

Curt Blog

NeoProg Politics, Philosophy, and Culture

About Me

NAME: CURT LOCATION: NORTH HOLLYWOOD, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES

honest, intelligent, dependable and a nice guy

View my complete profile

Recent posts

NEOPROG

BACK UP

The W Gang

Vote Fixing

This Old Man - parody

ILLECTION REFLECTION

Angry W.A.S.P.

The Pledge

Curt Reply \(intro\)

COLINOSCOPY

Archives

August 2004

November 2004

January 2005

July 2005

January 2006

November 2009

March 2010

Current Posts

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 2009

BACK UP

Is it safe? The W Bush years were dark days indeed. We actually cannot yet say our constitution will survive them intact. As the economy melts down due to predatory capitalism, the Class War is raging more intensely than ever. The Democrat's super-majority that We voters elected in 2006 and 2008 are doing their level best to protect the interests of the wealthiest 1% and the multinational corporations. Obama pursues the lowest common "bipartisan" denominator and shows little sign of doing anything progressive.

Still, the Dems are less into fascist authoritarianism - especially since the Repugs in DC now range from the Far Right to Wingnut World - so the political atmosphere does feel a bit less hostile to free speech and other Constitutional niceties. During the last four years, I have been writing protest songs and now it is also time to get back up on this blog to post my ideas.

Looking back at what I wrote in 2004 and 2005, I think all my main ideas still stand. I kinda predicted that an event like the 2004 Tsunami could turn the whole political scene completely around and then Katrina hit in 2005 and did just that. However, my prediction of a Bush/Cheney impeachment never happened - I was so sure it would - and John McCain totally sold his soul to be a presidential candidate and lost my respect with his VP pick.

I did achieve my main goal with the blog - the neocons did not fool me with their lies. I was totally against the Iraq invasion and the USA Patriot Act (plus the Wall Street Bailouts) from the very beginning. On this blog, only the truth can set you free and only reality based ideas and essays will be posted.

Just for fun, I posted a little fantasy spoof play I wrote in 2004 leading up to the election.

I never posted it then, but it might be worth a chuckle in retrospect.

curtblog - November 30, 2009

posted by curt | 11:24 AM | 0 comments

The W Gang

Welcome to the Fictional World of

The W GANG

Cast of Characters:

Commander Howdy - our fearless leader

Uncle Scrooge - second / In command

SuperGeek - minister of politics

Secretary Dumstruk - defender of the realm

TrollDoll - U.S. Attorney General

With Supporting Players:

Secretary Fetchwell - State Depart/ meant

Tanker Girl - National Security Apologist

Roach Man - House Exterminator

Senator Puppy - Majority Leader

Justice Scabover - US Supreme Court

Director Blowchunks - C.I.A.

Count Undead - neocon wiseguy

Deputy Hawkchicz - neocon wiseguy

Pastor Rapture - fundamentalist Christian Crusador

Kenny Boy - oligarch

Unseen Hands - the powers that really be newSService - early 2004:

In his Rape of the Union speech, Commander Howdy proclaimed Iraq and the Economy were going real great and we were gonna Win and cut the budget deficit in half and make his tax cuts permanent and create millions of jobs and let in even more millions of low wage immigrants and make the world a democracy and ammend our Constitution to guarantee some people cannot be equal to the rest. Proclaiming proudly that no one could doubt America's word now but we will never seek a permission slip to Act and steroids are bad and The USA Patriot Act is good and Imminent Activities were found in Iraq and he got most of the words out in pretty much the right order.

....we join our fearless leader in the White House at a strategy meeting:

Howdy: Hey that was pretty good speechifying stuff, huh!

SuperGeek: Yes sir, a real page-turner. No major gaffes so a good start to the campaign.

Howdy: How come we had to axe that Trip to Mars idea. It would be fun to play like a spaceman in a spacesuit for photro-ops and campaign ads.

SuperGeek: Sir, I knew that one wouldn't play out too well in the polls at first, but I wanted to introduce the idea to the Commoners. After the re-election we can sell them on a story that it is a dire necessesity for our National Security to unilaterally control the high ground on the global terrorist battlefield - space.

