

Nature; Nurture

The most unsettling thing here, second only to (my experience of) human nature, is the relentless auspice of their nurture.

I've observed the Colours as being flawed in nature; as being fickle in nurture;

I've observed that Nature is Change; that Change is nurture.

Changes are measures of (time) Being contrasted and compared;

but there can Be no comparison in contrast, because contrast does not account for Change(s); dis connection;;; or dis t a n c e.

The most unsettling thing Here; second only to my experience of human Nature;

The Change(s) in (human) nurture; and the (human) Nature of Change.

What is it to be honest without being Aware or to be aware without being Honest?

What is it to Be without Change(s)?

; second Only to human Nature and to the nurture in Change,

It is the most unsettling thing Here...