“Best Friend”

Mojo - opened his wings - allowed the air current to carry him up - up - up into the great blue horizon - sun slowly starting to peek over the clouds of disaster that had frightened the rest of the kingdom to seek shelter - storms at this time were hap/hazard - maybe yes, maybe no - but today even the air currents seemed to speak of a storm.

But - - Mojo - well he had a special job to do - and being the good kind buzzard - he was going to do his job no matter what and that was the clean up job - he would fly across the land - pick up dead animals or pieces of garbage laying on the roadside - carry it to the buzzard community and all benefited from his work. He was one happy buzzard.

Then in the animal kingdom there was also - Big Smart Eagle - who - when he spread his wings - they were twice as big and beautiful as Mojo - head was pure as a new sunshine - white as snow - and when Smart flew around people noticed - paid attention and he could do no wrong.

You guessed it - Smart acted the part to perfection - he was definitely one of the most beautiful creatures in the animal kingdom- and = surprising - he had one huge flaw - he was Eagle Almighty - you know - the kind that can make no mistake - only he was in for a surprise.

Everyday Smart would fly past Mojo - not cuz of the area but because he wanted to make sure he was noticed - if Mojo flew high - Smart flew higher - Mojo just kept doing his job of looking down to see what had to be done - - if he saw several dead animals lay on the roadside he would then make several trips to keep the earth clean - was his job and he was happy with what he could do.

But this day - letting his wings carry him into the air he felt the difference in the air streams and knew there would be more rough air currents and also - - by now- - knew he better pay attention or there would be a disaster - he also knew that he better watch out for Smart - cuz Smart was big and beautiful - in fact there were times as Smart flew overhead that Mojo wished he were as beautiful and majestic as Smart - but today - winds picking up. \ No time for small matters - Mojo could already see debris that lay below him - fighting the wind gusts, Mojo flew a little slower - taking all his strength to finally land in a pile of desolation below - where the wind had knocked out the free flying sails of many of Mojo's little friends - tears of sadness were shed as Mojo felt the pain of the loss of some of them but also happy because it wasn't he - for he was just a scavenger hunter - no one important.

Then amidst the debris he spotted something white - Smart - Smart too had misjudged the wind/air flow and ended up - still alive - Mojo picked him up - flew slow/steady - fighting the wind currents and placed Smart back in his nest high in the mountains.

To this day, Smart never forgot how he made fun of a plain/dumb old scavenger - who taught him - the least expected can become your best friend.

Discover How Easy a Great Graphic Can Be!

Local business owners, organizations, and residents will have two opportunities to learn how to create professional-looking graphics this October. A Canva for Beginners class will be offered in Hettinger and Bowman, providing hands-on guidance for anyone ready to learn the basics of design.

The same beginner-friendly class will be held at two locations:

- Hettinger: Tuesday, October 13, 2026, from 4 to 6 p.m. at The Rural Collective.
- Bowman: Wednesday, October 14, 2026, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Mainspace.

This hands-on class will introduce participants to Canva, an online graphic design tool, and show how to create professional-looking designs without previous design experience. Business owners, employees, community organizations, educators, students, and anyone interested in learning Canva's basics are welcome.

Participants will explore templates, images, fonts, and branding features while learning to customize designs with their own colors, photos, and graphics. The class will cover creating social media posts, flyers, posters, and other promotional materials, along with how to download, share, and print completed designs.

Whether you're promoting a local business, planning an event, or working on a personal project, this class will help you build confidence and put your ideas into practice.

Participants should bring a laptop, charger, and an active email address. Those who can are encouraged to sign up for a free Canva account before attending.

The cost is $30 per person. Register at www.gomainspace.com/event-details/bowman-canva-for-beginners.

The 2026 New Leipzig Oktoberfest Committee would like to extend our most sincere Thank You to everyone who came to celebrate the fall harvest with us. We appreciate seeing old, and new friends, families, neighbors and new faces come together, whether it was all three days or just a few hours.

Thank you goes out to the church booths, food trucks, vendors and to everyone who supported them. To all the volunteers...Thank you. To all the participants...Thank you. To the entertainment...Thank you. The Friday night supper was well attended and delicious as always.

To the City of New Leipzig for all the help prior to the Oktoberfest and all the clean-up that was done on Monday morning. What a great Crew!

