Explanation of Tawa

for Akela's Council 24

Tawa is an Indian word meaning "sun" and for Akela's Council the meaning of tawa was changed to represent "son" to remind us of the sons (or boys) we work with, as leaders and parents, in Cub Scouting. This is why I chose a young Native boy to represent Tawa.

In a Hopi creation legend Tawa is the Sun God who created life with Spider Woman. I drew even more symbolism from this line in the story:

"I am Tawa," sang the Sun God. "I am Light. I am Life. I am Father of all that shall ever come."

It reminded me of the great potential of the boys we serve as well as the symbol of 'light', and how the training we are providing to the leaders will bring them enlightenment and knowledge. Tawa stands before the sun and wears a symbolic sun on his necklace.

The feathers on the coup stick represent each of our dens: blue for Apache, red for Cherokee, purple for Cheyenne, green for Mohawk and yellow for Paiute. The feathers in his headdress represent our staff.

I took the liberty to add some personal symbolism as well. Turquoise will forever be my Akela's color so it was added as an accent color. The four bands of turquoise at the bottom of the coup stick represent my four children and the gratitude I have for all the leaders that have supported and nurtured them over the years.

Explanation of Tawa

For each course of Akela's Council, the Cubmaster has the opportunity to design a Tawa for their course. As Cubmaster of Akela's Council 25, I was honored with this opportunity.

As I contemplated what I wanted Tawa to look like this year, I thought about what Tawa actually means.

Tawa is an Indian word meaning "sun" and for Akela's Council, the meaning of tawa was changed to represent "son" to remind us of the sons (or boys) we work with, as leaders and parents, in Cub Scouting. Although I took the liberty of Tawa for this course to be a girl, I chose my son, the first boy that I was privileged to work with in Cub Scouting, to draw Tawa.

On Tawa's headdress is a band with a color for each den at Akela's council 25: Blue – Apache, Red – Cherokee, Purple – Cheyenne, Green – Mohawk, Yellow – Paiute, Silver – Staff

Tawa wears a necklace with "25" to signify the 25th course for Akela's Council. She also wears a smile on her face, because the Cub Scout Program is a Family Program. And family is important to Tawa. Without my family, I would not have been able to participate as I have, within the Cub Scout Program.

My Akela's colors will forever be blue and red. For this reason, Tawa wears a dress with blue trim and a red necklace, symbolizing my original den of Apache and my den as a Den Leader, Cherokee.

Explanation of Tawa

Akela's Council 26

Tawa is a Native American word meaning "sun" and for Akela's Council the meaning of tawa was changed to represent "son" to remind us of the sons (or boys) we work with, as leaders and parents in Cub Scouting.

I have chosen a young brave to represent my tawa for this course because my goal in Scouting is to encourage boys to become strong, dependable young men. I have 5 sons who have followed the path of their father and have grown and excelled in scouting. 3 of these young men are currently serving as Boy Scout leaders. This Indian brave represents one who is not afraid to look ahead to see the future and be an example for good to those who follow behind.

The horse in my tawa represents the steady forward motion toward enlightenment and knowledge.

The staff embellished with silver feathers represents each of my staff members at Akela's

Council, strong and steadfast.

The feathers in the headdress represent each of the colors in our dens here at Akela's Council.

My Akela's Council den color is purple and as such has been placed at the center of the brave's forehead, a reminder of the fond AC memories I carry with me.

My son Jeff is the designer for this tawa and that in itself holds special meaning to me.

I am so happy for this opportunity to serve with you at Akela's Council 26

Explanation of Tawa for this course:

Hi! I am Tawa. I am Akela's Council's mascot for this course, AC30. My name was taken from the Indian word "Tawa" meaning "sun." For Akela's Council, the meaning of Tawa was changed to represent "son," which represents the sons, or boys, in Cub Scouting.

Our Tawa loves to run. He always has a positive attitude and an unbreakable spirit. He understands commitment and passion. His joy and love of Scouting infect all who he comes in contact with, as seen by the Bobcat paw print on his chest.

Tawa carries a staff with five feathers to represent our five dens, each separate, but all together in a common goal. He also has a silver feather in his headband, which represents the staff on course this year.

Tawa reminds us that the race is "not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, but the prize belongs to those who endure to the end." The race of Scouting, as of life, is not a sprint, it is not the 100-yard dash, nor is it really a middle-distance run. It's a marathon run. It's a long-distance run.

May you find joy and excitement in your Scouting service, regardless of the distance. And may the Cub Scouts learn strength and perseverance through your example.
