- DECISION -

“Move the MT”

Crash, bang, tumbling - - finally at rest. MeMe lay there- what happened? Where am I? Not a sound - - except for a crowing in the distance - maybe - - all kinds of weird thoughts ran thru MeMe --.

Now what? Standing up all MeMe could see was a huge Mt. “Where am I? Am I dreaming? Am I alive - - must be - - I can see, I hear, what sounds like a rooster - - must be a farm or something around.” So MeMe began walking.

Tired out, head and body hurting, MeMe sat down to rest. “If I could just figure out where I am - did I fall into another world - why can't I find anyone?” - - then MeMe began to scream - - “Help Me, Help Me” - - but no one heard and every way MeMe turned, the same Mt. was all that could be seen.

Am I lost forever? My friends, relatives, will they ever find me - maybe I'm just dreaming, maybe I'm not real. Maybe - maybe - exhausted, hurting, hungry, MeMe saw something - - a blanket - - where did that come from - - who cares. I'm so tired, covered self and fell into a deep sleep.

Dreaming, dreaming, falling into - - a Mt. In dream - a man comes, MeMe questions - - where am I how did I get here - how do I find home, who will find me - - questions, questions. The man answers - - move the Mt. Impossible - - and MeMe began to laugh. Move the Mt. - - Impossible and the laughter becomes loud enough to wake MeMe.

Again the day is consumed with walking around and looking for a way home. The Time Machine, all things experienced for the last year, so many stories to tell and now. Again the question, Now what? Answer - - Move the Mt.!

Another day went by and no sign of any living creature - - only a blanket and a Mt. By now hunger pains began to make noises - - causing MeMe to not be able to sleep - - Now what? Again was the question and the answer would always be the same. Move the Mt.

Encircled by the Mt. MeMe finally came to the realization that at least try - - at least I'll have something to do - - so began to remove some of the dirt - - only to find the dirt had cover a black bag.

Excited, MeMe pulled the bag from the hole - - wow, a treasure - but soon turned back to sadness - - what good is a treasure if I can't get out of this place/ But continued on, opened the bag and - what's this? - -

The only thing in the bag was a piece of paper with a memory written - - one of MeMe's very painful memories - - MeMe sat and sobbed - then remembered how the only way to get rid of the memory was to bury it - - which MeMe had done - - never talk to anyone, play on the computer, but never deal with it.

The next bag came out. Again MeMe looked at the note when as a young person, a group of them blamed someone else instead of telling the truth about the baseball going thru the neighbors window.

