

7

PRACTICES on the road to SELF-COMPASSION

NOTICE

Life is inherently unpredictable and often brings discomfort.

Recognize when you're suffering.

VALIDATE & ALLOW

It's reasonable to feel angry, afraid, disappointed, or to experience any other emotion.

NORMALIZE

Life can be stressful & challenging, this is a part of the human condition. Think to yourself: everyone has circumstances like this.

SELF-COMPASSION

Bring to mind the consideration you'd naturally offer to someone you deeply care about. Now, picture offering yourself those same wishes.

KINDNESS & FRIENDLINESS

Practicing non-judgmental language towards self is not positive thinking or excusing behavior. It is encouraging, motivating & supportive.

Instead, say:

I wouldn't criticize a close friend.

CURIOUS & OPEN

How are we relating to our own experience? Do we personally identify as flawed or imperfect? The human brain is inherently designed for learning & development. Enhance strength & resilience. Let's stop should-ing on ourselves. Counter with: *Nobody's perfect.

PHYSICAL TOUCH

Reverse threat & isolation, instead activate safe physiology. Safety allows for flexibility & possibility. You might lay your hands on your heart or belly to give yourself comfort & warmth.

SECOND ARROW ADHD COACHING

Cultivating Self-Regulation, Resilience & Skillful Problem Solving

Dana Crews

MA, MBSR, ADHD-CCSP

www.secondarrowlifecoaching.com