OF HOOSICK.

Hoosick, the north-eastern town of the county, is bounded north, by Cambridge and White Creek, in Washington county; east by Bennington, in Vermont; south by Petersburgh and Grafton, and west by Pittstown. The boundary-lines are straight, or nearly so, (following, however, somewhat the course of the Hoosick river). The town is considerably wider at the north than at the south. The farm acreage of the town is given in the census of 1875, at 37,448 acres, but this is somewhat less than the actual area.

The title to the soil in this town, is derived through original patents—the Hoosick, the Walloomsac and the Schneyder.

THE HOOSICK PATENT.

This was granted June 3, 1688, by Thomas Dongan, Governor of the Province of New York, under his Majesty, James II., King of England.

The quantity of land thus granted is not named in the patent, but amounted to about 70,000 acres.

The only consideration for this princely domain, was an annual quit-rent of ten bushels of "Good, sweet, merchantable wheat, to be delivered at the city of Albany, unto such officer or officers, as shall from time to time be appointed to receive the same."

THE WALLOOMSAC PATENT.

The tract lying north of the Hoosick, but extending farther east, was granted June 15, 1739. This patent conveyed about 12,000 acres lying along the Walloomsac river, partly in what is now Washington county, and partly in the county of Rensselaer.

THE SCHNEYDER PATENT.

This was granted March 24, 1762. The tract of land was "bounded, northwardly by the patent of Wallumshack; southwardly by the patent of Rensselaerwyck; westerly by the patent of Hoseck, and eastwardly by other vacant lands, containing about the quantity of 10,000 acres." Two shillings and sixpence were to be paid annually in the city of New York, on Lady-day, for each and every hundred acres of the above granted land.

NATURAL FEATURES.

The surface of this town consists of the narrow valley of the Hoosick river and that of the Walloomsac, the mountainous regions of the Taghcanic range on the east, and those of the Petersburgh on the west. The scenery is of a varied character, combining many elements of beauty. The highest peaks are those of Fonda Hill, in the south-west. These are said to be 900 feet above tide water. The valleys are bordered in many places by steep hillsides.

The town is divided into two (nearly equal) parts by the Hoosick river. This is an old historic stream, whose valley was the war path along which the French and Indians made their stealthy marches upon the villages of New England. This river, having received the waters of Little Hoosick just within the town of Petersburgh, enters this town a little east of the central point of the southern boundary, and flows slightly west of north until it reaches the line of White Creek. It then turns to the west and forms, with a curving line, the northern boundary until it enters Pittstown. The north-eastern portion of the town is drained by the Walloomsac, which flows from the east line in a generally westerly course until its junction with the Hoosick. In the south-east is a small tributary of the Hoosick, draining quite a portion of the old Schneyder patent.

Hoosick from the east, and another rivulet from the same direction flows in at Hoosick Falls.

In the north, a branch running some distance nearly parallel with the river, enters the Hoosick a short distance below the mouth of the Walloomsac.

In the south-east part of the town are mineral springs, and deposits of slate exist in various parts of the town.

THE EARLY SETTLEMENT.

The original grantees of the Hoosick lands do not seem to have taken any immediate steps for their settlement and cultivation. For more than fifty years they were left to a few Dutch families and a small number of Mohican Indians, whose ancestors were dispossessed of their hunting grounds, and the tribe nearly destroyed by the fierce Mohawks. The settlement of the Hoosick Valley was also delayed by the long and often sanguinary struggles of the French and English, for supremacy and dominion in the valley of the St. Lawrence and the adjacent provinces.

This stormy period extended from 1688 to 1760. Hoosick from its location being in the direct route from Canada to the towns and villages on the Deerfield and Connecticut, was the most exposed to attacks of these merciless foes.

THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

The one great event of the revolutionary era in this immediate section, was the Battle of Bennington. This was fought in the town of Hoosick and as Judge Ball and others have suggested, it might well have been called "the battle of Walloomsac", as it was fought in the valley of that stream, or upon the adjacent hills, and near the village of Walloomsac.

We give below a grapic description of the battle, as delivered by Hon. Hiland Hall, at the Bennington centennial.

PREPARING FOR THE BATTLE.

Baum set off with his force on the 13th of August, and arrived the same day at Cambridge, sixteen miles from Bennington. Early the next morning he reached Sancoick, a small settlement near the mouth of the White Creek branch of Walloomsac river about half a mile below the present village of North Hoosick. Here he found a party of Americans in possession of a mill which they abandoned on his approach, and in the mill, on the head of a barrel, he wrote Burgoyne an account of his progress, informing him that "by five prisoners taken here they agree that 1,500 to 1,800 men are at Bennington, but are supposed to leave on our approach." They did leave on his approach, but not in the direction he had anticipated. The old mill at Sancoick is still standing and in use by John W. Burke, the present owner, and is about eight

Gen. Stark, on the 13th, had received information from scouts that a party of Indians was at Cambridge, and he sent Lieut. Col. Gregg, of his brigade, with 200 men to stop their progress, but during the night he was advised that a large body of troops, with artillery, were in the rear of the Indians, and that they were advancing towards Bennington. He immediately sent to Manchester for Col. Warner's continental regiment, and also for the neighboring militia to rally to his support. On the morning of the 14th he assembled his brigade, and in company with Cols. Warner, Williams, Herrick and Brush, went out to meet the enemy. He had marched about five miles when he met Gregg on his retreat from Sancoick and the enemy in close pursuit. Stark drew up his men in order of battle, but Baum halted in a commanding position, and the ground occupied by Stark being unfavorable for a general attack, he fell back about a mile and encamped. His encampment was in the north-west part of Bennington, on a farm formerly owned by Paul M. Henry, on the hill upon which a dwelling has lately been erected by Lewis Norhouse, the present proprietor.

