

The Second Night of Champions 2022

The second Night of Champions was held Friday, January 21, 2022, after last year's event which was cancelled due to COVID. At five-year intervals, this recognition is for GHS sports teams which have won championships in the past. This is a tradition that was started by Alex Warner, GHS 1967. Since nothing was held last year, this year's honored teams won championships that were from school years that ended in "0", "1", "5", or "6".

This is always well-received by the fans in attendance, and this year's boys' basketball game was nearly a full-house against familiar Green Wave MVL foe Vandalia Butler. This is now a regular part of athletic honors at GHS. For future dates, please contact Athletic Director Aaron Shaffer, GHS 1995, or Alex Warner, warnerakm@hotmail.com.

This year's honored teams and those members in attendance were:

Dick and Jane versus Paul and Virginia

Daniel Henne, local grain elevator operator in Greenville, made a trip to France in 1890 and saw a pewter statue of a girl and boy holding an umbrella. He purchased this model and had it shipped home. After consulting with city officials, he donated the statue to our city and the statue was named “Dick and Jane”. The firefighters under the direction of Chief James Boyer were given the responsibility of their safe-keeping. The city hired Fred Walters, a local stone mason, to build a suitable pond outside the Fire Department in 1892. Circulating water pushes up to the top of the umbrella and runs down the umbrella into the pond and then recirculates. This location was on the Broadway side at the northeast corner of the public square alongside the old Fire Station. Each year the firefighters take the statue inside for the winter, clean and paint it and make repairs as needed.

Dick and Jane have watched Greenville’s history pass by. At the time they came, the Fire Department used an old Silsby fire engine pulled by two horses, Max and John. The trolley line passed right by the Fire Station then. All this history has changed along with the old City Hall on the Public Square being torn down in 1952-53. The old Fire Station was demolished as the Fire Department was moved to a location behind the new City Building. The statue was moved to its present location at the northwest corner of the Public Square in front of the City Building in 1966.

“The world around them changes, but Dick and Jane never change...and that’s the way it should be,” is written text on the Story of Dick and Jane in front of the City Building.

A similar statue has been located at a prominent site on the campus of Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Illinois. It appears to be cast from a similar mold to the one Henne discovered, and it is called “Paul and Virginia”. It was a bronze and copper statue that was installed on campus in 1888 and bought by the SIU Class of 1887. It was the 100th anniversary of a French novel from 1788, “Paul et Virginia” by Jacques Henri-Bernardin de Saint-Pierre. The story is often associated with the themes on Enlightenment and is about two childhood friends who fall in love. After a fire in one of the buildings nearby the statue on the S.I.U. campus in 1969, an exact duplicate was cast in bronze and placed on campus in the 1970s. The original was retired until it can be restored. It is the same structure as the Dick and Jane in Greenville, but has a different umbrella and metal base. Both are positioned in the middle of a pond.

“It’s kind of an icon of survival,” said Eric Jones, a registrar at the SIU University Museum. “They just stand there quietly and mind their business and every year they’re there. I hope they’re there for a long, long time.”

“Any time students were heading to class for tests on campus, they would throw a penny in the fountain for luck,” said SIU alumnus Michael Hanes. “It’s a nostalgic memory to see the fountain. It has a great deal of whimsy, and it makes our hearts glad to know that generations will continue to see the bronze pair bestowing good luck upon us as they stand quietly in the center of the campus.”

We never knew that Dick and Jane along with Paul and Virginia all perform the same function for their followers. They are what makes Greenville and Southern Illinois University feel like “home” to so many.

Close-up views of the two statues show that they appear to be from the same mold:

Old Greenville Fire Station postcard (about 1905-1909) before the horses were retired (about 1910-1914). The statue of Dick and Jane (after 1892) is to the left of the building facing Broadway at that time. It is hard to locate under the tree and against the building in this postcard, but would have remained in this location until the Fire Station was demolished.

Mark Wood Makes a Return Visit to GHS

Just 631 days after his last concert with the orchestras at GHS, world-famous violinist Mark Wood made a return to perform a “Holiday Rock Show of the Ages” for the citizens of Greenville. His first concert at GHS was Feb. 22, 2020, and was brought to Greenville by Music Director JR Price. Again Nov. 16, 2021, Mark brought his music program back to GHS. Both concerts were done in front of a near-full audience and were two of the best and most memorable events ever held in our school gym. The evening featured all the orchestras of the Greenville Schools: 6th Grade, 7th and 8th Grade Junior High, and the High School Orchestra.

The 2020 concert was just before COVID shut down most activities in the United States and was the last school concert Mark performed until this second one at GHS. He usually has about 60 concerts at high schools across the country with a two-day set up and practice sessions with the orchestras of those schools. When he left Greenville in Feb, 2020, his traveling company went to Arizona to do a similar school project, but it never happened then and it took him about a month to get home due to COVID restrictions. His friendship with JR signified his return to performing with the high schools again.

Mark is a recording artist, performer, producer, inventor, Emmy-winning composer, visionary, and music education advocate. He was a founding and original member of the Trans-Siberian Orchestra in the late 1990s and 2000s. He has spent four decades electrifying the orchestra industry and is the premier electric violinist of his generation. He invented the first solid body electric violin in the 1970s and his company Wood Violins is the premier manufacturer of electric violins, violas, and cellos worldwide.

The 2020 show was a Rock show. This 2021 show was a program of Christmas music after his opening song, Queen’s “We Will Rock You”. Some of his seasonal selections included: “Pachelbel’s Canon in D”, “O Come All Ye Faithful”, “Hark the Herald Angels Sing”, “Mad Russian”, “O Holy Night”, “Silent Night”, “Dance of the Sugar Plum Fairies”, with the finale being the longtime Trans-Siberian Orchestra favorite, “Carol of the Bells”.

This was a show of great sounds, great lights, and great performances. Thank you, Mr. Price, for letting us see the “Greatest Show on Earth”!

After the Finale performance, “Carol of the Bells”:

Post Graduates attend G.H.S. after their Graduation

The years 1932 and 1933 were the years deepest in the Great Depression, and most high school graduates could not afford to attend college. Many of the graduating seniors who would normally be college-bound, stayed at Greenville High School, and took classes for one year only. There were no jobs available and the graduates were just looking for something to do to keep them off the streets. The timing of these classes is not remembered but they were probably held during the regular school day, and the teachers used were not identified. One class offered was typing, and this was one of the subjects which would always fit into the later careers of many of the participants. No one remembers if this lasted for the entire school year, or whether the students' attendance dropped off during the school year, since they were not working towards a degree. Some Ansonia graduates were shown in this photo from the 1933 Chief, which signifies this program was available for other county schools and was open to anyone. The year 1933 was the only year these "Post Graduate" classes were mentioned in the Chief concerning this unique but short-lived program. The photo here shows that class, with some of the identified members are Marjorie Repp Bruner (GHS 1931), Glendora Harp Hussey (GHS 1932), Richard "Pete" Brown (GHS 1932), Dick Kurz (GHS 1932), Willard "Wade" Carr (Ansonia 1932), Donald Karn (GHS 1932), Maurice Mote (GHS 1932), and John Williams (GHS 1932).