All the beautiful fall decorations scattered around town gave off such a nice warm welcome. Once again, we are so proud. It was decided that to anyone who put the time in to make our town look so grand that no specific prize would be awarded, and that everyone is a winner. Great Job!

Always remember that the New Leipzig Oktoberfest is held the last full weekend in September. We'll see you at the 57th annual Oktoberfest to be held September 24-26th, 2027. The plans have already begun.

Save those Dates!

Thank You!

I want to thank all my kids and some of my grandkids for coming to Bowman and giving me a most enjoyable 80th birthday party at South Main Lanes. We had 3 to 4 alleys going almost full time from 1:30 - 7:30pm. What a blast! Josh, you guys went above and beyond. The meal was SO GOOD! Wanda, you looked after the bowlers besides helping with the meal - what a trooper! Thank you both so much.

JMHCC hosting healthcare session Oct. 15

The public is invited to a community conversation on rural healthcare at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15, at Our Place Cafe, Elgin.

Join a community listening session on rural healthcare and be eligible to win a $50 gift card.

In collaboration with Jacobson Memorial Hospital Care Center (JMHCC), the East Tennessee State University (ETSU) Center for Rural Health and Research is conducting a research study on behalf of the Commonwealth Fund to identify which healthcare services rural residents, healthcare providers and local policymakers consider "essential." Findings may inform planning for rural healthcare service delivery and access across the United States. As part of this research study, ETSU is hosting 90-minute community listening sessions to understand residents' perspectives on local healthcare services.

JMHCC is partnering with ETSU to bring this conversation to the community to also benefit the hospital in identifying local healthcare services residents find beneficial.

To participate, you must:

- Be 18 years of age or older

- Reside in the local area

Benefits of and incentives for participation:

- Have a chance to win one of four $50 gift cards.
- Make your voice heard on issues that matter.
- Connect with others who care about rural healthcare.
- Food and beverages will be provided

A few additional notes:

- This discussion will take about 1.5 hours and be held in person

- Participation is entirely voluntary

- Your name will not be used in any reports or findings

- Please bring a phone or tablet, if you have one, to participate in polls.

To RSVP or for more information, contact: Kayla Alvis, alvisk@etsu.edu, 423-439-5456, or sign up directly at: <https://redcap.link/grant.co.nd>. JMHCC asks the public to RSVP so food plans can be made.

Colors Fade-The Word Stands

For everything there is a season and a time for every matter under heaven Ecclesiastes 3:1

As we look out at our world today, we see the leaves that were once a vibrant green, turning to brilliant shades of oranges, yellows and gold. Fall brings breathtaking beauty but with it comes the realization that change is in the air. All that summer gave us will be changing.

Nature is a masterclass in gracefully stepping into seasons of change.

As the trees willingly drop their leaves to protect their branches from the heavy snow and winds that would catch on them and break the branches, letting go, the tree protects its core and prepares for a time of rest. That is what God wants for us. In Isaiah 43:18-19 God tells us "Forget the former things; do not dwell on the past. See, I am doing a new thing." It is for us to trust that letting go of the past season is not defeat, but preparation for future growth.

So, while the days are getting shorter, and the nights are getting colder we can find peace knowing that the Creator of the seasons never changes. We are reminded of this in Isaiah 40:8, "The grass withers and the flowers fall, but the word of our God endures forever."

As those golden leaves begin to fall and blanket the ground, and the cold winds blow across the prairie, the promises of God stand firm and strong, withstanding whatever the weather holds.

As we prepare for the winter months ahead, as we look at the changing of the land and skies, may we see it, not with anxiety, but with hope.

As one writer wrote; the same Lord who guides the migrating geese and paints our Western skies, is holding your tomorrow securely in His hands. Lean into this autumn season, trust the process of resting and know that the God who established the harvest is already preparing the soil for you next spring.

A Poem: Autumn Months.
O God of Creation, you have blessed us with the changing of the seasons. As we welcome the autumn months, may the earlier setting of the sun remind us to take time to rest. May the brilliant colors of the leaves remind us of the wonder of your creation. May the steam of our breath in the cool air remind us of the abundance we have been given and bounty we are to share with others. May the dying of summer's spirit remind us of your great promise that death is temporary and life is eternal. We praise your goodness forever and ever. Author Unknown

May this autumn fill your heart with peace, your home with warmth, and your life with God's Love.