The Walloomsac river is a branch of the Hoosick, fordable in most places, having in general a westerly course, but which after passing Stark's encampment runs in a northern direction for half a mile, then westerly for a mile and a half, where it turns suddenly to the south, and pursues that course for three quarters of a mile or more. Here on the west side of the river, Baum halted and made his arrangements for defense. On the top of a thickly wooded hill, which rises abruptly three or four hundred feet from the west bank of the stream, he posted the greater part of his Germans, under his own immediate command. This position was west of the sudden bend in the stream, and Baum's front to the east was well secured against an attack by the precipitous ascent of the hill on that side, which impracticable ascent extended from his camp for half a mile along the bank of the river to the bridge at the southern foot of the hill, over which the road from Bennington to Sancoick and Cambridge passed. On the top of this hill Baum prepared entrenchments of earth and logs to resist attacks from the west and on his flanks.

Baum caused a strong breastwork to be thrown up on the high bank of the river, on which was mounted one of his cannon, in charge of a body of German grenadiers. Two small breastworks were also erected on opposite sides of the road, near the west end of the bridge, which were manned by Frazier's marksmen; and the position was still further strengthened by posting all the Canadians in log huts which were standing near the bridge on both sides of the river. This point is where the river is now crossed by the covered railroad bridge, about three miles from North Bennington on the route to Troy.

Baum, on his way from the Hudson and at his encampment, had been joined by a considerable number of Tories, many of them under the lead of Col. Francis Pfister, a half-pay British officer of wealth and extensive influence, who occupied an imposing residence erected by him on west bank of the Hoosick river near what is now known as Hoosick Corners. These, with most of Peter's corps of loyalists were posted on a hill east of the stream, forty or fifty rods to the south-east of the bridge. Here strong works of defense were erected, known as the "Tory breastwork," and of which Col. Pfister is understood to have been placed in command. On its right was a sharp ravine, and both flanks would have the protection of ball and grape from the cannon at the bridge. The other cannon, in charge of German grenadiers, supported by some Tories, appears to have been placed further to the west in a cleared field near the road. It was on a hillside which overlooked and commanded the approaches to the bridge and to the Tory encampment, and also to the south flank of Baum's encampment. It may have been moved nearer to Baum's position during the engagement*

The encampments of the two hostile bodies, though little more than two miles apart, were entirely hidden from the sight of each other by a heavily wooded intervening hill.

The force under Gen. Stark was composed of the greater part of his brigade of New Hampshire militia; a small number of Vermont milita from the east side of the mountain, under Col. William Williams, who had been stationed at Manchester; Col. Herrick's corps of rangers, then forming; the state militia from Bennington and its vicinity, under Col. Nathaniel Brush; and on the morning of the 16th, Stark was joined by Col. Simonds and militia from Berkshire county. His whole force might perhaps have numbered about 1,600.

On the night of the 14th, after ascertaining the position of the enemy, Stark called a council, consisting of the leading members of the Council of Safety as well as of Colonels Warner and Herrick and other military officers, in which a plan for attacking the enemy was discussed and adopted, and it was agreed that the attack should be made the next morning. But the 15th was so excessively rainy as to prevent any attempt at a general action. Scouts were however sent out, some of which were engaged in successful skirmishes.

The several positions of Baum's forces are shown by the plan in Burgoyne's account of his expedition, of which a copy on a reduced scale is given in the Memorials of a Century, by the Rev. Isaac Jennings, and another, still smaller, is found in Lossing's Field Book of the revolution. The top of the map is west, and upon it the Tories are designated as "American Volunteers," the British marksman as "Rangers," the Americans as ,' Bodies of the Enemy," All others, except the "Canadians," are Germans, the "Chasseurs" being German marksmen. On Burgoyne's map the Walloomsac is called the Hoosick.

THE BATTLE.

The morning of the 16th, was bright and clear, and Stark prepared for the attack in accordance with the plan previously agreed upon. Col. Nichols, with 200 of the New Hampshire troops, to whom a reinforcement of 100 was afterwards added, was detached to make a wide circuit to the north of Baum's post and come round upon the rear of his left, and Col. Herrick with 300 men, composed of his rangers and Col. Brush's militia, was to make a like wide southern circuit to the rear of his right, the two parties to meet and make a joint attack upon his entrenchments. Cols. Hubbard* and Stickney, with 300 of Stark's brigade, were ordered to the enemy's extreme right. While these three detachments were gaining their assigned positions, the enemy was amused by a threatened attack on his front. About three o'clock in the afternoon, firing was commenced by the party under Nichols, which was the signal for a general assault. It was immediately followed by the detachment under Herrick, and by that of Hubbard and Stickney, while Stark himself, with his reserve of New Hampshire men and the Berkshire and some Vermont militia, in the face of the enemy's cannon, assailed the Tory breastwork and the pass at the bridge in front. The engagement thus became general and "lasted," says Stark in his report to Gates, "two hours, and was the hottest I ever saw-it represented one continued clap of thunder." The Indians, alarmed at the prospect of being enclosed between the parties of Nichols and Herrick, fled at the begining of the fight, but Baum, with his Germans and all others under his command, having the advantage of their position behind entrenchments, which the rain of the 15th had given them ample time to erect and make strong, fought with great resolution and bravery, but they were overpowered by their militia assailants, and either fled or surrendered prisoners of war.

The battle being ended and the prisoners sent off to Bennington, under a proper guard, the militia dispersed to look over the field and collect plunder. But very soon intelligence was brought that a large additional force from the British army was approaching, and within the distance of two miles. This body of men was under the command of Col. Breyman, and consisted, besides 22 officers, of 620 rank and file, all Germans, with two pieces of cannon, which Burgoyne, on hearing that the force at Bennington was greater than had been expected, had dispatched to reinforce Baum. The rain of the preceding day and the heaviness of the roads had delayed Breyman's arrival until the victory over the men he had been sent to aid, had been accomplished. The victors were, however, in great confusion, and it appeared difficult to stop the progress of the new enemy. Happily, at this juncture, Warner's regiment of about 140 men, which had been delayed by the rain in its march from Manchester, came up fresh under Lieut. Col. Safford, and took its position in front, serving as a rallying point for the scattered militia. Breyman advanced with his two brass field pieces up the road, with wings of infantry on each side of it, occasionally firing his cannon to clear the way, the Americans slowly retiring before him. When a considerable body of the militia had been collected, a stand was made (about forty or fifty rods east of the present Walloomsac depot), and Breyman's force brought to a halt. Here he was attacked in front and flanks, a most deadly fire being poured into his ranks from a wooded hill on his left. The action was very severe and continued till after sunset, when many of Breyman's men being killed and wounded, and his artillery horses shot down, he abandoned his cannon and fled. Gen. Stark pursued his flying forces till the approaching darkness rendered it necessary to draw off his men to prevent their firing upon each other. "With one hour more of daylight," says Stark in his official report, "we should have captured the whole body."

