IS YOURS!

Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

But his delight is in the law of the LORD; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.

It's All In The Presentation

Dr. C. A. Dangerfield II

Have you ever had a conversation with someone who has been turned off by church or religion? Have you also become defensive and judgmental towards them? Or have you become curious as to why they feel that way? Then made an effort to obtain an understanding of their feelings rather than just write them off and declare their eternal destination? The scriptures instruct us "In all thy getting get an understanding" well that requires an effort on our part. Which means we have to dialogue which means communicating listening and speaking to one another. Becoming more aware on both sides of the conversation. Yielding to listening to another's perspective, asking questions to gain clarity on another's view point and also understanding the origin of it. Dialogue removes misconceptions, stereotyping, and misinformation which has been passed down from generation to generation. Opening the door to a more synergistic way of understanding and eliminating all manner of falsehoods.

Religion as well as church denominations has less to do with our independent relationship with God. Where the focus should be at any point. However, we focus on our organization which create more division amongst people who are supposed to love and follow His principles. It appears that we spend more time cutting down one another and the way in which we learn about God and serve Him. The Devil is very effective regarding the ability to divide and conquer mankind throughout every aspect of our lives. So, it becomes more difficult to unify because we spend some much time distracted by so many things. That even the smallest of issue get overblown into a massive breach creating a valley of division that becomes hard to repair. Drawing in the innocent who are unaware of denominational practices but are just seeking a pure connection with God. Rather than church politics which demonstrate how divided we all are even if we do share the same central connection which is Jesus. Jesus equally distributes His love to us; one may ask why it is so difficult to reciprocate. It has been stated that the church is one of the most segregated places in the world. Who can respond to just why?

It is one of the main reasons it is so difficult to sustain those who are seeking Christ among other things. The Bible speaks of patterning our lifestyle and compassion for others as Jesus demonstrated throughout the scriptures. Especially when we read about His encounter with the Samaritan woman at the well. When you study this passage of scripture and based on encounter taken place with anyone other than Jesus there would have been a much different outcome. Our standards today and then are skewed and slighted to benefit only certain aspects of His principles and compromise others. So by those standards someone always falls short with no room for redemption.

When we present Jesus correctly everyone has an equally amount of opportunity to formulate a relationship that will be life changing from the onset and moving forward. It happens within the invitation an earnest introduction with some transparency. That's the part which proves all have sin because it includes ourselves and removes pride. Giving the hearer of our testimony the understanding that our relationship derived from truly a place of redemption. You can categorize sin how you may want to, but the bottom line is sin is sin when it goes against what God requires of us.

We all are here presently because of God's Grace and Mercy affording us the time to line up with His principles as well as having the opportunity to fulfill our purposes within our lifetime so that He will gain the Glory. When we are obedient to the Will of God, we honor Him. This is when life becomes fulfilling.

Have you ever taken a moment to assess yourself? Have you truthfully measured the effectiveness of your witness? Does the testimony of your lifestyle reflect impactful victorious that provide notable benefits for living to please God? Or, are we too self-centered and self-contained to ensure that others see this truth and or do we walk through life in silence not willing to share truth? We all must understand that we are ambassadors for Christ, representative of the one and only notable Kingdom. Rise up boldly for the representation of it not through your words alone but by your deeds also that are reflective of one's relationship with Jesus Christ. You don't have to announce it to draw attention to it, it's reflective so it will show forth itself and be counted worthy by those who recognize the spirit of Christ within it. It will definitely speak for itself no hype person required. That's what makes the impact strong and true. It's all in the presentation! Just be genuine, not judgmental. With love and kindness have I drawn thee. Patience and compassion for others goes a long way when you're struggling for a change. It's a battle to gain a victory, prayer, fasting and studying the Word of God for the enlightenment all with persistence to overcome ever obstacles as we strive to hold our territory for Him which is us.

