College and Seminary

To Whom It May Concern

We, the International Reformed University and Seminary (IRUS) located in Los Angeles, California, is accredited by the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE). ABHE is a national institutional accrediting agency recognized by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation (CHEA) and the U.S. Department of Education. IRUS is a private, nonprofit, public benefit institution licensed to operate by the Bureau for Private Postsecondary Education (BPPE) of the State of California.

As the oldest Korean-American theological institution in America we count it an honor to verify that we accept students and the transfer of credits from Southern Reformed Theological College and Seminary (SRTCS) located in Houston, Texas.

Southern Reformed has a long established reputation of good scholarship and a heart for serving ethnic minorities of America. We consider it a blessing to establish this tie with Southern Reformed and look forward to interacting actively both academically and institutionally for many years to come.

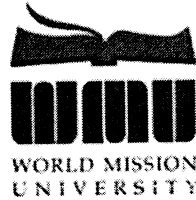

Sincerely,

Rev. Kwang Lee, Ph.D.
Academic Dean

AMERICA EVANGELICAL UNIVERSITY

August 5, 2015

To Whom It May Concern:

The America Evangelical University (AEU, Los Angeles, CA) has received full accreditation by the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE). Since June of 2013, AEU has been authorized to issue I-20 to international students by the U.S. Government. On June, 2014, AEU has received associate membership by the Association of Theological Schools (ATS).

AEU has cooperated closely with Southern Reformed Theological College and Seminary (SRTCS). As AEU recognizes the academic standing of SRTCS from 2008, the strong academic preparation of its excellent faculty, site president Dr. John H. Kim and visiting professor Dr. Chung K. Lee, Dr. Young K. Lee, Rev. Shin K. Ahn D. Miss. candidate of SRTCS LA works with AEU as a Professor and founder former President, Dean, Director of Administration, and the school's focus on providing quality education to underserved populations, our graduate school can accept students into our graduate programs from SRTCS under the ATS provision that allows for up to 15% of students in any academic program to enroll without bachelors' degrees or its equivalent provided that they demonstrate readiness through other assessment processes. Therefore, we do accept credits from Southern Reformed Theological College and Seminary as allowed for by our accrediting association.

Sincerely,

Board of Trustee Chair

To Whom It May Concern:

The Houston Graduate School of Theology (HGST) is fully accredited by the Commission on Accrediting ("Commission") of the Association of Theological Schools in the United States and Canada ("ATS"). The Commission is recognized by the United States Secretary of Education and by the Council for Higher Education Accreditation.

HGST has worked closely with Southern Reformed Theological College and Seminary (SRTCS). In 2009 a joint venture was developed to help both institutions better reach the needs of Korean-American and Korean students. Recently, the two schools also signed a MOU to facilitate the use of the HGST library by SRTCS students. As HGST recognizes the academic standing of SRTCS, the strong academic preparation of its faculty, and the school's focus on providing quality education to underserved populations, our graduate school can accept students into our graduate programs from SRTCS under the ATS provision that allows for up to 15% of students in any academic program to enroll without bachelors' degrees or its equivalent provided that they demonstrate readiness through other assessment processes. Therefore, we do accept credits from Southern Reformed Theological College and Seminary as allowed for by our accrediting association.

Sincerely,

Kent Eaton, PhD
