

Why I gave this piece the goodly idiomatic title, 'Variety is the Spice of L.Ife' is namely because I will be spending time compiling or rather documenting my brief time spent in Azyz Lla, from about 8:30am on 31.1.2025 to about 9:15am on 31.01.2025, amen, but I will be adding some serious flavour (move over, Ainsley Harriett!) by including Video Clips from other Games in the Best Franchise on Eo. Aww, here goes! First off – A Fight with an Proto-naga Simpleton.

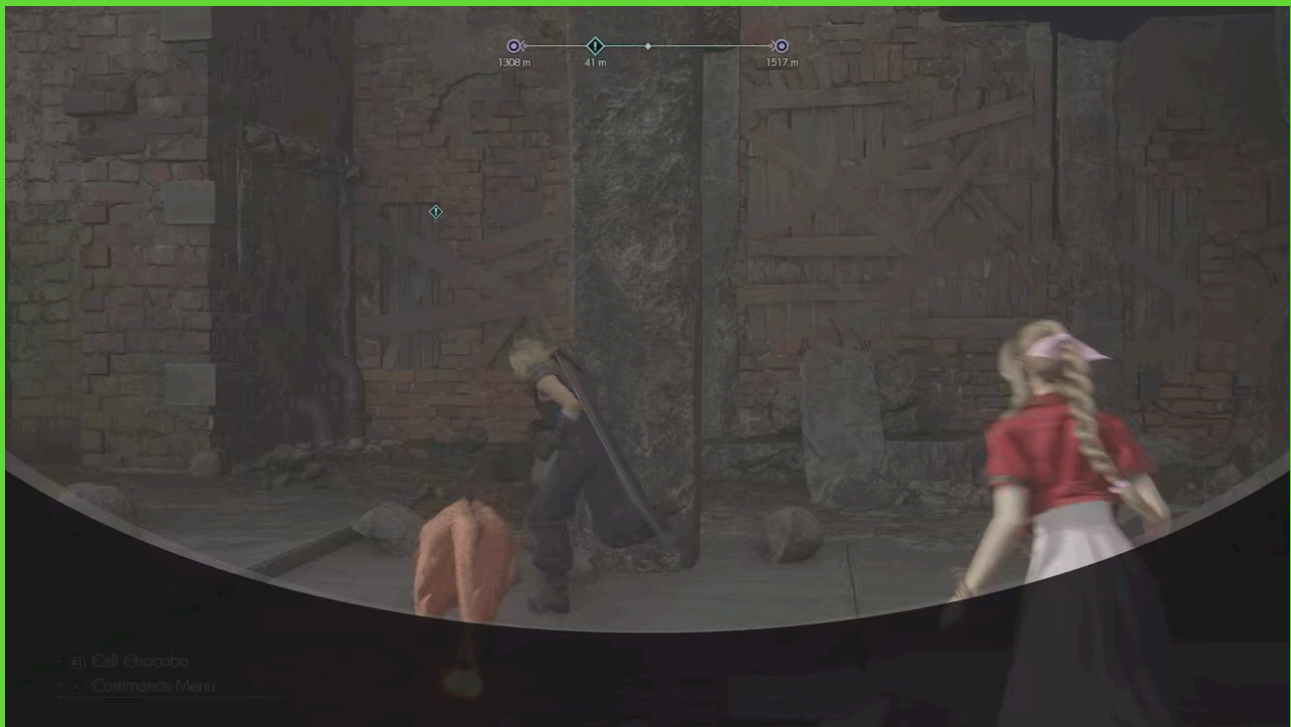

See how I slipped in behind it, while it was absorbed with harming Firewind? Firewind didn't mind though. Like Marley, my neighbour's dog that I walk on a Wednesday and a Saturday (mostly), it is infused with sense and Light and, as a result, isn't bested so, so easily.

The ascent up to an good transporter activated by sentient AI created by the Allagans.

See here! Me, about to ascend unto the platforme which allows traversal through some sort of etheric medium. Much like Y'shtola, God Bless H.E.R., traversed through when escaping from the Crystal Braves in 'Final Fantasy – ARR', after the Scions of the Seventh Dawn were accused with the then supposed Regicide of Her Royal Highness Nanamo Ul Namo of Ul'Dah. I like the layout of Azyz Lla now. I wasn't very fond of it at first. Amin.

Being cast into the deep dark by Heaven.

Here, I would have just adored a bit of audio dialogue between great soul Anaki of the unnamed species and Cloud Strife. But alas and alack! Seems like that occurrence wasn't written to come to pass by the Hande of the Almightye.

Moving from the deep dark back into L.IGHT.

That's ALL of it
for now, folkies.
You folke face
Wanksters. Peace!