

RIO BERMEJO – ARGENTINA DORADO & CATFISH

Argentina offers, by far, the best fishing in South America, but has remained under the radar for most overseas anglers until the last decade, or so. Now it is accessible to allcomers, and we pride ourselves in being the only organization that offers the complete Argentine fishing experience, from the world's hardest fighting predator, to the world's largest purely freshwater fish, monster catfish, and the world's largest Chinook Salmon and Rainbow Trout.

For 2023/24 (May to October), we are offering an extensive and varied programme for Adventure Anglers in Argentina. All major species are covered, and you can look forward to a high standard of accommodation and meals. Conditions vary from laid back river locations to tough impenetrable country. At each of these locations we will guide you to the trophy fish of your choice.

GIANT SURUBI and TROPHY DORADO

Flowing through a sparsely populated area of Northern Argentina, the Rio Bermejo flows into the Rio Paraguay, and ultimately into the Rio Parana. This area is known as the Impenetrable Chaco, due to a preponderance of dense, thorny, scrub, and is home to a wide variety of wildlife.

Accommodation will be in a comfortable tented camp, next to the Impenetrable Chaco National Park, where the Tompkins Foundation is sponsoring an ambitious re-wilding program. Currently efforts are being made to re-establish Jaguar, Giant Armadillo, Chaco Peccary, and the Chaco Tortoise. Regular sightings of endangered wildlife are made in this area.

The river itself is notable for a large fish population, with trophy sized fish caught on a regular basis. This is true Adventure Fishing, with very little infrastructure. Meals will be provided by our chef from an Asado (Argentine pit barbeque), and the beer will be cold.
