You can study on a full-time or part-time basis. This Master's usually takes 1 year to complete (up to 3 years part-time) All students in the MURR take these courses: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>GEOG402 Resilient Cities</li> <li>GEOG409 Coasts and Rivers: from natural processes to urban environments</li> </ul> The compulsory project GEOG697 Community Based Thesis includes an individual project in the field of Urban Resilience and Renewal, under the supervision of one or more staff members. The project will involve working with a community partner on a project of direct relevance and real value to that community. Another 30 points of courses are chosen from 400-level courses approved by the Programme Director which have more specific interests, for example: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Geography</li> <li>Environmental Science</li> <li>Statistics</li> <li>Transportation Engineering</li> <li>Water Science and Management</li> </ul> |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |        |
