12-STEP PROBLEM-SOLVING IN YOUR ORGANIZATION

A QUICK GUIDE

CORE
LEADERSHIP CONSULTING, LLC

www.core-elc.com

In any organization, problems and challenges are inevitable. How you approach problem-solving can make all the difference in your success. Here's a one-page guide to effective problem-solving in your organization:

1 Identify the Problem
Clearly define the problem. What is the issue, and why is it a problem? Be specific and avoid jumping to conclusions.

2 Gather Information
Collect data, facts, and insights. Consult experts, stakeholders, and team to get complete understanding of problem.

3 Analyze the Situation
Breakdown problem into components. Identify root causes, factors, and potential impacts on the organization.

4 Brainstorm Solutions
Encourage diverse group of members to generate solutions. Don't judge at this stage, and welcome creativity.

5 Evaluate & Prioritize
Assess solution's feasibility, cost, and potential outcomes. Rank based on potential to address problem effectively.

6 Select a Solution
Choose most suitable solution based on your evaluation. Consider resources and time required for implementation.

7 Develop an Action Plan
Create detailed plan outlining steps, responsibilities, and timeline for implementing chosen solution.

8 Implement the Solution
Put your plan into action, monitoring progress and making adjustments as necessary.

9 Communicate Effectively
Keep stakeholders informed about problem-solving process and actions being taken. Transparency builds trust.

10 Evaluate the Outcome
Assess results after solution has been implemented. Did it solve the problem? Are there unintended consequences?

11 Learn and Adapt
Use experience to improve problem-solving skills. Document what worked and what didn't.

12 Prevent Recurrence
Put measures in place to prevent problem from recurring. May involve changes in processes, policies, or training.

Cultivate CIP culture to make team resilent and efficient.
Continuous Improvement

Bring in external experts for fresh perspectives and solutions.
Seek Expert Help

Recognize achievements and efforts of team.
Celebrate Success