

Tony García

Is a producer, director and filmmaker, that earned his BS from the Art Institute of Houston. His studies fine tuned his management skills in the art of filmmaking which related to his background while serving in the Armed Forces in the US Army.

As a filmmaker he has focused on storytelling and as a scriptwriter completed his short film Daughters of Houston.

The development of this film enabled Tony to connect and reflect in the power of character development. This story shaped the course of his future goals in filmmaking by focusing on the power shift of all the characters in this film and capturing them through the lenses of the camera.

Tony has built his career by accomplishing goals in US Army, Contractor for the US Services and as a Safety Officer in the civilian sector. These traits are the core concepts that he uses on every film production and continue to develop within his craft.

Tony continues to hone his skills in his spare time by attending local plays which connect with new talent. Networking by relating filmmaking with live performances. By fusing them to create the next generation of actors is his goal.

Filmmaking has been Tony's passion. The art form is the drive that keeps him striving to be the next producer, director and storyteller. The creation of filmmaking has taken Tony to Florida, Oklahoma, Louisiana and here locally has worked on soon featured films out of Houston.

Tony is the owner of TkG Media Productions which has produced and directed local live events and film productions.

Tony Garcia has produced and directed video production that featured Chef Charles Carroll, Executive Chef of River Oaks Country Club, and he also has directed a TV set production featuring Charnele Brown. This while completing his studies at the Art Institute of Houston.