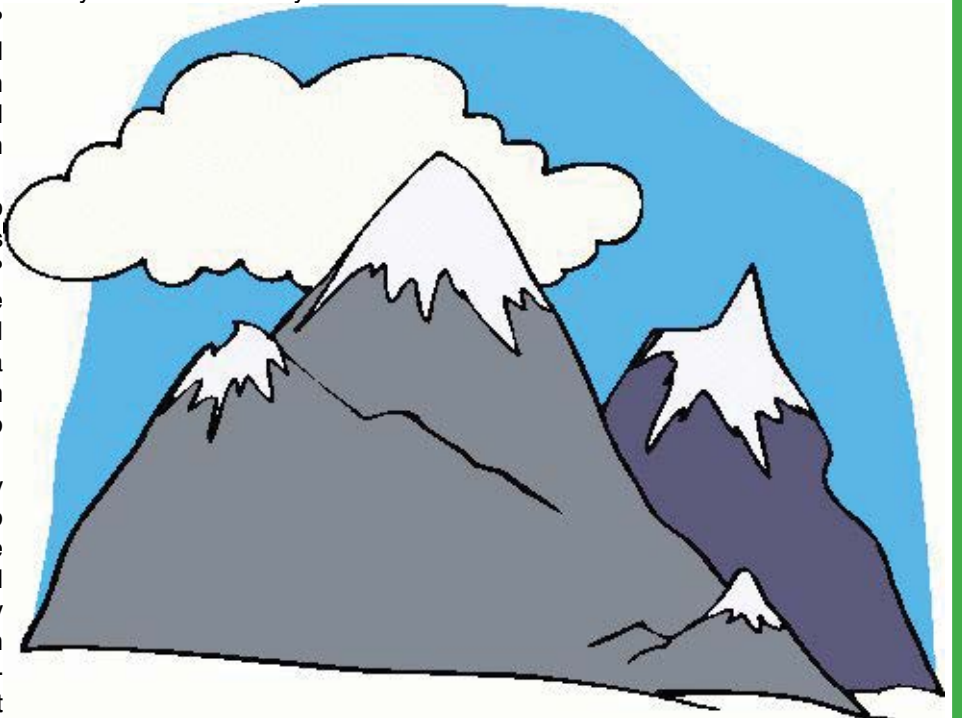

One by one, MeMe pulled out another piece of garbage that had formed who MeMe was - -

And one day MeMe saw the Time Machine, friends, family, smiled and said - “I moved the Mt.”

MeMe's advice is always “tell someone your story - -” You too can Mott the Spot is coming this weekend and, my martial arts student dance team is performing at 1:00 PM this Saturday on Brown Ave. This year it was a guy's turn to choreograph an original number and, so, Thor (nickname) came up with Insane in the Brain by Cypress Hill. I know, for us Boomers, that is just a jumble of words which means absolutely nothing but, I was able to find the "clean" version and, like I tell the crowd each performance that ain't as easy as it sounds nowadays. Anyway, with lyrics like, "I'll just toss that ham in the frying pan, like Spam, get done when I come and slam", how could we go wrong? The other songs will be Here Comes the Sun, Play that Funky Music, Uptown Funk and, if time permits, our famous Kung Fu Fighting. A diverse mix to be sure and, an ode to the hard work put in by these kids including my granddaughter.

Which is the point this week! At a time where everyone seems to be at each other's throats and, no one can agree to find common ground on anything; isn't it nice to just go to our small, hometown festival and...relax? And, my kids! At a time where most children are depressed and aimlessly wandering with their iPhone, I have children with me that have been in our program now for over SIX YEARS some spending over 10 hrs. each week by the time they train and work on their dance routines! They come in as elementary school students and, then, promote and, start driving a car. Hard work, indomitable spirit, courtesy, integrity, honor...not TikTok clicks. Future men and women who learned under the "old school" method that rewards hard work and courtesy NOT paying a monthly fee or just "participating". Their only opponent is themselves.

To be honest, our numbers are shrinking and, I've had to divide the 2-hour sessions at the armory into two periods—beginners and advanced. Modern children just do not come in anymore to actually pad up and hit each other (even with medium contact), listen to constructive criticism, maintain their GPA at school, do their chores at home and be a good child, friend and teammate. I've been at this for over 60 years and, opened my first dojo on February 10, 1990, with an unbroken line since then. But, to be honest, each summer, I am amazed that we are still here and demonstrating an outstanding dance routine. I teach because MY instructors took the time to teach an autistic, nerd with no discernable skills in the 1970's. Some 6,000 trainees later, I don't believe I have yet paid those sensei back. So, I hope we see you this Saturday and, have a great week.

