A Note from the Director

This stage and I have a rich history. I got my first role here in 2002 and fell in love with theatre. I proposed to my wife on this stage in 2007. I've laughed on this stage. I've cried on this stage. I've made amazing friends on this stage. I keep telling myself that I need to take a break from this stage. I keep coming back to this stage. And tonight, you are seeing the first show I've directed on this stage.

I couldn't have done this without the help of some amazing people. My assistant director, my production team, my actors, and ultimately, all of you who keep supporting local theatre. We can't do this without you. And that's vital. A friend of mine named Carl once told me, "If we get to the point where we don't help each other anymore, that's when we stop being human."

Thank you all for your help. Enjoy the show.

- Jeremy

Cast Biographies

Ariel Pokett

Ariel is stepping off the ice to return to the Sioux City Community Theater stage after an extended intermission from acting. Short story time...Ariel's mom tricked her into seeing the "It" movie in 2017, knowing she has an irrational fear of clowns. Yes, she cried through the whole thing.

Ashley Ebmeier

This is Ashley's debut on the SCCT stage! A life-long theater lover, Ashley is excited to be a part of this amazing cast. When not on stage, she can be found with those who love her best: her husband, mother, friends (who are family), and her dogs!

Augie Nicolai

Augie is excited and thankful to make his debut performance with the Sioux City Community Theatre. It has been too many years to remember the last time he was on a stage. But, his greatest role in life so far is being grandpa (Pap) to his grandsons: Easton and Gabe.

Carter Kovarna

This is Carter's tenth show here at the Sioux City Community Theatre. He don know why he-a keeps coming back, but he loves-a the people and the community. He gives his sincerest thanks to all those coming out to support local theatre! Carter's Italian word of the day is 'Vongole', meaning 'Clam'.

Jared Martin

Like a bad penny, Jared Martin has returned to terrorize the stage of Sioux City Community Theater. After performances in Ride the Cyclone and Murder on the Orient Express that could be labeled somewhere between "acceptable" and "passable," Jared is relieved that he hasn't been barred from the premises.

Lindsey Gibbs

Lindsey is so thrilled to be a part of this hilarious season 79 opener. Whether costuming, marketing, or acting on stage, Lindsey, like Julia, will throw herself at every available opportunity. Thank you to our amazing audiences for supporting these productions - we couldn't do it without you!

Nathanael Roop

Nathanael Roop returns to SCCT for his fifth production and 19th show overall. A theatre major who studied at Morningside University, he's thrilled to put his education to good use by running around onstage in a farce. He thanks his friends and family for supporting his theatrical nonsense.

Xandreigh Olivier

New to the stage, but hardly new to the screen, Xandreigh is a former social media influencer and blogger turned writer. After trading followers for fictional characters, she's now new to Sioux City and passionate about community projects and bringing her books to life onstage. She's delighted to make her debut as Diana!

Formed in 1989, MRHD supports Woodbury County through over $58 million in grants, aiding economic development, health, human services, and culture. Major contributions include the Sioux City Lewis & Clark Interpretive Center and other significant community projects.