Uncle Scrooge: The Defense contracts potential for weapons in space is truly exponential, and I am preparing some secret no bid no limit contracts to award Hellaburden for preliminary implementation.

Howdy: Didn't we just give them some juicy contracts?

Uncle Scrooge: Commander! Don't ever lose sight of the prime directive - accumulating wealth and power. When we gain re-election we will control all of the contracts, all of the resources and all of the money. It will be our due!

Howdy: I guess you're right. What was I thinking?

SuperGeek: That WMD thing is getting to be a problem - people keep asking why there are none. Right now we are blaming the previous Administration, then we can blame the Intelligence People while we engineer media distractions and just delay all the investigations until after the re-election.

Howdy: And we get to appoint the committees that will investigate us - politics is cool!

Secretary Dumstruk: Then next year we can claim new intelligence proves that the WMD was moved to Syria and they might give some of it to terrorists so it is essential for our National Security that we invade and occupy that country too.

Uncle Scrooge: I like that - control of two Oil countries with one big lie. Next up, Iran. Stick to the story - that in FACT we will find WMD if we just keep on looking.

TrollDoll: Commander, If anybody disagrees with the Official Line we will call them a Traitor. If anyone protests in public we have paramilitary SWAT teams trained to bring them under control. Our enhanced interpretation of the Patriot Act has been a godsend for enforcing our crusade to keep the country safe and lucrative for Rich Elite White Republican Christian Heterosexual Males.

Howdy: God told me I should be a War President !

SuperGeek: The Dummocrats have been relatively quiet about about going into Iraq because they bought into it. They are sure to complain loudly from here on about further adventures. A major offensive in Afghanistan this Spring and some local events like Haiti will serve as distractions during the re-election campaign. Then we can unleash our October Surprises.

Howdy: Cool - I like surprises! What are they?

SuperGeek: Sir, we have several options depending on how the campaign is going. Of course, we will do whatever it takes to win. If we get lucky, politically speaking that is, another major terrorist attack on American soil would cause a panic of fear that we could manipulate again to our political advantage. As a last resort, if it looks like we might lose, we could authorize an Event, declare a National Emergency, invoke Martial Law and cancel the elections. If it looks like even money, we could put Saddam on "trial" and "capture" Osama.

Howdy: That could be tricky, we all know they both know too much. Maybe a last minute video from the boogeycaveman would be enough to do the trick - I don't plan on losing this election. Hey, I thought we wired up all those new electronic voting machines,

so what's the difference?

SuperGeek: Sir, the machines will certainly help, but they are no guarantee. The winning Strategy is complex and fluid. To successfully mold the electorate, Important
Events must be timed to net maximum PR benefits with minimal bad press.
Speaking of re-election, those Dumnacrats keep bringing up that little matter about you skipping out on your last couple years of National Guard service during Vietnam. This one is getting harder to keep scrubbed - what with soldiers dying every day in Iraq - It's just plain negative PR. Politically speaking, it would have been much better if you had just put your time in back then. Now it looks like their candidate will be a war hero - Lt.
Beanstalk -
we may need to do some damage control.

Howdy: I was doing damage control by avoiding drug tests - the military didn't give us GO pills back then like they do now. I was young and irresponsible and rich - and there were a lot of wild parties and free lovin' going on those days.
Why give that up when Poppy can fix things?

Uncle Scrooge: Besides, we all had other priorities. Just dig up enough documents and spin them until the Commoners forget about it. I will give a call to our Mediacorp associates to get some PR exposure. Those guys really came through making Dr. Angry look bad. He was one scary candidate - what with all that dangerous talk about real reforms. We need to win at all costs - then get on with consolidating control of power and money - it's our due!

Secretary Dumstruk: Commander, I can report to you we need another four years to secure political and economic control over the Oil rich regions necessary to fuel our mission of permanent American global dominance.

TrollDoll: Absolutely! We need four more years to permanently establish the progress we have made to remake America in our image - a ReConstitution. We must accomplish the missions of Patriot Act 2 and 3, abortion homicide, one Right

political party, no public dissent and Corporations are People. To this America

I pledge my allegiance under (an angry) God. With your leave Commander, I should go now in order to continue my vigilant watch on suspicious citizens.

