AGM Fiduciary Services & MOSAIC, Inc. Collaborative Partnership
AGM Fiduciary Services consists of a licensed fiduciary and a support staff to implement services and the responsibilities set forth by the CA statute & professional code of ethics. As a licensed fiduciary, one can be appointed and supervised by the court as a guardian of a minor or conservator of the person and/or the estate, trustee of either a revocable or irrevocable trust or a Special Needs Trust. Administration of estates after death is another service performed, as is acting as a Power of Attorney for health and/or finances.

A Conservatorship is usually required when a person has lost the capacity to make medical and financial decisions for themselves & did not make previous plans assigning a person as Power of Attorney on their behalf. A Conservatorship is established through the probate court and continues to be under court supervision until death. An LPS Conservatorship is assigned by the mental health court and needs to be renewed yearly giving the mentally ill person the opportunity to fully regain their individual rights each year should they recover to the extent they can manage their affairs.

AGM Fiduciary Services acts in conjunction with MOSAIC, Inc. to procure the maximum benefits available to children and dependent adults for their support and needed services for their health, safety and protection. This can involve applying for various public benefits and services and developing creative solutions for the maximum enhancement of the quality of their lives.

Paul & Lyn Flygar

Paul Flygar is a native Californian who was born in Los Angeles on December 27, 1936. He was raised on West Boulevard in Los Angeles with his younger sister, Elaine. His mother died of cancer when he was 12 and he was raised by his father, Alvar Flygar, and his grandmother. Due to gas rationing during the war, the family switched from the Lutheran church to a closer Presbyterian church. He graduated from Dorsey High School, went to college, and joined the Army. Following that Paul went to work as a civil engineer for the City of Los Angeles. He worked there for more than 30 years.

Lynda Priest was born in Livingston, Montana on October 19, 1942. Her family moved 17 times during her youth. She and her younger brother, Rodger, were raised Catholic. She attended Phoenix Union High School in Arizona. In Los Angeles, she trained to become a legal secretary, and she went to work for the City Attorney's office. Later she would work for Hahn & Hahn in Pasadena. Paul and Lyn first saw each other while walking down a corridor at Los Angeles City Hall where they both worked. Later they got to know each other when their carpools started parking next to each other. They started dating and soon knew that they were soul mates. They were married at First United Presbyterian in Los Angeles on June 19, 1964.

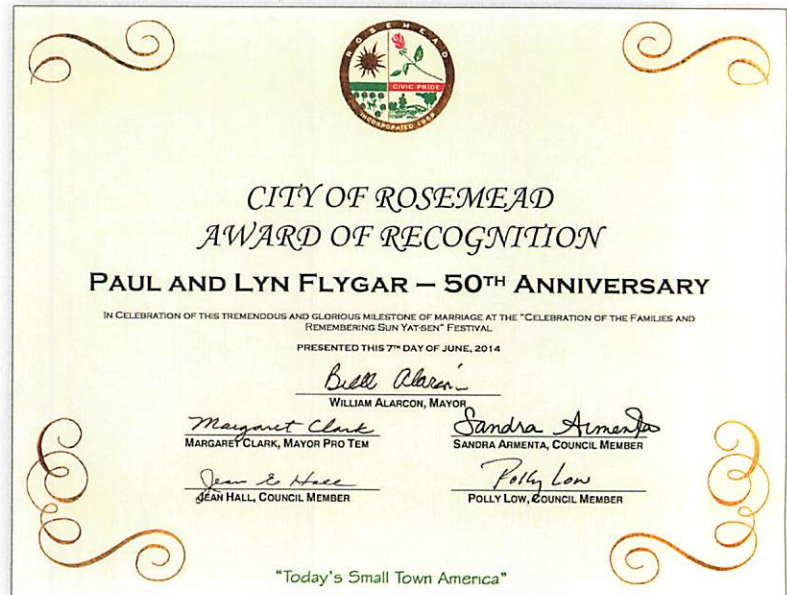

During the first year of their marriage, they lived in an apartment in Hollywood. Then they purchased the home in San Gabriel that they still live in today. They soon had two children, April and Brent. They had been attending First United Presbyterian, but it was getting difficult to travel there on Sunday mornings. Their neighbors on Doris Street, Mel and Shirley Brown, suggested that they visit their church, Oneonta Congregational Church. Paul and Lyn became members of Oneonta in 1971 and their third child, Teresa, was baptized there. All three children attended Oneonta Cooperative Nursery School.