Julian Burgess, Pastor-Western Plains Baptist Church, Bowman, ND

Over the last few weeks we have been in the Book of Genesis looking at the early years of man and how they sinned against God and how thru sin God had to remove them from the Garden of Eden. And how after being removed from the Garden man continued to live in the world and sin and living a life against the life God had envisioned for them. When God created the world, He created us to love Him and be His, to walk in the cool of the evening with Him, for man to have a close relationship with Him, to be His. But when God allowed man to have a choice and He allowed satan to be a part of that choice, man chose the world and what satan offered over what God offered man. The sinful life style that man chose to live went against everything God intended for man. This life style grieved the Heart of God and He was sorry that He had created man. Genesis 6:6-7 says and the Lord was sorry that He had made man on the earth, and He was grieved in His heart. So the Lord said I will destroy whom I have created from the face of the earth, both man and beast, creeping things and birds of the air, for I am sorry that I made them. How we as mankind had allowed satan to enter into our lives and completely destroy something God had created to be so precious to Him, His crown jewel of creation. God was sorry that He had created man and was ready to wipe man off the planet and be done with us. But in God's love for His perfect crown jewel, He found something that was worth saving. Genesis 6:8 but Noah found grace in the eyes of the Lord. God loved us so much that He was looking for a way to save us and that we would have a way to continue, God found that in Noah. God allowed Noah to build a boat that would allow mankind to survive the flood and also save some of every kind of animal, insect, bird of His creation. He allowed everything that He saved on this boat to be a new beginning, to start over. So after the boat was built and Noah had gathered all the living creatures and had them secured on this boat, he brought his wife and 3 sons and there wives on the boat, 8 people that God chose would survive the flood. For a 150 days they were on this boat before the water was gone and the boat was on dry land and everything and everyone was safely on dry earth, ready to start a new life and a new beginning. God is such a loving God, if He weren't, when man had fallen so far into sin, instead of looking for a way to save man, He would have simply destroyed them and that would have been the end. That right here shows us the love of God. All the way through Bible God is showing us just how much He loves us. God gave His only Son to die on the Cross that we may have life, have life more abundantly, but a life that is lived through Him and for Him. God tells us all the way through the Old Testament that if we love Him with all our heart, soul and mind that we would be His people and that He would be our God, that as His we would be living in a land flowing with milk and honey. Our encouragement for today is that God loves us, over and over He is calling us into a life with Him, but, by giving us a choice, it is for us to choose Him.

We are on Earth to take care of life. We are on Earth to take care of each other.

It takes a town
(with heart)
By Kathy Craigo- Harteis

Over the weekend a little dog escaped from its traveling family.

She ran and ran avoiding contact for several days.

Many of us in Beach, North Dakota tried for days to rescue her but she didn't want any part of us.

She was frightened, tired and thirsty for about four days. It wasn't known if she was lost or dumped. Yet, she wore a little pink harness so lost from her family seemed logical.

At last she was captured, pampered and fed.

Her owners were contacted but for various reasons they couldn't come and get her.

We now know this little girl is a 4 year old Chihuahua Pug mix named Luna. Her owners agreed that Luna could be rehomed.

The latest report from our local pet guru Lori is that Luna is bathed, fed and watered and resting in a comfy blanket. She has met her new human and will look forward to a happy, safe and loved life.

This story has a happy ending. It has a happy ending because so many people cared and made an effort to help this little creature.

Luna was one lucky pup, and through trial and error and a lot of fear, she found her place.

I'm thankful to live a community of compassionate people.

Last night our town was hit with 70 mph wind and torrential rain and golf ball size hail.

Again, the community rallied. Once the storm passed and we were assessing damages, it was not uncommon to have neighbors pull up and offer assistance.

North Dakotans are tough. Regardless, we look out for one another.

I know there is a lot of damage all over town.

At our house we have good size hail dimples on both vehicles, a missing side mirror and cracked tail lights on the Camry and a busted out back window on the Jeep. We have window trim damage on the house but thank God no broken glass.

No matter, we'll count our blessings.

Together we'll bounce back. Life is good today.

A Little Birdie Told Me
By: Vivian Hernandez
A Little Birdie Told Me: "Father's Day is June 16th."
Father's Day has its origins back as far as the Middle Ages and was celebrated on March 19th the Feast Day of St. Joseph. In many European Countries such as Spain, Italy, Portugal it continues to be celebrated on March 19th, in the United States we celebrate Father's Day on the third Sunday in June.

Father's Day was first celebrated in Spokane Washington as a statewide holiday on June 19th, 1910 but it took 58 years for President Richard Nixon to make it official in 1972, 58 years after President Woodrow Wilson made Mother's Day official.

Sonora Smart Dodd from Spokane Washington originally from Arkansas is credited with the first celebration of Father's Day in the US.

Sonora's Father, William Jackson Smart was a Civil War Veteran and a single parent who raised six children.

My Dad was a gentle and kind but also firm. He loved his 12 children but rarely said the words. His own Father died young and my Dad being the oldest stepped up and became a Dad to many of his siblings. He did whatever it took to support them and later his own children. He served in the CCC's (Civilian Conservation Corp) at the age of 16, fighting forest fires in Montana and California. He served in World War II, farmed, and drove school bus & propane truck, measured bins and many other odd jobs to care for his family. He read at Mass on Sundays and led the rosary before daily Mass. His love for the Catholic Faith is the greatest gift he passed on to me.
To anyone who did not have Three things in human life are important. The first is to be kind. The second is to be kind. And the third is to be kind.

