A play about Climate Change and Consumption

COUGAR

By Rose Lewenstein

About Us

Mary Rose Productions is an award-winning theatre company based in Portsmouth, England named after the famous ship which was once lost at sea and is now resurrected. We want to resurrect and renovate the old traditions of theatre by creating a new repertory-style theatre company for today's theatre-makers. The company looks to help bridge the gap between early career/emerging artists and experienced professionals through collaboration and artistry.

Notes from the Director

Cougar explore the relationship between Leila, a highly successful climate change authority of a certain age, and John, a twenty-something bartender who works in a London hotel. In a series of episodic scenes taking place in hotel bedrooms around the globe- the bedrooms all look the same-against a background of escalating climate change and increasing global unrest, John and Leila carry out their affair. the play takes place now and in the future. Light chnages indicate that time has jumped forwards or backways and/or a change of location.
