

Rose Heichelbech

Senior Digital Media Producer Rose has been writing and creating content for 12 Tomatoes since 2016. She made her first quiche at age 10 and has been baking and cooking ever since. She has a fondness for historical methods of food production and for vintage ceramics. Rose is also a photographer and artist who enjoys sewing in her spare time.

Michelle Phillips' Snacking Live on Ed Sullivan

The High Style of Mary Todd Lincoln

Snapshots of American Cities Then and Now

Famous Museum Renovating & Hoping Stolen Artwork Returned

How Arctic Explorers Survived in the Old Days

7 Wonderful Old Jalopies

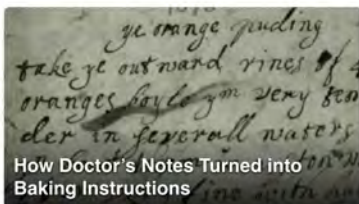

The Bold Men's Fashion of the 1940s

Decor Styles of the 1960s We Miss

The Bees That Inspired Napoleon

How Doctor's Notes Turned into Baking Instructions

The DeMarco Sisters Sing "On the Sunny Side of the Street"

Which Decade Had the Best and Worst Bridesmaid Dresses?

Hear the One of the Oldest Known Songs in the English Language

The Weird History of the Groom's Cake

Skin Crawling Photos of Early Dentistry

1953 Telephone Book Shows How Different Calling Was

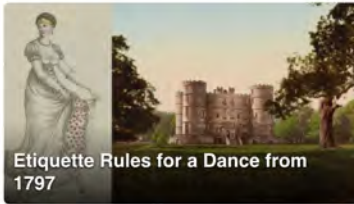

Could This Be the Inspiration for a Famous Downton Abbey Dress?

10 Stunning Art Deco Rooms We'd Love to Live In

Salvador Dalí on What's My Line?

Etiquette Rules for a Dance from 1797

Haunting Symbolism Behind a Death Mosaic Found at Pompeii

Centuries of History Found Behind the Kitchen Cabinets

6 Interesting Facts About Back to the Future

200 Years Later Jane Austen's Cause of Death Is Still Unknown

NEXT PAGE

Rose Heichelbech

Senior Digital Media Producer Rose has been writing and creating content for 12 Tomatoes since 2016. She made her first quiche at age 10 and has been baking and cooking ever since. She has a fondness for historical methods of food production and for vintage ceramics. Rose is also a photographer and artist who enjoys sewing in her spare time.

Relics of the Past: Lover's Eye Jewelry

How Cold Was the Water Around the Titanic?

What Are the 7 Wonders of the World?

Some of History's Strangest Clothing Fads

When Carol Burnett Fired Harvey Korman

How People Used Stoves in the Old Days

Is This the Most Beautiful Gas Station in the World?

Connie Francis Gained Popularity Again Just Before She Passed Away

What Dating Was Like in the 1950s

In 1963 Jimmy Page Wanted to Become an Artist

8 Features of Acadian-Style Houses

How Many Colors of Depression Glass Are There?

How Anne Boleyn Got Dressed in the Morning

Michelle Yeoh Got a Surprise When Was Asked to Star in a Bond Film

Things We Miss About Summers with Grandma

What Sleeper Sofas Looked in the Old Days

How Butter Became an Everyday Staple

The Surprising Prices of Great Depression Secondhand Stores

Features We Miss From Old Refrigerators

Were Flapper Dresses Really That Short? (10 Photos)

For Centuries the Swans Here Have Been Ringing the Bell

Heartthrob Bobby Sherman Lives on Through His Music

What Dating Looked Like in the 1940s

The Future of Coney Island Is Uncertain

PREVIOUS PAGE

NEXT PAGE

Rose Heichelbech

Senior Digital Media Producer Rose has been writing and creating content for 12 Tomatoes since 2016. She made her first quiche at age 10 and has been baking and cooking ever since. She has a fondness for historical methods of food production and for vintage ceramics. Rose is also a photographer and artist who enjoys sewing in her spare time.

