Les Levine as timely as ever and USA politics business as usual 1984 – 2020.

Aqui was conceived by the artists Cliff Baldwin and Davi Det Hompson as equalitarian magazine issued as a series of silkscreen posters.

Aqui came into being in 1983 as a mobile space for exhibitions on the streets of New York. The prints we made were designed for everyone to view, wherever, whenever they wanted. This was pre-internet, paper based democratic art making. It was supposed to be big and bright, smart and social. The price was low and the images grabbed you.

They still do.
