Philosophy for 2023

- TIME -

“Journey”

John turned off the news, sat at the kitchen table and watched the sun begin to set. He knew there were outside things to do but for the moment, knowing all the turmoil of the country, not much hope, he longed for his dream of being back in his own country. Grandma and Grandpa thought this was a better country so they packed up a few belongings, fled to the ship and for days, rode the waves until they reached America - - but now - - well John was tired of all the corruption - - maybe - -.

Whenever down and out - feeling unsure about life he went to his closet, took out Grandma's diary and began to read - "The Closed Door".

I heard about this from my Grandmother - the closed door - - so I began looking - Grandma said it would lead to happiness - - I looked and looked but never found it so I stopped looking. Then one day while cleaning shrubs down in the valley I found a door - - a secret door. Is that what Grandma was talking about? I tried to open it - locked - - no key to be found. I just sat there and thought about the words Grandma spoke - - it's hard to get in - only you can find the way.

Looking around, I came upon a strange enclosed glass case. Inside was a notebook - - took it out and began to read - -.

The closed door - looked and looked till I found it, heard about it from Grandmother - didn't believe in such a thing - told me when very young - said to watch out for it - will find it when least expected but then - must make decision to go thru one - then another - can't hurry, must spend time in each room until you see another door. Some rooms want to spend rest of life in but then will always wonder what's behind next door. Some rooms frightful and want to hurry thru but when you leave in a hurry you will always wonder what your were afraid of cuz you hurried thru.

Some rooms can't even remember the color of the walls for you blanked out that room and you'll always wonder what happened there, was it real or your imagination. Some rooms will be filled with years of happiness and friends.

Some will be filled with hardships and enemies.

But the biggest challenge/blessing is the courage you had in those two rooms, was it real, or make believe - was it really all that good or all that bad. You must write down each room, what it was like, what you learned and the toughest thing you need to do in life is look at the room you hurried through, was afraid in that room, you must go back to - open the door, go in and sit. No matter how scared you are - there is a secret healing to be had in that room - but you and only you can find it - -.

"Good hunting."

Love you - Grandma

Darkness now setting in, John placed the diary back on the shelf, opened the door, stepped out into the night air just in time to see the first set of fireworks, light up the night sky. City lights reflected the fields behind his house and he noticed the lush fields of yellow and once again all he could say is Thank You. Thank you for allowing me to live in America.

50 Years of Love

In the beginning I met you on a Christmas day. Oh how pretty you looked to me. I fell in love at that moment. We came together that day by an invite from your sister and my friend. We had a Christmas meal and had our fill and then we went for a walk. I knew in that moment we would be together for a lifetime. We've had our ups and downs throughout the years, but we faced all the good times and bad together. We've laughed and cried but through it all it was life trying us at every step. My heart never wavering for a moment of the love we have together. You are my everything that I hold dear. I love you darling with all my heart.

Happy 50th Anniversary
from me to you.

Our Inheritance

By Pastor Mary Wiggins
Scranton, ND

The beginning of July is a time of year when my mind turns towards those who serve others. Independence Day is a time in which I often not only reflect on the freedoms I myself enjoy, but I think about the sacrifices of those who have served in the military. The vocations of those who serve in the military are vocations that are grounded in service to other people. And this is true in multiple ways.

Like many people my family contains members that served in the military. In the case of my family, its veterans are my paternal grandparents along with numerous distant relatives. And so, as our society celebrates its freedoms as a country, I am reminded of the tremendous sacrifices others make for us to celebrate. Including thinking of things like how the booms of fireworks are not pleasant for some veterans and others.

Military service is not the only way the legacy of service traces its way through my family tree. My parents were medical professionals. With my father serving many years as a firefighter and EMT. Which brings us to myself. One whose live of service includes serving people and their spiritual needs as a Pastor.

Our legacy of service is not genetic. This legacy of serving others in my opinion is a result of our spiritual heritage not our genetic one. In our baptismal rites there is language around serving others. And as Christians, living lives of service towards other people is part of our identity and mission.