EFFECTS OF THE BATTLE.

Among the trophies of this day's victories were four brass field-pieces, twelve brass drums, two hundred and fifty sabres, four ammunition wagons, several hundred stand of arms, and 658 prisioners, and 207 were left dead on the field. The whole loss of the enemy could not have been less than 900 men. Some of the contemporaneous accounts make the number still larger. Of the prisoners, 30 of them were officers, 36 British soldiers, 398 Hessians, 38 Canadians and 155 Tories. Col. Baum was mortally wounded and taken prisoner, as was also Col. Pfister, the commander of the Tory entrenchment. Both were taken about a mile to a house in the town of Shaftsbury, which a few years ago was still standing opposite the present paper mill of Charles E. Welling, known as "The Baum House," in which they both died within a day or two afterwards. The loss of the Americans in both engagements was about 30 killed and 40 wounded.

This victory, in which undisciplined husbandmen with their hunting guns, without bayonets, bravely stormed entrenchments manned with regular troops and defended by cannon, is justly styled by Bancroft as "one of the most brilliant and eventful of the war." The loss of the enemy in men and material was severely felt. But the consequences were otherwise still more important. By inspiring confidence on the one side and depressing the spirits of the other, the current of success was at once turned from the British to the American arms. The fate of Burgoyne and his army was, in effect, sealed at Bennington, and his final capture well assured. Gen.

Washington, on being informed of the event, considered it as deciding the fate of Burgoyne, and dismissed all anxiety about his invasion. Its effect upon the enemy was most disheartening. Madame Riedesel, wife of the commanding general of the German troops, who accompanied her husband through the campaign, says in her memoirs, that by Baum's failure "the army was prevented from advancing, while the enemy, recovering suddenly from depression, increased their numbers daily." Burgoyne himself, though he struggled on for a few weeks longer, was evidently disheartened. Four days after Baum's defeat, after preparing a dispatch to the British minister for the public ear, he wrote him another letter marked "Private," dated "Camp, near Saratoga, August 20, 1777," in which he gave quite a gloomy account of his affairs, treating the failure of the expedition to Bennington as his great misfortune, in which he says of it, that " had I succeeded, I should have formed a junction with St. Leger and been now before Albany." After speaking disparagingly of the Tories, he says: "The great bulk of the country is undoubtedly with the Congress," and of the Vermonters he bitterly adds, " The Hampshire Grants in particular, a country unpeopled and almost unknown in the last war, now abounds in the most active and most rebellious race of the continent, and hangs like a gathering storm on my left."

HOOSICK FALLS.

This village known throughout the country for its thriving manufacturing enterprises, is situated upon the Hoosick river, which supplies valuable water power. The river winds in a serpentine manner through the village and has a picturesque appearance from the hills. It is also on the line of the Troy and Boston, and Hoosac Tunnel and Western Railways.

The present prosperity of the village is almost entirely due to the Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Co., who employ 1,500 men, and whose pay roll amounts to $70,000 a month; and the Malleable Iron Works who employ 225 hands.

The first known lease of land of the Hoosick patent, at Hoosiek Falls, was made of 220 acres by Jonathan Fuller from Augustus Van Horne of New York. The survey of this tract began at a marked birch tree standing below the falls of Quequick. This farm was next conveyed to Henry Northup, of North Kingston, R. I., who shortly after removed to it, where he lived until his death in 1797. The other part of the village west of Main street and east of the Hoosick river was a part of the farm of 250 acres belonging to Henry Barnhart. The first store in Hoosick Falls, it is said, was one opened in 1785 by Isaac Turner. In 1784 Joseph Dorr came to Hoosick Falls and leasing of Barnardus Bratt 280 acres of land, together with all the water power on the north side of the river, began the erection of a carding and fulling mill. Subsequently a flax mill, a distillery and a saw mill were also erected there. Benjamin Colvin, about the year 1786, built a grist mill on the south side of the river. His successors were John Chase and Theophilus Comstock. In 1791 the first bridge was constructed over the river at Hoosick Falls. In 1822 the first post office was established in the place, Seth Parsons being made postmaster.

In 1823 Joseph Gordon, a Scotchman, built what was known as the Caledonian cotton factory, on the south bank of the Hoosick river between the bridge and the grist mill. About 150 persons were employed in the factory. In 1827 the factory was purchased by Samuel S. Crocker, John Knickerbocker, John House, of Waterford and Jacob Merritt, of Troy. In 1868 this property was sold to the Walter A. Wood mowing and reaping machine

On April 14, 1827, the village of Hoosick Falls was incorporated, Seth Parsons being elected president of the board of trustees. It is said that at the time of its incorporation the population of the village was 200, the number of buildings 86, the electors 50, and the valuation of the property $96,370.

In 1831 George W. and Lyman Benedict erected the Trement cotton factory on the north side of the river.

About 25,000 yards of cloth were manufactured weekly, the number of employés being about 70. In 1855 the property was sold to Walter A. Wood. The present population of the town is about 8,500.

WALTER A. WOOD, MOWING AND REAPING MACHINE CO.

On the opposite page we present an outline view of the most celebrated manufactory of harvesting machines in the world. This immense establishment is the property of the Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Company, the officers of which are the Hon. Walter A. Wood, president; John Hobart Warren, vice-president; A. C. Geer, secretary; Willard Gay, treasurer; J. M.

Rosebrooks, superintendent of construction.