For everything there is a season and a time for every matter under heaven.

End of 1st Quarter

You can go home . . .

By Kathy Craig Harteis

Yes, you can go home again. It may not be exactly as you left it, but the familiar reminders are still there.

I met my forever friend Sue for lunch in Woodland, Ca. yesterday. Driving there I decided to take my old route through the country.

For 14 years while running my business in Colusa and living on the orchard property south of Grimes I drove those country roads daily.

Once passed the orchard, I continued on to Woodland still on the old winding two lane road.

I passed places I recalled fondly.

When I was a kid and when I lived at the farm I always loved that journey. Seems silly to some, but one of my favorite spots was among the big old trees on either side of the road. For as long as I can remember, those trees had branches that met in the center of the road. Meeting in the middle they created a canopy we passed under. I thought it was a magical place back then. I kind of feel that magic even now.

I passed a farm house where I spent many hours playing and sleeping over with my childhood friend Linda.

It's gone now, but once we delighted in swimming in the makeshift swimming hole. Her dad dug it out with the farm equipment and filled it with water. Although it was a muddy pit, we loved it. If I didn't have a bum foot I might jump right in again.

The country side is filled with orchards and irrigation ditches supplied with water from pumps at the end of the ditches. We also swam in those ditches.

What fun country kids have!

It was a good drive in spite of the current heat wave. I was filled with happy memories being out there once again. You really can't take the country out of a girl.

Life is good today.

Start where you are. Use what you have. Do what you can.

Successful Business Boost Day at Repeat Outlet September event spotlighted local creativity and ABLE, Inc.'s community connection

BOWMAN, N.D. - The Bowman Area Chamber of Commerce featured ABLE, Inc.'s Repeat Outlet during its September Business Boost Day on Tuesday, September 29. This monthly Chamber initiative puts a spotlight on local Chamber businesses and encourages residents to support them through visits and purchases.

ABLE, Inc. is a nonprofit organization serving people with intellectual disabilities in Bowman, Dickinson, and Hettinger. The organization supports people in their homes, at work, and throughout their communities, with a focus on personal growth, relationships, and individual goals.

Located at 101 North Main Street in Bowman, Repeat Outlet offers gifts designed and crafted on site, including loom-woven rugs, placemats, hand-tied quilts, tote bags, aprons, jewelry, and children's items. Many of the materials are recycled and repurposed, giving them new life as useful, one-of-a-kind creations.

The store also offers Memory Creations, turning a loved one's clothing into a meaningful keepsake. These personal projects offer another way for customers to connect with the creativity and care behind Repeat Outlet's work.

The Chamber thanks Repeat Outlet for participating along with everyone who supported this month's Business Boost Day. Community members are encouraged to keep Repeat Outlet in mind for gifts and custom keepsakes. Learn more about the store and ABLE, Inc. at ableinc.net.

Businesses interested in a future Business Boost Day can contact Margo at 701-523-5880 or margo@swnd.org. The program is a free opportunity for Chamber businesses to showcase their products or services, connect with the Bowman County community, and welcome new customers.

The Bowman Area Chamber of Commerce works to support, promote, and strengthen local businesses while helping build a vibrant community in Bowman and the surrounding area.

Re-Elect

SARAH WARNER

FOR HETTINGER COUNTY SHERIFF

NOVEMBER 3, 2026

Paid for by Sarah Warner

SERVING HETTINGER COUNTY WITH EXPERIENCE, LEADERSHIP & DEDICATION

Serving as Sheriff involves much more than what people see from the outside. Patrol, responding to calls, and being present in our communities are important parts of the job, but there is also a great deal of work that happens every day.

- ★ Review and approve reports
- ★ Discuss cases with the State's Attorney
- ★ Attend court
- ★ Handle phone calls and concerns from citizens

- ★ Prepare for and attend meetings
- ★ Work with other agencies
- ★ Manage the day-to-day responsibilities of the Sheriff's Office
- ★ Make decisions that affect both our office and the people we serve

20 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Two decades in law enforcement have taught me what works, what doesn't, and how decisions affect victims, families, officers, and our entire community.

STEADY LEADERSHIP

I bring a steady, quiet calm to situations and lead with experience, confidence, and sound judgment.