West River Ambulance Receives New Rig

Since its establishment in 1944, West River Ambulance (WRA) has been faithfully serving the Hettinger and Adams County area for 80 years. A notable milestone occurred in 1968 when WRA became the first North Dakota ambulance service to provide formalized training to its volunteer members. Another significant achievement followed in 1987, as the service became the first volunteer ambulance service in North Dakota to employ a full-time paramedic, offering Advanced Life Support (ALS) services to the coverage area. What perfect timing during the anniversary year for West River Ambulance to receive a 2024 Ford E450 Type Three Arrow two-wheel drive Ambulance with a 7.3L V8 gasoline engine. This new rig marks a perfect addition to its ambulance fleet.

Emergency Medical Services Interim Manager Tyler Kientopf mentioned that the ambulance service is currently seeking individuals interested in working as ambulance drivers, Emergency Medical Responders, or Emergency Medical Technicians. He emphasized the importance of drivers and other team members in enabling EMS providers to devote their time to the patient. For details about the requirements or qualifications needed to join the team, please contact Tyler, at 701-567-6209. West River Health Services Administrator Alyson Kornele expressed gratitude, saying, "Thank you to everyone who made charitable contributions to support our EMS operation, and to our dedicated volunteers. # Big Sticks Announce 2024 Share the Glove Recipient

Richardton Baseball Club receives equipment grant from the Northwoods League Foundation

Richardton, ND – The Badlands Big Sticks and the Northwoods League Foundation are proud to announce the Richardton Baseball Club as the recipient of the Share the Glove Baseball Grant for the 2024 season.

The Big Sticks traveled to Richardton to present new equipment at the team's Tuesday night practice. Through the Share the Glove youth equipment grant, the team was awarded brand new Rawlings equipment including catcher's gear, batting helmets, bats, baseballs, and gloves. "We are so thankful for the Northwoods League Foundation and the Big Sticks" said Little League Coach Mike Rivinius, "you have no idea what this means to our program for this season and beyond."

The Northwoods League Foundation is a 501(c)(3) charitable organization that serves as a vehicle to transform a shared passion for baseball into positive change and support for communities. The mission of the Northwoods League Foundation is to utilize the game of baseball to enrich the quality of life for children and families with an enduring and caring focus on Northwoods League communities.

Supporting youth sports, including baseball, are also one of the core values of the Badlands Big Sticks. General Manager Logan Hoff says, "Youth sports in our community are huge for the development of the children in our region, and for bringing our communities closer together. Baseball and softball rule the summer, and the Big Sticks have our community youth teams represented at every single home game this season. Finally, our community is not just Dickinson, but the entire southwest corner of North Dakota. We are proud to support the Richardton Baseball Club and their efforts to expand this great game!"

The Richardton Baseball Club will be recognized on the field during the Big Sticks June 17th game against the Bismarck Larks. The 50/50 raffle during that game will also go towards supporting the efforts of the Richardton Baseball Club.

SOLDIER FOR THE AGES
By Francis Martin

Continued from last week

Pauly asked him again, "Whose car is that?"
"My sister, Kathryn."
He didn't want Pauly to hear whatever it was that Kathryn was planning to say.
"Hey Buckeroo, how would you like to ride home on Sarge by yourself?"
"Really?"
"Why not? You're a big boy and he's a good gentle horse. When you get home, Mamma will help you take the saddle off. She'll be really proud of you."
He lifted Pauly back in the saddle and made sure he had the reins right. "Adios, pardner."
He tapped Sarge on the butt and watched them go up the trail to their home.
Well, he said to himself, a confrontation with Kathryn couldn't be any worse than the one he'd had with 'Gunny' Borman. The difference was that Borman got himself blown up because of his arrogance, and that wasn't apt to happen to Kathryn Martin.
He stiffened his spine and went into the house.
"Well, Look who's here, Mom. Gen. James Custer," she said with glee in her sneer, "I hear you're raising more little Custers."

