Here is an updated list of Speculative miners / exploration stocks that we believe have the potential to participate in an extended bull market in precious metals. Investing in a list of Juniors is a practical way to participate, as the gains could be rather good. On the other hand, one or two may get stuck or fail.

Three companies from the original list have been taken over or merged, resulting in excellent gains. Two were removed from the list.

Three new names have since been added to the list and are available for subscribers