The history of these extensive works begins in the year when Walter A. Wood, a young man of vigorous mind and active body, came to Hoosick Falls and engaged himself as a journeyman machinist to work for Parsons & Wilder. being at the time 20 years of age. Subsequently he became interested in the manufacture of prows and other agricultural implements. In 1852, having carefully inspected the working of the combined mowing and harvesting machine patented by John H. Manny of Illinois, Walter A. Wood was induced to purchase a territorial right, and to begin the manufacture of the machines, at Hoosick Falls. Besides occupying the old foundry building, he, in 1855 purchased the old Tremont cotton factory. In 1858, Ball & Parsons, who had also been engaged since 1852, in manufacturing the same machines, quitted the business, leaving Walter A. Wood the only one to carry on this branch of manufacturing in Hoosick Falls. In 1859, finding that he needed more conveniences for his increasing business, Mr. Wood rented the mill formerly occupied by Ball & Parsons. In November, 1860, a disastrous fire swept away in flame all of the buildings. The same year the work of rebuilding began, and the new buildings erected on the site of the old ones, were the next year noisy with the hum of machinery, and another period "The Wood Mower," conof manufacture began. structed by the mechanical ingenuity of Mr. Wood in 1859, was sent out among the farmers and achieved a notable success. In 1861, "the self-raking reaper," patented by Mr. Wood, which was farther perfected in 1863, added to his greater celebrity as a maker of excellent harvesters.

In 1870, a second fire swept away all the buildings. The Caledonia mill having been bought in 1869, became the workshop where most all the machines were constructed during the year 1870. From the date of this calamity new buildings have, from year to year, been erected, which now form this extensive manufacturing establishment.

The present stock company, known as the Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Company, was formed in 1865. From this time until 1879, various useful attachments and additions were made to the machines invented by Mr. Wood. In 1874, the wire self-binding harvester was brought out, and ach eved the signal success which has made the machines of this character known in all the grain producing countries of the earth. Oliver Dalrymple, the great grain grower, employed in 1879, in harvesting his immense fields of grain, 106 of these machines, each of which reaped on an average, 15 acres of grain a day.

A CONSTELLATION OF MEDALS.

Writing of the first trial of the Wood automatic twine binder in England, in October, 1879, on the farm of Simeon Leather, Delamere lodge, near Northwich, Cheshire, an observant witness says: "I saw it make 500 sheaves without one stoppage, in the most perfect manner possible, at the rate of 27 sheaves per minute." The rightly merited praises bestowed upon these wonderful and useful machines have not only placed thousands and tens of thousands of them upon the great grain plains of the United States, but have carried them to those of Europe, Asia, Africa, South America, Australia and New Zealand. As the visitor inspects the 200 and more, gold, silver and bronze medals handsomely displayed in the vice-president's room, at the works, at Hoosick Falls, awarded to Walter A. Wood as testimonials of the unexcelled merits of his harvesting machines, he cannot but think that "worth makes the man." In field competions between American and European reaping machines in Europe, the Wood harvesters took 207 first prizes. The brilliancy of this honorable mention is further increased by the Wood machines during the same time, taking 109 first prizes on other fields of competion against all the leading machines. In 1876, at the centennial exhibition he obtained the highest awards for his harvesters. Austria conferred upon him the knight's cross of the imperial order of Francis Joseph, and France, in 1869, decorated him with the cross of the chevalier of the legion of honor, and in 1878, added two gold medals and the cross of officer of the legion of honor—the highest award of honor. The amazing record of the machines manufactured since 1853 at the Hoosick Falls establishment is the following:

1853 1854	A STATE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE	23,000 15,000

The monthly pay roll is $70,000, the number of regular employes being about 1,500.

In 1880, the wire binder was abandoned and a machine substituted for the wire binder, in which twine is used for the binding material, which has proved a great success as it does away with all objections to wire, and is cheaper to the consumer.

The works are encircled with railroad tracks, and the company uses its own engines and cars for conveying machines to the warehouses, connecting with the Troy and Boston R. R., and Boston Hoosac Tunnel and Western Railway.

The following extract from the circular of 1882 gives a comprehensive idea of this renowned enterprise:

"Notwithstanding our best endeavors, by enlarging our works and manufacturing facilities from time to time, to keep pace with the increasing demand for machines, we have found that the demand is always beyond our capacity for production, as has been the case especially the past two years. Anticipating a still larger demand for machines for 1882, as soon as we could stop manufacturing machines for the last season's business, in August last, we set about enlarging our works again, by additional buildings, and increased manufacturing facilities. The enlargement is completed, and the capacity of our works for production has been increased at least one-third. Since such completion we have been running, and shall continue to run our works throughout the entire year to their full capacity, in the hopes of building enough machines of all kinds to meet the anticipated large demand for 1882.

To show what efforts on our part, will be required to produce that result, we have only to state that actual orders for machines, already received, number over 47,000, and to produce that number will require a production of over 250 machines per day throughout the season.

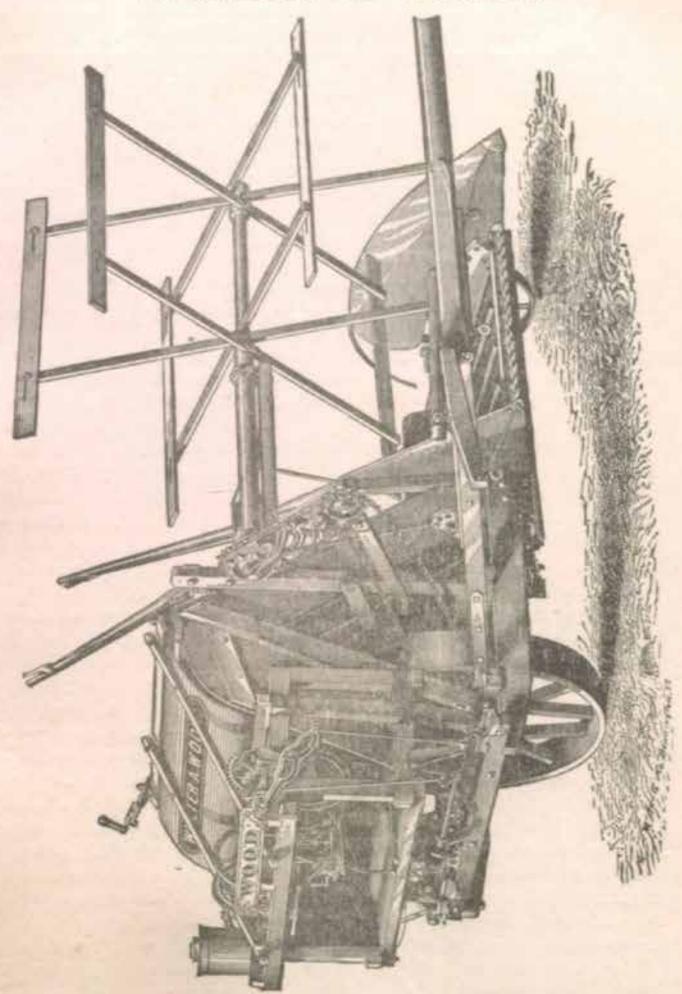

Our intention is to build all the machines that may be required, even if we have to run our works day and night again to accomplish it.