Paul and Lyn have been active members at Oneonta for the last 43 years. They have helped with countless church bazaars and potluck dinners. They are long-time members of Los Amigos and host the annual Thanksgiving fundraiser for Union Rescue Mission. Paul and Lyn have held numerous church board positions including; Paul has been the chair of House & Grounds, Lyn has been Moderator, and they have been co-chairs of the Friendship Committee. Lyn was also a member of the previous Search Committee. Together they teach the Oneonta 101 class for people who are interested in learning more about Oneonta. In recognition of their years of service to Oneonta, Lyn was named Laywoman of the Year in 1980 and Paul was named Layman of the Year in 1994. This year Paul and Lyn Flygar will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. Their love and commitment to each other is an inspiration to their children and grandchildren. Congratulations Paul and Lyn!!!

Daniel & Carol Evans

Dan Evans, among Oneonta's members of longest standing, had his childhood home less than half a mile from the current location of the church. He knew Henry David Gray early in his ministry at Oneonta, and grew up with Henry's son, David L. Gray, recently retired minister of Messiah Congregational Church.

Dan is a scholar of a most pleasant variety. Despite less than stellar performance in German classes at his alma mater, Pomona College, he won a Fulbright Fellowship in Germany. He spent more time in Germany in the U.S. Army during which time he met a particularly beautiful young lady from Chicago. They were married in Switzerland.

Coming home to Southern California with Carol on his arm, he entered law school at USC. Upon graduation, he worked with a downtown law firm in international business law. Eventually, though, scholarship sang its siren song and Dan returned to Germany to teach. He continued in that vein after coming home to California, living in South Pasadena and, like any other university faculty member you may know, commuted 340 miles to San Jose State to teach in their business school. On the home front, Dan is pleased still to be married to his first wife, though none of his law school classmates can make a similar claim. Dan and Carol are the parents of two children – son David and daughter Charlotte.

