

Tuatha Dé Danann

The Tuatha Dé Danann, or "People of the Goddess Danu," are a mythological race of deities and heroes in Celtic lore. Known for their magical prowess, their stories are woven into the fabric of Irish mythology. They represent various aspects of nature, skill, and sovereignty, with each deity offering unique blessings and attributes.

Herbal Correspondences

Rosemary: For protection and purification.

Mint: For clarity and communication.

Lavender: For peace and healing.

Ritual of Invocation

Purpose: Seek protection and guidance from the Tuatha Dé Danann.

Materials:

- Green candle
- Bowl of water
- Stone or crystal
- Incense
- Offering (bread, fruit, or mead)

Steps:

1. Cleanse Space: Burn incense.
2. Set Up Altar: Place the candle, water, and stone/crystal.
3. Light Candle: Say: "I call upon the Tuatha Dé Danann for guidance and protection."
4. Offer Incense and Water: Sprinkle water and pass incense over the candle.
5. Make Your Petition: Hold the stone/crystal and state your intention.
6. Meditate: Spend a moment in reflection.
7. Close Ritual: Thank the Tuatha Dé Danann, extinguish the candle, and place the offering outside.

Key Figures and Their Attributes

The Dagda

Domain: Abundance, fertility, and earth.

Symbols: Club, cauldron.

Correspondences: Green, earth, abundance spells.

Magical Use: Invoked for prosperity and protection.

Brigid

Domain: Poetry, healing, smithcraft, fire.

Symbols: Flame, forge, cauldron.

Correspondences: Red, healing, creativity.

Magical Use: Invoked for inspiration and healing.

Lugh

Domain: Craftsmanship, skill, battle, and arts.

Symbols: Spear, sun.

Correspondences: Gold, success, skill enhancement.

Magical Use: Invoked for leadership and achievement.

Morrigan

Domain: Battle, death, prophecy.

Symbols: Raven, crow.

Correspondences: Black, transformation, protection in conflict.

Magical Use: Invoked for courage and shadow work.

Manannán mac Lir

Domain: Sea, Otherworld, transitions.

Symbols: Ship, mist.

Correspondences: Blue, water, spiritual journeys.

Magical Use: Invoked for guidance and protection during transitions.