Preferred Concept Design

- * The social lawn, shown in the foreground, provides an open area for relaxing at lunch time. It can also be used for events or gatherings by the academic or student community. The Reading Room is surrounded by a beautiful garden to create a place to sit away from the more lively areas of the site.
- * The north to south link between Kings College is maintained and strengthened.
- * A clear route for servicing and delivery access is provided between the Social Lawn and the Reading Room
- * The smaller, spring flowering trees, will stitch the site together but not obscure views to St Mary Le Strand church somersethouse  A Forest for Change 🌳🌳🌳 Trees have historically been forbidden in our courtyard, under the Enlightenment principals on which architect Sir William Chambers conceived the building. This summer, artist Es Devlin will break that tradition with a breathtaking installation of 400 trees as the centrepiece of the @londondesignbiennale.

Somerset House