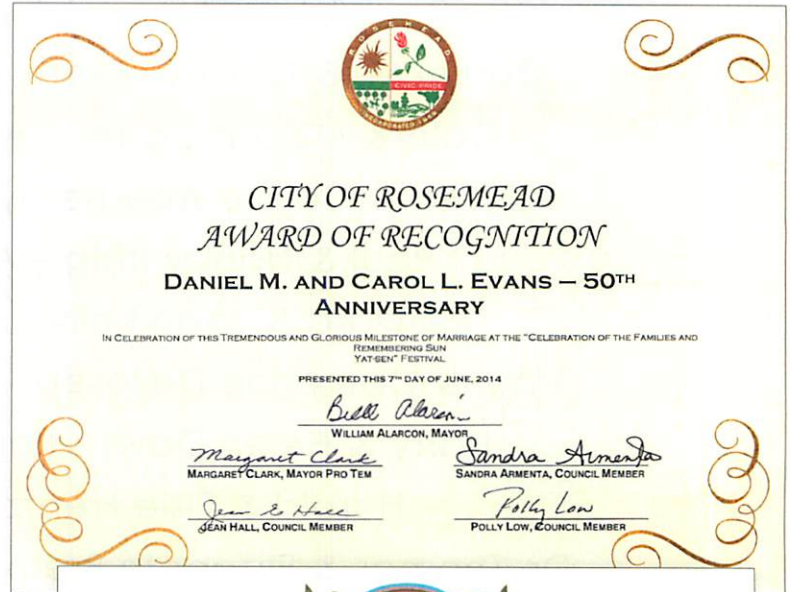

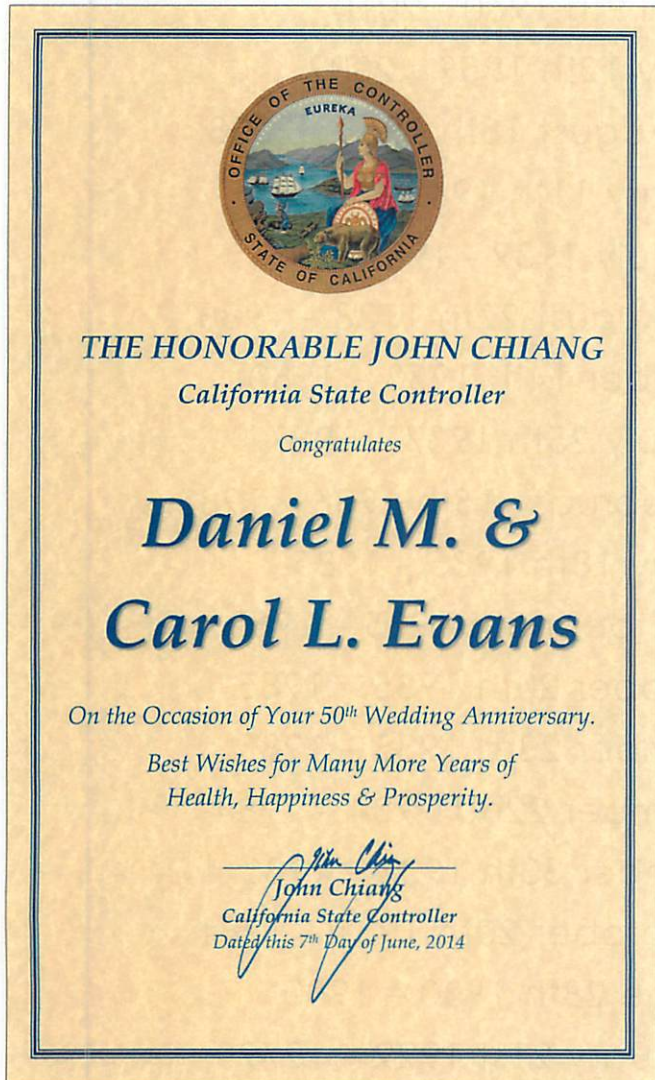

In the town, Carol retired a few years ago from a career as a public school teacher. Not surprisingly, one of her subjects was German. Dan has participated in city government on commissions dealing with transportation, particularly with the Gold Line. He's also had an interest in establishing a local rail history museum near the South Pasadena Gold Line stop.

At Oneonta, Dan and Carol can always be found serving on committees, assisting in worship, greeting friends, visiting the sick in our midst, and helping with details from decorating the sanctuary for holidays to moving choir risers. Dan has also served twice as Moderator of the Board. In short, if you're looking for help on a civic project or anything at Oneonta Congregation Church, someone who will happily and helpfully get the job done, you're probably looking for Dan and/or Carol Evans.

Honorary Guest Speaker
of Sun Mei (SYS Elder Brother)

Robert K.H. Cup Choy

Robert Cup Choy, whose Chinese name is Chun Koong Hong was born in Hawaii on the Island of Maui during the plantation days of sugar and pineapple. He attended 16 years of schooling there and completed his B.S. degree in Education at Wisconsin. He taught 36 years at Belvedere Jr. High and 35 years at Garfield Adult School in the evenings concurrently in East Los Angeles as an E.S.L. Specialist.

Education has always been at the forefront in his family. Robert's siblings, five brothers and five sisters all fulfilled their illiterate mother's educational goals by graduating from high school. While Robert studied at Maunaloa Jr. College, he enrolled his mother in the adult education evening classes and she managed to complete the adult basic educational course a few months before she passed on. His father left elementary schooling in the fourth grade and studied Confucianism with his old & younger brothers at their Grandpa's ancestral village in China, returning to Maui with his bride and oldest sister. Robert's three children have all graduated from local universities on the mainland.

In 1998, Robert made his first trip to China to reunite with relatives and made a planned stop at the Choy Hung Museum at the village of Sun Mei and Dr. Sun Yat-sen. As a youngster growing up he heard accounts of the Suns' on Maui. Further, his paternal grandfather Chun Cup Choy spoke about the Sun's residing at Kamaole Ranch mentioning his association with Sun Mei at the Tao Yee Kwok Society in Wailuku. Ever since then, he has been researching the two Sun family brothers as they are his heroes!

Brief Overview of Presentation:

The first session/part will cover the history of older brother Sun Mei on Maui in Hawaii; Oahu and Maui; focused on three points:

- 1) researched background information data from Oahu and Maui about Sun Mei
- 2) researched data from other sources - Choy Hung and Taipei
- 3) material from his book regarding Sun Mei

The second session/part will relate to "Dr. Sun Yat-sen's Journeys to the West." This segment will include his "Six Visits to Hawaii." Discussion will focus on the "Eleven Uprisings" in China. His six "Visits to the U.S., Europe, and Southeast Asia." The final point will focus on the "Western Influences" of Dr. Sun Yat-sen.

Presenter

Dr. Joshua Bryant Powers

Dr. Joshua Bryant Powers is the great grandson of Ethel Bryant Lea, wife of Homer Lea, the military advisor to Sun Yat-sen during the period leading up to and shortly after the Chinese Revolution of 1911. Dr. Powers' grandfather donated numerous Homer and Ethel Lea materials to the Hoover Institution archives at Stanford University in 1969 where they are among the most widely used for the study of modern Chinese history and linkages to the United States. Dr. Powers is the family liaison regarding the use of these materials for research and educational purposes. He also maintains the Powers family private collection of other Homer Lea, Ethel Lea, and Dr. Sun Yat-sen artifacts and materials from this period.

The Powers family has a dream of realizing the Lea's final wish, to be buried in Nanjing near their dear friend, Dr. Sun Yat-sen. The Lea's ashes currently reside in Taipei. Such a move would be a fitting tribute honoring friendship and partnership between two nations.