Have you recognize that when Jesus walked among men and even when he meant up with His disciples it was about building relationships. He dialogued with everyone He meant to the point they felt that divine connection. His forgiving nature was present all the way to His last breath. "Father forgive them for they know not what they do". And to the man hanging next to Him on the cross who defended Him in spite of all He was experiencing had the where with all to forgive and state "Today you will be with me in paradise" Gaining or having this understanding of who is of most importance.

The Greatest thing that God proves is promise provided by Jesus and that was the presence of the Comforter in the person of the Holy Spirit the keeping power. The one sure ally in life's battle when the enemy comes to try and reclaim that which was God's in the first place. You got to understand this one point and it will help to make sense of things. We are here because God created us for a purpose, His. We were enticed away in order not to fulfill that true purpose. But that too has already been rectified through Jesus Christ so that our realignment with the Kingdom of God can be realized and we have been given the choice to make that decision. The invitation says come as you are, in simple language your condition is of no concern only your willingness to want to do so. Mankind can't fix you only God can and in your relationship with Him, He will bring about all of the repairs and changes necessary after all He's the creator of us all. Just take that one required step. Confess with your mouth and invite Him into your heart and life allowing him to be the dominant force against what has deceive you. Turning you and your life into a Victor and not a Victim. Your relationship will open up your eyes and hears to recognize His voice as you return to your proper alignment with the principles of God and your intended purpose. Welcome Home to where you belong!

Fed Up or Filled Up

Evangelist Stacie L. Daniels

We frequently hear scriptures quoted such as “...Weeping may endure for a night but joy cometh in the morning” Psalm 30:5 or “And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season, we shall reap if we faint not.” Galatians 6:9 However, the scripture teaches us that the cares of this world, the deceitfulness of riches, and the desire for other things can choke the Word and it becomes unfruitful. When someone is choking in the literal sense, it means that the individual is having trouble breathing due to constriction or obstruction of the throat. No air means no life.

What does the Bible mean in the context of choking as related to Mark 4:19? The illustration here cautions us that distractions, worries, and concerns of this life can stifle the Word of God once the seed is planted and inhibit growth or fruitfulness. Does that sound familiar? In many instances, there are those who will start the journey of faith well in the beginning, but life has a way of throwing curve balls along our path, and it is no secret that the devil, our adversary is waging war for our souls. That is why 1 Peter 5:8 teaches us to “Be sober, be vigilant (watchful); because your adversary the devil walks about as a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour.” There are times when it may seem like prosperity has knocked on your door and happiness has finally found you. Then suddenly, a storm hits, and you are filled with concerns and the cares of this life. As a result, you slack up reading the Word, are unable to find time to pray as you once have, and your fellowship and love for God waxes cold. Circumstances has caused you to feel FED UP with where you are or what you see around you. That is the exact place the adversary (who is also our accuser) would like for you to be so he can steal, kill, and destroy. There is no eternal good thing or blessing for you on the side of the enemy. The worldly system is not the kingdom plan for your life. “Every good and perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of the heavenly lights, who does not change like shifting shadows.” James 1:17 God wants to give you the righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit that flows from His kingdom.

It is important to distinguish that the feeling of being FED UP can result from circumstance or human consequence. We must be on guard because Job is an example that sometimes God allows trials to come that will usher unusual and unexpected hardship. However, it is only to cultivate patience, faith, blessings, and a testimony for others to be inspired. On the other hand, sin brings about consequence that is a result of human choice.

No matter the storms, wars, attacks, perceived loss, or lack, stay FILLED UP with the spirit of God! Be encouraged to seek Him daily. You must be assured that Jesus is the lifter of your head, and it is not by might, nor by power, but by His spirit that you can do all things. He will never leave you nor forsake you. When there is temptation to let go or be overwhelmed, let the Word of God be your weapon as you decree it over every area of your life and your loved ones. The Word of God is your sword, and it will pierce and cut whatever comes to defeat you. Keeping a posture of humility, prayer, praise, and meditation in the Word of God will enable you to remain FILLED UP with His Holy Spirit.

