

ABOUT US...

We are little farmers like you and many of our family, friends & neighbors. My husband started with backyard chickens as a kid in Del Mar, CA. He's raised up to 100 chickens for EGG production, breeding, showmanship and just for fun. I grew up near dairy farms in New York then lived on remote property in British Columbia, Canada. Chickens were not my favorite until I purchased my own small property with my son. Together we realized that raising your own chickens from eggs or chicks created a pet like environment with healthy EGG benefits! After selling and supporting many quality farm and animal feed products, it was only natural to create our own. We love organic and natural feeds. We love to give our chickens, tortoises, goats and horses fresh garden treats. I love to cook with fresh organic ingredients. Little Farmer Products is the treat our friends, family and customers can offer their backyard chickens. We've given away many beautiful chicks and chickens or traded with friends who breed. We know, when you want to raise them right, you have to offer a complete natural non GMO or organic feed. The more time you spend interacting with your hens, the friendlier they become and friendly chickens make kids smile:)

Our treats are focused on high quality protein which is much needed for nutritious EGG production. We add special ingredients we've researched such as; Chili peppers (high in antioxidants and vitamins but your hens aren't bothered by the heat), Oregano is great for their health and well being, Sunflower and Safflower are packed with essential oils for beautiful shiny feathers.

Raising Chickens from chicks to senior hens is very rewarding. We created fine grit mixed with diatomaceous earth, Redmond brand mineral clay and rosemary to help chicks digest their first protein filled grains and seeds.

We want your Little Farming to be as rewarding as ours has been and we hope to help you while your flock grows.

Sincerely Chuck & Stephanie owners
