LUGER BATTLE HISTORY

1910 DWM, SERIAL NUMBER 5024
UNIT MARKED S.R.D.2.c.
8TH RESERVE DRAGOON REGIMENT
2ND SQUADRON
WEAPON NUMBER 6

The Luger was the sidearm of the Imperial German Army. During the German invasion of 1914, the Luger was used by the 8th Reserve Dragoon Regiment in one of the opening battles on the Western Front. The 8th Reserve Dragoon fought in such battles during 1914. While their traditional weapon was the lance, it was long obsolete with the adoption of the repeating rifle and revolver. This photograph shows that the Luger was used until the end of World War I. World War I Luger pistols were also P.08 and carbine variants. While the long traditional lance was almost always shown in combat illustrations, the Luger and P.08 were the more common sidearms.