Born in New York City and raised in New England, Dr. Powers currently resides in Terre Haute, Indiana with his wife and three children. He has Ph.Ds in higher education and organizational behavior from Indiana University-Bloomington and is currently a professor and administrator at Indiana State University.

Homer Lea, Sun Yat-sen, and the Birth of Modern China

By

Joshua Bryant Powers, Ph.D.

Great-grandson of Ethel Bryant Lea, wife of Homer Lea

In September of 1898, following the Hundred Days' Reforms, the Empress Dowager Cixi banished her reform minded nephew, the Emperor Kwang-Hsu, and took over administration of the country. The intellectuals behind the reform movement, most notably Kang Yu-wei and Liang Qichao, were immediately wanted men and fled to Japan where they formed the Pao Huang Hui (Protect the Emperor Society, also known as the Chinese Empire Reform Association or CERA), soon to spread to other countries including Canada and the United States.

In 1899, a charismatic, self-taught military expert named Homer Lea from Los Angeles learned of the society through acquaintances in the Chinese quarter where Lea frequented as a result of his deep interest in the Chinese people. The Chinese were also intrigued by Lea in part due to his infirmity, a hunched back resulting from what may have been a childhood injury, but also his deep knowledge of military tactics despite a lack of formal military training and his fervent desire to serve the revolutionary cause. In March 1900, Lea laid out his detailed military plans at a San Francisco banquet given by the Pao Huang Hui. The Chinese had their American Marquis de Lafayette.<sup>1</sup>

Lea went to China that summer where the Boxer Rebellion was underway, an opportunity he thought to exploit the chaos and overthrow the Empress Dowager and restore Emperor Guangxu.

He received his general's commission on August 13, 1900 by Kang Yu-wei, engraved on a general's baton that along with his sword and medals, became his most prized possessions.

Ironically, his commission came just one day before the siege of Beijing was lifted and the Empress Dowager fled 500 miles to the Southwest and took her captive nephew with her. Lea pursued with a Chinese force but failed to intercept the Empress. In October, Lea linked up with another insurrection, this one sponsored by Dr. Sun Yat-sen's reform group. By December, the forces were defeated and Lea fled the country, first to Japan and then back to the United States in April of 1901.

In 1902, Lea crafted a plan to form Chinese military schools in the United States, ostensibly for educational purposes, but really for true military preparation of a force that would be sent to China to fight. Liang Qichao approved the plan on a visit to California in 1903 and fundraising within the Chinese community began in earnest with the support of the Los Angeles chapter of CERA and other chapters throughout the country. It is estimated that more than 2,000 Chinese Americans and Chinese nationals, the latter smuggled into the country, may have been trained between 1904 and 1907. The training occurred at as many as 21 sites near cities with sizeable Chinese communities, primarily on the west coast, but also Denver, St. Louis, Chicago, New York, and Boston. Most of the Chinese were smuggled back to China to participate in the revolutionary cause.

At the recommendation of General Adna Chaffee of the U.S. Army, Lea hired Ansel O'Banion, a veteran of the Philippines Campaign of the Spanish American War, to oversee the training program. Former Sergeant O'Banion, promoted by Lea to Captain of the secret Chinese army, set about to hire other former veterans to assist with training and military tactics and be in charge of units across the country. Lea visited these military schools to provide vision and support, as well as to help conceal their true purpose from the federal government since it was, and still is, illegal to train a private army in the United States.

Although what Lea was doing was illegal, he was generally able to keep his true purpose secret to the authorities, even staging what appeared to be English lessons when officials would visit the school. On January 3, 1905, he famously marched the Los Angeles based troops in the Tournament of Roses Parade, much to the amazement of onlookers. The local newspapers were quite fascinated by this display and of the American general of a Chinese army.

In late fall 1906, Lea was working on a first novel when he became ill. In need of assistance to complete the manuscript, a secretary he knew recommended Ethel Bryant Powers, a friend with secretarial training visiting California while on vacation. Lea hired Ms. Powers who stayed through January to complete the project, a romance novel set in China called the Vermillion

Pencil. Ms. Powers returned in January 1908 to assist with Lea's next book project, what became the widely acclaimed, The Valor of Ignorance and published in 1909. Through the course of these professional interactions, a friendship was born and ultimately a romance leading to marriage in June of 1911.

The Valor of Ignorance, a description of Japan's militarist tendencies in Asia and against the United States, famously predicted Japanese aggression in World War II, including a secret attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. The book also further strengthened Lea's standing as a military expert among the Chinese, ultimately leading to his partnership with Dr. Sun Yat-sen on the planning for yet another effort to bring about revolution in China.