James hadn't seen his sister in years. Her smashing good looks and her acid personality were a deadly combination. He sometimes wondered how she got born into this family.
"Hello to you, too," he said, "What are you doing here? You hate this place."
"I'm doing the right thing. Remember when you were getting on the troop carrier at Seattle? Some turnout, huh? A thousand protesters and I organized it just for you."
"But you weren't there."
"I'm not stupid, stupid. I just organize. I take my baths at the Ritz-Carlton."
"So, you knew from the beginning that the National Guard was going to spray them into oblivion."
"We counted on it. We made the front page of every paper in the country. Our stand against the war in Vietnam made AMERICA get out of the war. It's just like you to join the 7th Cavalry. I knew you'd be there."
"I got drafted. Joined and drafted are not the same thing."
"Oh, don't give me any of that crap. When you applied to enter West Point, I got a letter from the Academy asking about your personality. Let's put that in quotation marks since you're just an optical illusion of a soldier. Come to think of it, you're looking pretty good for a general who was born in 1830. Let's see, that makes you ...ah...138 years old! Wy, you're a soldier for the ages! Did you get your back pay? Wow! That's a hundred years of back pay! No wonder Uncle Sam is broke."

Caroline burst into the kitchen, "Kathryn, do you hear what you are saying?"

"Oh yeah. If James hadn't been your little pet all these years, I'd have taken him to Custer's Last Stand and shot him myself."

"Wy James, you'd be the hero you imagined you were all these years, she went on, "You'd have your name chiseled on polished granite. Your face would be in every newspaper in the country. You'd leave a legacy..."

That was when Caroline slapped her. "Get out!"

Kathryn's cheek turned a deep red. She must have rehearsed this last good-bye many times because she said, "You're going to wake up one of these days and discover that the Asians own these country, and brainwashed idiots like you and that weakling, Dan'll be praying to Buddha for salvation."

"Kathryn, the problems of this world are caused by man and man cannot solve them."

"No, and all man does is contribute to them. The people I organize are AGAINST war (she looked at James) and warriors, even those as old as James. You just don't get it. I know the CHURCH teaches that love is a virtue, but if no one would fight, there would be no more wars. But the facts are that the CHURCHES, Catholic, Protestant, Muslim, whatever, have been involved and promoted every war this earth has ever fought."

Caroline said knowledgeably, "The Bible says, 'I am making wars to cease to the ends of the earth. Man cannot do that, or woman, only the one who has the ultimate position.'"

"People like Liz Miller need to have their brains examined. Oh, I forgot, you have to have a brain to examine it. Ta ta."

James came to breakfast looking like a man who hadn't slept well. It was not uncommon for him to prowl around the house at night when he had something on his mind. Once when she got up at 2 a.m. to tend to the baby, she found him asleep with Pauly. But she hadn't heard him last night.

"What are you doing today?" she asked as she poured him a big cup of coffee.

"Dad and I are between planting wheat and cutting hay. Why do you ask?"

"I just talked to your mom. She said Shorty is coming up here today. I told Pauly about your tent and he's all excited. He was going to ask you about it as soon as you got home yesterday, but you were late, and he fell asleep. 'Why don't you surprise him. He'd get to see you guys putting it up. It's something he'd never forget."

He didn't answer.

She said, "How about some breakfast?"

He said, "Can you make me a bacon and egg sandwich?"

Kadee made the sandwich and put it on a plate for him. He wrapped it in a paper towel and went outside.

A cold chill ran down her spine. He was off his meds.

She watched him cross the yard and go into the barn. A while later, he came out with his horse, got on and rode away over the hills to the north.

Something had happened. He won't talk to me about it. What? What?

The baby, Nicky, was walking now and he was a handful. Not only that, Pauly was teaching him to do things that he could do, but a might dangerous for Nicky. She could hear them talking and making noises in the bedroom. The boys were busy.

She picked up the phone and called Caroline. No answer.

If Shorty was already there, Caroline was probably outside. She waited a few minutes and called again. No answer. She called the elevator in Gladstone. It rang several times before her father-in-law answered.

"I'm sorry to bother you, Paul, but..."

"No bother," he said, "What do you need?"