Christ himself gave us examples of serving others in need. And as Galatians 5:13 says, "You were called to freedom, brothers and sisters; only don't let this freedom be an opportunity to indulge your selfish impulses but serve each other through love." As people who have been given so much, we are also given a tremendous opportunity to give back. This may look different for each person, but this is part of our beliefs.

So, as we celebrate the many gifts that we have been given, may our minds not forget about those who are left behind. May the wideness of our freedoms include care for other people. And may we not forget to thank those who sacrifice for others are so very great.

Recipe For A 4-H Leader

Take 12 full months of 4-H work, divide each of these months into 28, 30 or 31 parts. Do not try to make up the year's batch all at one time but prepare one meeting at a time as follows:

Into each meeting put 12 parts of togetherness, 11 parts of responsibility, 10 parts of getting to know you, 9 parts of courage, 8 parts of work (some omit this and spoil the rest), 7 parts of loyalty, 6 parts of personality, 5 parts of kindness, 4 parts of recreation, 3 parts of special activities, 2 parts of refreshments, and 1 part of checking each one's projects.

To this mix, add a dash of fun, a sprinkle of play and a cupful of good humor. Pour into the whole mixture lots of leadership and mix with vim. Cook thoroughly with fervent heat, garnish with smiles and add a sprig of joy.

Serve with greatness, unselfishness and cheerfulness. Happy 4-H members are sure to be the result.

Here is a cute recipe for 4-H leaders. Leaders get no ribbons but like and need credit, too.

Did my alarm GO OFF?...

by geno sloan

My son called at 8:57 a.m. and woke me out of a deep sleep. Geez — I must have turned off my alarm clock!

Each night I set the alarm because I don't like to sleep too late. Each morning I hit the snooze button a few times to get more cozy dreams. This time I must have hit the wrong button, and now I've really over-slept!

I don't want you to think I'm lazy. When I have church, meetings, or other important things like card games in the morning, then I am very efficient, and set TWO alarms. First is my regular one; then, I set my cellphone alarm, which is placed on the dresser, so I actually have to get out of bed to turn it off. Smart, eh?

Oh, I have another trick. The time on my regular bedroom clock is set 10 minutes fast, so when the alarm goes off at 7:30 it is really only 7:20. My cellphone clock is the correct time. Now I can hit the snooze button and actually still not oversleep before my second alarm rings. See? I have it all well-organized. Who invented clocks, anyway? At this place in my life, I really don't give a tick-tock. Perhaps I will look it up, but I don't have time now, because. . . remember? I overslept!

Cloud Seeding Operations Summary for June 19-25, 2023

BISMARCK, N.D. — Wide-spread, beneficial rains continued over southwestern North Dakota last week. One-to-two-inch rainfall totals were common with some areas receiving three to four inches.

In the District 1 operations area, which includes Bowman and part of Slope Counties, three flights were flown for seeding operations last week and one flight was flown for reconnaissance purposes.

This week, daily chances for thunderstorms continue through the work week for southwestern North Dakota with near normal high temperatures in the low 80s expected.

Radar facilities in Bowman operate around the clock during the NDCMP. Radar images can be viewed on the Atmospheric Resource Board's web site at <http://www.swc.nd.gov/arb>. The NDCMP will continue through the end of August.

Card of Thanks

Thanks so much to all who helped make the 50's drive-in a huge success! It was a beautiful day and a fun community event with the added bonus of raising money for our youth activities! Thanks to Tobian Andrews for leading the committee, to the guys who helped grill and man the fryers, to the kids and adults who came to serve and help set up and clean up. Thanks to Buchmanns and Hillers for the use of the canopies, Terry and Wanda Heick for the use of the grill, and Vern Kadmas for giving us his knowledge on the fryers. Thanks to all who donated hamburger or money. Thanks to the Eido Connect and A2Z printing for donating the printing and to Coca-Cola for the pop/cup donations. And to all who came out to eat and support us! We live in a great community! May God bless you all abundantly!

SOLDIER FOR THE AGES
By Francis Martin

Continued from

CHAPTER THREE

Grandfather Martin was seated on an old hardback chair on the porch with the whatever-it-was laid out on the picnic table in front of him. James huddled over his shoulder. "Well, Jimmy boy, I don't know what it is. But there's a book...you know, the one with all the pictures of the 7th calvary in it. It should be on the shelf there in the hall. Would you mind runnin' to get it?"

