About the Auction...

We are pleased to present this auction which focuses on specialty categories from Robert F. Houston's Philadelphia Museum of the Circus. Houston, now 85 years of age, spent most of his life gathering and collecting items related to circus and the fringe categories. Houston's sophisticated collection was exhibited not only in his residence but also used publicly for educational purposes. Additional collections featured include those of Ralph Decker, Ward Hall and Chris Christ.

The auction will be presented live online, and we will once again host an auction watch gathering in our gallery. In the past, the assemblage of folks gathered for the auction watch has included historians, archivists, researchers, performers, owners, the curious public and a host of clowns. It is always a fun time for attendees, and we invite you to this year's event.

We want to thank you for your interest in our auction. Whether you purchase anything or not, we hope you have enjoyed the catalog and the experience.

We would like to thank our production staff, especially Wyatt Hollifield and Evan Raber who assisted with all aspects of this catalog. Additionally, thanks to Robert F. Houston for entrusting us with his collection and for his willingness to let another generation of collectors acquire and enjoy artifacts in much the same way that he did.

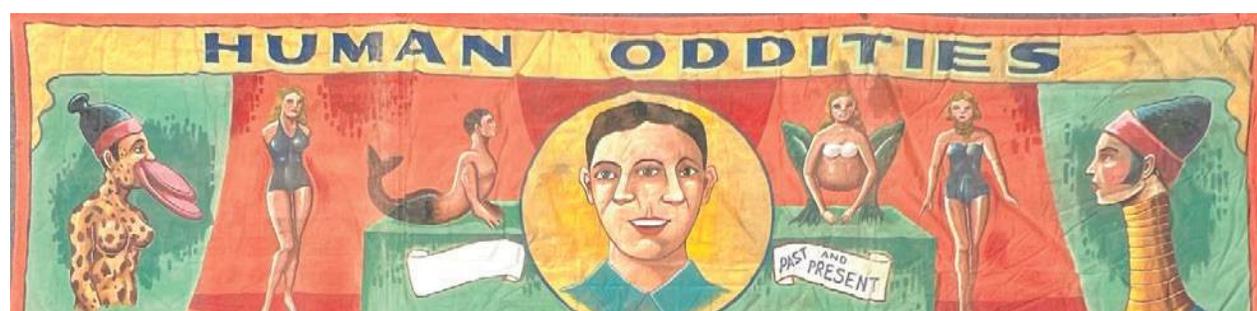

There have been so many unnamed and we thank them all. In all of this, what has been most special are the people...not the "stuff".

Please visit our partner website, www.circusauctions.com for up-to-date information on future auctions.

If you have items you wish to sell, please contact us at 941.725.2166 or info@freedomauctions.com.

Robert F. Houston (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, B.1939)

The Philadelphia Museum of the Circus

Robert F. Houston has been collecting circus for a very long time. As a youth, he built a scale model of the circus and started pulling paper (posters) down from store windows. Robert's story is unique in that much of his assembly has been used at some point for educational purposes including classes, displays and fundraising. Robert truly is a circus historian and his sophisticated collection reflects that. He was a leading story in Ebony Magazine and The Free Library of Philadelphia once exhibited his collection. Portions of his collection have been on loan to institutions and museums over the years. The Philadelphia Miniature Museum of the Circus could be found in Robert's home, and he was ever ready to give a tour to anyone willing to go. Robert is longtime member of the Circus Historical Society, Circus Fans Association of America and Circus Model Builders. His collection is focused on African Americans in the Circus, Barnum, Jumbo, Sideshow and Oddities. Robert currently resides in Philadelphia.

Ward Hall & Chris Christ by Kevin Gerrone

Come in, Come in a little bit closer... I want to talk to you about something that you will never forget.

There is no doubt that Ward Hall also known as the “King of the Sideshow” and his long-time partner C.M. Christ have carved out their legacy as two of the most recognized showmen to ever operate in the side show business. A legacy that will live on for generations to come. Their partnership was based on mutual respect and a formula that made them very successful. Ward was the spotlight guy, who loved the attention. He was a master at entertaining, and the media loved him. By Ward's omission, he wasn't a builder, and he wasn't great with the equipment.

That's where Chris came in. Chris preferred being behind the scenes, framing new shows, and handling most of the promotional work. This combination made them an unstoppable force in the business and led to a partnership that lasted over 50 years. There isn't much in the business that they haven't done. From exhibiting human oddities such as Pricilla, the Monkey Girl, and her husband Emmett, the Alligator Skin Boy to perhaps the most famous freak ever, Schlitzie the Pinhead. As Ward used to say, he has had everything from the tallest midgets to the shortest giants. They have operated some of the biggest 10-in-1s, they have turned girls into gorillas, shown the horrors of drug abuse, created both oddity and wax museums as well as presented lavish Vegas-style revues like Wondercade.