With our enlarged works we may assert without fear of contradiction, that we have the most perfect, as well as the largest establishment for the manufacture of harvesting machines in the world."

WALTER A. WOOD'S

SELF-BINDING HARVESTER.

[The Proxum binder.]

THE ORIGIN OF THE AUTOMATIC GRAIN BINDER.

The successful operation of this machine is a triumph of genius, and was first manufactured and practically introduced, by the Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Co., in 1870.

Our sketch would be incomplete, indeed, if it was not regarded as an important factor in establishing the present and prospective wealth and prosperity of Hoosick township. As early as 1861, Sylvanus D. Locke-to whom the invention of the machine is to be creditedcommenced his experiments of perfecting a Grain Binder, and in order to give the public a more perfect idea of this useful invention, we will trace its history somewhat briefly. Mr. Locke was continuously engaged from 1861 to 1869 in what, at that time, and to others, seemed a fruitless endeavor to construct an automatic machine for binding grain. His life during this period, and subsequently, with reference to this machine, will constitute one of the most eventful chapters in the history of American inventions; for to him, more than to any other man living or dead, does the world owe the present successful Automatic Binding Harvester. With a good income from his surveying and engineering, every dollar of it, beyond the necessary provision for his family was freely put in this machine. Against the advice, warnings, and even entreaties, of his best friends, who declared that he was sacrificing the best years of his life in useless efforts to achieve what never before could be achieved, he pursued unfalteringly his purpose. Defeated often, but discouraged never, failure seemed only to confirm him in his purpose, and to add to his determination to succeed. Wonderfully gifted for the work, he knew always that he would succeed. So, for nearly ten years, he battled, almost against fate, to produce what the world had never seen—a successful automatic binding harvester. The difficulty was not so much in the production of devices to manipulate the bands, as in handling the grain and adapting the machine to it.

At last, in 1870, at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., where he is now residing, his efforts were crowned with that success which, sooner or later in life's grand battles, unwavering devotion, and indomitable energy are certain to bring. In the harvest of that year he had the Pioneer binder. This machine cut and bound rapidly and well, a swathe eight feet wide. This was at least two years in advance of any and all inventors and competitors in the grainbinder field. Having produced a successful machine, the way has been easier for others to follow. March 1, 1869, having previously arranged with Walter A. Wood to assume the financial burdens of his undertakings, Mr. Locke came to Hoosick Falls to reside. His family came the first of October following. His endeavor that year to apply his binder to Mr. Wood's chainrake was a failure. Later in the season, he applied his present "rotary binder" to a side-delivery apron machine. This machine was destroyed by the terrible conflagration that swept away, in a single night, in March, 1870, the extensive works of the Walter A. Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Co. Immediately after the fire, he commenced rebuilding his machine, and during the following harvest it proved an eminent success.

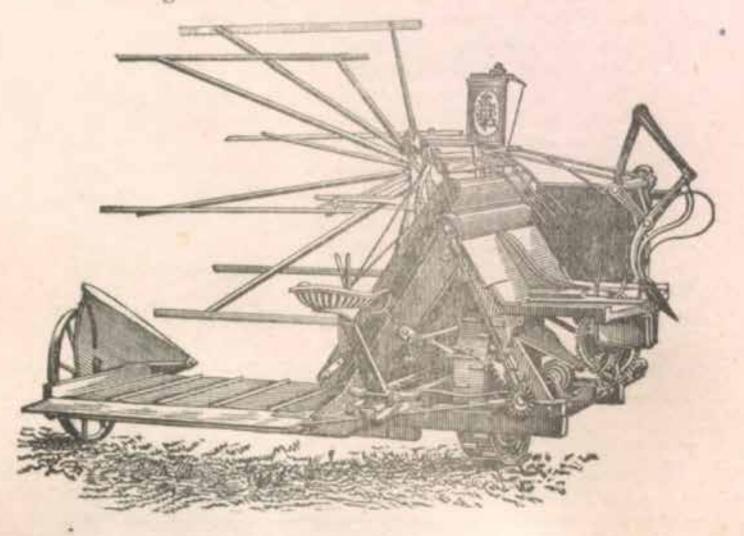

So year after year passed, constructing machines at the manufactory at Hoosick Falls, and testing them in the west, to adapt them to run in the hands of unskilled farmers, in all the varied conditions of grain, soil and weather. In 1874, twenty-five machines were built; in 1875, three hundred; in 1876, twelve hundred; in 1877, three thousand; in 1878, five thousand, five hundred were built and sold. These machines bound with wire, and were, and are to-day, eminently a success. We give, at the head of this article, a cut of this machine, the pioneer binder of this or any other country. Its memory should not be allowed to die out, at least not in Hoosiek, where it was produced.

Since 1878, Mr. Locke has been at work on a twine binding harvester that is said to be several hundred pounds lighter than any of its competitors. It is not only very light, but also very strong, compact and simple. Having several new and distinctive features that commend it to the farmer, it seems to be the worthy successor of the Pioneer. We give a cut of this new twine binding harvester at the close of this article. It is now being built by Mr. Locke here, and by others for him elsewhere.

Mr. Locke has obtained, on his own inventions, over fifty patents relating to harvesters and binders, and owns or controls over seventy. So, in return for a life work of usefulness to others, a harvest of wealth is gathering for Mr. Locke. May it come, in full measure to him and to Walter A. Wood, whose strong heart, clear head and open hand, have been extended to Mr.

Locke in his great work.

HOOSICK MALLEABLE IRON WORKS, HOOSICK FALLS.