She hesitated before she said, "Its James. He's off his meds. I don't know what happened. He's been doing really well. Something must have happened."

Paul Martin said something unprintable. "Where is he?"

"I don't know. He saddled Sarge and rode away."

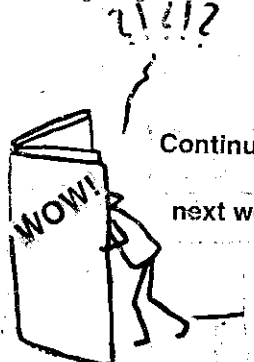

"Is Shorty there?"
"No. I don't know. Nobody answers the phone."

He said something about Kathryn being a catalyst. Then he said to Kadee, "Stay put. It takes two or three days before the meds wear off just like it does for them to start working. I can't leave here right now. There's just me and one hand."

"What should I do?"

"If I knew the answer to that question, he wouldn't have this problem. If Shorty comes, he'll try to talk some sense into James. I gotta go."

Producers offer free tour June 25 focusing on improving rangeland health through juniper control strategies

MEDORA, N.D. — In coordination with the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), the North Dakota Wildlife Federation, and other partners, the North Dakota Badlands Restoration Project is offering producers a free tour on Tuesday, June 25 focusing on improving rangeland health through juniper control strategies. The event starts at 10 a.m. Mountain Time at the Medora Community Center with a presentation discussing the effects on plant composition, forage quality, and soil impacts in juniper removal areas. The tour, departing and returning to Medora, runs from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mountain Time, featuring stops at juniper removal management sites. Free bus transportation and lunch are provided. For registration and more information, visit www.northdakotawildlife.org/event.

Wildfire Risk and Collaboration
Junipers increase wildfire risk due to their flammability and ability to spread hot embers. Collaborative efforts between NRCS and the U.S. Forest Service have led to the North Dakota Badlands Restoration Project, aimed at managing juniper stands using mechanical methods.

Producers Act Against Juniper Spread
Kim Shade and Alan Richard are actively combating the spread of Rocky Mountain junipers on their ranches near Medora in southwest North Dakota. "Junipers have become my worst noxious weed," says Shade, who purchased a track hoe mounted tree shear to clear junipers encroaching on grasslands. "Junipers have become a real problem," agrees Richard, who enlisted a contractor with a track hoe mounted tree masticator to grind up encroaching junipers.

Water Consumption and Erosion Concerns

An 8 1/2-inch diameter juniper tree can consume 30-35 gallons of water a day, posing a significant threat in areas like the Badlands, which receive minimal precipitation. Dense juniper stands can also dry up springs and creeks, exacerbating erosion and depriving wildlife and livestock of essential habitat and forage.

Addressing the Juniper Invasion Historically

USDA is transforming America's food system with a greater focus on more resilient local and regional food production, fairer markets for all producers, ensuring access to safe, healthy and nutritious food in all communities, building new markets and streams of income for farmers and producers using climate smart food and forestry practices, making historic investments in infrastructure and clean energy capabilities in rural America, and committing to equity across the Department by removing systemic barriers and building a workforce more representative of America. USDA is an equal opportunity provider, employer, and lender. To learn more, visit usda.gov.

Joan Hintz Rites

Joan Hintz, 84, passed away June 1, 2024 at St. Luke's in Dickinson ND.

Joan Bernice Hintz was born on January 3, 1940, to Charles and Lillian (Enochs) Hawn. She was the youngest of 14 children. Joan attended school in Mott and New England. Joan married Richard Allen Hintz on January 17, 1958, in the Congregational Church of Mott. To this union, three daughters Lenora, Tammie, Melissa and one son Rickie were born. Joan loved being a farmwife, she was happiest when she was by Richard's side. It didn't matter if they were milking cows, in the field, or at the Casino as long as they were together. She was always ready for a quick trip to Deadwood or Prairie Knights. The nickel slot machines were her favorite. Joan and Richard spent many evenings playing pinochle. She always complained that Richard would never let her win a game. She spent many hours reading a book while waiting for Richard, Rick and the boys to finish seeding a field. Joan loved being outside. Her favorite things to do were mowing the lawn and pulling weeds. Family was very important to Joan. She enjoyed spending time with her grandkids and making their favorite meals. Her knoephla soup, popcorn balls, buns and famous homemade gravy were often top requests. She always had an abundant supply of ice cream bars and a special candy bucket. Joan loved Junior Mints and would tell the grandkids they were good for their tummy. No one ever left Grandma's house with an empty stomach.

