Led by Luminelle, in collaboration with LPM, we're delighted to invite members of the Parkinson's community to an event to celebrate the opening of our exhibition at Blackburn Central Library. Who we are now, and then... is a specially curated exhibition sharing perspectives on identity from the lives of dancers with Parkinson's.

This free event includes an opportunity to view an exhibition of photography and visual artwork and a film screening of a place we go together... inspired by and featuring the lives of people living with Parkinson's. You can take part in a live dance session within the library and meet members of the creative team. Suitable for any participant regardless of age or experience. Refreshments included.