In the year 1871, a stock company with a capital of $40,000, and known by the above title, was organized, with Bronson B. Tuttle, of Naugatuck, Conn., as president, and William S. Nicholls, of Hoosick Falls, as secretary and treasurer. Two years later, Mr. Tuttle retiring from the company, he was succeeded by Isaac G. Johnson, of New York (one of the original stockholders), and from that time Mr. Johnson has been president of the company. The company purchased about ten acres of land in the north end of the village, on the line of the Troy and Boston railroad, and on the banks of the Hoosick river. The buildings occupy about two and one-half acres of ground, independent of the stock yards for coal and iron. They are of brick; a portion two story high, and in the form of a hollow square, with a railway track passing through the centre for the convenient distribution and handling of the coal and iron. The company is in a very flourishing condition, and contributes largely to the present prosperity of Hoosick Falls. About 600 car-loads of freight are annually received. About 2,800 tons of coal, and 1,700 tons of iron are consumed. 200 to 225 hands are employed. The company make a great variety of castings, and being a custom foundry their product enters into many classes of manufacturing, in all parts of the country, chiefly agricultural implements, carriages, sewing machines, fire arms, carpenter tools, household goods and parts of machinery. Isaac G. Johnson, Prest.; I. B. Johnson, Sec'y.; William S. Nicholls, Treas., are the present officers of the company.

THE HOOSICK FALLS CUSTOM MILLS.

Charles Q. Eldredge, Proprietor. A local history of this village would be incomplete without a notice of this, the only grist mill in the village, and the largest grain handling concern between Troy and North Adams.

The mill is a large wood and brick structure, built in

Has two run of stone, and a capacity for grinding 350 bushels of corn, and 100 bushels of wheat every 10 hours. In the same building a large room on the first floor is devoted to wood working, and all classes of job work are here performed. Planing and matching, scroll and band sawing, manufacture of moulding and in fact all kinds of ornamental work. On the second floor one hundred and forty operatives are engaged in the manufacture of shirts, turning out some 600 dozen per week.

Two engines furnish motive power, working singly or jointly as more or less power is required.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

Though small, has thus far been equal to all emergencies.

The Wood Mowing and Reaping Machine Co., has a reservoir and a well equipped fire department of its own, which can deluge the buildings at a given moment.

David Ball; First Assistant, Stephen Carr; Second Assistant, Thomas Kenny; Secretary, P. Gaffney; Treasurer, Thomas W. Murphy; Engineer, Thos. Murphy; Assistant Engineer, Geo. E. Kearney.

THE WATER WORKS.

Various plans are under consideration to furnish the village with water. No definite steps will, of course, be taken in the matter, until the plans are submitted to the tax-payers for approval.

THE EDUCATIONAL RESOURCES OF HOOSICK.

Hoosick, like most of the other first class towns in the state, has had a care of her public schools; and ample facilities for acquiring a good education are afforded to all her children. Mrs. Julia M. Dewey is the present efficient principal and superintendent. The Board of Education in District No. 1 of Hoosick Falls, consists of Hon. Walter A. Wood, J. M. Rosebrooks and Joseph Buckley, and in District No. 22, T. A. Fleming, Edward Scott, John Reilly, are trustees; Chas. Bates, clerk; and W. R. Smith, librarian.

NEWSPAPERS.

The first newspaper issued at Hoosick Falls was the Hoosick Falls Gazette, published by A. C. Eddy about the year 1863. This paper had been known previously as the Cambridge Valley News. It was published about one year. Subsequently, about the year 1869, the Hoosick Falls Independent was published for a year by —— Botsford.

The Rensselaer County Standard was first issued, at Hoosick Falls, Nov. 15, 1873, by James H. Livingston, editor and proprietor.

On the 6th of March, 1880, the paper became the property of Benjamin Horsley, who ably continues its publication.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF HOOSICK FALLS

Wallace, Pres.; C. A. Cheney, Vice Pres.; Addison Getty, Cashier; —Directors, Hon. Walter A. Wood, J. P. Armstrong, A. L. Johnston, J. Russell Parsons, Benj. V. Quackenbush, S. S. Stevens, T. J. Wallace, E. P. Markham, Chas. E. Stroud, C. Q. Eldredge, Benj. N. Harrington, Wm. S. Nichols, Charles A. Cheney.

THE WILDER COLLECTION OF SPECIMENS OF NATURAL HISTORY.

For many years the large and splendid collection belonging to Lyman Wilder, was one of the chief attractions of Hoosick Falls. They were tastefully displayed in an octagonal building near his dwelling, with a peculiar constructed arrangement to exhibit the specimens, invented by Mr. Wilder. This cabinet contained one of the largest and finest collections of crystals of all the different mineral species that is to be found in any collection in the United States; besides, a large collection in all the natural sciences. viz: mineralogy, geology, paleontology, conchology, ornithology, &c., besides many other specimens of natural curiosities, so that it numbered over fifty thousand specimens, mostly collected, studied out, and arranged during the fragments of time, for over thirty years, which are generally lost by most men after their daily duties have been performed.

After devoting so much time and money in getting this collection together, Mr. Wilder was desirous it should be placed in some permanent place while he was able to attend to it, and where it would be appreciated and preserved from the hazard of fire and fingers of the burglar. Having intimate relations with the officers and faculty of Williams College (having received the degree of A. M. from the trustees of that college for his acquirements in natural science), and desirous that it should go to that institution, he offered the collection to the president, Dr. Chadbourne, for the nominal sum of $8,000-about twofifths of its real value-on condition of its being put up in his name and under his direction, in a fire-proof building, suitable for such a collection. The president of the college, Dr. Chadbourne, laid the subject before the board of trustees, who voted to accept his proposition. Subsequent to this, Mr. Clark, a wealthy gentleman of New York, one of the trustees of said college, very generously gave the money to pay for the same. Not only this, but when he discovered that the college had no suitable building to put said collection in, gave orders to his architect to erect such a building, and is now, at his own expense, erecting a fire-proof building in Williamstown in every way suitable, at a cost of about forty thousand dollars, which will be finished, ready to receive the collection, in the spring of 1882; when it will be opened at all proper times to be viewed by all desiring to see the same.