COMPASSION & DEDICATION

Compassion does not mean avoiding accountability. It means treating people with dignity and respect while enforcing the law fairly and doing what is right.

INTEGRITY

I lead with integrity and strong values. You can count on me to be honest, fair, and committed to doing what is best for Hettinger County.

Leadership is also about how you respond when situations are difficult. I bring a steady, quiet calm to situations. When emotions are high and decisions need to be made, people deserve a Sheriff who can remain calm, listen, evaluate the situation, and make sound decisions.

LEADERSHIP IS TRAINING A TEAM TO WORK TOGETHER TO SERVE OUR COMMUNITY.

I am open to new ideas and new ways of doing things when change is needed and when it truly benefits the citizens we serve. Good leadership isn't about doing something a certain way simply because that's how it has always been done. It is about knowing when experience should guide you and when it is time to move forward.

Nike is a Greek word meaning "victory" or "conquest" and, in Greek mythology, Nike was the goddess of victory, which is why the athletic brand chose the name when Blue Ribbon Sports introduced the Nike brand and its "swoosh" back in 1971. And, then, officially changed its name to Nike, Inc., in 1978. Then, it blew up sports, particularly, the amateur sports world with Nike Air (1979), Air Jordan (1980's), Air Max (1987), Huarache (1994), Zoom Air (1995), Shox (2000), Free (2004), Flyknit (2012), HyperAdapt (2016), ad nauseum. The new goddess of the sport shoe. In 2021, Nike told the world to "Own the Floor" and, by the end of 2025, its stock was selling at around $64 per share. It was, literally, on top of the sporting attire world.

Enter September 1, 2016, when 6th year, NFL QB Colin Kaepernick took a knee during the U.S. national anthem for the first time during a 49ers' pre-season game to, as he lectured, protest against police brutality and racial inequality in the United States. I always scratch my head over that latter argument given that Kaepernick's salary in 2016 was $11.9 million, which became guaranteed when the season started. He preached, "I am not going to stand up to show pride in a flag for a country that oppresses black people and people of color," Kaepernick said. Uh...dude, you made $43 million TOTAL here playing a kids' game, so, I'm not sure you personally were that oppressed but, everyone is entitled to their own opinion, right? That's what President Barack Obama said on September 5, 2016, anyway. But, hang about! I learned at the barbershop with my Dad, back in the stone age, when I was 8 years old, that business is business and you never mix business with politics or religion!

Apparently, Nike never got that memo! Instead, it negotiated an additional $20 million partnership with Kaepernick, despite the former's controversial remarks and, eventual firing by the NFL in 2017. Nike made Kaepernick the face of the brand's 30th anniversary of the "Just Do It" slogan in September, 2018, anyway; and, literally, paid the price. The company's stock had exploded and, now, their management gambled on this controversy. And, learned that hard lesson about politics and business not mixing! And, social media pushed back HARD! NikeBoycott (trending on Twitter) exploded with posted videos/photos of ripped Nike socks and burned sneakers. Apparently, polarizing Americans is bad for business and, by the at the end of 2025, Nike's stock price fell below $33 per share—a 50% loss in one year. Can you say, "Move over Bud Light?" I know us Boomer's are passe but, business is business! And, I don't watch the NFL (as a law enforcement officer myself) to be called a racist by a multi-millionaire; and I don't need a clothier to tell me how to live my personal life. Who, knew? Have a great week.

Karl "KJ" Schauer Rites Held

Karl "KJ" Schauer, 46, of Mitchell, SD, died Tuesday, September 15, 2026, at Ave-

ra Queen of Peace Hospital in Mitchell. Funeral services were held at 11:00 AM Saturday, September 26, at Reunion Church in Mitchell. Burial was held at the Regent Cemetery in Regent, ND. Arrangements by Bittner Funeral Chapel.

Karl Jacob "KJ" Schauer was born Christmas Eve on December 24, 1979, at the Dupree Farmstead. The midwife Ellen In-the-woods turned to Papa Carl and said, "Carl, you have a son. Come and cut the cord, and then I'll hand him to you, and you can dedicate him to the Lord God," welcoming KJ into the loving arms of his parents and into a house that would soon include four sisters.

