

About Me

THE AMANDA EDIT

Hi, I'm Amanda — a mother, wife, storyteller, and lover of all things floral.

Whether it's admiring their vibrant colors, delicate aromas, or quiet elegance, flowers have always held a special place in my heart.

Nature continually captivates me, especially in the way it offers us such precious gifts — flowers. To me, they are a love language. They brighten moods, mark moments, and make memories even more meaningful.

Creating has always been my outlet — a way to connect, express, and bring beauty into the everyday. Working with flowers feels like collaborating with nature itself. Each petal, stem, and bloom carries its own unique charm and energy, and I love the challenge of arranging them into something that speaks to a feeling, a memory, or a moment.

There's a kind of magic in the transformation — taking raw, natural beauty and shaping it into something intentional, emotional, and deeply personal. Whether it's an intimate bouquet for a quiet celebration or lush arrangements that bring an entire event to life, I pour my heart into every detail.

For me, floristry isn't just about making things look beautiful — it's about storytelling, creating connection, and celebrating life's most meaningful moments through the language of flowers. Let's create something beautiful together.

Amanda
