately. The new methodology distinguishes among preparation methods, taxpayer activities, types of individual taxpayer, filing methods, and income levels. Indicators of complexity in tax laws as reflected in tax forms and instructions are incorporated in the model.

The new model follows IRS' classification of taxpayer types: individual taxpayers are taxpayers who file any type of Form 1040. "Self-Employed" taxpayers are individual taxpayers who file a Form 1040 and a Schedule C, C-EZ, E, or F, or Form 2106. All other individual taxpayers using a Form 1040 are "Wage and Investment" taxpayers.

The taxpayer's choice of preparation method is identified as a major factor influencing burden levels. The preparation methods are:

- Self-prepared without software
- Self-prepared with software
- Used a paid tax preparer

The separate types of taxpayer activities measured in the model are:

- Recordkeeping
- Form completion
- Form submission (electronic and paper)
- Tax planning
- Use of services (IRS and paid professional)
- Gathering tax materials

Taxpayer Burden Estimates

Tables 1, 2, and 3 show the burden model estimates. In tax year 2003 the burden of all individual taxpayers filing Forms 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ averaged about 23 hours per return filed, or a total of more than 3 billion hours. Similarly, the average out-of-pocket taxpayer costs were estimated to be $179 per return filed or a total of $23.4 billion. Including associated forms and schedules, taxpayers filing Form 1040 had an average burden of about 30 hours, taxpayers filing Form 1040A averaged about 9 hours, and those filing 1040 EZ averaged about 7 hours.

The data shown are the best estimates from tax returns filed for 2003 currently available as of June 27, 2005. The estimates are subject to change as new forms and data become available. Estimates for combinations of major forms and schedules commonly used will be available and the most up-to-date estimates and supplementary information can be found on the IRS website:

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY*Departmental Offices; Renewal of the Treasury Borrowing Committee of the Bond Market Association*ACTION: Notice of renewal.

SUMMARY: In accordance with the Federal Advisory Committee Act, as amended (Pub. L. 92-463; 5 U.S.C. App. 2) with the concurrence of the General Services Administration, the Secretary of the Treasury has determined that renewal of the Treasury Borrowing Advisory Committee of The Bond Market Association (the "Committee") is necessary and in the public interest in connection with the performance of duties imposed on the Department of the Treasury by law.

EFFECTIVE DATE: July 11, 2005.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jeff Huther, Director, Office of Debt Management (202) 622-2630.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The purpose of the Committee is to provide informed advice as representatives of the financial community to the Secretary of the Treasury and Treasury staff, upon the Secretary of the Treasury's request, in carrying out Treasury responsibilities for federal financing and public debt management.

The Committee meets to consider special items on which its advice is sought pertaining to immediate Treasury funding requirements and pertaining to longer term approaches to manage the national debt in a cost-effective manner. The Committee usually meets immediately before the Treasury announces each mid-calendar quarter funding operation, although special meetings also may be held.

Membership consists of 15-20 individuals who are experts in the government securities market and who are involved in senior positions in debt markets as institutional investors, investment advisors, or as dealers in government securities.

The Designated Federal Official for the Advisory Committee is the Director of the Office of Debt Management, reporting through the Assistant Secretary for Financial Markets. The Treasury Department filed copies of the Committee's renewal charter with appropriate committees in Congress.

Dated: June 30, 2005.

BILLING CODE 4811-15-M*DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY*Departmental Offices; Debt Management Advisory Committee Meeting

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. App. 2, § 10(a)(2), that a meeting will be held at the Hay-Adams Hotel, 16th and Pennsylvania Avenue, NW., Washington, DC, on August 2, 2005, at 11:30 a.m. of the following debt management advisory committee: Treasury Borrowing Advisory Committee of The Bond Market Association ("Committee").

The agenda for the meeting provides for a charge by the Secretary of the Treasury or his designate that the committee discuss particular issues, and a working session. Following the working session, the Committee will present a written report of its recommendations. The meeting will be closed to the public, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. App. 2, § 10(d) and Public Law 103-202, § 202(c)(1)(B) (31 U.S.C. 3121 note).

