Notes from the Pastor's Chair

Advent invites people into four weeks of deep reflection on the 'advent' or 'arrival' of God in Jesus, as well as his promised return. The word 'advent' comes from the Latin adventus, which is about a 'coming' or 'arrival'. The Latin translation of the New Testament uses adventus to describe God the Son's arrival on Earth, born as Jesus of Nazareth in the 1st century C.E. Celebrating Advent takes the form of focused prayer, the reading of scripture, and the lighting of candles in wreaths and hidden treasures in calendars.

Advent traditions vary, but they all share a heightened anticipation for God's arrival. It's more than a countdown to Christmas; Advent embraces the way of Jesus and encourages hopeful waiting, courageous peace-making, resilient joy, and self-giving love in our still-suffering world.

The season of Advent culminates in the celebration of Jesus' birth. It reminds us that we're living during the time between Jesus' first and second advents, leading us to lament the hardships we experience in a still-broken world, while also forming us into people who wait with longing for the renewed world to come. Each week of Advent focuses on a particular biblical theme. They are Hope, Peace, Joy, and Love

Hope.

As a season of reflection and contemplation, Advent invites us to imagine a different kind of hope, rooted in the unchanging nature of God and God's promise to restore every part of creation. Advent hope doesn't minimize pain or difficulty, nor does it assume things will soon get better. Instead, it faces the darkness with courage. It chooses to trust that God's promises will come to pass, guaranteed by God's long-proven, faithful character.

In the Hebrew Bible, the words most often used for hope—qavah and yakhal—are also translated as "wait." To hope in God means to wait with patient expectation, trusting that God will fulfill the promises. This waiting leans forward, anticipating the day when Jesus will return to make all things new. Such hope empowers people to persevere, to act justly, and to serve others as a sign of the restoration that will arrive through Jesus.

Peace

The kind of peace envisioned during Advent comes not through military power or avoidance of reality but through the way of Jesus. He brings true peace by honestly addressing and working to heal the deeper sources of division, such as fear and pride, that compel people to violence. Jesus reconciles all things to himself, offering healing and restoration through love and forgiveness.

As Jesus continues his work of bringing real, lasting peace throughout the Earth, we can participate in that work by living as peacemakers. We join with Jesus by embracing his non-violent way of forgiveness, caring for our neighbors, and extending generous love toward all people.

Joy

We often think of joy as an experience of happiness arising from favorable circumstances: a stroke of good luck, a personal achievement, or a long-held desire finally being satisfied. But when joy depends on circumstances, it fades fast when the good times end.

Advent joy is not about general happiness stemming from good times. It's a deep sense of safety and freedom people feel because of God's loving character, which remains constant through all circumstances, and because God can ultimately be trusted to bless and heal creation as promised. Like the joy a friend's presence brings on good days and bad, we experience joy as God walks with us through the fluctuations of life's positive and painful circumstances.

In the Bible, people express joy both when God delivers them from oppression and while still in the midst of exile, persecution, and pain. As people remember God's loving, rescuing actions throughout history, they wait in joyful hope for God to act in the future, even when that waiting requires patient suffering.

This kind of joy is about being united with the God who walks with us and trusting that God will one day wipe away every tear. It looks to the future but also takes root in our present reality. The season of Advent invites us to experience joy not because everything is perfect but because God is with us and God's joy is already breaking into the world.

Love

Love is often seen as a force beyond our control, something people fall in or out of. Or it may seem like something satisfying that we can achieve, driving us to chase affection through relationships or status. "Love is all you need," they say, because it's the path to self-fulfillment.

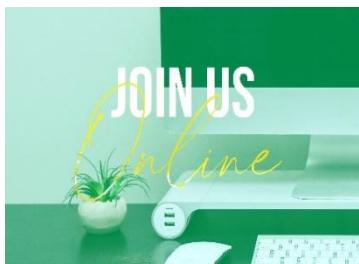

But something is missing from that picture of love. The Bible invites us to see a kind of love that's neither accidental nor driven by desire for self-fulfillment. Instead, it involves a steady commitment to care for the well-being of others—never self-seeking, always self-giving—even when it costs us.

Jesus shows this kind of love when he gives his life for friends and enemies alike. Dying on a cross, with his killers still laughing at him, Jesus cares for their well-being as he prays for their forgiveness. Living with this kind of love does not mean ignoring our own needs or devaluing ourselves. After all, Jesus says, "Love your neighbor as yourself." But it means choosing to see all people as living miracles of God, each made in God's image and deeply loved by God.

The Advent season leads us to reflect on the future God is bringing, where every interaction will be shaped and compelled by love. Even more, it invites us to live into that coming world right now by loving others the way Jesus does. As we give of ourselves to care for both friends and enemies, we demonstrate the love that Jesus shows to all people.

Celebrating Advent also means living into it by practicing a generous way of love and care for our neighbor as we partner with Jesus to bring peace on Earth.

Pastor Heather

RECYCLING OPPORTUNITY

Do you have ink cartridges lying around? Calvary has a box in the gathering pew for the recycling of used ink cartridges. They take all types except the long toner cartridges from larger printers. St. Paul members if you would like to bring yours in to be recycled arrangements can be made to get them over to Calvary. The more we recycle the less that end up in the landfill!

It's easy to buy cards and support this ongoing St. Paul fundraiser. Stop by the table next to the office before worship. Scrip gift cards are a practical, easy way to give a little extra to St. Paul while shopping for items you already need!