E. S. PECK MACHINE SHOP.

E. S. Peck has a well equipped machine shop at 8 Center street, and makes a specialty of models and experimental work.

THE HOOSICK FALLS CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

Was formed March, 1854, and twelve acres of land were purchased near the south bounds of the village. Its officers are: President, J. R. Parsons. Trustees, Walter A. Wood, S. S. Stevens, J. M. Rosebrooks, Geo. A. Willis, H. K. McLean; Board of Superintendents, J. R. Parsons, J. M. Rosebrooks, H. K. McLean.

THE HOOSICK CEMETERY ASSOCIATION

Was organized November 20, 1865. This enterprise was begun many years earlier, by Jonathan B. Armstrong, Lewis Crandell and Geo. W. Kenyon. They bought land around the old burial place of early years, sold out lots to others, and finally it was incorporated as above.

HOOSICK FALLS GAS LIGHT COMPANY.

Incorporated July, 1872; capital $15,000; President, Walter P. Warren; Vice-President, Joseph W. Fuller; Secretary, A. C. Geer; Treasurer, George M. Lemon.

ORGANIZATIONS AND SOCIETIES.

THE MOWER AND REAPER BAND.

Is a favorite institution with the citizens of Hoosick Falls and is sustained very largely by the generous contributions of Hon. Walter A. Wood. The band was organized in 1859. The band as an organization joined the 2d Vermont Regiment during the war of 1861-65. They have a fine hall and a valuable set of instruments. J. D. Worth is the present leader.

THE M. E. CHURCH LITERARY SOCIETY.

This society was organized in Oct., 1879, for the promotion of social and intellectual culture. Musical and literary entertainments are given by the members every two weeks, and a certain time is allotted to debates and social reunion. A novel and instructive feature at the meetings is the reading of a newspaper, edited and read in manuscript, by a different member, selected by the chair, at each meeting. This is an excellent practice for the cultivation of English composition, as well as being interesting to all present.

The society is not sectarian, as its title would seem to indicate, but liberal in character, and embraces members of nearly every denomination and station in life. It is proper, however, to say, that S. D. Locke and the officers of the M. E. church, were the active pioneers of this society, and generously donated the free use of the lecture room, for the encouragement of the enterprise. Officers are elected every three months, and members are proposed and voted for in the usual manner. The society at present numbers 200 members, and is rapidly increasing.

THE HOOSICK FALLS VETERAN SOLDIERS' ASSOCIATION,

Was organized May 30th, 1875, for the purpose of grouping together the soldiers of the town, securing annual decoration services, and preserving in every suitable way, the memories of the war. The association owns a burial lot in Maple Grove Cemetery, for the interment of soldiers. Under the auspices of the association, the fine monument standing near the intersection of Classic and High streets, was erected with becoming ceremonies, May 30, 1878, at a cost of $1,500. Of this amount, $1,200 was raised by the association with the aid of citizens, and $300 appropriated by the town. The site on which it stands is known as Monumental Park, and was donated by the village, as well as the beautiful iron fence surrounding it. The contract for the monument was faithfully carried out by Archie Robertson, and W. H. Skeele (a member of the association) was the designer and sculptor.

To the energy, zeal and patriotism of this organization, are the citizens indebted for this fitting tribute to Hoosick's fallen sons. On the west side of the monument is the following inscription: "The citizens of Hoosick hold in grateful remembrance the soldiers who fought to save the Union;" and on the east side as follows: "Erected by the Veteran Soldiers' Association, A. D., 1878."

Its present officers are as follows: President, M. V. B. Peters; Vice President, Joseph Hale; Secretary, Lyman C. Wilder; Treasurer, H. H. Barnes; Trustees, I. Bump, L. Hawthorne, O. Parsons, H. Snellgrove; Captain, Lawrence Buckley; 1st Lieutenant, H. Snellgrove; 2d Lieutenant, Frank Morrison; Orderly Sergeant, Alex. Hay.

THE FATHER MATTHEW TOTAL ABSTINENCE SOCIETY

Was established in 1870, and has 200 members, who exert a wholesome influence in the town by their activity and example. Rev. J. D. Waldron is spiritual director. The purposes of the society are clearly explained by the following extract from the constitution and by-laws:

To promote temperance in all, by advice and example.

2. To edify our lukewarm brethern, and bring them to the practice of virtue and religion.

3. To relieve the wants of sick members of the Society, and to bury the dead.

4. To promote concord and harmony among all men, and particularly among ourselves.

The rooms are located in Wood's block, on Classic street, and are neatly furnished, and have a library of 300 volumes, and a number of daily and weekly papers, and are open every evening. Its officers are: President, Wm. Cummings; vice-President, Wm Hyland; Recording Secretary, Charles Leonard; Corresponding Secretary, John Burns; Financial Secretary, Joseph Whittle; Treasurer, Thos. Canfield.

THE CONTINENTAL TEMPLE OF HONOR, No. 21.

Was organized about 1880, and wields a healthy influence in the community. Meetings are held every Monday evening at Myrtle Hall. Its present officers are: W. C., Frank Breckinridge; W. V., Melvin Leonard; W. R., Sidney Myers; A. R., D. Bryan; F. R., Seymour Hull; W. T., S. Brown; P. W. W. C., Marshall Smith; W. U., A. Cranston; A. W. U., Joseph Wolf; W. G., Joseph LeClaire; W. # NORTH HOOSICK.

Is situated upon the Walloomsac creek, and is a station upon the Troy and Bennington R. R. The enterprise of Stevens & Thompson, who employ over ninety persons, and are engaged in the manufacture of wall paper, has largely increased the growth of the village. This place is only a mile or so east of the ancient St. Croix, the latter being near or around the junction of the two streams. The village is rapidly growing. There are two general merchandise stores, kept by Hiland Carpenter, Esq. (who is also interested in other enterprises), and who is also postmaster. Also several wagon shops, a hotel and a Methodist church, elsewhere mentioned.