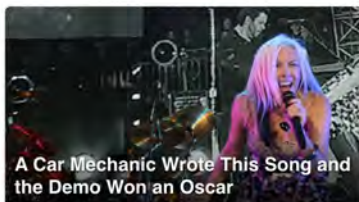

The World Mourns Brian Wilson

15 Old Photos of Dancers Having the Time of Their Lives

How WWII Popularized the BLT

A Car Mechanic Wrote This Song and the Demo Won an Oscar

Tableware No One Seems to Use Anymore

THE Original Birkin Bag to Be Auctioned in Paris

Load Her Up! This 1950s Song Perfectly Captures a Broke Date

Life Advice from Nursing Home Seniors Puts Things into Perspective

The Worst Real Estate Deals in History

Before WWII The Foxtrot Was One of the Most Popular Dances

Historical Clothing Terms Most People Today Won't Know

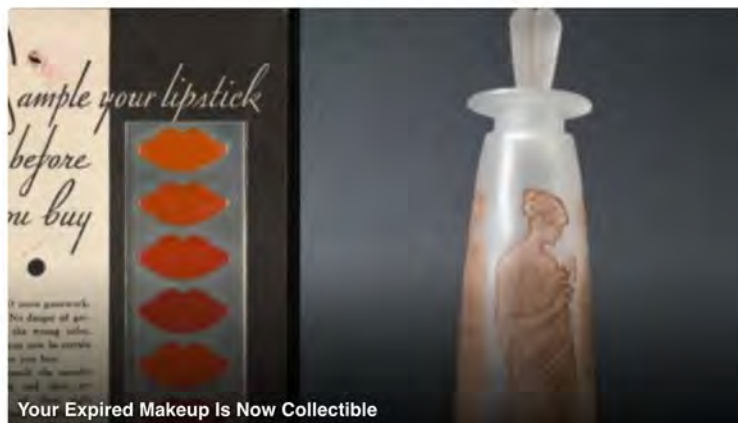

The Titanic Was Sunk By a Few Small Holes

Janis Joplin and Tom Jones Sing Together

The Scandalous Eton Crop Hairstyle

Your Expired Makeup Is Now Collectible

Mick Jagger on How The Stones Compared to the Beatles

Why Our Clothing Sizes Are All Over the Place

The History of the Famed 49'er Jacket

The Lost Stilt Shepherds of Southern France

A Rare Look Into the Lives of Lumberjacks 125 Years Ago

The Evolution of Ladies Jeans

When BB King Played His Guitar in Sing Sing Prison

The Many Meanings of May Day

Letter Written by Titanic Passenger Sells for Record Price

PREVIOUS PAGE

NEXT PAGE

Rose Heichelbech

Senior Digital Media Producer Rose has been writing and creating content for 12 Tomatoes since 2016. She made her first quiche at age 10 and has been baking and cooking ever since. She has a fondness for historical methods of food production and for vintage ceramics. Rose is also a photographer and artist who enjoys sewing in her spare time.

A Rare Look Inside the White House During the Truman Renovation

That Time Carol Burnett Kept Acting Through an Earthquake

Did People Really Wear Nightcaps in the Old Days?

The History of Oatmeal Glass

Betty White Gets Her Own Stamp

The Fascinating History of Knitting Circles

The Forgotten History of Redwork

How the Bobby Soxers Got Their Name (and Reputation)

All the Places Mom Stashed Her Sewing Supplies

School Supplies List For Kids 1950s Vs Now

1930s Program Saw People Living on Just a Few Supplies

Pharmacy Museums Show What It Was Like Before Modern Medicine

How Party Lines Worked in the Old Days

Dolly Parton Speaks Out After Her Husband's Passing

What Girl Scouts Learned in the 1920s

See Inside the Renovated Brady Bunch House

Old Sayings and What They Really Mean

How to Throw a Party in the 1950s

Why Do Amish Dolls Have No Faces?

Ike and Tina Tear Up the Stage on Ed Sullivan

The Evolution of RVs Over the Past 115 Years

9 Food Brands from the 1930s We're Still Enjoying Today

Advice for Lady Motorists from 1909

Vintage Party Foods That Are Dying Out

PREVIOUS PAGE

NEXT PAGE

Rose Heichelbech

Senior Digital Media Producer Rose has been writing and creating content for 12 Tomatoes since 2016. She made her first quiche at age 10 and has been baking and cooking ever since. She has a fondness for historical methods of food production and for vintage ceramics. Rose is also a photographer and artist who enjoys sewing in her spare time.