Although Lea may have met Dr. Sun Yat-sen as early as 1900, a visit to the United States by Dr. Sun in 1909 led to their formal close working relationship. A combination of factors led Dr. Sun to enlist Lea in the revolutionary cause, namely Lea's published book, his central role with the military academies, and his association with the Red Dragon Society, a group that had developed a secret plan to conquer key provinces and ultimately the entire nation of China. The two met to plan and to discuss the necessity of raising funds for the cause. Sun returned to the United States for much of 1911 seeking to build support and resources. He developed a deep trust in Lea and eventually referred to him as "the greatest military theorist under heaven."

In October 1911, while in Germany with his now wife Ethel and receiving treatment for failing eyesight, Lea received a cable from Dr. Sun Yat-sen that the revolution had started and to go to England to raise money for the cause. Sun met him there, but they were unable to secure financial support for the revolution. They sailed for China in November with Lea often crafting and sending cables to the Chinese revolutionaries who were directing the fighting and planning for the first provisional government to be headed by Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Lea was allegedly the only westerner at the inauguration on January 1, 1912.

On February 11, 1912, his health failing, Lea suffered a debilitating stroke, one day before Emperor Puyi abdicated and the official end of 2,000 years of imperial rule. His wife Ethel took him back to California to recuperate. For a period, he appeared to be recovering, news that was encouraging to Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Unfortunately, Lea had a second stroke on October 27 and passed away on November 1 at the age of 35. Letters to Ethel indicated that Dr. Sun Yat-sen was deeply saddened by the news. Lea's last book, the Day of the Saxon, a description of Germany's growing militarist tendencies was published shortly before his death. Lea had planned another book, the Swarming of the Slav that described what he saw as the rise of the Russian nation.

In September 1914, Ethel and her late husband were honored for their contribution to the revolutionary cause at a banquet in Los Angeles that was also attended by General Huang Hsing who famously led Chinese forces during the revolution. Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Ethel kept a regular correspondence until his death in 1925. He invited her to come to China to assist him and to write Lea's biography. Ms. Lea, however, felt it was impracticable and never returned to China.

Today, the Lea's ashes rest in a mausoleum in Taipei. Their last wishes were to be reinterred in Nanjing near their friend, Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Ethel's descendants, the Powers family of South Royalton, Vermont, are working with the respective governments to achieve this end as a way of honoring the unique friendship between the Chinese and American peoples.

Over the years, articles and books have been written that describe the unique story of Homer Lea, and nearly resulted in film projects in the period following World War II given the attention on Pearl Harbor and Lea's prediction decades earlier of its attack. In 2011, the film 1911 was released, starring Jackie Chan as General Huang Hsing and Winston Chao as Sun Yat-sen. The character of Homer Lea appears in a number of scenes in the film.

Reflections on Homer and Ethel Lea and their Relationship with Dr. Sun Yat-sen and the Chinese Revolution

By Dr. Joshua Bryant Powers

November 2012

Homer Lea was an extraordinary man with big dreams. Injured as a child that left him hunchback, frail in health all of his life, and prevented from pursuing a desired career in the U.S. military on account of his infirmities, no one would have pegged this man for greatness. Yet through his gifts of charisma, persuasion, and dogged determination, this American would eventually become the leader of numerous military academies training Chinese Americans for service to the revolutionary cause and among the closest advisors to Dr. Sun Yat-sen. Furthermore his talents as a writer on geopolitical and military topics had major influence on military and civilian leaders throughout the world, perhaps most famously his prediction of a surprise attack by the Japanese on the United States. What drove this man? Historians suggest one part desire to transcend physical limitations, one part thirst for adventure, and one part loyalty to a cause and the people he came to know and respect in the Chinese quarter of Los Angeles who to most Americans at the turn of the Century were viewed as second class citizens. Lawrence Kaplan, author of the latest biography on Lea, sums him up not by what motivated him but by his impact - "No other American was as closely involved in the establishment of the Chinese republic than Lea and he left an indelible mark on the history of his times."

Yet, just when his tireless efforts to support the revolutionary cause reached its apex – accompanying Dr. Sun Yat-sen on his triumphant return to China on Christmas Day of 1911, the only western alleged to be at the presidential inauguration in Nanking, and the man who Dr. Sun Yat-sen referred to as "the greatest military theorist under heaven" and his chief of staff, collapsed from a stroke on February 11, 1912. Returning to California to recuperate, Lea suffered another stroke and died on November 1st. One can only speculate as to what might have been had he lived. Perhaps Lea might have succeeded in his dream of establishing an early and close Chinese-Anglo-American relationship with substantial financial support for the new republic to provide it strong roots.