Howdy: OK, and don't forget to plug that pesky CIA Agent Leak problem - bye bye .

Wow, that was a close one. For a minute there, I thought he was going to sing
one of his patriotic songs.

SuperGeek: Yes sir. The best thing we can do now is to show no concern and just submit to all the questions. We can fall back on the populist persona we have spent so many years sculpting that has always served us well when stonewalling. Regardless, we will have 9 months, the Bully Pulpit, $250 million, and dominant control of the major media outlets with which to sway
the Commoners our way.

Howdy: Yeah, and I' ll be a very compassionate campaigner.

newSService:

Commander Howdy appeared That Sunday on Mete the Press to face some pretty hard questions and soft followups. He said that even though no paperwork exists proving he reported to the Alabama National Guard in 1972, and he does not remember what he did or who he met there, but he is very proud that he remembers being there. Besides, Poppy got him an Honorable Discharge so end of story. To assure everyone that their Commander knows what's going on in the world, he said that the US Economy was improving faster then at any time in the last 20 years and all of his decisions were made with War on his mind and he won't change philosophy or point of view and
- yes - Iraq was worth the death of well over 500 US soldiers because of an international Shadowy Terrorist Network.

....we rejoin our fearless leader the next day with all his advisors in the White House:

Howdy: How'd I do in the polls?

SuperGeek: Sir, the numbers are in free-fall, but it is nothing we can't overcome by November.

TrollDoll: Commander, we must stop any idea of Social Democracy or any pursuits of happiness that are not condoned by the Angelakill Holy Counsel. We are using the handy Homeland Security Agency to keep tabs on our critics and other immoral people. We are snooping into computers everywhere - including the Senate and UN. We are secretly compiling lists of those Commoners who get abortions or engage in deviant sex or take non-corporate-approved drugs so that we can execute them someday when we get the right Judges in place. We will crush all citizen terrorist protestors! We will execute all foreign terrorists! I am getting inspired enough to write a new patriotic song!

Howdy: Hey , that's great - just don't bust a gut!. And keep up the good work - I guess.
Hey Geekster, we aren't gonna lose the re-election are we? Cause if we do, you won't be able to impress the girls anymore - it will be like it was before you hooked up with me.

SuperGeek: No need to worry Sir. I am confident that our campaign strategy will lead to victory as the events unfold. As long as we keep our base happy we can just confuse and convert enough of the remaining voters to come within ballot box stuffing range. For example, we are now developing a sordid storyline involving Lt. Beanstalk with Hanoi Jane and an illegitimate child that later grew up to be a terrorist sympathizer. If the Dramacrats nominate JonBoy for VP we can spread a rumor that he was Saddam's private trial lawyer. For now, the best thing we can do is change the subject. We must distract attention from WMD intelligence and the other multiple investigations to how utterly immoral the Damnacrats are. They are Traitors, Communists, Atheists and Perverts who want to destroy sacred American traditions like marriage - which we will say is a threat to The US Constitution and the Ten Commandments. It works every time. In order to insure the perception of balance, however, I suggest we bring in the hired help and get their take on the political situation.

Secretary Dumstruk: We have no real need of their opinions. They are simply not fully with The Program, and we don't need them for cover anymore. If the re-election starts to get dicey, we can just invade another country - like Iran or China or Cuba or wherever. Everybody will fall in line, like always, and we can count on the MediaCorps to preach our message.

Howdy: I think we should take affirmative action and let the hired help earn their keep.

Hello folks. Come on in and let's hear your reports.

Secretary Fetchwell: Yes Sir, Commander. As ordered, I told everyone everywhere that Saddam had no intention not to have the intention to have WMD intentionally, but that does not seem to satisfy some of them - especially since WMD apparently were never there, so they keep asking questions.

