Windshield Repair Protection

A small chip in a windshield can quickly become a big problem.

Windshield repair can save money — and help avoid time and hassle

Windshield Repair is a permanent process that removes air from the break and fills it with a curable resin. Small cracks, stars or chips up to 6" in length on the front windshield caused by road hazards, that are repairable through an existing Windshield Repair process, are all covered. This process bonds the glass together and restores strength to the windshield while improving the break's appearance and usually prevents the break from spreading.