One-hundred years ago this month, Mr. and Mrs. Lea were in Germany on their honeymoon where Mr. Lea began treatments for failing vision. It was here that Dr. Sun Yat-sen cabled Lea in October that the Revolution was on and to go to London seeking loans from the British government. Sadly, neither Lea nor Dr. Sun Yat-sen who arrived soon thereafter were able to obtain the resources so Mr. and Mrs. Lea and Dr. Sun Yat-sen departed for China empty handed. On this voyage into history, it was Ethel who reported that the numerous cables sent to revolutionary leaders were often crafted by Lea. Following his stroke, it was Ethel, along with her two sons, Albert and Joshua, who valiantly sought to nurse Lea back to health. She helped him finish his final book, the Day of the Saxon, and assisted him with plans for new books and to return to China, but sadly he succumbed to the second and fatal stroke. One can again only speculate on what might have been had Homer Lea lived, accompanied by his talented and devoted wife and their shared dreams. In fact, Ethel was invited back to China after Homer Lea's death in service to the new government but felt that it was impracticable for her. She also kept up a correspondence with Dr. Sun Yat-sen until his passing. Ethel died in 1934.

「孫中山在洛城的足跡及活動」

國父孫中山（以後簡稱孫）為革命奔走，曾四次到洛城，期間有到訪「老華埠」（即今聯合車站），爭取當地僑胞支持及策劃訓練新軍。有記載者於一九零四、一九零五、一九一零及一九一一年。孫在廣場演講，籌款餐會，並即席捐款，也有人追隨他回國革命。除當地華人外，也有老美荷馬李 Homer Lea，他是孫的軍事顧問，曾幫忙秘密訓練二千多名新軍。另有富商查理士畢 Charles Beach Boothe 協助籌款。

The Assignment Contract with Charles Beach Booth.

查理士畢是一名富商，亦是當時南巴市市長。他支持孫的革命并曾助孫籌一千萬美元。但代價非常：

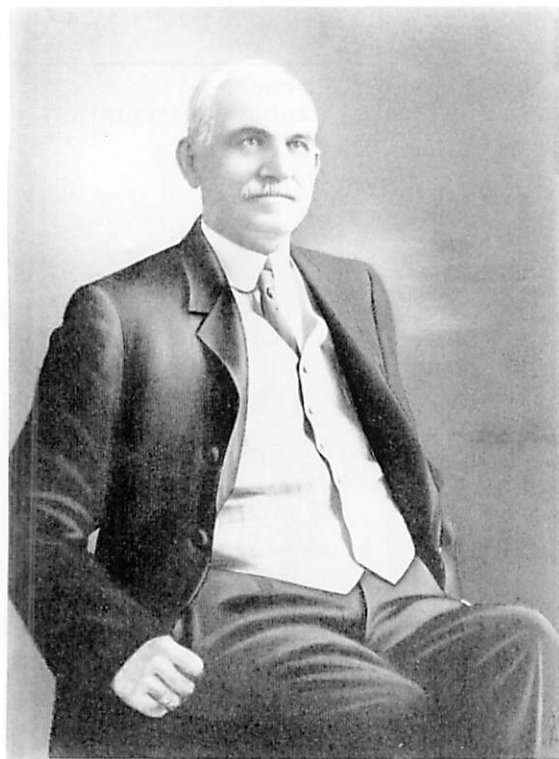

要九十九年在中國大陸建鐵路權，中央銀行控制權，鑄幣權及開發煤礦權。

一九一零年孫出遊至羅省，為安全起見，避開清廷追殺，便是住在他位於南巴市的豪宅。曾幾何時，該豪宅已為今日的安利安他教堂。

South Pasadena Mayor Charles Booth was a supporter of Sun's revolution. The millionaire agreed to help sun raise $10,000,000, in return, Boothe would have been granted:

- 1) A 99-year concession to build and operate all railroads in mainland China
- 2) Control and operation rights to Central Bank of China;
- 3) A monopoly over all coinage and minted in China
- 4) Free reign to exploit China's resources of coal, precious and semi-precious Metals.

During Sun's visit to Los Angeles in 1910, he was a guest at Boothe's mansion, located at 1515 Garfield Avenue, South Pasadena, California. The mansion and its grounds became the Site of Oneonta Congregational Church in 1950.

The Last Speech of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen

1924, Guangzhou, China

Translated by Prof. Kwan Ming and Mrs. Karen Chan

Hi Everyone,

We are all Chinese. We know that for the past several thousand years, China was a top strong country. Our civilization and progress were far advanced than other countries. At the peak of our prosperity we received offer of tributes from thousand states. Ten thousand countries came for audience with our Emperor. Our China was a top country. What about now? Now our country is the weakest one. Now no one respects Chinese. The strong countries want to divide China, which means many countries will control China. How come we have changed from the top strong country to the stage of the weakest?