James hurried into the house letting the screen door bang behind him. His grandmother was cutting biscuits out on the breadboard. "What's the rush?" she asked after him.

"Grandpa wants that book about the 7th Calvary."

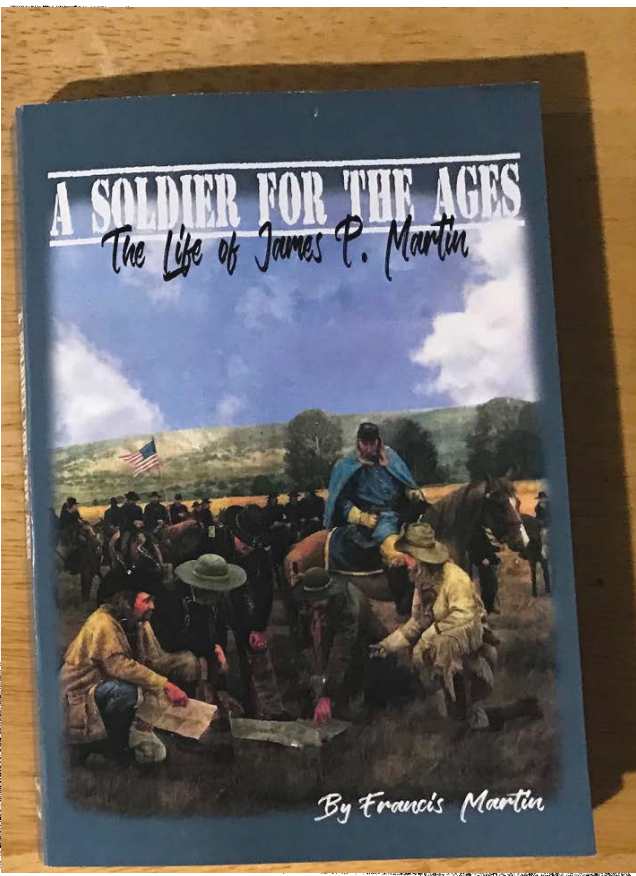

"It's on the floor by his bed," she said.

He went into the bedroom and scooped the book off the floor and out the back door.

Grandpa Martin opened the front cover and looked through the chapter titles.

"What are you looking for?" James asked.

"It's a picture," he said turning the pages slowly, "Troops on horseback all lined up." He went back to the index and looked some more. Then he found what he was looking for and opened it up. "Right here," he said, "See this? The rifles are in a kind of harness that made it easy for the soldier to draw it out in a hurry. There. Right there is where the buckle was. It was in a sling over the soldier's shoulder. A lot easier than trying to get it out of a scabbard."

"What was it called?" James asked.

"It doesn't say. I suppose a person could go to a museum somewhere and find one. There's a museum in Bismarck that has this stuff. I've never been there. I read about it in the North Dakota magazine, but I've been told that the best one is at Harden, Montana where Custer met his Waterloo."

James' mother picked up her purse and put the grocery list in it. She said to James, "Your dad will be along in a half hour or so. He had to go get some posts. The fence is down across the river and some of the cows got in the oats. That is his lunch there on the table. He'll pick you up."

"I wanted to go to the library," James said looking disappointed.

"You'll go help your dad and grandad build fence. I'll get your books. What do you want?"

James was not lazy. He just liked history better than he liked fence posts. "There's one that is a biography about General Custer."

"There are probably many biographies about George Custer. Which one do you want?"

"I don't want the one written by his wife. Then there's another book called 'Heroes of the Indian Wars.' I think. Would you ask the Librarian? I checked it out once before."

"What if they don't have it?" she asked.

"Maybe they can get it from some other library. They do that."

He could hear his dad's truck coming down the slope. His mother went outside and spoke to him. Then she got in

In the heat of the day James and his father sat in the shade of a low hanging box elder tree and hydrated themselves from the drinks in the cooler.

James told his father about the photograph of the piece of the sling that he had found in the field. "Gramps says we'd probably find this rifle sling in the museum in Bismarck. Could we go there sometime and look at all that stuff?"