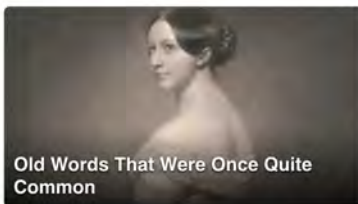

The Price of Eggs 80 Years Ago Might Shock You

Old Fashioned Entertainments We Should Bring Back

How Ladies' Sleeves Blew Up in the 1890s

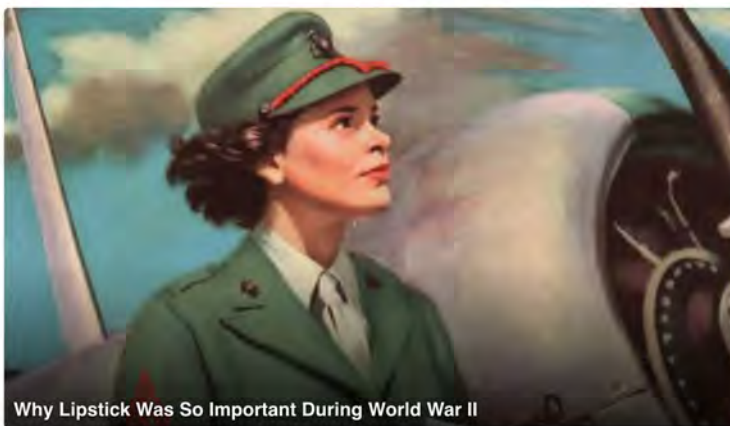

Old Words That Were Once Quite Common

A Century of Necklace Styles

Inside an Amish Grocery Store

Why Lipstick Was So Important During World War II

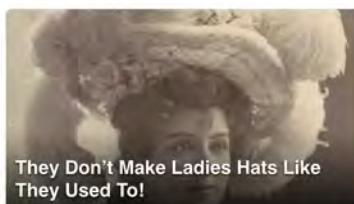

Marianne Faithfull's Classic Will Never Go Out of Style

1950s Ladies Fashion Rules We No Longer Follow

The History of the Balmoral Cairns

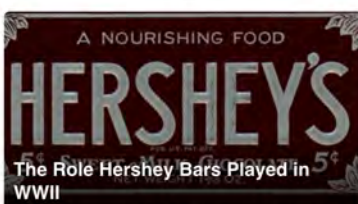

They Don't Make Ladies Hats Like They Used To!

6 Inventions That Came from the Great Depression

Actress Who Played "Ma" Was Down and Out When She Auditioned for Little House

The Role Hershey Bars Played in WWII

Old Photos Show How They Used to Make Maple Syrup

The Extraordinary Life of Jimmy Carter

A Rare Look Inside the Log Cabins of Yore

6 Fashion Trends Inspired by Naval Uniforms

Nostalgic Glassware: Libbey Glasses

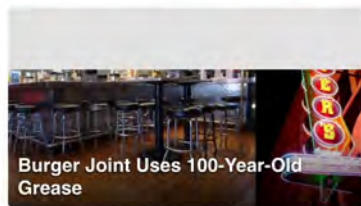

Antique Spotlight: Duncan Phyfe Furniture

Italy's Epiphany Witch

A Look at the Newly-Restored Notre-Dame Cathedral

Burger Joint Uses 100-Year-Old Grease

Sweet Letters to Santa from 1916

PREVIOUS PAGE

NEXT PAGE

ADVERTISEMENT

Rose Heichelbech

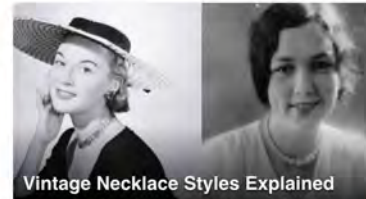

Senior Digital Media Producer Rose has been writing and creating content for 12 Tomatoes since 2016. She made her first quiche at age 10 and has been baking and cooking ever since. She has a fondness for historical methods of food production and for vintage ceramics. Rose is also a photographer and artist who enjoys sewing in her spare time.

How Butter Sculptures Are Making A Comeback

Harriet Tubman Honored with Title of General

Vintage Necklace Styles Explained

The Mystifying Color of Eau De Nil

Grey Gardens Gets Another Update

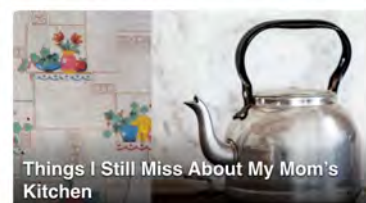

Who Remembers Those Black and White Generic Products?

5 Designs That Are Older Than You Think

9 Christmas Traditions We Can Thank Germany For

Things I Still Miss About My Mom's Kitchen

A 6-Year-Old Girl's Letter About Her Doll from 1856

Princess Diana's Other Wedding Dress

The Porcelain of the White House

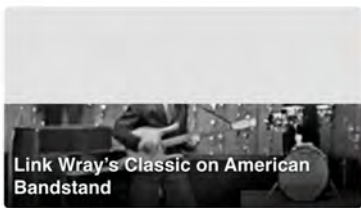

1940s Laundry Tricks Our Grandmothers Used

What Does Your English Last Name Say About Your Family?

