

Her name is Polly. She looks different from the other horses. She is round and slow because there is a little foal growing inside her.