Paul leaned back against the tree trunk and tipped his hat back. "Yeah. When the works all done this fall," was all he said.

Kennedy's & The Peacock Help WRHS Foundation Raise $3,172

By Ted Uecker,
WRHS Foundation

Kennedy's Fresh Foods and The Peacock Mercantile, two local super-giving retailers and proud members of the West River Health Services Foundation, recently collaborated to create amazing Raffle Ticket, Bucket Draw Ticket and Registration Sales for the WRHS Foundation's 35th Annual "Fun Run & Walk" Event on the 4th of July. Of course, as has been the case the last few years, all of the net funds for this annual event are given back to area communities for healthy activities. Last year, the WRHS Foundation paid forward $9,400 from this event alone, for needed healthy activities in the area, ranging from $100 to $1,000 grants, for fifteen various area organizations.

On Wednesday, June 21st, Kennedy's Fresh Foods on North Main Street in Hettinger hosted a Huge "Truckload Produce Sale" and promoted that the WRHS Foundation would be there to offer registration sign-ups ($20 prior to and on June 27; $30 thereafter) for their Annual Fun Run & Walk event, plus $2 raffle and $1 bucket draw tickets. For the bucket draw tickets, buyers could place their tickets into the bucket(s) corresponding to one or more of the ten prizes they'd prefer to win. The $1 Bucket Draw prizes range from a $25 IGA Gift Card to a $300 Family Swimming Pool Pass at the New Hettinger Swimming Pool. The $2 Raffle ticket sales give buyers an opportunity to win one of nine sensational prizes ranging from $150 Mizuno Men's and Women's Running Shoes to $600 Cash! All of the 19 amazing prizes totaling a whopping $3,985 will be drawn on the 4th of July at the Fun Run & Walk event at The Granary (most likely about 9:30am).

Needless to say, Kennedy's longtime customers from the surrounding area were coming through the door like crazy! The WRHS Foundation staff on this day, including Cindy Ham, Andi Werlinger, Cami Havelka, Molly Wolf, Beth Erickson and yours truly were writing names and phone numbers on raffle and bucket draw tickets till their hands ached! We believe this is a terrific problem to have! It's amazing how supportive local folk are of our top-notch healthcare system! From 10am to 4pm, we sold 580 raffle tickets ($1,160), 969 bucket draw tickets ($969), and 22 registrations ($440) – for an overall Kennedy's Day total of $2,569! Wow! Unbelievable!

Also, during the promotional event at Kennedy's, for every $10 of raffle or bucket draw tickets purchased, buyers were given additional tickets to place into a drawing (the more you gave for tickets, the more chances you had to win drawings) from one of six amazing prizes. The prizes and their winners were – Blackstone Griddle (Sandy Marion), $100 Shine Shop Gift

Jill Sailer and Tammy Roso, West River Health Services employees, ready to sell raffle tickets and sign up runners and walkers for the 35th Annual Fun Run & Walk event on the 4th of July. This promotion was at the Peacock Mercantile in Hettinger on June 22nd.

Card (Tonya Jensen), $100 KB Jewelers Gift Certificate (Kaye McIntyre), $100 Kennedy's Gift Card (Cindy Arndorfer); $50 Hettinger Swimming Pool ten-punch card (Dalos Kvanvig); and $50 gift certificates for the Hettinger Theater (Kirsten Howe). All of these six prizes were 100% paid forward by Kennedy's Fresh Foods! We, at the WRHS Foundation, are lucky to have such sensational partners as Mike and Kyle Kennedy and their hustling staff.

Also on this day, Tony Mugerud, longtime Hettinger resident and oil field businessman, after purchasing both raffle and bucket tickets for himself, paid forward $100 worth of bucket draw tickets (and therefore ten drawing tickets as well) for ten employees at Kennedy's. How terrific of a "pay forward" is that? Each of the ten employees filled out bucket draw tickets and placed them into the buckets corresponding with the prizes they'd like to win. Plus, they were all up for the six prize drawings too. We are certainly grateful for Tony's thoughtful gift forwarding. Not ten minutes later, one of the Kennedy's carry-out workers made a $50 Anonymous donation and another gave a ten dollar tip which they'd received from a grateful customer, to the WRHS Foundation. How thoughtful. We are blessed and fortunate to live where we do. People care here. And so do we. Thank you all.

