WATERFORD — A 23-year-old soccer player is dead as Irish media completely ignore his irrefutable cause of death.

Mr. Roy Butler received the experimental Johnson & Johnson (Janssen) viral vector DNA injection on Friday, August 13, according to his aunt, Marian Harte. He suffered severe headaches and general malaise within one hour. By Saturday August 14, he was vomiting and having convulsions. New For All Ireland reported that Mr. Butler was placed in a medically-induced coma on Monday, August 16.

It appears the young man had a hemorrhagic stroke and/or ruptured brain aneurysm within a day or two based on description from his aunt and another woman named Vera McDonald. The latter appears to be a family friend and is the first to make this blog aware of Mr. Butler's situation.
