

LIBRARY COLLECTION POLICY

Southern Reformed College & Seminary

I. Introduction

A. Mission Statement

The goal of the Southern Reformed College & Seminary library is to select, maintain, and provide to our students, faculty and staff access to information resources, study space, reference assistance, and bibliographic instruction which support the mission<sup>1</sup> of SRCS and which support the curricula of the degree plans at SRCS.

B. Purpose of this Policy

The purpose of this policy is to guide evaluation and selection of resources to be included in the library collection, which serves our primary users, SRCS faculty and students. It also provides guidance for de-selection (weeding) of the collection. In addition, this policy assists in guiding long-term collection development. Members of the SRCS Faculty Library Committee are regularly consulted as to decisions affecting the library and its collection. Final decisions as to selection and de-selection of resources, however, rest with the Academic Dean in consultation with the Library Director in the application of this policy. This policy shall be reviewed every two years.

C. Access

The SRCS library provides access by purchasing resources (both print and electronic), maintaining an on-site Interlibrary Loan program through the Houston Graduate School of Theology and the College of Biblical Studies libraries, and encouraging students and faculty to access TexShare databases, which are available to all Texas residents who hold a valid Texas public library card. In addition, SRCS students and faculty are encouraged to take advantage of Interlibrary Loan programs at their local public library branch for obtaining print items which the SRCS Library does not own. SRCS faculty and students may access (on-site only) the resources of the following theological/religion libraries: Cardinal Beran Library at the University of St. Thomas, Library of the Presbytery of the New Covenant, and the Lanier Theological Library. Electronic theological books, through the eBook Lending Program, can be accessed via American Theological Library Association (ATLA), of which SRCS is an institutional member. SRCS alumni and pastors in the community are welcome to use the SRCS library, and may obtain check-out privileges by joining the Friends of the SRCS Library with no annual membership fee.

II. General Statements

A. Current and retrospective acquisitions

1. Current acquisitions: The library's main focus of current acquisitions consists of those materials which support the SRCS course offerings. Specifically, for those course materials which the Library does not already own, the library purchases and places on reserve a copy of every required textbook for each course offered during a given term, and as many of the recommended texts as the budget allows.

2. Retrospective acquisitions: Professor-supplied subject bibliographies and requests as well as bibliographies from other seminaries are consulted when addressing areas of the collection that need strengthening and updating. The library places a priority on completing select sets of Bible commentaries directed at a scholarly, seminary-level readership.

B. Resource Types

1. Books: The core of the SRC library collection consists of printed books, including reference books and general circulation books (hardback and paperback). Also included in this grouping are bound copies of SRCS doctoral projects.

a. Faculty author: The library also collects items including books or parts thereof that are written by members of the SRCS faculty. Such items are often donated but may be purchased.

b. Alumnus author: The library also includes books or parts thereof that are written by SRCS alumni. Such items are often donated but may be purchased.

2. Periodicals: The library provides access to journals primarily through electronic journals databases such as ATLASerials (available to SRCS students by means of a username and password) and TexShare databases (available to all public library card holders). The library also maintains a small collection of Korean and English print journals that are requested by subject faculty are considered if the budget allows.

3. Theses/Doctoral Projects: The library receives one bound copy of each doctoral project produced at SRCS. Those projects are shelved in the Reference collection

4. Music: The library does not currently collect printed music or scores, though a small representative collection of hymnals is maintained.

5. Maps: The library does not collect maps, with the exception of recently published atlases, especially of biblical lands.

6. Children's Materials: The library does not purchase materials designed for use by children.

C. Languages

1. Korean & English: English and Korean language materials are the major focus of the library collection.

2. Biblical Languages: Materials which assist in the learning of biblical languages (biblical Greek and Hebrew) are collected.

3. Other languages:

a. Spanish: Spanish translations of select works important to seminary education are collected. Spanish language works of general history, geography, or literature are not retained.

b. Other modern foreign languages: materials and translations of works in other modern foreign languages are not retained in the library, with the exception of a small collection of foreign language dictionaries in the reference section.

D. Formats

1. Print: Print resources are the primary format collected by the SRCS library. In many cases, due to cost savings, paperback books are preferred over hardback. Occasionally, used books in very good condition may be ordered if they offer significant savings.

2. Electronic: In general, if a requested book title is available in the current SRCS library e-book collection, unless specifically requested by the professor, a print copy of the book may not be purchased. The library makes a special effort to purchase reasonably priced, subject sets of e-books, such as those periodically offered by the Christian Library Consortium and various other subject related e-book providers.