Community Health Issues

My articles in the past have centered around the health of the individual. I've made a career of helping others find optimal health and wellness through fitness and proper nutrition and education about the fitness industry and food. In future articles I will be covering mental health related issues and stress management. However, in light of the violence we see so much of today, I'd thought I'd share my take on some of the causes behind these brazen acts of random community destruction.

I'm a product of the 60's and 70's. While growing up, it was common to have the community a true village of people who would report your actions to your parents. If you did something wrong, they'd go as far as give you a few lashings and then, once your mom and dad (yeah, mom and dad was still home for many black families then) found out, you get another dose of 'lovin'. If the teacher said you behaved untoward or was disruptive in class. Your parents got to work to resolve the matter. The neighbors knew who lived in the 'hood', who the trouble makers were, who lived where, who worked and who didn't. Now, yes, this at times was very intrusive. Very irritating and bothersome to many. However, when there was a problem, you didn't have to worry much about the unspoken 'Don't snitch' rule. This doesn't mean that there weren't problems in these communities. It just means, there were more watchful eyes about and therefore, problems could quickly be resolved with the support of the proper authorities in a timely manner. In my neighborhood, we had a police officer named Mr. McNeal. He was an older tall strong looking black man. He was intimidating and I saw him use his night stick as a switch on a few kids who were acting out of place. Trust me, he was going at their heads. He wore their legs out good. Then, later we began to get other officers driving through the neighborhood without that same love of community. They didn't have to show such love and concern since they didn't live in our neighborhood. Yes, there were gangs. Yes, there was unrest, protest and looting in 1968 when Dr. King was assassinated. And afterwards was blight and depravity as the leaders of our communities allow the areas to go to waste. To make matters worse, the watchful eyes that would scan our neighborhood for signs of trouble. Were no longer appreciated or welcome to add their 2 cents anymore. Parents start telling them not to tell their children anything because it wasn't their job. Teachers were told not to discipline their children and that the students didn't have to submit to their authority if they felt it imposed on their freedom.

As a result, we now have adults who do not respect authority, who will walk off a job at the drop of a hat if they feel disrespected. They are no longer concerned about the communities they once grew up in to the point of protecting them from the violence that heavily plaques the communities now. Through politics, the fathers have been removed so the mothers who are encouraged to live alone can receive government support, which in turns, breaks up the family unit in many black homes. The fathers (real fathers) feel unappreciated, unwanted, and unable in many cases, to be an effective leader in the home since they are refrained from living their and be more present by the mothers who still have issues with them at the children's expense. Women are then left with the attitude of the 'I don't need a man' vibe. And are told by their mothers, "You will grow up not needing to rely on a man for anything". "Your father was nothing, men are nothing and so forth". So, they go out into the world with that attitude. And wonder why they can't find 'Mr. Right' not realizing they spoke it when they said "I don't need a man". Now maybe it's true. You don't need a man. However, if you have children between the two of you, they do! Children need the benefits and support of both parents. It provides a balance the government can't give.

Independence is one thing. And we all need to learn to be independent. But, taking the attitude that you don't need anyone, when humans are a social creature and thrive better in social environments. You may find yourself bitter not better, isolated and not insulate from the world around you. Then you may in turn raise the next generation of adults with that same view point. Unable to live, work and relate to others. You would have killed off the support of the community. You would have killed off the opportunity to teach them to respect authority. And without living a strong Christian (not religious) life before them, they will have no strong foundation to build on to prepare them for the challenges of life. Fathers and mothers would fair well if they pray for a way to work together even if they are no longer together for the benefit of the children. I didn't say live together, I said work together for the sake of the children. If we truly believe in the power of prayer. If we believe in the power God and his word. If we truly believe ALL things are possible to them that believe. Then instead of praying for material things (we can work our jobs to acquire those) let's put our faith to the test and pray for direction and courage to make the needed changes in our lives, the lives of our children and our community.

Wouldn't it be great to see the mighty hand of God move through our neighborhood and transform it so that people, more specifically, black people move back into the neighborhood due to major improvements instead moving out due to depravity. It would be so great to see businesses blossoming and thrive and our schools improve and the proper values go up and become competitive as it is in other neighborhoods.

