

Bible Game Anyone?
Will it ever be played?

After home invasions and robbery, professional art file lie-up and finished artwork are sabotaged. Archives--wiped clean. Jump drives--gone. Printed catalogs for over 12 nondenominational Christian games-gone. Custom player pieces, halos, cards and tokens, rules. All that remains are scattered rough fragments mostly unusable from 2012. At 65 they didnt steal it from me--but from children and families everywhere.

One game, "3 Kings" took camel pawns through a biblical landscape journey to find baby Jesus in Bethlehem. Another game "Jacobs Stairway" took Angels around a board building the actual stairway then up to the top to win. The 2012 mockup of "Heaven" shown here is a Christain life game. It takes lambs on a biblical landscape to get baptised and collecting things to earn a halo-for the lamb. Then the lambs circle the gates until they land on the eye of the needle to enter and win.