Beginning at the Vermont line on the Walloomsac river, there are no improved mill sites, until we reach Walloomsac village. This was the site of the very early cotton factory built by one of the Gordons, well known in the early history of Hoosick. There were, perhaps one or two earlier in the country, but this is so early as to compete for priority. The building was afterwards converted into a grist mill, or perhaps the latter was an addition to the east end. The west end being used as a paper mill for the manufacture of wall-paper, by Austin, Patchen & Downer. Mr. Downer having disposed of his interest to John Squires, of Troy, the firm became Austin, Patchen & Squires, for several years and was purchased and run by Austin & Pratt for about two years and was considerably enlarged and improved under their management and came into the hands of H. A. Smith, from whom Stevens & Thompson purchased the mill, and run it in the name of "The Walloomsac Paper Co." In the year 1880, they commenced enlarging and improving the mill and put in two new eighty-eight inch Fourdrinier paper machines. The capacity of the two being ten tons of wall-paper per day. They also made other extensive additions for the preparation of stock, by putting in new engines and other improvements.

They have a department attached to the mill for making all necessary repairs and improvements to the mill. The next mill site improved on the Walloomsac, below, is at North Hoosick, which was the McNamara Scythe Works; they were established at the upper falls, about sixty or seventy years ago. They were continued until the manufacture of mowing machines reduced the demand for scythes.

The property was sold to Garrett & Milton, for the manufacture of straw wrapping paper, and afterwards bought by A. and W. Orr & Co., and S. S. Stevens, and fitted up and run under his management for the manufacture of wall-paper.

The capacity at the commencement being about one ton

a day.

About the year 1870, after the death of Alexander Orr, the interest of the Orr's was purchased by S. S. Stevens and G. S. Thompson, and the firm has since been known as Stevens & Thompson.

Extensive improvements have since been made in new machinery and buildings, and the present capacity is over five tons of wall-paper a day. In connection with the mill, they have a department for making all necessary repairs and improvements to the mill, and also a brass foundry.

At the lower falls, North Hoosick, there was established as early as 1805 to 1810, a carding mill, doing also weaving for customers. This enterprise developed into a woolen factory, and this was operated by Timothy McNamara. It was afterwards sold to Samuel and Thos. Fowler, and they changed it into a flannel factory. This was about 1841. A few years later this property passed to O. R. Buruham & Son, 17 and 19 Broadway, N. Y. They changed it to the "Empire State Shawl Mills." They carded and spun the wool, but the weaving was done in New York. When they ceased to operate the mills, the Spauldings' became the purchasers. This was about 1861, and they manufactured army goods largely.

The property again changed hands, the new proprietors, being Reynolds Carpenter and A. P. Carpenter. They continued it as a woolen factory until its destruction by fire in 1876 The property was sold to Daniel Robinson, of Troy, and afterwards purchased by Hiland Carpenter, of North Hoosick, who contemplates extensive improvements for the purpose of utilizing the water power, which is considered one of the best in the county.

WALLOOMSAC.

This hamlet is on the Walloomsac creek, and is east of North Hoosick, on the Troy and Bennington R. R. The extensive mills of the Walloomsac Paper Co., owned by Stevens & Thompson, are located at this point, and are doing much to develope the growth of the place as well as at North Hoosick. Ninety persons are employed at these mills.

EAGLE BRIDGE.

This village is upon the Hoosick side of the river. The junction of the B. H. T. & W. Railway with the Troy and Boston R. R. and D. and H. C. Co., at this point, renders the place of considerable importance in the way of railroad business.

There are two commodious hotels—the Eagle Bridge Hotel, by Brown & Scott, and the Dalton House, by R. P; Dalton (who is the only veterinary surgeon in the town); two general stores, by McClellan & Co, and Buell Bros. two grocery stores, by S. W. Green and J. P. McDonough; two grist mills, one saw mill; several wagon and black-smith shops, a distillery and a twine factory. Among the professions are, S. W. Scott, physician, and J. D. White and H. A. Johnson lawyers. Hiram Sisson is a wholesale flax, flax seed and produce dealer, and E. C. Reynolds is a dealer in lumber, flour, grain, coal, &c., and has been publicly interested in the welfare of the town for many years.

In 1851 and 1852 he was elected Supervisor of Petersburgh, and for the following two years was appointed School Commssioner for the Second Assembly District.

In 1870 he was elected Supervisor of Hoosick, and held the office for the four succeeding years. In the fall of 1874 he was elected County Clerk of Rensselaer county, and held the office for three years, and for the past two terms has been, and is at present, the honored supervisor of the town.

BUSKIRK'S BRIDGE.

Is situated in the north part of the town, on the Troy and Boston and B. H. T. & W. Railway, and perpetuates the name of an early settler and a prominent family. The public buildings of the place are the Methodist, Roman Catholic and Reformed churches and the school house of District No. 12; private residences numbering about sixty; two general merchandise stores, several blacksmith shops, and is growing rapidly.

H. D. Herrington, of Buskirk's Bridge, has invented a potato digger, which is claimed to be the most perfect yet invented. It will dig on the side-hill, up hill and down hill. It will dig where there are heavy vines, weeds, grass and stones. It will leave the potatoes on the surface in good condition for picking up. It will dig in all kinds of soil, either wet or dry.

HOOSICK.

This place is known in town, quite generally as Hoosick "Corners," to more clearly designate it from the other villages named by some combination with the word Hoosick. This was an important point upon the stage route from Troy to Bennington, and was the first post-office in town. Dr. Asher Armstrong was an early post-master, holding the office from about 1800 to 1832.

In 1839, Prosper M. Armstrong was appointed postmaster and succeeded by L. M. Cooley, Jonathan P. Armstrong, J. E. Wilcox and Albert Brown. In 1861, Jonathan P. Armstrong was again appointed, and he has held the office ever since. The present business of Hoosick consists of the merchandise stores of J. P. Armstrong, & Co., H. C. Babcock and E. F. Miner; two or three carriage and blacksmith shops, and the "Globe Button Works," who manufacture vegetable ivory buttons, and employ 30 persons. Two hotels—Babcock's hotel and the Eldred house; an Episcopal and Baptist church, which are detailed in our history.

WEST HOOSICK.

This place is near the western boundary line of the town. It is in what is known as the Nepimore valley, and has a school-house, a grist mill, a store, a blacksmith shop and about 50 buildings.

POTTER HILL.

which has a post office, is in the south-western part of the town.
