Glass is far more than functional—

it is architectural, increasing light and space; lending character to interior spaces. Architectural glass goes beyond architecture to become art, using textures, patterns, colors, and technique to define and highlight individual taste.

Glass can be patterned, laminated, frosted; offering varying degrees of color & translucency for privacy and design.

Glass transforms -

space with color, light, and pattern. Used in doors as insets or panels, art glass allows light to penetrate interior spaces while captivating us with colors, patterns, and laminates that make an architectural statement.

Laminated glass-

is the only glass to provide durability, high-performance functional benefits, while preserving the aesthetic of the glass. Inter layers are permanently laminated between two pieces of glass to form a durable, maintain glazing system.