The following day, Thursday, June 22nd, the WRHS Foundation was at the Peacock Mercantile on South Main Street in Hettinger. Pam Burch and her crew were ready for the onslaught of the early morning coffee crowd and the unique lunch offerings. Although we may not have had quite as brisk of a crowd as the day before, the WRHS Foundation was able to connect with a number of Peacock customers. From 7am to 1:30pm, we sold 186 Raffle Tickets ($372), 191 Bucket Draw Tickets ($191), and two registrations ($40) – for an overall Peacock Day total of $603!

Once again, if customers gave $10 or more toward raffle or bucket draw tickets, they were placed into a drawing, this time for three prizes of various Peacock gifts, including coffee beans, kitchen towels, notepads and knickknacks. How terrific of Pam and her staff to offer such nice drawing prizes. Pam selected the tickets and drawing winners herself – they were Stacie Anfinson, Holly Wyman and Sheri Uecker. Plus, staff at the WRHS Foundation (Beth Erickson and Cindy Ham) gifted free coffees to the first and tenth buyers of tickets (Dorothy Houghton and Stacy Chadwick). Congratulations! And thanks for coming to the Peacock to support two important entities in our community.

Thank you Cindy Ham, Beth Erickson, Tammy Roso, Jill Sailer, Cami Havelka and Andi Werlinger for selling tickets offering Raffle Tickets, Bucket Draw Tickets, and Registrations for the Fun Run & Walk – right through the event on the 4th of July!

Our Fun Run & Walk Committee, consisting of Cindy Ham, Beth Erickson, Pennie Glines, Patty Ness, Molly Wolf, Tammy Roso, Jill Sailer, Andi Werlinger, Cami Havelka and Ted Uecker, can be reached at 701-567-4561, if you still wish to purchase tickets. Or, you can stop by KB Jewelers on South Main Street in Hettinger and purchase $2 raffle tickets from Kent, Kathleen or Cecilia. To register for the Fun Run & Walk event, please go to our website at wrhs.com and look for the Fun Run & Walk registration. Through June 27th, the cost is $20. Thereafter, it is $30. Your registration fee includes your official Fun Run & Walk t-shirt, runner number, gift bag (including lip balm and a color changing cup), and all the bananas you can eat (given by Kennedy's) and all the water you can drink (gifted by Pepsi). Plus, there will be music, a prayer, our national anthem. And lots of people to visit with and catch up with. Bring your entire family. Mott's Veteran Memorial Gets an Addition

The monument in the Legion Park along the Cannonball River in Mott had an addition installed last Thursday. Although the memorial honoring area veterans was only dedicated in 2018, it filled up quickly. That was the result of research which unearthed the names of many area individuals whose service to the nation had not before been recognized.

As a result, the monument reached capacity, carrying more than 800 names, including 39 men who died while in the service.

The new addition has 35 more names inscribed in black granite imported from India. There is space for more.

"Families or friends of any deceased veteran who once lived in Mott and has been overlooked," said Commander Herb Quamme, "should contact the Legion to ensure the name is added to the monument."

One-time residents of Mott, Burt, St. Placidus, and Bentley and all the Hettinger County townships near to them are eligible.

An earlier monument at the park honored area men who died on duty. It was replaced by this expanded monument which includes all those who served. The former monument is on display in the foyer of the Mott Museum and Art Gallery.

Reflections on the Words of Life

by Pastor Paul Ferrie, Grace Reformed Church of the Lord Jesus, New Leipzig

Earlier in Jonah 4:4, we saw that God asked Jonah whether it was right for him to be angry. At that time, the prophet was angry with God because He was extending grace to the repentant people of Nineveh. Today we resume in verse 9, where God repeats the question, but for a different reason. Jonah 4:9: Then God said to Jonah, 'Is it right for you to be angry about the plant?' Remember that God had prepared a plant to shade Jonah from the scorching heat while he waited to see what would happen to Nineveh. Then God prepared a worm that ate the plant, causing it to wither.