Let's seek to heal our neighborhoods, pray for our neighborhoods, rebuild our neighborhoods and make God Lord of our neighborhoods again.

Fed Up Or Filled Up

Dr. C. A. Dangerfield II

It becomes intriguing how distractions in life can create such an unfavorable atmosphere or environment of disenchantment with areas of our life that we become completely Fed up. Sometimes to the point that we check out or simply derail on life's journey. Within this period of time, we have the tendency to disconnect from God our power source as well as those closest to us. Sometimes it can be so subtle and other times it can be very abrupt. But either way we fall into a place of isolation render us ineffective. For some they can snap back quickly but others it is more impactful driving them further into a dark place.

This is why we have to live a conscious lifestyle within the spiritual and nature aspects of our life's because they both are very relevant and they maybe of two dimensions but they coexist in our daily life's. We must wrap our understanding around that fact. So, we don't fall short in our understanding and lose our effectiveness in either area. When brokenness hits it effects the impact that we have being with other's then the breakdown becomes widespread and far reaching. This is an understanding that we have to adapt to. Our presence makes an impact on someone's life. As does another on ours.

To bring more clarity think about the importance of the relationship between a mother and newborn immediately after birth. The mother was a life source prior to birth and her presence is still vital even after the event of birth. Because the nurturing and development phase of life is as equally important and relevant to strengthening that child throughout their development. There is no quick shut off value.

The process is the process to obtain benefit of fulfillment behind its purpose. Otherwise, it will manifest a period of frustration where one can become fed up with the inability to fulfill the intended purpose. Think on that thought for a moment, re-read this paragraph again if needed so it can sink into your understanding. Because the principles behind this are very relevant and they are essential to having one's desired lifestyle intact.

The unfortunate aspect within society is we have adapted to a microwave mentality about life in general. The need for speed and quickness has render us ineffective because we don't allow ourselves to gain any perspective on anything. We have programmed ourselves to be impatient regarding so many things that we become ineffective about just about everything. The principle of letting patience have her perfect turn doesn't apply in our life's allowing for the creation of a lot of missteps. Which then turns into a lot of unmerited frustration. Which could have been avoid had we applied the appropriate principles into the situation. Which then would have eliminated the outcome of feeling fed up.

There is a saying "If you truly want to hide something put it in a book" this is a true statement. Because the principles of God can be found in His Word. If we only follow the instructions, we can experience the promises of God. One key instruction stated "Study to shew thyself approved a workman that need not be ashamed but rightly dividing the Word of Truth" also meaning it will not come back void.

"Death and life are in the power of the tongue: and they that love it shall eat the fruit thereof."
Proverbs 18:21

Eldridge is a licensed minister and a life coach. This book is a testament of her personal journey with God which led her to becoming whole and taught her to love herself. That is what you deserve and this book will help start you on that journey.

Generational Repeated Mistakes

Dr. C. A. Dangerfield II

One of the strongest structures is supposed to be that of family, however it appears to be one of the most dysfunction and chaotic. The longer it goes unchecked, unrepaired and misaligned the worst society becomes for each generation. We lack proper foundation, which brings on greater principles and values which should be duplicated within the hearts and minds of our children. It becomes more difficult to instill because society is not focused on God's principles but man's ills. The abundance of greed with the lack of compassion. Entitlement and envy which continues to produce an overwhelming illustration of oppression that appears to be the societal focus and message to keep one in check based on the narrative of mental control.

But then there is always hope that ram in the bush. That remnant of God's people that truly live, by abiding to the principles of God's. Where those who are observing can see the hands of God delivering on His promises proving that His Word will not come back void. Building a kingdom of people that honor Him. Because they have the mindset, understanding and have chosen whom they will serve.

Knowing that the greatest attainment one can receive in life is the father's wisdom, knowledge and understanding. It is priceless and it is free through salvation which comes with the greatest relationship and revelation. It provides peace which surpasses all understanding even in the face of turmoil. It allows you to understand and see things with a very different lens making commonsense more prevalent to the truth rather than believe the fabrication demonstrated through a lie that stokes up fears in the hearts of man.