This notice shall constitute my determination, pursuant to the authority placed in heads of agencies by 5 U.S.C. App. 2, § 10(d) and vested in me by Treasury Department Order No. 101-05, that the meeting will consist of discussions and debates of the issues presented to the Committee by the Secretary of the Treasury and the making of recommendations of the Committee of the Secretary, pursuant to Public Law 103-202, § 202(c)(1)(B). Thus, this information is exempt from disclosure under that provision and 5 U.S.C. 552b(c)(3)(B). In addition, the meeting is concerned with information that is exempt from disclosure under 5 U.S.C. 552b(c)(9)(A). The public interest requires that such meetings be closed to the public because the Treasury Department requires frank and full advice from representatives of the financial community prior to making its final decisions on major financing operations. Historically, this advice has been offered by debt management advisory committees established by the several major segments of the financial community. When so utilized, such a committee is recognized to be an advisory committee under 5 U.S.C. App. 2, § 3.

Although the Treasury's final announcement of financing plans may not reflect the recommendations provided in reports of the Committee, premature disclosure of the Committee's deliberations and reports would be likely to lead to significant financial speculation in the securities market. This, the meeting falls within the exemption covered by 5 U.S.C. 552b(c)(9)(A).

Treasury staff will provide a technical briefing to the press on the day before the Committee meeting, following the release of a statement of economic conditions, financing estimates and technical charts. This briefing will give the press an opportunity to ask questions about financing projections and technical charts. The day after the Committee meeting, Treasury will release the minutes of the meeting, any charts that were discussed at the meeting, and the Committee's report to the Secretary.

The Office of Debt Management is responsible for maintaining records of debt management advisory committee meetings and for providing annual reports setting forth a summary of Committee activities and such other matters as may be informative to the public consistent with the policy of 5 U.S.C. 552(b). The Designated Federal Officer or other responsible agency official who may be contacted for additional information is Jeff Huther, Director, Office of Debt Management, at (202) 622-1868.

Dated: June 30, 2005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Change in PRA Approval of Forms Used by Individual Taxpayers

Under the PRA, OMB assigns a control number to each "collection of information" that it reviews and approves for use by an agency. A single information collection may consist of one or more forms, recordkeeping requirements, and/or third-party disclosure requirements. Under the PRA and OMB regulations, agencies have the discretion to seek separate OMB approvals for individual forms, recordkeeping requirements, and third-party reporting requirements or to combine any number of forms, recordkeeping requirements, and/or third-party disclosure requirements (usually related in subject matter) under one OMB Control Number. Agency decisions on whether to group individual requirements under a single OMB Control Number or to disaggregate them and request separate OMB Control Numbers are based largely on considerations of administrative practicality.

The PRA also requires agencies to estimate the burden for each collection of information. Accordingly, each OMB Control Number has an associated burden estimate. The burden estimates for each control number are displayed in (1) the PRA notices that accompany collections of information, (2) Federal Register notices such as this one, and (3) in OMB's database of approved information collections. If more than one form, recordkeeping requirement, and/or third-party disclosure requirement is approved under a single control number, then the burden estimate for that control number reflects the burden associated with all of the approved forms, recordkeeping requirements, and/or third-party disclosure requirements.

As described below under the heading "New Burden Model," the IRS' new Individual Taxpayer Burden Model (ITBM) estimates of taxpayer burden are based on taxpayer characteristics and activities, taking into account, among other things, the forms and schedules generally used by those groups of individual taxpayers and the recordkeeping and other activities needed to complete those forms. The ITBM represents the first phase of a long-term effort to improve the ability of IRS to measure the burden imposed on various groups of taxpayers by the Federal tax system. While the new methodology provides a more accurate and comprehensive description of individual taxpayer burden, it does not estimate burden on a form-by-form basis, as has been done under the previous methodology. When the prior model was developed in the mid-1980s, almost all tax returns were prepared manually, either by the taxpayer or a paid provider. In this context, it was determined that estimating burden on a form-by-form basis was an appropriate methodology. Today, about 85 percent of all individual tax returns are prepared utilizing computer software (either by the taxpayer or a paid provider), and about 15 percent are prepared manually. In this environment, in which many taxpayers' activities are no longer as directly associated with particular forms, estimating burden on a form-by-form basis is not an appropriate measurement of taxpayer burden. The new model, which takes into account broader and more comprehensive taxpayer characteristics and activities, provides a much more accurate and useful estimate of taxpayer burden.

Currently, there are 121 forms used by individual taxpayers. These include Forms 1040, 1040A, 1040 EZ, and their schedules and all the forms individual taxpayers attach to their tax returns (see the Appendix to this notice). For most of these forms, IRS has in the past obtained separate OMB approvals under unique OMB Control Numbers and separate burden estimates.

