

Word for Pastors David & Jill Crammer
Given by Scott Webb, May 17th, 2015

The brakes are coming off and you're about to go to another level, take another step; a quantum leap! You're almost there. You're building, you're almost in it.

The anointing is on you to gather. And it flows down from you to all that hook up with you. Gathering is God's job. Being a witness is our job. But the gathering is God's job. And God will gather in not just people but the resources. He'll gather in the help. He'll gather in everything you need, as you contend for greatness.

The natural pastor's heart loves the individual church member more than he loves himself. A true pastor knows the state of his flock and cares. And it's not just about numbers, it's about the individual face because he's God's representative there. And a pastor, a real pastor has to deal with when somebody leaves the church, sometimes it's hard not to take it personally. There are some people that come to your church that need to leave because what they would add would not compensate for what they would take away.

And so the anointing to gather is on you and it's on those who hook up with you and it's gonna come from you. It's gonna come from the top down. If God's dealing for the direction for the church, He's not going to deal with the nursery director, He's going to deal with the captain of the ship. And all those who hook up with you will partake of that gathering anointing and they too will gather increase and will gather the increase and will gather the help that they need in their individual lives. So strive for greatness, contend for greatness, contend for unity and everyone here keep division out at all cost. It's not worth the cost. It's not worth the price you have to pay. God is raising up a strong church here. I can feel it. I can sense it. There is greatness here and it's just going to increase. Glory to God!

So maintain that unity and realize like TD Jakes said "Pastoring a church is like driving a bus. There's gonna be people getting on the bus and there's gonna be people getting off the bus. You just keep driving that bus."

And everybody that hooks up with you and everybody that hooks up with the vision of the church will partake of that same greatness in his or her individual life in business and family; everything they're associated with.

Everybody say this out loud, "I love and I cherish the vision of this church." Glory to God. There's a vision here, that your Pastors communicate. I've added something to it today, just not a specific but an understanding of what is going to take place in this place. And because of that unity and the strength is growing, your building is just that close. You're gonna see it. You're gonna see it this year in Jesus' Name. 2015 is the year of moving for the church.