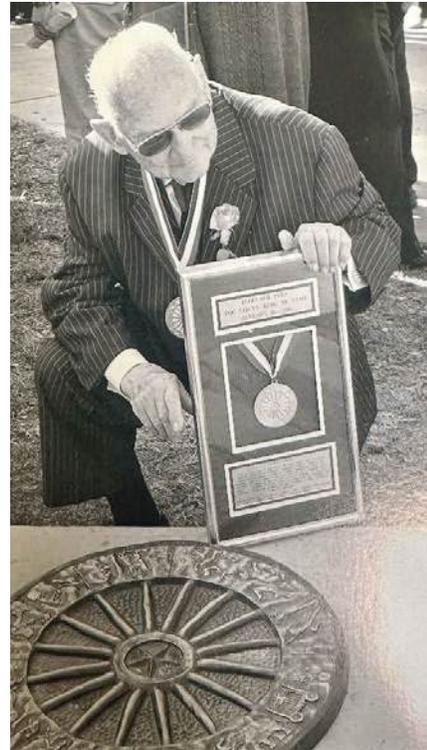

It started in the late 1940s when 14-year-old Ward Hall from Trenton, Nebraska decided that it was time to pursue his dream of joining the circus. After answering an ad in the Billboard (a weekly trade paper for the amusement industry) for a job as a fire-eater and magician for Dailey Bros. circus he approached his father, “Dad, I’m not asking you... I’m telling you. I’m going to go with the circus.” His father, not excited about the idea, looked at his young son telling him that he might as well go with the circus and get it out of his system and that he would be back home in 2 weeks. Well, the 2 weeks lasted Wards’ whole life.

Chris Christ knew from a very young age that he wanted to not only work in the carnival but that he wanted to work specifically in the side show. Every spring the James E. Strates Shows would play an early date at a shopping center about 3 miles from his home in Buffalo, New York. And every day while the carnival was operating the young Chris Christ would make the long walk to the lot and find a wagon hole to sneak through (so that he didn't have to use the little lunch money he had managed to save to get in). When he got a little older, he got a summer job setting up and tearing down kiddie rides for a local guy who had a small-time carnival. Though it was a good summer job it still wasn't the sideshow. In 1965 during his junior year of high school, his parents got him a subscription to the Amusement Business (the weekly amusement trade publication that replaced the Billboard) for Christmas. This, in Chris's mind, was the best gift ever. He wasted no time writing to every independent backend show operator listed in the weekly publication. Not long after, he received a response from Ward Hall, a name he was still unfamiliar with. Hall, who at the time was working with backend show impresario Nate Eagle on an engagement overseeing the side show for Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Shows at Madison Square Garden, asked Chris if he would like to spend his Easter break helping out. Chris jumped on a bus, and the rest is history...

If you are interested in the complete story please look up: "Strangest Show on Earth, Tales of the Midway as told to Kevin Gerrone by C.M. Christ." as well as my several other publications which you can purchase directly emailing Ballyhoopress@gmail.com or find on Amazon.

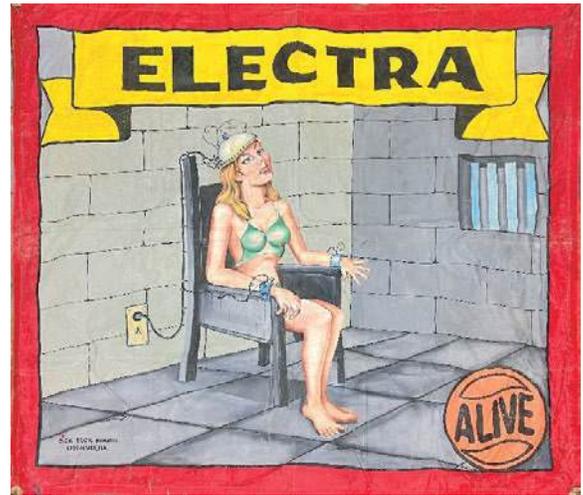

The Decker Collection – Ralph Decker (Tacoma, Washington, B.1942)

Ralph Decker's earliest memory of the circus began around 1948 when he and his father would make early morning journeys to the Tacoma, Washington railroad sidings and circus lots to watch the show trains of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus or Clyde Beatty Circus unload and set-up. Ralph was a circus fan early and his fascination with it has continued all through the years. His collecting began when his father, a Tacoma merchant, connected him with another circus fan. He tells of spending his paper route money on an entire collection of over 150 lithographs. Ralph is also a Fire Buff and co-authored a book on the history of fire departments in Tacoma. Ralph served as president of the Circus Fans Association of America in 1984-5 and currently resides in Tacoma with his wife Michelle.