Secretary Dumstruk: Mm-hmm. It--my view of--of the situation was that he--he had-- we--we believe, the best intelligence that we had and other countries had and that--that we believed and we still do not know-- we will know. Look, we had to get in there fast while we still had the chance. We certainly did not want to share the spoils with those Frenchies or anyone else. OK, I probably shouldn't have said that I knew EXACTLY where the WMD were, but I figured we would win the war, so who would care? The absence of evidence is not the evidence of absence.

Uncle Scrooge: Exactly right! The important thing was to get in there and cause such major damage and get into such a situation that guarantees The Contracts will keep on coming for years. There was no reason to have an Exit Strategy because we are never really planning to leave. We will build permanent military bases there to help insure control of the Oil and Water in the area for friendly generous corporations. This is pure Capitalism at it's most evolved - the most bang for the buck.

Secretary Fetchwell: But they keep saying we lied about the intelligence of imminence.

Howdy: That depends on what the definition of imminence is is.

TankerGirl: Mr. Commander, Top Secret Intelligence reveals the growing long term threat posed by the Soviet Union and their Massive Military Machine to the very existence of the traditional American Dream. It may be necessary to increase our defense spending by hundreds of billions of dollars every year for many decades to come in order to counter this monolithic socialist challenge . If we do not take timely and decisive action we may someday soon face the specter of 20,000 Mushroom Clouds!

Secretary Dumstruk: Yeah, those were the good old days of the Soviet Union. They just don't make Big Scary Enemies like that anymore. They are supposedly our friends now - if you believe the Diplomats and Spooks that is.

TankerGirl: OK, so I forgot! I simply cannot be expected to read every single report and intelligence brief that comes through the White House. I am not under oath, but last I heard Iraq was the Right thing to do and everything is going great - and we are safer - much safer - though we know we are not safe yet.

Director Blowchunks: The CIA can definitively confirm that the Soviet Union is no longer viable as a threat to the security of the United States of America.. Furthermore, Saddam Insane used the WMD we gave him twenty years ago on Iran, so it was within the theoretical realm of possibility that he still had some in his possession before our Iraq Attack. Therefore it would be technically correct to say that Iraq "had" WMD. The fact that their potency would be expired by now is beside the point because that was not the question you asked. Slam Dunk!

Secretary Dumstruk: Of course he was a threat. He stood in the way of US control over The Middle East -via Iraq.

Director Blowchunks: OK, Mission Accomplished. Just don't blame the Community.

Howdy: No problemo DiBlow - the Spooks is cool! Let's hear from the Congressionals.

Senator Puppy: My Commander and Reverant Leader, I am honored and blessed to be in your esteemed Presence and I pray to be of service to His Majesty the Leader of the Free World in the noble quest to someday become the Leader of the Whole World. No other person on Planet Earth could possibly so inspire The Good People to protect The Good Life we have all become so accustomed to and save us from the EvilDoers. As Senate Majority Leader, I hereby pledge to do all I can to deliver any legislation you require.

RoachMan: Don't worry about The House, we are With The Program. I exterminate any sign of dissent right away. You can count on us to deliver anything and everything you want and more. We have our methods - as was proved with the Medicare Drug Law - we can find a way. Ethics are a non- issue in The US House of Representatives. The only important thing is to win in November and consolidate more permanent power and control. The Project Agenda is within our grasp! Like I say to The Commoners, if you give me 60 Senators and a few more House Members and re-elect our fearless Commander then - you ain't seen nothin' yet!

Howdy: It sure would be easier if I were A Dictator.

SuperGeek: Getting the balance of power right between the three branches of Federal Government would be the next best thing to being a Dictator with the added advantage of maintaining the illusion of populist democracy. Don't forget, we need The Commoners to tax so we can pay for all this. It's great to know we can count on you boys in Congress, but things have gotten a little out of control with the Judicial side lately. We plan to take care of that problem in the second term, and I know you will confirm the Federal Judges we need to make our politics and our constituent's moral code permanent law.

Howdy: What do you think El Supremo, can I count on the Third Branch?

Justice Scabover: We got your back - quack quack!

