

As the founder of Houses4Good, I am passionately committed to eradicating homelessness. Our mission is to provide immediate housing solutions for those in need, having already housed over 100 individuals and helped more than 40 transition into permanent homes. We are actively building a portfolio of houses and flats to support the homeless and vulnerable when they first become homeless, working closely with local authorities, government bodies, and charities to maximise property availability across the UK (United Kingdom).

Through our managed portfolio and partnerships with landlords and investors, we aim to provide immediate homes for individuals, couples, and families. This deeply humbling journey is driven by our commitment to making a lasting impact.

My purpose is to give back to society, an integral part of who I am and my work. With over 25 years in hospitality and extensive experience in residential development, I focus on redeveloping existing and sourcing properties to create meaningful change. As a social entrepreneur, I believe in humility, leading by example, and forward-thinking.

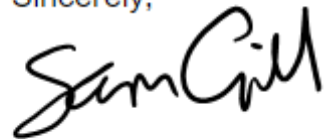

My dedication to education and inspiring future generations is reflected in my role as a School Governor at a local CE community School.

My father, an educated immigrant from a farming family in Punjab, India, and my mother, who experienced the profound hardships such as lack of education and homelessness due to Partition, have profoundly influenced my approach to social impact. Their humbling stories of community support and resilience have shaped my drive to create community-focused solutions and support those in need.

I am committed to making an impact each and every day, which would not be possible without our partners, landlords, investors, agents and importantly our team that looks after our tenants on a day-to-day basis.

If you have ever had any suggestions, comments, or concerns that are not addressed on our website, please always feel free to share your thoughts with us.

Sincerely,