The Word of God ask this question "What does it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his soul? One must ask if we have really put this question into its proper context. By our displayed demonstrated behaviors and circumstances derived by the actions to gain such prominent status that would be a no. But also, the greater understanding must be for those who seek that quest is that there is another destination beyond this realm in which we currently live in. History has also shown and museums are fill with them other people's possession that they couldn't be take with them when they left our presence. You really have to stop and think about that it's very relevant. It put all of the methods mankind uses to amass such stature into question and illuminates how misaligned mankind has gotten further from the principles of God. Because the focus is on possessions of items and not that of Godly principles demonstrated by a society that mainly operates in a selfish and haphazardly way.

These bad habits are then what is demonstrated before our children as validation of behaviors in which to follow. Then we watch the news program and read articles of a rise in teen suicides, because society and all of its ills and wick disobedience to the Will of God has not been properly instructed. So, what do we expect when they are completely overwhelmed by all of the compromise that have been put into place? It not about prestige, entitlement or ones need to have their ego stroke especially when living a lifestyle contrary to God.

There is always a way out if you sincerely desire. The bible speaks about transforming our minds by not conforming to standards of mankind. Going back to aligning ourselves to the principles of God. Starting fresh establishing that solid relationship with God and His son Jesus and also taking the ultimate step of receiving the Holy Spirit which is that keeping power to pull and sustain you from your former ways. He will eliminate the chatter and distractions by refocusing us on the things of God. Teaching us how to identify, walk, learn and fulfill our intended purpose in life.

When You Make An Adult Decision

Dr. C. A. Dangerfield II

We are continuously making adult decisions day after day. When we do we come to the realization that they genuinely impact others as well as ourselves. When this realization happens and is truly noted we then have crossed into a new dimension within our thinking as well as our maturity. Now we are at the threshold of our true ability to navigate through our lives. It is far more than just having the physical attributes of being an adult but we must be in possession of the full mental capacity as well. Otherwise, we will have consistently difficult outcomes because we are not yet there.

Just because one meets a numerical societal threshold does not mean they are mentally and emotionally strong enough. One clear indicator of this is, simply their response. This will reflect back to an even key and crucial indicator of life's preparations which is and has always been the responsibility of their parents. Now if you are paying attention to the wording and spelling as well as the meaning. You will latch on to a real big accountable cause placed on mankind found inside the life manual, referred to as the Word of God. The cute acronym used by many and followed by few depending on the subject matter is "Basic Instructions Before Leaving Earth".

Well, that's really not a chuckling moment but more so a well-placed indicator to remind us that God has principles in place to help us with fulfilling our purpose, the reason for our existence. That goes to show us that we have a unique and compelling responsibility which has been place within us. We will explore this point a little further later on. Parents this is plural not singular meaning dual responsibility, not seed dropping and run on. But staying steadfast to the responsibility of nurturing, cultivating and imparting for a successful outcome. Mankind's society has failed miserably at this very point within the process because from the first time it was incorrectly followed and not immediately corrected it became a acceptable practice that is still practiced today. A societal woe, a gaping wound that will continue to bleed out.

The manual (The Word of God) provided a remedy and an antidote but the issue that is, is that society has placed no great value on the power of the manual (The Word of God) as a preventive answer and application. But has made its value as a reactive one instead, making mankind misfits at our inception. There are those who have put into practice the following of the principles from the inception of life giving their children an even greater opportunity to live out their purpose and fulfill God's Will. But, for most it's still has been hit or miss. We missed that one key verse of wisdom hidden in the book. "Train up a child in the way that he should go" and it also provided a promise "A when he is old, he will not depart from it." Proverbs 22:6 KJV.