The family would like to extend sincere "Thanks" to the staff of Country House and St. Luke's who created many moments of joy for Mom. We hope that every time you see a bottle of Pepsi, white cheddar popcorn and a word search book, you will think of Joan.

Joan is survived by daughters, Lenora (Kyle) Mundstock of Bismarck, Tammie Hintz of Dickinson; son, Rickie (Margo) Hintz of Bentley; daughter, Melissa (Terry) Kirschmann of Regent; ten grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Joan was preceded in death by her parents and husband Richard.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that memorials be made to the Alzheimer's Association.

Reflections on the Words of Life
by Pastor Paul Ferrie, Grace Reformed Church of the Lord Jesus, New Leipzig

We have spent quite a bit of time of 1 Peter 1:2: "Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace to you and peace be multiplied." This verse is packed with meaning, and I am sure we've barely scratched the surface. Last time we saw that obedience is a necessary result of election. Here in our verse this refers specifically to obedience to the truth of the gospel—or faith in Christ alone for salvation. Today we come to the phrase "and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ." Obedience, as far as God is concerned, is only found in those who have been sprinkled with the blood of Jesus Christ.

Sprinkling of blood is an obvious allusion to the Old Testament ritual of sprinkling the people of Israel with the blood of the animal sacrifices in order to set them apart as the special people of God. We read in Hebrews 9:19-22, "For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people according to the law, he took the blood of calves and goats, with water, scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book itself and all the people, saying, 'This is the blood of the covenant which God has commanded you.' Then likewise he sprinkled with blood both the tabernacle and all the vessels of the ministry. And according to the law almost all things are purified with blood, and without shedding of blood there is no remission."

The writer of Hebrews tells us that without the shedding of blood, there is no remission of sins. Yet, he also tells us in Hebrews 10:4 that the blood of the animal sacrifices could not take away sin. So why did Moses sprinkle the people with animal blood? By doing so, Moses was picturing the blood that Jesus would shed on the cross. And so the writer of Hebrews goes on to say in Hebrews 12:24 that believers have come "to Jesus the Mediator of the new covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling."

Friend, are you sprinkled with the blood of Jesus Christ? In other words, are you trusting in His payment for sin on the cross to make you right with God? All other religions of the world are telling people how they might establish a relationship with God by something they do. But it will never work. It cannot work. Those poor people will never know the comfort of forgiveness of their sins and the cleansing of a guilty conscience. For the only way to become right with God is through the way He Himself has provided in the death of His Son. Are you relying on yourself or upon the Lord Jesus? If you are relying upon Jesus, then your sins are forgiven. Jesus paid in full the penalty for them. And if you are relying upon Jesus, then your life is going to change. God will be at work in you. The Holy Spirit will be changing your way of viewing God, yourself, and all of life. And you can look forward to an eternity of joy in heaven. Please be sure that this most important issue has been settled for you.

NDSU welcomes 41 scholars back to North Dakota Governor's School

Fargo, N.D., May 30, 2024 - North Dakota State University is pleased to welcome 41 scholars to North Dakota Governor's School class of 2024. Scholars represent 27 high schools, 21 school districts and 17 counties from across the state.

The four-week residential program, which is returning to campus after a four-year hiatus, will kick off with an opening ceremony on Sunday, June 2 from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at NDSU's A. Glenn Hill Center, room 112. Sponsoring Senator Ron Sorvaag, R-Fargo, will provide remarks at the ceremony.

Scholars reside on NDSU's campus during the month of June while they attend class, engage in immersive research, small-group instruction and hands-on experiences and participate in enriching extracurricular activities geared toward STEM.

"We're excited to welcome students to NDSU to experience the uniqueness of our campus and educational offerings," said NDSU President David Cook. "I look forward to getting to know each Governor's School scholar. I know they will get a transformative experience during their summer here at NDSU."