KJ grew up on the family farm, where there was always something to do. KJ spent hours in his father Carl's shop, sorting nuts and bolts and organizing, and rode along on the Fordson tractor. There were games of Chinese Checkers and puzzles, walks with his sisters and the family dogs, paddle boating, and yes — even KJ's favorite chore of cleaning and butchering chickens. Dad, Mom, and KJ shared a special closeness attending Sunday School and Church, and with Mom, Vacation Bible School and the after-school club Good News Club, along with summer bible camps.

Laughter warms the heart and carries us to the person who charms the room through his laugh — a laugh so powerful that it became contagious, harmonizing with everyone around him. That was the laugh of Karl Jacob "KJ" Schauer. KJ brought joy through that laughter, and he brought a different kind of joy when he'd sneak up on you or hide around a corner, jump out with a loud "Boo!", and follow it with a delighted "Huh, I got you," before doing a goofy little dance to make his escape.

KJ attended and graduated from school in Dupree, South Dakota. With the diagnosis of Prader-Willi syndrome, KJ spent three months in a crisis unit in Pittsburgh, PA. Before moving to Life Quest in Mitchell, SD. It was there, within Life Quest, that KJ went on to help create and take part in the KJ Program, built specifically for individuals living with Prader-Willi syndrome. Fittingly, KJ became one of its teachers: he helped staff understand Prader-Willi, welcomed and mentored others as they joined the program, and became a true and loving friend to many along the way.

KJ loved to tell stories — about growing up on the farm, his sisters, his school days, his family. Some of them stretched out pretty long, but nobody minded. He always made sure you knew the important part at the end: Father may have thought he was the boss, but Mother was really the one with the final say. He took great pride in where he came from and loved sharing those memories with anyone who would listen.

He was incredibly smart, and he loved sharing his knowledge and opinions on everything from farming and weather to cooking and politics — and he was never afraid to tell you if you were wrong. He was everyone's go-to guy whenever something needed to be built or put together. Those who knew him well also knew his gift for puzzles was nothing short of remarkable — he could piece together a massive 1,000-piece puzzle in just two days, watching complex pictures snap into place with ease while the rest of us were still trying to find the edges.

KJ was a true animal lover, and he spent many happy hours at Ed's Pet World talking with "Boji." He loved joking around and teasing people about their crushes — he had a few of his own, though he was reluctant to admit it. He loved watching funny videos, westerns, and scary movies with the people close to him, and every year before Halloween, he took great delight in pointing out the "haunted houses" around town — even when they happened to be the homes of the very people he was teasing. And of course, no one who knew KJ could forget his love of a good hot drink, or the way the color pink will now always bring him to mind and put a smile on our faces.

For years, KJ was cared for and loved by the staff who became family to him. One of them remembered him this way: working with KJ was never just a job — it was a rewarding challenge, a journey, and a collection of memories that will live on forever. From Pennsylvania to South Dakota, every mile of that journey was made richer by knowing him. He taught the people around him lessons in true dignity, inner strength, and a level of patience they never knew they possessed until he helped them find it. He was strong-willed and stubborn at times, and those who loved him met him in that — never giving up on him, and finding their bond only grew stronger for it. Through every challenge, he showed a quiet, unwavering resilience that was nothing short of extraordinary — easily one of the strongest people anyone who knew him has ever known.

KJ will be remembered in so many special ways — his laugh, his sense of humor, his stories, his stubbornness, his gifts, and all the little things that made him uniquely KJ. He is walking with Jesus now in his heavenly home, and there's comfort in imagining Jesus, KJ, and his dad Carl together — no doubt all three in matching pink sandals. KJ's favorite color.

KJ is survived by his mother, Velma Schauer; his four sisters, Karla (Randy), Kari (John), Kayleen (Rick), and Kandice (Rodney); four nephews, Johnny, Noah, Aaron, and Andrew; and two nieces, Autumn and Sarah; uncles, Sam and Russell; aunts, Rita, Shirley, Sharon Kouba, Linda Kouba, Linda Schauer, and Arlene.

He was preceded in death by his father, Carl Schauer; infant sister, Kara Angel; uncles, Ed, Otto, Jake, David, Ron, and Colin; aunts, Emma, Elizabeth, and Karoline.

The family extends heartfelt thanks to the entire LifeQuest family and all who made each day bright for KJ — for creating special moments, for holding him near in your hearts, and for the countless little things that made him feel noticed, special, and loved. You were truly difference makers in his life.