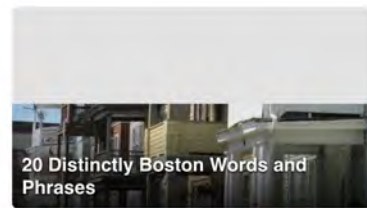

Creepy Architectural Features of Quirky Old Houses

Link Wray's Classic on American Bandstand

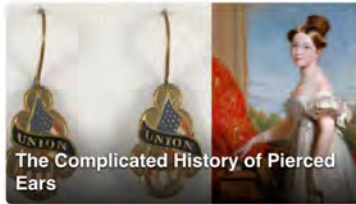

Parker House Rolls

20 Distinctly Boston Words and Phrases

Remembering The Talent of Maggie Smith

The Complicated History of Pierced Ears

Autumn Traditions We Miss

That Time Nureyev Danced on The Ed Sullivan Show

Why Medieval Cooks Loved Almond Milk

The Crazy Historical Trend of Cross-Writing

PREVIOUS PAGE

NEXT PAGE

ADVERTISEMENT

Rose Heichelbech

Senior Digital Media Producer Rose has been writing and creating content for 12 Tomatoes since 2016. She made her first quiche at age 10 and has been baking and cooking ever since. She has a fondness for historical methods of food production and for vintage ceramics. Rose is also a photographer and artist who enjoys sewing in her spare time.

Weird Al Yankovic Storytime: How He Made His Biggest Hits

Why You'll Never Hear Singers Like We Had in the Old Days

Ways That People Once Kept Cool Throughout History

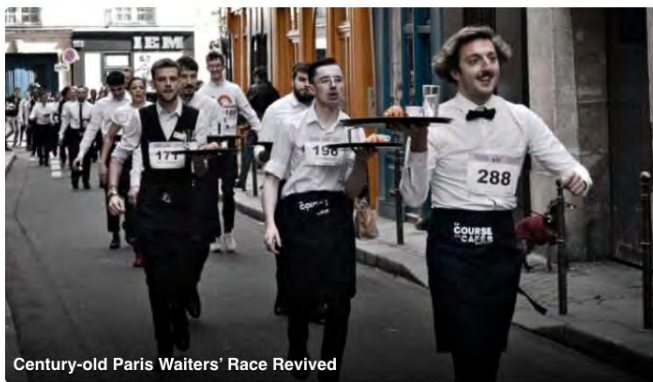

Airline Menus From the Past Show What We're Missing Out On

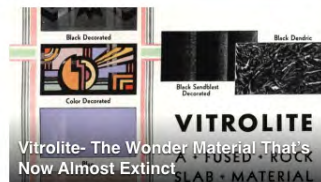

How the Experts Tell CZ from Real Diamonds

How "Stairway to Heaven" Was Written

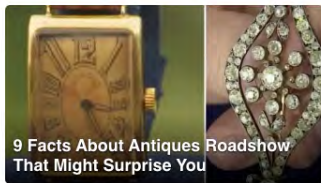

Century-old Paris Waiters' Race Revived

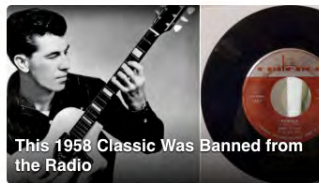

Vitrolite- The Wonder Material That's Now Almost Extinct

The Dress That Made Molly Ringwald Cry in the '80s

9 Facts About Antiques Roadshow That Might Surprise You

This 1958 Classic Was Banned from the Radio

The Truth Behind the Song "Layla"

What Life Was Like in 1930s Hoovervilles

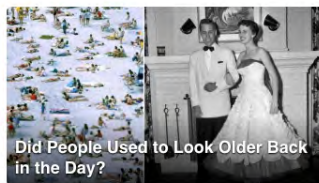

5 of the Most Unusual Names for Locals

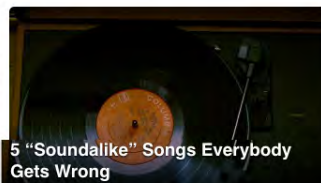

Living in an Amish House

A Delightful Collection of Box Beds

Did People Used to Look Older Back in the Day?

5 "Soundalike" Songs Everybody Gets Wrong

A Look Inside the Hat Shops of Yore

Why Do We Eat Salt and Pepper Together?

Telephone Operators Over the Years

Fruit Stripe Gum Is Gone Forever

1950s Home Remedies for Flu

Woolworth's Lunch Counter Mac & Cheese

PREVIOUS PAGE

NEXT PAGE