

ABOUT OUR DIRECTOR AND STAFF

CAITLIN DONOVAN

Caitlin Donovan is a passionate and versatile dance educator, choreographer, and performer based in Western Australia. She began dancing at the age of four, training extensively at Jazz Attack in Busselton, and has since developed a strong foundation across Jazz, Hip Hop, Contemporary, Ballet, Lyrical and Acrobatics.

With over nine years of teaching experience, Caitlin is known for her high-energy teaching style, attention to technical development, and commitment to nurturing confident, well-rounded performers. She has worked with dancers of all ages and abilities, from recreational students to competitive performers, and finds her greatest joy in seeing students grow, achieve their goals, and develop a genuine love for dance.

Caitlin's performance experience includes competing in major dance competitions throughout Western Australia, performing showgirl and commercial work with Fervour Corporate Entertainment, appearing in a music video for Johnny Taylor, and undertaking international training through workshops at Millennium Dance Complex and Broadway Dance Center in the USA. She has also performed at Disneyland, further expanding her performance and industry experience.

Dedicated to ongoing professional development, Caitlin has studied through the Australian Performing Arts Network and continues to evolve her teaching practice by blending strong technical foundations with creativity, performance quality, and safe training principles. As the founder and director of Voltage Performing Arts, she is committed to creating an inclusive, inspiring environment where dancers feel supported, challenged, and empowered both on and off the stage.

GEMMA MAYBERRY

With 11 years of dance experience, Gemma brings a strong passion for teaching and mentoring young dancers. In 2025, she taught a recreational Jazz class and assisted in Lyrical, Jazz, Hip Hop, and Acrobatics. She loves supporting students as they develop their technique, artistry, and confidence. In 2026, Gemma is thrilled to be teaching and assisting at Voltage Performing Arts and looks forward to sharing her energy, dedication, and love for dance with every student.
