

Writing and comprehension: Seeds

Plants need to spread their seeds far away so that they can begin to grow. There are many ways in which seeds achieve this.

Lots of plants produce fruits with seeds inside. The rowan tree has clusters of bright red berries that look attractive. These are eaten by animals, like the waxwing bird (pictured above). The seeds are then released in the animals poo!

Dandelion plants (left) produce seed with delicate parts that can enable them to be blown by the wind like tiny kites. They can travel great distances.

TARGET: Try and vary the words you use to start your sentences.

Why do plants create seeds inside fruits?

What sort of bird is in the picture?

Using the picture to help, can you describe what a dandelion looks like?

EXTENSION CHOICES

- Either cut up an apple, or other fruit and draw the seeds you see inside.
- Go outside and try and find any examples of fruits or seeds.

The Bee

A bee is a kind of flying insect.

Can you use the word bank to create some sentences about this animal?

Try to use a simile (e.g. as dark as night/ as hot as the sun) in your text.