In lieu of flowers, memorials may be sent to Velma, and she will distribute the gifts charitably to children and adults with disabilities. Velma Schauer, 501 E. Spruce St Apt. 116, Mitchell, South Dakota 57301.

Rest in peace, KJ. You will always be loved.

Thoughts for the Week

by June Schmidt

America is a really amazing place. We have been to many places over the years and it still amazes me that each place can be so different and so very beautiful in its own way. If you have never been outside of North Dakota, you are missing a lot and television just doesn't do it justice.

Our latest trip was out to the west coast, starting in Seattle and ending in San Francisco. Our arrival in Seattle was a bit grey and cloudy, but not cold and not really raining. The first day of our trip was much the same as we visited the Boeing Museum which houses some really amazing planes and it all depends on which part of our history that you choose to learn about. We decided, or rather Mike did, that WWII was what he wanted to see more of, so we went with a Docent that was also a pilot and he gave a very good tour of the planes used during the war including a Corsair, a Japanese Zero and also a Russian plane. If you are into planes this is the place to go. What I was most interested in seeing was the adjacent building which houses JFK's Air Force One plane, a Concorde and some of the planes that were constructed by Boeing. I remember hearing about the Concorde, but the size of it is something amazing. It is not very wide, but it is very long, having 3 separate sections. Air Force One was very interesting in that it still has the controls and equipment from the 60's and a couple of unusual items such as 3 separate lavatories and a pretty good size kitchen area. Walking through a Boeing 747 that was completely empty was pretty amazing to see the room without seating and yes, the seating was a bit wider then than the newer planes.

After that we did some driving down the coast and a stop at St Helen's site, which was fine, but Nature is doing a good job of returning the site back to what it was before the eruption. However, there is a large area that is still uninhabited due to the remains of the ash and damage from the eruption. Since it created a lake after the explosion, right now there is a large backwater that is teeming with life and is breaking things down to one day possibly to return to what it was. Clouds made it hard to see the actual mountain however.

What you do see a lot of during a tour of this type in the drive down the west coast is trees. Not like we have here of course, but trees upon trees lining both sides of the highway, broken up by occasional breaks where you are able to see houses or coastline. As we proceeded down the coast, we stopped to admire some of the scenery, some gorges and areas where the sea meets the land. Food there is pretty good when it comes to fish as it tastes fresh caught rather than what we get when we purchase 'fresh' frozen from our stores. It would have been great to see some whales as they are known to roam the coast at this time of year, but we were not lucky even though we were taken to some of the best areas to see that.

What we did get to see is Redwoods and Sequoias. They are both redwoods, but redwoods are known to have straight trunks, where Sequoias have a broader base than the trunks. They don't have a large root structure, but they grow in clumps together giving stability to each other. The largest ones are over 300 ft tall and can be longer than a football field. Since they are protected now they can only be damaged by fire or fall over from old age. Old growth redwood cannot be used for commercial purposes, only for research, so once they fall over, they become 'nurse' environments for the area, housing new growth, animals and insects. If they fall over a trail, they are cut to allow a pathway, but the cut pieces are just moved aside to allow the walkway to remain free to pass. It truly makes you feel very small and insignificant in the scheme of things to walk among them.

So what I am saying here is that our Country is beautiful and there are many things to see out there so if you are at all inclined, take some time and go see it. Yes our state is beautiful in it's own way, but so are all the other places we have been and once you see them, it just broadens your horizons a little more. Of course, it was great to come back home as well. God Bless you all.

Expressions of HOPE

Reflections on the Words of Life

by Pastor Paul Ferrie, Grace Reformed Church of the Lord Jesus, New Leipzig

Last time we began looking at 1 Peter 4:13, where we are told the right response to suffering: "But rejoice to the extent that you partake of Christ's sufferings, that when His glory is revealed, you may also be glad with exceeding joy." We saw that partaking of Christ's sufferings meant that believers who suffer for their faith are suffering because they follow the example of Christ, who always stood for the truth.