Uncle Scrooge: Spoken like a future Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

KennyBoy (via secure video): Howdy Howdy! Sounds from here like you have got everything there in pretty good control. Of course you can count on us for maximum campaign support . All the major MegaCorps will be on board. We do not forget our friends, and you have helped us all immeasurably with The Trifecta - tax cuts for us ultra wealthy - a regulation free economic policy - and even profitable incentives to move our money and jobs off shore. What more could anyone ask? On a personal note, I certainly appreciate the fact that you have helped keep me away from any indictments for that little ENROT deal. While we are on the subject, can issue me a blanket Presidential Pardon on your last day - just in case?

Howdy: You got it friend. Hey Geekster, can I give myself a Presidential Pardon too?

SuperGeek: I will have to check into that Sir. Now let's hear from the Think Tank intellectuals.

Howdy: The CRAZIES are here! Bring It ON!

Count Undead: Mr Commander, my analysis of the situation is as follows - we are not proceeding rapidly enough with The Project of US Global Domination in this New American Century. We have not made significant progress with the destabilization of Iran and we should nuke North Korea. At the very least, we should have invaded Syria and Saudi Arabia by now.

Howdy: Hey, the Saudis are our good buddies and business partners. You guys said this Project stuff was supposed to be a cakewalk not a quagmire! What up?

Deputy Hawkchicz: Commander, the important thing was to get the military on the ground in Iraq to spread democracy. The various justifications for invading given to The Commoners were important only to the extent that they brought us support in Congress and the polls. WMD, mass graves, brutal dictator - all of the above - whatever works. The Commoners simply do not understand the complexities of international affairs like us wiseguy intellectual ideologues do. Strategically we needed to get our military out of Saudi Arabia and into Iraq - the country we have been demonizing and softening up for 12 years. Sadamn Insane made it easy to get away with because he actually was a bad guy. The boys over at the Office Of Odious Plans produced the "Intelligence Evidence" needed and the lines of communication in the media backed it up all the way. Sure it's been a bit of a mess, but it's mostly a success. I would argue that The Project has taken a huge step forward. We must use Iraq as the staging area to convert the whole world to pliable forms of democracy. This will make the US much safer and us much richer because - as everybody knows - democracys do not attack other democracys.

Howdy: Didn't we just invade Haiti and soon maybe Venezuela?

Deputy Hawkchicz: It doesn't apply to the US because - technically - we are not actually a democracy. We are a pluralistic constitutional republic.

Count Undead: We don't have the luxury of time to build a lot of democracys. The way to End Evil and rule the world is to crush every country or organization or population that stands in the way of The Project. We do not care if they love us, we only care if they fear us. We must control every area that contains oil reserves and other vital resources. We must kill every terrorist and, while we are at it, disappear the Palestinians. We must build military bases everywhere and surround Russia and China and India. The day will come when this "War on Terrorism" thing will run out of gas and we will need another Cold War enemy to help justify the cost of the Military Industrial Congressional Complex and our policies.

Uncle Scrooge: Yes, and China will be the perfect foil. Until then, the US can keep borrowing billions of dollars from them while buying cheap imports until The Bill comes due - at which time we will cancel the debts and portray China as The Yellow Communist Threat and accuse them of abusing worker and environmental safety. The US will have another Big Scary Enemy and The Contracts will keep on coming as far as the eye can see for Hellaburden and our other MegaCorp friends - what a great business model!

SuperGeek: Let's just hope the Money Boys keep the machine churning until then.
It's time for some Spiritual Enlightenment Commander.

Howdy: I don't have to go to church do I? Oh, hello your graciouassness. I need a little blessing to guarantee we win this election - just in case.

Pastor Rapture: Yes, bless you my son. You know you can count on me just like I can count on you to keep those faith based initiatives at the forefront of your efforts. We can sermonize on the evils of the dead fetus and the married homo and pray for your victory because only you can save us. It works every time.

Howdy: Yeah, that's always a good tactic. Well, it looks like everything is set and I'm gonna "win" another term. Let's gut Social Security and invade Iran!

Unseen Hands - Left: can they really win after the last three years?

Right: the Project is on schedule and can proceed another four years.

Left: but these guys are incompetent and the wingnuts are volitile.

Right: true enough - we may have to let the other side win in 2008.

the end?

posted by curt | 11:10 AM | 0 comments