Continuing in verse 9, we read Jonah's response: "And he said, 'It is right for me to be angry, even to death!'"

Jonah's insistence that he is right in being angry reminds us of the parable which Jesus told in Luke 15 about the prodigal son. This son had moved far away and wasted all his inheritance. When he came back in repentance to his father's house, the father was so thankful and delighted that he threw a party. But the older brother was not happy. Jesus tells us this in Luke 15:28-30: "But he was angry and would not go in. Therefore his father came out and pleaded with him. So he answered and said to his father, 'Lo, these many years I have been serving you; I never transgressed your commandment at any time; and yet you never gave me a young goat, that I might make merry with my friends. But as soon as this son of yours came, who has devoured your livelihood with harlots, you killed the fatted calf for him." The elder son, like Jonah, was preoccupied with vindicating himself. Both were convinced that they were right and were unwilling to consider the possibility that they could be wrong.

However, God always has the last word, and today we shall begin to consider His response to Jonah. "But the LORD said, 'You have had pity on the plant for which you have not labored, nor made it grow, which came up in a night and perished in a night'" (Jonah 4:10). We see a striking contrast here. It was perhaps strange, even to Jonah's ears, to hear God telling him that he pitied a plant. In Jonah's case, this is strictly self-pity. Jonah missed the comfort of the shade that he had received from the plant. But God pities people. We are told that when Jesus and His disciples were trying to rest and take a little break, multitudes of people were coming out to Him. How did He react? We read in Matthew 9:36, "But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion for them, because they were weary and scattered, like sheep having no shepherd."

Lord willing, we shall see more of the unfolding of Jonah's situation next time. But for a closing application, let us consider God's grace and mercy in providing the plant for Jonah. Jonah did nothing to plant it or help it to grow. It was simply a gift. It is the same with salvation. We do not earn or deserve God's favor. The forgiveness of our sins, the provision of Christ's perfect righteousness, the blessing of eternal life in heaven are all free gifts, received by faith alone. As we read in Ephesians 2:8-9, "For by grace you have been saved through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God, not of works, lest anyone should boast." Friends, have you received God's free gift of salvation by trusting in Christ's payment, and that alone, to make you right with Him? Please be sure.

Drill Bit was living on an oil site in the Bakken for a few days. None of the local shelters would take him. The guys that found him raised the money to cover his vet bill and send him to us. He had a terrible reaction to the anesthesia when he was neutered and ended up scratching open his face and incision. He has been on a rough healing journey since. He is the sweetest cat and wants tons of attention. However, he is quite aggressive towards other cats. He needs a single cat home where he can finish healing and have unconditional love.

A Little Birdie Told Me

By: Vivian Hernandez

A Little Birdie Told Me: "When Visiting Medora Be Sure To Check-Out The Billings County Courthouse Museum."

The Museum was originally a dwelling with two apartments and common storage area in between. The building was converted into the Billings County Courthouse, the central unit was enlarged and the south portion became the jail. The second story was added in 1913 and became home to the courtroom, judge's chambers and clerk of court. A vault was added in 1953 for the Registrar of Deeds: The building served as the courthouse until 1983 when the new courthouse was built. The old courthouse was converted into the present day Billings County Courthouse Museum in 1986. The interior is much the same as back-in-the-day, the rooms now house period displays from a general store to ethnic culture and history of the area.

Living in rural North Dakota we are all aware of the dangers of a prairie fire, and that fear was realized in November of 1914 when a steam engine sparked a prairie fire. The fire quickly spread with aid of a 30 mile an hour wind and headed straight for the Rocky Ridge Country

Pray through it

By Kathy Craig Harteis

My folks were prayer warriors. I grew up believing that no prayers are wasted. It's ok to pray about the little things as well as the big ones.

I've had a stressful time this week. It stemmed from a malfunction of a computer program. It went on for a few days, but I kept praying for guidance. Finally, guidance came and solved the issue. This problem would have lost several years of my work.

I'm thankful God pays attention when we talk to Him. Nothing is too small or too big to take to Him.

Stress and blessings were equally mixed this week.