For the recent several hundred years, our people have fallen asleep. When we sleep, we never realize that the other countries are progressing. We thought we are still the richest and the strongest. When we have fallen asleep, we do not know the progress of the other countries. When we have fallen asleep, our civilization becomes backwards, our political policy becomes not advancing. Our situation becomes unbearable. We Chinese should realize our situation. We should hurry to develop strategy how to remedy. Then our country could be saved. If not China will be destroyed and our race will be eliminated. We all should wake up! Wake up!

現在輪到是孫大元帥演請

諸君：

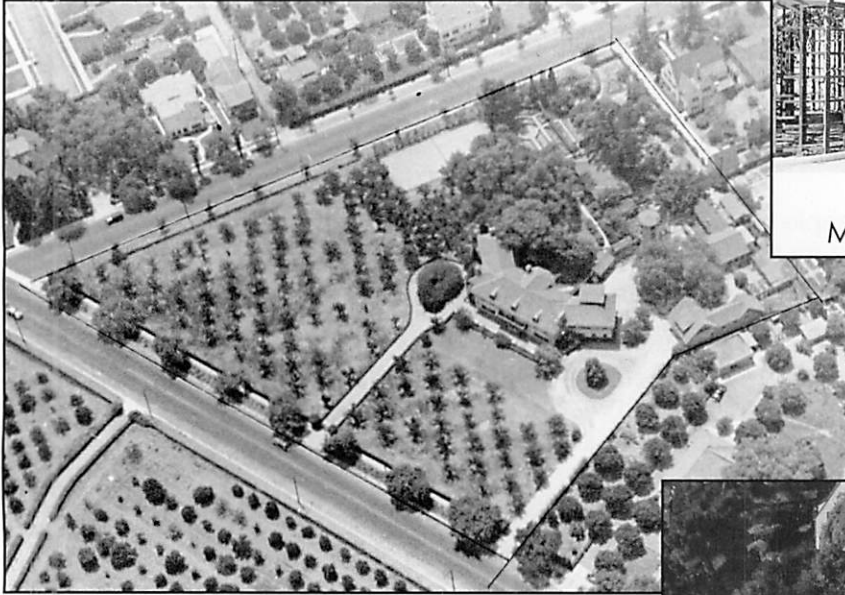

我們大家是中國人。我們知道中國幾千年來，是世界上頭一等的強國。我們文明進步，在各國之先。當中國頂強盛的時代，正所謂千邦進貢，萬國來朝。那個時候，中國的文明在世界上是第一的。中國是世界上頭一等強國，到了現在怎麼樣呢？

現在的時代，我們的中國，是世界上頂弱頂貧的國家。現在世界上沒有一國能看得起中國人的。所以現在世界上的列強，對於中國都有瓜分中國的念頭，也就是近來各國有共管中國的意思。為甚麼我們從前頂強的國家，現在變成這個地步呢？

這就是中國我們近幾百年，我們國民睡著了，我們腫了，不知道世界各國進步的地方。我們睡著之後，還是以為我們幾百年前是這樣的富強的。因為睡著了，所以我們幾百年來文明退步，政治墮落，變成現在不得了的局面。我們中國人，在今天應該要知道我們現在的地步，要趕快想想法子，怎樣挽救，那末我們中國還可以有得救。不然，中國就要成為一個亡國滅種的地位。

Mark Ridley-Thomas

Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, Second District

Since he was overwhelmingly elected in November 2008 and reelected in June 2012 to the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, Mark Ridley-Thomas has distinguished himself as an aggressive advocate for the Second District's nearly 2 million residents.

He has promoted the district's interests on a variety of fronts, including transportation, job creation, retention and local hiring. In the area of health policy, Supervisor Ridley-Thomas has overseen the construction of a new Martin Luther King Jr. Community Hospital, as well as a network of cutting edge healthcare facilities throughout the district; he has facilitated the use of technology and encouraged an integrated approach to wellness that includes mental health care and a prominent role for school-based clinics. His advocacy has helped secure an equitable share of funding for public-private partnership health clinics in underserved areas.

Prior to his election to the Board, Supervisor Ridley-Thomas served the 26th District in the California State Senate where he chaired the Senate's Committee on Business, Professions and Economic Development. He served as Chair of the California Legislative Black Caucus in 2008 and led the Caucus in unprecedented levels of cooperation and collaboration with counterparts in the Latino, and Asian-Pacific Islander Legislative Caucuses.

