Summary

Entrepreneur-Hacker

[+]Leading security innovation

[+]Multiple security disclosures on critical infrastructure cyber-physical systems

[+]Programmer - Intelligence tools, bespoke solutions, exploits, defensive tools

[+]Radio/Wireless security

Polymath by intention. I have the privilege of wearing many hats on any given day, from a passionate technologist, entrepreneur & relentless hacker to a professional musician, western classical guitarist & composer. Everyday I wake up fresh as a student of my arts - avocation and vocation united as one.

I've overseen a wide spectrum of projects in technology ranging from customized critical cyber defenses for enterprise and cloud to advanced applications of computer vision for rehabilitative healthcare; from Autism intervention through sound to writing musical scores for ensembles at the other end of the spectrum. I like to prioritize teaching and mentoring, because I believe that we must give back to the world.

Naturally proficient at anything digital, I bend computer systems to my will with ease. As a cybersecurity architect, hacker and programmer every day is filled with the new and the job never gets old. I serve on the board of industrial advisors for a number of educational institutions and contribute to academics on a number of fronts. I regularly guide groups of tech professionals on the nuances of cybersecurity through table top exercises, drills in offensive and defensive computing.