I had a road construction zone barrel blow into the side of my Camry. It caused more than $3,000 in damage. Good insurance is a blessing. No injury is one as well.

For Father's Day Tom and I took a picnic lunch to the park in Lemmon, SD. Then we visited the Petrified Wood Park and museum. It's a very interesting place. There are numerous petrified wood structures in the park and the museum is full of history.

Museum volunteer Joyce shared information about the area and made us feel welcome.

That is the bonus when visiting North and South Dakota sites. You always feel welcomed. Even Rocky dog was welcome.

Today we're attending the annual ecumenical service at the Amphitheater in Medora. It is always a beautiful service in a beautiful place.

Although our recent rains are a blessing to the earth it is also a not so welcome event at our house.

Work to repair some basement flooding began last week. The day after the giant hole was dug in our yard it started to rain. Now I'm considering opening a spa mud bath in our yard.

Like everything else, this too shall pass. It will dry out and the job will be finished.

Life is good today.

The local girl's varsity basketball program looks to be having a skills camp down at the armory and, I noticed something about these young ladies. First, one of my many "part time" gigs was as a high school and college football official for over 25 years. I retired when I moved to Mott back in 2018. Anyway, as a white hat (referee) or black hat (umpire), I was always positioned in either the offensive backfield or just behind the defensive line, so, I got to see/hear everything on the field up close and personal. And, over time my crew started to notice something about winning versus losing. Far too often, kids would talk about "playing" their favorite school sport as something that only took place during the season itself. Which, of course, was the exact opposite of my high school football, cross-country and track experience (back in the Stone Age) when we only got the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays off and, then commenced "off-season" weight lifting, running and conditioning for the next season. The ethos was that "champions pay the price" off the field if they want the team to have a good season.

Something I have always demanded in the martial arts program I have taught over the last 35 years. "Playing" the sport (on the field or in the ring) is paid-for by the hard work put in before the season/event because a team is only as strong as its weakest member. Heck, particularly, as a high school football official, we could tell you who was going to win the game at the half-time mid-field meeting. The winners ran out to the middle of the field and the team that walked out and then bent at-the-waist to catch their breath was not going to prevail. So, I have always watched sports programs to see who is "in shape" at the start of the season. Particularly, in a small community where substitutes are hard to come by. As the Russian Spetsnaz and hockey coach Herb Brooks say, "the legs feed the wolf".

Which brings me to Coach Sara Seidler and her Grant County/Mott-Regent team working hard this past week. Putting in the time at the gym. It is refreshing to see these kids paying the price and doing pre-season the hard work and, I think they deserved some credit. So... good luck this season ladies!

The second is to

Thoughts for the week

by June Schmidt

Gratitude is the quality of being thankful, readiness to show appreciation for and to return kindness. It's about focusing on what is good in our lives and being thankful for the things we have. Gratitude is pausing to notice and appreciate the things that we often take for granted, like having a place to live, food, clean water, friends, family and even computer access.

It often seems like the world has stopped thinking about what they have and are more concerned with what others have. Sure, its commonplace in our country to have what we consider basics of a roof over our heads, running water, electricity and food on our tables. But do we ever consider how many people there are that don't have these things and the fact that if our circumstances change, we might lose these things as well?

Children born after the Great Depression learned to use whatever they had until there was no use left in it, to wear clothing that was long out of fashion and worn out beyond repair, and to eat whatever was put in front of them and be happy about it because there may not be anything on the plate the next meal. When they said that they used everything, they weren't kidding. Every part of every animal had a purpose of some sort and there was no turning up your nose at anything if you were hungry enough. This is probably where a lot of the meals we think are so ethnic came from. Germans used a lot of flour type dishes, such as shoopnoodle, cream noodles, cheese buttons, strudle and more that made the small amount of meat, or possibly no meat, stretch to feed a family. Southerners got way more personal with some of the things that they used, such as chitlins, and most probably because the poorer that you were, the less access you had to prime cuts of meat. You ate whatever was handy, and if it was squirrel, grits and collard greens, it was food on the table. I wonder how many children there are out there right now, where their Mom is preparing something for each child to eat separately from the main dish being served because the child refused to eat it. Not at my table when I was a kid. You ate what was there or you didn't eat. We may not have liked it, but we ate it anyway, or we sat until we did. Now that is considered borderline abusive, but according to one comment made on social media, by a father that ran into this situation, their children learned to appreciate the food and the effort made to put that food on the table. He didn't have the money to cater to all his children's wants but was more concerned about their needs. Something to think about there.