Since the ITBM does not estimate burden on a form-by-form basis, IRS is no longer able to provide burden estimates for each tax form used by individuals. The ITBM estimates the aggregate burden imposed on individual taxpayers, based upon their tax-related characteristics and activities. IRS therefore will seek OMB approval of all 121 individual tax forms as a single "collection of information." The aggregate burden of these tax forms will be accounted for under OMB Control Number 1545-0074, which is currently assigned to Form 1040 and its schedules. OMB Control Number 1545-0074 will be displayed on all individual tax forms and other information collections. As a result of this change, burden estimates for individual taxpayers will now be displayed differently in PRA Notices on tax forms and other information collections, and in Federal Register notices. This new way of displaying burden is presented below under the heading "Proposed PRA Submission to OMB." Since 74 of the 121 forms used by individual taxpayers are also used by corporations, partnerships, and other kinds of taxpayers, there will be a transition period during which IRS will report different burden estimates for individual taxpayers and for other taxpayers using the same forms. For those forms used by both individual and other taxpayers, IRS will display two OMB Control Numbers (1545-0074 and the OMB Control Numbers currently assigned to these forms) and provide two burden estimates. The burden estimates for individual taxpayers will be reported and accounted for as described in this notice. The burden estimates for other users of these forms will be determined under existing methodology based on form length and complexity.

New Burden Model

Data from the new ITBM revises the estimates of the levels of burden experienced by individual taxpayers when complying with the Federal tax laws. It replaces the earlier burden measurement developed in the mid-1980s. Since that time, improved technology and modeling sophistication have enabled the IRS to improve the burden estimates. The new model provides taxpayers and the IRS with a more comprehensive understanding of the current levels of taxpayer burden. It reflects major changes over the past two decades in the way taxpayers prepare and file their returns. The new ITBM also represents a substantial step forward in the IRS' ability to assess likely impacts of administrative and legislative changes on individual taxpayers.

The ITBM's approach to measuring burden focuses on the characteristics and activities of individual taxpayers rather than the forms they use.<sup>1</sup> Key determinants of taxpayer burden in the model are the way the taxpayer prepares the return (e.g., with software or paid preparer) and the taxpayer's activities, such as recordkeeping and tax planning. In contrast, the previous estimates primarily focused on the length and complexity of each tax form. The changes between the old and new burden estimates are due to the improved ability of the new methodology to measure burden and the expanded scope of what is measured. These changes create a one-time shift in the estimate of burden levels that reflects the better measurement of the new model. The differences in estimates between the models do not reflect any change in the actual burden experienced by taxpayers. Comparisons should not be made between these and the earlier published estimates, because the models measure burden in different ways.

Methodology

Burden is defined as the time and out-of-pocket costs incurred by taxpayers to comply with the Federal tax system. For the first time, the time expended and the out-of-pocket costs are estimated separately. The new methodology distinguishes among preparation methods, taxpayer activities, types of individual taxpayer, filing methods, and income levels. Indicators of complexity in tax laws as reflected in tax forms and instructions are incorporated in the model.

The new model follows IRS' classification of taxpayer types: individual taxpayers are taxpayers who file any type of Form 1040. "Self-Employed" taxpayers are individual taxpayers who file a Form 1040 and a Schedule C, C-EZ, E, or F, or Form 2106. All other individual taxpayers using a Form 1040 are "Wage and Investment" taxpayers. The taxpayer's choice of preparation method is identified as a major factor influencing burden levels. The preparation methods are:

- Self-prepared without software
- Self-prepared with software
- Used a paid tax preparer

The separate types of taxpayer activities measured in the model are:

- Recordkeeping
- Form completion
- Form submission (electronic and paper)
- Tax planning
- Use of services (IRS and paid professional)
- Gathering tax materials

Taxpayer Burden Estimates

Tables 1, 2, and 3 show the burden model estimates. In tax year 2003 the burden of all individual taxpayers filing Forms 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ averaged about 23 hours per return filed, or a total of more than 3 billion hours. Similarly, the average out-of-pocket taxpayer costs were estimated to be $179 per return filed or a total of $23.4 billion. Including associated forms and schedules, taxpayers filing Form 1040 had an average burden of about 30 hours, taxpayers filing Form 1040A averaged about 9 hours, and those filing 1040 EZ averaged about 7 hours.

The data shown are the best estimates from tax returns filed for 2003 currently available as of June 27, 2005. The estimates are subject to change as new forms and data become available. Estimates for combinations of major forms and schedules commonly used will be available and the most up-to-date estimates and supplementary information can be found on the IRS Web site: <http://www.irs.gov>.