Mark Ridley-Thomas was first elected to public office in 1991 and served with distinction on the Los Angeles City Council for nearly a dozen years and departed as Council President pro Tempore. He later served two terms in the California State Assembly, where he chaired the Assembly Democratic Caucus. His legislative work addressed a broad range of issues with implications for economic and workforce development, health care, public safety, education, budget accountability, consumer protection and civic participation.

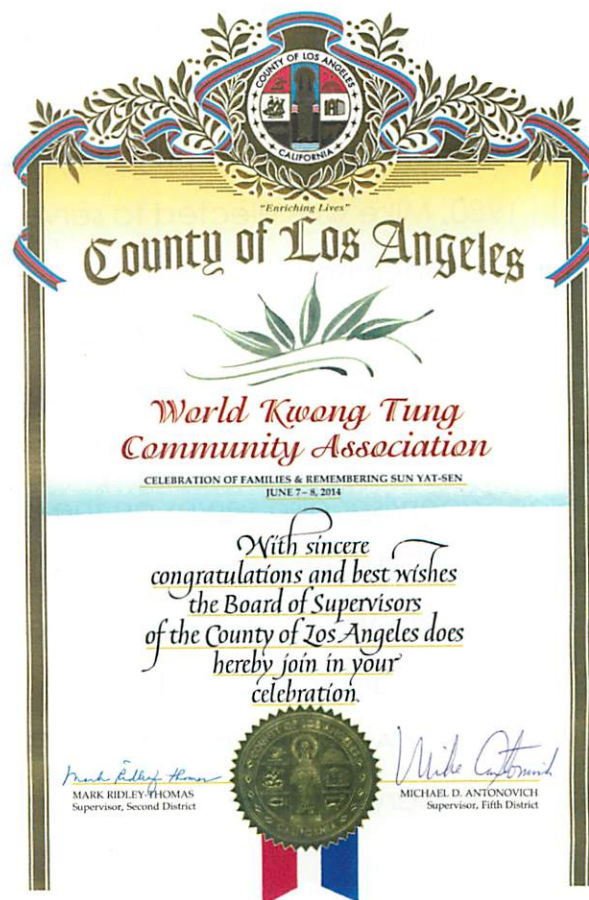

He is widely regarded as the foremost advocate of neighborhood participation in government decision-making. By virtue of his founding of the Empowerment Congress, arguably the region's most successful twenty year experiment in neighborhood-based civic engagement, he is considered the founder of the Neighborhood Council movement.

Ridley-Thomas' political career was preceded by a decade of service as executive director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference of Greater Los Angeles, which followed a brief but successful five-year stint as a high school teacher.

The supervisor is a graduate of Manual Arts High School in Los Angeles and earned a baccalaureate degree in Social Relations (minor in Government) and a master's degree in Religious Studies (concentration in Christian ethics) from Immaculate Heart College. Supervisor Ridley-Thomas went on to receive his Ph.D. in Social Ethics from the University of Southern California focusing on Social Criticism and Social Change.

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the "Celebration of Families & Remembering Sun Yat-sen" festival!

Oneonta Congregational Church and MOSAIC, Inc. have partnered to serve and honor the families of our local community as well as remember the great legacy of Dr. Sun Yat-sen through this weekend of fun, food, and more.

Families are the glue that holds our society together. We derive our sense of security, identity, and personal values from our family roots. As we continue into the 21st Century, we realize that families are experiencing many difficult challenges: Parents and children are busier than ever due to demanding work and school schedules, activities, homework, sports practice, and so on. The continued rise of the internet, social networks and smartphones are useful tools but they also create additional risks and distractions. Marriages are strained and sometimes broken by financial, emotional, and other problems. Families are often left feeling drained.

Our goal for this event is to FILL YOU UP! This is a wonderful opportunity to reconnect and make some family memories through playing games and enjoying music together. There will be free food for you to enjoy, thanks to our generous sponsors. You will also gain valuable resources to promote your family's health in our workshops on disaster preparedness, relationship development, stress relief, and more.

You can also develop a stronger sense of connection to your local and global community through our historical presentations. As the first president and founding father of Chinese democracy, we acknowledge Dr. Sun Yat-sen as a champion for religious freedom, freedom from tyranny, and freedom for all God's children. Since our church campus resides upon the former Booth Family estate, which played a significant role in the Chinese peoples' struggle for freedom, we joyfully embrace Dr. Sun Yat-sen's legacy, which contributes to the life of our local families a century later and beyond.

The "Celebration of Families" event is just the beginning of our renewed commitment to help you have a happy and healthy family. Wishing God's Blessings to You and Your Family,