Then there are the clothes. It was very common in my day to either get hand-me-downs from other children in the family or cousins, or Mom may have sewn an outfit or two for us. We didn't have a closet full of clothes, and generally got one new outfit for the first day of school, for Christmas and for Easter. If Grandma got you an outfit for one of those occasions, that was just a lucky break. You just got used to it, but since most of the class was in the same boat, barring the kids who's parents had money, it was no big deal. And we took care of our clothes - coming home from school and taking it off and putting on our play or work clothes was a requirement and the only way our good jeans had holes in them was when we wore the holes into them. Now, everyone feels like new clothes are necessary on a regular basis and if you don't have nice ones, then you are looked down upon. Holes are a necessity in the jeans and the more money you pay for them, the better. And why take care of them? Isn't that what Mom is for? Just drop them on the floor or kick them under the bed and who cares. When you need them again, they will miraculously find their way into your closet all nice and clean again. So if you have a hard time deciding what to wear, why not try on a few or several and just leave them lying around. They will find their way back into your closet just like in the movies. Or will they? Depends on the Mom and how much respect you have for her and your clothes.

So what do we do with the fact that gratitude is in short supply in many cases. If a child has not been told the worth of something, is it their fault when they are not happy with what they have? Who is responsible for explaining that everything that you get costs somebody something, so whether it was what they wanted or not it was bought with someone's hard work. Teaching a child to say thank you for a gift should be a given, no matter what the worth of that gift is. This is how we teach gratitude and raise people that are grateful and kind. If there is no cost to something, there is no value placed on that item, therefore it can be destroyed or lost without consequences. Spend time instead of money and raise children that are filled with kindness and gratitude for life and what it gives them. God Bless you all.

An atavist is in reference to an ancestor, such as the father of your great-grandfather. If you could go back far enough, you'd find out that we are all related to Noah. Even today, most people in the area of Mesopotamia are of a tannish complexion with black or auburn hair. All the progeny of Adam and Eve were drowned in the deluge. The scriptures do not tell us what race or color they were. Jehovah loves variety and color. He did not say 'All flowers will be one foot tall and have 5 yellow petals.' His purpose was for the earth to be filled with a righteous race of people of every kind.

What do you think? The scriptures do not tell us what the color of Noah's skin was, or his wife's. It tells us that Japheth was the firstborn. He and his wife are the progenitors of the Indo-European nations, better known as Caucasians. What if Noah's wife was of a darker skin and she gave birth to a child with light skin. What would she do? Throw up her hands and say, 'This is not my child! He's the wrong color!'

Their second son was titled, 'Ham'. The root word for 'Ham' is DARK. So now, Noah and his wife have a dark-skinned child. What do they say? 'This is not our child! Look at him, he's the wrong color. I won't raise this kid, he's not ours!'

Oh, then another son is born and he has almond-shaped eyes. What do they do? What do they say? 'This kid must belong to someone else.'

It was not God's intention that the population of earth would be divided by the color of the skin or the shape of the eyes.

He loves variety, not as national groups, but in every family. But Satan, in his determination to breed dissent, grouped people into races. Isn't it interesting that anthropologists consider that there are only three races, Caucasoid, Negroid and Mongoloid?

The atavist in all of us wants to know who our ancestors are. You can choose your friends, but you can't choose your ancestors.

Children who have been adopted often want to know who parented them. They make a great effort to find out who their genetical parents were even if they're better off not knowing.

Doris Day, a 1940's songstress and movie star was married to an Al Jorden, musician, and she gave birth to a dark-skinned child. Tests proved that they were the parents. It is the same with certain talents. All my children inherited my gifts of creativity, but one. She seems to have no musical sense at all. I asked her why she didn't learn to play an instrument and she said, 'Oh, but Mom, I do. I play the radio all day long.'