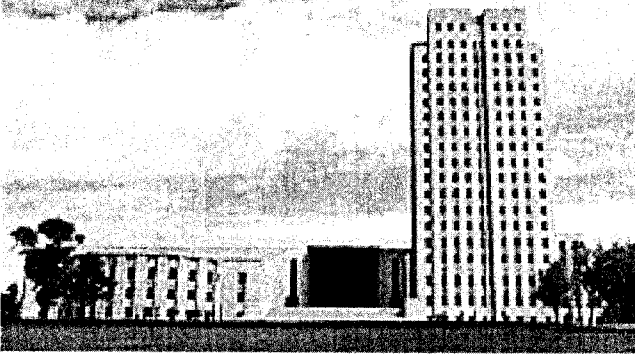

But there is something else meant by sharing in Christ's sufferings. And this is a beautiful expression of how intimately related are Christ and His people. For when a believer suffers, a part of Christ is suffering. When the Lord Jesus encountered Saul on the road to Damascus, where he was heading in order to persecute Christians, He said to him, "Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting ME?" (Acts 9:4). Jesus loves His people so much that He considers sufferings inflicted on them to be done to Himself. We are one with Him. We are in union with Him. Jesus tells us the conversation that will transpire at the judgment day. He says in Matthew 25:37-40, "Then the righteous will answer Him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see You hungry and feed You, or thirsty and give You drink? When did we see You a stranger and take You in, or naked and clothe You? Or when did we see You sick, or in prison, and come to You?' And the King will answer and say to them, 'Assuredly, I say to you, inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these My brethren, you did it to Me.'"

The other reason which Peter gives here why believers should rejoice in their sufferings for Jesus' sake is because of the great joy that will be theirs when Jesus comes back in all His glory. He says that when His glory is revealed, His people will be glad with exceeding joy.

Believers in Christ, the joy we will have on the day when Christ returns is something beyond description or imagination. On that day, the whole universe will acknowledge Him as Lord. Suffering for Jesus' sake now will make the joy and rejoicing of the believer at His return all the greater. When that day comes, the day of suffering will be over for all eternity. We read in Romans 8:16-18, "The Spirit Himself bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God, and if children, then heirs; heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ, if indeed we suffer with Him, that we may also be glorified together. For I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us." If we keep this constantly in our minds, it should give us great reason to continually rejoice in this life, even though there are sufferings involved.

But I must remind you that such promises are only for those who know and love the Lord Jesus here in this life. For the unbeliever, the return of Christ will be awesome in the opposite sense. It will be a horrible day which seals him in eternal doom. John tells us in Revelation 20:15, "And anyone not found written in the Book of Life was cast into the lake of fire." You see dear people, then it will be too late to come to Jesus. Be sure you are trusting in Him now as your Lord and Savior. Be sure that you have seen yourself as a sinner who needs what only Jesus can do for you. Realize that the only way to be able to rejoice with anticipation now is be saved by His precious blood shed on the cross.

North Dakota Facts and Figures

Rich Wardner

CONSTITUTIONAL MEASURE #1

MEASURE #1: This measure seeks to increase the percentage of YES votes needed to change the state constitution from 50 percent to 60 percent.

Fact #1: This measure effects only constitutional measures. This measure DOSE NOT change the vote on the initiated-measure process for changing the North Dakota Century Code brought by the people or the Legislature, that process stay at 50 percent.

Fact #2: Measure #1 does not take power away from voters. North Dakota voters will continue to have the final say. It simply sets a higher bar for permanently changing our foundational document, the state constitution.

Fact #3: The North Dakota Legislature put Measure #1 on the ballot, because well-funded special interest groups have been spending millions of dollars trying to change state constitutions. These groups want to control the people through the constitution.

Fact #4: Changing North Dakota's Constitution deserves a higher level of protection and should not become a grab bag of spending mandates by special interests.

Fact #5: The Fairness Project is a liberal Washington D.C. based organization that wants the process for changing constitutional measures to stay at 50 percent. They are spending millions of dollars around the country to make it easier to pass constitutional measures. The question is, "Why does the Fairness Project care about North Dakota?"

Fact #6: The adds on TV by the "no vote" proponents make it sound like all initiated measures constitutional and century code are affected by Measure #1. NOT TRUE!! Only the constitutional measures will change from 50 percent to 60 percent yes vote.

I am voting yes on measure #1. If 60% is needed to pass a school bond levy then a state constitutional measure is no less important and I have a problem with out of state groups spending large amounts of money to influence North Dakota voters with half-truths.
