

Colorado Infrastructure

Roads, bridges, rural internet connections...these are all key issues that are necessary to maintaining and enhancing our life.

- Maintenance is being done, but with our population growing at double digit rates, we need new roads, bridges and highway expansion. Adding a toll lane from Monument to Castle Rock is wrong. El Paso County residents have already approved a $25,000,000 payment to CDOT for this project. We shouldn't have to pay for it twice.
- Bridges and county roads: We need to pay for these with revenue reallocation.
- Rural internet investment is important. Colorado has many areas that simply don't have any high-speed internet connections. The major internet providers won't do this, being there isn't enough population to support the cost. Consequently, the Colorado Legislature needs to fund this so that everyone has equal access to this key resource.