Public Domain e-books: Most books published prior to 1923, or those otherwise not covered by the U.S. Copyright Law, are freely available in full-text from an online resource such as Google Books, Project Gutenberg or HathiTrust. The catalog record will include an Internet link enabling a patron to read or download that item directly from our online public catalog (OPAC).

3. E-book Reader format: The SRCS library purchases e-books through Atla's eBook Lending Program.

E. Donations

Donations of materials to the library will be added to our collection inasmuch as they fit within the collection guidelines of this document. Items that are water damaged, in poor repair, heavily marked, or show evidence of mold will not be retained. Donated books whose contents are freely available in the public domain will not normally be retained. Donors will receive a letter from the Director confirming the number of items donated. They will also receive a tax receipt letter from the CFO. Materials published within the past ten years are most preferred. Materials that are not added to the collection will be discarded according to the policy below.

F. Collection Maintenance

1. Weeding: Weeding, or de-selection, is an important part of the library's collection development plan. Space limitations demand an active and ongoing program of weeding. De-selection is subject to the same principles that apply to the selection of materials, as noted in this document. Furthermore, materials that fall outside the library's collecting depth indicators (Appendix 2) are subject to de-selection. Print journals which are available full-text on ATLASerials will not normally be retained. To summarize, weeding will take place with the following in mind:

- a. For time-sensitive materials, the item's contents are outdated.
- b. Duplicate copies of a formerly heavily used item are no longer needed.
- c. Comparable material exists in more recently published item.
- d. The item is in poor condition and does not warrant replacement.
- e. The item is of doubtful value when compared with other more substantive items on a topic.
- f. The library will prefer to retain the hardback copy of a book in cases where the library owns two copies, and one is a paperback, unless the paperback is a later edition.

Every 3-5 years, subject faculty will be invited to assess sections of the library's collection which pertain to their area(s) of expertise, with an eye towards weeding those materials that the professor designates. Prior editions of a work may be kept if a faculty person indicates that there is warrant for its retention.

2. Duplicate copies: If an item demonstrates comparatively heavy usage (discernible via a library system check), a second copy may be added to the collection, obtained either by library donation or purchase.

3. Discarding: After weeded materials are deleted from the library system, select items may first be offered to faculty. Remaining books are placed on the library "Free Books" shelf. Academic books that remain on the free shelf for more than a couple of weeks are donated to the used book agents. Discarded pamphlets, journals/magazines and music materials, if not taken, will be placed in the recycle box. Non-academic materials which remain on the “Free Books” shelf may be donated to Goodwill.

4. Preservation: Every effort is made to maintain library materials in the best possible condition. Simple in-house repairs are accomplished for slightly damaged library materials. Plastic covers are added to hardback books for which high use is anticipated, e.g. commentaries. Pamphlets are enclosed in a reinforced pamphlet binding. The Kapco system is implemented in order to extend the life of paperback books. More complicated repairs will usually necessitate the purchase of a replacement item. Rare books do not circulate and are kept in a dark, locked room.

G. Special Collections

Currently, there are no specially collections housed at SRCS library.

H. Subjects or Areas Intentionally Not Collected

The SRCS Library does not collect materials which are unrelated to seminary, such as popular or literary fiction in any language, poetry, music scores, general biographies, government documents, technical manuals, phonograph recordings, and audio or VHS tapes. Neither does the Library collect general magazines and issues of journals which are available full-text via ATLASerials database or, as in the case of counseling resources, via TexShare databases. Information concerning collection intensity by topic is included in Appendix 2 of this document.

I. Selectors Responsible for Collection

Though the Director has primary responsibility for selecting materials for the SRCS library, this is accomplished in concert with faculty, and is driven primarily by course offerings and budget constraints. Faculty and student material requests are welcome, however, at any time during the year.

III. Collection Evaluation Methods

The SRCS library collection undergoes periodic evaluation based on the following methods:

- A. Collection-Centered Technique: Every 3-5 years the faculty subject specialists will be asked to submit subject bibliographies which library staff will check against library holdings, making note of those titles which should be purchased. Library staff will also check our holdings against the annual Denver Seminary Old and New Testament Exegesis Bibliographies. Purchases will be made as the budget allows and prioritized by upcoming course offerings. In this way each subject area will have its turn in obtaining updated resources.
- B. Quantitative Measures: In order to assist with long range planning as to updating sections of the library collection and assessing usage, library system reports can be run which indicate the number of books within a Dewey classification range, their average age (publication date) and the number of times items within a specific classification or sub-classification have been checked out.
