Turnaround

Turnaround times are approximations and are not guaranteed unless otherwise noted by myPrint. Turnaround time does not begin until after the customer has approved the artwork and after payment has been made or terms established. Please plan for events by ordering with plenty of extra time beyond turnaround time. There are rush services available for some products at additional costs. Turnaround on order sizes larger than normal could take longer than below.

Some premium products and add-on services could extend turnaround times. Turnaround time for apparel begins after we receive payment from the customer or terms established, we receive the garments from the supplier or after the customer has approved artwork which ever comes last. Please note that some garments within an order may ship from different warehouses and or different suppliers and have different availability and transit times which will affect turnaround. MyPrint has no control over apparel or promotional product supplier stock levels and cannot hold any items without an order being placed by the customer.
