

MERCURY DESK-TOP PUBLISHERS

Publishers of Children's Multicultural Literature

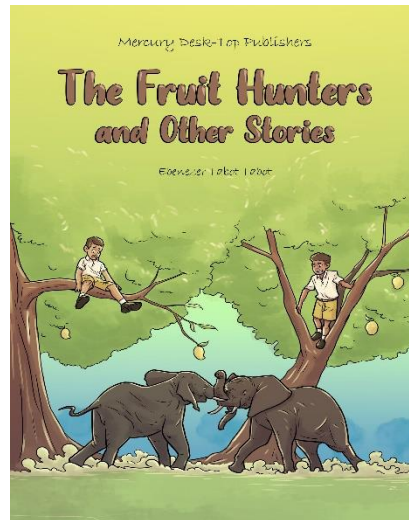

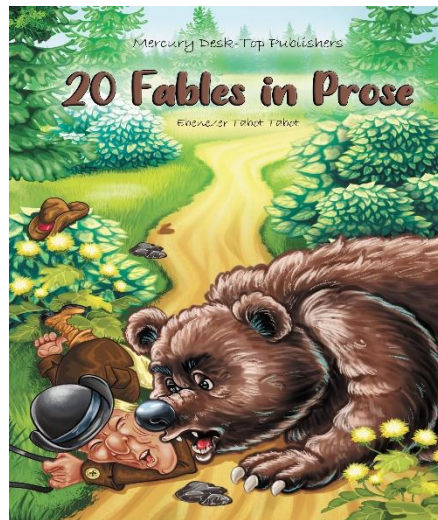

Mercury Desk-Top Publishers is a nonprofit multicultural and multilingual publisher of literary fiction, nonfiction, and language books for children and young adults. Based in Austin, Texas, we produce works that promote learning, celebrate diversity, creativity, open-mindedness and imagination. Our literary fiction in English, Spanish and French capture the colorful experiences, adventures and aspirations of children in non-mainstream cultural settings. Children who read our books stand a good chance to grow up to be open-minded, accept cultural, ethnic, political and social differences and, in the future, be prone to explore their world and the world beyond their immediate reach with enthusiasm, accommodation and respect.

We're happy to announce the release of 2 new multicultural fiction titles. Both releases are in eBook and paperback versions. Visit www.mercurydtp.org to find out more or check out the links below.

20 Fables In Prose features 20 of the best-loved of Jean de la Fontaine's 17th century French verse entitled "Contes Choisis" first published in 1668. This collection of fables featuring animal characters has been carefully selected, translated and adapted into English prose without compromising the flavor of the original.

How do children thrive without smart phones and social media? Meet smart African village kids who do just that and choose their role models through rich folklore and entertaining storytelling. This book contains a collection of five original, fast-paced and interesting children's stories set in rural sub-Saharan Africa.

Our books are NOT FOR SALE. WE DONATE them to school, community and municipal libraries upon request. Our programs are made possible due to goodwill donations from the public.