Scholars were selected through a competitive application process and were admitted based on their academic achievements, above average abilities in STEM disciplines and teacher/counselor recommendation. They also were required to submit a personal essay as part of their application.

The following students have been admitted into the respective programs:

Informational technology:

Aidan Zacher, Grant County High School

Alexia Schaible, Mott/Regent Public High School

Mathematics:

Alisha Twogood, New England High School

Emily Helsper, Beach High School

This year's scholars will present their research while meeting other Governor School alumni on Thursday, June 27 with a closing ceremony scheduled for Friday, June 28 from 12:45 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. at NDSU's A. Glenn Hill Center, room 112.

North Dakota Governor's School, which began at NDSU in 1990, allows high-achieving, scholastically motivated North Dakota high school students who have completed their sophomore or junior year to experience what life is like on a college campus.

The North Dakota Legislature provides Governor's School funding to help pay for student housing, dining, resident assistants, program directors, instructors and faculty research sponsors. The program is funded by Senate Bill 2200, which was sponsored by senators Ron Sorvaag, R-Fargo, and Larry Luick, R-Fairmount.

The North Dakota Governor's School is affiliated with more than 55 other Governor's School programs throughout 25 states in the National Conference of Governor's Schools.

that is at fault if you accidentally spill that liquid in your lap? Or is it that you did something that you should not have done, and must accept responsibility for the fact that you should have known better if you get burned? One of the first things my mother had to teach me, since we had a wood burning stove, was the word 'hot' so that I would not get burned on it. So who do we blame if a child is not taught what they need to know? Should we then blame an inanimate object? Or is it more likely that we should know that children should be taught basics of life when they are small and also to be taught to take responsibility for their own actions. That would make them a responsible person with the capabilities of accepting what is right and wrong and not blaming others for their own mistakes. If more people would start with those little things, maybe then the bigger things would also proceed from that point. Perhaps then more people would not eat the inedible fruit and we would not have to post the signs that say to stay away from it, and feel silly while doing it. God Bless you All.

Thoughts for the Week

by June Schmidt

I saw a sign that had been hung on a box of decorative apples in a hobby store that said: 'don't eat these, they are not edible' and right below it was a statement by the person that wrote it saying: I can't believe that I have to write this. Is it possible that in our world that even the simplest things must be explained to prevent harm as if we do not, people will either do what they shouldn't or worse yet, sue the store for not telling them? I would like to say not, but I am thinking more and more that our society has become so accustomed to having people tell them what to do and think, that it is necessary.

Growing up in North Dakota, I would like to think that we have done a better job of educating our children as to what is harmful and what is not, but I am also amazed at what I hear in the news, even in our little less populated state. Too many people seem to think that if we are not told it is wrong for us, then we should still do it, even if we know it is wrong, and if we get hurt, then we can always sue somebody and get loads of cash. So if we are stupid enough to eat a plastic decorative apple and get sick from it, even though we know it is not edible, but if someone didn't post it, now we should sue the store for not telling us and maybe we can sue the manufacturer of the decorative fruit as it should be stamped unedible. Does this sound as stupid to you as it does to me?

I realize that some things we did as children were not always safe. We did what others did and played with what we had. We used sticks to play fight with, we slid down hot metal slides, we played with toys that were metal and had sharp edges and we survived. We had bb guns and didn't 'shoot our eye out' but probably a few windows got broken that shouldn't have. We played in mud and we ate school glue, and we drank from water hoses and possibly from stock tanks. We got dirty on a regular basis and we had fun, and mostly we didn't get more than a few scrapes and scratches. Most of us when we were growing up, were taught simple jobs to do, we helped to feed chickens and cows, we swept out graneries and some of us were taught to drive by our Dads with a tractor, first standing beside him and seeing how the gears worked and then sitting in front of him as he worked the pedals and we learned to steer. Young boys on the farm quite often learned to drive the smaller tractors to grade yards and other things, graduating to larger equipment to help out on the farm. I wonder how many do these things now.

However it is, there is a matter of common sense, and I am not sure how we strayed so far from that to the unbelievably strange situation that we are now in. If you know that a stove is hot or that a liquid that is poured from a pot from that stove into a cup that is given to you, is it the stove or the cup
