PADANGBAI, BALI

Padangbai (or Padang Bai) is better known for its main seaport in East Bali, where ferries and boats take travellers southeast bound to the neighbouring island of Lombok. Even so, this coastal village has much more to offer for day-trippers to Bali's lesser-visited east, offering some cultural sites as well as great diving and snorkelling from its many white sand beaches.

Padangbai is about 13 km southwest of the main hub of Candidasa, if you're coming from the main southern Bali resort areas such as Kuta and Denpasar. Divers won't find a shortage of operators lining the beachfront. Boats operated by locals can take you to the best spots around the waters, where you can discover vivid reefs teeming with marine life.

There are plenty of things to do in Padangbai, a remote coastal town area in East Bali that's best known for its bustling harbour. You'll find a laidback seaside retreat at its beautiful and secluded beaches, which are located within a short walk of Padang Bai Port. The waters surrounding Blue Lagoon and Bias Tugel are popular diving sites, while ancient temples can be found along the coast.

The main beach of Padangbai is suitable for swimming and snorkelling, while the black-sand beach of Kusamba has a local village that produces salt using traditional tools. To unwind after a good day out diving or beach wandering, there are several notable resort spas with an extensive range of treatments.

Things to do in Padangbai

A highlight in Padangbai for beach lovers is Blue Lagoon, a small bay northeast of the seaport with only a 60m stretch of white sand, which you can snorkel right off from. Divers take a 5-minute boat ride from Padang Bai to a dive spot of the same name, where there are large Napoleon wrasse, reef shark, stonefish, moray and blue ribbon eels, nudibranchs, rays, giant frogfish, and cuttlefish.

Often dubbed a 'hidden beach' due to its location between small hilly capes, Bias Tugel is a 130-metre-long strip southwest of the Padang Bai port. It offers calm and blue waters most times of the year. You can relax on the even sand or under shades of parasols with beach loungers. The beach that shares the bay with the seaport is not so busy, especially on its eastern end, and you can also enjoy fairly good swimming and snorkelling.

Dive Sites

Bali's underwater world provides everything divers dream of. At our house reefs in PADANG BAI, you find a nice wall, colourful coral bummies inhabited by thousands of tropical reef fish, as well as great muck diving. Sea turtles and reef sharks are regularly seen and the usually good visibility and gentle currents make the Padang Bai area easy to dive.

The more challenging dive sites MIMPANG, TEPEKONG, BIAHA and CRYSTAL BAY, are the best sites to spot sharks and especially from July to November, you even have the chance to encounter the giant sunfish also known as Mola-Mola.

One of the diving highlights is MANTA POINT, where the majestic Manta rays are attracted all year long by the several cleaning stations. Nobody should miss the chance to see them "flying" their rounds, while waiting for their turn to get their Spa treatment.
