A Note from the Director

When I was first asked by my friend & colleague, Eric Sorensen, many months ago, to direct "Murder on the Orient Express," I jumped at the opportunity, as I'm a lifelong fan of Dame Agatha Christie's detective fiction, especially her 33 novels (half of all her output!) featuring the Belgian sleuth, Hercule Poirot.

Indeed, my late mother, Nancy, introduced me, as a young reader, to Christie's writing, giving me a copy of Christie's first whodunnit, "the Mysterious Affair at Styles," which was also the printed debut of Poirot. Needless to say, I've been a fan-boy ever since, & only wish my mom, who once served on the SCCT board of directors, could be here to see this production.

It's been said that Christie is the most-published author in history, by volumes sold, surpassing even Shakespeare & the Bible, but regardless of that claim, there's no doubt that she mastered the craft of the mystery genre, & I'm so grateful to Dame Christie, to Eric, & to the SCCT (where I once trod the boards, as a lad), for helping this show come to fruition.

Please enjoy our play, & after leaving the theatre, DON'T TELL A SOUL who the guilty party is!