If the wisdom and knowledge has been imparted within your child first, they will circle back around to it. This will speak to the effectiveness of our instructions because truthful it will reflect in our children. This is a self-reflecting moment. What kind of grade would you recommend or receive based on what you honestly see? If you're not satisfied you still have an opportunity to promote change and usher in a different outcome. This would also mean dealing with and identify our own shortcomings within the process and being accountable for our own actions first and humbling ourselves to ask for forgiveness.

This will be the greatest lesson in humility and repentance. We all have and are constantly at this place continually throughout our lives in one area or another. It's God's grace and mercy that provides these opportunities and repairs the blind spot where we were unable to see. When we start being able to recognize and understand these facts then we will be able to make sound adult decision. Therefore, changing the trajectory of one's life and the legacy that one leaves. I have come to learn that the most fulfilling inheritance one can leave is wisdom, knowledge which then births a greater understanding of God's principles allowing future generations to hit the mark the bullseye. " I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Philipians 3:14 KJV

So now the question becomes have we truly reach that level of maturity to make an adult decision. Our have we yet to reach that milestone because our actions and reactions are still that of an adolescent or an even younger child that can't get their way. In that case we still have a lot of growing up and maturing to do. Especially when we are bringing children into this world equipped because we will produce a carbon copy of ourselves or worst and still be accountable for their outcome because we have failed them.

Come experience the Spirit of the Lord with us!

It's So Hard To Say Goodbye To Yesterday

Dr. C. A. Dangerfield II

Let's have a frank and concise conversation regarding an area that many people struggle with. Periods within and even after transiting into a saved lifestyle that makes one's life complete with Christ.

Life in BC (Before Christ) was not miserable in all aspects for some they were supposedly somewhat content because they were doing something's without being accountable for their actions or outcomes. This becomes a sense of entitlement which makes it difficult to let go. Impactfully it can be so devastating for those on the receiving end of the displayed behavior in as much as some never recover. As well as the behavior is witnessed, admired and emulated by others as a rite of passage. Now creating a vicious cycle that needs to be broken before it extends to a generational curse because mankind normalizes the behavior. These become the outcomes when we fall out of alignment with the principles of God. Wrong becomes right and right becomes wrong and we develop into what the Word of God refers to as a reprobate mindset unwilling to acknowledge God's principles and become obedient to His Will.

When we can get to an AD (After Death to our will or Decision) experience that opens the door to hope. Hope for redemption after crossing the threshold of repentance which is a requirement not a request because we acknowledge our missteps in order to take our rightful place on the journey to our intended purpose in Him.

The transitional journey for some can be difficult because of the residue of implanted images and experiences that we have had taken place prior to our life shift. Now we must truly eradicate these things but since we are of flesh it will be a constant battle for territory which begins within our minds. This is not a statement to promote gloom and doom, but rather to illustrate a clear picture of what is required to win this intents battle because you are worth it and that which truly awaits you on the other side is also.

God's Word provides the opportunity, guidance and blueprint to get there. Taking the time to align ourselves correctly will make it all work. I stated that we are flesh and that is where the battle of wills takes place. We have made the step across the threshold but we have to create an alliance with the Holy Spirit which Christ sent to us as a comforter. Just as important as our confession and acknowledgement leading to our repentance. So, must be the invitation in which we invite the Holy Spirit to come into our lives to reign. The Holy Spirit allows us not to conform to this world, provides the necessary guidance towards renewing our mind. Then allows us to prove what is that good and acceptable will of God. Getting us back to the place of fulfilling our intended purpose. We gain strength each time we can be transparent about the transition because it reminds us of His love and humbles us at the same time so that pride cannot enter in so we don't have to do our first works over again.

We become grateful when we can see the Glory of God as He has intervened throughout our lives. Opening the way for us to fulfill the intended purpose He had for us. He values us more than those who have no remorse for destroying something they did not create because they deemed it so. It is a blessing when you are found in your rightful place of relationship with God there is safety and peace.

ASKING QUESTIONS TO GAIN KNOWLEDGE PROVIDES UNDERSTANDING

In all thy getting, get an understanding. The dumbest question in life is the one in which you do not have an answer. Answers come through talking and listening, so have a conversation and obtain some knowledge.
