"I think Jay Christofferson's book is 100% Excel genius. It's a 100-page book with no wasted words or fluff whatsoever. It's worth 10 times the price."

Joe Stoddard, Technology Editor, JLC and Tools of the Trade magazines

"Excellent Estimating. Have you always suspected that Excel could do everything those pricey estimating programs do? If so, but you didn't want to go searching for solutions in some 2-inch thick manual written for accountants or engineers, then you're in luck. Jay Christofferson . . . has aimed this slim guide specifically at home builders."

Fine Homebuilding

"This could be one of the most important books you have ever read. Enjoy it!"

Leon Rogers, President, Construction Management Associates

"I use Excel in my concrete business and picked up lots of tips and tricks from Estimating with Microsoft® Excel. It has lots of good examples that can be incorporated into anyone's spreadsheet to make estimating easier."

Mike Donlin, Donlin Building, Inc.

If you want a simple, step-by-step guide to improve the accuracy and speed of building estimates, Estimating with Microsoft® Excel was written for you.

Author Jay Christofferson, a recognized expert in computerized estimating, teaches you how to build a fully customized estimating program that addresses your specific estimating needs.

Create estimates that are powerful and reliable enough for your most important management decisions. Loaded with detailed instructions—from programming basic formulas to automating Excel to integrate with other software packages—Estimating with Microsoft® Excel will show you how to set up an accurate, efficient estimating system.

Examples from the text, templates you can use to set up your estimating system, and a demo of EstimatorPRO™ are included on the CD.
