PADI DEEP SPECIALTY DIVER COURSE

The PADI Deep Diver Specialty course is designed to provide divers with the knowledge and skills needed to safely plan and execute dives to depths of up to 40 meters (130 feet). This specialty course is typically pursued by divers who want to explore deeper dive sites, such as wrecks, walls, and deep reefs.

During the Deep Diver Specialty course, divers learn about the physiological effects of deeper diving, including nitrogen narcosis and decompression sickness. They also learn about dive planning, gas management, buoyancy control, and emergency procedures specific to deep diving.

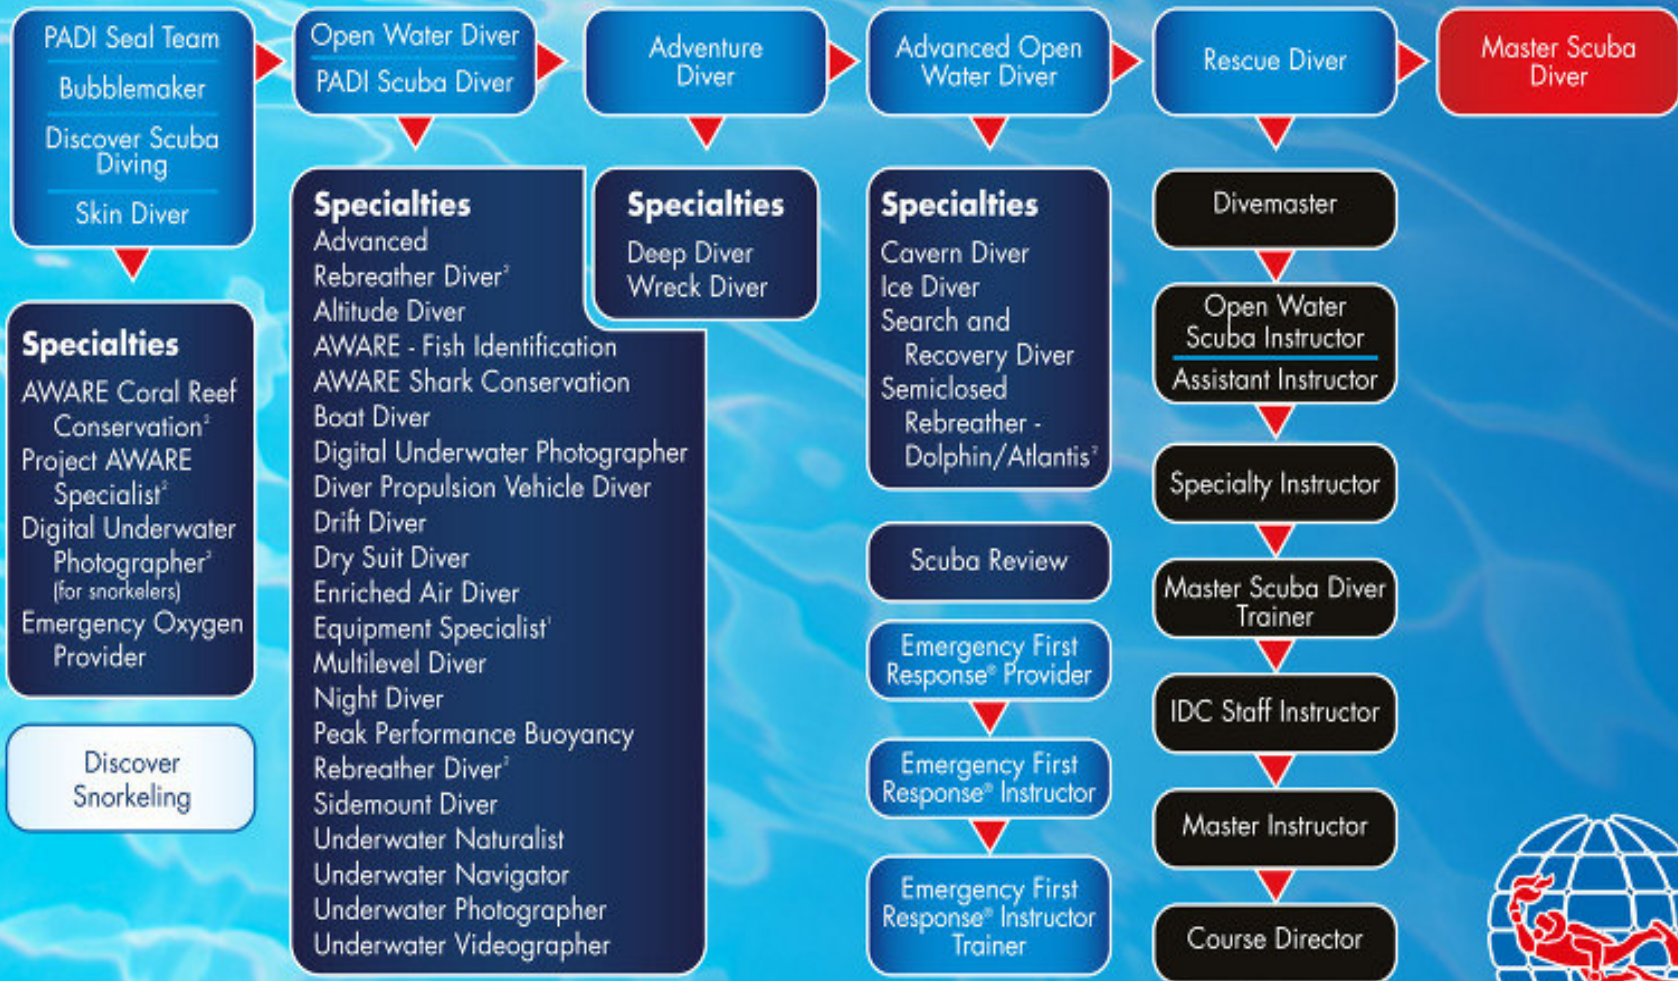

The course typically consists of classroom sessions to cover theoretical knowledge, followed by several open water dives to apply what has been learned under the guidance of a certified PADI instructor. Divers will gain practical experience in managing gas consumption, maintaining buoyancy, and navigating safely at depth.

Completion of the Deep Diver Specialty course allows divers to safely explore deeper underwater environments while minimizing the associated risks. It's important to note that deep diving requires additional training and experience beyond what is provided in basic open water certification courses.
